The session closed in somewhat of a storm. Saturday night was witness to three disgraceful fights, one in the Senate and two in the House. Such things ought not to pass unrebuked. Such men not only forget the dignity of gentlemen, but grossly insult the country in whose legislative halls they have been granted seats. We have a right to demand that such gross insults be properly punished. The man that can so far forget himself as to make our national halls the scene of his pugilistic exhibitions, and thus insult the nation, and degrade it in the eyes of all other nations, ought to be sent back to hide himself in merited obscurity. It is a public disgrace, and as lovers of our country, as those who long to see its reputation maintained in the eyes of the world, we protest against such beastly exhibitions in our Congressional halls.

Revival News from Newberry.

A friend, signing himself Observer, writes from Newberry, York county, as follows:

"Our village has been once more lit up with the fire of religion. For the last twelve months this fire, if not entirely extinct, was suffered to slumber to an alarming degree. But on Saturday last a protracted meeting was begun, which continued with the necessary intermissions, to the time of writing this letter. During the meeting several persons, males and females, acknowledged to have received a blessing. Several of them, however, may be classed with the prodigal son; and I may also say, if I am allowed the expression, some prodigal daughters,—a character which I believe is not known to the Book.

The meeting was conducted by preachers Crawford and Kister, assisted by several others."

Hymenial Question Answered.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Please give us your view of the following question:

"Is it lawful or unlawful, for a person to marry a second time, who has been deserted by a first partner, and intermarried to another?" Sundry Inquirers.

According to the words and teachings of Christ, there is but one justifiable cause for dissolving the Marriage Covenant, viz: Adultery. See Matthew 5: 32. Mark 10: 11, 12. Luke 16: 18.

The only question, therefore, to be ascertained is, whether the deserting party is guilty of Adultery! If so, then there can be but one opinion as to the lawfulness of the deserted party to marry again. For in all such cases, the innocent and injured party cannot be bound by the law of the first marriage. Matt. 5: 32. 1 Cor. 7: 15.

That the guilt of Adultery is justly chargeable on the person who deserts his, or her companion, and marries another, cannot be questioned. Therefore, it follows that the deserted party is loosed from the law of marriage, and is at liberty to marry again. But, in the absence of the aforesaid crime, a mere separation or desertion gives no such absolution or liberty.

The Present Winter.

Dr. Robbins, librarian of the Hartford Athenæum, who is now over eighty years old, and has kept a record of the weather from his youth up, says the present winter beats all former ones in his record, for the extent of its coldness, as measured by the thermometer. The cold has been more remarkable for continuance than intensity.

Gen. Taylor's Cabinet.

Gen. Taylor's Cabinet is composed of the following gentlemen:

John M. Clayton, of Delaware, Secretary of State.

William M. Meredith, of Pennsylvania, Secretary of the Treasury.

George W. Crawford, of Georgia, Secretary of War.

Wm. B. Preston, of Virginia, Secretary of the Navy.

Jacob Collamer, of Vermont, Postmaster General.

Reverdy Johnson, of Maryland, Attorney General.

Thomas Ewing, of Ohio, Home Department.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Boltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

Anti-Slavery Resolutions.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania has passed the following Anti-Slavery Resolutions:

Whereas, By a recent treaty between the United States and Mexico, two provinces formerly belonging to and within the jurisdiction of the latter government, were ceded to and acquired by the United States.

And Whereas, By the constitution and laws of the United States, the power and duty of providing territorial governments for the newly acquired provinces devolve upon the American Congress.

And Whereas, This new acquisition and new responsibility have engendered sectional strifes between the friends of freedom and of free labor upon the one side, and the advocates of slavery extension on the other; therefore,

Resolved, That we, the representatives of the people of Pennsylvania, being firm in our adherance to the federal constitution—its concessions and compromises, and yielding cheerful obedience to the legally constituted authorities of the land, do hereby enter our solemn protest against the further extension of human slavery.

Resolved, That the period of compromises with, and concessions to the demands of slavery has passed, and that the cherished principles of freedom, the spirit of the age and of an enlightened policy, and the dictates of patriotism and philanthropy alike forbid any further enlargement of the area of human bondage.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed and our Representatives be requested to vote at all times and under all circumstances, in favor of extending the principles of the ordinance of 1787 to the newly acquired territories.

Resolved, That the Governor of this Commonwealth be requested to transmit copies of the foregoing preamble and resolutions to our Senators and Representatives in Congress, and to the Executives of the several States of this Union.

New American Peace Movement.

The Executive Committees of the American Branch of the League of Universal Brotherhood and of the American Peace Society have recently united in a course of measures which has resulted in organizing a new—and we hope it will prove an important—committee, to be called, The American Committee for a Congress of Nations; its sole object being to secure such a Congress for purposes of international peace. The Committee is to be a permanent body, and when once constituted is to fill its own vacancies, amenable only to the public.

The Christian Citizen is to be the organ of their communication with the people. A Committee of eighteen members is chosen. John Tappan, of Boston, Chairman, Amasa Walker, of N. Brookfield, Cor. Sec'y.

The specific objects of this Committee, so far as yet developed, seem to be to hold public meetings, and interest the public mind in the great enterprise—to send a delegation to Washington on this subject, and to co-operate with the kindred efforts of the frieuds of peace across the Atlantic. May their success be glorious!

Inauguration of Gen. Taylor.

The Inauguration Day has come and gone. Vast multitudes from all quarters flocked to Washington to be witnesses of the ceremony. On Monday, the doors of the Capitol were thrown open at 10 o'clock, and the ladies gallery of the Senate Chamber, was immediately filled with ladies, to the exclusion of men.—The Reporters' gallery was also filled to suffocation, the occupants pressing and struggling to obtain situations for themselves. Thousands were forced to retire without obtaining an entrance.

The Senate assembled at 11 o'clock, when a resolution was adopted that Senator Atchison take the chair. The new members were then sworn in, with the exeeption of Gen. Shields. A resolution was adopted referring his credentials to the Judiciary Committee.

Messrs. Fillmore and Dallas, the Vice President elcet, and the ex-Vice President, entered the Chamber arm in arm.

Mr. Atchison swore in the new Vice President, who took the Chair, and delivered an eloquent address.

All the Judges of the Supreme Court, and about forty members of the Diplomatic corps, including the attoches, came in first, occupying fifteen seats in the area at the left of the Vice President, and the latter at the right hand.—Then followed Messrs. Buchanan, Johnson and Touchey, of the old cabinet, and took seats in front of the Diplomatic corps.

The President and ex-President came in together about half-past twelve o'clock. Soon after this, those assembled in the Senate, in conformity with the arrangements of the Committee of the Senate, proceeded to the Eastern Portico of the Capitol, in the following order:

The Marshal of the District of Columbia.
The Supreme Court of the United States.
The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate.
The Committee of Arrangements.
The President elect and ex-President.
The Vice President, ex-Vice President, and Secretary of the Senate.
The Members of the Senate.
The Diplomatic Corps.
The Mayors of Washington and Georgetown, and the other persons admitted on the floor of the Senate.

President Taylor soon after delivered his Inaugural Address, which was listened to throughout, with the most profound attention.

On the conclusion of the Address, the oath of office was administered to the President of the United States by the Chief Justice; after which, the members of the Senate, preceded by the Vice President, Secretary, and Sergeant-at-Arms, returned to the Senate Chamber.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Sectarianism.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I know not how to apologise to you or your readers for my long silence; and yet my triple duties as student, editor and preacher may perhaps suggest other reasons than indifference. Your strictures upon my Letters on Sectarianism would have been noticed before, had not several of your articles been either mislaid or lost. As it is, a brief rejoinder will be attempted, notwithstanding being thus compelled to rely upon a somewhat treacherous memory.

Our readers have doubtless perceived that we are for the most part agreed as to facts and their intrinsic nature, but differ in our views of their relations. We perfectly agree in respect to the unity of the Church; but while you regard this as settling the question at issue, I am utterly unable to perceive how it can at all affect it. We also agree that the bigotry and unfriendly feelings not unfrequently manifested by Christians and denominations toward each other, is wrong and deleterious in the extreme. But while you conceive this to be the legitimate effect of a plurality of denominations, I cannot regard it as either the necessary effect or concomitant of such a plurality.

However many points may have been introduced into the discussion, it seems apparent that the satisfactory settlement of these two, must to all intents and purposes decide the point at issue. I shall therefore principally confine my remarks to them. It must be borne in mind that I maintain only that a plurality of denominations may properly result from differences of conscientious belief, which are not subversive of Christian character; and consequently am not answerable for the results of any other cause. Hence it is of no avail to refer to the unchristian bigotry of different denominations, until it is clearly shown that it arises from this cause, and can result from no other.

You admit, I believe, that a difference of belief does not necessarily infringe upon the unity of the Church. But effects cannot be unlike their causes—A good tree bringeth forth good fruit, and vice versa. Hence whatever results from a difference of belief that does not infringe upon the unity of the Church, cannot, from the very nature of the case, itself infringe upon the unity of the Church. I only defend a plurality of denominations resulting from such a difference of belief, and therefore such a plurality cannot infringe upon the unity of the Church. Is not this a fair and legitimate deduction from your own admission?

The doctrine of the unity of the Church cannot be successfully urged against my position, without making this unity to consist in absolute unity of belief; and this is very evidently utterly unattainable, and to demand it would be to unchurch every denomination,—"The Church of God" among the rest; and even to disband every individual Church—equivalent, indeed, to the entire annihilation of the Church. And this is sufficiently evident from the single fact that no two individuals really possess this absolute unity of belief. In fact, this unity is internal and spiritual; or at all events can be neither doctrinal nor nominal, or external in any sense whatever. To maintain that it is, is to adopt the greatest absurdities, and admit the truthfulness of the principal argument of Romanists against Protestantism.

That the bigotry and other evils, which we alike deplore are not the effect of a plurality of denominations, as you maintain, seems to me to be evident. Cause and effect are connected by an immutable relation. The same or similar causes will invariably produce the same or similar results. If, therefore, a plurality of denominations be the cause of these evils, it must always and invariably produce them whenever and wherever it exists. But it does not invariably produce this effect, and hence cannot be the cause of it. The Free-will and Free Communion Baptists had distinct and different origins, and remained with separate and different organizations for many years; and yet without these evils resulting. On the contrary, an entirely different effect resulted, and the two denominations eventually became one. The Free-will Baptists and the General Baptists are, and always have been distinct denominations, and yet maintain the most amicable relations. Other instances might be adduced if necessary.

Again, the same or similar effects must result from the same or similar causes. Hence if these evils are the effect of a plurality of denominations, they can only flow from a plurality of denominations. But so far from this being the case, they very frequently are manifested in their worst forms in the same denomination, and even in the same individual Church. Here there is no plurality of denominations, nor anything similar. Hence it must be an effect without a cause, or an effect produced by a cause unlike its cause, according to your reasoning.

But let us look at it in a different light. If the cause is removed the effect ceases. If then these evils are the results of a plurality of denominations, by merging them all into one the cause would be destroyed, but any one can see that the supposed effects would not cease. Again, an effect cannot be prevented without removing the cause. But these evils are sometimes obviated, and evidently may always be, without merging all Christian denominations into one.

These and other considerations that might be mentioned, induce me to think that a plurality of denominations does not do violence to the true and real unity of the Church; and that the Sectarianism that we mutually deplore is no necessary part or appendage of such plurality. A. D. W.

A Word for the Bible.

BY S. E. GUILEY.

Continued from our last.

1. Skeptics themselves confirm the truth of the Bible, which declares that "there shall come mockers in the last times, walking after their own ungodly lusts."

2. Again, the Martyrs confirm the truth of the Bible. Stephen, calmly breathing out his soul under a shower of stones, and praying for his murderers amidst their scoffs and insults, "Lord Jesus receive my soul or spirit: Lord lay not this sin to their charge."

Ignatius met the wild beasts, let loose to devour him, without dismay, joyfully crying, "Now indeed I begin to be a disciple; I weigh neither visible nor invisible things in comparison of an interest in Jesus Christ."

Good old Polycarp, who when he was solicited to reproach Christ and save his life, nobly replied: "Eighty and six years have I served Christ, who has never deserted nor injured me; how then can I blaspheme my King and Saviour!"

In latter times, Ridley, Latimore and Cranmer yielded their bodies to be burned for the truth as it is in Jesus, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer for his name.

3. The testimony of the Literati confirm the truth of the Bible.

The great Lord Bacon said, "there never was found, in any age of the world, either religion, or law, or discipline, that did so highly exalt the public good as the Christian faith."

The celebrated Bayle testified: "The Bible is a matchless volume. It is impossible we can study it too much, or esteem it too highly."

The incomparable Newton said, "we account the Scriptures of God the most sublime philosophy."

The far famed Milton said, "we are of opinion there are no songs to be compared with the Songs of Zion."

The learned Locke, that profound reasoner said: "The Gospel has God for its author, Salvation for its end, and truth without any mixture of error for its matter."

The justly renowned Selden declared, "there is no book in the universe upon which we can rest our souls in a dying moment but the Bible."

The Bible, which these great men believed, and believed and loved, is equally the poor man's friend; and hence the benevolent wish of a late venerable king, who loved the Scriptures, "I wish that every poor boy in my dominions might be able to read the Bible." For believe me, wherever the word of God is received in the love of it, in whatever station of life it be, whether a palace or a poor house, there it will uniformly produce the same gracious fruits: an humble and contented mind —a kind and forgiving disposition—a tender conscience—a holy life, and usually a happy death."

(To be Continued.)

Letter from Elder Jacob Myers.

Allegheny City, Jan. 12, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

A third time I resume my pen in order to communicate a few ideas to you. Whether my complaining disposition has discovered any thing worse or better, since the 27th November, ult., I do not precisely know. From the sequel of this epistle, the kind reader may decide himself. One thing, I fancy, I know, that is—I am still desirous of going as near the true state of things as I possibly can.

Respecting the churches in West Pennsylvania, besides the one here, I have not heard any thing since then, (the 27th) worth transmitting.

The prospects in our cities are probably more flattering, or rather promising, than some time ago. Since the last sifting time, the remaining brethren and sisters appear to hope for better times. During the last holidays a protracted meeting was held, in which the ordinances were attended to, and a good feeling appears to have become predominant —which I devoutly hope and pray will not soon be again evanescent.

From every appearance now, I would judge that with prudent management, the church in Pittsburg may do better in future, than it ever did heretofore. Very few of the old materials are left—what do remain are good; and the official members at present, are men of sterling worth—men who, in my opinion, have some knowledge how to feed the flock and watch over it—men who not only rule well, but can also labor in word and doctrine.

There have been, and some are still progressing this winter, interesting revivals in various denominations of Allegheny and Pittsburg; as for instance, the Methodist Protestant, pastor Robinson; the Wesleyans, pastor Ensign; African M. E., pastor Lawrence; the German Methodists, pastor ——; the Evangelical Association, pastor Link. These all have had considerable accessions to their respective societies. Yea, even the New Jerusalem Church, pastor D. Powell, a worthy man has had a very considerable increase in the congregation here. Five years ago there were not more than one or two individuals here of that peculiar faith and order.

Almost every preacher and church can proselyte some folks and obtain disciples in our cities, except the "Church of God" and Israel Reese, our street preacher. He styles himself an adopted son of God,—his character and conduct is irreproachable. He, like most of the preachers of the "Church of God," talks too plain to the folks—hence they conclude he is, though a good man, insane on the subject of religion. People here like to hear of a merciful God and a happy hereafter —only do not tell them the whole truth. Preach faith, and say little about works, and you will have plenty of disciples. They want to get to heaven, hereafter, I say, they mean, on the merits of Christ, without doing any thing themselves.

Having stopped writing some days, in hopes peradventure of obtaining some news, I rather accidentally lit upon Bishop John Hickernell's late letter, wherein he censures me for not writing genuine truth in my letter of the 27th November.

Hence I resume

January 26th, 1849.

Accordingly I owe brother Hickernell an apology for not mentioning him in my epistle. Had I been aware that he and brother Ober were doing a prosperous business—had I known that they were baptizing converts and strengthening their churches on their field of labor, I certainly would have mentioned it as well as bishop Wertz.

Their angels visits to this place, and their sparsness in writing, placed me beyond the province of knowing what they were doing.

You asked me, (which your letter to me will show) to give you an account of things in the West and in Pittsburg. Accordingly I gave you, and the readers of the Advocate, a faithful transcript of the subjects under request—and that without fearing frowns or courting favor. If things are better than what I represented them, why I am innocently mistaken. But at the same time my writing wrong, in the manner I did, will not have near the baleful effect on the cause of truth, as if I had daubed with untempered mortar, crying peace! peace! where there is no peace.

Brother H. appears to sport with my weakness, as he pleases to call it; and more so, because I have made confession of it. Dear brother, an open confession is good for the soul. If I made the confession in that item, I trust I did it sincerely; and I must yet be informed where the harm of such a confession lies. I do not wish to pretend to more goodness than I possess—and it would be nothing amiss, if more ministers would confess their weakness, and that in the very place and state where they consider themselves so strong. "Let him that thinks he stands, take heed lest he should fall." "Without me, ye can do nothing," says Christ.

Conclusively I would say, and that fearlessly,—If we the preachers, or at any rate a majority of us, were more humble, self-sacrificing, more dead to the world, more devoted to God and his church, and more possessed with the spirit of our divine Master,—pray and study more in our closets,—pray more with our people—catechise them oftener, and talk less nonsense out of the pulpit; the Lord would bless our labors more and we would have less cause to complain and exhibit our weakness, to the holy disgust of those around us.

Duplicity is a stranger to my breast. What I write I write plain—the sentiments of my soul (inmost.) Sarcasm and coarse wit are incompatible to the Christian and the Christian preacher.

More anon. Farewell,

J. MYERS.

Letter from Brother Isaac Miller.

Como, Ill., Feb. 2d, 1849.

Brother J. Winebrenner:—

I am happy that God, in his providence, has permitted me once more to write a few lines to you, and the readers of the Advocate.

We have one of the Illinois winters, the coldest weather I ever felt. The 3d of January was the coldest day ever known in Illinois. The thermometer stood twelve degrees below zero. The weather was very mild and temperate during the summer and fall, with a few light frosts, until about the middle of November, when there was a snow fell, and another, in all two feet deep, which made good sleighing from that time to this; and we know not how long it may continue as there has been but little variation in the weather up to this date. At this time the weather is more moderate, and has been, for a week past, attended with some rain.

It was very healthy the past summer and winter, throughout the State, so far as I heard from; but there is a fever which at this time rages to a great extent, and which causes great excitement. It is called the Gold Fever. There will be many of our inhabitants leaving in the spring, for the gold regions, both professors and non-professors. I do hope the disease will not get among the ministering brethren, for true Gospel ministers are much needed—particularly in this western part of the world, where religion runs at a very low ebb.

The Sons of Temperance in this country, appear to be what they call the leading features of Christianity, which I told them I was prepared to deny. I asked them to prove their position. They said, in the first place, it is the means of promoting union and love among them. In the second place, it is a temperance beneficial and benevolent society. They regularly attend the sick, and besides, they get fifty cents for every day they cannot work. I asked if Christianity was not all this? One said it ought to do it; but asked where is the Church that does it? The question I thought was hard to answer. Several of them told me, who belonged to religious denominations, that they joined them in order that they might be taken care of in sickness, or other providencial acts. I said, if the Church of God would pay weekly, or monthly into God's treasury as the Lord prospered them, there would be no need of leaving the church and joining with the irreligious world, in putting on a uniform, and parading along the streets of towns and villages.

I for one am glad you have made a movement in the Tithe System. May God bless it to the good of the Church is my sincere prayer.

There was a lecture delivered in our place, by a doctor, stating that the Sons had caused more reformation in six years, than all the preaching within the same time. I will leave that for the preachers to judge. I know, that in some of our towns and neighborhoods, professed Christians appear to have more zeal for the cause of the Sons than for Christianity; for in time of preaching or prayer meeting there are but few that attend, but when the Sons meet, there they are found. It is a hard saying, but it is no less hard than true. Now don't understand me to oppose the cause as a worldly institution. As such I am not opposed to it; but I am opposed to professed Christians going out of the church and uniting with a worldly society, in order to be benefited therefrom. It looks to me like as if there was something wrong in the Church.

Brother Winebrenner, I am happy to see that you have pledged yourself to pay $10 for two missionaries, one for Iowa and one for Illinois. I, for another, pledge myself for $10 more. I believe if we exert ourselves we can raise $40 or $50, more or less, in these parts. Come, preachers and brethren, one and all, lay to a helping hand; give willingly, give liberally, for God loveth a cheerful giver. Remember that we are deprived of preaching and the ordinances of God's house.

Brother G. preaches in our place regularly every two weeks. He tried to prevail on me and my companion to join in church fellowship with them, saying that the difference is but little. I said that I could not, for several reasons: one was, they assumed a sectarian name, and not the name and title that God has given in his word. Secondly, Because they are close communionists. Thirdly, Because they do not attend to washing the saint's feet.

Brother Harn might have been very useful here, if he had remained. His preaching had great influence, and he was much beloved. There was one old gentleman said, that he told him all things that ever he done in his life, and therefore would not go to hear him again. I suppose brother George is excusable, because he cannot leave father and mother, sisters and brothers, and come out here.

I have not forgot my relief subscription as yet. I will try and send it, so soon as I can get money that is current in your country, with the payment of the next number of the Advocate.

Nothing more at present, but remain

Yours, in Christian fellowship.

ISAAC MILLER.

Letter from Brother D. Keplinger.

Canal Dover, Feb. 16, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I take up my pen to drop a few lines, (for the first time,) for the satisfaction and encouragement of my brethren in the Lord. If you think them worthy of a place in your very valuable paper, the Church Advocate, please insert them.

I can say, the Lord is still with us in this part of his vineyard. There are still a few who are willing to give their hearts to God.

I now inform you that brothers A. Holms and J. Beidler commenced a meeting at Crooked Run, on the 23d of December last, which continued over two Sabbaths. The result was, the Church was strengthened and greatly encouraged to press forward, and sinners were convinced of the need of a Saviour, and many came forward for prayers. But only four professed to find peace in believing.

There was a meeting held at Sugar Creek, Holmes county, which commenced the 13th of January, and ended the 22d. I have been informed by brother Holms that this was a very good meeting. Four professed to find rest to their souls—the church was enabled to rejoice in God, lift up their banners and go on their way rejoicing.

There was also a protracted meeting held at Brandywine, in the new Bethel, commencing on the 27th of January, and ending the 6th of February. During this meeting the servants of God preached the word of the Lord in power and demonstration of the spirit. The result was, many were deeply convicted of sin, of righteousness and of judgment to come; but still they would not submit to God. However, four professed to obtain pardon of all their sins, and the Church was enabled to rejoice in hopes of the glory of God.

The above meetings will no doubt be long remembered by many. I have more than once thought of the seasons of grace that we have lately enjoyed, but especially of the great privileges the poor sinner has so negligently passed through. I venture to say, that many of those who attended the above meetings, and did not give their hearts to God, feel very sorry that this season of grace has gone by, and they are still in their sins.

It is strange to think that people will live without religion, when they know they cannot be happy without it. But not only so, they are also living in danger of losing their immortal souls in the vortex of woe and despair. Oh! my dear friends, take the alarm, and fly to Christ before death overtakes you, when you will say, Oh! that I had never heard the Gospel of free salvation: or that I had never been born. But this will avail you nothing. To judgment you must come, to receive your awful sentence, "Depart! depart!" Then you will have to take up the doleful march down toward the burning lake, there, in those doleful regions, to lament your folly forever and ever.

But, my dear brethren, in order that we may stand in the coming Judgment Day, we must be faithful to our calling. We must obey the Gospel. Not only in tongue, but in deed and in truth. How then is it with us at this time? Have we reasonable evidences that we are on the road to heaven? Do we love the Gospel? Do we love to hear the commands of God preached? and do we love to obey them? Do we love secret and public devotion? Do we love the people of God? Have we a longing desire for the house of prayer? Can we love and forgive our enemies, and pray for them? Can we deny ourselves of all ungodliness and worldly lusts? If so, let me say in conclusion to you,

O! watch, and fight, and pray,
The battle ne'er give o'er;
Renew it boldly every day,
And help divine implore.

Ne'er think the victory won,
Nor once at ease sit down;
Thy arduous work will not be done,
Till thou hast got thy crown.

I remain yours, in the best of bonds.

DAVID KEPLINGER, Jr.

Letter from Elder A. Megrew.

Wooster, Feb 14, 1848.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Having a little money, and a little good news to send you, I take up my pen this evening to submit the same to you, which you may give a place in the Church Advocate, if you see proper.

We commenced a meeting in Smithville on the 13th of January, which is still in progress. Having a meeting appointed, to commence in the church, or with the church at Union the following Saturday, I was not able to stay but a few days; the meeting has been carried on principally by Elder Shrom. I have been there occasionally, as circumstances would admit.

Last Sabbath I preached at Madisonville on the subject of Baptism, and baptized three happy converts in the evening. I proceeded to Smithville and preached in much weakness. Three presented themselves as subjects of prayer. Monday also we had meeting. Three followed their Lord in the ordinance of baptism. Up to this time some sixteen or seventeen have professed to be saved by believing in the Saviour. Brother Shrom is still keeping up the meeting.

At Union we kept up the meeting over the second Sabbath, and closed it on Monday evening. There were some five or six forward for prayer during the meeting, but only two, I believe, found peace. However, this was, I believe, the most heart-cheering meeting I have attended for years. It was truly a refreshing time, and I believe it was so to all the members of the church. This little church is truly a model church for love, union and zeal in the cause of God. May the good Lord grant that it may continue and abound, not only there, but throughout the churches.

Much good might have been done this winter, on the Wooster Circuit, had there been laborers sufficient to keep up meetings as they should have been. My own health has been so poor, that I was not able to labor more than half as much as I would wish to have done. And I would here just say, that I hope those brethren, that is Deshiri and Sole, will not fail to come, according to promise, as I have came to the conclusion, in consequence of my ill health, not to have charge of a Circuit the coming year. If these brethren would just drop a note in the Advocate, in reference to their coming out, and what time they will be here, it would be a great satisfaction to the brethren generally, and especially those on the Wooster circuit.*

We expect, the Lord willing, to commence a protracted meeting in this place, (Wooster) on the 24th of the present month, and hope by the time it closes to have some more good news to send you. The Church here is in good spirits, and still looking up for better times. I wish, brother W., you could spend a few weeks in this place, I think much good might be done.

No more at present, but remain

Yours, in the best of bonds.

ARCHIBALD MEGREW.

*Brother T. H. Deshiri will please attend to this matter of giving notice, in the next Advocate. Editor.

Letter from Brother T. D. G. Grim.

Sample's Manor, Md., Feb. 19, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I take up my pen to inform you about a few things in this part of God's moral vineyard.

My principal object in writing, is to inform you, as I believe you are one of the Standing Committee of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, that the brethren, and the citizens generally, wish that the Committee would send them a good and able minister of Jesus Christ, to take up a mission here and in the surrounding neighborhood. I think much good might be done here if we had an able brother to preach and set things in order. Will you please send us such an one?

I see by the minutes of the last Eldership, that brother E. Logue is to come into Washington county the ensuing year. Will he take up an appointment in this place? If so, please inform me as soon as you can ascertain the same. If he is not now engaged tell him to come on to this place as soon as he can, and we will bear his expenses here and back again, and give him a little for setting things in order here. We wish no brother to labor with us for nothing. Although we are poor, and many of us live from hand to mouth as it were, yet we will give a portion of that which the good Lord has enabled us to labor for with our own hands. So please send on some good brother soon.

We see, in the Advocate, that brothers Fenton and Coup have organized a church at Parksville. This is close by us, and as the brother has seen proper to inform the readers of the Advocate about this village, I would be pleased to see him give a description of that village, Parksville; the number of houses it contains, and the size of the house in which they worship. I will not now give you a description, but would say, come and see.

For the encouragement of those who would wish to know what might be obtained for the support of a laborer, I would say, that a few Sabbaths ago I felt it my duty to tell the people here their duty to support the Gospel; or those who have given themselves wholly to the Gospel should live by the Gospel. After service I drew up a subscription to see what the friends would give, and my talking to them was not in vain; so that I got twenty-two dollars, none giving less than one dollar; and many said that if I would get a good preacher of the Eldership of the Church of God, they would double what they had subscribed. I am confident that we can raise forty dollars for a good brother.

I must close. You will please let me hear from you as soon as this comes to hand. If brother Logue cannot come, send brother G. U. Harn. He will meet with a warm reception. He has preached here before. Give me brother Harn's post office address.*

No more, but remain

Yours, in the bonds of love.

THO'S. D. G. GRIM.

*Brother Harn's post office address is Fayetteville, Franklin county, Pa.

Letter from Elder J. Hawk.

Johnson Co., Iowa, Feb. 10, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I take up my pen in haste, to make known to you, and the Standing Committee, our request concerning a preacher, which is very much wanted in this western country.

I would have wrote sooner, but our papers and letters are so very slow coming this winter. The desire of all the brethren and sisters is, for a traveling preacher to be sent among us; and we hope and pray that the Lord may so direct matters that we may get a suitable and useful one. As for support, I am not able to say what can be done. We are a good deal scattered in this State, but from what I have learned, and can learn of brother Logue, he done better here, in some respects, than a great many do in the East. With what assistance he got from the East, and his industry, he got along snug, considering he had a great deal of affliction in his family, and consequently many extra expenses. He owns a good little house and two lots in Trenton, for which he asks $250. His vendue amounted to eighty odd dollars, and then he kept some of the best furniture. He told me, and others, that when he came to this State, he had very little. As far as I have knowledge, a man need not feel discouraged about coming to Iowa. One great difficulty we have is, to get a house for a man with a family, and especially for this Spring. There are upwards of thirteen families expected to come to this settlement in the Sping. My opinion is, that a man with a small family would suit best; but he must expect to endure some hardships in a new country.

The brethren and sisters felt somewhat discouraged, and also tempted at brother Logue, when looking over the Journal of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, and found there was not a word mentioned concerning the poor

Iowa brethren and sisters. But I think all will come right. If you will send us a servant of the most high God who is not easily cast down, and who will contend for the whole truth, there is a good prospect, I think, of much good being done. We feel somewhat lost without a traveling preacher, and what is already gathered might be again scattered by long delays. Brethren, do all you can. The Lord of hosts bless you all. Amen. Pray for and the prosperity of Zion.

Further, I would state that we all enjoy good health, and have done so since we live in this State, with the exception of some little brashes among the children. It has been very healthy all through this country, for which we feel thankful to the Lord.

We would like to see some more of the brethren and sisters come this way. There is much room yet. No more at present.

I remain yours, in love,

JONATHAN HAWK,

In behalf of the Churches of God, in Iowa.

Letter from Elder E. Logue.

NEWBURG, March 8, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

In the last number of the Advocate I saw an inquiry from brother J. E. Rohrer, of Washington county, Md., wishing to hear from me, where I am, and whether I am coming to preach for them this Spring?

In response to which, I would merely inform him and the friends of Washington county, that I have been spending the Winter in Carroll county, Md., visiting my connexions and assisting brother Price in meetings; the most of the time preaching pretty hard; and had the happiness of seeing some eight or ten souls happily converted to God, and about as many baptized.

I had intended to visit Washington county during the Winter, but at the time I was about starting to see the brethren in that county, I was taken sick, which confined me for two weeks. I have now, therefore, postponed seeing them, until I commence preaching on that Circuit. The Lord willing, I will commence at Broad Fording the 24th and 25th of this month. Brother Seabrooks is to give out my appointments, commencing at that place. I expect to come to that Circuit as a stranger, but I trust as a preacher, they will find my motto to be "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," as it is in Christ Jesus, to the extent of my ability.

The motive and great concern of my heart will be, to be made use of to the good and prosperity of the churches, and the salvation of souls. If, under these circumstances, the churches on that Circuit are disposed to receive me as preacher, and co-work with me as such, for the prosperity of Zion, well and good. We will expect the Lord to be with us, to do us good.

If brother Seabrooks should not send an appointment to Rohrersville, I would like some of the friends of that place, to meet me at the Broad Fording, the last Sabbath of this month, and if they wish me to preach there, I shall expect to do so.

Yours, in love,

E. LOGUE.

OBITUARY OF Brother MATTHIAS SAILOR.

DIED, at Spring Forge, Cumberland county, Pa., on the 12th of February, 1849, after a lingering illness, of Pulmonary Consumption, Brother MATTHIAS SAILOR, aged 23 years, 3 months and 19 days.

Brother Sailor embraced the Saviour when but a boy; and united with the Church of God, in whose communion he lived and shone as a burning light for many years. But alas! like many others, he listened to the precepts and maxims of the world, and became overwhelmed with business, and through it got on back grounds, until one year ago, when he again sought and found the Lord precious to his soul, and returned to the fold from whence he had strayed. During his illness he was perfectly resigned to the will of the Lord, until the 12th, when he fell asleep in Jesus without a struggle or a groan.

On the 14th his remains were conveyed to, and interred at the Trindle Spring Church, followed by a very large concourse of weeping friends and neighbors, who convened to pay the last tribute of respect to one they loved and esteemed. The occasion was solemnized by a discourse from the writer, from Psalms 39: 4, 5. It was truly a solemn time.

J. H. HURLEY.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

The Black Laws of Ohio.—A bill to repeal the Black Laws of Ohio, has passed both branches of its Legislature. The following is a synopsis of the bill:

Sec. 1, Provides for the creation of school districts for colored schools, and creates the office of trustees for them.

Sec. 2, Provides for the election of trustees, by the colored tax-payers.

Sec. 3, Dedicates the taxes paid by colored persons to the support of the colored schools.

Sec. 4, Provides that the districts for colored persons shall be deemed distinct bodies politic.

Sec. 5, Defines who shall be deemed to be colored.

Sec. 6, Repeals all laws creating disabilities, or conferring privileges on account of color.

The blacks under this law have not the right to sit on juries, or the benefit of the poor laws.

Cost of War in time of Peace.—The appropriations for the Military Service of the United States for the year ending June 30, 1850, amount to $6,425,687, of which $2,382,234, are for pay and commutations; $750,000, for transportation; $593,581, for armories and arsenals; $500,000, for Quarter-master's department; $275,000, for incidentals, &c.

The Naval Appropriations are $9,654,-011, of which $2,500,000 are for pay and provisions—$1,436,000, for repairs, fuel, and hemp; $874,600, for Ocean Mail transportation, &c.

Total, sixteen millions of dollars—the cost of war in time of peace. No wonder we cannot have cheap postage.

☞ Col. W. W. S. Bliss has been appointed General Taylor's Private Secretary.

Patent Axle.—Mr. Joseph Harris, Sr., of Boston, has invented and patented a box and axle, which require no oil, and almost entirely escape friction. The working model has been turned 1000 revolutions in a minute, equal to 120 miles an hour, without producing perceptible heat, and without the use of any oil. The box is about five inches in diameter, and the axle three inches, and in the space between them are disposed, at equal distances, six anti-friction rollers, which are kept in their places by teeth at both their ends, playing in corresponding circles of teeth in both the box and axle.

Anti-Slavery Feeling in Kentucky.—It has been stated that a meeting of the friends of emancipation was recently held in Louisville, Ky. The meeting was very large, and its deliberations characterized by great enthusiasm. It was addressed by Hon. W. B. Thomasson, late member of Congress; James Speed, Esq., member of the last State Legislature; Messrs. Ballard, Smith, and Beard, lawyers; Jacob Walter, an old and influential mechanic; Rev. W. L. Breckenbridge and E. P. Humphrey, pastors of the first and second Presbyterian churches—all in favor of emancipation. This array of names is a cheering indication of the spread of the feeling against slavery in Kentucky.

California.—Mr. Atherton, who recently arrived from the gold region, delivered a lecture in New York a few evenings since. He speaks well of the climate and of the soil; declares that the golden accounts have not been exaggerated; that 100,000 could not extract the supply in twenty years; that beef, flour and clothing are cheap enough at San Francisco, though dear at the mines; advises people to take out houses with them, though he fears the consequence of having too many frame buildings, as, if one should take fire, they would all go; but does not advise any person to go to California, who can do well here.

Lumps of Gold.—The largest lumps of gold recorded in the histories of gold mines, are as follows: One found at the Wicklow mines, in Ireland weighing 22 ounces; one in Peru, weighing twenty-six ponnds and a half; several in Quito, reported to have weighed about one hundred and six pounds; one in Lebanon, North Carolina, found in 1810, which weighed twenty-eight pounds; and one in New Grenada, which weighed twenty-seven pounds and a half. These, we believe, are the largest lumps on record.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.—Measures are now being taken for the extension of this road, and in a short time, it is expected the making of it from Cumberland, Md., to the Monongahela, a distance of one hundred miles, will be put under contract.

For California.—The New York Tribune publishes a complete list of the vessels that have cleared for California, since Dec. 7, with the number of passengers, bound to California, either by way of Cape Horn or Chagres. The footings show the whole number to be 8,098, to wit—from New York 4,359—from Boston 1,251—from Philadelphia 166—from Baltimore 361—from New Orleans 549—from other ports 1,412. This is brought down to the 8th instant, since then several more have been dispatched.

From Europe.—The Europa has arrived, bringing 14 days later intelligence from Europe. The news brought by her is not very important. Cotton was gradually rising, and grain and American provisions were in fair demand, at remunerating prices.

The present ministry of England are determined on carrying out the free trade policy adopted by the government. Corn is soon to be admitted entirely free.

Mexican Lines of Stages.—An American line of stages is about to be established, to run between Vera Cruz on the Gulf of Mexico, and Mazatlan on the Pacific.—Lines of steam packets on both sides of the continent are to be connected with this land route, so that the passage from the United States to California may be made in a much shorter time than by the Chagres and Panama route. Eight of the stages are now building in New York.

Philadelphia Deaf and Dumb Institute.—There are one hundred and twenty-one pupils in this institution, eighty-seven of whom are supported by the State, seven by New Jersey, ten by Maryland, three by Delaware, and fourteen by their own friends. Twenty-eight pupils were admitted during the year, seventeen were discharged, and two died.

The Black Tongue.—Several deaths from that terrific disease, the black tongue, have occurred in Augusta, Kentucky. The heads of patients swell immoderately, the tongue protrudes from their mouths, eyes glaring, and the whole face is discolored and horribly distorted, ending speedily in death.

Blacksmiths Wanted.—A letter writer from San Francisco, complains bitterly of the lack of blacksmiths in that region.—He says that almost any sort of a workman can make himself independent there in a very short time, wages ranging from $20 to $50 per diem.

Very Unusual.—Belfast harbor is frozen over to Long Island, a distance of some ten miles; the "Eastern Bay" is also sealed up. These are very unusual occurrences.

FLOUR is selling at $4 25 per barrel.

☞ The Inauguaration Ball at Washington was a very tipsy affair, we suspect. There were more than a hundred baskets of champagne wine, independent of other liquors, consumed; and next morning there were fragments of glass all over the supper room and the passages, and indications that Bacchus had held one of his richest revels. There were upwards of $12,000 received for tickets; the confectionary and cookery cost $1,900; the music $500; the pavilion $3,000, and the fixtures will absorb all the money received, with the exception of fifteen hundred or two thousand dollars, which will be given to the Orphan Asylum of Washington. And this is patriotism! Oh shame! where is thy blush?

☞ A wire suspension bridge has been projected to cross the Ohio, between Cincinnati and Covington. The arch is to be 120 feet above the centre of the river, at low water—the towers for the suspension, 230 feet high—the bridge is to be hung on twenty cables, four inches in diameter, capable of sustaining a weight of seven thousand tons. The cost is estimated at $300,000.

☞ All our Presidents commence their time of authority with bad weather. Gen. Taylor had no sooner taken his oath than it commenced snowing, to be followed by a rainy night. The inauguration day of President Polk was rainy; that of Gen. Harrison was cloudy and cold; and, as well as we remember, that of Mr. Van Buren wound up with a storm.

☞ A new bill has been prepared by the Committee on the Post Office in the House of Representatives. This bill makes a uniform rate of three cents for letters of half an ounce, if pre-paid, five cents if not pre-paid. The rates on newspapers vary from a quarter of a cent to one cent, according to size.

☞ Thirty thousand individuals own all the Land in England. Three thousand own all the Land in Scotland; and six thousand that of Ireland. Twenty-five millions of human beings are thus left without a rood of ground in the British Kingdom.

☞ The Bridgeport Farmer states, that the receipts of the New York and New Haven Road are over a thousand dollars per day. This is good business.

☞ All the Cabinet appointments have been confirmed by the Senate. The new Administration is, therefore, fairly launched and under way.

☞ More than thirty Railroad Companies do not run their cars on the Sabbath. Twelve have stopped during the past year.

☞ A bill to punish prize fighting has just passed the New York House of Assembly 104 to 6.

MISCELLANEOUS.

GEN. TAYLOR'S INAUGURATION.

At 12 o'clock on Monday, the 5th inst., the ex-President and President elect arrived at the east front of the Capitol, accompanied by the Senate and House of Representatives, and their officers, the Diplomatic Corps, the Supreme Court of the United States, and the other public bodies appointed to be present.

The Capitol Square opposite the East Portico, was crowded to its utmost capacity, and the President elect delivered the following INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Fellow-Citizens:—Elected by the American people to the highest office known to our laws. I appear here to take the oath prescribed by the Constitution, and in compliance with time-honored custom to address those who are now assembled.

The confidence and respect shown by my countrymen in calling me to the chief magistracy in a republic holding a high rank among the nations of the earth, have inspired me with feelings of the most profound gratitude, but when I reflect that the acceptance of the office which their partiality has bestowed, imposes the discharge of the most arduous duties, involves the weighiest obligations, I am conscious that the position which I have been called to fill, though sufficient to satisfy the loftiest ambition, is surrounded by fearful responsibilities. Happily, however. in the performance of my new duties, I shall not be without able co-operation.

The legislative and judicial branches of the government present prominent examples of distinguished civil attainments and matured experience, and it shall be my endeavor to call to my assistance in the executive departments, individuals whose talent, integrity, and purity of character, will furnish ample guarantees for the faithful and honorable performance of the trusts to be committed to their charge.—With such aid, and an honest purpose to do whatever is right, I hope to execute diligently, impartially, and for the best interests of the country, the manifold duties devolved upon me.

In the discharge of these duties, my guide will be the Constitution, which I this day swear to preserve, protect and defend. For the interpretation of that instrument, I shall look to the decisions of the judicial tribunals established by its authority, and to the practice of Government under the earlier Presidents, who had so large a share in its formation. To the example of those illustrious patriots I shall always refer with reverence, and especially to his example who was, by so many titles, the Father of his Country.

To command the Army and Navy of the United States with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, appoint ambassadors, and other officers, to give to Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend such measures as he shall judge to be necessary, and to take care that the laws shall be faithfully executed. These are the most important functions entrusted to the President by the Constitution, and it may be expected that I shall briefly indicate the principles which control me in their execution.

Chosen by the body of the people, under the assurance that my administration should be devoted to the welfare of the whole country and not to the support of any particular section, or merely local interests, I this day renew the declarations I have heretofore made, and proclaim my fixed determination, to maintain to the extent of my abilities, the government in its original purity, and to adopt, as the basis of my public policy, those great republican doctrines which constitute the strength of our national existence.

In reference to the Army and Navy, lately employed with so much distinction in active service, care shall be taken to insure the highest condition of efficiency, and, in furtherance of that object, the military and naval schools, sustained by the liberality of Congress, shall receive the special attention of the Executive.

As American freemen, we cannot but sympathise with all efforts to extend the blessings of civil and political liberty, but at the same time we are warned by the admonitions of history and the voice of our own beloved Washington, to abstain from entangling alliances with foreign nations.

In all disputes between conflicting governments it is our interest, not less than our duty to remain strictly neutral; while our geographical position, the genius of our institutions and our people, the advancing spirit of civilization, and above all the dictates of religion, direct us to the cultivation of peaceful and friendly relations with all other powers, it is to be hoped that no international question can arise which a government, confident in its own strength and resolved to protect its own just rights, may not settle by wise negotiation, and it eminently becomes a government like our own, founded on the morality and intelligence of its citizens and upheld by their affections, to exhaust every resort of honorable diplomacy before appealing to arms.

In the conduct of our foreign relations I shall conform to these views, as I believe them essential to the best interests of the country.

The appointing power vested in the President, imposes delicate and onerous duties. So far as it is possible to be informed, I shall make honesty, capacity and fidelity, indispensable prerequisites to the bestowal of office, and the absence of either of these qualities shall be deemed sufficient cause for removal.

It shall be my study to recommend such constitutional measures to Congress as may be necessary and proper to secure encouragement and protection to the great interests of agriculture, commerce and manufactures; to improve our harbors: to provide for the speedy extinguishment of the public debt; to enforce a strict accountability on the part of all officers of the government; and the utmost economy in all public expenditures. But it is for the wisdom of Congress itself, in which all legislative powers are vested by the Constitution, to regulate these and other matters of domestic policy.

I shall look with confidence to the enlightened patriotism of that body to adopt such measures of conciliation as may harmonise conflicting interests and tend to perpetuate that Union which should be the paramount object of our hopes and affections. In any action calculated to promote an object so near the heart of every one who truly loves his country. I zealously unite with the co-ordinate branches of the government.

In conclusion, I congratulate you, my fellow-citizens, upon the high state of prosperity to which the goodness of Divine Providence has conducted our common country.

Let us invoke a continuance of the same protecting care which has led us through small beginnings to the eminence to which we have this day arrived, and let us seek to deserve that continuance by prudence and moderation in our councils, by well directed attempts to assuage the bitterness which too often marks the differences of opinion by the promulgation and practice of just and liberal principles and by enlarged patriotism, which shall acknowledge no limits but our own wide spread Republic.

SECTARIANISM DEFENDED.

The following remarkable extracts we copy from the editorial department of one of your cotemporaries of Nov. 24th, which furnish another strong proof of the unscriptural and unchurchly position which the paper containing them occupies.

The advantage of Sects in the Church.

"Some mourn over the existence of Sects in the Church of God: nay, efforts have even been made to prove that the numerous Sects in the church, constitute 'antichrist.' We cannot sympathize with such speculations. On the contrary, much good has arisen from the fact of denominational preferences. We can scarcely avoid reflecting upon the wisdom of God, in so contriving christianity in adaptation to the human mind, as to give rise to sects in the christian church. Divided as the church is into so many distinct battalions, (sects,) they effect vastly more than they would if they were all organized into one and the same army!!!"

These are strange doctrines indeed, and if true, what becomes of the oneness, the unity, under which the Scriptures invariably represent the church of Christ? What becomes of the truly earnest prayer of the Lord Jesus, that his people "may all be one" even as He and the Father "are one?" If "the church can effect vastly more" by being divided into so many sects, why did Paul so severely censure the Corinthian Christians for having divided themselves into distinct parties? And, why did Paul and all the Apostles, so earnestly beseech all christians that there be no divisions in the body of Christ? And why do all good and holy people truly mourn and lament over the divided state of the Church?

Yet the above extract will appear stranger still, if we consider the source from whence it comes. For who would have thought, that any one could be so strangely inconsistent with himself, as that, after having opened his columns so frequently to the exposure of sectarianism, and lauded so highly the many unsuccessful efforts towards Christian Union, and after having himself gone to England, to attend the great London Convention, for the express purpose of effecting a union among all evangelical denominations, he should now, after the lapse of so short a time since his return, come out in open vindication of the miserable sect system, and proclaim its great advantage to his readers!—Ger. Ref. Messenger.

☞ A missionary writes from Malta, that a newspaper, in the Italian language, under religious auspices is about to be established there.

POETRY.

POOR, WILDER'D, WEEPING HEART.

Poor, wilder'd, weeping heart,
What can relieve thee?
Come, sinful as thou art,
Christ will receive thee:
Come, though with wo oppress'd,
Soft is the Saviour's breast,
There may'st thou sweetly rest,
There naught shall grieve thee.

Come, trembling, timid soul,
Why this delaying?
Thunders that o'er thee roll,
Fall on thee straying:
Turn from destruction's ways,
Turn to the throne of grace,
There seek thy Father's face,
Weeping and praying.

Hence guilty fear and doubt,
Leave me forever!
Lord, wilt thou cast me out?
Never—oh, never!
From unbelief of mind,
From thoughts to sin inclin'd,
From flesh and hell combin'd,
Thou wilt deliver.

FOUNTAIN OF SILOAM.

Beneath Moriah's rocky side
A gentle fountain springs;
Silent and soft its waters glide,
Like the peace the Spirit brings.
The thirsty Arab stoops to drink,
Of the cool and quiet wave,
And the thirsty spirit stops to think
Of Him who came to save.

Siloam is the fountain's name,
It means "one sent from God;"
And thus the holy Saviour's fame
It gently spreads abroad.
Oh grant that I, like this sweet well,
May Jesus' image bear,
And spend my life, my all, to tell
How full his mercies are!

New Music Wanted!

We have it in contemplation to get up a choice collection of Church Music, comprising the various metres now in use among the Churches of God; and we want our brethren who are blessed with "The daughter of Mnsic," to aid us in making out the collection, by sending us choice peices of music, or by writing and referring to works where such choice pieces of Church Music can be found. Who among the singers of the Israel of God will oblige us by prompt attention to this request?

For every half dozen of approved pieces, a copy of the new work shall be awarded.

Editor.

Delinquents Take Notice.

After the first of April next, a list of our delinquent subscribers will be published, as we have heretofore given notice, except due payment be made on or before that time. We are pleased to find that some of our subscribers who are in arrears are paying up, and thus precluding the necessity of adding them to the list of delinquents. We should be gratified if the remainder were to do likewise, and leave us no list to publish. Who then will do us the kindness and justice of sending in our dues before the first of April next!

Premiums.

To induce a general effort to extend the circulation of the Advocate, we offer the following Premiums, viz:

1st. For the highest number of new subscribers we will award one copy of the Bible, and a complete set of our own publications, viz: History of Denominations, Treatise on Regeneration, Wandering Soul, View of the Church, Hymn Book, Reference and Pronouncing Testament, German Testament, Almost Christian, (in German,) Baxter on Conversion, Fuller on Backsliding, Traveller's Guide, Young Convert's Guide, Sermon on Christian Baptism, Dissertations on the Law of Tithes.

2. For the second highest number, a set of our own publications, as above specified.

3. For the third highest number, a copy of the History of Denominations, a Church View, a Hymn Book and Testament.

4. For the fourth highest number, a bound volume of the Advocate, a copy of the Wandering Soul, and a copy of the Treatise on Regeneration.

5. For the fifth highest number, a Hymn Book and Testament.

6. For the sixth highest number, a Hymn Book or Testament.

7. For five or more new subscribers, a copy of the Advocate for one year, commencing with the next volume. This premium will be allowed to all who shall procure five or more new subscribers.

Now let a general effort be made, between this and the commencement of the next volume, and let us see who will come out best; who second best, and who third best, and so on.

Missionary Pledge.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner,	- -	$10 00
William Reichert,	- -	5 00
Isaac Miller,	- - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley,	- - -	5 00

Remarks.—Those brethren in the Church who are blessed with this world's goods, and who are friendly to the cause of Missions in the aforesaid States, will please to send us their names between this and the first of next March, so that the Board may send out their Missionaries in due time.

We wish the brethren in the States of Illinois and Iowa to move in this enterprize with becoming zeal, and thereby provoke the friends of Missions, here in the East, to love and good works. Let all, therefore, both in the East and West, speak out promptly and let the Church and the world know what they are willing to do to sustain this enterprize.

Bound Volumes of Advocate.

We have had some few volumes of the Church Advocate bound—two volumes in one. Those who may want them, will please send us their orders. Price $2.

Choice Fruit Trees.

We have a choice lot of Fruit Trees for sale. Let those who may want, send their orders and bespeak them, or call early in March and get the Trees.

Special Notices.

☞ Letters enclosing new subscriptions or changes in Post Offices, should contain the NAMES of the subscribers, the POST OFFICE, the COUNTY, and the STATE to which the papers are to be directed; all written very legibly and with great care—otherwise the papers are liable to be sent to the wrong Post Offices.

☞ The Post Office regulations now ALLOW POST MASTERS TO FRANK LETTERS to publishers, and they are generally willing to do so when applied to by subsbribers.

☞ Special pains are taken to have the Advocate SENT REGULARLY to subscribers, and they are particularly requested to give us notice of any irregularity in its receipt.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On Thursday, the 1st inst., by the Rev. Wm. R. De Witt, Mr. James Todd, of Springfield, Ohio, to Miss Ann M. Espy, daughter of the late David Espy, Esq., of Dauphin county.

On the same day, by the Rev. C. W. Schæffer, Mr. Jacob Booser to Miss Harriet C. Fackler, both of Middletown.

On Thursday, the 8th inst., by Rev. Mr. Cooper, Mr. Jacob Walters, to Miss Catherine Sieg, both of Harrisburg.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—At his residence, in Lewistown, on the 24th ult., Dr. John C. Reynolds, late Surgeon of the 1st Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers, in the 38th year of his age.

On the 27th of January, Sarah E. Sneedler, eldest daughter of William and Elmina Duncan, in the third year of her age.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

A protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, in the neighborhood of Stump's, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 5th of April.

The ministers and brethren of the neighboring churches are invited to attend.

The following Protracted Meetings will be held, Providence permitting, on the York County Circuit:

At Siddonstown, March 17th.

At the Cross Roads, March 24th.

Preachers, friends, and the public generally, are invited to attend.

S. Crawford.
D. Maxwell.

Shoemakers Wanted.

SEVERAL JOURNEYMEN SHOEMAKERS, of good moral character, can obtain employment at liberal prices, for from 1 to 12 months, by calling at the Shoe Store and Manufactory of JOHN KNOUSE, in Shepherdstown, Cumberland county, Pa.

Also—Several BOYS WANTED, to learn the art or trade of Shoe and Boot making, at the same place. JOHN KNOUSE.

McAllister's All-Healing Ointment,

OR THE

WORLD'S SALVE.

Contains NO MERCURY or other MINERAL.

From the Reading Eagle.

"There was never, perhaps a medicine brought before the public, that has in so short a time won such a reputation as "McAllister's All Healing or World's Salve."—Almost every person that has made trial of it, speaks warmly in its praise. One has been cured by it, of the most painful Rheumatism; another of the Piles, a third of a tronblesome pain in the side, a fourth of a swelling in the limbs, &c. If it does not give immediate relief in every case, it can never do injury, being applied outwardly. As another evidence of the wonderful healing power possessed by this salve, we subjoin the following certificate, from a respectable citizen of Maidencreek, township, in this county.

Maidencreek, Berks Co., March 30, '47.

Messrs. Ritter & Co.—I desire to inform you that I was entirely cnred of a severe pain in the back, by the nse of M'Allister's All-Healing Salve, which I purchased from you. I suffered with it about 20 years, and at night was unable to sleep. During that time I tried various remedies, which were prescribed for me by physicians and other persons, without receiving any relief, and at last made trial of this Salve with a result favorable beyond expectation. I am now entirely free from the pain, and enjoy at night a sweet and peaceful sleep. I have also used the salve since, for tooth ache and other complaints, with similar happy results. Your friend,

John Hollenbach."

I certify that I have used "M'Allisters All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, or the World's Salve," for a healing in a my wife's breast, which has done her incalculable benefit. Also, on one of my children for Sore Eyes, which gave immediate relief. I therefore recommend it as a good medicine, to all desirous of trying it. Parker Reed.

Morris tp., Wash. co., Aug. 21, 1847.

I certify that I have used McAllister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, for coldness of my feet—also for Rheumatism in my limbs, and Corns on my feet, and have been entirely relieved. Believing it to be a good medicine, I do not hesitate to recommend it in the above complaints. Leonard Vaile.

☞ Around the box are directions for using McAllister's Ointment for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Erysipelas, Tetter, Chilblain, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Nervous Affections, Pains, Disease of the Spine, Head Ache, Asthma, Deafness, Ear Ache, Burns, Corns, all Diseases of the Skin, Sore Lips, Pimples, &c.. Swelling of the limbs, Sores, Rheumatism, Piles, Cold Feet, Croup, Swelled or Broken Breast, Tooth Ache, Ague in the Face. &c., &c.

☞ This Ointment is good for any part of the body or limbs when inflamed. In some cases it should be applied often.

CAUTION—No OINTMENT will be genuine unless the name of James M'Allister, is written with a pen on every label.

☞ PRICE, 25 CENTS PER BOX. ☜

JAMES M'ALLISTER,

Sole Proprietor of the above Medicine.

Principal Office No. 28 North THIRD street, Philadelphia.

Agents: Geo. H. Bell, Harrisburg; M. Lutz, do.; Jacob Bener, Middletown; George Ross, Elizabethtown; M. M'Barren, Portsmouth; J. & L. Reigel, Mechanicsburg; G. W. Singiser, Churchtown; Smith & Henry, Lebanon; C. Roth, Bloomfield; Jacob Keiser, Petersburg; J. M. Beatty, Pottsville; Samuel P. Sterret, Mount Joy; Henry Thatcher, Newport; Wm. Jackson, New Buffalo; Brown & Ritter, Pittsburg; John Lloyd, Mount Pleasant; Jacob Welty, Greensburg; Edward Scull, Shippensburg; John Diller, Newville; and sold by our Agents in every town in the State.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,		$4	25	a 4	37
Do.	Rye, do. - -	2	50	a 2	62
Do.	Corn, do. - -	2	00	a 2	06
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,			90	a	95
Do.	Rye, do. - -		55	a	56
Do.	Corn, new do. - -		40	a	42
Do.	Oats, do. - -		26	a	28
Do.	Barley, do. - -		60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover,	do. - -	3	50	a 3	75
Do.	Timothy, do. - -	3	00	a 3	25
Do.	Flax, do. - -	1	00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -		5	00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - - -		5	00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -			9	a	10
BUTTER, do. - - - - -			15	a	18
LARD, do. - - - - -			7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -			8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.			6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -			10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -			40	a	42
ONIONS, do. - - -			75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -			25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.		1	25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -			37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -			30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -		1	50	a 1	56
HAY, per ton, - - - - -		12	00	a15	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -		4	00	a 4	50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,		$4	90	a 5	00
Do.	Rye, do. -	3	00	a 3	12
Do.	Corn, do. - -	2	50	a 2	60
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,		1	06	a 1	08
Do.	Rye, do. - -		66	a	68
Do.	Corn, new do. - -		55	a	56
Do.	Oats, do. - -		30	a	32
Do.	Barley, do. - -		75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover,	do. - -	3	50	a 4	00
Do.	Timothy, do. - -	2	75	a 3	00
Do.	Flax, do. - -	1	30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt., - - - -		7	00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - -		7	00	a 7	25

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in duo decimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Dow's Family Medicine.

As sundry persons, here and there, are beginning to complain of Bilious Fevers, Dysentery, Fever & Ague, &c., we would advise them to call and get Dow's Medicine, which is a most excellent remedy for these and other complaints.

For sale at the office of the Church Advocate. Price 50 cents per bottle. Aug. 1.

History of the Church of God.

The history of the Church of God in the United States, as contained in the History of Denominations is now published in pamphlet form, for distribution in cities and new places, where the principles of the Church are unknown. Price, 25 cents per dozen, and $1 50 per hundred.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

PROSPECTUS.

J. WINEBRENNER & CO. propose publishing, by subscription, a work entitled

A Pronouncing and Pictorial
Bible and Theological Dictionary.

1. This work shall contain a short but comprehensive explanation of all the principal Bible and Theological terms.

2. It shall give a Classical Pronunciation of the same, which has hitherto been a great desideratum in all similar works.

3. It will be embellished with numerous engravings, illustrative of ancient places, customs and things.

CONDITIONS.

1. The work will be about the size of the History of Denominations, containing about the same number of pages.

2. It shall be well printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at Two Dollars and fifty cents per copy, payable on the delivery of the same.

3. Whenever three thousand names shall have been procured by the different Agents, the work shall be put to press. A list of the names of subscribers shall be appended to the work.

P. S.—Fifty or more Agents wanted for the sale of the above, and the He Pasa Ekklesia.

☞ Any person sending us four good subscribers for the above work, and becoming responsible for the payment of the same, shall be entitled to one copy.

Agents Wanted.

SUITABLE persons can find employment for the sale of the "He Pasa Ekklesia," in this and other States. Apply to the Editor of the Advocate.

MRS. McNEALL'S FAMILY PILLS.

THESE celebrated Pills are prepared and sold by Mrs. McNeal, of Harrisburg, Pa. They are confidently recommended for the prevention and cure of Female Complaints, Sick Headache, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Costiveness, Boils, Eruptions of the Skin, Colic, Foul Stomach, Dysentery, Billious Complaints, Tape Worm, Nervous Diseases, Fevers, &c.

They are made of purely vegetable matter, and are in no case or stage of disease dangerous or hurtful; but always safe, easy and efficacious in the removal and cure of the aforenamed diseases, especially the first named, and all such as arise from a disordered stomach and impurities of the blood. These Pills have been in private use for many years, and are known to be good, as many in and about Harrisburg can testify. Recommendations and puffs have never been sought after. The merits of the Pills will be the best and the only recommendation relied on. Yet testimonials from many persons, in town and country, could easily be obtained, if required. There are 50 pills in each box.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.

Adults will take from one to five Pills about one hour after meal, once or twice a day; children, in proportion to their age, will take from one-half to two or three Pills.

For sale at her residence, Tanner's alley, in Walnut street, between Fourth and Fifth sts. Also, by Jacob Bener, Middletown; Abraham Brenneman, Elizabethtown; Jacob P. Brady and John Server, Mount Joy; John C. Landis, Landisville; Christian Kauffman, Washington; Pinkerton & Smeltz, Lancaster; Frederick May, Bainbridge; Mr. Boak, New Cumberland; J. Miller, Lisburn; T. Reeme, Shiremanstown; H. Lees, Mechanicsburg; Singiser & Paul, Churchtown; H. Hollar, Shippensburg; Mr. Reeme, Linglestown; Henry Wingart, Landisburg; Jno. Habensack, Broad Axe, Montgomery county; George K. Smith, No. 296 North 2d street, Philadelphia; J. P. Shoemaker, North 2d street, Philadelphia; and at this office.

Price, 25 cents per box.

P. S.—Mrs. McNeal also cures the Piles, Rheumatism, Wild-fire, Wounds, Sores, and Pains of all kinds, by words or otherwise, almost instantaneously. Terms moderate.

Mrs. McNeal's PILE SALVE is warranted to cure the Piles in an easy and speedy way. For sale as above. Price 25 cents.

Harrisburg, October 15, 1848.

TYPE FOR SALE.

THE Editor of the Advocate offers for sale the following fonts of type:

1. One font of second-hand Long Primer, weighing about 150 lbs., at 12½ cts. per pound.

2. One font of second-hand Brevier, weighing about 200 lbs., at 18¾ cents per pound.

3. One font of second-hand Small Pica, of from 150 to 200 lbs., in weight, at 15 cents per pound.

4. One font of German Pica, at 20 cents per puond.

5. Several small fonts of Agate and bold-faced Miniou, to suit purchasers, at 50 cents per pound.

COLPORTEURS WANTED.

THE Editor of this paper wishes to employ several good hands to act as Colporteurs for the sale of his works: such as the History of all Denominations, Wandering Soul, Treatise on Regeneration, German and English Testaments and Hymn books, together with several other choice and valuable books. Those who come well recommended can find immediate employment on liberal and accommodating terms.

Notice to Book-Agents.

This is to give notice to our book-agents not to sell any of our books on credit, except when they buy for cash, then they can do as they please. It does not suit us to give long credits. We are willing to accommodate all, provided we can have quick returns.

Editor.

BRENNEMAN'S DYSPEPTIC MEDICINE.

FREDERICK BRENNEMAN, near Maytown, Lancaster county, Pa., offers to his numerous friends and the public in general, a super excellent medicine, for the cure of Dyspepsia. Being opposed to puffs and quackery, he would merely say, read the following testimonials, and then, if you are Dyspeptic give the medicine a trial.

TESTIMONIAMS.

East Donegal, near Mount Joy.

The undersigned hereby certifies, that he was severely afflicted for five or six years, with Dyspepsia in its worst form; that he tried all kinds of remedies, or Dyspeptic medicines, far and near, but found no relief, until I used the medicine now prepared and sold by Frederick Brenneman, and by using three bottles and the Slippery Elm tea, I was entirely cured, and now am as well as ever.

SAMPSON M. REESE.

Maytown, Lancaster county, Pa.

I Abraham Rife, residing in Maytown, Lancaster county, do hereby certify, that I was sorely afflicted with Dyspepsia for a long time, unably to do any work. I tried sundry medicines without any effect, till I used Brenneman's Dyspeptic Medicine, three bottles of which cured me. The symptoms in my case were such as are common to similar cases, such as Indigestion, Oppression of the Stomach, Giddiness, Flatuleney, Costiveness, Depression of Spirits, &c., &c. I do cordially recommend it as a good medicine.

Marietta, Lancaster county, Pa.

I the undersigned do hereby testify, that I was Dyspeptic for some time, not able to attend to my business, and by using two bottles of F. Brenneman's Dyspeptic Medicine, I was perfectly cured. I have no hesitation in recommanding it as an excellent medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia.

PETER LONG.

To these, many other certificates might be added, but it is deemed unnecessary. A trial of the medicine will be the best, and the only necessary testimonial. It is also a good remedy for Cramps, Cholics, and virious diseases of the stomach and bowels.

Directions for using the Medicine.

Take from a teaspoonful to a tablespoonfut three times a day, half an hour before meal time. Children in proportion. Use the Slippery Elm tea as a common drink. To a handful of the bark, add one quart of water, hot or cold, and use it freely. (Jan1.)

PETERS' CHEAP BOOKSTORE

No. 22, Market Street, Harrisburg.

THE public are respectfully informed that the undersigned are now the proprietors of the Book Store and Printing Establishment of the late G. S. Peters, deceased; and that they have added to the former stock a large assortment of BOOKS in the various branches of Literature: among which are Religious, Medical, Historical and Miscellaneous Books; besides all kinds of

SCHOOL BOOKS

and Writing Materials, used by Scholars; all of which will be sold at the lowest Cash prices by the dozen, or single. Also, for sale a large assortment of such as Bibles, Testaments, Prayer-books, Hymn-books, Reading and Spelling-books, Toy-books, &c. &c. Besides,

GERMAN BOOKS;

Kunst's English and German Dictionary,

a very valuable work, particularly for those desirous of studying either language.

Store-keepers, Pedlars, Teachers and others, who wish to purchase Books, &c., by the quantity, will find it their interest to give us a call. LUTZ & SCHEFFER.

December 15, 1848.—1y.

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

J. B. G. KINSLOE, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIII. HARRISBURG, Pa., APRIL 2, 1849. NUMBER 23.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

New Subscribers for Volume XIV.

These are beginning to come in, but we hope they will be much increased between this and the first of May, when the new volume will commence. We hope our agents, the preachers and others, will be diligent and active in canvassing their respective fields of labor, and gather up all the new subscribers they can find, between this and the first of May next.

Our Next Volume.

Our next and 14th Volume will commence, Providence permitting, on the first of May. And we ask, is it too much to say? we hope to start with a greater and better list of subscribers than the paper has ever had since its commencement. If our agents and friends will not wholly neglect effort on their part, we shall entertain no fears on this subject. We are pleased to find that the Advocate is gaining friends, favor and popularity among the people.

The Express Packet Line.

The Express Line of Packet Boats commenced their regular trips between Harrisburg and Pittsburg on Monday, the 19th ult., and have since been running regularly, pretty well filled with passengers. The boats are all re-fitted, painted and furnished anew; the captains are accommodating and gentlemanly men, and no more pleasant and convenient mode of travel can be found. The line connects with the Railroad Eagle Line of Cars for Philadelphia at this place.

Celerotype.

This instrument is said to be one of the most astonishing inventions in this age of discoveries. It is used for taking portraits, and is a substitute for the old Daguerreotype. The portraits taken by this machine, are said to be far superior, in point of tone and finish, to those taken by the Daguerreotype process.

Sudden Death.

Henry Haldeman, Esq. of Bainbridge, Lancaster county, was found dead in his bed, on the morning of the 21st ult., at the residence of his brother, Jacob M. Haldeman, of this borough. The deceased was in the enjoyment of his usual health when he retired to bed the evening before.

Ether Discovery.

The Committee of Congress to whom was referred the snbject of compensation for the ether discovery, has just made its report, awarding the credit to Dr. W. T. G. Morton, of Boston. The report states that Drs. Jackson and Morton appeared personally before the committee, the former also with counsel, and that more than a month has been spent in a thorough examiuation of the subject.

Biographical Letters.

These letters are now coming in with encouraging and creditable celerity, so that we entertain some confident hopes of success in obtaining the requisite sketches for the work; but as to the requisite number of subscribers, we are still held in uncertainty.

In order then to expedite the publication of this work, we again respectfully urge our brethren to write out their letters with all possible expedition, and to be expert and persevering in ascertaining what number they can, or will pledge themselves to sell; and then the Committee can soon take measures to put the work to press.

Advance Pay—Our Terms.

Those of our subscribers who want the Advocate for ONE DOLLAR a year, will please to bear in mind, that payment must be made before the first of May. After that date, the terms require $1 25 till the first of August, and after that $1 50. Hence let every one mind his own interest: and those who do not, will please not to blame us, when we exact pay in strict accordance with the terms of the paper. We have said thus much heretofore, and yet when some of our patrons come to pay for the paper after the commencement of the volume, they still want it at the rate of advance pay. Now we want it distinctly understood, our terms are our only rule, and that these will and must be adhered to.

Abolition in Cayenne.

Slavery has been abolished in Cayenne. The blacks assembled in thousands and thanked God and the Governor for liberty.

The Adams County Member.

The special election for a member of the House of Representatives in Adams county, held on Friday, the 16th ult., resulted in the election of William M'Sherry. Mr. M'Sherry took his seat in the House of Representatives on Wednesday, the 20th ult.

Pay your Preachers.

The time is now at hand for the preachers to change their fields of labor, according to the appointments of the Eldership. Now, therefore, it becomes the churches to pay their preachers the full amount of their salary, and not suffer one of them to go off in debt. "The laborer is worthy of his hire." "Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn."

Homoeopathic College.

The first Commencement of the Homœopathic College of Pennsylvania, for conferring medical degrees, took place in Philadelphia, on Thursday evening, the 15th ult., at the hall of this institution, in Arch street, below Seventh. Addresses were delivered on the occasion by the President, Hon. A. V. Parsons, and Prof. Matthews. A large audience was in attendance, and the exercises were of an exceedingly interesting character. The College commences under very fair auspices, and will, doubtless, increase in prosperity from year to year.

Appointments.

Brother A. D. Williams, from Clinton, N. Y., will preach at the following places, Providence permitting, in order as follows, viz:

Lancaster, Thursday evening, April 12th.
Washington, Friday " " 13th.
Mount Joy, (day and evening,) Sunday, April 15th.
Elizabethtown, Monday evening, April 16th.
Bainbride, Tuesday " " 17th.
Middletown, Wednesday " " 18th.
Shiremanstown, Thursday " " 19th.
Mechanicsburg, Friday " " 20th.
Harrisburg, Sunday, (day and evening.) April 22d.
Milltown, Monday evening, April 23d.
Linglestown, Tuesday evening, April 24th.

N. B. The brethren of the aforesaid churches will please to receive and assist brother Williams as it becometh saints. As he travels by public conveyance, he will, of course, be dependent on the brethren for private conveyance to all such places as he cannot reach, conveniently, by public conveyance.

Adjournment of the Legislature.

On Saturday, the 17th ult., the House took up and passed the resolution, which had previously passed the Senate, for the final adjournment of the Legislature on Tuesday, the 10th of April.

Proposals for Chaplains.

The adjutant-general of the United States army advertises for twenty ministers, to fill certain posts as Chaplains. They will be required to act as schoolmaster, and receive daily rations and 40 dollars per month. Portions of them are to be sent to Oregon, California, Santa Fe, and Texas.

Harrisburg Manufacturing Company.

The bill to incorporate the Harrisburg Manufacturing Company, passed the House of Representatives on the 15th ult., with an amendment imposing a tax of one per cent. on its capital stock—which tax is to be applied by the Auditor General exclusively to the payment of the loans of the State. The vote on the final passage of the bill was forty nine to eighteen.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

Book and Job Printing.

We wish our friends not to forget us when they have Book or Job Printing to do. If they will patronize us we shall be happy to accommodate them on moderate and liberal terms. All kinds of Job Work attended to, such as Handbills, Cards, Circulars, Pamphlets, Books &c., &c. Please give us a call.

Newspaper Postage.

In pursuance of the provisions of an act of Congress of 3rd March, 1849, the Post Master General has issued a circular to Post Masters, in which is contained the following paragraph in relation to transient newspapers:

Transient newspapers (that is, papers not sent from the office of publication.) will hereafter be subject, in virtue of the act aforesaid, to the general newspaper postage rate only; that is, one cent for any distance in the same State, and one and a half cent for any distance exceeding one hundred miles, where the newspaper is sent from one State into another. But postage on such newspapers is in all cases to be pre-paid, as heretofore.

Mr. Clay on Emancipation.

Mr. Clay has written a long letter in favor of emancipating the slaves in Kentucky, fixing a period after which all should be born free. The period suggested by Mr. Clay is 1855 or 1860, and the age 25 years, after which each individual should be hired out by the State for three years to provide the means to send him to the Colony, and to support him six months after he reaches it. He supposes there would not be many more than 5000 to transport the first year after the plan goes fully into operation, and that number could be easily transported.

The United Brethren.

This body seems still intent upon establishing an institution. The bill to charter the Otterbein University has passed the Ohio Legislature; and at the last meeting of Allegheny Conference, the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That Nathaniel Black be elected Traveling agent for the contemplated institution of Learning, during the ensuing year, to solicit subscriptions and collect what is subscribed, and receive his salary out of the funds collected.

Resolved, That we, the members of this Conference, use our influence in favor of the Institution of Learning above mentioned.

A Breach in the Church of England.

The withdrawal of the Rev. Baptist Noel from the Church of England, is producing an immense excitement, and will, no doubt, result in a division of the Church or the entire separation of Church or State. Mr. Noel was one of the most pious as well as most talented and distinguished of the English clergy. He was one of the Queen's chaplains, and his name was associated with every great enterprize for the advancement of true godliness without regard to sectarian names or party interests. Mr. Noel has published a book, an octavo of 600 pages, assigning his reasons for seceding, and so great was the excitement in the public mind that the entire edition of 3000 was sold on the day it was issued. Other editions have been struck and still the demand is not supplied. It is said, that in several towns public meetings are held, at which the work is read, chapter by chapter, to large and eager assemblies.

The Pope Deposed.

The formal deposition of the Pope, by the Assembly, at Rome, on the 9th of February, was a most important event. Following this, was the adoption of a republican form of government. Below is the decree of the Assembly, passed by an almost unanimous vote:

Art. 1. The papedom has fallen, in fact as well as in law, from the temporal Government of the Roman States.

Art. 2. The Roman pontiff will enjoy all the guarantees necessary to the independence of the exercise of his spiritual power.

Art. 3. The form of Government of the Roman State will be pure democracy; and will take the glorious name of the Roman Republic.

Art. 4. The Roman Republic will have, with the rest of Italy, the relations which a common nationality requires.

Religious Freedom in Mexico.

We observe, says an exchange paper, that some of the soundest statesmen in the republic are taking sides in behalf of religious freedom. Among them is Pena y Pena, the late acting President, and, beyond all question, the ablest statesman in Mexico. Otero, also a prominent member of Herrera's cabinet, is pressing the subject on the people with signal ability. Rosa, the Mexican Minister at Washington, arrays himself among the advocates of religious reform. The leading press in the Capital, the Monitor, has declared itself strongly in favor of toleration. Its influence is very great, and its arguments cannot pass unheeded. Even Herrera, who has long sustained the clergy, and been a favorite of theirs, is exerting his power in behalf of the religious emancipation of his countrymen.

Aerial Navigation.

A company in New York are now seriously talking of carrying into practical effect this splendid idea which has so long floated in the imaginations of sanguine inventists. The fourth of July is the day set for starting to California with 100 passengers. A model of the machine was exhibited in the Tabernacle, in New York, a few days ago, on which the Tribune says: "The Tabernacle was filled last night by a crowd anxious to hear the lecture and see the operation of the new Æriai Locomotive. The model, which was about ten feet in length, was tolerably successful. Sometimes it would get too near the gas lights of the gallery, and once or twice it was in danger from the canes of meddling spectators. It did not make a complete circle through the air, but obeyed the rudder with sufficient exactness to show the practicability of the plan. We understand that a machine of sufficient size to carry two or three persons is now being constructed. This would test the matter thoroughly."

OBITUARY OF Brother HENRY SMITH.

Departed this life, after a short but severe illness, at his residence at Middletown, Dauphin county, Pa., on the 23d of February, 1849, Mr. Henry Smith, aged 56 years, 10 months and 13 days.

His death was calm, peaceful and triumphant—his hopes were strong, and his faith clung fast to his Redeemer. His great concern of mind appeared to be in behalf of the salvation of his children, and he earnestly exhorted them to repentance, and importuned a throne of grace in their behalf. When speaking of his hope, his soul would break out in exclamations of "Glory to God for the hope, the blessed hope."

Brother Smith embraced the Saviour in the great revival of religion in Middletown, in the Winter of 1836, and soon after put on Christ in baptism, and united with the "Church of God" in that place; since which time he has continued a member until his death, walking in the ordinances of God's house, and as we hope, has left the church militant to join the church triumphant above; therefore,

"Why should we mourn departed friends,
Or shake at death's alarms;
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends,
To call them to his arms."

OBITUARY OF Brother DAVID LINGLE.

Died, at his residence in this place, on Tuesday, the 13th of March, 1849, brother David Lingle, aged 67 years, 2 months and 11 days.

Brother Lingle was one of the oldest and most respectable inhabitants of Harrisburg. He was a native of Hanover township, Dauphin county; but settled in this place in his youth, where he resided ever since, leading an humble and peaceable life, and bearing an excellent and irreproachable character.

In his youth he made a profession of religion, and when the Church of God was first established in this Borough, in the year 1825, he was chosen one of its elders, in which office he served for a long number of years.

He was also chosen a member of the Board of the Printing establishment in the year 1839 and bore a double share of the troubles, responsibilities and losses of the same.

His last illness, which was phthisic and chest affection, he bore with Christian and exemplary patience; and expressed a strong faith and a good hope through grace, that when his earthly house of this tabernacle should dissolve, that then he would have a building of God, a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens. He has left a wife and five children—three sons and two daughters, to bemoan the loss of an affectionate husband, and a kind and indulgent parent. On Thursday, the 15th, his remains were interred in the Harrisburg Cemetery.

There may his mortal body rest,
Till the last trump shall sound;
Then rise in triumph from the grave,
And be with glory crowned.

Legislation for Seven Day Baptists.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania have passed an Act exempting the Seven Day Baptists from the penalties annexed to the law requiring cessation from labor on the first day of the week. This Act is strongly disapproved of, and pronounced "manifestly inconsistent" by the editor of the "Christian Chronicle," a Baptist paper published in Philadelphia.

This is rather a harsh judgment. We are no Sabbatarian, yet we think the editor more manifestly incousistent than the Legislature. For among other things he says, "we think they (the Seven Day Baptists) have a perfect right to believe as they do, and to act as their belief prompts, so long as argument cannot convince them of their error."

Now all that the Legislature has done in the Act referred to, is to allow them the right to "act as their belief prompts." If this, then, is the glaring and manifest inconsistency complained of by the aforesaid editor, we must confess that his perceptive faculties do far exceed ours.

But again he says, "we do not believe that it is the province of Legislative bodies to settle theological questions, such as that which divides the Sabbatarians from other bodies of Christians; and to pronounce one party to be right, and to condemn the other as wrong."

Here we think the editor is no nearer right than before. Has the Pennsylvania Legislature, by the Act in question, assumed the prerogative to settle a theological question between Sabbatarians and other denominations? And have they thereby pronounced one right and the other wrong? If they have, we confess we are too dark to comprehend the light.

So far then from blaming the Legislature, and pronouncing their Act as inconsistent, we commend them for their high-minded, anti-sectarian and tolerant spirit, as exhibited in this Act exempting the Seven Day Baptists from the pains and penalties of our Sunday laws.

But we should like to see the Legislature do one thing more in reference to our Sunday laws, and that is to pass an Act requiring our public peace officers, under a heavy penalty, to enforce our Sabbath laws against every citizen whose conduct, on the Sabbath, contradicts his faith. There is much greater inconsistency in suffering our Sabbath laws to be violated with impunity, than to exempt conscientious men from penalties, the propriety and justice of which, their religious belief forbids them to recognize and admit.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Correspondence.—No. 6.

Clinton, N. Y., March 5th, 1849.

Season for Revivals—Mistaken ideas—Scarcity of Revivals—How this may be accounted for—Revival at Whitestown Seminary—Some account of it—Theological Department—Gentlemen's and Ladies' Literary Departments—Particulars, &c.

The season of year has arrived when we usually look for and expect revivals. Somehow it happens that Christians almost universally imbibe the idea that revivals have a sort of periodicity; and hence appear well nigh astonished at the conception of a revival at any other than the expected season of the year. According to this idea, which to be sure is unexpressed and indefinite, either God or man must be in some manner restricted to times and seasons. It would be well for all to divest themselves of this indeterminate but powerful prejudice. Revivals might then perhaps be more extensively prevalent.

But however this might be; in these parts, even the season when revivals are generally expected is rapidly passing away with but few of these merciful manifestations of Divine goodness and grace. It is but here and there that good men and angels are permitted to rejoice over the conversion of sinners. To account for this state of things upon any hypothesis of external circumstances, would be utterly futile; and even the most rigid Calvinist would not dare to affirm that it is the result of any deficiency in the arrangements or fullness of Divine grace. I can only be the want of a clear and practical exhibition of the cardinal doctrine of Christianity—Salvation only by faith in Jesus Christ; and the increasing hardness and obduracy of the carnal heart.

Almost the only exception near here to this sad state of things, is at our Seminary at Whitestown, in this (Oneida) county. Something of a revival is going on there, gradually but efficiently. Indeed, since its first establishment, eight years since, scarcely a term has passed away without more or less conversions. Parents have been known to send their children there especially on this account, and to find their hopes happily realized in their conversion. Many a young man and young woman, going there strangers to God and enemies to his cause, have returned to bless the world with a Christian example, and the devotion of their energies to the Cross of Christ. The writer remembers a classmate, talented and accomplished, but a confirmed infidel. Many a time did we converse—he to revile Christ and his Gospel, and I to fruitlessly urge its claims. But before the term closed he was a professing, and I doubt not, an humble Christian.

Having spoken of it, a brief account of this institution may not be entirely devoid of interest. It is under the direction of the Free-will Baptists, and has three specific departments, a Theological, a Gentlemen's, and a Ladies' departments. The faculty of the former, consists of Moses M. Smart, A. M. Professor of Greek and Hebrew, Mental and Moral Philosophy, History, Biblical Criticism and Interpretation; and John J. Butler, A. M. Professor of Christian Theology, Rhetoric, Logic, Homiletics and Pastoral Duties. In addition, Lectures are delivered by some experienced Minister each term. Students are admitted from any evangelical denomination to all the advantages of the Seminary; and the full course occupies a period of three years, though students are admitted at any stage of the course, or preparatory to the regular course, or even to pursue a partial course, as circumstances demand. Tuition, room rent and libraries are free to all the members of this department; and text books to a considerable extent, are furnished for use from the libraries. The object of the instruction is to make the Bible the manual, defence and weapon of the Christian minister—to provide him as far as practicable with a full knowledge of its doctrines, spirit and claims; and to furnish him with means to defend it against the assaults of infidelity and the world of darkness. In short, to teach him to go forth with the Bible and the power of the Spirit, to persuade men to be reconciled to God.

The two literary departments are under the government of the same faculty, and recite together; but in all other respects are entirely separate—occupying different buildings. The faculty are John Fullonton, A. M. Teacher of the Advanced Class in the Languages and Mathematics; Samuel Farnham, A. M. Principal, and Teacher of Languages; James S. Gardner, Teacher of Mathematics and Natural Sciences, and Miss Catharine P. Hill, Teacher of French, Drawing and Painting. Besides these, there are Teachers of Vocal and Instrumental Music and Penmanship.

The Advanced Class corresponds to the Freshman Class in College, and pursue the corresponding studies. Others are at liberty to pursue any branch of Science, Mathematics, Classics, French or the Ornamental Branches at their option; though the studies are so arranged that those who desire it can pursue a regular course. A Teacher's Class is formed at the opening of each Fall term, and receives daily instruction in all the branches of education requisite to a thorough preparation for teaching. Frequent Lectures upon literary and scientific subjects are delivered by the teachers and professional men. The Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus is very extensive, and the libraries contain about twenty-five hundred volumes.

The location is beautiful, being rural, and yet near enough to the city (3 miles from Utica) to secure all its advantages without its disadvantages. The Buildings are commodious, and the expenses light. The number of students now in attendance is about 25 in the Theological Department, and 125 in the two Literary Departments. A. D. W.

Prospects at Maytown.

If in any neighborhood attempts should be made to prevent the dissemination of the truths of the Gospel, and if at the same time and place there are such that delight to see piety flourish, will not these impediments cause a holy zeal in that people to build for God's cause a house of worship, especially if that people have the wherewithal to do it? Such we understand has been, or will be, the result of the untiring opposition made by some, against the cause of religion at Maytown.

To oppose a good cause is like pouring oil on fire; the first effect may be a slight extinguishment of the flame, but it will soon reblaze with redoubled vigor. Did persecution for righteousness sake ever injure a Church or people? Did not the blood of Martyrs cause the Church to flourish more? Christianity is like fire of an unquenchable kind; as fast as it is extinguished in one place, it bursts forth with terrific glory in another; and the wicked are alarmed and discomfited at its prosperity. You cannot arrest the arm of God.

But what we view through the dark vista of futurity, and seems apparently within our grasp, may possibly yet fade into nothing, like many other sublunary things; hence we press and press the subject, again and again, until the object in view is accomplished. To this end, action and speedy action is certainly demanded. Then the work will triumph; to sit idly is to let the matter fall. Haste then, and heaven's best benison will crown the noble effort.

Of the liberality and piety of the people of Maytown the writer will say nothing; but judging from what we have heard, their generosity will be manifested in this matter; and a desire for piety will be equally shown in the happy and permanent conversion of many. During the next month we suspect the work will be commenced, and during the summer perfected. Energetic movements are only needed to carry on and complete any project, and so we trust it will be in the erection of a Bethel at Maytown.

AN OBSERVER.

March 22d, 1849.

A Word for the Bible.

BY S. E. BUTLER.

Continued from our last.

In proof of all we have said and shown, let me in conclusion adduce two striking instances from very opposite spheres of life, to show how suitable is the salvation of the Gospel to every rank and every circumstance.

Such then was the blessed influence of Divine truth on one of the most favored of the human race to whom Providence had granted my footsteps in a foreign country; an only cherished and dying nephew. Having relieved the pressing wants of the body, I was led to talk to him about his soul, and I bade him, in his sufferings, look to Jesus, who had suffered so much to redeem us from everlasting woe.—While I was speaking of the Saviour, the poor creature wept like a child. But they were not tears of bitterness; a ray of cheerfulness seemed to beam through them. They were tears such as flow when others speak kindly of those we love. Taking my hand tenderly he pressed it to his lips and said in his broken dialect: "Tankee, my good massa: tankee more for this Jesus is my Saviour and my God; him keep me in all my sickness: and Jesus make me no fear death."

Such too was its blessed influence upon the mind of a dear lamented youth, born to move in a high sphere of life, and heir to brilliant worldly prospects; who sojourned for awhile amongst us, while it was my province to watch over his education. Rare was his talent, and still rarer his integrity and good will. The bosom throbs and the tears fall, at the recollection of the bright promise on which the tomb so early closed. Short, however, as was his earthly career, he did not live in vain. He lived to realize religion; to avow, before his departure, his entire reliance on the merits of Jesus Christ for salvation; placing no dependence on the purity of his own life, but looking simply to Christ, and to him crucified. All his hopes were founded on this rock, and he found it a rock in his time of need. Supported and cheered by this all sufficient Saviour, he was enabled to resign all his bright hopes in life,—give up the world without a sigh, and calmly and peacefully depart to be with Christ.

In the hour of pining sickness, and in the near approach of death, he addressed these memorable words to one whose salvation he anxiously sought to promote—words which I pray may be engraven on the heart of every reader: "Read the Bible: It is the Bible to which I would direct your attention. All my support is derived from that Holy Book."

Notice to the Brethren in Ohio.

LANDISBURG, March 16, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

In perusing the last number of the Advocate, I saw something from brother A. Megrew, of the Ohio Eldership, relative to brother H. L. Soule and myself emigrating to the West this Spring; in response to which I would inform brother A. Megrew, and the brethren of the Circuit, that it is our intention to come, if no intervening providence prevent.

We design starting for that place, if possible, the first day of April, or as early in April as we can arrange our affairs.

We wish to tarry a few days in the city of Pittsburg, with the brethren, and if they will permit us, and the Lord will assist, we will try to preach for them, and then proceed on to our place of destination, or field of labor.

Yours fraternally,

THOMAS H. DESHIRI.

Acts of the Standing Committee.

At a meeting of the Standing Committee of the Ohio Eldership, held at Wooster, the following items of business were transacted:

1. A. Megrew's request was granted, to be released from his charge the coming year, in consequence of his ill health, provided some missionary station we are looking for, will come from the East to fill his vacancy.

2. Inasmuch as A. Megrew wishes to travel as a Missionary, and labor what he can; therefore,

Resolved, That the support of the Wooster Church be given to him, by the consent of the church, but the appointment to be included in the circuit and under the charge of the circuit preachers.

3. Brothers Deshiri and Soule were appointed to the Wooster circuit.

4. The church at Dalton, and the appointment at West Lebanon were given to the Wooster circuit, by the request of A. Holms.

JOHN BEIDLER,
DAVID BAKER,
SETH HOLLINGER,
A. MEGREW,
Committee.

Letter from Brother Levi Merkel.

NEAR SHIREMANSTOWN, Pa., March 6th, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

ENCLOSED I send you the money for my paper for next year, and with it a few thoughts for your readers.

The subject I feel to be at, is to show some of the daily spiritual work a Christian should be engaged in. The heart may be compared to a garden, and we all know the work to be two-fold; first, destroying and keeping down weeds; secondly, planting and cultivating useful plants. These plants may be the fruit of the spirit, as brought to view by the Apostle Paul in his letter to the Galations: "Love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." These, and all the other Christian graces ought to be daily cherished and exercised, in order to promote their growth and vigor.

But a most important work in Horticultnre, is the keeping down weeds. Now, to carry out my simple comparison, what may we understand by the weeds in a spiritual sense? I might say the works of the flesh, as brought to view by the same Apostle, and as directly the opposite of the fruits of the spirit. But I will name one special weed, which the same Apostle designates the root of all evil, and if it be the root of all evil, it is evident that as wise men and women, professing godliness, we ought to make a powerful effort by grace, not only to discover whether this dreadful root is to any extent in our hearts, but also when so discovered, we ought daily, by self mortification and fervent prayer, wrestle with God to overcome and destroy the same. And this root is called by the Apostle, "The love of money," or according to Luther's translation, "Covetousness."

Now other weeds are bad enough. A bird may fly over the garden and drop the seed of some weed. In the winter season, when the earth is covered with a crusted snow, the wind may carry the seed of weeds for miles, and they may lodge in the garden. But the industrious gardener soon discovers when such seeds vegetate and spring up, and destroys the same.

The figure, however, employed by the Apostle to represent this weed, is a root, which may be deep in the ground, difficult to extract, not visible to the eye. First hard to discover, and secondly, when discovered, it is hard to destroy; because roots, in extending, may break off, and the main root, having branches, may remain in the ground. So it is spiritually. Covetousness, or this inordinate love of money, may lie deep in the heart, concealed, perhaps covered over with some selfish deeds of charity or alms giving. The same covetous principle may prompt one brother to lay up his money, and prompt another to contribute to a limited extent towards charitable objects. The one may glory too much in his possessions, the other in the praise of men. One is willing to sacrifice ease and comfort in order to accumulate riches; the other will sacrifice some money in order to gratify his natural propensity of enjoying ease, indolence and the luxuries of life. The former may perhaps censure the latter for being prodigal, when at the same time the latter may censure the former for being penurious. So the external conduct may appear very diverse one from the other but the same root may lie at the bottom of their actions in both cases.

Perhaps some may justify themselves on the ground that they have but little money, or riches in their possession, and therefore this root cannot be found in their hearts. But such should remember that it is neither money, nor riches in itself that constitutes this root of all evil, but the LOVE of money, and DESIRE for riches. And it appears that the Apostle had in view, especially, that class who are desiring riches when he saith, "They that will be rich," &c.

May the Lord aid us all, to examine ourselves daily, and by his grace have our hearts cleansed and purged from the last remnant of this root. And fervently may we pray with David in the 19th Psalm: "Cleanse thou me from secret faults."

Your unworthy brother,
LEVI MERKEL.

Letter from Brother Henry Murray.

STARK COUNTY, Ohio, Feb. 13, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I ONCE more resume my pen in order to drop a few lines for the columns of the Advocate, which you may publish if you see proper.

I commenced a meeting at brother Markley's, in Portage county, which continued eight days, in which time I preached eleven sermons. The result was, that the few who are for God in that place, were encouraged, whilst others were made to feel by the force of truth, but unwilling to improve the present, desired a more convenient season, which they perhaps, like many others, may never be permitted to enjoy. I closed the meeting, bade them farewell, and returned home.

The second meeting which I held, was in Berlin, five miles North of Canton. The meeting was to be what some would call a union meeting, but when brother S., was made sensible that we did not wish to labor for men or parties, but for God, he stated to an unconverted person that he did not think he would trouble us much. So much for that man, yet he wants to be a unionist. However, I commenced the meeting with the little church in Berlin and vicinity. We continued the meeting for nine days, and I preached nine times, and brother Jonathan West three times. The meeting resulted in three conversions, who are elderly and established persons.

On the last evening of the meeting, we attended to the ordinances of God's house, namely: the breaking of bread, and washing of the saints feet, at which time I think we realized the fulfilment of the promise given, "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them;" after which I gave an opportunity to those who wished to unite with the church. There were eight came forward, and evinced their willingness to unite with the church in fellowship, and to abandon all sectarian operations, and assume the new name which the mouth of the Lord has given. May God abundantly bless them.

The third meeting was held in Uniontown, Stark county, Ohio. The result of this meeting was as follows: two I trust were hopefully converted to God, and both were baptized according to the ancient mode, which was by immersing the whole body under water, and immediately raising it out again. There were also two accessions to the church. The brethren and sisters were much revived and greatly encouraged, while there were others who attended and appeared as if they had as much religion as St. Paul, and seemed to be deeply interested in the meeting. Some of them were heard to shout as some would suppose for joy, but, perhaps, some of them are such as are governed more by feeling than by principle: for when we tried to urge the necessity of acting from principle, and not to make our feelings or conscience a guide, seeing the Word is the rule or Christian's map, their shouts were turned into mutterings, and their joy into grief. This, among other evils, is becoming very prevalent in Ohio.

There is another great evil amongst us, that might be mentioned, namely, Lotteries. First, they are a curse to the country; secondly, a hindrance to the progress of religion. I speak as to wise men, judge ye what I say. Again, these things are the means of creating hard feelings amongst neighbors, and more than that, they sometimes lead to hard blows. This I learned, to my sorrow, was the case of the two lotteries that were drawn lately, which continued three days, the result was as follows: Some were so filled with intoxicating liquors that the dram seller became ashamed of them; yet they were his customers, and he had to bear with them a long time. At last, however, he had to turn his brethren out of doors, after he had got their money. Again, others were heard to blaspheme the name of their Maker, and curse their neighbors, whilst others were engaged in bruising each others faces.

Now, I ask, did God create man to engage in such evils? I answer, no. Yet these were all engaged in during the process of our meeting in Uniontown. Who is to blame? I answer: the maker, seller, buyer, loser and gainer, are all to blame. Yet some of my so called brethren can engage in the above mentioned evils, with a conscience, they say, void of offence. O! that God might enable them to see the harm they are doing themselves and the cause, and seek to do so no more.

I think the above mentioned evils militated somewhat against our meeting in Uniontown: yet, upon the whole, it was good, and I have no doubt if I could have had some one to assist me in preaching, so that the meeting could have been continued, there would have been much more good done. But, having preached thirteen times, and become very hoarse, in consequence of a bad cold, I was under the necessity of breaking up the meeting, for which I was sorry.

Yours truly,
HENRY MURRAY.

Letter from Elder J. M. Klein.

VENANGO COUNTY, March 1st 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

ONCE more, in the providence of God, I am permitted to write for the paper, and through that medium say a few things for the encouragement of the pious and good.

I, for one, have reason to be grateful to the Great Head of the Church, for the intimations of his presence, notwithstanding the spiritual dearth and apathy in some parts of God's vineyard. There has been some good done in different places. At Fayetteville, Mercer co., the number of disciples have been increased since my last letter to you. Many sinners have sought the Lord, with strong crying and tears, and a goodly number have found him precious to their souls; there are yet, however, many left to mourn an absent love. The church in the above place, numbers near fifty members. The converts are spiritual and obedient. Notwithstanding the extreme cold weather, the ice has been cut at different times, and old and young followed their Lord and Master down into the watery tomb. This I love to see. They are also enterprising enough to go on with their little Bethel. It is a neat little frame, and will be completed, Providence permitting, early in the summer, when it will be dedicated to the worship of God.

The church in this place, has also shared in the refreshings from the Lord. Some few have been restored to her fellowship during a few months past. A meeting is now in progress—two weeks have passed since its commencement, and although the enemy has spared no pains to tempt and discourage the people of God, yet they have gained the victory so far, that the cries of the penitents have been heard for several nights past.

On last night nine were forward at the altar of prayer. Some few have found peace since the meeting began. Oh! how solemn to hear the cries and the prayers of the mourners, and how cheering to see the converts praying to and praising God. Our meetings are warm and spiritual, and I hope and pray that this state of things may continue until the people of this neighborhood will become pious Christians. May the Lord bless his people, and keep them faithful.

The present Eldership year is almost come to a close, and my labors as pastor will be done. Many of the brethren have asked what I would do the coming year? Well, as one has said, if God permit, I will pray more, live holier, and preach harder than before. Although I have no appointment from the Eldership, this will not prevent me from doing so. My desire has been to emigrate some distance from this.

During this winter brother Hoves and I have traveled and labored together. Our appointments therefore have been far apart. He (brother H.) is now on the route. May the Lord bless and prosper him. I shall soon follow him and preach my last round to the brethren. I hope the churches will remember brother H. in his last visit, for he is worthy. I love him for his piety and sincerity, and I have reason to believe he will become useful, if he keeps humble.

My mind is still troubled about books. Not less than thirty Hymn Books are wanted in one church, while others are destitute. Some few books were brought here by brother Hickernell, or I should have been entirely out. In this church, singing, which is an important part of devotion, is much injured for this want. But I must close. More by and by.

Yours, in the Gospel,
J. M. KLEIN.

REMARKS.—Brother Klein and others who may want Hymn Books, or other works of our own publication, will please send to Elder Jacob Myers of Allegheny city, or Joseph A. Dobson, Pittsburg. EDITOR.

Letter from Elder T. Hickernell.

DARK CO., Ohio, March 1st, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

HAVING a few leisure moments, I will embrace the present opportunity of letting you know that I have nearly passed around the Southern district or part of my Circuit.

I preached in the neighborhood of Samuel Anderson, on the 16th of February. The day previous I was to see father Kinsinger, for the first time, expecting to fill an appointment, but there was none given out. On the 17th and 18th I preached to very small congregations, on Pretty Prairies, in a Baptist meeting house, close by brother David Kinsinger's.

On the 19th I preached near Addison, in the neighborhood of brothers Strock and Wiley's, to a large congregation of people. Here I found all well, and by what I have heard, there were a number of people deeply affected at the meeting that I recently held there.

On the 20th I preached to a full school house 1½ miles below Dayton. I stopped all night with brother Higas, and found them in tolerable spirits. I left another appointment for that place, the 30th of April, and probably I shall then also preach in the city of Dayton, the evening of the 1st of May, provided a house can be obtained. I trust the brethren will not be disappointed in their calculations about the matter.

On the 21st I preached at Sharpsburg, in a wagon maker's shop, and tarried all night with the owner of the same; yet I had put up with father Winters, recently from Smithville, Ohio. On the evening following I preached to a large congregation near Pyrmount, in a school house near brother George Hutton's. On the day following I went to Euphema, and put up with brother Matthew Megrew.

On the 24th, father Ross, who was originally a minister of the M. E. church, met me in the neighborhood of the Huttons', Dark county, to hold a series of meetings, which continued from Saturday night till Tuesday night. None were converted, but I understand that some were very much wrought upon, but quenched the spirit. Oh! that men could see the danger of grieving the spirit of God.

To-day, which is the 1st of March, I preached, for the first time, in the neighborhood of father Ross', in Dark county. To-morrow, I purpose leaving for home, and then I shall go to the state of Indiana.

I calculate to hold several large meetings, and should be glad to have some of our brethren from some part to attend, if possible. The first will be held 3 miles South of Bellfountain, Logan county, Ohio, in the neighborhood of Samuel Anderson', on the 19th of April. Who will meet me there?

I expect to commence another Protracted meeting in the neighborhood of brothers Wiley and Strock's, near Addison, Clark county, on the 25th of April. I may keep this meeting up five days, if nothing prevents. Who will meet me there? Prospects are fine.

Yours, in Christian affection,
THOS. HICKERNELL.

Letter from Brother C. Idleman.

UNDERWOOD, March 13, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

WE learn from the Scriptures of Divine truth, that no man has a right to, neither can he preach the pure Gospel of Christ, in truth, unless he have a divine call from God. St. Paul says to the Hebrews, "No man taketh this honor to himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron." Again, in Romans he says, "How can they preach except they be sent." We therefore conclude that no man has a right to preach except God call him to it by his Holy Spirit; and though words may be ever so good in and of themselves, yet unless attended by the spirit and power of God to the heart, it is of but little profit. Therefore it must be delivered in the power and demonstration of the spirit in order to be useful. And as God is a spirit, and seeketh such to worship him as will worship in spirit and in truth, therefore whatsoever is not done in the spirit, cannot please God.

But, can a man have the spirit to preach and pray when and where he will? It appears the Apostles could not work miracles when and where they pleased: consequently the minister of Christ must be subject to the spirit—passive and active. Passive, having no will of his own, but be conformed to, and swallowed up in the will of God. Active, to do whatsoever God requires of him. Therefore there is a necessity of momentary watching and constant prayer; to have the mind uplifted, drawn out after, and solely stayed upon God, and to have one fixed resolution in all things, to please and know and enjoy God. And in order for this, he must have the agency of the spirit, its strivings and assistance. But can he have the spirit at all times, and at his disposal? To command the spirit he cannot; this is the free, unmerited gift of God! yet he gives it freely. A measure of the spirit is given to every man to profit withal, and as the word of God requires a constant exercise or action, (and yet requires no impossibilities,) we therefore conclude the strivings and operations of the spirit may be felt at all times. And in order that preaching be profitable, souls edified and quickened, the word must be attended by the power and influence of the Holy Spirit.

Why, we may ask, do we see and hear so much preaching (as it is called) and so little good effected? We answer, because they are so many trying to preach, but God has not called them, they being nothing more than man made preachers. Others, though they may have had a call from God, have not lived up to the requirements of the word and spirit of God, consequently they have lost the agency of the spirit, and their preaching is as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.

Yours affectionately,

C. IDLEMAN.

Letter from Brother T. Hickernell.

Dark County, Ohio, March, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I see in the Church Advocate, that there is a prospect of brother A. Megrew coming out as a Missionary, to travel Westward, and one brother has offered $10 for his support. I do think we can assure him $10 more in Preble and Dark counties, if he will come that far; and if he takes in Columbus, in the neighborhood of James Ferguson, he will get $20 there; there will be some raised in the vicinity of Dayton.

I should be much pleased to have a conjunction formed between the Ohio and Indiana Elderships, as there are several tiers of counties lying between the two Elderships in which there is but little preaching by our brethren. Who else will assist to get him out? Let them make themselves known through the Advocate.

Yours, in the best of bonds,

THOS. HICKERNELL.

Letter from Brother A. Megrew.

Wooster, March 6, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Having a little good news to communicate to you, and the readers of the Advocate, it is with pleasure I take up my pen so to do.

We commenced a large meeting in this place on the 24th of February, which is still in progress, and increasing in interest, notwithstanding the weather is unfavorable, and has been from the commencement of the meeting. Yet the meetings have been well attended, and since the second meeting there have been some out for prayer every night save one; and up to the present time there have been five or six professed peace by believing in the Saviour. Last Sabbath three followed the Lord in the ordinance of Christian Baptism.

We purpose protracting the meeting yet for some time. However, we are bad off for help in the ministry. Brother Beidler was with us from the commencement of the meeting until this morning, when he was under the necessity of leaving. We were very sorry to see him go, for he is truly a father in Israel.

March 12th.

Our meeting has now closed, and resulted in the conversion of nine or ten persons, and much to the up-building of the church in Wooster.

On last Sabbath four happy converts followed their Master down into the beautiful stream that runs near the town, and were there baptized in the presence of a large assemblage of people. It was truly a solemn and interesting time.

In the evening we had meeting again, and attended to the Washing of the Saints Feet, and the Breaking of Bread, and then gave an opportunity for persons to unite with the Church, when eight came forward and were heartily received into church fellowship; and afterwards we closed the meeting. There were many on the last evening of the meeting could not get into the house, because of the crowd.

The little church in Wooster is in great spirits, and truly the prospects are very flattering. I have no doubt but the Church will prosper here if the members keep humble and holy.

Brother Winebrenner: The Church in Wooster is a baptized church—it is a living church—a zealous church—an humble church—and truly I may say, a loving church. A more loving set of brethren and sisters I never saw, and I think that their example is truly worthy of imitation. My prayer to the great Head of the Church is, that these characteristics may be retained, may continue and abound more and more, and that he may keep them in his own name, and save them from the evils that are in the world, and even in Wooster.

Yours, in the best of bonds.

ARCHIBALD MEGREW.

OBITUARY OF Brother SIMON LINGLE.

Departed this life, at his residence in Harrisburg, on the 23d of October, 1848, Simon Lingle, aged 64 years and 10 months.

His disease was a lingering one, mostly of a palsey stroke. It lasted between four and five months: during which time he was not able to leave his bed. He left behind a family consisting of a bereaved widow, five sons and two daughters, and a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn his departure.

On the 25th of October his remains were interred in the Bethel grave yard at Lingleston. Funeral services by the writer, from Job 16: 22.

A. SNYDER.

OBITUARY OF Brother JOHN SEESHOLTZ.

Died, on the 14th of February, at the residence of brother Henry Boor, in Plain township, Wayne county, Ohio, John Seesholtz, aged 50 years, 10 months and 7 days.

Brother John Seesholtz embraced religion about 21 years ago, in Mechanicsburg, Pa., and has been faithful ever since. He has had many troubles to encounter—has buried two wives and two children, but now he is released from all his troubles. He has left six children to mourn his loss. The disease of which he died was Billious Pleurisy. His illness lasted but about seven days, which he bore with Christian fortitude, and then fell asleep in the arms of the Saviour. We trust he is now enjoying the rest that remains to the people of God. Funeral discourse by the writer, from Revelation 14: 13.

A. MEGREW.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

For the Ladies.—The ladies are very fond of keeping the door knobs, spoons, plates, &c., in brilliant order. Now, if instead of water and chalk, and such preparations, ladies will use camphine and rotten stone, a far brighter, quicker, and more durable polish can be obtained than in any other way. Camphine is the article used for producing the exquisite polish of daguerreotype plates, and nothing has yet been found to equal it.

License in Iowa.—About two years since a law was passed in Iowa, by which it was left to the citizens of every county to say whether licenses should or should not be granted within their limits. Last year there were but two counties which granted the privilege.

Indiana.—The value of all the taxable property in the state in 1847, was $124,610.441. In 1848 it was $128,960,986, an increase of $4,350,546. Acres of land assessed in 1848, 16,623,091; value of said land, $58.290,434. Aggregate value of personal property, $32,072,895.

China Trade.—The trade of China with the United States, in round numbers, is worth $10,000,000 a year, independent of the traffic in opium, which is principally in the hands of foreign houses.

Powers of the Telegraph.—The inaugural address, delivered on Monday at noon, in the capital of this great republic, was at five o'clock being circulated in extras at Dubuque, Illinois.

Pork and Beef Packing.—The St. Louis Union says: "The amount of pork slaughtered and packed the present season in this city, exceeds that of the season previous. At thirteen establishments, the number of hogs slaughtered was 78,500 head, and about 10,000 head are yet expected to arrive, half of which are already contracted for. Perhaps one-third of the pork put up is for the English market. The price of hogs during the season has steadily advanced, and has ranged from $2 50 to $3 50 per 100 lbs. A large number of hogs intended for this market, have been slaughtered and packed at other points, owing to the difficulty of getting them to this point.

The demand for beef cattle, for shipment, has caused a falling off in beef packing the present season. The number packed at five establishments is estimated at about 2,200. The price has been from $3 25 to $4 per 100 lbs."

Swedenborg.—A correspondent of the Church Times states that the father of Emanuel Swedenborg was Bishop of West Gotha, in the Kingdom of Sweden. He adds:—"The son must therefore have been born in the Church, most probably baptized in the Church, brought up in the Church, during a long and protracted life, and finally died in the Church, receiving the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, from the hands of an Episcopal clergyman, on his death bed. Though the son of a Bishop, he never entered himself into holy orders, but continued an humble and useful layman to the end of his days."

New German Church in Baltimore.—The "American," of last week, says:—"A new church built by the German Evangelical Association, (called 'Albrights,') on the corner of McElderry and Short streets, was consecrated yesterday morning, the dictatory sermon being preached in German by the Rev. Bishop Long, of Ohio. In the evening the Rev. Mr. Boos preached in English. The edifice is substantially built, and of a plain but neat appearance."

Church and State.—The secession of the Rev. Baptist Noel from the Church of England on account of his antagonism to the union of Church and State, has created an immense sensation in Great Britain. His powerful essay on the subject of Church and State is now in the press of the Harpers, and will flutter some of the Volscians this side of the Atlantic.

Masonic College.—A college has been established at Lexington, Missouri, under the patronage of the Grand Lodge of that State, and called "Masonic College."—$32,000 were subscribed to obtain its location at Lexington. Rev. Adiel Sherwood, formerly of Shurtleff College, is President.

An Atmospheric Mail Telegraph.—Among the new things claiming a patent in Washington, is an invention of Mr. Van Vetchen, of the Towanda Democrat, (N. Y.,) who claims the discovery of a plan by which mail and all express matter can be transmitted one thousand miles an hour by means of an atmospheric telegraph.—A tube is formed of a given size and length, and, by means of an air-pump, a carriage is propelled of a cylindrical form—the air operating on a piston head, or driver, which is in the rear of a train of cars.

Astonishing Developments.—The Grand Sultan it will be seen by the last news, has taken off all restrictions from Christians, and has issued his edict admiting them to the first office in the Empire.—Such an act by a Mahommedan prince is one of the most remarkable events of the age. This, with the exile of the Pope, can not but awaken most serious reflections in the minds of all Christian disciples.

Applicants for Office.—The National Intelligencer has the following annunciation: "We understand that it has been found necessary by the President of the United States to require that all the applications for office shall be made to the Chiefs of the several departments, by whom they will be submitted at the proper time. No direct application can be entertained by the President for any office whatever.

A State Prison Untenanted.—The officer in charge of the Iowa Penitentiary reports to the Legislature: "During the past year we have had one conviction, two pardons, and one escape, leaving us without a single prisoner or convict in the State Penitentiary at this time. The fall terms of the Courts are about to close without a conviction."

Exports and Imports of 1848.—The total value of the exports and imports to and from foreign countries during the year 1848, is thus officially stated:

Exports, - -	$154.036.436
Imports, - -	154,992 900

Balance of trade against us the past year, $957.464.

Conversion in Texas.—A correspondent of trone of the religious journals states that more than six hundred persons have been hopefully converted within eight months in the Colorado valley. They have united with various evangelica denominations.

California Salt.—The salt found in the great salt lake in California is superior to any now in use for preserving butter, beef, &c. It is the strongest salt ever yet discovered. Three barrels of water make one of salt.

Tennessee.—Gen. Pillow is a candidate for Governor of Tennessee

The Girard College.—The Philadelphia Councils have appropriated $15,900 for the maintenance of Orphans for the year 1849: and also to create two prefects at salaries of $400 a year, to have the charge of the boys, in place of three of the governesses now employed.

No License in Boston.—The Boston Common Council, at its meeting a few weeks since, after an animated discussion, decided that no licenses for the sale of liquor shall be issued in that city.

Pen-urions.—The members of the Iowa Legislature have voted themselves each a gold pen. They have thus become State pen-sioners.

☞ From the Scientific American we obtain the following statements in regard to the wealth of our Union. The value of the crops in 1848, are estimated at $640.000,000. Value of live stock on farms, $557,000,000. Investments in manufactures for the same time, amount to $343,000,000. Sums invested in merchandize, $344.090,000, exclusive of $158,000.000 employed in foreign trade. The aggregate of productions and business of our country amounts then to more than $2,000,000,000.

☞ Immense numbers of the British population still continue most restlessly anxious to cross the Atlantic, and it is expected that during this spring emigration will increase to an unprecedented extent, and will altogether be unequalled in point of character.

☞ r our planets are now visible above the horison. Three—Venus, Saturn and Mercury—in the south-west; the latter about ten or twelve degrees above the horison, soon after sunset. Jupiter about forty-five degrees in the north-west. So says the New York Herald.

☞ Suspended bridges are talked of at St. Louis, Cincinnati and Wheeling. That at Cincinnati is to be suspended 120 feet above low water mark, and is estimated to cost 300,000 dollars. The Cincinnati papers say it would pay handsomely at that cost.

☞ By the census which has just been taken at St. Louis, it appears that the present population of that city is 63,471. These figures show an increase since 1847 of 15.888, and a total increase on the last four years of 27,456.

☞ Frederick Watts, Esq., has been appointed President Judge of the Judicial District, composed of the counties of Cumberland, Perry and Juniata, in the place of Judge Hepburn, whose term has expired.

☞ There were three million bushels of wheat at Chicago, ready to be shipped down the Lake, as soon as navigation opened.

☞ Benjamin C. Howard, democrat, has been appointed U. S. Senator by the Governor of Maryland to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Hon. Reverdy Johnson.

☞ The Directors of the Buffalo, Albany, and New York line of Magnetic Telegraph, have voted not hereafter to open their offices on Sunday for business.

☞ England and Wales, with sixteen millions of people, contain nearly eight millions unable to write their name, and not less than five millions unable to read.

☞ A rich vein of gold has recently been discovered on the farm of Mr. J. Ellicott, 25 miles west of Baltimore, Maryland.

☞ The Mississippi was forty miles broad at Memphis lately, by the rising water extending over the Arkansas flat.

☞ There are oaks in California which are ever green. The Indians thrive on the acorns.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LEARN TO COOK WELL.

We again propose this advice to those of our young female friends who may chance to look into this journal. There need be no scruple, on the ground that the aim proposed i not sufficiently high for a generous and cultivated mind. To do well, whatever it becomes our duty to do at all, is an ambition sufficiently elevated for the highest and most gifted spirit.—The care of the family will be the duty of the woman till we get translated to a higher sphere of existence—and family care will always, as now, be made up of details, small in themselves, 'tis true, but in the aggregate, and in their connections, vastly important. We say then, learn to cook well.

The health of the family depends upon it. We know there are those who associate luxury, effemmacy, and all dependant ills with every attempt of the kind recommended. But we do not believe that health is promoted by eating raw carrots, or doughy bread—or that to secure long life it is necessary to turn cannibal. Nor were men made to graze like cattle, or eat food like dogs.

Nor is it necessary, in order to shun the errors of which we speak, to rush into the opposite extreme. Good cookery does not consist in producing the highest seasoned dishes; nor such as foster a morbid appetite, but in preparing every dish well, however simple or common it may be.—There are, for instance, families who never eat any good bread from one century to another, and have no idea in what it consists. Nor are meats cooked any better within their precincts. Those little, simple, and healthful delicacies, which the good housekeeper knows intuitively how to produce, are never seen here. Even a dish of potatoes cannot get themselves well boiled. A member of the family might as well fall in among the Hottentots as far as any proper nursing is concerned. These things ought not to be, nor is there any need of their existence. if the wife has any just notions of her obligations to herself and those about her.

The science of bread making, of meat broiling, stewing, roasting, and boiling; of vegetable cooking, and of preparing the multifarious small dishes of all sorts, which go to make pleasant the table, and all about, are hers—hers to understand and practice. They are sciences too, quite as exalted in nature as are those which lie at the foundation of litigation, cloth selling, implement making, or wheat growing. The woman who can cook well is an Empress, to whom all that wait at her table will do unbought homage. Learn to cook well, fair friends.—Prairie Farmer.

AN INFALLIBLE CURE FOR ASIATIC CHOLERA.

While in Ireland, in 1832, in reading the Dublin Evening Mail, I met a notice with this head, written by Lady Ponsonby, who had spent many years in India, and had proved the efficacy of the following prescription, and never known it to fail. Thinking it might be serviceable, I copied it and procured the remedy. In a few months I was called upon to test its virtue, and suffice it to say that I did not lose in a single case. As we are likely soon to be visited with this awful scourge, I think it a duty to publish the same through your columns.

Recipe.—1½ oz. of spirits of wine, ¼ oz. of camphor dissolved in wine. Get a small phial of the spirits of hartshorn.

Directions.—First give a teaspoon full of hartshorn in a wine glass of water, begin immediately, and give 5 drops of the spirits of wine. filling the teaspoon with water, and a little sugar—repeat this every five minutes till you have given three doses, then wait 15 minutes and commence again as before, and continue half an hour unless there is returning heat, should this be the case, give one more dose, and the cure is effected; let them perspire freely, as on this the life depends, but add no additional covering.—Newark Daily Adv.

CHILDREN, BE PROMPT.

Never say, when told to do any thing, "In a minnie," or "By-and-by." This leads to a bad habit, which, if not overcome, will prevent all confidence in you as you grow up. You will then put off duties you owe to your neighbor in the same way, and lose his confidence. Many men lose the respect of their neighbors, not so much because they mean to do wrong, as through mere carelessness.—"By-and-by," and "to-morrow," have ruined thousands, robbed them of their character, and made them any thing but blessings in a neighborhood. Little confidence can be placed in their word, not because they mean to tell falsehoods, but because of carelessness. No obligation is fulfilled when it should be. And it is sometimes so in their own affairs. They lose days and weeks because business is not attended to when it should be. A tool is lost, because not promptly put away when done with. Fulfil every promise promptly. Put it not off an hour.

INTEMPERANCE.

President Jefferson once said—"The habit of using ardent spirits by men in office, has occasioned more injury to the public, and more trouble to me, than all other causes; and were I to commence my administration again, with the experience I now have, the first question I would ask, respecting a candidate, would be, 'Does he use ardent spirits?'"

SABBATH SCHOOLS.

The influence of the Sabbath School upon the mental and moral discipline of society can never be over estimated. Apart from the religious associations connected, it works an incalculable good in training the mind to habits of thought and reflection, and giving systematic and healthy action to its tendencies and powers. Why is it that the population of New England, especially, are so renowned for intelligence and success? The answer can be traced to the school training under which they have passed from childhood to middle age, either as pupils or teachers, in both positions alike receiving the culture which gives form, consistency and activity to character.

The population of New England are school-bred—not alone in the noble district, public and high schools, but in those hallowing Sabbath Schools, where the mind loses its contact with the gross, and is weaned to calmer and profounder contemplations. It would be hard to find in the Eastern States a man or woman who has not been pupil or teacher in a Sabbath School, and who has not carried from thence a mould of mind affecting more or less all their after lives. Of the great statesmen New England has given to the nation—such as Webster, Adams and Cass—most of them have been schoolmasters or teachers in Sabbath Schools. Who can tell how mightily the lives and actions of those giant intellects have been influenced by such early training?

The Sabbath School is one of the happiest and divinest ideas that has been evolved from Christianity. It is purely a Christian institution, seeking to educate and lead the young mind in pursuit of the good, the beautiful and the true.

Apart from the educational influence it exerts, it rears a moral wall around society by bringing the rising generation in contact with high and ennobling truth. It consecrates the Sabbath to the young as well as the old. It saves childhood and youth from evil habits engendered by a a non-observance of the Sabbath, and a carelessness of its purposes and teachings. If there was the right appreciation of this institution simply as a social and state policy, for the temporal weal of society—our streets would not be filled on the Sabbath with dog-fighters, and penny-pitchers. Knots of idle and dissipating youths would not stand at the corners of the streets making the air foul with profanity and obscenity. Do Christians—do philanthropists and good citizens think as they ought of this subject? Is the Church—or are the ministers of Christ sufficiently awake to this mighty moral power which now lies dormant in our midst? We hope they are, and that a united effort may be made by all to give such importance and charm to the Sabbath School that the children and youth of our day may be all brought under its influence.

☞ Gov. Bebb, of Ohio, in two years has pardoned 117 convicts out of the state prison. As says the Gospel Banner, "the ease with which robbers, murderers, &c., get pardoned by Governors, now days, defeats the intentions of the laws, and takes from the minds of the villians nearly all fear of the certainty of punishment" As crimes increase, and become more frequent, it is evident that there is an increasing sympathy for criminals, and less and less regard for the welfare and safety of society.

Premiums.

To induce a general effort to extend the circulation of the Advocate, we offer the following Premiums, viz:

1st. For the highest number of new subscribers we will award one copy of the Bible, and a complete set of our own publications, viz: History of Denominations, Treatise on Regeneration, Wandering Soul, View of the Church, Hymn Book, Reference and Pronouncing Testament, German Testament, Almost Christian, (in German,) Baxter on Conversion, Fuller on Backsliding, Traveller's Guide, Young Convert's Guide, Sermon on Christian Baptism, Dissertations on the Law of Tithes.

2. For the second highest number, a set of our own publications, as above specified.

3. For the third highest number, a copy of the History of Denominations, a Church View, a Hymn Book and Testament.

4. For the fourth highest number, a bound volume of the Advocate, a copy of the Wandering Soul, and a copy of the Treatise on Regeneration.

5. For the fifth highest number, a Hymn Book and Testament.

6 For the sixth highest number, a Hymn Book or Testament.

7. For five or more new subscribers, a copy of the Advocate for one year, commencing with the next volume. This premium will be allowed to all who shall procure five or more new subscribers.

Now let a general effort be made, between this and the commencement of the next volume, and let us see who will come out best; who second best, and who third best, and so on.

Missionary Pledge.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenger,	-	-	$10 00
William Reichert,	-	-	5 00
Isaac Miller,	-	-	10 00
J. H. Harley,	-	-	5 00
Geo. U. Harn,	-	-	5 00
M. F. Snavely,	-	-	10 00

Remarks.—Those brethren in the Church who are blessed with this world's goods, and who are friendly to the cause of Missions in the aforesaid States, will please to send us their names between this and the first of next March, so that the Board may send out their Missionaries in due time.

We wish the brethren in the States of Illinois and Iowa to move in this enterprize with becoming zeal, and thereby provoke the friends of Missions, here in the East, to love and good works. Let all, therefore, both in the East and West, speak out promptly and let the Church and the world know what they are willing to do to sustain this enterprize.

Notice to Book-Agents.

This is to give notice to our book-agents not to sell any of our books on credit, except when they buy for cash, then they can do as they please. It does not suit us to give long credits. We are willing to accommodate all, provided we can have quick returns.

Editor.

Special Notices.

☞ Letters enclosing new subscription or changes in Post Offices, should contain the NAMES of the subscribers, the POST OFFICE, the COUNTY, and the STATE to which the papers are to be directed; all written very legibly and with great care—otherwise the papers are liable to be sent to the wrong Post Offices.

☞ The Post Office regulations now ALLOW POST MASTERS TO FRANK LETTERS to publishers, and they are generally willing to do so when applied to by subsbribers.

☞ Special pains are taken to have the Advocate SENT REGULARLY to subscribers and they are particularly requested to give us notice of any irregularity in its receipt.

New Music Wanted!

We have it in contemplation to get up a choice collection of Church Music, comprising the various metres now in use among the Churches of God; and we want our brethren who are blessed with "The daughter of Music," to aid us in making out the collection, by sending us choice peices of music, or by writing and referring to works where such choice pieces of Church Music can be found. Who among the singers of the Israel of God will oblige us by prompt attention to this request?

For every half dozen of approved pieces, a copy of the new work shall be awarded.

Editor.

Choice Fruit Trees.

We have a choice lot of Fruit Trees for sale. Let those who may want, send their orders and bespeak them, or call early in March and get the Trees.

Bound Volumes of Advocate.

We have had some few volumes of the Church Advocate bound—two volumes in one. Those who may want them, will please send us their orders. Price $2.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

A protracted meeting will be held. Providence permitting, in the neighborhood of Stump's, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 5th of April.

The ministers and brethren of the neighboring churches are invited to attend.

Religious Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the old camp-ground, near Rome, Noble county, Ind., commencing on Thursday, the 7th of June, 1849.

Who will attend? We do hope that those brethren in the ministry who calculate taking a tour to the West will make their arrangements so as to assist us in holding this meeting. Thos. Hickernell.

Shoemakers Wanted.

SEVERAL JOURNEYMEN SHOEMAKERS, of good moral character, can obtain employment at liberal prices, for from 1 to 12 months, by calling at the Shoe Store and Manufactory of JOHN KNOUSE, in Shepherdstown, Cumberland county, Pa.

Also—Several BOYS WANTED, to learn the art or trade of Shoe and Boot making, at the same place. JOHN KNOUSE.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On Tuesday, the 13th ult., by Abraham Swartz, V. D. M., Mr. Joseph Ross, Jr., of Middletown, to Miss Mary Bowman, of Cumberland county.

Accompanying the above, the Printer received a goodly share of delicious wedding cake, for which the happy couple will receive our thanks, as well as our best wishes for their future happiness and prosperity.

The sending of cake to the Printer is just and right, and in this case, therefore, is just as it should be, and proves conclusively to our mind, that the parties considered their future happiness and prosperity as a matter of great consequence, else they would not have been so punctual in sending the printer the small boon which accomplishes such great ends.

To all our young friends who purpose perpetrating matrimony, and desire to live happy and be prosperous, we would say, "Go and do likewise." K.

On Sabbath evening, the 11th ult., by Elder F. Strohm, Mr. Samuel McFadden, to Miss Mary E. Fisher, both of Linglestown.

On the 4th ult., by Elder J. Haifleigh, V. D. M., Mr. Isaac Breneman, to Miss Elizabeth Sides, both of Bainbridge, Lancaster county.

On the 8th ult., by the Rev. J. H. Coit, Edward C. Henshaw, Esq., of New York, to Miss Sarah E., only daughter of the late Edwin Tyler.

On the 13th ult., by the Rev. J. F. Mesick, Mr. Jacob Nisley, of Upper Swatara, to Miss Catharine Hurst, of Lower Swatara, Dauphin county.

On the 8th ult., by the Rev. W. R. De Witt, Robert W. McClure, Esq., to Miss Margaretta Sturgeon, daughter of Allen Sturgeon, Esq., all of Dauphin county.

On the 9th ult., by the Rev. James Mackey, Mr. Solomon Brownfelter, of Springfield, Cumberland county, to Miss Martha Shuman, formerly of Shippensburg.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—At Hummelstown, Pa., on Thursday evening, March 8th, after a short illness, Dr. William Henderson, for many years a highly respectable physician, and influential citizen of that place.

On Tuesday morning, the 20th ult., Mary Kelton, daughter of T. W. and E. S. Buffington, aged 1 year and 10 days.

In this place, on Thursday, the 28th ult., after a lingering illness, Mr. Samuel Berry, aged about 35 years.

In Washington city, on Monday the 26th ult., of inflammation of the lungs, O. J. Baker, Esq., of this place, in the 26th year of his age.

At Lancaster, on the 10th ult. of Hydrocephelus, Charles Stevenson, eldest son of Jacob and Ann Christ, aged 8 years, 8 months and 10 days.

His remains were deposited in the Lutheran Cemetery followed thither by the Bethel Sabbath School, of which the deceased had been a regular attendant, where all seemed to say,

Forgive ye blest the tributary tear,
That mourns your absence from a world like this;
Forgive the wish that would have kept you here,
And stayed your progress to the seats of bliss. Wm. Mooney.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 00	a	4 12½
Do. Rye, do. - -	2 50	a	2 56
Do. Corn, do. - -	1 95	a	2 00
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	90	a	92
Do. Rye, do. - -	52	a	53
Do. Corn, new do. - -	40	a	41
Do. Oats, do. - -	26	a	28
Do. Barley, do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 00	a	3 50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	3 00	a	3 25
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 00	a	1 10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -	5 00	a	5 50
PORK, do. - - - - -	5 00	a	5 25
HAMS, per pound, - - -	7	a	8½
BUTTER, do. - - - - -	15	a	18
LARD, do. - - - - -	7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -	40	a	42
ONIONS, do. - - -	75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a	1 30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -	37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -	1 40	a	1 50
HAY, per ton, - - - - -	12 00	a	15 00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -	4 00	a	4 50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 50	a	4 62½
Do. Rye, do. -	2 87½	a	3 00
Do. Corn, do. - -	2 44	a	2 50
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	98	a	1 03
Do. Rye, do. - -	65	a	66
Do. Corn, new do. - -	52	a	53
Do. Oats, do. - -	30	a	32
Do. Barley, do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 25	a	3 75
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 75	a	3 00
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 30	a	1 32
BEEF, per cwt., - - - -	7 00	a	8 75
PORK, do. - - - - -	7 00	a	7 25

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Dow's Family Medicine.

As sundry persons, here and there, are beginning to complain of Bilious Fevers, Dysentery, Fever & Ague, &c., we would advise them to call and get Dow's Medicine, which is a most excellent remedy for these and other complaints.

For sale at the office of the Church Advocate. Price 50 cents per bottle. Aug. 1.

History of the Church of God.

The history of the Church of God in the United States, as contained in the History of Denominations, is now published in pamphlet form, for distribution in cities and new places, where the principles of the Church are unknown. Price, 25 cents per dozen, and $1 50 per hundred.

McAllister's All-Healing Ointment,
OR THE
WORLD'S SALVE.
Contains NO MERCURY or other MINERAL.

From the Reading Eagle.

"There was never, perhaps a medicine brought before the public, that has in so short a time won such a reputation as "McAllister's All Healing or World's Salve."—Almost every person that has made trial of it, speaks warmly in its praise. One has been cured by it, of the most painful Rheumatism; another of the Piles, a third of a troublesome pain in the side, a fourth of a swelling in the limbs, &c. If it does not give immediate relief in every case, it can never do injury, being applied outwardly. As another evidence of the wonderful healing power possessed by this salve, we subjoin the following certificate, from a respectable citizen of Maidencreek, township, in this county.

Maidencreek, Berks Co., March 30, '47.

Messrs. Ritter & Co.—I desire to inform you that I was entirely cured of a severe pain in the back, by the use of M'Allister's All-Healing Salve, which I purchased from you. I suffered with it about 20 years, and at night was unable to sleep. During that time I tried various remedies, which were prescribed for me by physicians and other persons, without receiving any relief, and at last made trial of this Salve with a result favorable beyond expectation. I am now entirely free from the pain, and enjoy at night a sweet and peaceful sleep. I have also used the salve since, for tooth ache and other complaints, with similar happy results. Your friend,

John Hollenbach."

I certify that I have used "M'Allisters All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, or the World's Salve," for a healing in a my wife's breast, which has done her incalculable benefit. Also, on one of my children for Sore Eyes, which gave immediate relief. I therefore recommend it as a good medicine, to all desirous of trying it. Parker Reed.

Morris tp., Wash. co., Aug. 21, 1847.

I certify that I have used McAllister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, for coldness of my feet—also for Rheumatism in my limbs, and Corns on my feet, and have been entirely relieved. Believing it to be a good medicine, I do not hesitate to recommend it in the above complaints. Leonard Vaile.

☞ Around the box are directions for using McAllister's Ointment for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Erysipelas, Tetter, Chilblain, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Nervous Affections, Pains, Disease of the Spine, Head Ache, Asthma, Deafness, Ear Ache, Burns, Corns, all Diseases of the Skin, Sore Lips, Pimples, &c., Swelling of the limbs, Sores, Rheumatism, Piles, Cold Feet, Croup, Swelled or Broken Breast, Tooth Ache, Ague in the Face, &c., &c.

☞ This Ointment is good for any part of the body or limbs when inflamed. In some cases it should be applied often.

CAUTION—No OINTMENT will be genuine unless the name of James M'Allister, is written with a pen on every label.

☞ PRICE, 25 CENTS PER BOX. ☜

JAMES M'ALLISTER,
Sole Proprietor of the above Medicine.

Principal Office No. 28 North THIRD street, Philadelphia.

Agents: Geo. H. Bell, Harrisburg; M. Lutz, do.; Jacob Bener, Middletown; George Ross, Elizabethtown; M. M'Barren, Portsmouth; J. & L. Reigel, Mechanicsburg; G. W. Singiser, Churchtown; Smith & Henry, Lebanon; C. Roth, Bloomfield; Jacob Keiser, Petersburg; J. M. Beatty, Pottsville; Samuel P. Sterret, Mount Joy; Henry Thatcher, Newport; Wm. Jackson, New Buffalo; Brown & Ritter, Pittsburg; John Lloyd, Mount Pleasant; Jacob Welty, Greensburg; Edward Scull, Shippensburg; John Diller, Newville; and sold by our Agents in every town in the State.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

PROSPECTUS.

J. WINEBRENNER & CO. propose publishing, by subscription, a work entitled

A Pronouncing and Pictorial
Bible and Theological Dictionary.

1. This work shall contain a short but comprehensive explanation of all the principal Bible and Theological terms.

2. It shall give a Classical Pronunciation of the same, which has hitherto been a great desideratum in all similar works.

3. It will be embellished with numerous engravings, illustrative of ancient places, customs and things.

CONDITIONS.

1. The work will be about the size of the History of Denominations, containing about the same number of pages.

2. It shall be well printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at Two Dollars and fifty cents per copy, payable on the delivery of the same.

3. Whenever three thousand names shall have been procured by the different Agents, the work shall be put to press. A list of the names of subscribers shall be appended to the work.

P. S.—Fifty or more Agents wanted for the sale of the above, and the He Pasa Ekklesia.

☞ Any person sending us four good subscribers for the above work, and becoming responsible for the payment of the same, shall be entitled to one copy.

Agents Wanted.

SUITABLE persons can find employment for the sale of the "He Pasa Ekklesia," in this and other States. Apply to the Editor of the Advocate.

BRENNEMAN'S DYSPEPTIC MEDICINE.

Frederick Brenneman, near Maytown, Lancaster county, Pa., offers to his numerous friends and the public in general, a super excellent medicine, for the cure of Dyspepsia. Being opposed to puffs and quackery, he would merely say, read the following testimonials, and then, if you are Dyspeptic give the medicine a trial.

TESTIMONIALS.

East Donegal, near Mount Joy.

The undersigned hereby certifies, that he was severely afflicted for five or six years, with Dyspepsia in its worst form; that he tried all kinds of remedies, or Dyspeptic medicines, far and near, but found no relief, until I used the medicine now prepared and sold by Frederick Brenneman, and by using three bottles and the Slippery Elm tea, I was entirely cured, and now am as well as ever.

SAMPSON M. REESE.

Maytown, Lancaster county, Pa.

I Abraham Rife, residing in Maytown, Lancaster county, do hereby certify, that I was sorely afflicted with Dyspepsia for a long time, unably to do any work. I tried sundry medicines without any effect, till I used Brenneman's Dyspeptic Medicine, three bottles of which cured me. The symptoms in my case were such as are common to similar cases, such as Indigestion, Oppression of the Stomach, Giddiness, Flatulency, Costiveness, Depression of Spirits, &c., &c. I do cordially recommend it as a good medicine.

Marietta, Lancaster county, Pa.

I the undersigned do hereby testify, that I was Dyspeptic for some time, not able to attend to my business, and by using two bottles of F. Brenneman's Dyspeptic Medicine, I was perfectly cured. I have no hesitation in recommanding it as an excellent medicine for the cure of Dyspepsia.

PETER LONG.

To these, many other certificates might be added, but it is deemed unnecessary. A trial of the medicine will be the best, and the only necessary testimonial. It is also a good remedy for Cramps, Cholics, and virious diseases of the stomach and bowels.

Directions for using the Medicine.

Take from a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful three times a day, half an hour before meal time. Children in proportion. Use the Slippery Elm tea as a common drink. To a handful of the bark, add one quart of water, hot or cold, and use it freely. (Jan1.)

PETERS' CHEAP BOOKSTORE

No. 22, Market Street, Harrisburg.

THE public are respectfully informed that the undersigned are now the proprietors of the Book Store and Printing Establishment of the late G. S. Peters, deceased; and that they have added to the former stock a large assortment of BOOKS in the various branches of Literature: among which are Religious, Medical, Historical and Miscellaneous Books; besides all kinds of

SCHOOL BOOKS

and Writing Materials, used by Scholars; all of which will be sold at the lowest Cash prices by the dozen, or single. Also, for sale a large assortment of

GERMAN BOOKS;

such as Bibles, Testaments, Prayer-books, Hymn-books, Reading and Spelling-books, Toy-books, &c. &c. Besides, a very valuable work, particularly for those desirous of studying either language.

Kunst's English and German Dictionary,

Store-keepers, Pedlars, Teachers and others, who wish to purchase Books, &c., by the quantity, will find it their interest to give us a call. LUTZ & SCHEFFER.

December 15, 1848.—1y.

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

J. B. G. KINSLOE, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIII. HARRISBURG, Pa., APRIL 16, 1849. NUMBER 24.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Thirteen.

Names.	Am't. paid	Names.	Am't paid
Anglemyer Adam	$1 00	Marter David	$1 25
Barton Joseph	50	McClure & Stevick	62
Bryson James	1 00	Ober Benjamin	1 00
Bricker John	1 50	Pendicord John	1 00
Boyer W W	1 50	Reeme Wm H	1 00
Crusey William	1 50	Shelly Benj	1 25
Clinger Wm	50	Seabrooks J C	1 00
Eckle Absolem	2 00	Snyder David	1 00
Gross Solomon	1 00	Shelly Daniel	1 25
Gorgas Wm	1 00	Smith David	1 25
Garman Rebecca	1 00	Smeltz J R	1 50
Huston John Sr	1 00	Stoman Elizabeth	62
Hoffer Henry	1 50	Shelly Samuel	1 50
Hicas David	50	Weltmer Joseph	1 25
Helstand Henry	50	Welbly Jones	1 00
Kauffman J S	1 25	Wittmer C S	1 00
Lambert Michael	1 50	Winebrenner Christian	1 00
Longenecker J D	1 00	Young Jonathan	1 25
Mulenix Wm H	2 00	Zearing Henry	1 00

Close of the Volume.

The readers of the Advocate will perceive this number closes the present (13th) volume of our paper. Our list has increased some during the past year, but there is a great delinquency in the payment of dues among our subscribers. This fact we much regret, for more reasons than one. Yet we rejoice to say, there is a goodly number of advance payers among our subscribers, whose advance pay we shall expect, as usual, between this and the first of May.

Notice.

Brother M. F. Snavely and others, wish us to inform their numerous friends, that they intend to communicate with them through the Advocate, after they get out into the far west. This method will greatly shorten their correspondence, so far at least as matters of public interest are concerned, and be a gratification to the readers of the paper generally.

List of Delinquents.

The following is a list of our delinquent subscribers for the present (13th) volume of the Advocate. We publish the list for a two fold purpose. First, that each subscriber may know the amount he owes; and secondly, that our agents may assist us in collecting the same. The whole amount of arrearages is very considerable—much more than it ought to be on one volume. We shall feel obliged, therefore, for prompt payment.

If any mistakes have occurred in making out this list, we shall be happy to rectify them as soon as they are pointed out to us.

Names.	Am't due.	Names.	Am't due.
Albaugh Daniel	$1 50	Fosnacht Jacob	$1 50
Adloway Abraham	do	Fry Michael	do
Alter Benjamin	do	Fox John	do
Adams Margaret	1 00	Freed Mary M	1 00
Borgner Henry	1 50	Gillespie J	do
Barlow John	do	Gner John	1 50
Brown George	1 00	Gensler John	do
Boltig Michael	do	George Abraham	do
Beatly Mary	do	George John G	do
Borlig Ezekiel	1 50	Gable William	do
Burntnet Jos	do	Gable John S	do
Bricker Geo W	do	Gish John	do
Boyer Wm L	50	Gaomel John	do
Brandt David	50	Gurley George	do
Brought John	62	Gephard John	do
Beckly S P	50	Gamber Jacob H	do
Buffington Josiah	1 50	Guss Samuel	do
Burger M S	do	Gier Martin	do
Berray Michael	do	Graybill Daniel	do
Bolton John	25	Garner George	do
Bollinger Jacob	25	Gardner W	do
Bear Michael	25	Hostetter John S	62
Bean Thomas	1 00	Hipple Frederick	1 50
Beacher John	1 50	Hank L	do
Bond William	do	Handshue John	do
Buckwalter Christian	do	Heiser Henry	do
Bechtel Jacob	do	Heffner George	do
Barlow James	do	Hiney David	do
Barlow John	do	Hawk Jonathan	1 00
Bear David	do	Hiser Jane	do
Brown William	25	Hinkley John	do
Bolmer John	1 50	Hickernell John	do
Barlow N F	do	Hickernell Thomas	do
Bigham Solomon	1 00	Hovis John	do
Barkstresser Daniel	1 50	Hefflebower Henry	25
Brown John	do	Huber barnet	1 50
Buhoup John	do	Huffer benjamin	do
Beelman E lzabeth	1 00	Hazeton Doyle P	do
Baker Israel	1 50	Hyneman Thomas	do
Barnhart Peter	1 25	Hostetter Christian	do
Beelman Jacob	1 50	Hurst Abraham	do
Barks tesser & Abbott	do	Houston Levi	do
Bigley J W	do	Hostetter Abram	do
Brady Israel	1 00	Hoot William	do
Boyle G W	1 50	Heltebridle Uriah	do
Bishler Philip	do	Heck William	do
Brooks Eliza	75	Hart Daniel	do
Brubaker Ann C	1 00	Hawker John S	do
Bowman Samuel	do	Hall Daniel	do
Calvin Robert C	1 50	Idle Jacob	do
Clay William	50	Johnson Joseph	do
Cook W S	1 00	Jordan E	1 00
Comp Henry	62	Kerr John S	do
Chase Gardiner	1 50	Kester benjamin	do
Crossman Wm F	do	Kolb Elizabeth	do
Currin John	do	Kauffman Abraham	do
Clauser David	do	Klein Jacob M	do
Crawl David G	75	Kumler John	1 50
Coup Jacob	50	Kilmer John	do
Cranding John	1 50	Hauffman S R	do
Cramer Michael	do	Kosher John	do
Carper Jacob	do	Keaga Jacob	do
Carpet Catharine	1 00	Keiser John	do
Cramer Mary	do	Kirk Enos	do
Donnehower John F	1 50	Long Daniel	do
Dorwart John	do	Leach Samuel	do
Dillinger Christopher	do	Livingston William	50
Dolson John	1 00	Latshaw Elizabeth	1 00
Davies William	1 50	Mortun George W	1 50
Dawson John B	do	M Neal John	do
Dobson Joseph A	1 00	McConnel George	do
Dravenstott Jacob	50	May Jacob	do
Dennis James	1 50	Mapes Isaac	do
Eckle Martin	do	Murphy Jas	do
Eberman John M	do	McNeal Mrs	do
Elliot Vincent	do	Miller Jacob	do
Ensminger David	do	Maish Frederick	do
Eckles James	do	Myers J & H	do
Erbrisman David	do	McFarlen Peter	do
Eversole Daniel	1 25	Mason Alex	do
Ebbelman Michael	1 50	Machlan John R	do
Eckle Absolom	50	M Farlen Wm	1 00
Eckart John	1 50	Miller Isaac	50
Fairfax Mary	do	M'Kee Mary	1 00
Ferguson James	1 25	Mooney Wm	do
Fortainbaugh Samuel	1 50	Myers Jacob R	25
Freese William	do	Musselman Ann	1 00
Fysracht Conrad	do	Machlan Elizabeth	do
Fauss Thomas	do	Nell J	1 00
Fasig Samuel	50	N ligh David	do
Fenser benjan in	1 50	Nelson Charles	62
Fasick William	do	Negley D & J	1 50
Ferguson James	75	Ober Margaret	do
Fry Leonard	25	Owens John C	1 00
Farquehar Wm	62	Oberlin John	1 50
Ford Daniel	1 25	Ober Martin	do

Names.	Am't due.	Names.	Am't due.
Pence William	do	Trever Jacob	$1 50
Poffinger Samuel	do	Trever David	do
Paulus Henry	do	Trisler John	do
Porter & Nutley	do	Tinsman Adam	do
Pittman Joseph	25	Tucker Noe	do
Quigley William	1 50	Tyler Elias	do
Richmond S S	1 00	Ulch john	do
Reiher George	25	Umstead joel	do
Reed William S	1 50	Umholtz Henry C	do
Rice Levi	do	Ullum Daniel T	75
Ramberger Simon	do	Vanard William	1 50
Rudy Jonas	do	Vance William	do
Reis John	2 50	Watson William	do
Ross Nathan	1 50	Wagoner Peter	do
Rees James	do	Wiley james	do
Rosenberger Henry	do	Williams Daniel	do
Rees Samuel	do	Walker Samuel	do
Ross Ayres	do	Wickersham Ross G	do
Skinner Philip W	do	Wallace Reuben	do
Sheaffer Mary W	50	Williams jesse N	do
Streck Jacob	1 50	Wingert john	do
Stubbs William	do	Walter jacob	do
Smith John M	do	Williams P C	do
Swyers Wm	25	Wilson joseph	do
Sheffer michael	62	Warehime George	00
Shillinger Frederick	75	Winebrenner Andrew	do
Sweigart Jacob	1 50	Weishampel john F	1 00
Snyder Noah	do	Wingert Henry	do
Sandal George	1 25	Wolf Mary Ann	do
Slyter A B	1 00	Whitley Matilda	do
Sheckler Susan	do	Werner james	do
Sheckler Catharine	do	Witmer martha	do
Shaw Philip	do	Wielder Elwin	62
Sherrich S	do	Wonder & Brinzer	75
Swiler Jacob	1 50	Young Archibald	1 50
Sherrick John	do	Yousling George	do
Simpson John	do	Yon Lewis	do
Sturges Erastus	do	Yahn Levi	do
Strickler David	do	Zearing martin	25
Stouffer John	do	Zell Henry	1 50
Shaft Frederick	do	Mackey James	$1 00
Sowder Jacob	do	Matter Baily	1 00
Smith Jesse	do	Myers Samuel B	75
Sheeter Henry	do	McKinnell Miss M	1 00
Smith John M	do	Miller Jacob	1 50
Shuler Henry	do	Myers Philip	1 50
Sherich Paul	do	May Jacob (till Aug 1)	1 50
Swick John	do	Megrew Archibald	1 00
Smith Valentine	do	Marks Leonard S	1 50
Stoman Elizabeth	62	Maxwell Moses	1 50
Steffy Adam	25	Miller Andrew	1 50
Starr Peter	50	Mackey James	75
Shantz David	25	Myers Jacob	75
Stevens R A	75	Mountain Manassa	75
Tombauld Jonathan	25
Tinsman John	25

The Coal Bushel.

The Legislature of this State has just passed an act establishing a measure of bituminous coal, the bushel of which shall be 2688 cubic inches—or in other words—five pecks of the Winchester or common grain measure.

Storm and Damage.

The heavy storm on the 27th ult., blew down six unfinished spans of the Central Railroad Bridge, six miles above this place, on the Susquehanna river. The Engineer estimates the loss at about $10,000, but says the whole bridge can still be finished by the 4th of July next.

Advance Pay—Our Terms.

Those of our subscribers who want the Advocate for ONE DOLLAR a year, will please to bear in mind, that payment must be made before the first of May. After that date, the terms require $1 25 till the first of August, and after that $1 50. Hence let every one mind his own interest: and those who do not, will please not to blame us, when we exact pay in strict accordance with the terms of the paper. We have said thus much heretofore, and yet when some of our patrons come to pay for the paper after the commencement of the volume, they still want it at the rate of advance pay. Now we want it distinctly understood, our terms are our only rule, and that these will and must be adhered to.

Governor of Minesota.

Alexander Ramsey, Esq., of Harrisburg, formerly member of Congress from this district, has been appointed Governor of Minesota.

Emulation.

We notice in the Christian Palladium, among the pledges in support of the missionary enterprise in the West, that one person pledges $20 "with the proviso that it shall not go to any member of any secret society," while another pledges $50 with a proviso that it shall be "appropriated to some preacher who is a member of some secret society."

Our Next Volume.

Our next and 14th Volume will commence, Providence permitting, on the first of May. And we ask, is it too much to say? we hope to start with a greater and better list of subscribers than the paper has ever had since its commencement. If our agents and friends will not wholly neglect effort on their part, we shall entertain no fears on this subject. We are pleased to find that the Advocate is gaining friends, favor and popularity among the people.

Shocking Murder.

John Knepley, sen., of this borough, was shot through the head in his own house, on Wednesday morning, the 11th instant, soon after his return from market. His head was horribly mangled on the side where the discharge of the gun entered. The perpetrator of this horrid deed, is not yet ascertained, but his own son has been arrested on suspicion.

Mr. Knepley was a respectable and much esteemed citizen of this place, having lived here from his youth, and being generally known as a peaceable, virtuous, and honorable man. He has left a widow and three children to mourn over his sudden and melancholy death.

Missionary Pledge.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, - -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Solomon Brumbaugh, - -	5 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00

William Miller's Confession.

We clip the following confession from the Religious Telescope, together with the action of the Conference in reference to Wm. Miller's case.

Dear Brethren of the Va. Conference:

Whereas, Br. W. R. Rhinehart and I have become reconciled with each other, and I wish to become reconciled to you also, it is right and reasonable that I should confess to you my wrong, for not submitting to the committee appointed to decide between us, and ask your forgiveness for the same. Wm. Miller.

Whereas, Br. Wm. Miller of the "Church of God," from which society he was expelled, when they could no linger keep him, has made application to this Conference for membership; and whereas, he holds several letters from the Rev. John Winebrenner, in which his good standing and moral character are acknowledged in the Eldership of said church; and whereas, he has been duly received into Quarterly Conference, therefore,

Resolved, That he receive license to preach from this Conference.

With regard to the foregoing confession, our only wonder is, how any one who professes what William Miller has all along professed, can live fifteen years or upwards, without seeing his wrong, or if he saw it, how he could refrain from making his confession for so long a time.

In reference to the action of the Conference, we pronounce it utterly devoid of truth, except it be the act of the Quarterly, and the resolution of the Annual Conference. That, as a piece of their own coin, may pass; but as for the first part of the preamble, it is, as we said, utterly devoid of truth. We marvel, that a body of ecclesiastics can endorse and authorize the publication of such an erroneous and fallacious statement.

Howbeit, we want no controversy with them. If their and our expulsion will make him less troublesome in time to come, than in time passed, we shall rejoice with them that do rejoice.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Revival Intelligence, &c.

Linglestown, Feb. 28, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

The Lord has favored us with a special outpouring of his spirit. We commenced a protracted meeting here on Christmas, (of which you have been informed.) The meeting lasted eight weeks, and the result of the meeting was glorious. The number that found peace in believing on the Lord Jesus is, as near as we can say, about sixty-seven or sixty-nine. Truly the Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad.

This has been a noted place for great revivals in gone-by days, but for the last ten years it has been almost as noted for dissensions and religious disturbances. But we have reason to thank God that some who have caused divisions in the Church of God, and been the cause of many a sore trial, have at last been exposed, and their wickedness been brought to light. Yet during the many changes, and seasons of difficulties and conflicts, the Church of God bore up under all these sore trials, for there were always a few who did not defile their garments, but who bore up and contended earnestly for the faith which was once delivered to the saints.

But strange as it may appear to a true child of God, no sooner did the Lord commence to revive his work, and sinners were converted from the error of their way to serve the true God, than in a combined force, an attempt was made to hinder the work of God, and some too were found among that number, of whom better things might have been expected.

Man, if he is not honest before his Maker, is the most deceitful of all God's creation, and it seems to be a small matter to some, to tell a bare-faced lie in the house of God, to accomplish their sectarian purposes, and at the same time make the appearance before men as if they were happy in the Lord. Oh hypocrisy! where hast thou left thy mantle, to cover thy shame from the face of man!

Thank God that victory is on the Lord's side, and he will ride on most glorious, from conquering to conquest. The Redeemer's cause at this place wears a better aspect at present than for the last eight years, and we entertain the fond hope that soon error and superstition will give way under the glorious influence of light and truth.

The revival at Rockeyville has resulted in the conversion of twenty-five precious souls. But here, as well as at other places, Sectarianism runs high, even to such a degrading extent that some of its devotees talk in a very slanderous manner of the little Church of God at that place, and during the revival some behaved themselves shamefully.

I have been told that some of our sectarian neighbors persuaded some of the mourners away from the Bethel, to get up a revival of their own, and so raise an opposition line.—But if we are on the Lord's side, let them get up their Sectarian opposition, they will not, and can not prevail. Thank God, the Captain of the Lord's host is upon our side.

The revival at Highspire resulted in the conversion of nineteen precious souls. The little Church at that place has stood many a storm, but a better day is dawning upon her, and her weeping and lamentation will be turned into rejoicing and great joy. The Lord has greatly favored Zion in this part of his moral vineyard since camp-meeting, which was about six months since.

Above one hundred and fifty souls have been hopefully converted to God on this Circuit during the past year; the most of whom have united with the Church at their respective places, and many more will unite with the Church. We have great reason to humble ourselves before God, and give thanks to his name for his boundless goodness. The more He prospers his work in our hands, the more we should humble ourselves in prayer and praise before his mercy seat.

Last Sabbath a week brother Snyder baptized eight happy souls at Highspire, in the Susquehanna river. Though the weather was very cold, yet those baptized came up out of the water praising God with acclammations of praise, and shouts of "Glory to God."

Yours fraternally,

THOMAS STROHM.

Bad Habits in Meeting.

1st. Some people are in the habit of going to meeting to interrupt and disturb the congregation by going in and out. They go into the house and sit down a few minutes, until the preacher has, perhaps, rightly entered on his subject—then suddenly you may see one, two, three or more starting up, taking their hats and going out. Perhaps, in a few minutes, you may see another set following the same bad example. Thus they keep up a continual annoyance, so that those who come for the purpose of hearing, are deprived of so doing with any satisfaction. Now this practice is sufficient evidence, to my mind, of the wickedness and ignorance of such people.

2d. Talking in meeting is another bad habit. Such as indulge in this practice cannot expect to receive any benefit from the meeting, or be instructed by what the preacher says, while they keep talking so loud themselves that they may be heard over the whole congregation. Oh! when will people become wise and learn attentively to listen to the word of eternal truth.

3d. Some people, when they come to meeting, are in the habit, almost continually to look around over the congregation. Some, perhaps, to see whether Mr. A. or B. or Mrs. C. or D. is in meeting. Others, how this gentleman or that lady is dressed. They do not come to hear, but to see and be seen.

4th. Some people are in the habit, when they come to meeting, to sit down in a corner, or some place where they can prop up their heads, and in a few minutes you may see them nodding their heads, and sleeping soundly. What a shameful sight it is, to see a person in meeting with his head leaning back, his eyes closed, his mouth wide open, snoring and blowing away. It is not only shameful, but it is sinful, also.

5th. Chewing Tobacco in meeting, is another shameful habit. It looks very disgraceful, after meeting, to find the house of God all bespattered with tobacco juice; and not only so, but to see heaps of the used up stuff piled up in the aisle, or under the seats. All men who claim the character of gentlemen, surely ought to know how to behave in a Bethel, or meeting house.

Tobacco chewers, and all others who have contracted bad habits, please take the advice of a friend, and reform your bad habits.

A. SNYDER.

Linglestown, Nov. 1848.

Christian Fellowship.

By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

Brotherly love implies Christian fellowship, as expressed by the Apostle John, 1st chapter, 7th verse: "If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another." The time has come that Christians of all persuasions in Christendom are turning their attention to the enjoyment of this great blessing, and give to the world a living and practical evidence of the reality of the religion of the Son of God. In order, therefore, to prepare the way for some one, we would propound the following questions, hoping that some one who feels like lending a hand in preparing the way, will answer them through the Church Advocate.

1st. Is Christian Baptism essential to Christian Fellowship?

2d. If a man is worthy of Christian fellowship, is he not worthy of Church membership? If not, wherein is the lack of his qualification?

On Creeds.

1st. Some persons are opposed to human creeds for the government of the Church of God; will any such tell us what they understand by a Human Creed, or what it is that makes a Creed human?

2d. Some are opposed to the Church having a written Creed, whilst they think it is highly commendable to have it, we understand, in the head, and make it known on every suitable occasion.

3d. Some deny that the Church has the right to have a Creed at all, besides the Scriptures, and yet it is evident that this class of persons differ among themselves in their interpretations of many portions of the Word of God.

On Human Names as a Church Title.

Is it right, when speaking of the different Religious Denominations, to apply to them their human name, when we admit them to be Churches of Christ?

Your patron, &c.,

D. R. R.

Letter from Brother J. Haifleigh.

Bainbridge, Pa., March 28th, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Having a few leisure moments, I have thought of employing them to let you and the friends of Zion know about matters and things here.

We, as you know, commenced a protracted meeting here on the 17th of February, which continued until the 7th inst. The result of this meeting was as follows: Seven or eight were converted, three baptized, and five received into church fellowship. The excitement ran pretty high on the subject of religion for a time, but after all the number is comparatively small who sought and found the Lord. But we thank the Lord for what he has done for us. I believe that some more of the converts, as well as older professors felt it to be their duty to obey the Lord in the ordinance of Christian Baptism, but in consequence of the anti-Scriptural influence exercised over them, they have, as yet, deferred the matter. We got along pretty well all winter, without being much persecuted, until the subject of Baptism came up, and a few were baptized. Since then Sectarianism has shown its cloven foot, and these "shallow brained folks who go to the river to baptize," get their share of persecution. One man, an exhorter in the —— Church, as I understand, told the people a few Sabbaths ago that if they were sprinkled he was willing to pledge his soul for their salvation. The Bible, the history of the Church, as well as experience, teach the fact that the spirit of Sectarianism has been a spirit of persecution in all ages of the world. And I suppose it will continue to exhibit the same until the end of time.

During the meeting we attended to the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper, and truly we had a solemn and a feeling time. These ordinances are means through which the Lord communicates blessings to the hearts of his children. They also tend to bind the people of God together, and cheer them up on their pilgrimage to the skies. I have frequently thought that we, as the professed people of God, do not attend to these things often enough. I for one would like to see the brethren throughout establish a rule, to attend to these ordinances statedly; say every three months at least. The church at Bainbridge has been greatly revived and built up during the past winter. The meetings are well attended. The [illegible] converted attend the prayer and experience meetings, which I always thought were [illegible] for good.

As regards the other churches on the Circuit, there is nothing special in the way of revivals. The brethren have five Sabbath Schools on the Circuit. In these nurseries of the Church are many promising and interesting children. The School at Hinkletown, which was organized last fall, has some oppo sition. Some heads of families of that village and neighborhood, who are members of churches, oppose the School on the ground that the brethren pray with the children. The Lord pity such men and women.

The time has now arrived when I shall have to leave the dear brethren and sisters of Lancaster county. Last Spring I came among them as a stranger, but I found a place in their affections, as well as a home in their families. I take this method to express my hearty thanks and best wishes for their kindness and hospitality which they have shown towards me while I sojourned among them. They shall ever have my prayers that the Lord may keep them faithful, and at last bring them to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Yours, as ever,

J. HAIFLEIGH.

N. B.—Brother Keller was over in Lehigh county lately, and found things favorable. The people are enquiring for the right ways of the Lord. He intends to hold a protracted meeting there some time in May. J. H.

Letter from Brother E. Logue.

TILMINGTON, Md., March 20, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

IN the last number of the Advocate I saw a letter from J. Hawk of Iowa, in which he takes the liberty of calling my name and temporal abilities into question. I always thought that men ought to know their own business and situation best. And again, I don't know what right or business brother J. Hawk has to meddle with my temporal affairs in the public prints. What his motive is, I cannot tell; but it would seem that he expected thereby to flatter some brother preacher to Iowa. But if brother Hawk wishes to influence a preacher to Iowa, he will please not do it at my expense. But as he appears to know so much about my circumstances and sustainance while in Iowa, he should have presented the true merits of the case. If he knew what my sale notes amounted to, why did he not know the amount of my indebtedness that I left there, to be met by those sale notes! As it regards my having a house and two lots there, that favor is to be attributed, in part, to the kindness and benevolence of the brethren and friends in and around Trenton; and a good part to my own industry and the means I took with me from Ohio.

If there should a preacher go to Iowa, to spend his time in preaching, I would advise the brethren there to do for him as those about Trenton did for me. Give him a lot, and assist him to put a house on it: so that he will have a home, and need not to be paying rent; for the rent will soon overrun the price of a house and lot.

In reference to what I had when I went to Iowa, that does not concern either bro. Hawk or any other man. While I was in Iowa I generally had plenty of provisions, but all the money I received would not amount to more than $80 or $85 for the three years and a half; while my afflictions were many, and a considerable of the expenses, of course, went out of my own pocket. It requires but little experience to know how far $80 or $85 would go towards the expenses of a family for three years and a half. Now, I do not wish to flatter any man to Iowa. I know what it is to be flattered. But the Lord knows that there is no other place that I am more anxious to see a good preacher sent, than to Iowa.

But to be honest, I cannot advise any one to go there as preacher, except he can take with him means of sustainance. The brethren and people of Iowa are kind and hospitable, and a preacher with a small family would get plenty of provisions, but he will need more than provisions. I cannot help but sympathize with the brethren in Iowa and Illinois.

There ought by all means to be a good, able preacher sustained in each of those States; and it is a shame for the churches in the East, that they will not enter into this enterprize. In fact they are standing in their own light by not doing it. If they would sustain a preacher or two in those States, for a couple of years, they would then probably be able to get along themselves, and by proper management, in a few years we would have a strong hold in those new countries. Why is it that the brethren who have the means will not wake up to this duty? The Lord is giving many of them from $400 to $800 of an income annually, and yet they cannot give ten—no, not five—no, not even one dollar a year towards having the Gospel, and the Church extended into those new countries. Can it be possible, brethren? Do wake up to this matter. God will reward you, if not in this world, you will get it an hundred fold in the world to come.

There are many of our dear brethren and sisters, in the States of Illinois and Iowa, who are suffering for the want of a preacher of the Church of God. And beside this, there are many poor sinners there, whom your liberality might be the means of converting to God and getting to heaven. Will not the Deacons exert themselves in this matter, and see if there are not some good brethren and sisters in the congregations who will subscribe towards this laudable cause? And if so, collect and forward it to the Standing Committee, to hand it over to whoever they might send to Iowa or Illinois.

I tender my love and best respects to all the brethren and sisters in Iowa. I done all that I could to get the Eldership to send a Missionary to Iowa, and also one to Illinois; but they could and would do nothing at that time; and that is the reason that I am not returning to Iowa this Spring to continue as preacher. I could not get as much money in Iowa as would pay for keeping my child. In conclusion I would say, with all good feeling to brother J. Hawk, that I enter my protest against meddling with other men's temporal affairs, thro' the public prints.

Yous, in Christian love.

E. LOGUE.

Letter from Brother J. Marks.

NEWBERRY TOWNSHIP,
York county, March 24th, 1849.

BROTHER J. WINEBRENNER:—

I TAKE up my pen to write a few lines for the satisfaction of myself and some of the brethren. I saw in the last number of the Advocate, a letter from a certain person signing himself An Observer, stating the particulars of the meeting at Newberry.

"Some few," he says, "professed to find peace, by believing in God with their whole hearts. The Church has also been revived and built up. The preaching brethren in attendance were brothers Crawford, Kister and Mateer. The brethren think that if the meeting could have been kept up longer, that much more good might have been effected." The fire, our friend says, if not entirely extinct, was suffered to slumber to an alarming degree here.

This, I think, is a mistake. The brethren have kept up their meetings regular through the week, and on Sabbath, and have had some good meetings.

I saw also a piece in the Advocate on Church Music. About this there is a diversity of opinion. Some say that it is a Note Book that you have in contemplation of publishing; others say not. I wish you to explain this in your next number, if you please, for the satisfaction of myself and others.

Yours, in love, J. MARKS.

REMARKS.

IF our call on the Amateurs of Music, to send us choice and popular pieces of Church Music, is carefully read, we think it can be understood without any explanation, note, or comment. Yet, if it is not understood, we can solve the ambiguity, by saying we intend publishing, by the leave of Providence, a Church Note Book, for the use of the Churches of God, Sabbath Schools and Singing Societies. The pieces of Music we have asked for, are intended for that work.

If singing is a part of Divine worship, we think it ought to be understood, and performed in the best possible manner. In this delightful, holy and heavenly service, Churches and Christians are greatly deficient, in our judgment, and we hope there will be reform and improvement. EDITOR.

Letter from Elder John Hovis.

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., March 26, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I AM now on my last round on the Venango and Harmony Circuit, which I have been traveling for one year, in connection with my much esteemed friend, brother J. M. Klein, and truly I have felt and saw that our labors for the past year have not been in vain; some sixty or seventy having embraced religion during the past year, at the different places in which we have labored as instruments in the hand of the Lord.

As for my part, I have been kindly treated by the dear people, to whom I feel much attached all around the Circuit; and my prayer is that the good Lord may ever bless and keep them faithful until the coming of Christ, that they may be presented blameless before him at his coming, having neither spot or wrinkle in their garments. Amen.

Yours, in the bonds of love,

JOHN HOVIS.

Letter from Elder M. F. Snavely.

NEWBURG, Pa., March 20, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

PARDON me for my delay in sending in my Biographical Sketches. I have a little too much business on hand, to write at present. However, I expect to be in Harrisburg some time in the beginning of April, and if I can, I shall bring them along.

Moreover, I would inform the Brotherhood that we expect (if God will) to arrive in Harrisburg on the 18th day of April, ready for emigration, where and when we expect to meet brother John Eberly, and family, from Chambersburg, to accompany us to Burlington, Iowa,—where we expect to land and look around. Most likely we will have to stay at least over night in Harrisburg, perhaps longer, before we can start from there for the West.

Elder Jacob Lininger was with me on the night of the 14th inst. Himself and some five or six families will leave the mountains about the first of October next, for the beautiful plains of Iowa. Cheer up brother Hawk, we are coming! The brethren in the West need not think that they will always be alone there. No, no! Neither need they think that they (alone) shall always enjoy those beautiful paintings of the finger of God. I mean the delightful flowers on the prairies. I expect (God willing) to see brother Hawk this side of the first of June yet, and brothers Kepford and Bechdle too.

Where we may finally settle I do not know as yet. We thought it policy to stop somewhat East, until we can look round and further see.

I hope those brethren of brother E. Logue's former charge will come and hunt us up, as soon as we arrive, and become acquainted, and I will try to give them a preach occasionally. So then, Farewell.

More anon.

M. F. SNAVELY.

OBITUARY OF Sister CATHARINE DAWSON.

DIED, at Philadelphia, on Saturday, the 24th ult., Mrs. CATHARINE DAWSON, in the 47th year of her age.

Sister Dawson, though a doubting disciple, was truly a mother in Israel. Her house, hand and heart were always open, to receive and entertain the brethren. We trust she will be found in the day of judgment, among the blessed of the Father, to whom the Judge of all will say, "Come ye blessed of my Father, &c., for I was hungry, and ye fed me; thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in," &c., &c.

Her son, John B. Dawson, writes concerning her death, as follows:

On Tuesday last, (27th inst.,) I committed to the silent tomb, my own dear mother.—Her end was exceedingly calm, she passed away without the slightest struggle, and I have every reason to believe, that to-day she rests sweetly in the bosom of her Redeemer.

OBITUARY OF Sister SUSANNAH DIEHL.

DIED, at Highspire, Dauphin county, Pa., February 20th, 1849, Sister SUSANNAH DIEHL, aged 27 years.

Our beloved Sister fell asleep in the Lord. Her end was calm and resigned. Her sufferings were great, for better than a year; but, thank God, she is now relieved from all her sufferings. She has left an affectionate husband and child, and a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn her loss.

In the death of Sister Diehl her husband has lost an affectionate wife, her friends a beloved companion, and the Church a pious member. But their loss is doubtless her eternal gain. Funeral services by the writer.

T. STROHM.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Travelling by Water.—The distance from New York to San Francisco, via Cape Horn, is 17,000 miles, and requires usually 150 days to accomplish it. From New York to Chagres is 2,000 miles; across the Isthmus to Panama, 50 miles, and then by water to San Francisco, 3,400; in all, 8,500 miles, which is travelled in 40 or 50 days.

Convention of Inventors.—In the Convention of Inventors which assembled last month at Baltimore, all sections of the Union were represented, and much harmony and good feeling prevailed. A committee was appointed to visit Washington and urge upon President Taylor the importance of choosing for Commissioner of Patents, a man of practical and scientific abilities, in preference to a lawyer or a statesman. The Convention recommended the Inventors' National Institute of Baltimore to the support and encouragement of capitalists and inventors. A committee was appointed to draw up a code of Patent Laws to be presented to a convention of inventors and capitalists to assemble in Baltimore before the next meeting of Congress.

Emigration to California.—There is every indication that the emigration to the gold region, via St. Louis and the Plains, this spring, will be immense. We have no means of estimating the number who contemplate, or are desirous of going by this route; but we have evidence, in letters and other communication to ourselves and others, that justifies us in saying that the number may be set down at from fifteen to twenty thousand. This estimate is founded chiefly on what we know of the spirit of emigration in this and the neighboring States.

In our own and several of the adjoining States, we have information that in nearly every county, companies of five, ten and upwards, are forming.—St. Louis Republican.

Duelling Prohibited.—President Taylor and his Cabinet have decided that every officer of the Army and Navy, and every man connected with the civil service of the Government, shall be removed from office if he engage in a duel. The President is said to have remarked that he had served forty years in the army, without engaging in a duel, and that a blackguard who would insult a gentleman, was not worth the powder it would take to shoot him, even if there were no crime in doing so.

"Colored Gold-Diggers.—John Routh, of Tansas, La., is about leaving for California, with twenty-five selected negroes, to dig gold. The Memphis Eagle also says that several others from that section have taken servants along with them."

Now if nothing else will avail, we hope the good people of California will meet in Convention, form a State Constitution, excluding slavery, and send their representatives here next Congress, asking admission into the Union.—National Era.

Homestead Exemption in Ohio.—A law has been passed by the Ohio Legislature, exempting a homestead from execution not exceeding six hundred dollars in value, to take effect from and after July next.

Steamboat on the North Branch.—Some enterprising citizens in Tunkhannock, Wyoming county, have just had a steamboat constructed, to ply upon the Susquehanna at that place. It has been built by Messrs. Converse & Avery, of that place, and is now nearly ready to receive its machinery, which has been made by Messrs. Neafie & Co., of Philadelphia, and will be immediately despatched. The boat is 128 feet in length, 22 feet beam and 8 feet hold. The entire cost will be about $6,000.

Cholera in New Orleans.—We regret to learn by private advices from New Orleans, that the cholera is rapidly extending its progress in that city, and that all classes are subject to its attacks.

MISCELLANEOUS.

RULES FOR PRESERVING HEALTH.

Temperance, Cleanliness, and Pure Air are essential to Health.

Rule 1. Very often open the windows and doors of rooms, and let the air go through.

2. In the morning open the bed room door and window, and let the air pass over the beds, at least half an hour before they are made up.

3. Sponge the body with cold water, or bathe every day.

4. Sweep out all rooms, passages, and stairs every day, wash them once a week, whitewash at least twice a year.

5. Use as much water in your house as you possibly can.

6. Never live on poor food in order to obtain money for drink.

7. Walk in the open air as often as you can.

8. When there is any fever or smallpox in your house, keep the rooms well aired, and separate, if possible, the healthy from the sick. Do not then go or send your children into other people's houses unnecessarily, nor let others come into yours.

9. Whether the patient dies or recovers, wash every article of clothing or bedding used. Get a bottle of solution of chloride of lime, sprinkle the bed and floor with it, and keep a plate of it on the floor.—Bury the dead without any unnecessary delay.

Lastly, remember that typhus fever finds out the drunkard and fastens on him. —Journal of Public Health.

WHY I TAKE A RELIGIOUS PAPER.

1. Because I love to hear about the kingdom of Christ, its advancement and prospects.

2. Because I need to be often urged to duty personal, social, public. It often warms my heart and excites to pray.

3. Because I should know how to pray intelligently for the church and for the world.

4. Because I ought to know what the times require of me, how I should labor, and how I should give.

5. Because it helps me to understand many things I hear in the pulpit and in conversation.

6. Because I wish my children to be intelligent, having enlarged and liberal views.

7. Because I would have my children, for their own good, their happiness, their salvation, cultivate an interest in the kingdom of Jesus.

8. Because I desire my children should be trained for usefulness.

SECRETS OF THE LADIES.

As you are fond of having flowers in the room, you will, perhaps, be glad to know how to preserve cut flowers as long as possible. The most simple rules are, not to put too many flowers into one glass; to change the water every morning, and to remove every decayed leaf as soon as it appears, cutting off the ends of the stems occasionally, as soon as they show any symptoms of decay. A more efficacious way, however, is to put nitrate of soda into the water, about as much as can be easily taken up between the forefinger and thumb, put into the glass every time the water is changed, will preserve cut flowers in all their beauty for above a fortnight. Nitrate of potash, (that is, common saltpetre,) in powder, has nearly the same effect, but is not quite so efficacious.

DO THINE OWN WORK.

'Know thyself, and do thine own work,' was the injunction of Plato. Never was precept uttered by a man partaking more deeply of the philosophy of wisdom.—There should be no drones in this world. All persons have their own peculiar work to do, and they should do it in their own proper persons. Those who best know themselves will be the most ready to do their own work. How many allow themselves to stagnate, rust, rot. perish, body and mind, in their vain endeavors to get others to do what none but themselves can do? Alas, they know not themselves! Nature has assigned to every living thing its own appropriate sphere of duty and labor. Happy are they who seek diligently to learn the one, and work faithfully to perform the other.

CHURCH VENTILLATION.

After service the doors and windows should be opened for the escape of impure air. The same should be done in the morning, several hours before preaching commences. Fill your stoves with wood; throw open your doors; let down your windows (for church windows should let down) and permit the cool, fresh air to circulate plentifully through the room. Don't be afraid, Sexton, of the frosty breeze of January. Keep your stoves going. Close up about an hour before the time of service, and you will have a comfortable, healthy room, and my word for it, you will not have so many "church sleepers."

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 25th ult., by Rev. C. W. Schœffer, Mr. Solomon Manley, of Hummelstown, to Miss Barbara Brubaker, of Harrisburg.

On the 29th ult., by the same, Mr. Jeremiah R. Douglass, of Middle Paxton, to Miss Sarah A. Hoover, of Harrisburg.

On Thursday, the 22d ult., by Elder M. F. Snavely, Mr. John Stouffer to Miss Margaret Ellen Kepner, both of Cumberland county.

On Wednesday, the 28th ult., by the Rev. Wm. R. De Witt, Mr. Thomas Cooch to Miss Brianna Beader.

On the 29th ult., by the Rev. A. H. Kremer, Mr. C. H. Long to Miss Ann, daughter of Joseph Schrom, Esq., all of Carlisle, Pa.

On the 17th ult., by Elder Thomas Strohm, Mr. Henry Kimmel to Miss Elizabeth Shuster, both of Schuylkill county, Pa.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—In this place, on Monday, April 2d, Catharine Mar, only daughter of William T. and Agnes Sanders, in the 3d year of her age.

At his residence in Philadelphia, on the 22d ult., after a lingering illness, Rev. Henry R. Wilson, D. D., formerly Pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Shippensburg, in the 66th year of his age.

At Mansfield, Ohio, on the 24th ult., Mrs. Catharene Blymire, aged 75 years, formerly a resident of Shippensburg.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Appointments.

Brother A. D. Williams, from Clinton, N. Y., will preach at the following places, Providence permitting, in order as follows, viz:

Elizabethtown, Monday evening, April 16th.
Bainbride, Tuesday " " 17th.
Middletown, Wednesday " " 18th.
Shiremanstown, Thursday " " 19th.
Mechanicsburg, Friday " " 20th.
Harrisburg, Sunday, (day and evening,) April 22d.
Milltown, Monday evening, April 23d.
Linglestown, Tuesday evening, April 24th.

N. B. The brethren of the aforesaid churches will please to receive and assist brother Williams as it becometh saints. As he travels by public conveyance, he will, of course, be dependent on the brethren for private conveyance to all such places as he cannot reach, conveniently, by public conveyance.

PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

A protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, on Whitsuntide, at Rohrersville, Washington county, Md. The brethren and public generally are invited to attend.

Religious Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the old camp-ground, near Rome, Noble county, Ind., commencing on Thursday, the 7th of June, 1849.

Who will attend? We do hope that those brethren in the ministry who calculate taking a tour to the West will make their arrangements so as to assist us in holding this meeting. Thos. Hickernell.

Ohio Standing Committee.

The Standing Committee of the Ohio Eldership will meet, according to previous appointment, at Father Briggle's, near Ashland, Ashland county, on the first Monday in May.—Those who have proposals for Camp-meetings will please send them in by that time.

The brethren are requested to meet on the previous Saturday, and make their arrangements to stay some time, for the purpose of holding meeting with Father Briggle.

A. Meorew.

THE

CHURCH ADVOCATE:

A FAMILY PAPER,

DEVOTED TO THE

DIFFUSION OF BIBLE TRUTH, RELIGIOUS NEWS & GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

EDITED BY JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M.

"Earnestly contend for the Faith which was once Delivered to the Saints."

VOLUME FOURTEEN.

HARRISBURG, PENN'A.

JOHN FURGESON, PRINTER, MULBERRY STREET, BETWEEN FRONT AND SECOND STREETS.

1850.

INDEX TO VOLUME FOURTEEN.

A

Page.

A call for help from Iowa, - - 3
Acknowledgements, - - - 3
Appointments by the P. M Gen. in Pa., 3
A new race, - - - - 5
Appointments by the President, - 17
American Sunday School Union, - 18
A short sketch, - - - 20
A mocker rebuked, - - - 25
American counsels abroad, - - 29
Antidote to poison, - - - 31, 52
A child over the falls, - - 31
Appalling shipwreck, - - - 38, 78
Advance paying Churches, - - 41
Arrival of Father Matthew, - - 46
A new manure, - - - 46
A short sermon, - - - 47
Alex. Campbell on emancipation, - 47
Asiatic cholera, - - - 49
Arrival and reception of the President, 58
A word to boys, - - - 63
Arbitration, - - - - 70
Anti-slavery work, - - - 79
Arrival extraordinary, - - 85
American board, - - - 86
Associate Reformed Church, - - 93
A disgrace to die rich, - - 119
A new fact disclosed, - - - 119
A word to the preachers, - - 121
American Institute, - - - 125
Accounts of our subscribers, - 129
A sermon by A. D. Williams, - 130
A large meteor, - - - 134
A new musical invention, - - 134
Amber strawberry, - - - 142
Adams county Jail, - - - 142
Affected humility, - - 143
A soft answer, &c, - - 143
Anecdote of faith and works, - 159
A lean solution, - - - 164
A complimentary notice, - - 177
Amendment to the Constitution, - 177
A chance for the preachers, - - 177
A Fearful Disease, - - 186

B

Beginning corner, - - - 2, 19
Bible, - - - - - 6
Bequests, - - - - - 15, 94
Biographical letters, - - 17, 145, 169
Bamberger's Journal, - - 25, 57
Buffalo and Penn'a. State Railroad, 29
Books forwarded, - - - 33
Broad road to destruction, - - 35
Baptism of Ex-President Polk, - 41
Benevolent beqnests, - - - 46
Birth of water, - - - 65
Baptismal regeneration, - - 73
Black lead, - - - - 77
Bound Volumes of the Advocate, - 81
Baptism of Baptist W. Noel, - 87
Baltimore Epistle, - - - 91
Bishop Onderdonk, - - - 101
Business notices, - - - 113
Bank failure, - - - - 118
Baptism, - - - 127, 155
Boston tragedy, - - 130, 150
Business on the Columbia Railroad, 134
Behaviour in company, - - 135
Benevolent and aggressive effort, - 145
Book publishers and sellers, - - 147
Biographical sketches, - - 148
Book of Job, - - - - 151
Book agent for Iowa, - - 151
Best agents, - - - - 154
Boston mystery, - - - 158
Bills explained, - - - 161
Book and Job printing, - - 169
Beautiful prayer, - - - 170
Black laws in Ohio, - - - 173
Block tongue, - - - 173
Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, - 173
Boiling potatoes, - - - 174

C

Credits and corrections, - - 1
Central Railroad meeting, - - 10
Cholera in Europe, - - - 13
Canada emigration to the States, - 14
Cholera in Boston—At New Orleans, 14
Cholera medicine, - - - 17
Camp-meetings, - - 17, 60, 65, 73
Camp-meeting in York county, - 75
Do. Linglestown, - 75
Do. Stonerstown, - 75
Do. Uniontown, - 83
Do. Stark county, - 83
Do. Indiana, - - 92
Do. Perry county, - 92
Character of Christ, - - - 20
Cholera in St. Louis, - - 22, 150
Cleveland and Cincinnati Railroad, - 22
Cotton Factory, - - - 25
Cholera, - - - - 25, 34
Christ's Ascension, - - - 26
Cholera at Independence, - - 29
Crime in Ohio, - - - 38
Cure and prevention, - - 46
Chaplaincy to the Hotel, - - 46
Cholera rebuking Sabbath-breaking, 46
Coloring walls, - - - 46
Children be prompt, - - - 47
Cotton mill, - - - - 49
Cholera specific, - - - 54
Cumberland Valley Railroad, - 57, 126
Capitulation of Rome, - - 57
Contend for the Faith, - - 59
College education in the U. States, - 70
Contents of Bible, - - - 84
Census of Oregon, - - - 85
Colored Convention, - - - 94
Cleaning silk, - - - 95
Cure for dysentary, - - - 95
Churchtown Bethel, - - - 105
Cost of the Pacific Railroad, - 110
Cost of publishing religious newspapers, 119
Congress, - - - - 121
Cholera in Bangkok, China, - - 121
Church patronage by levies, - 121, 137
Christian humility, - - - 123
Consumptive's guide, - - 125
Chicago and Milwaukie, - - 126
Constitution of California, - - 127
Cost of the war system, - - 127
Christian Pearl, - - 153, 128, 136
Common School Convention, - 129
California salaries, - - - 134
Cabinet at church, - - - 134
Christmas, - - - - 139
Capitol of Alabama burnt, - - 142
Colored Professor, - - - 142
Caleivum lights, - - - 142
Congregational Donation Visits, 147, 154, 164
Chalmers to the Impenitent, - - 159
Church collections - - - 170
Communion of Saints, - - 183
Change of Post Office Addresses, - 185

D

Daguerreotypes, - - - 2
Dedication of Smoketown Bethel, - 3
Dream that came true, - - 6
Destruction of the fruit in the west, 14
Destroy worms and caterpillars, - 15
Discourse on Judging, - - 19
Death of the first martyr, - - 20
Daguerrean gallery, - - - 24
Death of Major General Worth, - 30
Dwight's treatment of Cholera, - 33
Duty, manner and time of giving, - 39
Disposition of a sermon, - - 45
Drawings done by the sun, - - 45
Distressing casualty, - - - 45
Day of National Fasting, - - 49
Distiller and the Preacher, - - 55
Doubtful Disputations, - - 57
Depression of trade, - - - 78
Drought in Nova Scotia, - - 81
Deplorable accident, - - - 89
Dedication of the Bethel at Kumbler's, 89
Dedication of the Churchtown Bethel, 89, 105
Directions to young converts, - 95
Dedication of Camp-hill Bethel, - 97, 104
Disciples, - - - - 113
Diligent in business, - - - 135
Discussion failed, - - - 139
Dancing, - - - - 143
Death of the Intemperate, - - 151
Debate on Baptism, - 153, 161, 169, 170, 178
Doings of the Standing Committee, - 164
Dimensions of the Capitols, - - 167
Disappointing Congregations, - 175
Death of John C. Calhoun, - - 185

E

Emigration to the gold region, - 13
Educate the mothers, - - - 15
Early rising, - - - - 15
Emigration from Europe, - - 22
Extraordinary surgical operation, - 29
Electric lights, - - - 31
Editorial Convention, - - 33, 97
End of the world, - - - 35
Essay on strife, - - - 35
East Pennsylvania Camp-meetings, - 39
Endless existence, No. 1, - - 66
Do. Do. No. 2, - - 74
Emigration, - - - - 77
Extent of the Union, - - - 86
Excitement in Virginia, - - 87
Essentials of Baptism, - - 146
Education Convention, - - 146
Exhibition of the Blind, - - 154
Epistolary Courtesy, - - - 162
End of the Fourteenth Volume, - 185

F

File your Papers, - - - 9
Female form, - - - - 15
Franking privilege, - - - 17
Father Matthew, - 22, 62, 70, 78, 142
Fluency of speech, - - - 23
Feeling what you give, - - 30
Feather Beds, - - - 39
First religious newspaper, - - 41
Fast day, - - - 42, 49, 113
Foreign Postage, - - - 45
Feeling in religion, - - - 47
Force of imagination, - - 62
Fish dying, - - - - 62
First town in America, - - 77
Facts for Mechanics, - - - 79
Facts for reflection, - - - 79
For the boys, - - - - 95
Family Christian Almanac, - - 97
Four Questions answered, - - 137
Fire at the Toll-house, - - 145
Fearful mistake of our times, - 151
Franklin and Marshall College, 158, 161
Further accounts from Wooster, - 164

G

Growth of Reading, Pa., - - 5
Greene County Church, - - 9
Give and receive, - - - 15
German Hymn Book, - - 17
Great fire at St. Louis, - - 18
Galena and Chicago Railroad, - 29
Greatest Invention of the Age, - 38
Girard College, - - - 54
Gentle whisper in a husband's ear, - 71
Great yield of Potatoes, - - 78
Great Brick machine, - - 118
Growth of our Cities, - - 119
Governors of Pennsylvania, - - 143
Going around the bush, - - 148
Greek Christians, - - - 153
Gentleman at Church, - - 159
Gem from an old book, - - 167
General Banking Law, - - 169
Great fire in New Orleans, - - 174
Growth of western cities, - - 175
Great invention in engineering, - 182

H

Hints to ministers, - - - 6
History of Denominations, - - 8
Highly important from Canada, - 14
History of the Bible Society, - 30
Houses for Califonia, - - 38
Husband's Commandments, - - 39
Harrisburg Cotton Mill, - - 41
Historical Records, - - - 55
Hottest Days, - - - - 62
Harrisburg Gas Company, - - 65, 102
Hotel for San Francisco, - - 78
Hungary, - - - - 81, 158
Harrisburg meeting, - - - 97
How to make sleep refreshing, - 111
Heights of localities in the holy land, 127
Hundred Year Almanac, - - 129
How to make a will, - - - 143
Half Century, - - - 159
Hope for Israel, - - - 167
How to be happy, - - - 183
Harrisburg Bible Society, - - 185

I

Information wanted, - - 9, 113, 166
Inventor's Journal, - - - 25
Important Decision, - - - 30
Important Discovery, - - - 39
Infant Baptism, - - - 46, 167
Influx of Emigrants, - - - 51
India a missionary field, - - 55
Iawa once more, - - - 60, 122
Important purchase, - - - 70
Iron business in Butler county, - 78
Immense danger to the Cotton crop, 85
Illinois, - - - - 86
Important resolutions, - - 113
I am the way, - - - - 123
Information, - - - - 123
Insane, - - - - 150
Increase of Vice, - - - 151
Infidelity vs. Christianity, - - 159

J

Jerusalem, No. 1, - - - 35
Do. No. 2, - - - 58
Jericho, - - - - 59
Journey to Westmoreland, - - 60
Judge McClean on Slavery, - - 63
Journal of the 2d Iowa Eldership, - 99
Do. 20th East Pa. Eldership, 106
Do. 14th Eldership in Ohio, 114
Do. 4th Indiana Eldership, 116
Do. 7th West Pa. Eldership, 121, 132
Do. 1st Eldership in Michgan, 186

K

Kentucky, - - - - 13, 142
Keep Fish alive, - - - 63
Kneeling, - - - - 63

L

List of Acknowledgements, 1, 3, 9, 17, 33, 49, 89, 161, 185
Law of Newspapers, - - - 1, 169
List of Contributors, - - - 1
Legislature, - - - - 1, 129
Large issue of Sunday-school matter, 9
Law and Testimony, - - - 23
Lake Superior news, - - - 62
Long and short articles, - - 63
Letters of general information, - 76
Land warrants, - - - 78
Lights and Shadows, No. 1, - - 91
Do. Do. No. 2, - - 98
Lord's Supper, - - - 90
Ladies' City Tract Society, - - 92
Law of the Sabbath, - - - 126
Look behind you, - - - 131
Lesson, - - - - 139
Land for the Hungarians, - - 150
Literary World, - - - 181
Letter from John J. Bear, - - 3, 68
Do. Geo. Kinsinger, - - 4
Do. Benj. Howard, - 4, 141, 156
Do. D. Keplinger, - 4, 27, 140, 157,
Do. Samuel W. Park, - 4
Do. Jacob Miller, - - 4
Do. S. A. Brumbaugh, - 5
Do. A. B. Slyter, - - 5
Do. John Miller, - - 5
Do. M. F. Snavely, - - 30, 156
Do. E. Logue, 21, 85, 125, 140
Do. Daniel Brestel, - - 21, 188
Do. G. Sandoe, 21, 69, 125, 141
Do. Daniel Wertz, - - 22, 76
Do. Jacob Myers, 26, 60, 84, 139, 173
Do. J. H. Hurley, - 28, 84, 92, 149
Do. A. Megrew, 28, 44, 69, 84, 105
Do Isaac Webb, - - 28
Do. Daniel Williams, - 28
Do. Benjamin Fritchey, - 36, 76
Do. D. Neidigh, Jr., 36, 165, 182, 188
Do. J. C. Seabrooks, - - 37, 141
Do. C. Stambaugh - - 37
Do. J. J. Doman - - 37
Do. A. J. Fenton - - 37
Do. J. B. G. Kinsloe - - 43
Do. Wm. Booth - - 44
Do. Thos. Hickernell 44, 45, 149, 164
Do. John Stump - - 44
Do. L. W. Keller - - 52
Do. S. S. Snyder - - 52, 100
Do. J. Glenn - - - 53
Do. Stephen Barnhart - 53, 69
Do. John Keiser - - 53
Do. J. A. Stewart - - 61
Do. G. U. Harn - - - 61
Do. David Baker - - 68
Do. Rusticus - - - 68
Do. J. W. Keplinger - - 69
Do. John Hupert - - 69
Do. Moses M. Utley - - 76
Do. Nathan Worley, - - 76, 149
Do. F. N. Thompson - - 85
Do. David Kyle - - 85
Do. Levi Wolfersberger - 93
Do. A. C. Raysor - - 93
Do. Benjamin Ober - - 93, 166
Do. John C. Landis - - 93
Do. John P. Winebrenner - 99
Do. A. C. Raudabaugh - 100
Do. Joseph Dickey - - 100
Do. T. D. G. Grim - - 100
Do. H. M. Aston - - 117
Do. A. J. & W. Franks - 117
Do. T. H. Deshiri - - 123
Do. H. Hurray - 124, 149, 165
Do. John H. Chew - - 124
Do. Wm. Davis - - 124
Do. Thomas Bretz - - 125
Do. Isaac Miller - - 134
Do. J. Blickenstaff - 140, 157
Do. Geo. Barkstresser - 141
Do. John Uich - - 141
Do. Henry Sherich - - 119
Do. Samuel Scott - 156, 182, 187
Do. John Hickernell - - 156
Do. Jacob Mygrants - - 157
Do. M. P. Dill - - 157

INDEX TO VOLUME FOURTEEN.

Letter from Wm. Whisler - 157, 165
Do. C. Price - - - 165
Do. Jacob Bolinger - - 165
Do. Jonas Speelman - - 166
Do. John Shuler - - 173
Do. John Martin - - 187
Do. J. F. W. - - - 188

M

Missionary Pledges - - 2, 26, 33, 153
McAllister's Ointment - - 25
Mocker rebuked - - - 25
Methodist Book Concern - - 29
Monster Apple Tree - - - 30
Mahommedan Commandments - 31
Materialism refuted, No. 1, 34; No. 2, 42; No. 3, 50; No. 4, 54; No. 5, 66 - 38
Methodist Church South - - 38
Memphis Convention - - - 38, 117
Manufactory of Gold Pens - - 45
More common school teachers - 45
Maine on slavery - - - 46
Missionaries in California - - 47
Mormon Manifesto - - - 54
Manufactures - - - - 54
Mutual recognition of departed souls 59
Mortality among Eels - - 61
Methodist Church Property - - 62
Meeting in Fish Creek - - 73
Meeting at Griffith's School-house - 81
Money and new subscribers - - 81
Missionary Collections - - 81
Meeting of the Elderships - - 81
Marriages on Sunday - - - 86
Martic meeting - - - 89
My present lot and afflictions - 91
Mortality in Paris - - - 95
Manufactures in New England - 95
Ministers, Elders and Deacons - 97
Mormon Press - - - 101
Missionaries for Illinois and Iowa - 113
Magnetic Telegraph case - - 118
Mills' sentence - - - 121
Mysterious resolution - - 137
Maryland Gold Mine - - - 142
Mayor of Pittsburg - - - 150
Macauley's History of England - 178
Metrical Grammer - - - 159
Moral Retribution, No. 1, 162: No. 2, 172; No. 3, 181 - 164
Meeting in Wooster - - - 164
Methodist Quarterly Review - - 177
Maryland Constitution - - 183
Marriage with a deceased wife's sister 183

N

Norristown, &c. - - - 6
New Railroad - - - - 6
New Line of steamers - - 9
National Common School - - 10, 97
National Finances - - - 14
New York Riot - - - 22
National Convention of Inventors - 25
New motive power - - - 30
National College of Temperance - 33
Notice to Editor of Rel. Telescope - 36
National appropriations - - 38
National Fast - - - - 49
Notice of Book Depositories - - 57
New edition of Hymn-book - - 57
New style of Shot Towers - - 61
Newspapers - - - - 78
Newville meeting - - - 81
New system of music notation - 86
Nevin on the sect spirit - - 89
Normal schools - - - 97
New York and Tennessee Elections 113
New subscribers pledged - - 114
New York population - - 118
North Branch Canal letting - - 126
New Year - - - - 129
National Monument - - - 162
Natural Bridge - - - 167
No party country - - - 169
No Ordination - - - 173
Nevin's sermon on the name Christian 177

O

Our Fourteenth Volume - - 1
Ohio Legislature - - - 6
Our Paper - - - - 9
Old and New Testament - - 10
Our trip to Philadelphia - - 17
Our Book Depositories - - 33
Old School General Assembly - 33
Opening of the Pennsylvania Railroad 49
On Lowliness - - - - 86
Operations of the Spirit - - 90
Our subscribers - - - 113
Our accounts - - - - 137
Our best Agents - - - 154
Ohio State House - - 167
Our next Volume - - - 169
Oberlin resolutions - - - 175
Our Terms, Rules and Regulations - 185
On Ordination - - - 187

OBITUARY.

Obituary of Louisa C. Weaver - 5
Do. David Brady - - 12
Do. Samuel Sherrich - 13
Do. Mary Ann Wirick - 13
Do. Magdalena Garman - 13
Do. Magdalena Louck - 28
Do. Hester Megrew - - 29
Do. Elizabeth Strock - 29
Do. John B. C. Redsecker - 29
Do. John Thomas - - 38
Do. Catharine Hufferd - 45
Do. Allen S. Tolbert - - 53
Do. Mary Ann Hoover - 53
Do. Jacob Zell - - 69
Do. Abraham Hamilton - 71
Do. Jacob Myers - - 74
Do. Sophia Shaffer - - 77
Do. Henry W. Coble - 77
Do. Mary Miller - - 82
Do. Barbara Mellinger - 85
Do. Susan McAllister - 85
Do. Elizabeth Rittenhouse - 94
Do. Tillman Musser - - 94
Do. John Reaver - - 94
Do. Samuel Myers - - 101
Do. Jacob Balmer - - 101
Do. Barbara Ann Huff - 105
Do. William Barnhart - 117
Do. Hannah Elbin - - 117
Do. Jacob Olinger - - 158
Do. Eliza Kreiger - - 166
Do. Abraham Brenneman - 166
Do. Elizabeth Switzer - 166
Do. Joseph Hummer - 166
Do. Henry Beidler - - 174
Do. Catharine S. V. Gilbert - 174
Do. Nancy Washeim - 188

P

Post Office Address - - - 1
Prayer, before and after Meals - 2
Powerful words - - - 6
Pardons - - - - 6
Plutarch - - - - 7
Prayer meetings - - - 14
Population of the United States - 15
Paying Churches - - - 17
Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad - 22
Population of South America - 23
Prayer for speedy sanctification - 23
Plank roads - - - - 29
President Taylor's opinion of the Bible 31
Present state of the 7 churches in Asia 39
Proclamation of a Fast day - - 49
Peter pence - - - - 58, 86
Pastoral Visits - - - 67
Physicians and the cholera - 70
Proclamation by the President - 71
Paper folding machine - - 77
Politeness at Home - - 79
Peter Miller's will - - 79
Peace Congress at Paris - - 81, 95
Pennsylvania Railroad - - 85
Punctuality - - - - 87
Protracted meeting at Matamoras - 98
Power of personal holiness - - 103
Parties in Congress - - - 118
Philadelphia Museum - - 126
Petitions - - - - 127
Pay your debts - - - 127
Prospectus of Christian Pearl - 128
Preacher robbed - - - 129
President's Message - - - 129
Pulpit Reporter - - - 130
President Taylor and thanksgiving - 135
Protracted meeting at Highspire - 138
Population of New York State - 142
Practical rules for schools - - 143
Pittsburg boat-building - - 150
Preacher's salaries - - - 153
Phonography without a teacher - 154
Pulpit prayers - - - 154
Pork packing in the West - - 158
Preserving buds and grafts - - 174
Persecution for printing N. Testament 182
Paying debts - - - - 183

POETRY.

Song of the Redeemed - - 5
A Hymn - - - - 7, 152
A hint to the wise - - - 7
Night - - - - - 16
Verses for an Album - - 24
A Good Name - - - 24
Morning - - - - 31
The young convert - - - 37
To a star - - - - 40
Hymn - - - - 40, 55, 63
The mother's blasphemy - - 45
Lines on the death of sister Megrew 45
God's majesty - - - 47
Hymn for a little girl - - 47
I will not be there - - - 53
The Grave - - - - 55
A dirge - - - - 54, 61, 77, 158
The cup of crime - - - 63
The last tear I shed - - - 72
The throne of Grace - - 72
Smiles - - - - 80
Washing the Disciples' Feet - 88
Mortals prepare for death - - 96
Toil on - - - - 96
The child's hymn of Heaven - 103
The land of the blessed - - 103
Where is wisdom - - - 111
Faith, Hope and Charity - - 119
The Christian's walk - - 136
A Prayer - - - - 136, 160
Heaven and Hell - - - 144
No, never give up - - - 160
My mother's likeness - - 168
All things earnest - - - 176
Try—keep trying - - - 176
The Pilgrim's song - - - 183
Live to do Good - - - 183

Q

Questions answered - - 121, 137, 177
Questions asked for Information - 139
Query from Iowa - - - 156

R

Recovery of the Government Jewels 5
Report of Board of Western Peniten. 7
Review of the Mexican War - 14
Rhetoric - - - - 18
Resurrection - - - - 18
Receipts of Benevolent Societies - 18
Rules for a preacher, &c. - - 23
Recipe for cure of Cholera - - 25
Remedy for Cholera Morbus - 30
Remarkable Temperance Law - 30
Railroads in England - - 38, 118
Railroad to California - - 38
Rome attacked and besieged - 46
Railroad in the West - - 46
Remedy for Diarrhea - - 73
Reform Convention - - - 73
Religion among the upper classes - 95
Revival News - - - 99
Rush for California - - - 101
Railroads in the United States - 117
Reasons why a discussion failed - 123
Report of the Postmaster General - 129
Revival in Harrisburg - - 129
Railroads and the Sabbath - - 134
Reasons for learning to sing - 135
Report of Secretary of the Treasury 137
Remedy for hickups - - - 142
Return with it or return upon it - 146
Regeneration - - - - 147
Rules of Life - - - 148
Revival in Wooster - - - 153
Revival Intelligence - - - 164
Reports on Federal Relations - 177
Remedy for Rheumatism & Neuralgia 182

S

Stopping Papers - - - 1, 103
Scripture exposition - - - 10
Steamboat disaster - - - 10
Slavery and the Church - - 25
Sanitory regulations for cholera - 30
Stewed celery - - - 30
Sunday School - - - 33
Speech by Benton on Slavery - 39
Scriptural Discipline - - - 41
Sermon—a short one - - 47, 95
Sunday liquor traffic - - 54
State capitol of Tennessee - 62
Statistics of Hungary - - 63
Stopping Newspapers - - 65
Signs of the times in Europe - 71
Singular Prophecy - - - 71
Sympathy - - - - 71
Suspension Bridge at Wheeling - 78
Sickness in Ohio - - - 78
Siddonsburg Revival - - 83
Sixty ministers hung - - 86
School Convention - - - 94
Sugar manufactures - - - 94
Saying grace in England - 103
Saturn's rings - - - 111
Semi-centenary Subscriptions - 113
Sermon on Sanctification - - 122
Steamboat Explosion - - 125
Stewart's Store in New York - 126
Swedish laws against intoxication - 127
Sermon by A. D. Williams - - 130
Salt Lake Basin - - - 134
Signs of the Times - - - 138
Secretary of the Commonwealth - 145
Stockton's Theory - - - 153
Scripture Illustrations - - 155
Sanctification - - - 155
Standing Committee - - - 164
Swedes in Illinois - - - 175
Strictures on Dr. Hodgson's Sermon 180
Seventh-day Baptists - - 185

T

The training of children - - 2
The song of the Redeemed - - 5
Tobacco a cure for frost bite - 7
The franking Privilege - - 17
There were Giant in those days - 23
The next Census - - - 26
To drive away rats - - - 30
The Scientific American - - 33
The National Appropriations - 38
To Editors and Publishers in the U. S. 38
The Fourth of July - - - 41
The rush for Minnesota - - 46
Thoughts - - - - 51
The Locust Visitation - - 54
Tithing Models - - - 55
The Poor Minister - - - 60
The Methodist Church Property - 62
The wheat crop of the Union - 62
To keep Fish alive - - - 63
The prettiest present - - 63
The Seventh Census - - - 65
The Season - - - - 65
The tunnel on the Pa. Railroad - 70
The License Law in N. H. - - 77
Texas teaching morals - - 86
The present fashions & the Puritans 87
The Typographer - - - 95
To make good Coffee - - 95
Trial of J. G. Mills - - - 97
The narrow way to Life - - 98
The Tract House in New York - 110
Thanksgiving Day - - - 110
The two schemes of salvation - 119
Travelling partner wanted - - 121
The Protective Union - - 121
The Fine Art at Martinsburg - 123
Taken at his word - - - 126
The Church—what is it - - 127
The boundary line with Mexico - 134
Truth - - - - - 135
The best recipe for washing - - 142
Telegraph through the Ocean - 142
The Golden Rule - - - 153
The Bib. Repository & Clas. Review 154
The rationality of the Gospel - 155
To wash black worsted or wollen hose 174
To cook frozen meat - - - 174
To correct sourness in milk - - 174
The trial & conviction of Dr. Webster 185
The death-bed of J. Brenneman, Jr. - 187
The Dying Hour - - - 187

U

Useful invention for ladies - - 14
Union among Presbyterians - - 153
Union of Franklin and Marshall - 161
Urim and Thummim - - 169

V

Vermont License Question - - 6
Voice from the West - - - 43
Ventilation - - - - 111

W

Why should any man Swear - 7
Water the greatest of all tonics - 7
Washing clothes - - - 23
World's Peace Convention - - 25
Wants of the Church - - 26
Wool-growers' Convention - - 41
Who first found the gold in California 55
Woods-meeting - - - 73
Do. at Sandy Mount - 79
Want of earnestness in ministers - 79
Whence originated death - - 82
Wickey's Cholera Medicine - - 102
Whole number of Vetoes - - 134
Woman under a Monarchy & Republic 135
Wonderful discovery - - 135
Why discussion failed - - 139
War, and the follies of war - - 151
What an Editor does not like - 159
Work for all - - - - 175

Y

Youth and age - - - 3
York and Cumberland Railroad - 17
Yellow Fever and Cholera - - 86
York County Coal - - - 150
Young man stop - - - 159

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., MAY 1, 1849. NUMBER 1.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Fourteen.

Names	Am't. paid	Names.	Am't. paid
Barkstresser George	$1 00	Holtzman Lydia	$1 00
Bell Adam	1 00	Hershey Jacob H	1 00
Braly William	1 00	Hicks Ann	1 00
Brady George	1 00	Huntsberger Abr'm	1 00
Brady David	1 00	Harper James	1 00
Bricker John	1 00	Holler John	1 00
Boughman Wm	1 00	Isle Jacob	1 00
Beidler Jacob	1 00	Immel Michael	1 00
Barton Thomas	1 00	Keplinger David	1 00
Beyerle Dr J H	1 00	Knouse John	1 00
Brenneman Joseph	1 00	Kibler John	1 00
Bretz Thomas	1 00	Konn Daniel	1 00
Bowman John	1 00	Keister Geo W	1 00
Booth Wm	1 00	Keister Henry G	1 00
Brenneman Abraham	1 00	Kramer Wm	1 00
Brenneman David	1 00	Kapp Martha	1 00
Brenneman John	1 00	Keely Sebastian	1 00
Buser John	1 00	Kinsinger George	1 00
Balmer John	1 00	Kimmel Catharine	1 00
Balmer David	1 00	Keller Christian	1 00
Brumbaugh Sol A	1 00	Kintch John	1 00
Barkey Henry	1 00	Knisely Peter	1 00
Byers Joseph	1 00	Landis Christian	1 00
Coover John B	1 00	Lininger Jacob	1 00
Coover Jacob H	1 00	Louch Joseph	1 00
Cunningham Margaret	1 00	Long Robert	1 00
Criswell George	1 00	Mohler Henry	1 00
Crossman Wm T	50	M'Dowell Joseph	1 00
Crum Peter	1 00	Martin David M	1 00
Clinger Wm	1 00	Musselman Ann	1 00
Crusey Wm	1 00	Moyer Samuel	1 00
Carpenter Michael	1 00	Merkel Levi	1 00
Campbell Levi	1 00	McGonnel Patrick	1 00
Carl John W	1 00	Matter David	1 00
Clay Henry	1 00	McCreary Geo	do
Cassel Emanuel	1 00	Metzler Thomas	do
Dull Frederick	1 00	Moyer Joseph K	do
Dunlap John	1 00	May Daniel	do
Doman John J	1 00	Markley Daniel	do
Deshirl Thomas H	1 00	Miller Samuel	do
Dare Martha	1 00	Mullen Sarah	do
Dengler George	1 00	McFadden Wm	do
Dill Michael	1 00	Myers Wm	do
Etter Samuel	1 00	Martin George	do
Forney Christian	1 00	McClannahan James B	do
Fordney Wm	1 00	Moyer Elizabeth	do
Fulton Sarah	1 00	Miller Jacob	do
Funk Abraham	1 00	Miley John	do
Gilbert Edward	1 00	Motz George	do
Grubb John	1 00	Marker Samuel	do
Gorgas Wm	1 00	Miller John (Potter)	do
Grove Sarah	1 00	Nelson Josiah	do
George Daniel	1 25	Nichol Joseph	do
George Joseph	1 25	Orris Joseph	do
Grose John	1 25	Pisle Christian	do
Hallfeigh Jesse	1 00	Pendicord John	do
Houser John	1 00	Petre Henry	do
Houtz Wm	1 00	Peters Samuel	do
Hoover Samuel M	1 00	Palmer Benj	do
Hoover Jacob F	1 00	Priest Isaac W	do
Harris Samuel	50	Reninger George	do
Hamilton Abr'm	1 00	Reeme Mary	do
Height John	1 00	Rupp Jonas	do
Hicks Samuel	1 00	Rupp John G	do
Hoover Michael	1 00	Reis John	do
Hinny Wm	1 00	Ross George	do
Hurley John E	1 00	Reichart Henry	do
Sherich Peter	$1 00
Tomhauld Jonathan	do
Unger Catharine	do
Unger Benj	do
Walters Daniel	do
Walters Peter	do
Wiland Christopher	do
Wittmer C L	do
Walters George	do
Wagner Jacob	do
West Edward	do
Winebrenner Christian	do
Winebrenner J P	do
Winebrenner C G	do
Wagner Abraham	do
Weltmer Joseph	do
Young Jonathan	do
Zentmeyer John	do
Zimmerman John	do
Zimmerman Philip	do
Zimmerman Henry	do
Zeigler Sarah	do

Credits and Corrections.

We have not acknowledged all the receipts on the present volume in this paper, because some of them came to hand after the foregoing list was put in type. They shall, however, be acknowledged in our next; and all that is sent us before the first inst. But those who send hereafter, will please bear in mind that nothing less than $1 25 will pay for the volume, between this and the first of August next.

There were some few mistakes made in the list of delinquents, as published in our last. These shall be rectified in our next.

Post Office Addresses.

Elder E. Lodge wishes us to give notice that his Post Office Address, for the present Eldership year, will be Fayetteville, Franklin county, Pa.

Elder J. H. Hurley's is Lancaster City, Pa.

Elder M. F. Snavely's Burlington, Iowa.

Brother E. H. Thomas' Newburg, Cumberland county, Pa.

Brother Jacob Flake's Shippensburg, Cumberland county, Pa.

Brother Mooney's Mount Joy, Lancaster county, Pa.

The Law of Newspapers.

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription.

2. If the subscribers order the discontinuance of their papers, the publisher may continue to send them, till all cash charges are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect, or refuse to take their papers from the offices to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have settled their bill, and ordered their paper discontinued.

4. If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher, and the paper is sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take a paper or periodical from the office, or removing and leaving it uncalled for, is "prima facie" evidence of intentional fraud.

Stopping Papers.

When will men, women, and Post Masters learn that it is of no use to return papers without designating the place from which they come? "Job Smith wishes his paper stopped," says the marginal reading. And does Mr. S. live in Nova Scotia, Texas, or in some corner of New England? We might find out in one or two hours, if we had the time to throw away. But perhaps not then, for it is likely there are several of the above name on our books. So the paper continues to go, and the publisher gets a sound scolding once a week.

Worse still, many order their paper stopped after it has run four, six or eight weeks over the time, and not a word said about arrearages. This might be borne now and then, but such a leakage the year through would sink a bigger ship than ours. A business that depends on small sums must take care of small sums; and at the risk of being thought unfair and unaccommodating, we must conclude to send the paper till full payment is made. Those who are not willing to pay a little snm, can remain on our books till the subscription amounts to a sum which they consider worth noticing.

Our Fourteenth Volume.

This number commences the 14th Volume of the Advocate. We commence with a larger list of subscribers than we have ever had.—Nevertheless we still want more, and we hope still to receive more.

We feel grateful to our numerous friends, for the active part they have taken to extend the circulation of the paper. We humbly and respectfully solicit a continuance of their patronage and active influence in our favor.

We also request our numerous contributors not to weary in well doing, but to continue to co-operate with us, in making the paper as interesting and profitable as it well can be. For our part, we shall spare no pains to make it as good as our time, talents and circumstances will permit. To please all, we have long since given up as a hopeless task; but we shall try to come as near it as we can. How far we shall succeed, time must show. But herein, as well as in other things, we know we shall be dependent on more than human aid. We ask, therefore, not only for subscriptions to the paper, for communications, letters and notices for its columns, for diligent reading and prompt payments, &c., but also, for the earnest and persevering prayers to God in our behalf. We feel that an editor needs Divine aid, to speak properly and efficiently to the people through the press, as well as the minister who speaks to them from the pulpit. Hence, we say again, lend us your prayers, that the blessing of God may attend our labors and crown our efforts with success.

List of Contributors.

The following named brethren are appointed regular contributors for the present (14th) volume of the Advocate. They are requested to write monthly, or at least quarterly, on some doctrinal, scientific or moral subject, which may be interesting and profitable to the readers of our paper.

However, we wish it distinctly understood, that the appointment of these brethren, as a company of joint editors and regular writers for the paper, will not exclude any from writing for our columns, as heretofore. We invite, therefore, all to try their pens and write freely for the columns of the Advocate; but especially, earnestly and affectionately do we solicit the following named brethren to co-operate with us, for the good of the cause, by sending us, as herein requested, their monthly or quarterly contributions, on such subjects as above named, or as they may think best. The contributors are:—

Jacob Flake,	A. D. Williams,
James Mackey,	G. U. Harn,
E. H. Thomas,	J. H. Christ,
Thos. Hickernell,	E. Logue,
Dr. Jacob Myers,	Arch. Megrew.

The Legislature.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania adjourned on Tuesday the 10th ult., after a session of ninety-nine days. The session was a business one in the fullest sense of the word. An immense number of bills were reported, and nearly 500 were passed into laws, many of them of a public and very important character.

Amongst the public bills is the General Appropriation bill, which embraces an important provision for the completion of the North Branch Canal, provided the Treasury is in a condition to appropriate the means, after paying the ordinary expenses of the Government, and the public interest, without entailing additional burdens upon the people. Provision is also made in the bill for avoiding the Philadelphia Inclined Plane.

A Revenue bill was also passed, and a new License law, which will add, it is said, to the revenues.

The School laws have been revised, and new and important provisions enacted.

The Judicial districts have also been revised and three new districts formed.

A law has also been enacted, providing for the cancellation by the Banks of the present ragged and filthy relief notes, and issuing new ones in their stead. The charters of several Banks have been renewed, and a new Bank has been established at Danville, which was demanded and required by the business community of that region.

A bill revising and materially altering the Militia laws was passed, but has not been signed by the Governor.

Prayer before and after Meals.

As there are various opinions among the brethren with regard to the duty of giving thanks at meal time or at the table, we have thought it expedient for the sake of bringing about harmony of opinion and uniformity of practice, to show the authority by which this duty is enjoined.

If it is a duty to say grace or pray before and after meals, we must have some Scriptural authority for it. The doctrines and commandments of men are not sufficient to impose this, or any thing else, as a religious duty. We must have Divine law, or example, otherwise it is no Christian duty. What then are the laws and the facts in this matter? Let us examine and see.

With regard to the duty of giving thanks before meal, we have ample authority. We have

1st. General laws or precepts which clearly imply the duty. As for instance:—

"In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." Thess. 5: 18.

"Every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving: for it is sactified by the word of God and prayer." 1st Tim. 4: 4, 5.

"Giving thanks always for all things."—Eph. 5: 20.

"In every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God." Philippians 4: 6.

"Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatever ye do, do all to the glory of God." 1st Cor. 10: 31.

These, and many other texts, of like import, clearly and evidently imply the duty of prayer at the table. For if "in every thing we are to give thanks"—if "in every thing," by prayer, we are to make known our requests to God, then surely we ought thus to glorify God when we enjoy our daily food.

2d. This duty is further enjoined by the example of Christ and his Apostles.

When Christ fed the five thousand with five loaves and two fishes, it is said he made them all sit down:

"Then he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples to set before the multitude." Luke 9: 16. See also, Matt. 14: 19. Mark 6; 41. John 6: 11 and 23.

Again, when he fed the four thousand with seven loaves, he did the same. See Matthew 15; 36. Mark 8: 6.

The same, also, he done at the passover supper, the same night in which he was betrayed. 1st Cor. 11: 23, 24. Matt. 26: 26. Mark 14: 22. Luke 22: 19.

This duty is also enforced by the example of the Apostle Paul, and many others. "And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in the presence of them all; and when he had broken it, he began to eat." Acts 27: 35.

Another argument might be drawn from reason. The thing itself is reasonable, as well as Scriptural. But we forbear saying any thing more on this point. We have said enough. And from what has been said, we see it to be a plain duty to ask a blessing at the table before meal.

But how is it with regard to giving of thanks after meals? Is it as clearly a duty to give thanks after meal as before meal? We think not. If it is a duty at all, it must be inferred from the general precepts on the subject, for as to examples, there are none.

If, therefore, we pray and give thanks when we sit down to meals, after the example of Christ and others, we have, perhaps, done all that is required. Yet, there may be no impropriety in doing a little more, in some things, than the word strictly requires: although uniformity in faith and practice, is very convenient and desirable. Let us strive for it in all things.

In conclusion, it may not be amiss to say a few things touching the nature and manner of performing this duty.

1st. It should be appropriate. The food to be received should form the leading subject of our prayer and praise.

2d. It should be short. From three to a half dozen sentences are quite sufficient.

3d. The prayer should be audibly and devoutly expressed. Some pray too loud, others too low. Some are too light, hurried, and irreverent in their manner and tone of voice, as though they had no sense of the presence of God. All these disorders, the general rules of prudence and common sense should correct and regulate.

4th. As to posture, sitting seems to be the most Scriptural and natural. See Mark 6: 39.

Daguerreotypes.

Dr. Washington Barr has removed from his old stand to the corner of Second and Walnut streets, where he has the most elegant Daguerreotype Rooms,—takes the most beautiful pictures,—finished off in the most splendid style,—and is prepared to please the most fastidious with a most perfect fac simile of their physiognomy. Those who desire a good picture,—perfect in all its parts,—will do well to give him a call. His rooms are crowded daily with the beauty and fashion of the place and vicinity, eager to have a transcript from the original. The Doctor is kind, accommodating and obliging, and will be pleased to have our readers give him a call, if for nothing else, to examine his beautiful specimens. The rooms are open from 6 to 6, and all are invited to give a call. See Advertisement in another column. K.

Missionary Pledge.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, - -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Solomon Brumbaugh, - -	5 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00

Temperance Beverages.

Those of our readers who feel like indulging in a cool and healthful beverage, would do well to call at E. S. Bell's, No. 26 South Second street, where they will find the proprietor ever ready to accommodate them with an unsurpassed article of Lemon and Sarsaparilla Mineral Waters. Call and try.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

The Training of Children.

BY H. J. BYERLE.

Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Prov. 22: 6.

Are Christian parents aware that the above is a divine commandment, and as imperative as any other one in the whole Bible? There are people who think some children will turn out to be good for nothing, altho' they receive ever so good instruction! Such people would say, "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will depart from it!" But this is both unscriptural and unreasonable. Let us analyze the above commandment.

1. Train up a child. A child shall be trained; and why? Because without training it will turn out to be vicious. Although an infant be so pure and innocent as to be the type of religion—"Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven,"—yet it is certain that as soon as a child comes to reason, it testifies to the fallen state of man, and shows a tendency to turn to the side of evil rather than to the side of virtue; and if these vicious tendencies are not arrested in the commencement, they will grow and spread like weeds in a neglected field. This shows the necessity of training.

Who shall train the child? We answer, its parents or guardians. Under the old Spartans, chidren were state-property. Parents had their rules prescribed by law, and they were considered as only the nurses of their children; and at the age of seven, the latter were taken from their parents and delivered over to the classes for public education.—Some parents in our country look upon our public schools a little in this light. They send their children to school to keep them from the street, implying, by their language, that they themselves cannot keep them from the street! It is a part of the training of children to go to school and learn; but if they are sent merely because the parents cannot otherwise keep them from mischief, there is a want of training at home. And a serious want it is! In our country, children are the property of parents, until they become of age. And Scripture makes it the parent's duty to train his child. "Ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."—Eph. 6: 4.

2. In the way he should go. What way is this? The way of righteousness! "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth."—Eccles. 12; 1. This includes all. If we remember our Creator, we do what the great Preacher calls the conclusion of the whole matter: "Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." Eccles. 12: 12.

3. When he is old, he will not depart from it. If we train a child in the proper manner, we have the divine assurance that, "when he is old, he will not depart from it." Then do not tell me some children will, in spite of every thing, turn out bad. There is no exception in the commandment. It does not say, "train children in the way they should go, and some will not depart from it." But it implies that every child shall be trained up in the way that all children should go, and when they are old, none will depart from it.

I will make plain what I mean. I gather from the Scriptures, and from every day experience, that if all parents knew their duty toward their children, and would do it, ALL children would become useful citizens and good Christians. How anxious should parents be to study the nature and disposition of their dear little ones, so that they might give them proper instruction. The education—I mean the religious as well as the intellectual—of a child, should be the object nearest to a parent's heart. Yet how many there are who take much more pains to acquire wealth for their sons and daughters, than to give them a good training. Is money so precious, that it should be collected and hoarded at the risk of perdition? Let the wise man Solomon speak once more: "how much better is it to get wisdom than gold, and to get understanding rather to be chosen than silver." Prov. 14: 16.

Linglestown, Pa., 1949.

The Beginning Corner;
OR
The Restoration of the Gospel Illustrated.

It is generally well known to persons familiar with land claims and titles in this country, that many of the largest claims were located long before the settlement of the country by its present white inhabitants. In making these locations, it was always necessary to have a beginning corner, from which the lines must run that bounded the tract, and upon the future identification of which depended the validity of the claims, and its power to bar all others that might thereafter be located on its territory.

Among these tracts or claims, was a large one in Franklin county, Pa., belonging to a Mr. H———, of said county, which had been suffered to remain for years without being identified or run out, the owner not coming forward to set up his claims. The result was, that the old survey, in course of time, became entirely covered over with other claims.—Every occupant that chose, according to his notion or fancy, made a beginning corner for himself, run out his tracts, and marked his lines all to correspond best, as he conceived, with his own peculiar interest. And as there was a good deal of vacant land taken up in this neighborhood, of late Mr. H——— thought it prudent to secure his land; but after arriving in the neighborhood and inquiring for it, no one could tell him where it was—no one could point him to the beginning corner.—The various occupants reposing on it in peaceable possession, either did not know where the corner was, or if they did know, did not wish it to be found, knowing that such a discovery would be fatal to their claims.

What is to be done? Mr. H——— hears of a man near Greencastle, well acquainted, very generally, with the beginning corner of the old survey. He immediately applied to him, who informed him that he knew where it was, and could point it out to him. They set out for the place, arrived at it, and undertook the examination. It must be a certain kind of tree in a certain situation. They find the specified tree, and the situation to suit, but necessary marks are wanting. They cannot be seen. The marks are necessary to the identification, and without which any other tree similarly situated might have had equal claims to begin the true corner. What again is to be done? The man employed went to work. He tore away the old vines and parasitic growth, by which the trunk of the aged tree had become covered over in the lapse of many years; and behold, the marks—the old marks made their appearance.

The land is identified, the lines are run out, and the rightful owner now takes possession. But can he do it peaceably? Will the other claimants give up their claims? Will they let him have the rightful precedency? If they do, it is more than usual in such cases. But they contend for it in the face of the very best title, and persist until, on the testimony, they are non-suited in Court, and the suit decided against them. Had the real owner made a new corner, and run out a tract, so as not to interfere with other claims, all would have been well. But the identification of the old corner—what a commotion, what an excitement, what a contention, does it produce!—And no wonder, when it destroys all the other claims. But they can still have possession, and live on the old survey, by complying with the conditions of the owner, and coming under the old title.

We have here presented a beautiful illustration of the restoration of the primitive or original gospel; the re-esthblishment of pure and Apostolic Christianity. We will make the application, prefacing it with the commission recorded by Luke. Thus it is written, and thus it behooveth Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, BEGINNING at Jerusalem. Luke 24: 46, 47.

Leaves torn from the Scrap-Book of Thought.

BY JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

Leaf the Eleventh.

Youth and Age.

How different the subjects! Bounding, blooming, light-brained Youth, and thoughtful, decrepit, hoary-headed Age! Youth—a mixture of folly and promise! Age—the burden of experience and repentance!

How often do we see a religious youth?—Rather, how seldom do we observe a young person who is under the influence of Jesus Christ? Many there are who have acknowledged God as their guide, yet ninety-nine out of a hundred live in foolishness, and worship no God save the God of this world. Though they know that "youth is the time to serve the Lord," yet they disregard the great command of God, and do not serve their "Creator in the days of their youth." Alas! what folly!

God loves to see a pious youth, and bestows numberless blessings upon him, which he would not receive were he not "a youth of God's own heart." A young person enjoys more pleasure if he is travelling on the right road, than if he remains in the way of error and rebellion. What is more promising, more noble, than to see a child endeavor to do the will of God? Look at the history of the Israelitish King, Josiah, of whose "good reign" the Chronicles have told, and of whom it was said when he was sixteen years of age: "In the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet young, he began to seek after the God of David his father," (2d Chron., 34: 3,) and God loved him for it.

Look at the son of Jesse, the slayer of Goliath; and look at "little Samuel!" In him an example was given to youths, and to parents: that parents should do as did Hannah and Elkanah, dedicate their offspring to the Lord, and train them up in His nurture and admonition. There are many reasons for living a religious life while young, and it is hoped that many of the present generation will repent and do away the universal apathy with regard to religion, that has existed among the youths for so many ages.

Awful as it is, the foolishness of youth on religion is surpassed by the foolishness of age. When the experience of a third of a century has crowned a man or woman, they ought to see the benefit of a change for the better. But do they? If they do, they seldom improve that knowledge. Sorrowful fact.—Even more mature age, the age of white hairs, of "lean and slippered pataloon," is passed through often, too often, without repentance. What a picture!—a trembling old man on the verge of eternity, without hope of salvation—without a hope of any happiness in this world or the next, and an awful apprehension of everlasting damnation! Alas! Alas! And for their folly have they any excuse—any reply to make when God shall demand from them their mis-used talents? No!

There are many, though, who have repented of their wickedness, and our prayer is that the number may increase till the universal cry shall be, "Holiness to the Lord!"

Maria Forges, Blair Co., Pa., Oct., 1848.

Dedication of Smoketown Bethel.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

A SECOND time I shall attempt to address a few lines to the readers of the Advocate, in regard to the new Bethel recently built at this place. You are aware, as I stated in my last letter, that the above named Bethel, at that time was not yet completed. You are also informed that it remained unfinished until now: owing entirely to the inclemency of the weather. But now, through mercy, it is ready to be dedicated to the service of God, which will take place, Providence permitting, on the 13th day of May next. The brethren of the surrounding places, and the brethren in general in the ministry, are respectfully invited to attend. WM. KRAMER.

N. B.—Persons wishing to attend from a distance, and not being acquainted, are informed the above house is located at or near Smoketown cross roads, about one mile from Etter's Post Office.

Information is also hereby given, that there will be taken up a public collection, designed to assist in defraying the expenses of the erection of the above house.

By order of the building committee,

W. K.

Smoketown, York Co., Pa., April 9, 1849.

A Call for Help from Iowa.

HENRY COUNTY, Iowa, March 12, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

IN perusing the Church Advocate, we had the pleasure to find that an effort is being made to raise funds to sustain and send missionaries to Illinois and Iowa. You also wished us to let you know what we can do with regard to sustaining a preacher. We answer, that we are poor, but are willing to give as the Lord has prospered us. We are few in number here; but after consulting together, we have come to the conclusion, that if you could send us a man with a small family, who would be willing to live on such fare as we do, we think we can sustain him. However, we cannot promise him much money. Brother Logue has been with us about three years and a half; and we are sorry to say, we have seen but little effort made, and little good effected during this time. We believe he was well provided for, and is now worth some three or four hundred dollars more than when he came here.

Dear brother, there is a large field of labor here; the harvest is great and the laborers are few, and we would not only pray the Lord of the harvest, but also our brethren in the East, to send at least one faithful laborer to the State of Iowa. Send one whose sole motive will be the glory of God and the advancement of Christ's kingdom. But we do not want one who is greedy of filthy lucre; neither will we sustain such an one.

Since brother Logue has left us, we have kept up our meetings. Brothers Scott and Zentmeyer have labored with us, as much as their circumstances would admit, and we bless God, we have some soul refresbing seasons, and a prospect in some places of sinners turning to the Lord.

JACOB SMITH,
AMOS HENTHORN,
DAVID NEFF,
JOSEPH B. NICKOL,
JOHN ZENTMEYER,
JOSEPH McDOWELL,
JOSEPH BARTON,
SAMUEL SCOTT.

Acknowledgements.

PERMIT me, Brother Winebrenner, to express through the Advocate, my thanks for the cordial reception and kind treatment which I have everywhere received during my brief and flying visit among the Churches.—Many pleasing associations have been revived, old acquaintanceships continued, and new ones formed, which I trust will be continued in Heaven. Christian confidence and fellowship have been mutually excited and strengthened, while nothing has occurred to mar the most perfect good feeling, and the closest Christian affections. All the dear brethren with whom I have become acquainted, and who have without exception treated me so friendly and Christian-like, will please accept my most heartfelt thanks and prayer that God may bless us all on earth, and we finally meet in Heaven, if not again below.

In Christian affection,

A. D. WILLIAMS.

Letter from Brother John J. Bear.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio, Nov. 20, 1848.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

BEING often requested by my brethren to write for the Advocate, I have now made the attempt at last. I will commence by saying, I was born in Somerset county, Pennsylvania, on the 4th day of July, 1815. And about seven years afterwards my father moved to Wayne county, Ohio; and he lived there two years and six months, then he moved to Wyandot, Ohio. Six months afterwards, I seen him die like a Christian, leaving me, his only son, and mother and two sisters, to mourn his departure. Thus I was left alone, no brother to help me in the back-woods, and among the wolves, wild-cats, catamounts and deers; too far away from all my relations, not an uncle or an aunt to help me. What few people were here, were all strangers to me, and poor with all the rest. Yes, my gentle reader, I could talk much about hard times, but this is not my object at present. I will return to my point.

Having no father to see to me, and being of a wild disposition, I ran far into sin and folly; (but I would say this, that I stayed with mother and helped her to raise her family till they could do for themselves,) till in the 21st year of my age, when God made use of a poor widow woman to bring me to a discovery of myself. When I came to myself, I found myself a poor, giddy, trifling, profane youth, pushing my way down to the vortex of hell, there to be a companion with devils and lost spirits forever. Yes, dear reader, I am sure, if God had answered one oath of a thousand, I would now be where hope is an everlasting stranger, and where blessed mercy could never cheer my disconsolate soul. But glory be to God, the Father Almighty, who, of his infinite love and tender mercy, plucked me as a brand out of the fire.

I would say further, that in the year 1835, on the 20th of October, and at the hour of midnight, Jesus came to the prison of sin where satan had bound me: He took hold of the iron door and broke it open; then opened the iron gate of despair; then came to where I lay bound with a great iron chain well locked on me; He took hold of the chain and broke it off, and said arise: that moment there appeared to me a stream of light clear as a sunbeam, to fill the house, and to enrapture my soul.—Thus I was made unspeakable happy.

Soon after this I joined the E. M. Church, and continued with them for twelve years. I also confess my strong attachment to them. I was actually wedded to them, because they preach the gospel to sinners, and used to be a holy people; and I believe there are good, pious people among them now. However, they got to be a stiffened sect. But the truth is, Free-Masonry, Odd-Fellowism and Sons, tax laws, the deed of settlement, and the super order of ministers, from the Bishops down, and their power to control the church, is more than I can find in the commands of Christ.—And in taking this view of things, I found I could not stay with them without violating the rules of discipline. Hence I came out from among them; though I wish them well, and have a tender regard for them. Among them I have enjoyed happy seasons. But to return to my starting point.

About six weeks after I embraced religion, God by his spirit, impressed my mind that I must preach the gospel; and never, perhaps, was a person more distracted than I have been for thirteen years. But now I have given up at last, to do my duty, and leave the event to God. I hope and pray his blessing will attend my feeble labors. I would say to my brethren who are expecting me to preach to them the next summer, that I have prepared myself to travel, and as soon as my family will permit, I will be out with them, and will endeavor to do the best I can. But let me say to my brethren, that I want them to commence to search their hearts, and to see whether they are growing in grace, and in the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus. Pray also, my brethren, for a revival of religion to commence in your own hearts and families, among your neighborhoods, and around the whole circuit. I would like to hear of fasting, and of straight walking and talking, and of zeal, and of life, and of power with God, and of holiness of heart, without which no man shall see the Lord and live. I hope I will not hear so much complaining of one another as there is among the Methodists and the United Brethren. But I want to hear of good doing and peaceable living with one another. I want the brethren and sisters to pray, and to continue to pray, for me and brother Williams, that we may have light, life and liberty, and be useful to them and ourselves, and to be neither a drone nor a drag.

Brethren, I have a word more to say, that is this: you know the world is full of preachers who say they are called of God to preach the gospel. But then just look at them! What are they doing! They are preaching, praying, dividing and sub-dividing, pulling down each other's fences, and stealing members one from the other, making sects, divisions, discords, disciplines, parties, names, confusions; and yet all say they are going to Heaven.—O! my blessed God! is this thy kingdom come, thy will be done on the earth as it is in Heaven! Is Heaven full of sects, names, divisions, disciplines, parties pulling down each other's fences, and stealing members one from the other? I fear, I shudder at the thought of such a state of things! O, blessed Master! help me a poor worm, to discharge my duty in that way which will lead me safe up to Heaven when I die.

I am with you in the gospel,

JOHN JACOB BEAR.

Letter from Brother Geo. Kinsinger.

Logansville, Logan County, February 17, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Since I came to Ohio, I have been shifting several times, and I left Ontario, Richland county, last October, and I left directions for the Post Master to forward my papers to this place. However, by mistake five or six numbers did not come to hand. I am now located near Logansville Post Office, Logan county, Ohio; you will please, therefore, direct my paper to this place. I intend this for publication, in order to let the brethren know where I am, in order that they may pay me a visit when travelling through this country. We are always glad when brethren come to see us, and ready to make them welcome, and as comfortable as circumstancee will admit.

Brother T. Hickernell paid us a visit last week. I also wish to let brethren know, that wish to emigrate to the West, to give us a call and take a look at Logan county. I do not wish to make a portrait, but I think the foundation is here to build upon. Land, as yet, is reasonably cheap, rating from ten to twenty dollars per acre. But it is rising fast. This is owing, in part, to our ready out-let to market by Railroad, from North to South. Beside, a few days back a route was run for the Central road running East and West, passing near Logansville, and cutting through the end of my farm. When this route is completed, it will make the markets still better. The land here is good, and timber likewise—such timber as we are accustomed to in the East; white and black oak. The water power is good also.

I understand brother Snavely has sold and intends moving to the West. I think he can be suited here. I have two places in view for him. One of 126 acres, well improved, running water at the door, and fruit plenty, for $2,000. The other place contains 160 acres, is well improved, well and pump near the house, and a creek running through the place, which is a permanent stream. This place belongs to heirs, and will be sold ere long—supposed it will fetch $3,000. This property I would have bought if I could have got at it, but it could not be sold then so as to suit me. If brother Snavely wishes to come, I will do all I can for him. I intend to be in the East in the spring, God willing, and health permits. Any persons wishing, can have any information that I can give.

I wish the Church to know my sentiments on the tithe law. I must say that I cannot see as my good brother sees, after all that has been said, and that can be said; because I cannot see that the Saviour recommended it, neither can I find any thing in the acts of the Apostles to justify it. I have always been taught that the tithe law, recommended in these latter days, was verging on Priest-craft; and after the tithe law would be in full force and virtue, that there would be only one step further to make Priest-craft complete: that is, to unite Church and State. But, perhaps, I have been wrongly taught; and as I have come out from the Old Dunkard Church, I have my prejudices against tithing, and do heartily wish my good brother and myself could have left those Egyptian things in Egypt. As long as I see as I do now, I do not wish any brother to request me to observe tithes, as I do not wish to have any lot or part in the matter. But I heartily concur in a resolution to provide for the worn out preachers and their widows; and not only for the worn out preachers, but also for those who are in the field of labor; and I am also willing to pay, not as a contribution, but as a debt, to missionaries to go to the far West, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, to preach the gospel.

My place of residence is nine miles west of Bellefountaine, three miles southeast of Logansville, three and a half miles northwest of West Middlebury, and three miles east of Quincy.

Truly yours,

In the bonds of brotherly love,

GEORGE KINSINGER.

Letter from Brother B. Howard.

Harrisburg, April 11, 1849.

Brother J. Winebrenner:—

After an absence of nine months from home, preaching almost constantly, especially since the first of August last, as often as once a day, I am now about to return to my family in the city of Rochester, New York, with cheering prospects of meeting them again in peace. I left home July 14th, preached the first Sabbath with the Free-will Baptists, and was kindly received.

The second Sabbath I had the pleasure of addressing a large concourse of people, in a county town, about 100 miles from home. The different denominations omitted their afternoon meetings, and gave me a hearing, and at the conclusion expressed a desire to hear more.

The third Lord's Day I visited a sister that I had not seen for years, where I was cordially received, and was invited by a Presbyterian minister to preach to his congregation, which I accepted, and preached four times in the place, to crowded congregations and anxious hearers. I then bade them adieu and pursued my journey to the North part of this State, where I visited my eldest brother Isaac, whom I had not seen for twenty-eight years. It was a happy meeting. I tarried there and preached several weeks with my old acquaintances, who were young when I saw them last, but now are grey-headed. There might be a Church of God established in that place, on Apostolic principles, if there were some preachers to attend to it.

I then left there to visit the Churches of God in the East and South part of Pennsylvania, which was the object of my mission, when I left home. Having heard that there were churches bearing the same Scriptural title with those with whom I am connected, and feeling desirous to confer with them on the subject of Apostolic order, I accordingly presented the case to the Church of God in Springwater, Livingston county, N. Y., of which I am a member, and received their approval to do so. Accordingly I came on to see and hear for myself; and after having a very pleasant time at the Eldership, and becoming acquainted with many of the preachers, whom I consider the excellent of the earth, I had thought of returning home; but on returning to Perry county, I commenced preaching. A reformation ensued, and a church was organized. I then wrote home, and found I could be spared through the winter. I therefore concluded to spend the winter in trying to do what good I could among the churches in Pennsylvania. Among other places I visited Landisburg, Germany, Orrstown, Shippensburg, Mechanicsburg, Shiremanstown, Smoketown, Possum-hill, Milltown, Harrisburg, Middletown, Bainbridge, Baltimore, Washington, Lancaster, &c., in all of which places I was kindly received, and helped on my journey, after a Godly sort. The churches have shown their love by their liberality; and I am fully satisfied that if the same zeal was carried out on the principle of equality, both in giving by the members and in receiving by the preachers, that twice the number of preachers might be supported, and they might each of them preach more, and do much more good; and the Church also, feel much more interested and less burdened.

Finally and in conclusion, I would return my most sincere thanks to the preachers and churches in general, for their great kiudness shown to me; and if in any thing I have erred in any way, I humbly ask their pardon. And now may the grace of God be with you all. Amen.

BENJAMIN HOWARD.

Letter from Brother D. Keplinger.

Canal Dover, Ohio, April 2, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I have more than once been pained to see the cause of religion run so low. You no doubt are aware of this fact, at least in many places. I venture to say, the grand reason of this is the neglect of duty on the part of the church. There are various duties devolving on church members. Prayer (secret and public) is a duty that is too much neglected by many. This is one reason why the church is not in as prosperous a state as it would be if this duty was not so much neglected. Neglecting the house of prayer, is another duty disregarded by many; this is another reason why the cause is low.

Another important duty which many are guilty of neglecting is, the neglect to pay their just dues to editors of papers, ministers of the word of God, and others. I now appeal to every one that loves the cause of God, examine yourselves on this subject, and see whether you have done your duty. Oh! is not the brother on the circuit a poor man, and one that needs help? and not only so, is not the workman worthy of his hire? Have we not sent word to the Eldership to send us such and such a man to preach for us? Yes, we have. And he has been sent; and can we refuse to support him, by withholding from him his just dues? I think if we do, we are guilty of neglecting our duty.

Dear brethren, I invite you with all my heart to do your duty in all things, so that when we come to die it may be well with us. But before I close let me say to you, the year is now past, and the brethren are about to take their leave of their circuits. But do they leave and go their way out of debt? Have we paid all that we have promised?

Some say they cannot give any thing, because they are in debt. The preachers are as well off in the world as we are. Dear friends, they have labored hard, and for our good; and now, if we wish to see the cause of religion flourish, we must pay our just dues to the ministers who have labored for us during the past year, and pray and live for the same.

I remain yours fraternally,

DAVID KEPINGER, Jr.

Letter from Brother Samuel W. Park.

Parksville, Washington Co., Md., April 18, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

We have held a protracted meeting in this place, (Parksville,) which began April sixth, and ended on the sixteenth, which was attended by brothers Fenton and Coup. These brethren labored faithfully for the cause of Christ. They preached the word of the Lord in power and demonstration of the spirit.—The result was, many were deeply convicted of sin and of judgmeut, and of the necessity of a change of heart, but still they would not submit to God. However, several came forward for prayer, but only eight professed to find peace in believing. The Church was enabled to rejoice in hopes of the glory of God, and to go on their way rejoicing in hope of a blessed immortality. Oh, that the Lord may strengthen us, for we are weak. But we rely on the promises of God—we look to Him for strength. As the Church is just started, as it were, our prayer to God is, that its borders may be enlarged—that it may grow in strength and in union—that faith may be confirmed, established in hope and perfected in peace: that we may put all our trust in the special and singular mercy of God—that He for His mercy's sake and His only goodness, will help and bring us to perfection: that is, to a high degree—of that spiritual and divine life. No more at present.

Yours, in the bonds of love,

SAMUEL W. PARK.

Letter from Brother Jacob Miller.

Sterling, Illinois, March 29, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

You may put my name to the missionary pledge for ten dollars, and James Miller for five dollars. James Miller says that he can get 10 or 15 dollars in one or two places that G. U. Harn preached at, and we can all raise some by subscription, and I do not apprehend any difficulty in getting a support. Only send us a preacher, and he shall not want for food and raiment. I had almost given up writing, thinking that it would be of no use, that there would be no one to venture to come out here; but I now feel encouraged to live in hopes.

We have a lonesome time out here, nobody to preach for us, and if we want to hear preaching, we must go to hear sectarians; and you know that we cannot get the gospel fully preached by them. Harn thought, when he left, that he would come back this spring, or send some one to preach for us. I wrote to him several times, but received no answer from him yet; but from what I can learn he is not coming back. We are not so particular about a preacher, so we get some faithful one that will contend earnestly for the gospel and the right ways of the Lord.

Yours in christian love,

JACOB MILLER.

Letter from Brother S. A. Brumbaugh.

Near Chambersburg, April 23, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I would embrace this opportunity of authorizing you to put down five dollars in my name to the missionary pledge, to be appropriated in sustaining missionaries in Illinois and Iowa. I had authorized brother Harn to give in the above pledge to you, but in referring to the list of pledges, I found that he had neglected it; and as I do not feel satisfied to be remiss in so laudable a cause as that of sending missionaries to new countries, where people sit in darkness, I therefore resolved to send you the foregoing pledge, hoping that by the blessing of God, it may aid at least in saving some,

Most affectionately, yours, &c.,

S. A. BRUMBAUGH.

Letter from Brother A. B. Slyter.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I have not preached much since the last Eldership. I was appointed missionary in Southern Michigan. I preached there a few times, and think that good might be done.—But through unavoidable circumstances I was obliged to quit. I think now, of resuming my labors in the State of Michigan. I wish to be in fellowship and friendship with all my brethren and sisters in the Church of God, and ask their pardon for all wrongs and neglect of duty. But for my rights and gospel privileges, I mean to stand. I ask the prayers of all the Church. My Post Office Address is Lima, Lagrange county, Indiana.

Yours, in love and respect,

A. B. SLYTER.

April 6, 1849.

Letter from Brother John Miller.

Auburn, Schuylkill Co., April 19, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I take my pen in hand to inform you that we held a protracted meeting here, which commenced on the 17th of March and lasted about three weeks. There were some eight or ten converted and some backsliders reclaimed. We had quite a good time. The preachers present were T. Strohm and A. Snyder, together with a few others.

I hope brother Snyder will excuse me for not writing to him. At the end of the meeting there were still some more seeking religion. The meeting made quite a deep impression on some of the neighbors. Dear brethren, pray for us and our neighbors. No more at present.

Yours, in love,

JOHN MILLER.

THE SONG OF THE REDEEMED.

BY JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

Hallelujah!—Let me sing the anthem
That the saved shall sing in Heaven!—Glory—
Glory be to God! Tune your golden harps,
Ye aged spirits, and ye younger ones,
And sing along; and let the echoes reach
Each distant court, until all Heaven shall
Be joined together in the chorus grand—
And one magnificent oblation of Angelic song ascend to Him, whom we
Revere and worship as the God of Gods:

Hallelujah!—Hallelujah!—we are saved and free—
Redeemed from degradation by death on Salem's tree;
We were in the miry pit—our feet were in the clay—
But now we stand upon the rock that weareth not away!

Hallelujah!—Hallelujah!—happy is the band,
By the side of our Immanual in this promised land;
Now we are all immortal—we fear no earthly foe,
For Christ redeemed our spirits and has conquered all below.

Celestial food has fed us—will feed us evermore—
'Twill last throughout eternity, for boundless is the store;

Our happiness and pleasures will ne'er permit a frown:
And ev'ry fellow-angel doth possess a golden crown!

Hallelujah!—Hallelujah!—we will not withhold
Our tongues a single moment, for His glory must be told!—
Praise Him, all ye multitudes—His arm retrieved the Fall—
Hallelujah!—He redeemed us!—the greatest deed of all!

I will cease—Imagination cannot Depict the glorious scene aright. 'Twould take
The power of as great an one as he
Who writes upon the Book of Life
To tell aright the great and glorious joy
Which they, the blessed, feel!
Oh! how happy!
How grand the scene! Millions of the Ransomed,
Mingling with their higher angel brethren,
Stand upon the floor of glory's temple—
The martyrs and ambassadors of God
Stand next—and then the sinless host of those Who died to earth, before maturity—
And then the platform of eternal Love,
The grand foundation of the throne of God;—
Around the throne the four and twenty Saints
Are bowed—all singing "Glory be to God!—
Praise His name forever and forever!
For He redeemed us by His sacrifice!"

So fare our brethren, and so we will too,
If we are willing to become the sons
Of Him who "had not where to lay his head;"
And if we count all things but dross, except
The will of God, and Jesus crucified.

Baltimore, Md., Feb., 1849.

OBITUARY OF Mrs. LOUISA C. WEAVER.

Died, at her residence in Millerstown, Perry county, Pa., on Friday the 5th of January, 1849, Mrs. Louisa Catharine Weaver, the wife of Rev. William Weaver, Minister of the Lutheran Denomination, aged 20 years 4 months and 24 days.

The deceased was the daughter of John Ulsh, of Pfoutz's Valley, Perry county, seven miles distant from her residence. She was married to Rev. William Weaver in August, 1847.

Sister Weaver was a member of the Church of God. She was converted quite young, and also soon after baptized as a believer in Him who is alone able to take our sins away. The deceased gave witness of a pious life, from the time of her conversion, and left the glorious hope behind that she has gone to a world of bliss. Amidst the greatest pain and weakness, she sang praises to God, and admonished her unconverted neighbors and friends to turn to God, and to meet her in Heaven. When her parents wept for her, she hushed them in kind, soft and sweet accents, not to weep for her. O Father! Father! Father! she exclaimed, do not weep for me, I am going home; I am going to my Jesus. She made her parents promise to meet her in Heaven, and then fell asleep in Jesus. F. H.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Appointments by the Postmaster General, in Pennsylvania.

M. C. Wilson, Beaver, Beaver county.
J. K. Shoemaker, Bellefonte, Centre.
S. Calderwood, Mill Hall, Clinton.
J. M. Martin, Hoguestown, Cumberland.
W. S. Powell, New Cumberland, do.
J. Reed, Reedsville, Mifflin.
R. R. Guthre, New Bloomfield, Perry.
J. J. Hopkins, Paris, Washington.
Michael Hay, York, York county.
S. Monroe, Worthington, Armstrong.
R. Craig, Portersville, Butler.
S. Cornett, Phœnixville, Chester.
Israel Cooper, Glen Hope, Clearfield.
J. J. Montgomery, Evansburgh, Crawford.
Wm. Y. Boyd, Newburgh, Cumberland.
S. S. Hammond, North-East, Erie.
Asa Battles, Girard, Erie.
A. G. Wilson, Waynesburg, Greene.
G. W. Compton, Churchtown, Lancaster.
J. Gitlespie, Carbondale, Luzerne.
J. C. Shaw, Wolf Creek, Mercer.
James Milligan, Icksburg, Mercer.
J. G. Armor, Laughlintown, Westmoreland.
S. B. Lauffer, Greensburg, do.
Thomas H. Sill, Erie, Pa.
Henry Rhoads, Reading, Pa.
Jas. Miller, Mauch Chunk, Pa.
George S. Mendell, Blairsville, Pa.
Joseph Baldridge, Hollidaysburg, Pa.
Gideon M. Shoop, Danville Court House, Pa.

The President has appointed Michael Musson Postmaster for the city of New Orleans.

A New Race.—A hitherto unknown race of people has been discovered, it is said, in the interior of Africa. The men are well and powerfully built, standing 7 to 7½ English feet in height, and black in color, although destitute of the usual character of negroes, in features. Mehemit Ali sent an expedition up the "White Nile" in search of gold, and there found this new race of people—1500 of whom, armed to the teeth came down to the shore of the river where the vessls lay. The name of the kingdom occupied by the people is Bari and its capital Patenja. They raise wheat, tobacco, &c., and manufacture their own weapons.

Broken Ohio Banks.—A resolution passed the Ohio Senate on the 3rd inst., directing the Attorney General to institute proceeding in Quo Warranto, against the Bank of Manhattan, the Bank of Wooster, the Bank of Norwalk, and the Bank of Sandusky.

Recovery of the Government Jewels.—The mystery which for the last four or five months surrounded the singular robbery of the Patent Office in Washington, has at length, been cleared up, and they were entirely recovered, in New York last week. A notorious rouge named Webb was suspected and evidence enough found to commit him. During his examination some information transpired which implicated two brothers named Henry B. Jones and Philander T. Jones, of this city.—They were both taken into custody, and after a while they were induced to deliver up the valuables. Mr. Jones led the officer to the upper part of the house into a small bed room, where in a small crevice in the wall, neatly covered, was concealed the bottle of Otto of Roses. This he handed to Mr. Stewart, and decending to the cellar commenced digging under the floor, and finally brought up the packages containing the bars of gold, the pearls, one hundred and forty-six in number, and all the diamonds amounting to about one hundred and twenty.

Growth of Reading, Pa.—The Adler publishes the following statistics, compiled from an authentic source, of the growth of Reading during the year 1848. The number of new buildings erected was three hundred and forty-eight. Of the above 77 are three story brick houses; 75 frame buildings; and the majority of the remainder two story brick dwellings. This number is exclusive of buildings enlarged, repaired and improved during the same period. By referring to statistics of previous years, as far back as they are recorded, we find the growth of our city to have been as follows:—In 1843, there were 98 buildings erected; in 1844, 120; in 1845, 184; in 1846, 246: and in 1847, 360. It will thus be preceived that the increase during the past year, has greatly exceeded that of any previous year, except 1847; of which it falls short twelve buildings.

Minesota Territory.—The act organizing this Territory, bounds it on the North by the British Posessions, East by the State of Wisconsin and the Mississippi river, South by Iowa, and West by the Missouri and White Earth Rivers. Provision is made for the division of the territory, if Congress see fit. The government is to be organized in the usual manner, consisting of a governor, secretary, and legislative assembly. The legislature is to hold its first session at St Paul at a time to be named by the Governor, and thereafter whenever it may establish a seat of government. The act appropriates $20,000 for the erection of Public buildings at the seat of government, and $5,000 for the purchase of a library.

Dr. Dick Coming.—Dr. Thomas Dick, the celebrated Christian philosopher, intends to visit the United States this summer.

Baptism of Germans.—The Rev. K. A. Fleishman baptized eighteen Germans last week, in Millerstown, Lehigh county Pa. He baptised nineteen at the same place, about four months since. They have just organized a Baptist Church. They formerly worshipped in the Lutheran church, which has been closed against them now; a lot having been offered to them, they contemplate erecting a house. We learn that ministers of different denominations have preached fifteen sermons lately on Infant Batism, and issued a tract on the same subject. These have been the means of leading several to the adoption of believer's baptism.

Ohio Legislature.—The bill authorizing a convention for the purpose of adopting a new State constitution, passed both houses on the 23d ult. The main points expected to be secured by the change, are a total reform of the Judiciary system and the practice of the courts; the election of all officers by the people! No increase of the State debt, except by a vote of the people themselves; a liberal system of common schools and of education; no legislation but what the people can reform or annul, when found injurious.

Norristown, Montgomery County, Pa.—We learn that a very interesting revival has been enjoyed by the Baptist Church, at Norristown, under the pastoral care of Rev. H. Hutchins, A meeting was continued for some weeks, in which the pastor was assisted by the Rev. R. F. Young of Chesnut Hill, and Rev. W. Smith.—Twenty-five have been baptized and added to the Church.

California.—Many emigrants are still waiting at Panama for passage to California. A letter to the New York Courier and Inquirer, dated 5th of March, says:

Tickets in the cabin of the Oregon are selling at near $800, and in the steerage at $500 to $600. $300 down to $100 have been paid in the whale ship Equator, and in the Felix over $200 have been paid for passage to San Francisco.

The Kentucky Constitutional Convention.—The debates in this body are to be reported by stenographers, and to be reported in extenso. As Emancipation will be the prominent feature, the proceedings will be interesting to the people of other states.

Louis Philippe.—All the ministers of the ex-king who fled from France at the opening of the revolution, have returned, except Guizot. He proposes to return in the spring, and become a candidate for the National Assembly.

Vermont License Question.—Vote in 1849—no license 23,816—license 11,371—majority 12,445. In 1848, license 16,963—no license 16,950—majority 13. In 1847, no license 21,798—license 13,707 majority 8,091.

New Railroad.—A new Railroad, to connect the lower coal fields in the Susquehanna Valley with the State Canal, is in progress of construction. This road leads to the anthracite and bituminous coal fields on the borders of Schuylkill, Lebanon and Dauphin counties, and is intended to follow the valley of the Stony creek, on the base of the Kittatinny mountain, reaching the Susquehanna eight miles above Harrisburg. Its length will be seventeen miles, and the coal from it will be at least thirty miles nearer tide water than that of any other in Pennsylvania.

York and Cumberland Railroad.—Proposals are solicited for the construction of this road, for its entire length of 26 miles.—Proposals are to be received for the entire work under one contract, including graduation, masonry, iron rails, &c., to be completed in 18 months. Also, for the graduation and masonry of the work, in sections.

President of Miami University.—Rev. Thomas H. Stockton, of the Protestant Methodist Church, has been elected President of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. The institution has formerly been under the government of Presbyterian divines.

Emancipation.—Tennessee is talking of emancipating its slaves. The Knoxville Tribune is publishing a series of efficient articles in its favor, in which a popular convention on the subject is called.

Profits on Railroads.—The actual clear earnings, over all expenses, of the Madison and Indianopolis Railroad for the last year, are over $100,000, making about 15 per cent. profit on the capital employed.

A Great Business.—The Kentucky Legislature, during its recent session, passed 671 acts and 14 joint resolutions. Among the acts were 196 granting divorces. A pretty respectable number for one session.

The Panama Railroad.—The New York Senate has passed a bill for the incorporation of the Panama Railroad Company, Aspinwall & Co., with a capital of one million dollars, and a privilege to increase it to five millions.

Rhode Island Election.—The Providence Journal reports the vote for Governor as follows:—Anthony, 5043; Sackett, 2963; Harris, 466; scattering, 126. Majority for the Whig candidate, 1488.

An Editorial Governor.—Henry B. Anthony who has just been elected Governor of Rhode Island, is editor of the Providence Journal, and is about 33 years of age.

The Late Prize Fight.—Thomas Hyer has been sentenced by the court in Kent county, Maryland, to a fine of $700 and costs, (in all $1000) for his participation in the late prize fight.

The Cholera on the Rio Grande.—The following is an extract of a letter from S. Osgood, one of Col. Webb's expedition, published in the Springfield Republican:—

"The cholera is all the way up the Rio Grande. At Matamoras it was dreadful; in one day there were 56 deaths, and 60 in another; all in a population of 10 or 12,000.

☞ A verdict of eighteen thousand dollars damages has been given against the proprietors of the North Upper Canada stages, for injuries sustained by Mr. Russell, in consequence of the intoxication of a driver. He was precipitated into the water, which resulted in the loss of this hands and feet.

Macaulay's History.—A correspondent of the National Intelligencer writing from London, says: "Macaulay's History of England has been the great work of the season; it is on every table and in every mouth."

Philadelphia Medical Schools.—The four Philadelphia Medical Schools have this season conferred diplomas on 435 pupils, viz:

University,	190	Jefferson,	188
Pennsylvania,	36	Philadelphia,	21

MISCELLANEOUS.

A DREAM THAT CAME TRUE.

Many persons think there is nothing in a dream. We think there is a great deal in it sometimes. That dreams are occasionally verified to the very letter cannot be questioned. The following fresh illustration is in point, and actually occurred a week or two ago:

A certain iron dealer in this city, dreamed that Rev. Mr. ———, about to sail as a Missionary to California, needed certain domestic utensils, in his line, such as knives and forks, shovels and tongs, and sundry other articles of family use; and that in his benevolent feelings for the missionary and his family, he had gratuitously supplied them from his stock in trade. Upon awaking, he thought the matter over, and determined to be quite as benevolent in his waking hours as when asleep, and accordingly the next day, on finding that such articles were actually needed by the missionary, he procured a list of them, and sent them forthwith to his residence. Here then was a dream that came true, and it is a striking argument in support of the assertion that whatever the incredulous may say to the contrary notwithstanding, there is something in a dream.

We have only one more remark to make, and our readers must infer the application intended. We would that OUR DELINQUENT SUBSCRIBERS would all become dreamers!

[Baltimore "Church Times."

POWERFUL WORDS.

The words of a doorkeeper at a play-house, 'This is the way to the pit,' were so impressive to a youth who heard him, as not only to be the means of his withdrawing from such places, but to lead ultimately to his becoming a preacher of the Gospel.—Ex. paper.

THE BIBLE.

How comes it that little volume, composed by humble men in a rude age, when art and science were but in their childhood, has exerted more influence on the human mind and on the social system, than all the other books put together? Whence comes it that this book has achieved such marvellous changes in the opinions of mankind—has banished idol-worship—has abolished infanticide—has put down polygamy and divorce—exalted the condition of woman—raised the standard of public morality—created for families that blessed thing, a Christian home—and caused its other triumphs by causing benevolent intsitutions, open and expansive, to spring up as with the wand of enchantment? What sort of a book is this, that even the wind and waves of human passions obey it? What other engine of social improvement has operated so long, and yet has lost none of its virtue? Since it appeared, many boasted plans of amelioration have been tried and failed, many codes of jurisprudence have arisen, and run their course, and expired. Empire after empire has been launched on the tide of time, and gone, leaving no trace of the waters. But this book is still going about doing good—leaving society with its holy principles—cheering the sorrowful with its consolation—strengthening the tempted—encoraging the penitent—calming the troubled spirit—and smoothing the pillow of death. Can such a book be the offspring of human genius? Does not the vastness of its effects demonstrate the excelleney of the power to be of God?—McCullough.

HINTS TO MINISTERS.

A sermon should be made for a text and not a text for a sermon.—Burnett.

In preaching, study not to draw applauses, but groans from the hearers.—Jecomb.

We want nothing but the return of apostolical simplicity, self-denial, and love, to bring a penteeostal effusion of the Spirit upon our ministrations.—Bridges.

Steep your sermons in your hearts before you preach them.—Felton.

Choose rather to teach than to charm, to convert than to be admired, to force tears than applause. Give up everything to secure the salvation of your hearers.—Gilbert.

The life of a pious clergyman is visible rhetoric.—Hooker.

Let your life be a commentary on your sermons.—Lamont.

The great secret of ruling a church is to convince them that you love them, and say and do every thing for their good.—Fuller.

You must rather leave the ark to shake as it shall please God, than put unworthy hands to hold it up.—Lord Bacon.

PARDONS.

Gov. Bebb, of Ohio, in two years has pardoned 117 convicts out of the State prison. The Gospel Banner truly says that "the ease with which robbers, murderers, &c., get pardoned by Governors now-a-days, defeats the intentions of the laws, and takes from the mind of the villains nearly all fear of the certainty of punishment." As crimes increase, and become more frequent, it is evident that there is an increasing sympathy for criminals, and less and less regard for the welfare of society.

REVIVALS.

When a Revival is needed.

1. When there is a want of union among different denominations. Nothing else can so effectually banish bigotry, prejudice, jealousies. and hostile feelings from the hearts of professed Christians.

2. When errors in doctrine prevail in any section of the country. No argumentation or denunciation can dry up the polluted streams of error so rapidly as a pure revival of Religion.

3. When professors are conformed to the world-love to read political or business news, or romance better than the Bible—prefer other meetings to that of religious worship. It is time the current was changed for it tends towards the gulf of destruction.

4. When there is a want of Christian love. A Revival will cement all into one—the same spirit will actuate all so that there be no room for discord and strife.

5. When there is a want of confidence among church-membeas. When all is cold and dull, selfishness gets the upperhand which naturally destroys all confidence, but a revival will restore it.

6. When the church is reproached by the world. A heaven-sent revival will wipe off all the reproach.

7. When few or no souls are converted to God. Suppose we have no more revivals.—Then the mass of all the sinners around us will sink into hell. Many of our dearest relation will perish. The churches will be disbanded. Ministers will leave their pulpits. Every good cause will languish. All manner of wickedness will increase prodigiously and finally prevail.

8. When Christians do not grow in grace. In a revival Christians advance rapidly in holiness—make more progress in religion in a few weeks than in years of declension.

When a Revival may be expected.

We may make some calculations when a revival will take place. The husbandman ploughs his ground and deposits the seed in hope; but there is no promise that a bountiful harvest shall repay his labor in every instance. With regard to spiritual blessings, however, it is never the will of the Lord to withhold them when the conditions are complied with. He is extremely desirous to confer on every individual the blessing of his soul's salvation. Look out for a revival.

1. When the ministers and people are willing to unite in making every necessary sacrifice, such as time, business, property &c.; and when they are willing to perform every required duty.

2. When God's people are willing to confess all their sins.

3. When they are willing to forgive all their enemies.

4. When they deeply feel their dependance.

5. When they offer the prayer of faith.

6. When they are deeply affected and grieved on account of the wicked conduct of ungodly men. When they can say with the weeping prophet, "O that my head were waters and my eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughters of my people."

7. When the excitement on the subject of religion rises higher and is kept higher than on any other subject.

8. When every thing that would grieve the spirit is banished from the church.—When the Spirit is poured out then there will be a revival, and not before. His mighty power will be felt whenever those things that grieve him away are abandoned.

O who of us shall have an agency in keeping away the Holy Spirit!—Cum. Pres.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF INSPECTORS OF THE WESTERN PENITENTIARY.

This is usually quite an instructive annual, and not less so this year than formerly.

The Report of the Warden states the whole number now in prison as 112, of whom 55 were received within the year. Also, that the whole number since the opening of the prison in 1826 is 1286—of whom, to the credit of the sex be it said, only 22 were females. During the past year, among the 55 convicts entered, no female was received.

Of these 55 new convicts, we learn from the Report of the excellant and indefatigagle moral instructor, Rev. Andrew Black, a number of instructive facts such as these:

Of these, nine were unable to read at the time of their reception. Three ot them possess so little mind, as to make it difficult to teach them the art of reading Two of them have learned with remarkable rapidity. The others can all read, and principally all write.

Thirty-five were unmarried men, and twenty either have had, or now have wives. Nine of these are under twenty years of age—children in years, but men in crime.

Forty-three of the fifty-five received this year, admit that they were addicted to intemperate habits. Their career of crime had its inception in the use of intoxicating liquors. They became drunkards before the thought entered their mind, either to prey upon the property or take away the lives of their fellow-men. What a fruitful source of misery and ruin to poor fallen man, is this vice of drunkenness; they also trace the beginning of their downward course to disregard to parental instruction. Disobedience to parents, Sabbath breaking, drunkenness, gambling, then felony, form the connected history of their past lives.

[Pres. Advocate.

PLUTARCH.

A learned and wise Grecian, about 1700 years ago, wrote a memorable sentence in regard to intemperance, to the truth of which the experiance of the world fully testifies: "Of all the Apollyons or destroyers of nerves, health and life, that is the greatest; and I have no doubt that it has broken down more constitutions—brought on more distempers, and sent more people to an early grave than all the vices of this Bedlam world put together,"

TOBACCO A CURE FOR FROST BITE.

Having frozen one of my feet while travelling the past winter, by which I sufferred much, I was advised by an aged sister to apply a dampened leaf of tobacco to the affected part, which I did both in the morning and evening. It took out all the soreness and frost in a short time. I wish this published for the benefit of such as may be suffering from the same cause.

PRUDENCE is the parent of safety.

WHY SHOULD ANY MAN SWEAR.

I can conceive of no reason why he should, but of ten reasons why he should not.

1. It is mean. A man of high moral standing would almost as soon steal a sheep as swear.

2. It is vulgar. Altogether too low for a decent man.

3. It is cowardly. Implying a fear either of not being believed or obeyed.

4. It is ungentlemanly. A gentleman according to Webster, is a genteel man, well bred—refined. Such a one will no more swear, than go into the streets to throw mud with a clod-hopper.

5. It is indecent. Offensive to delicacy, ond extremely unfit for human ears.

6. It is foolish. "Want of decency is a want of sense."

7. It is abusive. To the mind which conceives the oath, to the tongue which utters it, and to the person at whom it is aimed.

8. It is venomous. Showing a man's heart to be a nest of vipers, and every time he swears one of them sticks out his head.

9. It is contemptible. Forfeiting the respect of all the wise and good.

10. It is wicked. Violating the divine law, and provoking the displeasure of Him who will not hold him guiltless who taketh his name in vain.

SUPPORTING OF THE GOSPEL MINISTRY.

When men consecrate themselves to the religious weal of a people, and by that act forego the oportunities open to all others, of providing for themselves and their families, a competent maintainance is the least remuneration they have a right to claim. It is the dictate of common sense, common justice and common humanity. It is also the express command of our Lord Jesus Christ. But notwithstanding these considerations, the ministry is little better than a starving profession. Not one in twenty were he compelled to live upon the salary allowed by his congregation, could escape from beggary and rags. The certain effect is, on the one hand to deter young men of respectable talents from the ministry altogether: and on the other, to discourage, depress, and finally ruin those who are in it already.

WATER THE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS.

Water is nature's great invigorator, the most genial and yet the most powerful of all tonics. There is nothing in all the world beside, to compare with it in giving life and energy to the frame. It has been said poetically of that vast expanse of water the ocean, "It is the breath of God condensed on what were otherwise a cold and barren mass of rock—a breath which has communicated fertility and beauty, and life." When struck down with severe disease, the strength all exhausted, and the individual unable to move, there is not in all nature beside, any substance, or any combination of substances, that has a tenth part the vivifying and life-giving power of water.

PREMIUM AWARDED.

The prize of five hundred dollars offerred by the American Peace Society for the Essay on the Mexican war, has been adjudged to Rev. A. Livermore, a Unitarian clergyman, of Keen, N. Hampshire.

POETRY.

A HYMN. S. M. 6, 6, 8, 6.

1. O! Lord, thy matchless grace,
How much it's done for me;
I once was lost, but now am found—
Was blind, but now I see.

2. I see thee in thy works;
I feel thee in the breeze;
I realize salvation's power,
Which gives my spirit ease.

3. This wondrous love of thine,
Shall be my joy and song,
Throughout my earthly pilgrimage,
And then with Heaven's throng.

4. With all that host I'll vie,
Whilst endless ages roll,
To sound the loudest, sweetest note,
For pardon to my soul.

A HINT TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT.

Lines for the benefit of those who come late to the house of worship.

BY J. H. HURLEY.

Of church going people there are many kinds,
With notions so many as the number of minds;
But of all who assemble the ones I most hate,
Are the lazy professors who always come late.

Some go very early to choose a good seat,
That ere worship commences their friends they may greet;
Tho' they waste precious time, yet their sins cannot mate
With those lazy professors who always come late.

Others come into church with a flourishing stride,
To prove that they have less religion than pride;
Yet they come in good time, and are better in state,
Than the lazy professors who are always too late.

It's not once or twice they are found in the rear
t has always been so, I very much fear;
Look back and you'll find that from earliest date,
These lazy professors have always come late.

When the worship begun and the hymn being sung,
While praises are swelling from many a tongue,
Click, click goes the door: who's coming? by fate
It's the lazy professors who always come late.

I am sorry, but their's is a desperate case,
When we think of the object and think of the place;
I am afraid when the saints seek the happier state,
These lazy professors will find they are too late.

Lancaster City, April 19, 1849.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 19th ult., by the Rev. J. F. Mesick, Mr. GEORGE B. HAUCK, of South Lebanon, to Miss MARIA HOSTER, of Anville, Lebanon county.

On the 24th ult., by Rev. C. W. Schæffer, Mr. PETER K. BOYD to Miss CAROLINE E., daughter of John C. Barnitz, Esq.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Religious Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the old camp-ground, near Rome, Noble county, Ind., commencing on Thursday, the 7th of June, 1849.

Who will attend? We do hope that those brethren in the ministry who calculate taking a tour to the West will make their arrangements so as to assist us in holding this meeting. THOS. HICKERNELL.

Special Meetings.

A series of special meetings will be held, deo volente, at Bainbridge, Lancaster county, commencing on the evening of the 5th of May next.

A special meeting will be held at Rohrersville, Washington county, Md., commencing on Saturday evening before Whitsuntide, being the 26th day of May, inst.

The Anniversary of the American and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society

WILL be held with Divine permission, at the Broadway Tabernacle, N. Y., on Tuesday, May 8th, at 3 o'clock, P. M., when the annual report will be presented, and addresses made by several able advocates of the cause.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4	00	a 4	12½
Do.	RYE,	do. - -	2	50	a 2	56
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	1	95	a 2	00
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,				87½	a	90
Do.	RYE,	do. - -		48	a	50
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -		40	a	41
Do.	OATS,	do. - -		26	a	28
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -		60	a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	3	00	a 3	50
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	3	00	a 3	25
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1	00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -			5	00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - - -			5	00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -				7	a	8½
BUTTER, do. - - - - -				15	a	18
LARD, do. - - - - - -				7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -				8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.				6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -				10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -				40	a	42
ONIONS, do. - - -				75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -				25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.			1	25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -				37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -				30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -			1	30	a 1	31
HAY, per ton, - - - - -			12	00	*a*15	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -			4	00	a 4	50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4	50	a 4	62½
Do.	RYE,	do. -	2	75	a 3	00
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	2	44	a 2	50
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,				98	a 1	03
Do.	RYE,	do. - -		58	a	59
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -		53	a	54
Do.	OATS,	do. - -		30	a	32
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -		75	a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	3	00	a 3	50
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	2	75	a 3	00
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1	30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt., - - - -			7	00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - - -			7	00	a 7	25

Shoemakers Wanted.

SEVERAL JOURNEYMEN SHOEMAKERS, of good moral character, can obtain employment at liberal prices, for from 1 to 12 months, by calling at the Shoe Store and Manufactory of JOHN KNOUSE, in Shepherdstown, Cumberland county, Pa.

ALSO—Several BOYS WANTED, to learn the art or trade of Shoe and Boot making, at the same place. JOHN KNOUSE.

THOMSONIAN MEDICINE STORE.

REMOVAL.

DR. W. BARR begs leave to inform the citizens of Harrisburg and vicinity, and the public in general, that he has removed his Medicine Store to the N. W. corner of WALNUT and SECOND streets, where he now has, and constantly keeps on hand, a general assortment of

Thomsonian Medicines, Medical Books, Instruments, &c., &c.,

together with his well known preparations for the cure of Rheumatism, Tetter, Scald or Sore Head, Itch, or any eruption of the Skin, Sore Mouth or Throat, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Liver Complaint, Coughs, Colds, Headache, Costiveness, Sore Eyes, Fever and Ague, Influenza, Erysipelas, &c., &c., &c. No cure no pay.

Thankful for past favors, he respectfully solicits a continuance of public patronage.

☞All orders thankfully received and punctually attended to.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—3m.

DAGUERREAN GALLERY.

"Secure the shadow, ere the substance fade."

THE DAGUERREAN ROOMS of DR. BARR & SON have also been removed to the North West corner of SECOND and WALNUT streets, (up stairs,) where they will be happy to see their old patrons, and all others who feel desirous of having a life-like portrait of themselves or relatives taken in a superior and unsurpassed style. Visit their gallery and see their beautiful and artistical specimens, taken and put up in the latest improvement of the art—faithful likenesses, delineating every feature and expression of nature in almost life itself.

From the experience of the Doctor, and the close observations of the artiste of the profession, they flatter themselves that they will be enabled to please every one that may favor them with their patronage.

Likenesses taken as well in cloudy as clear weather, and persons are not required to sit more than once, unless they desire it. Come on, Ladies and Gentlemen,

For sometimes our friends die and leave us,
And then, O how sad we oft feel;
But if they a true likeness give us,
On their mem'ry with pleasure we dwell.

Then hasten to BARRS' all ye people,
Before ye have reason to grieve;
The cost you will find it but little,
And to all satisfaction they'll give.

☞ Pictures taken for from $1 to $10, according to size, number of group, finish, &c.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—4t.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Agents Wanted.

SUITABLE persons can find employment for the sale of the "He Pasa Ekklesia," in this and other States. Apply to the Editor of the Advocate.

McAllister's All-Healing Ointment,
OR THE
WORLD'S SALVE.
Contains NO MERCURY or other MINERAL.

From the Reading Eagle.

"There was never, perhaps a medicine brought before the public, that has in so short a time won such a reputation as "McAllister's All Healing or World's Salve."—Almost every person that has made trial of it, speaks warmly in its praise. One has been cured by it, of the most painful Rheumatism; another of the Piles, a third of a troublesome pain in the side, a fourth of a swelling in the limbs, &c. If it does not give immediate relief in every case, it can never do injury, being applied outwardly. As another evidence of the wonderful healing power possessed by this salve, we subjoin the following certificate, from a respectable citizen of Maidencreek, township, in this county.

Maidencreek, Berks Co., March 30, '47.

Messrs. Ritter & Co.—I desire to inform you that I was entirely cured of a severe pain in the back, by the use of M'Allister's All-Healing Salve, which I purchased from you. I suffered with it about 20 years, and at night was unable to sleep. During that time I tried various remedies, which were prescribed for me by physicians and other persons, without receiving any relief, and at last made trial of this Salve with a result favorable beyond expectation. I am now entirely free from the pain, and enjoy at night a sweet and peaceful sleep. I have also used the salve since, for tooth ache and other complaints, with similar happy results. Your friend,

JOHN HOLLENBACH."

I certify that I have used "M'Allisters All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, or the World's Salve," for a healing in a my wife's breast, which has done her inealculable benefit. Also, on one of my children for Sore Eyes, which gave immediate relief. I therefore recommend it as a good medicine, to all desirous of trying it. PARKER REED.

Morris tp., Wash. co., Aug. 21, 1847.

I certify that I have used McAllister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, for coldness of my feet—also for Rheumatism in my limbs, and Corns on my feet, and have been entirely relieved. Believing it to be a good medicine, I do not hesitate to recommend it in the above complaints. LEONARD VAILE.

☞ Around the box are directions for using McAllister's Ointment for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Erysipelas, Tetter, Chilblain, Seald Head, Sore Eyes, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Nervous Affections, Pains, Disease of the Spine, Head Ache, Asthma, Deafness, Ear Ache, Burns, Corns, all Diseases of the Skin, Sore Lips, Pimples, &c., Swelling of the limbs, Sores, Rheumatism, Piles, Cold Feet, Croup, Swelled or Broken Breast, Tooth Ache, Ague in the Face, &c., &c.

☞ This Ointment is good for any part of the body or limbs when inflamed. In some cases it should be applied often.

CAUTION—No OINTMENT will be genuine unless the name of James M'Allister, is written with a pen on every label.

☞ PRICE, 25 CENTS PER BOX. ☜

JAMES M'ALLISTER,
Sole Proprietor of the above Medicine.

Principal Office No. 28 North THIRD street, Philadelphia.

AGENTS: Geo. H. Bell, Harrisburg; M. Lutz, do.; Jacob Bener, Middletown; George Ross, Elizabethtown; M. M'Barren, Portsmouth; J. & L. Reigel, Mechanicsburg; G. W. Singiser, Churchtown; Smith & Henry, Lebanon; C. Roth, Bloomfield; Jacob Keiser, Petersburg; J. M. Beatty, Pottsville; Samnel P. Sterret, Mount Joy; Henry Thatcher, Newport; Wm. Jackson, New Buffalo; Brown & Ritter, Pittsburg; John Lloyd, Mount Pleasant; Jacob Welty, Greensburg; Edward Scull, Shippensburg; John Diller, Newville; and sold by our Agents in every town in the State.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

FOR the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., MAY 15, 1849. NUMBER 2.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no ease shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, exeept at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuenee must be accompanied by a remittanee of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, eontributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to reeeive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Fourteen.

Names	Am't. paid	Names.	Am't. paid
Albert & Barkstresser	$1 00	Holmes Abraham	$1 00
Alleshouse Jacob	50	Heifner George	1 00
Alleman Conrad	1 00	Haun S W	1 00
Appler Abraham	1 00	Hagey Jacob	1 00
Baumgardner Samuel	1 00	Hupert John	1 00
Barksiresser Joan	1 00	Hinoey Samuel	1 00
Bricker Jacob	1 00	Harris Thomas	1 00
Baker David	1 00	Huff Charles	1 00
Bamberger Wm	1 00	Hostetter J S	1 00
Brown Jacob	1 00	Hitschew Wm	1 00
Brown George	1 00	Hess John	1 00
Bean George	1 00	Hanning Frederick	1 00
Bracht Sarah	1 00	Hampshire John	1 00
Bowman Mrs S	1 00	Hefflebower Henry	1 00
Blackson Robert	1 00	Hiney David	1 00
Barlow Henry	1 00	Heck Wm	1 00
Beidler John	1 00	Hartman Peter	1 00
Bolinger Jacob	1 00	Horsl Abraham	1 00
Bear Isaac	1 00	Heppech Joshua	1 00
Bener John	1 00	Hawk Henry	1 00
Carper John	1 00	Jones Peter	1 00
Carper Christopher	1 00	Jones Moses	1 00
Cooper John	1 00	Jones Thomas	1 00
Carberry John	1 00	Kauffman John S	1 00
Crowford H S	1 00	Kauffman A J	1 00
Cramer George	1 00	Kephnger James W	1 00
Cramer Henry	1 00	Keplinger Elias	1 00
Cramer Jacob	1 00	Keplinger Joseph	1 00
Christ Jacob	1 00	Kister Samuel	1 00
Conrod Philip	1 00	Kyle David	1 00
Cable Abraham	1 00	Keller Samuel	1 00
Diltz George	1 00	Laper Maria	1 00
Dwisline Jacob	1 00	Longenecker Benj	do
Delong John	1 00	Law James	do
Dillinger Christopher	1 00	Long Harman	do
Diehl Levi	1 00	Long Abraham	do
Dersline Abraham	1 00	Levingston Wm	do
Dennis David	1 00	Lehr Daniel	do
Evans Daniel	1 00	Lutshaw Abraham	do
Elcock Joseph	1 00	Mosey David	do
Eberly Peter	1 00	McFaddeo James	do
Elsenhower J F	1 00	Mason Park	do
Engle Sarah	1 00	Murray Henry	do
Evens Jesse	1 00	Mateer John W	do
Ensminger David	1 00	McFadden Daniel	do
Forney Michael	1 00	McCreary Jas B	do
Fore Maria	1 00	Moooey Wm	do
Fore Matilda	1 00	Marks John	do
Funk Henry	1 00	Miller Joseph P	do
Fleagle Benjamin	1 00	Mumper Michael H	do
Fritchey Benj	1 00	Mell John	do
Fox Christian F	1 00	Miley Jacob	do
Foreman John	1 00	McAllister Harriet	do
Fosnacht John	1 00	McCormick Wm	do
Fleagle Henry	1 00	Myers Samuel	do
Fetterling Catharine	1 00	McGrosky Henry	do
Funk John	1 00	McFarren Peter	do
Fralz John	1 00	Mentzer Henry	do
Garner Ephraim	1 00	McCoy Daniel	do
Garner Jesse B	1 00	McCorkick Augustus G	do
Gore John	1 00	Miller Jacob	1 25
Grove Samuel	1 00	Nelson Charles	1 00
Gilbert Sol	1 00	Neidig David	do
Grose Daniel F	1 00	Ort John	do
Gorse Joseph	1 00	Patton James C	do
Garner Abraham	1 00	Phillippi Christian	do
Hickernell Jacob	1 00	Price Carlton	do
Peebles Wm	$1 00	Swartz Jonas	$1 00
Plaok Jonathan	do	Shoemaker Adam	do
Parker James	do	Stouffer John M	do
Prestle Daniel	do	Snyder Samuel S	do
Raber John	do	Shope Bernard	do
Ruppley Geo	do	Sherrich Ann	do
Rodger Wm	do	Smith Mary	do
Reidenour Daniel	do	Smuller George	do
Rohrer Fred D	do	Schoch George	do
Reichert Wm	do	Strayer Michael	do
Reeme Benj	do	Strock Frederick	do
Redabaugh Anne	do	Snyder John	do
Rice Eliza	do	Stouffer Jacob	do
Rife Jacob	do	Thompson John H	do
S ark Joseph	do	Taylor John	do
Server John	do	Tyler Elias	do
Shultz Isaac	do	Templin Syrus	do
Sheaffer Peter H	do	Thomas E H	do
Sheaffer Jacob	do	Tate Isaac	do
Spots Wm	do	Ulch John	do
Smith John	do	Wiley George	do
Stouffer George	do	Walker Joseph	do
Saodoe George	do	Weroer James	do
Stomm John	do	Wittmer C L (vol 15)	do
Shultz Jacob	do	West Jonathan	do
Snyder Jesse	do	Waggoner John	do
Stump John	do	Wisnard David	do
Stambaugh John	do	Wolf Michael	do
Shelly Daniel	do	Worst Samuel	do
Slingluff Levi	do	Warner David	do
Sherich Henry	do	Wagner Henry	do
Shuler John	do	Whisler Isaac	do
Souder Jacob	do	Wilson Alex	do
Sloanecker Andrew	do	Wiley Wm	do
Sentzny Washington	do	Wyhl Godfrey	do
Sentzny Nancy	do	Whiley John	do
Smith George	do	Zigler Rebecca	do
Smith Jacob	do	Zearing Henry	do
Swally F	do

Business Notice.

BOOKS have been forwarded to CHRISTIAN WINEBRENNER, Miamiesburg, Montgomery, Ohio—JOHN MCCARTY, Blairsville, Indiana connty, Pa.—and FREDERICK K. BRENNEMAN, Lancaster county, Pa.

We intend hereafter to give notice, through the paper, of all books and packages sent to order of our agents and patrons.

The Present Volume.

WE hope to make the present volume of the Advocate, more attractive and interesting than any previous one.

The paper, it will be perceived, is much better than heretofore. The press-work, also, shall be improved. And if our adjunet editors will write for us, as we expect they will, then too, will the reading matter of this volume surpass that of the former ones.

We hope that one and all will do the best they can, under the circumstances in which they are placed, and we shall ask no more.

Our Paper.

THE circulation of our paper is increasing. Let the ball be kept in motion a little longer, and our prediction will yet be verified, that the Advocate is destined to become a source of revenue to the Church. All that is wanted is union and perseverance in effort. The hurtful seed of factionism, we trust and hope in God, will no longer be scattered abroad throughout the fair vineyard of the Lord's right hand planting; but union, harmony and peace characterize the whole brotherhood of Jesus. Let this but take place, and Zion's borders will soon be enlarged, and the shouts of joy and triumph, be heard throughout the length and breadth of Immanuel's land.

File Your Newspapers.

EVERY person who takes a newspaper, (and especially a weekly paper,) should keep files of it, and every two or three years get them bound. Every man that does this leaves a valuable book to his children, who will respect his memory and value the bequest more than ten times the cost. A volume of newspapers sixty years old would now sell at more than cost anywhere. A newspaper is the best history of the times that can be found. After a long lapse of time, they are resorted to by scholars and antiquarians with great interest.

Information Wanted.

BROTHER JOSEPH GLENN will please to inform us where brothers J. Bolinger and A. Latshaw receive their papers. Also, where sister Catharine Shaeklor ought to have her's sent.

We have repeatedly requested our agents to be particular in always designating the Post Offices, in connexion with the names sent us. There are many persons of the same name on our list; and beside, we cannot always tell where given names receive their papers, and hence we cannot tell whether we are giving the right persons eredit. We hope our brethren will bear this in mind, and always give us the Post Office, county and State along with every name they send us. Brother Glenn, especially, will oblige us to give us the desired information respecting the afore-mentioned persons.

The Greene County Church.

WE are creditably informed that the Greene County Church is greatly injured by dissentions on the slavery question. We very much regret these unhappy proceedings. When will the children of the Kingdom learn to "be wise as serpents and harmless as doves?"—When will they learn to cut off right hands and pluck out right eyes, and esteem the peace and prosperity of Zion as their chief joy? Rash and imprudent means and measures never have, and never will accomplish any good. Their tendency, from first to last, is only evil, and evil continually.

There surely is nothing in the Resolutions on Slavery, passed by the General Eldership, to justify such hasty and precipitate proceedings, as those which have taken place in the Greene County Church. We advise the brethren to rescind their hasty steps, and to learn of Him who was meek and mild, and who has taught us to love one another as he has loved us, and to show that love by washing one another's feet. He that loves his brother as Christ has loved us, will never have a hand in casting him out of the church for opinion's sake.

New Line of Steamers.

A COMPANY under the title of the Kensington Steamboat and Navigation company, has just been chartered by the State of Pennsylvania, with very liberal privileges, with the object of opening a direct communication between Philadelphia, Norfolk, Portsmouth, and Richmond, taking the routes by the capes of Delaware and Virginia.

The distanee by sea from Norfolk to Philadelphia, is 300 miles, and may be run with ease in about thirty hours.

This communication being direct, and without any transhipment, must, when the line gets in operation, which is expected to be soon, become a favorable route for passengers and freight.

Missionary Pledge.

WE, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, - -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - - -	20 00

Kentucky Emancipation Convention.

WE find in the Louisville Journal, of the 23d ult., the official proceedings of the Convention of the friends of Emancipation.

This Convention, composed of citizens of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and representing the opinions and wishes of a large number of their fellow-citizens throughout the Commonwealth, met in their capitol on the 25th of April, 1849, to consider what course it becomes those who are opposed to the increase and to the perpetuity of slavery in that State, to pursue in the approaching canvas for members of the Convention, called to amend the Constitution, adopted the propositions which follow, as expressive of its judgment in the premises:

1. Believing that the involuntary hereditary slavery, as it exists by law in this State, is injurious to the prosperity of the Commonwealth, inconsistent with the fundamental principles of free government, contrary to the natural rights of mankind, and adverse to a pure state of morals—we are of opinion that it ought not to be increased, and that it ought not to be perpetuated in the Commonwealth.

2. That any scheme of emancipation ought to be prospective, operating exclusively upon negroes born after the adoption of the scheme, and connected with colonization.

3. That we recommend the following points as those to be insisted on in the new Constitution, and that candidates be run in every county in the State, favorable to these or similar constitutional provisions:

1. The absolute prohibition of the importation of any more slaves into Kentucky.

2. The complete power in the people of Kentucky to enforce and perfect in or under the new Constitution, a system of gradual, prospective emancipation of slaves.

3. This Convention confine its recommendation to the question of slavery, and make no expression of opinion on any other topic.

A central committee was appointed to use all proper means to promote the views of the Convention on the subject of emancipation, and that they have power to appoint sub-committees in such places in the State as they may deem proper, and also to appoint advocates of the cause where they may think its interests demand it.

Lumber Trade of the Susquehanna.

Some idea may be formed of the extent of the lumber trade of the Susquehanna, from the following memorandum of the number of rafts and arks that passed this place during the late annual spring freshet. The account was kept by Mr. Jeremiah Reese, keeper of the eastern toll-house of the Market street bridge, and furnished us by him for publication.

The number of rafts were as follows:

From the 22d to the 30th of March, -	415
On the 30th, - - - - - - -	200
April 1, - - - - - - -	160
" 2, - - - - - - -	281
" 3, - - - - - - -	545
" 4, - - - - - - -	287
" 5, - - - - - - -	32
" 6, - - - - - - -	135
" 7, - - - - - - -	90
" 8, - - - - - - -	35
" 9, - - - - - - -	19
" 10, - - - - - - -	22
" 11, - - - - - - -	27
" 17, - - - - - - -	4
	2,252

The number of arks were as follows:

From the 22d of March to April 4th,	183
April 5, - - - - - - -	5
" 6, - - - - - - -	14
" 7, - - - - - - -	15
" 8, - - - - - - -	12
" 9, - - - - - - -	2
" 12, - - - - - - -	5
" 13, - - - - - - -	30
" 17, - - - - - - -	2
Total number of arks, - - -	268
" " rafts, - - -	2252
Total rafts and arks, - - -	2520

National Common School Convention.

The friends of Common Schools in the States have determined on a National Common School Convention, to meet in Philadelphia on the 22d of August next, and have appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements for the meeting, of which the Hon. Joseph R. Chandler, of Philadelphia, is Chairman. This committee has published the following address to the friends of the meeting:

The Committee of Arrangements for the National Common School Convention, which is to assemble in Philadelphia on the 22d of August next, beg leave, respectfully and earnestly, to recommend to the friends of Common School Education in the several States of the Union, to assemble in State Conventions, at their respective capitals, or at some central location, on or before the fourth day of July next, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the National Convention, and transacting such other business in reference to the interests of Common School Education within their borders, as may be deemed expedient. It is desirous that the number of delegates from each State be at least equal to its representation in Congress, and that a full delegation should, as far as may be practicable, be secured. State or Local Conventions of Teachers, Superintendents, or other assemblages of the friends of education, are also respectfully requested to appoint delegates to the proposed National Convention.

JOS. R. CHANDLER, Chairman.
A. E. Wright, Cor. Secretary.

Central Railroad Meeting.

The meeting held in Philadelphia on Wednesday evening, the 2d inst., for the purpose of taking prompt and efficient measures to raise funds for the completion of the Central Railroad, is represented to have been an immense affair. The Hon. Joseph R. Ingersoll presided, with thirteen Vice Presidents and several Secretaries. A series of resolutions were adopted, one recommending that in view of the great importance of the work, prompt and energetic measures be taken to obtain the requisite subscription of 25,000 shares, and some three hundred block committees were appointed to canvass the city and districts to solicit subscriptions. The following condensed statement was presented from the President of the company, as to its condition at the present time:

Amount of subscriptions now available, - - - - - -	$3,180,800
Instalments paid in, - - -	2,180,065
Instalments to be collected, - -	1,000,735
Estimated cost of completing road to Hollidaysburg, - - -	4,066,200
Expendit's to this time, $1,986,000
Funds to be received, say 1,000,000
	2,986,000
Funds required to complete, - -	1.079,200
Amount now asked, - - -	1,250,000
Which leaves for machinery, -	$170,800

The final cost will not materially vary from these estimates.

The following estimate of the probable revenue of the road, when completed to Portage, was also presented, by J. Edgar Thompson, the Chief Engineer:

42,000 through passengers that are now known to take the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Cumberland Valley Railroad, that must necessarily be diverted to our road, at $4 50, - - - -	$178,500
24,000 through passengers that now go over the state works, including the probable increase on the opening of our road, at $4 25, -	102,000
The revenue from local travel on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad is 42 per cent. of the whole am't received from travel. The sparse population of the Valley of the Potomac, compared with that of Juniata, would lead us to estimate the local as equal to the present through travel, but to be on the safe side, we will place it at 50 per cent., which is equal to -	140,256
20,000 emigrants and similar travel, at $2 50, - - - -	50,000
United States mail, - - -	30,000
Express packages, - - -	15,000
Merchandize, live stock, &c., say 50,000 tons, at an average of $5 per ton, - - - - -	250,000
	$769,750
Deduct annual expenses, - -	309,769
	$460,000

Leaving the net revenue more than 10 per cent. upon the estimated cost of the road and outfit.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

The Old and New Testament.

The necessity of the study of the Old Testament in order to the proper understanding of the New.

Christ said to the Jews, "Search the Scriptures: for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me." Paul to Timothy, "From a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through the faith that is in Christ Jesus." Again, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

Notice here, that a more literal idea of the Apostle's meaning, is expressed in the following translation:—"All Scripture, given by Divine inspiration, is indeed profitable for doctrine," ect. For it is not fair to say, all Scripture is given by inspiration of God; as it would be equivalent to asserting, that all writing is given by Divine inspiration. This would be utterly at varience with truth; as in many, very many instances, writings mentioned in the Holy Scriptures, are altogether of an uninspired nature. For proof, see Luke 16: 6. "Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty." Here we have gramma, the same Greek word which, in other instances, with a qualifying participle annexed, refers to the sacred writing, denoting a bill of indebtedness to a creditor.

The only sacred Scriptures to which Christ could possibly have alluded, were those contained in the Old Testament, for there were no others at the time. The new covenant had not then been committed to parchment.

This is still more evident. He immediately says: "There is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust. For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me. But if ye believe not his writings, (or Scriptures,) how shall ye believe my words?"

It is probable, that in the days of Paul, a greater portion of the New Testament had been written; but not at so early a date as is indicated in the words, "From a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures." Also, his mother and grand-mother, from whom he received his religious impression in childhood, were familiar with those Divine writings.

The Jews understood them to teach the way to life. Christ said, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life." Paul says, "The Law was our school-master, to bring us to Christ, that we might be justified by faith." A school-master is an instructor—a teacher—a restrainer and corrector. The Law and Prophets instruct in the knowledge of the righteousness of God, even the righteousness of God which is by faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all who believe. This knowledge is to be derived from the writings or testimony which the Law and Prophets give of Christ.

Paul informed Timothy, that the wisdom he could derive from that source would result in his eternal deliverance, as it would always keep a man's mind's eye on Christ. This would be done by means of the many types of the Law of Ceremonies—by those literal prophecies which apply to him, and can to no other being that ever did or may live. The Scriptures give us matter for doctrine or theory in religion—for reproof or inducements to conviction of our sinful hearts and lives—for rules to correct our habits or ways of living—for correct instruction or information as to what is true righteousness. Timothy had also made himself familiarly conversant with the more luminous doctrines of the New Dispensation; for Paul reminds him he had fully known his doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, etc.

These two Testaments are the two cherubims overshadowing the mercy-seat, with their faces towards each other, and touching at the tips of their wings. Mark, their wings did not extend beyond each other's, but merely reached other. There, between these cherubims, God would be inquired of by the Jewish Priests; and here, too, every Christian has to resort for the will and commandments of the Lord. These two Testaments cover the whole of God's plan of redeeming man, and meet together over the golden mercy-seat—the Lord Jesus Christ. These are the two Olive trees, affording their rich oils to keep alive the flame of heavenly light in the dark and dreary soul of man. These are the martyred witnesses of the Apocalyptic John, which, after prophecying in sack-cloth for twelve hundred and sixty years against the sins of the great city, spiritually denominated Sodom and Egypt, were denied the common hospitality extended to the meanest beggar or criminal—a pitiful interment. This was litterally accomplished during the Reign of Terror, when the Sacred Scriptures were tied to the tail of a bull and dragged through the streets of Infidel Paris. But shall infidelity ever be able to stay the progress of the testimony witnessed by these two Divine witnesses, who appear to be nerved and quickened by the same soul of Almighty energy? Nay, the heavenly ideas implanted in the soil of the human mind, are as imperishable as the existence of God himself!

THEOPHORUS.

Scripture Exposition.

"There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is common among men."—Eccl. 6: 1.

When we take a survey of the condition of languishing Zion, we are led to inquire, why it is that the cause of Jesus Christ runs so low? What is the matter? Why all this trouble of keeping Church members straight? Well, dear brethren, is there not an evil in the Church? Is there not a Babylonish garment, or gold wedge, in the camp? Let us inquire.

1st. Why is it that Churches can on the Lord's day go to the Bethel and sit down and wait for the preacher to come? Why is it that there is not a prayer heard in his behalf? Why is it that some can leave the house of God and go home without saluting one of the brethrea? and worse still, have their minds all this time more upon the world than on Christ? The principal reason, perhaps is, they want more religion.

Again, a second evil is, division of sentiment and contention in the Church. These things wound weak brethren. Oh! my brethren, do not so. How good it is for brethren to live together in unity and love!

Again, a third evil is hypocrisy. This disease has infected its thousands. It appears to be sweeping its way through Church and State like a fierce hurricane. Oh Lord! save thy Church from hypocrisy.

4th. The conduct of many professors before the world, is of such a nature, that you cannot tell by their walk and conversation whether they are professors of religion or not. May God correct them of their unholy living, and bring them to reformation.

Again, the greatest evil is, that men and women appear to have forgotten the salvation of souls in pursuit of gold and silver. Go and visit them, and they can spend hours to tell you about their farms, their possessions, of buying and selling, and of getting gain; but ask them how the Church is prospering—how the state of the Church is, and, alas! then you will hear something to this amount: why, why, indeed I can hardly say, I have not had time to inquire, and indeed, to tell the truth, I have not been out at meeting of late. But I think it is middling good. God Almighty save the people from the evils of this day and generation.

Yours truly, S.

Mechanicsburg, April 20, 1849.

Letter from Brother Augustus G. McCormick.

Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, April 24, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Permit me, for the first time, to address you. I have been a reader of the Church Advocate, I presume, little better than two years, and I have been highly pleased in perusing its columns. Though I have not been a subscriber to the paper, I feel warmly interested in its welfare. Henceforth I expect to take more active grounds, and feel more interested in the cause of God, not only by reading its publications from time to time, but by subscribing for the paper myself. I feel that the moral tone and the holy influence that that paper exerts in the world is immense: and that every lover of God, and especially those who belong to the Church of God, should exert all their influence for its sustainance. How many of the publications of the present day are of a light, silly and demoralizing tendency? We know, if we have any experience on the subject, that their influence upon our own hearts is of an immoral tendency; therefore let us who are the professed children of God, banish such trash from our reading tables: yes, forever banish it—that their unholy influence may be swallowed up in oblivion.

Again, let us take a stand that our whole influence may be in favor of those publications whose influence is of a moral tendency; and those that will accord with the doctrines and principles inculcated and taught in the Bible, which we have taken as the man of our counsel. The interests of the Church of God in this country are running at a poor sickly rate. Notwithstanding, we have some whose hearts are true, whose motives are pure, and who are trying to weather out the storm, hoping and praying, whether they live long or die soon, that they will enjoy heaven and immortal glory when they leave this world. The prayer of the faithful in this land is that God would send them a minister, fraught with the blessings of God. We want one who can preach Jesus with power and might, who is a devoted man, wholly given to the service and worship of God. I believe, yes verily believe, that the people and Church of God are willing to work for the accomplishment of good in Iowa. But then we want and must have a man whom God will own and bless: one that will declare the whole counsel of God.

For myself, I would prefer our much beloved brother Logue to any one who can be sent to the West. But as he comtemplates staying East, we shall be deprived of his company and his blessed instruction. My prayer is that God may be with brother Logue. I feel grateful to-day, that God in His mercy, ever sent such a welcome messenger to the far West. I also glory in the growing missionary spirit. I feel, too, under ten thousand obligations to those brethren in the East, who have so generously contributed, and thrown in their mites, for the support of a missionary in this Land. May God bless them, and confer upon them both spiritual and temporal blessings.

As for myself, I am willing to do something for the cause. I am willing to subsribe $5 00 towards this glorious cause in the thriving and lovely State of Iowa. A friend, too, with whom I conversed a few days since, said he was willing to subscribe $5 00, though not a professor of religion. Hear it, ye church members! Hjs name is Mr. Barlow. I think that the little Church in this country will do considerable for the cause, when called upon to *act. May God bless the Church, and add such to it as shall be saved in the great and coming day of God Almighty.

Enclosed you will find $2 00 for the Church Advocate, one to Mr. Barlow and one to myself—both sent to Trenton, Henry county, Iowa. Pray for us.

I remain your brother in Christ,

AUGUSTUS G. McCORMICK.

*Remarks.—The church and friends generally are called on through the paper to let us know, by sending on their pledges, what they are able and willing to give, in money or otherwise, to sustain two missionaries—one in Iowa, and the other in Illinois. Now, therefore, let them all to a man, come up to this work after a Godly sort. Be prompt, and speak out—let your missionary light shine. With a little more energy and decision, the project, we think, under God, will succeed: and sooner than it should fail, we will double our pledge. Let but the Church furnish the means, and God will furnish the laborers. How many more, then, will send in their voluntary pledges? Come, O! ye rich men and women,—come, we say, consecrate your gain to the LORD, and your substance to the sustenance of the servants of the Lord of the harvest. This is one way to lay up treasures in heaven.

Letter from Brother D. Baker.

Union, Wayne County, Ohio, April 21, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

We are still contending for truth and order, and have a good many crooked and bothersome fellows to contend with; but the lion must be kept down, and by the help and grace of God, we will have peace.

The subject which I feel to write upon at present, is: God, in his Divine mercy, has permitted us to see another Spring approaching, and with it the out-door labor of the thrifty farmer commences. During the winter season, the last year's crop should be disposed of, in market, or in granary. Supposing this to have been done, we will remark, the repair of fences, as soon as the weather will permit, should claim the attention of farmers. February is the time for cutting timber for rails; indeed, all timber that is not liable to be destroyed by worms. Timber is at this season of the year comparatively free from sap; but in the Spring, and in Summer, the wood is full of sap, and if cut during these seasons, as experience proves, it will soon decay.

When the frost is out of the timber, it should be split into rails, and fences repaired as soon as the ground settles after the opening of the Spring. To speak of the importance of good fences, may appear to our agricultural readers superfluous, because all know and acknowledge their value. Still the bad condition of fences on many farms, convinces us that the value of good fences is overlooked or neglected by many. There is no more certain indication of an unthrifty farmer, than to see bad fences. It matters but little how well a farmer plows or sows his crops, if he does not keep his fences in good repair, they will always be liable to be destroyed by unruly cattle, which are ever to be found where the fences are bad.

So I would say, farmers repair your fences—prune your trees—clean up your yards, and have all things in proper order.

Above all I would say, brethren, as the cold blast and winter storms are over, and Spring, with all its beauties and luxuries, is springing forth, let us prepare our spiritual house—our hearts—casting out the old leaven, that we may be sanctified vessels for the Master's use. As it is about the time that the preachers enter upon their different fields of labor, I say, brethren pay up all arrearages; let not your preachers go away discouraged, and be active to help those that have to move on their different stations or circuits. God wants his people to be active, and ready to every good work.

As our beloved Brother and Pastor, A. Megrew, did not pass his last round on the circuit, on account of affliction in his family, we felt somewhat disappointed. The Church esteems him highly. We believe him to be a God-fearing man—sound in the faith—an able defender of the truth, and a pillar in the Church. We are anxiously looking for our new preachers from the East. We trust they will be men of like faith.

Yours in the Lord,

DAVID BAKER.

Letter from Bro. D. Neidigh, V. D. M.

Reedsburg, Wayne Co., Ohio, April, 19, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I again resume my pen to drop a few lines for the Advocate and its readers. According to previous appointment, I left my home to meet with the Church of God in Jefferson township, Knox county, to hold a protracted meeting. On the evening of the 30th of March I met with the Church of God in Lake township, Ashland county, and found the church in good spirits, and had a very profitable meeting. On the morning of the 31st of March I left there, in connection with a few brethren, and on the evening of the same day, we met with the afore-mentioned church, and were heartily received by the brethren, and rejoiced to find our much esteemed Elder D. Williams in attendance. We commenced the meeting in the name of the Lord. On Lord's day morning the brethren and sisters met for prayer and experience meeting. Preaching commenced at the usual hour, to a very large assembly. The word appeared to have its due bearing on the minds of the people at that place. This meeting was protracted for eight days, and thanks be to God, it was not in vain; although it took hard preaching before any would manifest a willingness to give their hearts to God. On the fourth evening of the meeting, there were some mourning souls came to the altar of prayer, and more or less during the meeting. There were, however, only four hopefully converted to God, and some few that had almost gone down the cold streams of Babylon, were again revived.

On the second Lord's day of the meeting, we attended to the ordinance of Christian Baptism. We had the pleasure of speaking to a large congregation of people upon that subject. Afterwards two of the afore-mentioned converts were buried with their Lord and Master beneath the yielding waves of Jordan, and came up out of the water rejoicing in their Lord and Master.

On the last night of the meeting we attended to the ordinances of the Lord's house—the washing of the saints' feet and the breaking of bread: and after realizing the benefits of attending to these means of grace, we gave the brethren a word of encouragement, exhorting them to put their trust in God, and serve Him until death, and He would give all such a crown of life—and then closed the meeting and bade them all an affectionate farewell.

Yours in love,

DAVID NEIDIGH, Jr.

Letter from Brother Henry Murray.

Navaar, Stark County, Ohio, April 20, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Through the kind Providence of God, I am once more permitted to resume my pen, in order to drop a few lines for the columns of the paper, or Advocate, which you may publish if you see proper.

I commenced a meeting in East Liberty on the 16th of February; the result of which meeting was, that one was reclaimed from the error of his ways, whilst some were made sensible of the evils of sectarianism; and others appeared to be alarmed, because we did exceedingly trouble their village with truth. Yea, and so much so, were some alarmed, that the members of Babylon, with one of her merchants, were seen and heard at the corners of the streets, and in their houses, and also in the public congregations, greatly wondering. These all, with many other evils, transpired during the progress of our meeting. From which it can be seen, that we meet with considerable opposition. But thanks be to God, one of the converts left Babylon, and came out upon the free principles of the Bible. Brother J. West and myself continued the meeting nine days.

The second meeting I commenced in Greensburg, on the 17th of March, which continued ten days; during which time I preached twelve times. At this meeting there was one soul converted. This may appear but a small business; yet, if she is faithful, it will amount to much at last, seeing her soul is of infinite value.

The third meeting I commenced in the neighborhood where I live, namely, Stump's. This meeting continued eleven days. My assistant was brother Beidler. The result of the meeting was, two souls were reclaimed from sin and its consequences, and six united in church fellowship with the Church of God.

Yours in love,

HENRY MURRAY.

N. B.—I hope that our brethren passing and re-passing, will try to give the brethren a call in Stark county, and not make Wooster the only rallying point. For we should like to see our old acquaintances, and form new ones.

H. M.

Letter from Brother Isaac Whisler.

Dalton, Wayne Co., Ohio.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Enclosed I send you one dollar for your valuable paper for the coming year, and should be pleased could I send you some new subscribers; but instead of this, according to the request of some, I must inform you to drop their names. Why is it, that brethren who are blessed with health and able bodies, will say that they are not able to take the Church Advocate? If they would lay aside nine cents each month during the year, they could easily pay for it. And how many cents, let me ask, are spent by many during a year which are of far less value than a religious paper! I do think that all the brethren in the Church, who are able, should take the Advocate; and if they do not wish to read it themselves, there are others who will read it if they will only give it to them, and perhaps be greatly benefitted by it. The Advocate is truly a welcome visitor to my family, and I should be sorry to do without it. In those articles and communications sent in by the brethren from different parts for publication, we can learn what the Lord is doing for his children in other parts of his heritage. And this is, or ought to be cheering to every Christian, when he can hear, either far or near, that the Lord is converting sinners, and building up and reviving the Churches in various places. There is nothing more interesting to me in the columns of the Advocate, than those communications from the different brethren; and frequently, whilst reading those communications, it has caused my soul to rejoice and be filled with gratitude to God, that there are still some that are willing to trust in the merits of Christ, and experience redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins. If it were not that we had access to the Advocate, we would oftimes not hear such glorious intelligence at all. But when we read these papers during the year, and then file them, or get them bound, it will make a very interesting book I have taken the paper for the last six or seven years, and have been careful with them, and I would not now take the amount for them that they cost me; for when I read them over and over again, I find them still interesting to me. May God bless you in preaching his word, as well as editing the Church Advocate.

Yours, in the bonds of the gospel,

ISAAC WHISLER.

Letter from Brother Benj. Ober.

LIGONIER, Westmoreland County, May 1, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I TAKE my pen in hand to drop you a few lines for the readers of the Advocate.

I travelled one year with brother Hickernell, on the Westmorelaud and Indiana Circuits. A number were happily converted and added to the Church, the past year, as understood by former letters. I have also been kindly treated by all the brethren and Churches. May the Lord reward them for their labor of love.

I have lately opened a new appointment, at Mill Creek Furnace, near Johnstown. I found brother N. Hissong and several Church members from the East there. And, notwithstanding they were deprived of the privileges of the Church for sometime, yet they maintained their integrity, and proved that they had built upon a good foundation. I preached the first time at that place some time about the middle of March, to an attentive congregation. I left another appointment for the 27th of March. Preached four times—had several seekers of religion. But in consequence of other arrangements, I had to leave. But I returned soon again, and commenced a meeting, and had quite an interesting time. I commenced on Saturday evening, the 21st of April, and continued until Tuesday evening. There were six that found peace, and a number left to mourn over their sins. I also was asked to say something in reference to Church government. After I had spoken in my weak manner, on this subject, there was a Church organized of ten members. There were also three baptized, which caused a confusion among the religionists. The reason of this was, because some of their props began to fall, and the truth had its effect, and some were willing to obey it, while others fought against better light. O! that the time might soon come when sectarianism and prejudice would be done away, and all persons seek the wisdom that cometh from above, and follow the light as they see it. Nothing more at present. Amen.

Yours, &c.,

B. OBER.

Letter from Sister Sarah Grove.

BERKS COUNTY, April 22, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER, EDITOR:—

ENCLOSED you will find one dollar in advance for another year's subscription for that worthy paper, the Church Advocate. As I still live, as it were, among the heathen, I do not see how I could do without it. I am so very much interested in it, that I should be very glad to receive one every week.

It always makes me feel glad when I hear that the Lord is reviving his work, and my prayers are that he would carry it on gloriously. O! that the time would speedily come when the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ. It often causes me to shed tears when I look around and behold the many millions that are travelling the downward road to perdition.

Dear sinner! what will be your lot if you persist in your course? If the righteous scarcely be saved, where will the ungodly and the sinner appear? Methinks I would not be without religion for all the gold of Ophir. Surely,

It is religion that can give,
Sweetest pleasures while we live.

Methinks, prisons would palaces prove, if Jesus would dwell with us there.

Some of my Christian friends thought I would not be able to keep religion in Berks county; but I have not had any occasion yet to give up, nor do I suppose I will have, for I find that I stand in as much need of the Saviour as ever. I have no opposition whatever. I can serve God according to the dictates of my own mind. It is true, I have heard but one sermon since last November. I was then in Reading in a Methodist Church.

God being my helper, I hope to hold out to the end. I am persuaded (through grace) that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, shall be able to separate me from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus my Lord.

Yours truly,

SARAH GROVE.

Letter from Brother T. H. Deshiri.

WOOSTER, Wayne County, Ohio, April 24, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

BROTHER H. L. SOULE and myself have at length arrived in this strange but beautiful country; but not without numerous difficulties, considerable discouragements, and wearied bodies, together with the loss of my beast, &c., &c. Yet I feel thankful that it is as well with myself and brother S. as it is.

We met with a hearty reception from the good brethren of the circuit wherever we have visited, which, of course, is very encouraging to us both.

I deem it unnecessary to say any thing to you respecting this country, as you are better acquainted here than I am; but the probability is, we shall be pleased with this part of the world: however, we must determine that fact subsequently.

Sister Megrew is dangerously ill at this time, and it is scarcely possible for her to recover from her indisposition; but she is wholly resigned to the will of the Lord.

There is one thing in existence here that I deeply regret: and that is, division and rents in the different local churches; but they took place before our arrival here, consequently we, in all probability, will be compelled to submit to things as they are, not meddling with them in any wise.

I wish you to continue my Church Advocate, and send it to Wooster Post Office.

Yours, fraternally,

THOMAS H. DESHIRI.

Letter from Brother J. W. Keplinger.

BRANDYWINE, Ohio, April 18, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

AFTER a long delay, I take up my pen to inform you and the readers of your paper, that I am still well, for which I am thankful to God; also, that I am still striving to do what little I can in the collection of new subscribers for your valuable paper. But I am sorry to say, that I have but five new subscribers to send you at this time. But I hope that I shall still be able to get more in future. There are many that live without the paper, and for the only reason that they can get other papers that are as large again as the Advocate for less money. But then those are political papers, half filled with Advertisements. I wonder if those brethren are not a little like the rich man, when told to do good and lay up treasure in Heaven—that they would rather keep their money and lay it out in lands, or put it out on interest; and let the cause of God and his ministers do as well as they can. Come, my brethren and sisters, let us not shut up our books and purses, and let a good paper go down. Let us try to help along all we can, and the Lord will bless us in so doing. With these few remarks, I will close on this point for the present. May the blessing of the Lord attend us, and lead us safely through the journey of life, is my prayer.

Yours, &c.,

JAMES W. KEPLINGER.

Letter from Brother Abraham Long.

MAYTOWN, April 27, 1849.

DEAR SIR:—

HEREWITH I send you one dollar for the next volume of the "Church Advocate," commencing on the first of May. I am more and more pleased with the paper. Instead of long, unmeaning stories, and other trash generally found in the newspapers of the day, by which the morals of our youths are becoming corrupted, the Advocate contains a vast amount of truth of the most important character; besides giving an accurate account of the general news, religious, political, and literary.

It is in my opinion richly worth two dollars, and those who either neglect, or refuse to comply with the terms, (and I am sorry to see that there are so many,) are chargeable with the highest and most shameful injustice, be their profession what it may. They ought to be reminded of the precepts—"Do justly." "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

No more at present, but remain,

Yours, &c.,

ABRAHAM LONG.

Letter from Brother Joseph Glenn, V. D. M.

OLD HARMONY, April 22, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

THIS will inform you that I am well at present, and hope you are likewise well. During the winter I have been laboring to the best of my ability, on my field of labor, without much success, save in the church in Rockland. In that place we had some refreshing times.—Several souls were converted and some of them added to the church. Others had no opportunity yet, but will have when I come back again. May God bless that dear people, and still increase their number.

Yours in the gospel,

JOSEPH GLENN.

Letter from Brother John C. Owens, V. D. M.

BALTIMORE, April 24, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

THINGS with us as a church move but slowly. However, we have latterly baptized five persons, and have added four to the Church. It is up-hill work to effect much good in Baltimore. We are, nevertheless, gradually approaching the summit, where, I trust, a glorious victory will be achieved for Bible truth.

We are all as well as common. I trust you and yours are the same.

Yours, respectfully,

JOHN C. OWENS.

Letter from Brother David Kyle.

MARTINSBURG, April 23, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I SEND you six new subscribers, and hope to send you more soon.

You will no doubt be glad to hear that since my last letter, a goodly number have been converted, and eight baptized at Stonerstown. We had a good work of grace during the last winter. The Church had been in a languishing state, but the Lord has come to her help.

Yours in love,

D. KYLE.

A Note.

MOUNT JOY, April 24, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I HAVE been requested to notify you of the death of one of the brethren, which should have been done before this time, but by some oversight or neglect, (not my own,) has been delayed.

WM. MOONEY.

OBITUARY OF Brother DAVID BRADY.

DIED, at his residence in Mount Joy, of a lingering and complicated illness, DAVID BRADY, SR., aged 63 years and 1 day.

Brother Brady embraced religion in A. D. 1831, at which time he became a member of the Church of God in this place, and of which he continued a useful and worthy member until death. His funeral took place on the 17th of March, attended by a large assembly of relatives, citizens and acquaintances. Funeral services by Elder William McFadden.

Brother Brady deservedly sustained a good character, among all who knew him, for honesty, industry and benevolence. The homeless and the friendless, have always found a shelter and protection under his hospitable roof, where, with a hearty welcome, they were made to share the fruits of honest industry and liberality. And from the time he became a subject of saving grace, his house became the resort of the faithful in religion; and the minister of it found in him what Paul found in Gaius, namely: a HOST. This is better known to many, who knew him, than can be expressed by me. But what was best of all, his latter end was not only peaceful, but triumphant. He was blest in life, with seven sons and three daughters: two of which, (his children,) had gone before him. The remaining eight stood around his bed, to witness his departure and receive his dying blessing; and at which time he was seen to weep. His wife, who had watched over him for many long years of his life, with prayerful solicitude, enquiring after the cause of his grief; to which inquiry he replied: "I weep not for sorrow, but for joy and gratitude to my Heavenly Father, to see my children all laboring to provide things honest in the sight of all men, and especially that they are all striving to lay up treasures in Heaven, where I hope we shall meet again. I cannot refrain (said he) from tears of gratitude, that God has dealt thus mercifully with me and mine."

After exhorting all to steadfastness in, and reliance upon Christ, he expressed his assurance of immortality, and a cheerful resignation to the Heavenly dispensation.—Some time after that, he took his solemn and final leave of all that was dear to him on earth, and then soon after, yielded his spirit to the requisition of his God, without a struggle or a groan.

Surely, the bereaved widow and the fatherless children, sensibly feel their loss to be great. Yet they find consolation in the fact, that his gain unspeakably exceeds their loss.

OBITUARY OF Brother SAMUEL SHERICH.

PLYMOUTH, Richland Co., April 23, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

THIS is to inform you of the death of our beloved brother, SAMUEL SHERICH, who died at his residence in Richland county, Ohio, aged 47 years, 11 months and 24 days.

Brother Sherich was among the first of our brethren who located in Ohio; and as a light in a dark place, earnestly contended for the Church of God, and the sufficiency of the Bible, as a rule of faith and practice.

His last illness, which was Dispepsy and Consumption, he bore with Christian and exemplary patience and fortitude. I had the satisfaction of visiting him in his last illness five times, and was with him all night each time. His judgment, intellect, memory, and mental faculties, were free, clear, and strong, until his last. He had something to say to all who visited him about religion. Having many sinking spells during his illness, he would generally, on recovering, break out in singing some suitable hymn or verse: such as,

I have fought my way through, &c.

His last choice, when too weak to sing himself, was, to have sung the 370th hymn in the Revival Hymn Book. Shortly after he bid all farewell, and fell asleep in Jesus.

We were glad to see the love and affection exhibited toward him by our brethren, in visiting him during his last illness, and especially our brethren in the ministry.

Brother Sherich was a father in Israel. A man of great zeal and strong faith. He also had a deep, penetrating mind. His sermons were brief, powerful, plain and pointed.

We have truly lost, not only a father in Israel, and a useful minister of the gospel, but a pillar in our Eldership. A man who would sacrifice both character and property for the cause of his God. It is true, he was not without enemies; but they were generally hypocrites and false professors. However, he had the warmest affection and confidence of all his faithful brethren.

Brother Sherich has left an affectionate wife and three children to mourn his departure.—His wife and daughter, Mary Ann, deserve special praise, for their peculiar care and attention in waiting on him during his illness. His remains were interred in the grave-yard, near Newland, on Saturday, the 14th of April, 1849. His funeral was attended by a large concourse of people. His neighbors deserve credit for their respects and attention toward him—especially Esquire Allaman and family.

By the request of brother Sherich, his funeral sermon was preached by the writer, from Romans 8: 37; followed by brother J. Briggle, in the German language, with an exhortation. Brothers Williams, Bear and Neil, brethren in the ministry, were also present.

Yours, affectionately,

WM. ADAMS.

OBITUARY OF Sister MARY ANN WIRICK.

DIED, At Newburg, Cumberland county, Pa., on the 14th of April, 1849, sister MARY ANN, consort of brother George Wirick.

Sister Wirick (then Gilbert) embraced religion, by an humble reliance on the merits of Christ, some twelve years ago, in the days of her youth; at which time, she cast in her lot with the Church of God at Newburg: in the communion of which, she lived until the day of her death, an humble, consistent, and devoted Christian.

She has been truly a daughter of affliction, not having enjoyed scarcely a day of health for the past five years.

Her last sickness was exceedingly severe, lasting about three weeks; which, however, she bore with great Christian fortitude and resignation. In this her last illness, she gave the strongest evidence of the power and efficiency of that faith and hope which she possessed, to overcome the fear of death, and to give full assurance of an inheritance beyond this vale of tears.

She left the world on the 14th of April, aged 28 years, 1 month and 24 days. Her remains were interred on the 15th, in the silent tomb, at this place.

A discourse was delivered on the occasion, by the writer, to a large and solemn assembly.

She has left behind, to mourn her early departure, an affectionate husband, three small children, an aged mother, several sisters, and one brother.

E. H. THOMAS.

OBITUARY OF ROBERT M. ROSS.

DIED, at Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, Pa., on Sunday, April 29th, 1849, ROBERT M. ROSS, in the 57th year of his age.

Funeral services at the German Reformed Church, by Rev. E. Hoffheins in the German language, from Psalms 144: 4; followed by Elder Wm. Mooney in the English language, from the latter clause of the 16th verse of the 11th chapter of John's gospel: "Let us also go, that we may die with him."

The deceased had been afflicted with a complication of disease, mainly seated in the heart and lungs, for almost eight months. During this period, knowing full well that his days would be short, he strove to set his mind on eternal things, and during his last hours gave ample testimony to his friends and all that visited him, that his flight would be to that home where there is no pain, sickness, weeping—but all is gladness, rejoicing, joy, and peace forever. He showed a perfect resignation to the Divine will; and as far he was concerned, forgave all that might, perchance, have wronged him intentionally or unintentionally: and however others may feel now, or will feel hereafter on this point, he was both ready and willing to forgive all and every injury. Thus died one beloved by many. A few years ago he united with the Sons of Temperance, and continued a bold defender of its principles up to his last earthly hours. This bereavement should teach all of us, but especially his family and relatives, the shortness of life—the certainty of death—the great necessity of making timely a due preparation for eternity.

R.

OBITUARY OF MAGDALENE GARMAN.

DIED, on the 7th day of April, sister MAGDALENE GARMAN, wife of John Garman, of Summit county, Ohio, aged 38 years, 4 months and 15 days.

Sister Garman was taken sick on Monday, the 2d, which lasted until Saturday evening, when she breathed her last. She bore her afflictions with great patience, expressed a willingness to leave the world, and was frequently heard praising God. On Monday, the 9th, her body was conveyed to the silent tomb, followed by a large concourse of weeping friends and neighbors: after which we went into the meeting-house, called Zion's Church, where a funeral discourse was delivered, in the German language, by the writer, from Matthew 14: 44.

JOHN BEIDLER.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Free Schools.—The New York school law, recently enacted by the Legislature, provides for the free and gratuitous education in common schools of all children over five and under twenty years of age, and directs a county and town tax to an amount equal to the dividend received from the school fund. The act is to be submitted to the people at the next election, and if approved will go into operation in January next.

Emigration to the Gold Region.—More than 150 vessels and 12,000 passengers, on the first of March, had gone to California from the Atlantic States. Over 1,000 barrels of rum, and as many more of brandy, with immense quantities of other liquors, have been sent out from New York. Among other articles of traffic enumerated, were 900 gold washers, and only seven packages of books!

Members of the Thirty-first Congress.

President—MILLARD FILLMORE.

	Term Expires.		Term Expires.
ALABAMA.		MICHIGAN.
B. Fitzpatrick,	1853	Lewis Cass,	1851
Uncertain,	1855	Alpheus Felch,	1855
ARKANSAS.		MISSOURI.
W. K. Sebastian,	1853	Thos. H. Benton,	1851
Solon Borland,	1855	D. R. Atchison,	1855
CONNECTICUT.		NEW HAMPSHIRE.
Roger S. Baldwin,	1851	Jno. P. Hale, F.S.	1853
Truman Smith,	1855	Moses Norris, Jr.,	1855
DELAWARE.		NEW YORK.
John Wales,	1851	D. S. Dickinson,	1851
Presly Spruance,	1853	Wm. H. Seward,	1855
FLORIDA.		NEW JERSEY.
David Y. Yulee,	1851	Wm. L. Dayton,	1851
Jackson Morton,	1855	Jacob W. Miller,	1853
GEORGIA.		NORTH CAROLINA.
John M. Berrien,	1853	W. P. Mangum,	1853
Wm. C. Dawson,	1855	Geo. E. Badger,	1855
INDIANA.		OHIO.
Jesse D. Bright,	1851	Thomas Corwin,	1851
J. Whitcomb, F.S.	1855	S. P. Chase, F. S.	1855
ILLINOIS.		PENNSYLVANIA.
S. A. Douglass,	1853	Daniel Sturgeon,	1851
James Shields,	1855	James Cooper,	1855
IOWA.		RHODE ISLAND.
Geo. W. Jones,	1851	Albert C. Greene,	1851
A. C. Dodge,	1855	John W. Clark,	1853
KENTUCKY.		SOUTH CAROLINA.
J. R. Underwood,	1853	Jno. C. Calhoun,	1853
Henry Clay,	1855	A. P. Butler,	1855
LOUISIANA.		TENNESSEE.
Sol. U. Downs,	1853	H. L. Turney,	1851
Pierre Soule,	1855	John Bell,	1853
MAINE.		TEXAS.
Hannib'l Hamlin,	1851	Thomas J. Rusk,	1851
J. W. Bradbury,	1853	Samuel Houston,	1853
MASSACHUSETTS.		VERMONT.
Daniel Webster,	1851	Samuel S. Phelps,	1851
John Davis,	1853	William Upham,	1853
MARYLAND.		VIRGINIA.
B. C. Howard,	1851	James M. Mason,	1851
James A. Pearce,	1855	R. M. T. Hunter,	1853
MISSISSIPPI.		WISCONSIN.
Jefferson Davis,	1851	Henry Dodge,	1851
Henry S. Foote,	1853	Isaac P. Walker,	1855

THE RECAPITULATION.

Democrats,	32
Whigs,	24
Free Soilers,	3
Uncertain,	1
Total number of Members,	60

Cholera in Europe.—While in England and Scotland the ravages of the cholera have been stayed, in Ireland they have been fearfully fatal. In the city of Limerick one thousand had perished of the disorder, as many as fifty or sixty dying per day. At the last accounts, the daily deaths had fallen to thirty. Throughout the south of Ireland, it had carried off many of the inhabitants. In Paris it was still raging. A bishop and several members of the Assembly were its victims.

Kentucky.—All accounts concur in stating that the emancipation letter of Henry Clay has had a powerful influence in Kentucky.

Cassius M. Clay has written a letter to the Louisville Courier, taking grounds for the formation of an emancipation party, and action through it. He says:—"Slavery is legal tyranny over natural right; and every just man will seek uncompromisingly its overthrow.—The people made it, and the people can unmake it."

☞ The cholera at Pittsburg has led to the appointment of Dr. Morgan as port physician. The authorities appropriated $2,000 for the use of the sanatory committee, who have taken measures for a thorough cleansing of the city.

Latest European News.—The European intelligence received by the Cambria, is highly important. The substance of it is, as briefly summed up by the Tribune, that there is a War in almost every quarter of Europe. "In ITALY the Austrians have destroyed Brescia, the blood of her inhabitants staining the ruins of their churches and their homes. GENOA has been bombarded by the Piedmontese troops for revolt and Republicanism. In SPAIN the old quarrel has resulted in a new battle, with its horrors of dead and wounded, and no great principle to shed lustre on the gloom. DENMARK is defeated by Germany, and defeated too where she has hitherto been the victor—on the sea. In Hungary the Austrians are more decidedly losers than ever. Thirteen hundred of the dead strew a single field. The King of Prussia refused the German Crown, and all there is uncertainty. France still plays the part of a spectator; her Government making her false abroad, while, by attempts to suppress Thought, shackle the Press and gag Speech at home, they make ready the new Revolution."

A Useful Invention for the Ladies.—A Lady in this State is about to apply for a patent for an invention which is at once ingenious, useful, and exhibits inventive qualities of no common kind. It is an article of domestic furniture, which answers for a cradle, a baby jumper, a table for the child to amuse itself with its play-things, and it can be transformed in a moment from a cradle to a seat with castors on it, by which the child can, by its own power, use it as a walking chair, and move it from place to place by simply pushing it.

[Scientific American.

Destruction of the Fruit at the West.—The Cincinnati Gazette, speaking of the recent destructive snow, says that it has destroyed nearly all the fruit in that region, and in the adjacent parts of Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. As far north as the National Road in Ohio, and as far south as Frankfort, in Kentucky, every species of the tree fruit is taken, except late blooming apples. In addition to this, even grapes are so much damaged in the immediate vicinity of Cincinnati, as to leave but little hope of anything beyond the most meagre vintage.

Good Move.—Wisconsin is leading off finely in the race of progress. Her legislature have adopted, by a large majority, a resolution instructing their senators and requesting their representatives to propose an amendment to the Constitution to the effect that U. S. Senators shall be chosen by the people of each State instead of the legislatures. We are glad the ball is yet in motion and hope it will speed on to its aim.

☞ An invention has been patented in England by which steam engines, in full play, can be stopped almost instantly.

Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad.

PITTSBURG, April 30.

The individual subscriptions to the stock of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad, amount here to four thousand two hundred and eighty-eight shares—equal to $214,400—and the committee expect to be able to increase the amount to six thousand shares—equal to $300,000.

This, in addition to subscription heretofore received, amounts to considerably over one million—the amount required to secure the charter

Review of the Mexican War.—The American Peace Society, some months ago offered a prize of $500 for the best Essay on the Mexican War. It was to be written without reference to political parties, telling the whole truth without fear or favor; the grand purpose being to set forth in a strong light, the blithing influence of war on social life. The prize has been awarded to Rev. Mr. Livermore, Unitarian minister at Keene, N. H.; and the Essay is now in press.

Mint for California.—What Congress failed to do for California, private enterprise has taken in hand. A party have just gone from Northampton, Mass., taking with them a mint, or rather all the implements necessary for coining gold and silver, and a competent assayer. Their object is to establish a private mint, purchase gold at a fair price, and coin it for circulation.—They will be able to coin $10,000 per day, and their enterprise is said to have the sanction of government. What a commentary is this upon the enterprise of our Government.

Canada Emigration to the States.—The Western journals inform us that numbers of Canadians who have been warmly in favor of the annexation of Canada to the Union, are taking passage on board of steamboats, with all their property and families, for Wisconsin and other States. The St. Johns (N. B.) News speaks to the same effect, of emigration from New Brunswick, and it is apprehended by the Provincial papers, that unless something be done, the provinces will become comparatively deserted in less than twelve months.

Elections.—Elections for members of Congress are yet to take place in the following States:—

North Carolina,	Aug. 2	Maryland,	Oct. 3
Tennessee,	Aug. 2	Louisiana,	Nov. 6
Alabama,	Aug. 6	Mississippi,	Nov. 5
Indiana,	Aug. 6	Texas,	Nov. 5
Iowa,	Aug. 6	Mass.[vacancy]	May
Kentucky,	Aug. 6

Cholera at Boston.—The ship Brutus arrived at Boston on Monday, from Liverpool, via Loch Foyle, Ireland, where twenty-seven of the passengers died with the Cholera. Twelve others were left sick in the hospital there, and one subsequently died at sea.

Highly Important from Canada.

MONTREAL, April 26th, 1849.

The Governor of Canada has signed the Indemnity Bill, and a serious riot took place in this city last evening, during which the Tories fired and burned the Parliament buildings, including the valuable Library of the House and all the public documents. Mr. Moffatt, a distinguished member of the House, has been arrested for high treason.

Cholera at New Orleans.—Extract of a letter dated New Orleans, April 21, to a gentleman of this city: "New Orleans is a perfect charnel house. People are dying like flies in the winter time. When I first came it was bad, afterward got better; but within the last two or three days it has began again worse than ever. In a boarding house close by, 8 out of 20 boarders died last night.

Progress of Population in France and England.—The population of France in 1801 was 27,349,000, and in 1821 was 30,461,000; the increase in twenty years being about eleven per cent. The population of Great Britain, in the same period, increased from 10,942,000 to 14,481,000, an increase of more than 32 per cent.

National Finances.—The receipts into the United States Treasury during the quarter ending the 31st of March last, were $14,680,044 60—of which $8,374,628 61 were from customs, the balance from loans and lands. The expenditures during the same period were $11,130,097 50.

Emigration to California.—The increase of the emigration to California by sea and via the isthmus, amounts to some twenty-five thousand persons. According to the western journals, the number of emigrants going by the overland route is over 20,000.

☞ FORTY-FOUR PATENTS were issued from the United States Patent Office, at Washington, on the 17th inst. Among them we perceive the name of Alexander Bain, Esq., for Telegraphic improvements. This is the greatest list of Patents ever issued at once.

☞ The Sisters of Mercy of Pittsburg, we understand, have not only offered their hospital in cases of cholera, but also their services, in any case in any part of the city.

Temperance in Montreal.—Upwards of 19,000 persons signed the temperance pledge in Montreal in four days, on the occasion of the ministerial withdrawal of the Rev. Father Chiniquy.

☞ Swarms of locusts, or grasshoppers, have appeared in Texas, literally covering the ground in some places, and devouring the wheat and corn.

Cholera in Mexico.—Late accounts state that the cholera is extending its ravages in Mexico.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRAYER MEETINGS.

It is very important that a prayer meeting should not be wearisome. Such prayer meetings will be not merely uninviting, but repulsive; and what is worse, in those who attend it may destroy the spirit of prayer, and induce a habit of contented mockery!

A prayer meeting should be conducted with spirit. A dull and heavy mode of conducting a meeting will make it dull and heavy. The person conducting the meeting should be prepared. No time should be lost in turning over leaves. A passage of Scripture, short, and selected for point and impressiveness, should be read; and a few verses, selected in like manner, should be sung. Any remarks should be pertinent and brief. On this point every one should examine himself carefully and unsparingly; for we do not tell to each other our faults, and we shall not, without painstaking and impartiality, suspect our own faults. A prayer meeting should be confined carefully within its limited time. It is far better that people should leave meeting, remarking that it has broken up too soon, than that it has been held too long. In case different members of a meeting conduct it in turns, the member should be named at the preceding meeting, that he may be present and prepared. Variety may thus be given. These are small matters; but small things do not always produce small consequences.

FEMALE FORM.

In form the Italians excel us. Larger and fuller, they naturally acquire a finer gait and bearing. It is astonishing that our ladies should persist in that ridiculous notion that a small waist is, and par necessitas must be beautiful. Why, many an Italian lady would cry with vexation if she possessed such a waist as some of our ladies acquired only by a long and painful process. I have sought the reason for this difference, and can see no other, only that the Italians have their glorious statuary continually before them as models, and hence endeavor to assimilate to them; whereas our fashionables have no models, except those French stuffed figures in the windows of Milliner shops.—Why, if an artist should presume to make a statue, with the shape that seems to be regarded with us as the perfection of harmonious proportion, he would be laughed out of the city. It is a standing objection against the taste of our women, that they will practically assert that a French Milliner understands how they should be made better than nature herself.—J. H. Headley.

EDUCATE THE MOTHERS.

Napoleon asked Madame Campan what was necessary for the people of France? Educate the mothers, said the estimable lady. You are right, said Napoleon, and he proceeded to state that the most important and valuable elements of his character were derived from the affectionate and careful nurture of his mother.

Diseases of the mind, as well as those of the body, are generally contagious, and no pestilence spreads its infection with a more dreadful rapidity than superstition and enthusiasm.

A LITTLE SERMON.

2 Sam. xxiv. 24: "Neither will I offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord my God of that which eost me nothing."

David, in the pride of his heart, had now numbered the people. The Most High was angry, and had just now sent a pestilence; and there died of Israel, in a very short time, seventy thousand men.

But David soon became penitent. As an evidence of his penitence, we find him going to Araunah the Jebusite, to buy his threshing-floor, where he might build an altar unto the Lord. Araunah, knowing his pious object, offered to make him a present of the floor, and his oxen, and whatever else he might need for the service of God on the occasion. But the noble-hearted king waived the benevolent offer of Araunah, saying,—"Nay, I will surely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord my God of that which cost me nothing." Although David would receive the grace of God as a free, unmerited favor, without money and without price, as it really is, yet, in performing the duties of religion, he could not entertain the thought of serving the great, the glorious God, in so cheap a way.

DOCTRINE.

So far as duties are concerned, true religion is not a cheap religion. For,

1. True religion costs one all sinful pleasures.

2. True religion costs one all merely ambitious pursuits, all pride, and self-seeking.

3. True religion costs one the sacrifice of himself.

4. True religion costs one all he possesses.

5. True religion requires costly duties, such as the following:

Laborious study of the Bible.

Serious thought and devout meditation.

Much time in the performance of duty.

And such a disposition of his money as the glory of God demands.

REMARKS.

1. From the light of this subject, we see that that religion which costs a man nothing, is generally good for nothing.

2. The person who is looking for a cheap religion, exposes himself to the suspicion of being unlike the noble king David, who would not offer to the Lord a sacrifice that cost him nothing; and of being unlike the benevolent Araunah, who offered his floor as the place of an altar, and his oxen for the sacrifice. Those who are like these good men, are never satisfied without a good and commodious place of worship. When winter is coming on, they prepare good fuel, and bring their full share in season. They see that some one is provided to build the fire in season Sabbath mornings. They are for having their minister so well paid, that he can afford to study his sermons. Henry says—a scandalous support makes a scandalous ministry.

3. From this subject it is very much to the purpose to say, that, that sermon which costs a minister nothing, is usually good for nothing.

4. Those who leave their own meetings, or leave their own denomination, to save expenses, make a mistake.

5. Good people will attend meeting on the Sabbath, rain or shine. Those who attend only when it is convenient, offer sacrifices which cost them nothing.

Lastly. The reason why many Christians are so superficial in their religion, and do no more good, is, that they do not give themselves time to acquire knowledge. Knowledge of God—of duty—of a perishing world.—Vt. Chronicle.

GOOD RULES.

Keep your room well ventilated. Close rooms generate disease. Many a constitution is undermined from such confinement.

Throw off your feather beds and lie upon straw—or even the floor, if you have nothing better. The cheap cotton mattrasses make a good bed and a healthy one. Feathers are bad to lie upon at any time, and more particularly in the summer season.

Use cold water freely. Wash yourselves thoroughly with it every morning. A little salt put in the water, just enough to give it a briny taste, will keep the pores healthy, and strengthen and invigorate the system.

Eat lightly, especially if your habits are of a sedentary character. Do not eat in a hurry, but masticate your food well before it is deposited in the stomach. This bolting down provision, anaconda-like, is most destructive to the digestive organs. Avoid too great an indulgence in "high living," as it is called. Plain food is the best.

Let every man, woman, and child, keep a little pulverized charcoal in their bed rooms, and on retiring at night, let them put as much of it as can be laid on a sixpence in their mouths, and work it about among the teeth with the tongue; and it will not be long before there will be no decayed teeth for the dentist to fill with amalgum or pure gold either.

Rise early in the morning, take exercise enough to make your breakfast relish well, and you will feel fresh and vigorous for the day's labor. Upon rising in the morning, extend your arms out and force them back gently. This exercise will expand the chest, strengthen the lungs, and operate as a guard against pulmonary disease.

EARLY RISING.

As a military commander General Taylor has no doubt been accustomed to "rising with the lark;" and it seems that he still preserves the habit in the elevated position of President of the United States,—for it is said that he convenes his Cabinet every morning at nine o'clock. This is unusually early for the transaction of buisness in Washington; but habit is everything. John Quincy Adams, whilst Secretary of State and President, had the reputation of being an early riser, and of indefatigable industry; and General Taylor seems resolved that no time shall be lost during his administration. The members of his Cabinet have no sinecure offices; but on the contrary, labor incessantly. We doubt whether any preceding administration will excel the present for industry, or indefatigable and faithful discharge of public duties.—Balt. Clipper.

BEQUESTS.

Mr. John Hoff, "a citizen of South Carolina and the State of Pennsylvania," who recently died in Philadelphia, made the following bequests:—To his wife the interest of $15,000 worth of stock during her life time. After her death he gives $3000 of the stock to the Philadelphia Bible Society, $3000 to the Methodist Bible Society of Charleston, $3000 to the Baptist Bible Society of Charleston, $3000 to the Protestant Episcopal Bible Society of Charleston, and $2,500 to Prineeton Theological Seminary. He also left $10,000 to the Marine Church of Charleston, and 10,000 to the Pennsylvania or other Colonization Society that shall succeed in establishing a colony of free colored persons in Africa, for the purchase of a tract of land, and prescribes that the site, location and territory so purchased and settled upon, shall be designated by the State or District of Hoff.

READING SERMONS.

A writer in the "Presbyterian Herald" makes the following just and excellent remarks in opposition to reading sermons in the pulpit. After showing that the terms reading and preaching are distinct and different in meaning, and are so represented in the Scriptures, he says:

"Our first objection to sermon reading is, that it is unscriptural. No authority for it in the New Testament.

2. It is a means not as fully adapted to the end as that which Christ appointed. To support, defend, and practice it is to be wiser than God.

3. No people on earth ever liked it at first. The children had to grow up under its operation before it became tolerable.—And no people now listen with greater pleasure to a ready and able extemporary preacher than do those of New England.

4. A written and spoken style are entirely two different things. The man who reads his sermons may have more elegance of diction and more continuous beauty of phrase, but does that prove that it will be better adapted to the end designed? If it does, why do not all public speakers read their discourses? Why do not lawyers, candidates, and Congressmen read their speeches? The answer is obvious, and all men understand the reason.

5. The constant habit of reading sermons makes men mere slaves. Such ministers can never be independent of circumstances.

POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.

From the report of 1848, submitted to Congress by the Commissioner of the Patent Office, it appears that the present population of the United States is estimated at 21,686,000. The number allotted to each State is as follows: Maine, 615,000; New Hampshire, 308,000; Massachusetts, 875,000; Rhode Island, 135,000; Connecticut, 340,000; New York, 2,880,000; Vermont, 310,000; New Jersey, 425,000; Pennsylvania, 2,220,000; Delaware, 85,000; Maryland, 510,000; Virginia, 1,295,000; N. Carolina, 780,000; S. Carolina, 620,000; Georgia, 825,000; Alabama, 716,000; Mississippi, 670,000; Ohio, 1,980,000; Louisiana, 490,000; Tennessee, 980,000; Kentucky, 890,000; Indiana, 1000,000; Missouri, 589,000; Illinois, 800,000; Arkansas, 200,000; Iowa, 150,000; Michigan, 420,000; Wisconsin, 250,000; Florida, 80,000; Texas, 150,000; District of Columbia, 48,000; Oregon, 50,000.

GIVE AND RECEIVE.

When we hear a man fret about the unkindness of the world—the lack of sympathy, and the false friendship abounding, we are prepared for one who does nothing to receive the good will and kindness of his fellows. Does such a character ever bestow a smile, speak a kind word, or deny himself to benefit a fellow creature? To receive the good will of others, we must bestow our favors. If we would be smiled upon, we must not forever wear a frown. If we would see the tears of affection in others' eyes, we must not possess hearts too cold and dead to weep. No tender-hearted man—no affectionate, pleasant and agreeable person is left long to mourn over the bad passions of others. He receives in abundance those favors which he bestows:

There never was a human heart,
  However weak and low,
That would not generous love impart,
  A sympathy bestow—
If we ourselves would manifest
  Those holy feelings in our breast.

TO DESTROY WORMS AND CATERPILLARS.

Messrs Editors: I have heard much enquiry concerning the best method of destroying the worm or eaterpiller, which makes such havoc with our apple and peach trees; the course I pursue is as follows: I take a half inch auger, and bore as nearly as I can judge, into the heart of the tree, fill the hole with sulphur, plug it up with a branch cut from the same tree, make it air tight, and in forty-eight hours the result is seen. This plan I have found efficient, and if the information is of any importance to you, it is at your service.

W. S. Chapin.

Rock Bottom, Mass.

TO SMOOTHEN OUT AN ENGRAVING.

The best way to remove ereases from an Engraving, is,—first, to damp the print, then place it between two blankets on an ironing board, or some smooth surface, and by ironing it as you would any piece of linen, the plate will speedily be restored to its original state.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Religious Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the old camp-ground, near Rome, Noble county, Ind., commencing on Thursday, the 7th of June, 1849.

Who will attend? We do hope that those brethren in the ministry who calculate taking a tour to the West will make their arrangements so as to assist us in holding this meeting. Thos. Hickernell.

Special Meetings.

A special meeting will be held at Rohrersville, Washington county, Md., commencing on Saturday evening before Whitsuntide, being the 26th day of May, inst.

A series of special meetings will be held at Middletown, commencing on Saturday evening, the 19th inst. The brethren generally are invited to attend.

Protracted Meetings on the Dauphin Circuit.

By leave of Providence, the following Protracted Meetings will be held on the Dauphin Circuit, viz:

Linglestown, May 26; Highspire, June 3; Rockeyville, June 9; Matamoras, June 16; Stumpstown, June 23.

The preachers and people are respectfully invited to attend the above meetings.

POETRY.

NIGHT.

BY H. J. BYERLE, M. D.

How oft, when gloomy eve draws nigh,
And dusk is scattered through the skies,
Do I, with heavy mind and heart
Weep bitter tears, heave bleeding sighs!

Another day, with lightning's speed,
Has hastened on to be no more;
Another day heaped on my years,
And one day less for me in store!

How many more have I to live!
Was this the last my eyes have seen?
Must I, to-night, give up my breath,
And fly from time, and things terrene?

Have I improved this precious day,
And spent it so that I can give
A strict account when HIM I meet
Who gave me time, and bade me live?

I feel my weakness, O my God,
I know my frailty, O how well;
O make me stronger in thy faith,
That I may firmly in thee dwell.

And when I lay me down to rest,
And sleep shall banish ev'ry sense,
I give my all into thy care—
In thee I put my confidence.

And should this night the last one prove
That I'm to live beneath the skies,
O lend me aid to meet grim death,
That I may fight, and win the prize.

Linglestown, Pa., 1849.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On Tuesday, the 1st day of May, by John Winebrenner, V. D. M., Mr. JOHN ULRICH to Miss CATHARINE HEFFICH, both of Middletown, Dauphin county, Pa.

On Thursday, the 3d day of May, by Joseph Ross, V. D. M., Mr. JACOB E. CASSEL, of Mount Joy, Lancaster county, to Miss MARY JANE WINEBRENNER, of Harrisburg, Pa.

On the 19th ult., by William Mooney, V. D. M., Mr. DAVID MOONEY, of Mount Joy, to Miss ELIZA GEORGE, of Manheim township, Lancaster county, Pa.

On the 25th ult., by the Rev. J. Forrest, Mr. WM. KITZMILLER to Miss ELIZABETH SHOPE, all of Cumberland county.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On Tuesday evening, the 17th ult., Mr. A. LEVAN SMULL, in the 21st year of his age, after an illness of only three days.

Departed this life, March 25th, 1849, WILLIAM JOHN WEST, son of Jonathan and Mary West, aged 12 years, 8 months and 8 days.

The deceased embraced religion something over a year ago, was baptized by Elder A. Holms, united with the Church of God, and died a member of the same. Funeral services by the writer, from Isaiah 3: 9, 10. This was the third of the above mentioned brother and sister's childen that has been removed from time to eternity in two weeks time. O! let us all be ready. H. MURRAY.

LOUISA DEERDUFF, consort of brother Isaac Deerduff, aged 19 years, 5 months and 7 days.

Sister Deerduff embraced religion last August, at our camp-meeting, held at brother J. Stump's, and continued steadfast until death. She has left a companion and one small child. Funeral services by H. Murray, from Hebrews 9: 27.

Departed this life, April 14th, 1849, ANTIONETTE MEGUIRE, daughter of Jane Banks, after an illness of two days, aged 6 years, 4 months and 29 days.

Funeral services by H. Murray, from Matthew 18: 3.

On the 19th of April, ANN LONGENECKER, wife of Peter Longenecker, aged 69 years, 8 months and 1 day.

On the 26th April, at his residence in Point township, Holmes county, Ohio, PETER LONGENECKER, aged 79 years, 2 months and 17 days.

This man had been laboring in the gospel ministry for nearly 47 years, amongst the Menonites, and has now gone to his long home, to reap the reward of his labors. On the 28th his remains were conveyed to the silent tomb, followed by a large concourse of friends and neighbors. After the body was committed to its mother dust, we retired to a Menonite meeting-house, where an exhortation was delivered by a Menonite preacher; after which a discourse by the writer, from 2d Timothy 4: 7, 8, followed by brother George Shutt. JOHN BEIDLER.

On the 10th of March, brother JONATHAN HENRY WEST, son of Jonathan and Mary West, of Stark county, Ohio, aged 13 years, 11 months and 7 days.

The deceased embraced religion in March, 1848, and was baptized and added to the church. He was faithful until death. On the 12th his body was conveyed to the silent tomb, followed by a goodly number of friends and neighbors. Funeral discourse by the writer, from John, 11th chapter and last clause of the 28th verse. JOHN BEIDLER.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4	12½ a	4 25
Do.	RYE,	do. - -	2	50 a	2 56
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	2	12 a	2 15
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,				95 a	1 00
Do.	RYE,	do. - -		48 a	50
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -		45 a	46
Do.	OATS,	do. - -		25 a	27
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -		60 a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	3	00 a	3 50
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	3	00 a	3 25
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1	00 a	1 10
BEEF, per cwt.		- - - -	5	00 a	5 50
PORK,	do.	- - - - -	5	00 a	5 25
HAMS, per pound,		- - -		7 a	8
BUTTER,	do.	- - - - -		15 a	18
LARD,	do.	- - - - -		7 a	8
TALLOW,	do.	- - - - -		8 a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.				6 a	7
EGGS, per dozen,		- - - -		10 a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel,		- -		45 a	50
ONIONS,	do.	- - -		75 a	87½
APPLES,	do.	- - -		25 a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.			1	25 a	1 30
FEATHERS, per pound,		- -		37½ a	45
WOOL,	do.	- - -		30 a	50
SALT, per sack,		- - - -	1	30 a	1 31
HAY, per ton,		- - - - -	12	00 a	15 00
PLASTER, per ton,		- - -	4	00 a	4 50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4	68 a	4 75
Do.	RYE,	do. -	2	75 a	3 00
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	2	70 a	2 75
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,			1	08 a	1 10
Do.	RYE,	do. - -		58 a	60
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -		59 a	60
Do.	OATS,	do. - -		30 a	32
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -		75 a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	3	00 a	3 50
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	2	75 a	3 00
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1	30 a	1 32
BEEF, per cwt.,		- - - -	7	00 a	8 75
PORK,	do.	- - - - -	7	00 a	7 25

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

FOR the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

THOMSONIAN MEDICINE STORE.

REMOVAL.

DR. W. BARR begs leave to inform the citizens of Harrisburg and vicinity, and the public in general, that he has removed his Medicine Store to the N. W. corner of WALNUT and SECOND streets, where he now has, and constantly keeps on hand, a general assortment of

Thomsonian Medicines, Medical Books, Instruments, &c., &c.,

together with his well known preparations for the cure of Rheumatism, Tetter, Scald or Sore Head, Itch, or any eruption of the Skin, Sore Mouth or Throat, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Liver Complaint, Coughs, Colds, Headache, Costiveness, Sore Eyes, Fever and Ague, Influenza, Erysipelas, &c., &c., &c. No cure no pay.

Thankful for past favors, he respectfully solicits a continuance of public patronage.

☞ All orders thankfully received and punctually attended to.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—3m.

DAGUERREAN GALLERY.

"Secure the shadow, ere the substance fade."

THE DAGUERREAN ROOMS of DR. BARR & SON have also been removed to the North West corner of SECOND and WALNUT streets, (up stairs,) where they will be happy to see their old patrons, and all others who feel desirous of having a life-like portrait of themselves or relatives taken in a superior and unsurpassed style. Visit their gallery and see their beautiful and artistical specimens, taken and put up in the latest improvement of the art—faithful likenesses, delineating every feature and expression of nature in almost life itself.

From the experience of the Doctor, and the close observations of the artiste of the profession, they flatter themselves that they will be enabled to please every one that may favor them with their patronage.

Likenesses taken as well in cloudy as clear weather, and persons are not required to sit more than once, unless they desire it. Come on, Ladies and Gentlemen,

For sometimes our friends die and leave us,
And then, O how sad we oft feel;
But if they a true likeness give us,
On their mem'ry with pleasure we dwell.

Then hasten to BARRS' all ye people,
Before ye have reason to grieve;
The cost you will find it but little,
And to all satisfaction they'll give.

☞ Pictnres taken for from $1 to $10, according to size, number of group, finish, &c.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—4t.

PROSPECTUS
OF A

New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches
OF THE

First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE

Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., JUNE 1, 1849. NUMBER 3.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Thirteen.

Names.	Am't. paid	Names.	Am't. paid
Brandt David	3 00	Heck William	$1 50
Bidner John	1 25	Horst Abraham	1 25
Beverly Henry	1 87	Lingle David	1 00
Bates Reuben C	1 25	Moyer John	25
Bigham Solomon	1 00	McFadden William	1 00
Barger Michael S	1 00	McNeill John	1 00
Donnehower John	1 50	Mooney William	1 00
Dillinger Christopher	1 50	Swihart Samuel	50
Dennis David	1 25	Sandoe George	50
Funk Abraham	1 00	Smith Mary vol 12 & 13	2 50
Heistand Henry	50	Shuman William	50
Henck L	1 50	Vance William	1 00
Hiney David	1 00	Walton Geo W	1 25

Our New Post Master.

Andrew J. Jones has been appointed Post Master at Harrisburg, by the President, in the room of I. G. M'Kinley, removed.

The Canal Board.

The Board of Canal Commissioners are now in session at this place. We are pleased to be able to state that the health of Judge Longstreth has been greatly improved.

New Relief Notes.

A considerable quantity of the new issue of relief notes have been received at the State Treasury, and are being paid out in lieu of those now in circulation.

Suicide.

George Rupp, jr., committed suicide in his own house May 21st, 1849, aged 47 years, 4 months and 28 days.

The outlines of his funeral sermon will be given in our next.

Supreme Court.

The annual session of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for the Middle District, commenced at Harrisburg on Monday, the 14th ult. The term for the session is eight weeks.

Cholera Medicine.

We have on hand some Cholera Medicine, which is said to have cured this dreadful human scourge in its worst form and stages, in the year 1832. Those who may want to purchase, can address the Editor, Advocate Office, Harrisburg, Pa. Editor.

German Hymn Books.

We have recently returned from Philadelphia, where we made new arrangements for having finished up the plates of the German Hymn Book. Our brethren may now hope, if not again disappointed, to get books by the latter end of this month.

More Missionary Pledges.

A few more missionary pledges are wanted, and we can sustain a missionary or two in the Western country. The Lord arouse our rich men and brethren from their apathy on this subject, and incline their hearts to send in their pledges. It is a noble and good cause, brethren, do not be backward in sustaining it. Speak out, then, and let us know at once what you are willing to do.

Camp-meeting Season.

As the Camp-meeting season is coming on, we would give notice that the Standing Committee will meet in Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, on Saturday, the 24th of June, to receive applications and arrange the meetings. Those churches or circuits, who intend holding Camp-meetings, will please consider the matter in time, and send in their wishes. The committee are Jacob Keller, Abraham Swartz and John Winebrenner.

Appointments by the President.

FOR PHILADELPHIA.

William D. Lewis, Collector of the Customs at Philapelphia, vice James Page, removed.

William J. P. White, Post Master, vice Geo. F. Lehman, removed.

John W. Ashmead, Attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, vice Thomas M. Petit, removed.

Peter C. Ellmaker, Naval Officer, Philadelphia, vice Henry Welsh, removed.

Anthony E. Roberts, Marshall for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, vice George M. Keim, removed.

Biograpoical Letters.

Some of the brethren are anxious to know when the new book, containing the life and times of the first one hundred ministers of the Church of God, will make its appearance.

We answer, as soon as the preachers will prepare their letters and send them in, the work shall be put to press; and then it can soon be ready for delivery. Let the brethren urge the preachers to write, and a speedy operation can be made.

Resolutions on Slavery.

Mr. Editor:—

Can the resolutions on slavery, passed by the General Eldership, be fairly interpreted and urged as a bar against the right of suffrage in any case?

We answer no. The resolutions were not intended to be used as a political machine. They pertain to Church order, and not to State affairs.

Paying Churches.

For the present volume only a few, among the many churches, have merited the appellation of "paying churches." There are some good advance paying subscribers in all the local churches, but on the whole, a few only, are pattern churches on the score of advance pay. These few are the following, viz: Martinsburg church—Linglestown church—Dalton church—Highspire church—New Pittsburg church—Navaar church—Siddensburg church—Trenton church, and Youngstown church. To the rest we would say, copy the example of these model paying churches.—Men should remember, first their wives, then the preachers, and next the printers.

Large Issue of Sunday School Matter.

The annual report of the Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 1849, gives the following summary of the issues of their press during the year:

Books, forty-six millions nine hundred and ninety-nine thousand pages; matter of the Sunday School Advocate, reduced to the form of 18mo. pages, one hundred and eighty-two millions seven hundred and eighty-eight thousand pages; making a total of two hundred and twenty-nine millions seven hundred and eighty-seven thousand pages.

The same may be more briefly stated in figures:—

Books.	Sunday School Advocates.	Total number of pages.
46,999,000	182,788,000	229,787,000

A thoughtful contemplation of this vast amount of reading matter, will show one aspect of the Sunday School cause in a very strong light.

The Franking Privilege.

Mr. Editor:—

Our Post Master will not frank letters containing money for papers. Please inform us whether he has the right to frank such letters; and if so, what should be done to set him right?

Your Post Master may not have the right to frank any letters. If his salary is over $300 he has not the right—if under, he has the right to frank all letters on business pertaining to the office. If in such cases, Post Masters are disobliging, the better way would be to have them removed, and more obliging ones appointed.

York and Cumberland Railroad.

We learn from the York Republican, that the President and Directors of this company, on Monday evening last, awarded the contract for constructing it complete, including the road-formation, superstructure, rails, and all materials, to Messrs. Gonder & Co., for the sum of $525,000—$100,000 of which they take in the stock of the company. The price to be paid is considerably below the estimate of the engineers. The contractors, says the Republican, are men of skill and experience in this kind of work, and no doubt knew what they were about when they made their proposals. The time limited in the contracts for the completion of the road is, we believe, 18 months.

Our Trip to Philadelphia.

We have lately visited Philadelphia. The brethren belonging to the Church of God in that city, are destitute of a pastor at present; but they seem to be waiting and praying for a better day. The Lord grant them grace to be steadfast, to quit themselves like men, and be strong. A brighter and better day, we hope, will soon be given them.

We had our German Hymn Book put into other hands, with the promise that it shall be finished soon.

On the morning of the 17th ult. we heard the opening sermon of the New School Presbyterian General Assembly. It was preached by Dr. Cox, of New York, from 1st Chron. 12: 32. And the children of Israel, &c. See Bible. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the Assembly met and was organized by electing Dr. Hay, of Owego, N. Y., Moderator, and Mr. Hoyt, of Michigan, Clerk.

We were to see, while in the city, Mr. Bayne's Gigantic Panorama of a Voyage to Europe, comprising magnificent panoramic views of Boston, Its Harbor, Halifax, The Atlantic, River Mersey, Liverpool, London from the Thames, and both sides of the River Rhine. We may give a more full and accurate account of this splendid Panorama in our next.

Missionary Pledge.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - - -	20 00

Receipts of Benevolent Societies.

The receipts of the various benevolent institutions, whose anniversaries have just been celebrated in New York, are shown by their annual reports to be as follows :—

	Receipts.	Expenses.
American Tract Society,	$254,440	$258,483
" Bible do.,	251,870
" and Foreign do.,	39,840	38,321
" Home Mission,	145,925	143,771
" Baptist do.,	29,105	25,180
Pres. B. For. Missions,	110,081	110,207
Meth. Epis. Mis. Society,	84,045	102,948
Am. Seamen's Friend Soc.,	18,582	18,497
" Anti-Slavery Society,	6,992	6,975
" and Foreign do., (not rep.)
" Colonization Society,	36,000	37,000
N. Y. State do.,	12,358	12,358
Am. and For. Evan. Soc.,	24,298	24,484
" Prot. Society,	18,411	18,212
" Temp. Union,	1,350
Soc. for ameliorating the condition of the Jews,	3,221	3,208
Total,	$1,040,518

A sum considerably surpassing, we believe, the aggregate contributions to the same Societies in any previous year.

Great Fire at St. Louis.

The telegraph furnishes the particulars in relation to this distressing calamity. It appears that the fire broke out on board the steamer St. Cloud, which was almost instantly communicated to the adjoining steamers.

The burning boats were cut from their moorings and floated down the levee, setting fire to such boats as were unable to get out.

A strong wind prevailing, the boats almost the entire length of the levee soon presented a solid sheet of flame. By this time nearly the whole city became aroused, and the utmost consternation prevailed.

The heat from the burning boats set the buildings fronting on the levee on fire, the flames communicating at the lowest street, the very business portion of the city—and extending from Locust street for three-quarters of a mile down the levee, reaching back as far as Second street. Within these bounds nearly every building is in ruins.

The burnt district embraces almost all the business portion of the city. The merchants mostly had on hand very heavy stocks of goods. There was very little moveable property saved.

The whole river-front of warehouses from Locust street to Chestnut—three squares—were destroyed; and extending to Main street, the flames swept both sides to Market street—crossing Second street, diagonally, and thence taking a course southward.

More than a mile in length, by three blocks in width, of the centre of the city, has been laid waste. At least 300 houses are burned.

The value of steamboat stock was about $380,000—insured for 200,000.

Value of the cargoes of the steamboats, $150,000.—Freight on the lading valued at $50,000. The total loss is about $5,000,000.

American Sunday School Union.

The twenty-fifth Annual Meeting was held in Philadelphia, May 17.

The Rev. Dr. Beman, of Troy, addressed the Throne of Grace in an eloquent and impressive manner.

The Secretary, Mr. Packard, read the annual report, of which the following is an epitome :

Receipts, $164,024 47, of which $31,189 10 were donations and legacies, $128,093 70 for sales, $4,541 67 for rents of the Society's building in Chesnut street, $200 00 loans.

Balances from last year, $4,099 75, and stock of books on hand, $70,123 64.

Expenditures, $47,588 42, (being $12,471 16 more than the whole amount contributed to the donation fund.) Miscellaneous items, $3,443 50; balance, cash on hand, $101 84; stock of books on hand, $75,544 76.

The Society is now indebted for paper, binding, &c., $22,265 10, which added to the amount of loans bearing interest, $44,160 29, exhibits a total indebtedness of $66,425 39.

Publishing Department.—Eighty-eight new publications have been issued during the last year. And the new reading matter put in circulation, amounts to nearly 400,000 volumes, 18mo. of 200 pages each. Of the whole number of publications of over 72 pages issued the past year, two-thirds were written for the Society.

The total value of publications distributed during the year, is $130,543 89, a larger amount than has ever been circulated by the Society in any one year since its organization.

Steamboat Disaster.

The steamboat Empire, of Troy, left New York on the night of the 17th ult., at 6 o'clock, with about three hundred passengers on board. About 10 o'clock, when opposite Newburg, in Newburg Bay, she was struck by the schooner Noah Brown, of Troy, loaded with lumber, a little forward the forward gangway, with a tremendous crash, the bowsprit of the vessel, which was heavily laden, making a large breach under the guards, through which the water instantly rushed with great force, so that in ten minutes she went down.

Many of the passengers had retired to their berths, and the scene that immediately ensued, as described by the passengers, was heart-rending and terrible. The water was rushing through the cabin to the stern of the boat, and in an instant, almost, the cabin was completely filled. Men and women, half dressed, rushed wildly on deck, and some plunged overboard. Wives were clinging to their husbands, and mothers clasping their children in their arms and running to and fro in a frenzy of terror. Fortunately the Rip Van Winkle, was but a short distance astern, and immediately came up alongside the Empire to her relief.

Boats with lights from the shore, swarmed to the scene of destruction, and aided in picking up the passengers.

The Empire was towed ashore by the Rip Van Winkle, where she was left, the water having reached her state room deck.

The number lost it is impossible to state, at present, so conflicting are the reports. Some of the passengers place the number as high as 40, others not more than 10.

Rhetoric.

Rhetoric is the science of fine writing.

Rhetoric receives its limitations from Grammar, Logic, and Mental Philosophy.

Grammar gives us rules for the attainment of correctness in the use of language.

Logic teaches the best method of conducting an argument.

Mental Philosophy contains the views and principles by which Rhetoric proposes to effect its object.

Rhetoric is divided into Rhetoric of Thought and Rhetoric of Language.

Rhetoric of Thought implies a proper arrangement of the materials of a discourse.

Rhetoric of Language implies a skill in the use of language.

The requisites of a good writer are Knowledge and Mental Discipline.

Knowledge is truth ascertained in respect to God, men, and things.

The sources of Knowledge are Conversation, Instruction, Lectures, Observation and Reflection.

Mental Discipline is the training of the powers of the mind, so that they will act with promptness and decision.

The powers to be especially trained are the Judgment, Reasoning, Habits of Reflection and Love of Order.

The different kinds of Composition are Narrative, Descriptive, Argumentative, Didactic and Persuasive.

Narrative and Descriptive relate to past occurrences, and place before the mind of the reader various objects and scenes.

The Argumentative is the setting forth of various causes, and answering objections.

The Didactic is used in conveying instruction.

The Persuasive is designed to influence the will.

The parts of Composition are Introduction, Discussion and Conclusion.

The object of the Introductive is to prepare the mind for what is to follow.

The Discussive part is drawn from the subject, after the statement of the main proposition is fairly made.

Amplification is a minute and critical elucidation of the subject, and in clear and perspicuous language.

The different kinds of Amplification are Definitive, Argumentative, Persuasive, Narrative, Illustrative and Descriptive.

The Definitive is the explaining of the subject, and assuming refutation.

The Argumentative is setting forth reasons and answering objections.

The Narrative is going into the details of the subject.

The Persuasive is setting forth motives to influence the mind.

Success of Amplification involves copious fund of knowledge, and ready command of thought and language.

Transition implies passing from one part of the subject to another, and is regulated by the laws of association. The transition should never be abrupt, but gradual.

Conclusion is the termination of a discourse or composition. Its nature should be such as to have a favorable impression on the mind of the reader.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

The Resurrection.

There is perhaps no other doctrine of Revelation so clearly and explicitly taught as that of a resurrection of the body subsequent to death. It is closely and inseparably inwoven into the whole fabric of the gospel. The Apostle Paul regarded it as so intimately connected with the economy of Christianity that its falsity would annihilate the Christian's faith, and render the Apostles themselves "false witnesses of God." (1st Cor. 15: 13, &c.) He even affirms that the doctrine sustains such a relation to the blessings and awards of the Christian dispensation, that if it be not true, "Christians are of all men the most miserable.

So prominent is this doctrine, that amid all the errors and corruptions which at different times have crept into the Church, never, since the Apostle penned the first epistle to the Corinthians, has it been questioned, even by the wildest fanatics. All who have claimed to be in any sense adherents to Christianity, have freely and fully admitted its truth.

But while all agree in acknowledging the fact, considerable discussion and difference of opinion has arisen as to to its modus agendi. Some have maintained that the identical particles of matter of which the body is composed at death will compose the body in the resurrection. This theory has many eloquent defences; but stands opposed to what many esteem as insuperable objections. It assumes that the particles of matter which constitute the body at death will not enter into the composition of any other human body. This, it is maintained, God is able to effect; and hence the doctrine is to be received. But God is equally able to annihilate the law of gravitation, so that bodies would have no tendency towards the earth; and yet it by no means follows that we are to expect that he will do it, merely because such a supposition might be necessary to sustain some preconceived hypothesis.

It is a well established fact that continual and constant changes are going on in the material world, and in the human system.—What once composed one body, at another time does not belong to it, and may enter into the composition of another body. It is also admitted that the operation of the laws which regulate these changes, would, in some cases at least, cause the matter which composed one body at death, to enter into the composition of another body at death, unless prevented by the continual and special interposition of Almighty Power. That any such standing miracle exists, there is not the slightest shadow of a shade of evidence, except that it is essential to sustain the hypothesis; while there is certainly strong presumptive evidence against it.

Richard Watson, in common with other supporters of this theory, makes an admission which really destroys the force of the whole argument. He says: "Great general changes will it experience, as from corruption to incorruption, from mortality to immortality; great changes of a particular kind will also take place, as its being freed from deformities and defects, and the accidental varieties produced by climate, aliments, labor, and hereditary diseases. It is also laid down by our Lord that 'in the resurrection they shall neither marry nor be given in marriage, but be like to the angels of God;' and this also implies a certain change of structure; and we may gather from the declaration of the Apostle, that though 'the stomach' is now adapted 'to meats, and meats to the stomach, God will destroy both it and them;' that the animal appetite for food will be removed, and the organ now adapted to that appetite have no place in the renewed frame."

Now all these changes cannot possibly take place, and the body retain all the particles of matter in the same relation that it did at death. There must therefore be a change in some of the particles of matter. But if this may take place without frustrating the arrangements of Divine Providence, there can be no reason assigned why any others may not be changed in like manner without frustrating those arrangements; and in fact, why all may not be changed without any such frustration. If this be true the theory must rest upon a slender basis.

Again, the Apostle (1st Cor. 15: 37,) expressly institutes an analogy between the growth and perfection of grain, and the resurrection of the body; distinctly stating that, "that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be." If the analogy be good, and where is the evidence that it is not, it sufficiently confutes the theory under consideration. For all know that the grain which is gathered at harvest is not composed of the identical particles which composed the seed that was sown.

Another theory is that all the same matter of the body is not preserved in it, but only "some minute and indestructable part of it," which is regarded as a sort of "incorruptible germ" from which the resurrected body will spring.

Of this hypothesis it is sufficient to say that it involves all the absurdity of the former without its consistency. The preservation of this "germ" from entering into the composition of another body would require as much of a miracle as the preservation of the whole body of the matter. Besides this, if to constitute a resurrection of "the body," identity of particles is at all necessary, it must be as necessary for all parts as for this germ; and if total identity of particles is not necessary, then there can be no necessity for it in the germ. However this germ can in no sense properly be called "the body." If a finger or toe cannot be called "the body," much less could this minute part of it be thus termed. And if other particles may make up all of "the body" save this "minute" part, why may they not make up the whole.

In fact, identity of particles cannot be essential to the identity of the body. The particles of matter in our bodies change every few years. There probably is not a particle of matter in our bodies that was in them ten years since; and yet the identity of our body, our features and every distinguishing part of them, still remains. If then identity of body may be retained here without identity of particles of matter, why may it not in the resurrection; and thus all the difficulties of the preceding theories will be avoided.

There are, however, many things connected with the doctrine of the resurrection which human wisdom cannot now fathom. It is sufficient to know "that when he (Christ) doth appear we shall be like him"—shall have a body "fashioned like unto his glorious body," that "this mortal shall put on immortality, and this corruptible put on incorruption." More than this we do not need to know, and little direct benefit can result from theories and speculations upon the subject.

The practical bearing of the subject is this. It is of no avail to meet the infidel by bringing Revelation in contact with philosophy; especially that department of it relating to the laws of the physical world, and which are deduced by observation and mathematical demonstration. In fact, if they are inconsistent, religion must be false. But they are not inconsistent, although from misapprehension of one or the other, they are frequently supposed to be.—Nor will it do to affirm a miracle where the only evidence of the miracle is a supposed necessity for it, in order to sustain an hypothesis in relation to any doctrine of Revelation. The infidel will answer: "There is no evidence of the miracle but your hypothesis, and your hypothesis is untrue without the miracle, therefore both are to be rejected." And so far he is correct. But he will add: "As your hypothesis is a part of your Revelation, hence that Revelation is false." The fault here is, that there is no evidence that the hypothesis is a part of that Revelation, and hence it better not be so affirmed. At most, call it but a supposition.

A. D. W.

The Beginning Corner.---No. 2.

Here is the beginning corner of the Christian dispensation. Here it was made by the Lord Jesus Christ, and communicated to Peter when he gave him the keys of the kingdom, (Mat. 16: 19,) in accordance with the commission as before cited, and again renewed on the first Pentecost after his death and resurrection. And here also, are marks of faith previously evinced, by which it is to be identified.

"Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Acts 2: 38.

But in the lapse of ages, these marks were well nigh lost. The vines and parasitical growth of error, superstition and mysticism of the traditions, inventions and corruptions of men, crept in by slow degrees, and wound and twined around the old Jerusalem trunk, and grew and spread, until, under their mass, the old marks were obscured, and almost buried and obliterated. Some taking advantage of this, and others having made fruitless searches for the old corner, they began to make each a new corner for himself, and run out on the old survey a new tract to correspond with his corner. In time, other tracts were run out according to the new corners, until tracts added to tracts, they had nearly covered the old one over.

The Roman Catholics made the first new corner, and run out a very large tract. This trespass on the old grant, opened the way for others. The Episcopalians made another corner, and run out another tract. The Methodists made one, and run out several tracts.—The Presbyterians made one, and run out several tracts. The Baptists made one, and run several out. The Lutherans made one, and run out another. And so did several others, which are too numerous to mention. But none of these began at the right corner.

The beginning corner of Catholocism was at Rome. The beginning corner of Episcolianism was at London. The beginning corner of Methodism was at Oxford. The beginning corner of Presbyterianism in Geneva and Scotland. That of the Baptists in Germany. That of Lutheranism at Wertemburg—of Calvinism at Geneva—and so on, through the long catalogue of sects and parties.

But let it be remembered, the beginning corner of the gospel of pure Christianity—of the Kingdom and Church of Jesus Christ, was at Jerusalem.

Justinian made the beginning corner of Romanism. Henry the VIII. made the beginning corner of Episcopalianism. John Wesley of Methodism. Martin Luther of Lutheranism. John Calvin of Presbyterianism, &c.

But Jesus Christ made the beginning corner of Christianity at Jerusalem; and accordingly he said, "that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem." Mat. 16: 19.

Jesus Christ, and not John Winebrenner, made the beginning corner of the Church of God. John Winebrenner only acted the part of the man when showed the beginning corner of the old survey. He tore away the human additions, appendages and corruptions, mysticisms and errors, with which it had been surrounded and hid from the view of men, and identified it by the original marks to be the same one made by Jesus Christ.

This is the reason why there is such an outcry against John Winebrenner—why he is so much opposed, abused and misrepresented by the various parties who have made new corners, and run out their tracts on this old survey. They well know that the identification of the old corner for which he is contending, will prove fatal to all their claims. That if it stands, (and stand it will,) they will have to give their surveys all up, with all their hereditaments and appurtenances. Hence the great excitement and contention throughout the length and breadth of the land—the debating; the opposition to this identifier of the old corner. And though they know well that their claims are untenable, and that the old corner is well identified by the place where it was made and the marks upon it, still they contend against it. But in every case it will be decided against them in the Court of Heaven. Yet they may live on this old survey, if they will give up their own claims, and come under the original title, and original terms. And it is gratifying to know that hundreds and thousands have done it, and many more are continually doing it.

Now had John Winebrenner made a new corner, and run out a new tract on this old survey, according to the compass and chart of orthodoxy, (so self-styled,) so as not to interfere with the claims of others, he would have been hailed as a good orthodox neighbor, and welcomed to all the joys and sorrows of the crafts-men. But he identified the old corner, and here consists the great head and front of his offence. And as finding or identifying the original corner of the old survey, did not constitute the man who done it the owner or locator of the land, so the identification of the gospel corner of the Church of Christ does not make John Winebrenner the inventor of a new system of religion, or the founder of a new sect or party. This he has always disclaimed, and still disclaims in the strongest terms. He has only been the humble instrument of the restoration of primitive and Apostolic Christianity.

The Sectarian occupants of the new tract, run out on the old gospel survey, have tried in various ways, to show that these are not the true marks of the old corner. Some have endeavored to prove that faith alone is the only mark, and they accordingly make but one chop or mark on their tree. But this would not do as a corner tree. The mark, to be a lawful one, must always have three chops or marks. Others have contended that there were but two marks necessary—faith and repentance, and they have but two chops on their tree.

But as the law requires three chops, in all cases, two would be no better than one, and so this will not do. Three marks were necessary; and accordingly, Jesus Christ made three on the old Jerusalem Trunk—Faith, Repentance and Baptism. The genuine corner must have these three; and every one that lacks either of these, is not the right corner. To begin at such an one is to begin wrong, and there is danger of running wrong.

J. C. S.

Mount Alto, Pa., 1849.

A Short Discourse on Judging.

Carlisle, April 26, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

Being seriously impressed with the following awful and all-important subject, I have concluded to present it to the readers of the Church Advocate, which is always welcome, and a precious treasure to my heart.

Judge not, that ye be not judged.—Mat. 7: 1.

I would propose to explain,

1st. The nature of the prohibition.

2d. The motive offered to abstain from it.

I. What may be understood by these words, "Judge not?" It is evident that our Lord Jesus Christ intends not by any means absolutely to forbid this prerogative to the children of men, to exercise their judgment in matters relative to the glory of God and the salvation of immortal souls. To judge righteous judgment is always allowable. To judge, is a natural faculty given to us, as rational creatures, and which fully developes, and makes manifest, since we are made in the image and after the similitude of God. If we are born of God, we are heirs of God, and joint heirs of Jesus Christ. Hence, a right and proper judgment is our prerogative. Let us judge, then, as rational and intelligent men, and in every sense of the word as becometh Christians. For it is self-evident that we are not absolutely and positively forbidden and prohibited in these words, to pass our judgment on others. For Magistrates, Ministers, and Religious Societies, are required to censure evil doers. Nor are even private persons forbidden to judge wicked persons; and more especially those who give flagrant proofs of their wickedness, and bid defiance to both the law of God and that of man. We are forbidden in this text,

1st. Premature and officious judging. We should not officiously pass sentence upon any person or thing, without good authority. We should never censure things out of our provinces, where we have no call to pass judgment. Nor should we judge things above our reach and capacity, which may be either beyond our judgment or comprehension.—Neither should we censure others without the authority of God's word, when they but differ with us in sentiment, because they happen not to think and act as we do. Nor should we manufacture or make matters and things sins, or duties, which God never made so.

2d. Blind and rash judging. We must not condemn men without proper evidences of facts and connecting circumstances. We must not raise suspicions into accusations; nor judge hardly, merely from hear-say and common fame. We ought not to pass sentence before hearing the party's defence, nor without a full knowledge of all the circumstances: and we should make great allowance for the differences of people's cases.

3d. Partial judging. We should never judge from a dislike of the persons, rather than of the evil; and our judgment should always be equally extended to all, without favor or affection, who are equally concerned. We judge partially when we condemn others for that which we admit in ourselves, or when we censure smaller faults in others with more rigor than greater ones of our own. Again, we do so when we condemn that strongly in an enemy which passes unnoticed in a particular friend.

4th. Uncharitable judging. We thus judge when we give way to suspicions and jealousies at random, without proper foundation,—when we put the worst constructions on things that would admit of better,—when we judge of men's motives and intentions where their actions afford no room for reproach,—when we judge of men's acceptance with God upon grounds which are not decided in the gospel,—and lastly, when we include the innocent with the guilty, which is contrary to good morals, sound reason, or common sense.

II. The motive by which the prohibition is enforced: "That ye be not judged."

1st. We should not censure others, as we would not wish to be served in the same way. Men who ferret out scandal, are very often paid with their own coin. He that diggeth a ditch for another, falleth therein himself; and they that erect a gallows for their neighbors, shall, like a wicked Haman, be hanged thereon themselves. Besides, such men are frequently exposed, and that to their horror and dismay.

2d. We should not and must not judge, as we would escape the just judgment of God. Without repentance, we may expect to be severely punished for this daring sin, which is a direct invasion of God's law. It is also very injurious and destructive to our neighbors; and it is a practice in which we are self-condemned.

Let us resolve to maintain a good, or at least the best possible opinion of all, until we are obliged, by evidence, to change it. Recollect, that the evils attending this vice are numerous, great and grievous. Carefully avoid and mortify the usual incentives to this evil temper: idleness, selfishness, pride, and party zeal. Think frequently of your own faults, and of the duty and need of forbearance.

Lastly, may we ever think of the goodness of God manifested in His mercy and long-suffering to us ward; knowing that if he had entered into judgment with us, that we could have had no hope of a glorious immortality at God's right hand. If, therefore, we judge, we shall be judged. But if, on the other hand, we judge ourselves impartially, and our neighbors charitably, we shall not be judged.

S. HOOVER.

A Short Sketch.

The Death of the First Martyr.

BY JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

What a scene! There was a mighty crowd gathered in the street of the Synagogue. A thousand voices were raised in angry exclamations and denunciations, "Down with the blasphemer!—he has mocked our religion—he is a Nazarene!"

The great commotion in the street aroused the whole neighborhood; the people thrust their heads from the windows, and stood upon the roofs of the houses, and many joined the multitude as it passed up to the council of the Libertines. Some of the Legion endeavored to quell the tumult, but did not succeed, and were scattered through the street, interested spectators.

The violent rabble proceeded to a council house, and rushed in, crying out for justice and vengeance upon the Christian.

The cause of all this uproar was the arrest of a person who had, for a considerable time, been marked by his enemies for an ignominious death. Like the Papists, of a later date, the multitude was almost wholly composed of those who were in favor of the martyrdom of all those who refused to worship God as they did. The captured victim was a noble looking man, of perhaps forty years of age, dressed in the garb of a common citizen. Though treated with the utmost indignity and violence, yet he bore the greatest composure and firmness, exhibiting not the least sign of anger or fear. His expostulations were silenced, and he, expecting death, submitted, and poured his soul out to God in silent prayer. An old man, with the grey hairs of an age of vice, rushed up to him and spat in his face. Some of the younger ones threw their sticks against him, and bruised him with their blows. Yet he preserved the meekness of a dove.

They reached the judgment hall, and placed the good man upon the criminals' chair. False witnesses were suppœnaed, to testify against him,—for some appearance of a trial was necessary to aid their purposes. With mock gravity the Chief Priest asked the cause of the prisoner's arrest. The fasle witnesses declared:—

"We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses and against God!—He also doth speak blasphemous words against this holy place and the law!"

The holy man glanced at the witness with pity, and prayed more fervently to God for His grace and favor.

There were many muttered denunciations against him, and the one whom he followed. They charged him with saying that Jesus of Nazareth would destroy their places, and change the customs which Moses delivered to them. But these slanders had no effect. The multitude gazed upon him; and the spirit of his Divine Master filling him, caused his face to shine like the face of an angel.

The Pharisaical and bigoted Judge demanded of the good man: "Are these things so?"

The saint arose and bowed to the chief officers, and poured forth a noble torrent of eloquence. He displayed an acquaintance with the truth and history of the Scriptures that startled the multitude. Commencing from the history of Abraham, he chained the audience with interest, until he closed his address with an appeal that thrilled his hearers so as to cause them to gnash their teeth with guilty rage; it cut them to the heart—they cried out against him and spat upon him.

But, oh! what a vision was gazed upon by the persecuted Christian. Amidst all the confusion he raised his eyes to Heaven and cried out with enthusiasm: "Behold! I see the Heavens opened and the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God!"

The High Priest, conscience-smitten, averted his eyes,—the crowd cried out, "Blasphemy!"—"Blasphemy!"—"He has deserved death!" "To the cross with him!"—"Kill him!" They stopped their ears and dashed upon him with the fury of beasts!

He was conveyed, by the bigots, through the door and carried out of the city. Thousands of the people rushed on, crying out and abusing all the Christians they met. When they were out side the walls, they dashed him down and beat him; the witnesses threw off their outer garments and stoned him. The man knelt down, and cried out, with hope, "Oh! Lord Jesus receive my spirit!"—The stones struck him down,—the blood streamed from his form,—the crowd reviled him,—"Call upon your Nazarene!"—"Let him save you!"—'Die! Blasphemer! Die!" His arms were broken—his sight was gone—his voice was almost exhausted—still he was a saint. With superhuman strength he made an effort, and spoke what his immortal Redeemer spake before him—"Oh! Lord! lay not this sin to their charge! they know not what they do!" A large stone struck his temple, and he was rendered speechless. In a moment life ceased, and he "fell asleep!" The body was beaten dreadfully, and left beneath the rocks that killed him. The next day the earth received his form in a burial by his brethren.

Thus died Stephen, one of the disciples of Jesus Christ—the first Christian martyr, but not the last.

Baltimore, Md., 1849.

Character of Christ.

There exists in the annals of our world, the biography of an humble peasant, emerging from the obscurity of his unknown history, taking his stand on the arena of public life, and there performing his part so as to attract the most profound attention of multitudes of all grades, from the mitred potentate of the eternal city—the reclining Stoic of every civilized land, as he pours over his vast fields of literature, by the light of the nocturnal taper—the dreaded conqueror, whose garments have been rolled in the glory of blood, and whose head bows beneath the heavy crowns that sustain his crests, and the laurel wreaths that hang about his brow—the thundering statesman, whose Senatorial eloquence ignites the combustible of the national mind, and kindles a flame of patriotic zeal more terrible than heavy fleets and consolidated ranks of well disciplined foes, down to the humblest widowed wife, weeping over the cold remains of her once ardent lover and companion, snatched from her embraces by the ruthless hand of death, or filthy, hungry, and ragged beggar, whose suppliant looks read the mind of the soul. The biographical witnesses of the life of this individual, have given to him a character in one particular respect, differing from that of any other living being, who ever dwelt in a house of clay. It is, that He was sinless. We have no data, from whence to state that there ever lived one like Him in this important relation to our world. Was it Zeno, the Stoic, or Diogenes, the Cynic? They were guilty of the foulest impurities; and even Socrates was not free from just suspicion. Solon prohibited only unnatural crimes to slaves: while Lycurgus, the great Spartan Law-giver, permitted the practice of theft, considering it a necessary part of education. Plato denied the wisdom of the marriage contract, and held that a community of wives was more desirable. The philosophy of Aristotle taught the right of waging general war against all who were uncivilized. Cato, the senior, was notorious for his petty tyranny exercised toward his slaves; the junior prostituted the person of his wife to another. "One loose principle is found in almost all the Pagan moralists; is distinctly, however, seen in the writing of Plato, Xenophen, Cicero, Seneca, Epicticus." And who ever has read the Alcoran, will be struck with the licentious morality enjoined by the Prophet of the cave of Hara, but who was the first to violate it himself, however loose it was.

Now, we can imagine how an ingenious mind could invent the auto-biography of an imaginary individual, the hero of which might be said to have been sinless; but when we examine the standard by which such a mind would judge of the purity of its hero, and find that the standard is perfect, and that the hero lived it to the letter, and that both sprang into being simultaneously, we are led to wonder, laid it in power of man to invent such a tale? We answer no. The power would be a miracle itself. Such is the case with the history of Jesus of Nazareth. This fact was used as early as the days of Origen. "Though innumerable lies and calumnies had been forged against the venerable Jesus, none had dared to charge him with an intemperance." His most inveterate enemies dared not say he indulged in any criminal offence. Their charges were all of a public, religious and political character.

Fraternally,

G. U. HARN.

Letter from Bro. M. F. Shavely, V. D. M.—No. 1.

Salem, Henry County, Iowa,
5th Month, 13th, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Dear Sir: Grace be with you and the brotherhood. I now undertake, through the mercy of God, to redeem a promise formerly made to you and many of my friends in the East, before I left Cumberland county, Pa., viz:—That if the Lord brought me safely to this country and spared my life a while here, that I would write a series of letters for general information, through the "Church Advocate."

I begin, then, by saying, we left Harrisburg, as you know, on the morning of the 19th ult., in a section canal boat, for Pittsburg. Our fare cost $4 00 a passenger, and our freight 75 cents per hundred.

Having been much detained by the way, it took us until Friday noon, the 27th ult., to get to Pittsburg: having lain still over Sabbath at Hollidaysburg, and then detained on Monday till five o'clock, P. M., before our turn came to cross the mountains.

In the afternoon of the 27th we embarked on the steamer "Niagara" for St. Louis, at $9 00 a passenger and 25 cents a hundred freight. My family (being 12 in number) was taken all the way through at 8½ passengers, and then on the steamboat 75 pound weight was thrown in for each passenger. We got under way from Pittsburg for St. Louis about nine in the evening, and reached St. Louis about 11 o'clock, A. M., on the Friday following; when we were all invited on the hurricane deck, to make a great show: for there were 546 passengers on board our steamer—some 200 or more for Iowa,—three families for Illinois, and a number for California.

Then that same afternoon we embarked on the elegant steamer "Edward Bates," which runs up as far as Bloomington. But from various considerations, we stopped at Fort Madison, Lee county, where we landed on Sabbath morning, 6th inst., about 3 o'clock. Here we stayed until teams were procured to take us where we now are, right in among about 2,500 Quakers.

My expenses from St. Louis to Fort Madison were $2 50 a passenger, and 12½ per hundred freight.

My whole expense and outlay from home to this town, amounts to $205 00, my family being 12 in number, and my freight 2,300 in weight.

THE CHOLERA.

Of this awful enemy we saw nothing on our way. It was reported that there was one case on board our last boat, but the Captain denied it to me. But there was a death occurred, I know, on the lower deck. Reports said, all along the river towns, as high up as Keokuk, that there were some cases of Cholera. At St. Louis there were various reports; some said 7 to 8 deaths occurred, and some said as high as 30. However, a few days after we left that, it made fearful ravages. I saw one of our merchants of this place, who was there to lay in goods, who said in my hearing, that he was scared away from the place on account thereof; that there were as high as 100 cases per day; and since that a report came to this place that there were as many as 150 dying in one day. Awful! Awful!!

THE COUNTRY.

The face of the country round about Salem for miles, looks beautiful. I cannot compare the color of the rich soil of the Prairies to anything nearer than where, in the East, an old coal-pit has been. Surely, it is fully as black, only there is more oil in this, for I assure you, just after a rain, if you walk out you must take care of your feet, lest you make a slip. Then again there is some soil quite sandy, and others of a different nature. If any of you have an idea of John Heck's bottom land in Cumberland county—I mean that along the run, by his house—you may form an idea of this country in part, yet in part only. Our richest Prairie is blacker still. However, I have not seen many miles around as yet; but if my judgment, at this time, is worth any thing, I would say, the most of the land, I think, will not do well for fall grain. The people, with a few exceptions, do not pretend to raise it. It is said here, by nearly all, that the spring is three or four weeks later than usual, and that few here have seen it as wet, and as backward. Very little corn, as yet, is planted here.

WAGES.

The hire of men and women is high here. I hired my second son (rising 14 years) to a farmer at his own offer for $6 00 per month. Wages is said to be as high as $12 00 to $14 00 a month for young men. Young girls, merging into womanhood, $1 00 to $2 00 per week. Carpenter's wages $1 25 to $1 50 per day. Store goods are not much higher than they are East of the mountains.

PRICE OF LAND.

This varies in price. The best land, and tolerable improvements, will sell for $25 00 per acre. Generally, however, it sells from $6 00 to $10 00 per acre. Here about Salem, it being only about 40 miles from Keokuk, where there is always a ready market, being below the rapids, it sells at above prices.—There are fine Nurseries of choice fruit trees here, and fine orchards set—some bearing. Apples, sold out of the orchard, 87½ cents, and Peaches $1 00 per bushel. Dried fruit, in stores, sells at 6¼ cents per pound, for apples and peaches. This week I intend going north to see the country. More anon.

Farewell,

M. F. SNAVELY.

Letter from Bro. E. Logue, V. D. M.

UNIONTOWN, Md., May 7, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I AM truly sorry that duty calls on me to reply to another epistle, a part of which being so uncalled for—so unkind—so reflecting and so unchristian, that I neither know how to pass it over, nor how to reply. This letter is from Iowa, signed by eight persons. I am astonished at men professing Godliness, to embody such a tissue of unmerited personalities in their communications, for public print. Surely we would think when there are as many as eight persons concerned in the communication, they might have found something better for the readers of the Advocate, and less of their unholy reflections at brother Logue.

The readers of the Advocate will bear in mind that previous to my leaving Iowa last fall, we formed a small Eldership in that country; and there were no complaints presented against E. Logue during that meeting, but his report was accepted, and a wish expressed upon the part of that little body, for E. Logue to return to Iowa and spend another year in preaching for them. But now behold, some of those very men shooting their reflections at E Logue through the public print. I am sorry, Mr. Editor, that such a specimen of unkindness should make its appearance from the brethren in Iowa.

But to the epistle referred to, so far as it relates to myself.

1st. They say, "Brother E Logue was with us about three years and a half." That is correct.

2d. They follow this up by saying, "We are sorry to say, we have seen but little effort made and but little good effected during this time." Did brother Logue ever profess to have made great efforts in Iowa? Is is not well known that his afflictions were such while in Iowa, that he could not make much effort further than close around home? Did not those eight writers know this? And if they knew this, why did they not tell the public the reasons why brother Louge did not make more effort?

But why was there but little good effected? One reason is that above mentioned. The people of Trenton know this. Another reason was, that brother Logue spent too much time and effort amongst some old and disorderly professors, whose unholy lives were doing more harm than he could do good. But notwithstanding there was apparently but little good effected, yet there were some worthy men and women converted under brother L's. preachiug, especially when he preached among strangers. But how many preachers in Iowa within the acquaintance of those eight, in the same situation with E. L., seen more good effected than brother Logue did, during the same time? There may be some; but will those other preachers of the Church of God in Iowa, some of whom have their names to the late article referred to, please to tell us what they were doing during those three years and a half, and how many souls were converted under their preaching? But,

3d. They say, "We believe that he was well provided for." Who provided for him? Those eight? Yes, they did in part, and probably as as much as they were able. But J. McCormick, of Trenton, done more than all those eight. And did not brother Logue do a good deal in providing for himself? Yes, they know he had to do it, and he challenges a denial of it. But,

4th, and lastly, they say, "And is now worth three or four hundred dollars more than when he came here." This is a palpable falsehood, committed, I trust, by mistake. E. Louge challenges those men to prove, or make appear the truth of such an assertion. In the situation in which brother Logue was placed, with his numerous afflictions, and with the small assistance he received, how could it be the case? But suppose it was correct. Suppose E. L. was now worth thousands more than when he went to Iowa, what is that to those eight men, when no part of it came out of their pockets? Why need they meddle?

Brother Winebrenner, I regard the article above referred to as productive of more or less injury to myself, and designedly so; and therefore I have written this reply. There are many professors of religion as well as others, who, if they have an idea that a preacher has ten or a hundred dollars, they think that he must spend his time and talents for them and others, and receive nothing as a remuneration for his services. Such is the poor, little narrow-contracted disposition of many professed church members. They would have all the time and talents of a preacher for nothing, if they could. I wonder how far such a disposition is from a fraudulent spirit?

Again, brother Winebrenner, if those men in the West will take Paul's advice, "not to be busy-bodies about other men's matters," they will find it better policy. But as they have made the attack, and I have here challenged them to make good their assertions, if they should attempt to do so, I give my consent. Public abuse calls for public disabuse.

Yours, affectionately,

E. LOGUE.

Letter from Brother Daniel Prestel.

PEORIA, April 23, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

AFTER my best respects to you and family, hoping that you enjoy the blessing of good health, allow me to say that by the blessing of Divine Providence, we are still alive and in the enjoyment of our usual health; only old age is fast coming upon us—grey hairs and dim eyes—so that we are obliged to wear glasses.

It is now fourteen years since we left our native place, Harrisburg. We came out here with four children, all daughters, and now all grown up and married, and all live in Peoria, comfortably situated, and some happily converted to God. We numbered six when we came out here. With sons-in-law and grandchildren, we now number eighteen. Our coming out here has so far been a good exchange for us, both as it regards our spiritual and temporal welfare.

This is one of the most beautiful, thriving places that I ever saw in all my life. Our town is improving very rapidly, and fine churches going up. There are already about six different denominations, and a few Lutherans collecting. One Old School Presbyterians, one Baptist, one Episcopalian, one Congregational, one Albright, one M. E. Church, to which we still continue to belong. Four of these numbers stand united in the Bible cause, and the preachers have friendly conference meetings every Monday morning, alternately at each other's houses, and unite in solemn prayer to God for each other and the people. They also deliberate with each other upon the best means to be employed for the salvation of the people. The above alliance exists between the Baptist, Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian, and Congregational Churches.

There is a large field of labor here for good, holy, God-fearing men. I have been out myself for several years past, trying to labor some for the salvation of the people, until my health failed to some extent, so that I am not now able constantly to preach. I usually preach on the Sabbath, and am now most all the time at home, and will be nearly all the time, except the month of May, when I shall be attending to the Bible agency for Peoria county.

All our friends from Harrisburg are well, and have done well, and are in good circumstances.

This morning I received one of your Church Advocates, from brother Christian Long, and we read it over and over. It was to us like a long letter from home; and we truly admire its great amount of good matter. Rich and full of interest, and such a great variety in so small a compass, that is calculated to suit our taste so well, that I send you immediately herewith my subscription for one copy, for one year, accompanied with one dollar cash in advance according to your terms. You will please forward to me one copy immediately, commencing with the first number of the 14th volume, to Peoria Post Office.

I was truly astonished to find an obituary of the death of my old friend, DAVID LINGLE, in your Advocate. Please give my love to the surviving family, and to all inquiring friends.

If any part of what I have written should be thought a matter of interest to your numerous readers, you are perfectly at liberty to insert any part of it.

A few things more in reference to ourselves. I am now 52 years old, and my wife 50, and our age and a few grey hairs and dimness of eye-sight, admonish us to be always ready.—Soon we shall have to pass out of time into the spirit world. Well, thank God, that His grace has hitherto sustained us, and we have His pledge and promise to assure us, that if we continue faithful in well doing, in due season we shall reap if we faint not. Brother Winebrenner, I expect by the grace of God to make Heaven my home. Pray for us.

Yours in Christ,

DANIEL PRESTEL.

Letter from brother G. Sandoe.

HINKLETOWN, May 17, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

HAVING a little leisure time to spare, I take my pen in hand to drop a few lines, which you may, if you think proper, insert in your most valuable paper, the Church Advocate.

In the winter of 1847 I was converted from the bondage of sin and satan, and brought into covenant favor with God, by the blood of Christ Jesus our Lord. And, being convinced that those who serve the Lord should be united in church fellowship, I therefore proposed to seek for a people who lived, not according to the mere forms and customs, but according to the rule laid down in the Book of God. I therefore in the spring of the following year, 1848, united with the Church of God in the village of Hinkletown; whose principles I found to be pure, and in accordance with the Bible.

It is indeed to be lamented that there are so few of us in this place who have espoused, and who uphold the pure Bible principles: and withal that we are looked upon as madmen. But we know, that he that will live Godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution. Yet, notwithstanding we are few in number, and withal despised, nevertheless we commit the care of our souls into the hands of the Lord, who daily loadeth us with His blessings. O! the refreshing times we have had from the good Lord, since this time last year, none can tell but those who have enjoyed the same.—We have not seen all the good done which we have desired, yet we rejoice that the Lord has done (and truly he has) great things for us, whereof we are glad. Our prayers in times past have ascended up to heaven, that God would revive His work—His great work in this part of His vineyard. Thus, we hope, they shall ever ascend for His Church, until we be conveyed to the Church triumphant, where we will see our Lord as He is, and be like Him forever. Meanwhile, let us be up and doing, to promote the religion of our Master.

Farewell, brethren. Pray for us. O! pray for the little Church at Hinkletown.

Yours, in the faith of our common Lord,

G. SANDOE.

Letter from Bro. D. Wertz, V. D. M.

Woodlands, Va., May 3, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I took a tour to Westmoreland county in April, and according to promise, co-operated with J. Hickernell in holding a few meetings. We held one meeting in Bethanytown, and one in Robstown; both of which were good meetings, in my judgment.

Brother J. Hickernell baptized six of his last winter's converts, and a few are yet under conviction. May they also believe with all the heart, and with the mouth confess, and do as the rest did, be baptized, and serve God in gospel order.

On my return, an Elder was to come with me into our hill country, and help to hold meetings on my circuit; but I was disappointed, and the cry is now, I am good to promise and make appointments for preachers, but that is all. Well, I done my part. However, all is in a state of confusion about new preachers. Our meeting, notwithstanding, at the river, was well attended on last Sabbath. I did not continue the meeting longer, not being well, and having no help. The ordinances were administered to a small number. We had a good time, and the promise of our Saviour, "happy are ye if ye know and do," was fully realized. When professors go away from the celebration of ordinances, or stand in the number of rebels and sectarians, it does not look like continuing in the fellowship and doctrine of the Apostles. This ought not so to be, my brethren. But attend to all good ordinances, if God permits. A few came into fellowship, and I understand a few are ready for baptism—and a few ought to be put out. It is time to cleanse the sanctuary.

Yours truly,

D. WERTZ.

There are as many miseries within the boundaries of wealth as there are on this side.

Guard your tongue well in company.

A grain of prudence is worth a pound of hazard.

Genuine piety invariably leads to habits of industry.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

The New York Riot—Verdict of the Jury.—The Coroner's Jury examined a number of witnesses, being in session several days, and gave the following verdict:—

We believe that George A. Curtis, John McDonald, Thos. Alywood, George Lincoln, Timothy Burns, Henry Otten, Geo. W. Brown, Wm. Butler, Geo. W. Taylor, Owen Burns, Thos. Belman, Neil Gray Mellis, Asa F. Collins, William Harmer, Thos. Kelman, Matthew Cahill, Geo. N. Gedney, came to their deaths by gun shot wounds from balls fired by the Military during the riot before the Opera House on Thursday evening, 10th May inst., by order of the civil authorities of the City of New York; and that the circumstances existing at the time justified the authorities in giving the order to fire upon the mob. We further believe that if a larger number of the Police had been ordered out, the necessity of a resort to the use of the Military might have been avoided.

Jas. H. Perkins, Foreman.

Cholera at St. Louis.—A letter from a friend at St. Louis says: The Cholera is rapidly spreading along the rivers. We hear of no cases inland but those that have been carried there. There is a great deal of suffering and death on the steamboats, from want of proper medical attention.

The weekly report of deaths as made from all the grave yards in the city, up to May 9th, at noon, presents the following results:

Whole number of deaths, one hundred and thirty-five; number of cholera cases, seventy-eight.

Twenty-eight of the deaths were of children under five years of age.

The whole number of deaths for the same period in the previous week, was one hundred and forty-one. Of this number, forty-one were of cholera.

Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad.—A great meeting in favor of this road, was held at Pittsburg, on Monday evening of last week, at which General J. K. Morehead presided. Able speeches were made by Solomon W. Roberts, Esq., of Philadelphia, Gen. Morehead, Senator Benton, of Missouri, and others. A large amount of stock was subscribed for, prior to adjournment. The effect produced was most cheering to the friends of the road.

A Snow Storm in Virginia.—A gentleman states that on the 18th of April, while crossing the Shenandoah Mountain, he encountered the severest snow storm he has ever been exposed to, and the next day the snow lay on the ground to the depth of from one to two feet.

Coal.—Great Britain produces annually 31,500,000 tons of coal; Belgium, 4,960,077; United States, 4,400,000; Prussia, 3,500,000; and Austria, 700,000.

From the Frontier.—The St. Louis Republican contains a third letter from St. Joseph, which concludes the list of companies in camp at that place, ready to move for California.

The letter gives the names of some forty-four additional parties. In this list, Ohio has nine companies, Massachusetts two, Rhode Island one, Connecticut one, New York five, Pennsylvania four, Virginia two, Illinois four, Missouri five, Indiana three, Michigan five, and Wisconsin three.

The letter concludes and sums up as follows:

"This, with my previous letters from this place, gives you the names of 1124 persons that are in camp, in the vicinity of St. Joseph, equipped and ready to move—some of them are already on the road.—Four hundred would be a large estimate for those yet boarding in town—thus giving 1500 as the highest number of emigrants at St. Joseph. Every boat that arrives adds to this number.

Cleveland and Cincinnati Railroad.—The Cleveland Herald states that there are upwards of one thousand men at work on that part of the line of the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnatti Railroad lying between the first named points. This work is being prosecuted with great vigor, and will be ready for the superstructure, according to the contract, by the 1st June, 1850. the precise distance between Cleveland and Columbus by the survey adopted, is 134¾ miles. Contracts have been already made for 7,000 tons of iron rails.

Virginia Election.—The whole state has now been heard from, and the legislature stands as follows:

	Dem.	Whigs.	Taylor D.
Senate,	21	11
House of Delegates,	73	61	1
	94	72	1

Democratic majority in the senate 10; in the house 12; on joint ballot 22.

The whigs have gained one member in the senate and one in the house, reducing the majority on joint ballot from 26 to 22.

The congressional delegation stands 14 democrats to 1 whig—a democratic gain of 5.

Emigrants.—The number of emigrants arrived at New York last week, is stated at 18,500, in addition to which there were several vessels in port, which had not yet reported, and which would swell the number to upwards of twenty thousand. The commutation money paid, netted to the commissioners $22,287.

☞ The Temperance Reformation is making much progress in Bermuda, as well as at Barbadoes and other British Islands in the West Indies.

Cincinnati, May 7.—Mrs. Howard, who was tried here for the murder of a mistress of her husband, has been acquitted by the jury.

Iron Stores.—The New York papers contain a description of a block of five iron stores, erected in that city by Mr. Edgar H. Laing.—The stores are 20 by 56 feet, and were built in a little more than two months, at a cost of about $20,000, and with scarcely any of the bustle and inconvenience attending the erection of brick or stone houses. The Tribune, speaking of the iron stores, says:—

"The effect is exceedingly light and elegant. Each story is supported by rows of fluted pilasters, the courses between which are compactly bolted, and the seams of the panels completely covered and concealed from the view by an ornamental cornice. Thus the walls are in fact one solid iron block, capable of supporting an immense weight. There are about 150 tons of iron in the building."

Emigration from Europe to the U. States.—From present indications we may anticipate a larger emigration from Europe this year than in any other previous year. We noticed yesterday the arrival of upwards of 22,000 passengers in New York during the month of April. We see it stated in the New York papers that 4174 arrived in that city on Tuesday last, and upwards of 34,000 were reported at the Mayor's Office on the same day, who are yet to arrive. On these the commutation money was paid, $1,50 per head amounting to the sum of $52,000. Boston is also receiving her share of emigrant passengers. Within the past few days fourteen vessels have arrived at that port with upwards of 2500 emigrants.—Baltimore American.

The Flood at New Orleans.—The several breaks in the embankments of the Mississippi near New Orleans continued up to the latest dates to resist, in a great measure, the efforts to close them. The principal one, near Carrollton, from which the city is suffering so severely, it was thought was nearly mastered.

The loss to the sugar planters will be immense. It is is estimated that from 40 to 50 thousand hogsheads of sugar of the coming crop may be destroyed.

Father Matthew.—The New York papers publish a letter from this apostle of temperance, addressed to Ex-Mayor Brady, in which he accepts the invitation to visit New York, and announces that he will sail from Liverpool in the ship Ashburton, on the 21st of May. He would have come before, but was delayed by severe illness.

Arrival of Gold Dust From Africa.—The barque Chusan arrived at Salem, last Monday, from Africa, with large quantities of gold dust, which is said to be found there.

☞ Of the 1,243 Sons of Temperance in New Orleans, only three of them as yet have suffered from the ravages of the cholera, and they were peculiarly exposed.

Electro-Magnetism.—The last congress appropriated $20.000 to enable Dr. Paige to experiment on this new motive power. If his experiments succeed, the agent will be in great demand, inasmuch as the committee of the senate, of which Mr. Benton is chairman, reported it cheaper, safer, more applicable to machinery, and in every way more useful than steam.

Disastrous Fire at Watertown, N. Y.—The disastrous conflagration which took place at Watertown, on Sunday, May 13, destroyed nearly all the business portion of the village, including three banks—the post office, three printing offices, surrogate office, two hotels and thirty stores.—Loss $250,000.

Dr. Dick.—A Canada paper says that Dr. Dick, whose works are familiar to so many in this country, has expressed his intention to visit the United States during the approaching summer. Dr. Dick has near relatives residing in Canada, one of whom is a Methodist clergyman.

American S. S. Union.—Hon. John McLean, Justice of the U. States Supreme Court, has been elected President of the American Sunday School Union, in place of Alexander Henry, Esq., deceased.

Mortality of Cholera on Shipboard.—A brig from New Orleans for Europe, name not given, put into St. Josephs, Florida, about three weeks since, with all her crew dead of cholera, save the captain and cook.

Awful Mortality at Matamoras.—A Texas paper says that one thousand of the population of Matamoras have perished of the cholera. This, says the paper, is one quarter of the population. At the last accounts the disease was decreasing.

Building in New York in 1848.—From the City Inspector's Report, it appears that there were erected 1,191 buildings in the city during 1848, being 655 less than in the preceding year.

California.—Dates from California to the 3d March, report a new placer found, and plenty of gold.

☞ A shameful riot took place in New York on Monday and Tuesday nights, the 10th and 11th ult., in which 25 persons were killed and a large number wounded. It was occasioned by the appearance of Mr. Macready, an English tragedian, at the Astor Place Opera as an actor.

☞ Pine Apples are now raising in Florida. Forty-six slips of pine were set out by one gentleman August 20th, 1843, and they ripened to fruit July 10th, 1845.

☞ The extra session of the Virginia Legislature, for the revision of the laws, commenced on the 28th ult.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"THERE WERE GIANTS IN THOSE DAYS."

Professor Silliman, in one of his lectures, mentions the discovery of an enormous animal of the lizard tribe, measuring eighty feet in length, from which he infers that all animals have degenerated in size—and this supposition is fortified by a reference to the history of giants in the olden time. It appears from the list furnished by the Professor, that we of the present day are mere "Tom Thumbs" when compared with the huge individuals of antiquity. Here is the list:—

The giant exhibited in Rouen in 1735 measured over eight feet.

Gorapus saw a girl who was ten feet high!

The body of Grestus was eleven and a half feet high!

The giant Galbara, brought from Arabia to Rome, under Claudius Cæsar, was near ten feet.

Funnman, who lived in the time of Eugene II., measured eleven and a half feet!

The Chevalier Scorg, in his voyage to the Peak of Teneriffe, found in one of the caverns of that mountain the skull of a Guance, which had eighty teeth, and it was supposed that his body was not less than fifteen feet long!

The giant Ferragus, slain by Arlando, nephew to Charlemagne, was eighteen feet high!

In 1614, near St. Germain, was found the tomb of the giant Isoret, who was twenty feet high!

In 1599, near Rouen, they found a skeleton whose skull held a bushel of corn! and whose body must have been eighteen feet long!

Platerus saw at Lucerne, the human bones of a subject nineteen feet long!

The giant Buart was twenty-two and a half feet high; his bones were found in 1705, near the banks of the river Moderi.

In 1613, near a castle in Dauphine, a tomb was found thirty feet long, twelve wide and eight high, on which was cut the words "Keutolochus Rex." The skeleton was found entire, twenty-five and a half feet long, ten feet across the shoulders, and five feet deep from the breast bone to the back.

Near Mazarine, in Sicily, in 1516, was found the skeleton of a giant thirty feet high! His head was the size of a hogshead.

Near Palermo in Sicily, 1548, was found the skeleton of a giant thirty feet long.

A PRAYER FOR SPEEDY SANCTIFICATION.

O Lord God, great and holy, all-sufficient, and full of grace, if thou shouldst bid me form a wish, and take whatsoever in heaven or earth I had to ask, it should not be the kingdoms of this world, nor the crowns of princes; no, nor should it be the wreaths of martyrs, nor the thrones of archangels; my request is, to be made holy; this is my highest concern. Rectify the disorders sin has made in my soul, and renew thy image there; let me be satisfied with thy likeness. Thou hast encompassed my paths with mercy in all other respects, and I am discontented with nothing but my own heart, because it is so unlike the image of thy holiness, and so unfit for thy immediate presence.

Not he that knows many things is a wise man, but he that knows useful things.

RULES FOR A PREACHER ON HIS ENTRANCE ON A NEW CIRCUIT OR STATION.

1. Think evil of no one, whatever may be the appearance of things.
2. Speak evil of no one, whatever may be the provocation.
3. Read the Scriptures regularly, daily, and in order, with notes.
4. Write something every day, for your improvement at least.
5. Rise a little earlier, if possible, especially during summer.
6. Go to the place of appointment early enough.
7. To begin Divine service exactly at the appointed time.
8. Pray, sing, and especially preach shorter than usual, and if possible more to the point; be clear, close, practicable.
9. Sing and talk less in company; read, study, and pray more in secret.
10. Watch over your imagination, desires, tempers, feelings, words, and actions.
11. Beware of oddities, eccentricities, extravagances, enthusiasm.
12. Make your visits frequent, short, profitable; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all long-suffering, tenderness and love.
13. Study well those parts of discipline which concern a preacher.
14. Guard against a low familiarity with the people, and endeavor to keep up the dignity of an ambassador of Christ.
15. Be very humble, patient, faithful, zealous, wise, and prudent.
16. Strive in every possible way to promote the peace and prosperity of the church.
17. Guard against selfishness, sadness, levity, pride and the love of popularity.
18. Be not half hearted or lukewarm; be a whole Christian or none at all.
19. Meddle not with political questions, nor too much with controversy.
20. Cultivate a happy, courteous, and benevolent disposition.
21. Take care of the lambs of the flock, and feed them with knowledge and wisdom.
22. Beware of envy, jealousy, and "moping melancholy."
23. Do the business of a steward, watchman, pastor, faithfully, and think much on death and judgment.
24. Read the above notes, if you approve of them, once a week on your bended knees, and pray for grace to enable you to keep them.

POPULATION OF THE REPUBLICS OF SOUTH AMERICA.

Argentine Republic,	1,000,000
Peru,	1,700,000
New Grenada,	1,931,684
Bolivia,	1,030,000
Chili,	1,200,000
Venezuela,	900,000
Ecuador,	600,000
Paraguay,	300,000
Uraguay,	150,000

The present population of most of the above States has not been very recently obtained with any exactness. The most complete and accurate census of Mexico was taken in 1842. This census returned the whole population at 7,500,000. Of this number there were 4,000,000 Indians, 1,000,000 whites, 6,000 negroes, and 2,500,000 of all other castes—as Zamboa, Mestizos, &c. Of the Indians and negroes, only 80,120 can read, and of the whites and all others, 607,628.

Boys, never laugh at, or mock old people; if God suffers you to live a few years, you too, will be old and infirm.

WASHING CLOTHES.

We publish to-day, for the benefit of the ladies, the greatest recipe for washing clothes ever yet published. By this process one hand can do as much as three hands on the old method, and do it much better. Be sure to keep this recipe. If you file our paper, mark round the recipe with a pen and ink; if not, cut this recipe out, and paste it up in your wash-house:

Recipe.—Take good home-made soft soap, 4lbs; borax, refined, 4 ounces; common salt, 3 ounces; water, 7 pints. Boil slowly to cake soap; separate the top from the sediment for the cake soap. The bottom or sediment will do for the common washing about a kitchen.

Process.—1. Wet the clothes thoroughly. 2. Rub the grease and dirty spots with some of the soap. 3. Boil the clothes in strong soap suds of the above soap, for thirty minutes. 4. Rinse the clothes three times well in clean water.—Washington (Pa.) Comp.

HYMN FOR TWO CHILDREN.

[Each to say one Line by turns.]
Who came from heaven to ransom me?
Jesus, who died upon the tree.
Why did he come from heaven above?
He came because his name is "Love."
And did he die—the Son of God?
Yes, on the cross he shed his blood.
Why did my Lord and Saviour bleed?
That we from evil might be freed.
When he had died, what happened then?
On the third day he rose again.
Where did he go when he had risen?
He went to God's right hand in heaven.
Where is he now? Is he still there?
Yes, and he pleads with God in prayer.
What does he pray for, and for whom?
He prays that we to him might come.
Should we not come? Should we not come?
O yes, Christ is the sinner's home;
Christ is the weary sinner's home—
O, let us come! O, let us come!

TO THE LAW AND THE TESTIMONY.

Propitiary sacrifices were of six kinds, enumerated in Lev. vii: 37, 38, the words of which are a brief recapitulation of the seven preceding chapters, containing the rules and rites pertaining to these several kinds of sacrifice, and thus terminating, "This is the law of the burnt-offering," &c., &c. There were some respects in which the several kinds agreed; they were all offered on the brazen altar; they were offerings by fire; and they were all propitiatory. In their nature and intention, therefore, they differed in nothing; for they all exhibited the death of Christ and other mysteries of his wisdom and grace and love, in the gospel of our salvation.—But they differed in respect to the things to be offered, the occasion of the offering, and the ceremonies accompanying it.

FLUENCY OF SPEECH.

"The common fluency of speech in many men and women, is owing," says Swift, "to a scarcity of words; for whoever is master of language and has a mind full of ideas, will be apt, in speaking, to hesitate upon the choice of both, whereas common speakers have only one set of ideas, and one set of words to clothe them in, and these are always ready, so people come faster out of church when it is empty, than when a crowd is at the door."

Never be ashamed of anything but sin.

POETRY.

VERSES WRITTEN FOR AN ALBUM.

BY G. U. HARN.

Lady, thy character so fair,
Is like the album page;
Without thy constant, daily care,
A blot may it deface.

When once the fatal dot is made,
How hard t' extract the stain!
'Twill sink thee in a gloomy shade,
Never to rise again.

To thee the safest guard below
Is virtue in the heart;
'Twill arm thee constantly to know
Satan's deceptive art.

For life is nearly all a cheat,
Its fairest face you see!
Its gaudy show thine eye may greet,
Amid thy youthful glee.

But riper age will show thee well
That life's a sad disguise;
Then shun the Pit where others fell—
Let others make thee wise.

May Heaven smile upon thy way,
And grant thee constant aid,
Through life's dark, gloomy, cloudy day,
Till thou in dust be laid.

May angels then convey thee home,
To fairer climes on high,
Where no disguise shall with thee roam,
The glens of Paradise.

Harrisburg, May, 1849.

A GOOD NAME.

BY G. H. LOOMIS.

"A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and a loving favor rather than silver or gold."—Pr. 22: 1.

Children choose it,
Don't refuse it,
'Tis a precious diadem;
Highly prize it,
Not despise it,
You will need it when you're men.

Love and cherish,
Keep and nourish,
'Tis more precious far than gold;
Watch and guard it,
Don't discard it,
You will need it when you're old;

Then endeavor,
Now and ever,
Keep the blessed treasure nigh;
Never loan it,
Always own it,
You will need it when you die.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Religious Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the old camp-ground, near Rome, Noble county, Ind., commencing on Thursday, the 7th of June, 1849.

Who will attend? We do hope that those brethren in the ministry who calculate taking a tour to the West will make their arrangements so as to assist us in holding this meeting. THOS. HICKERNELL.

Protracted Meetings on the Dauphin Circuit.

By leave of Providence, the following Protracted Meetings will be held on the Dauphin Circuit, viz:

Highspire, June 3; Rockeyville, June 9; Matamoras, June 16; Stumpstown, June 23.

Protroeted Meeting.

A protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, with the Church of God at Mount Joy, commencing on Saturday the 9th of June.

Let as many as can come up to the help of the Lord.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On the morning of the 16th ult., after a long and severe illness, JOHN A. TAYLOR, aged 21 years and 6 months.

On Sunday, the 13th ult., after a short but severe illness, Mrs. SUSAN A. M'KEEVER, wife of Jesse M'Keever, at their residence in this borough.

Of Bronchitis, on the 9th ult., ELIZABETH SOUTHWARK, daughter of Louis and Elthea Blanche, aged 2 years and 7 months.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4	12½ a	4 25
Do.	RYE,	do. - -	2	50 a	2 56
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	2	12 a	2 15
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,				95 a	1 00
Do.	RYE,	do. - -		48 a	50
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -		45 a	46
Do.	OATS,	do. - -		27 a	28
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -		60 a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	3	00 a	3 50
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	3	00 a	3 25
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1	00 a	1 10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - - -			5	00 a	5 50
PORK, do. - - - - - -			5	00 a	5 25
HAMS, per pound, - - -				7 a	8
BUTTER, do. - - - - -				12½ a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -				7 a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -				8 a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.				6 a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -				10 a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -				50 a	60
ONIONS,	do. - - -			75 a	87½
APPLES,	do. - - -			25 a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.			1	25 a	1 30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -				37½ a	45
WOOL,	do. - - -			30 a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -			1	30 a	1 31
HAY, per ton, - - - - -			12	00 a	15 00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -			4	00 a	4 50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4	50 a	4 75
Do.	RYE,	do. -	2	75 2 a	80
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	2	70 a	2 75
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,			1	02 a	1 04
Do.	RYE,	do. - -		56 a	58
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -		59 a	60
Do.	OATS,	do. - -		32 a	34
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -		75 a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	3	00 a	3 50
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	2	75 a	3 00
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1	30 a	1 32
BEEF, per cwt., - - - - -			7	00 a	8 75
PORK, do. - - - - - -			7	00 a	7 25

Tract of Land for Sale.

THE undersigned wishes to sell at private sale, a small tract of land, containing about 30 acres, situated in the village of Andersonstown, York county, Pa.

The improvements thereon are a two story DWELLING HOUSE, 20 by 32 feet; a Log Barn, with Wagon-shed attached to it; a Blacksmith-shop, 20 by 30 feet, with Coal-house attached; together with other out-buildings: such as Mill-house, Pig-stye, Bake-oven, &c.

Also, a thriving young Orchard, and various other fruit trees, with a Pump between the house and shop, and an excellent and never-failing Spring of water a few hundred yards distant from the house.

The whole tract is in a fine state of cultivation, fenced off in small fields, with two acres of wood-land on the premises, and five acres of wood-land in a separate lot, situated about one-fourth of a mile from the 30 acre tract. This lot will be sold with the main tract, or separate, as may best suit the purchaser. Possession and a good title will be given to the purchaser on the first of April, 1850.

PETER KNISELY.

June 1, 1849.—tf.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;

ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

THOMSONIAN MEDICINE STORE.

REMOVAL.

DR. W. BARR begs leave to inform the citizens of Harrisburg and vicinity, and the public in general, that he has removed his Medicine Store to the N. W. corner of WALNUT and SECOND streets, where he now has, and constantly keeps on hand, a general assortment of

Thomsonian Medicines, Medical Books, Instruments, &c., &c.,

together with his well known preparations for the cure of Rheumatism, Tetter, Scald or Sore Head, Itch, or any eruption of the Skin, Sore Mouth or Throat, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Liver Complaint, Coughs, Colds, Headache, Costiveness, Sore Eyes, Fever and Ague, Influenza, Erysipelas, &c., &c., &c. No cure no pay.

Thankful for past favors, he respectfully solicits a continuance of public patronage.

☞ All orders thankfully received and punctually attended to.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—3m.

DAGUERREAN GALLERY.

"Secure the shadow, ere the substance fade."

THE DAGUERREAN ROOMS of DR. BARR & SON have also been removed to the North West corner of SECOND and WALNUT streets, (up stairs,) where they will be happy to see their old patrons, and all others who feel desirous of having a life-like portrait of themselves or relatives taken in a superior and unsurpassed style. Visit their gallery and see their beautiful and artistical specimens, taken and put up in the latest improvement of the art—faithful likenesses, delineating every feature and expression of nature in almost life itself.

From the experience of the Doctor, and the close observations of the artiste of the profession, they flatter themselves that they will be enabled to please every one that may favor them with their patronage.

Likenesses taken as well in cloudy as clear weather, and persons are not required to sit more than once, unless they desire it. Come on, Ladies and Gentlemen,

For sometimes our friends die and leave us,
And then, O how sad we oft feel;
But if they a true likeness give us,
On their mem'ry with pleasure we dwell.

Then hasten to BARRS' all ye people,
Before ye have reason to grieve;
The cost you will find it but little,
And to all satisfaction they'll give.

☞ Pictures taken for from $1 to $10, according to size, number of group, finish, &c.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—4t.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., JUNE 15, 1849. NUMBER 4.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Common Scoool Convention.

A convention of the friends of Common Schools is to be held in Harrisburg on the 4th of July, and delegates to it from several parts of the State have already been appointed..

General Manufacturing Law Adopted.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lancaster Cotton Mills, held last month, we learn that they have united their interests, and organized under the General Manufacturing Law.

Bamberger's Journal.

We have in press the Journal and Miscellaneous writings of the late J. H. Bamberger. The work will be out in about one month from this. Those who may want it by the quantity, will please send us their orders. Price 50 cents. One-third discount for cash.

Cotton Factory.

A subscription book has been opened for the stock to a Cotton Factory in our borough. A portion of our citizens have subscribed liberally, and we trust every man having an interest in the prosperity of the town, will exert himself to ensure the success of this laudable enterprize; for if it fails, it may be a long time before another effort of the kind will be made. We trust it will not be said of us, that we have not the enterprize to erect a single mill, when our neighbors of Lancaster already have two mills in operation, and the stock subscribed for a third.

National Convention of Archbishops.

The last week, says the Lutheran Observer of May 18th, has been quite a time of interest with the Roman Catholics in Baltimore. The first National Assembly of Archbishops ever held in the United States met and organized on Sabbath last.

Cemetery.

At a meeting of the Lot-holders of the Harrisburg Cemetery Association on Monday, the 4th inst., the following persons were elected Managers for the ensuing year:

A. K. Fahnestock, President. John Roberts, Hamilton Alricks, Stephen Miller, Dr. John H. Fager, and Daniel Gross, Managers.

Commonwealth Loan.

The loan of $400,000, for the construction of a road to avoid the Inclined Plane at the Schuylkill, has been taken, at a premium of about $1000, to the Commonwealth. This will insure the completion of that work in the least possible time, as engineers are now engaged in surveying the route.

McAllister's Ointment.

Our readers will find this Medicine advertised in our columns oftener than we usually admit Advertisements of the kind. But we feel warranted in doing so, from the fact, that we know the medicine to be good for many complaints, having repeatedly tested its virtues in the family. We recommend it to the afflicted as an excellent medicine.

Inventor's Journal.

This is a spirited, handsome and highly useful Monthly, published in Baltimore, Md., as the organ of the Inventor's National Institute. J. F. Weishampel, Editor.

The Isntitute, we are told, will soon need a number of gentlemen, of suitable qualifications, to act in the capacity of Travelling Agents, to dispose of rights, &c.

Persons wanting Agencies, will address James Coppuck, Cor. Sec., N. W. corner of Baltimore and Harrison streets, Baltimore, Md.

National Convention of Inventors.

The Inventor's National Institute of Baltimore have called a National Convention of Inventors, to be held in the city of Baltimore on Tuesday, the 21st day of August, 1849.

All persons interested in Patents, Patent Property, and in the modification of the Patent Laws, are respectfully invited to attend the Conventton.

Strangers attending the Convention are invited to report themselves to the Committee of Reception, at the office of the Institute, Northwest corner of Baltimore and Harrison streets.

A Mocker Rebuked.

Whilst the Cholera was in progress in Louisville, (Ky.,) Theatrical Bills announced a play called "A Cure for Cholera." The principal character was to be sustained by Mr. Marble, a well known comedian. The object and aim of the actor was, to turn the visitations of God into a jest. On the evening of that day he was seized with Cholera, and on the following morning he was a corpse!

What an awful confirmation have we in the case of this man, of the truth of an inspired Apostle, that "God is not mocked." How callous must be that heart—how hardened and steeped in iniquity, that can thus brave the visible arrows of the Almighty, and that dares to turn into ridicule His severe judgments!

Slavery and the Church.

The Old School Presbyterian Assembly, in session at Pittsburg, having before it two anti-slavery memorials from the Presbyteries of Chilecothe and Choschocton, has passed a series of resolutions reiterating the former declarations of that church against slavery, but declaring it inexpedient to propose any measure in the work of emancipation, inasmuch as that question is now in agitation in one or more of the slave States. These resolutions also declare that the General Assembly is always ready to exercise its discipline upon those who violate the duties they owe to their "servants," and urge upon the Presbyteries to persevere in the religious education of the slaves. They were adopted with but one dissenting voice.

Equality Principle.

We are much gratified to learn that some of the churches are improving their temporal economy, by adopting the equality principle. That is to say, that each member is required to pay a stipulated sum in quarterly payments, to the Deacons of the church, for religious purposes, in proportion to his wealth or income. Now, nothing can be more reasonable than this rule, for regulating the contributions of the church. This rule obtains among all well regulated civil governments. It is incorporated in our civil code, and no one objects to it. Why then should not this rule and principle be carried out among Christians? We can see no good reason why it should not. Reason and revelation lend their sanction in favor of it. Who then, but the unreasonable and worldly can oppose it? We hope the time will soon come when every church will adopt this wise and salutary regulation, and when every member in the Church of God will delight to do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with the Lord our God.

Recipe for Cure of Cholera.

Recipe.—One and a half ounce of spirits of wine; one-quarter ounce of camphor dissolved in the wine. Get a small vial of spirits of hartshorn.

Directions.—First, give a teaspoonful of hartshorn in a wineglass of water. Begin immediately and give five drops of spirits camphor, filling the teaspoon with cold water and a little sugar. Repeat this every five minutes until you have given three doses. Then wait fifteen minutes, and commence again as before, and continue half an hour, unless there is returning heat. Should this be the case, give one dose more, and the cure is effected. Let patients perspire freely—as on this life depends; but add no additional clothing.

The Cholera.

A few cases of this fell destroyer have occurred in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Pittsburg, but as yet we hear of no spread into the interior from these points. But it is the interest and duty of all our citizens to adopt the usual precautionary measures to guard against its spread.

As yet, nothing has been done in Harrisburg—no meeting has been held—no board of health—no sanitory committee appointed.—We think this negligence should be repaired by prompt action. Experience in other places shows that much may be done by various means, to mitigate the disease and diminish the number attacked. Cleaning out streets, sewers, cellars, &c., and a free use of lime, are all important steps in warding off and checking its progress. To these our corporate authorities should attend without delay.

World's Peace Convention.

A second World's Peace Convention, successive to the first held in Brussels last autumn, is to be held in Paris, next August.—Arrangements are made whereby delegates can make the passage from Boston to Liverpool each way, in the packet line of Messrs. E. Train & Co., Boston, for one hundred dollars. For particulars, address Mr. J. Blanchard, Boston, or Prof. Amasa Walker, of North Brookfield, Mass. It is hoped that a strong delegation will go from this country. The aspect of the nations in Europe betokens most pressing need of whatever pacific influences the whole Christian world can bring to bear upon those troubled elements. We see it intimated from reliable sources, that as 1848 was in Europe a year of revolution, so 1849 will be a year of blood. Our hope for better results than this is ultimately in God;—instrumentally in the earnest demonstrations and appeals of Christian men and philanthropists for peace.

New Bethels.

The brethren at Bowman's and at Churchtown are now engaged in erecting fine new Bethels, or houses of worship. The house at Churchtown is handsomely located in the village, will have a convenient and spacious basement, for holding Sabbath school and prayer-meetings, and is built of brick.

The Bethel at Bowman's is a beautiful stone building—34 by 40, and is located on Camp-hill, near Bowman's grave-yard.

The brethren and neighbors there have have thus far done all the hauling gratis. The building committee wish us to tender their grateful acknowledgements to all the brethren and friends, for the kind and generous services they have rendered, as well as for the liberal subscriptions they have given them.

Missionary Pledge.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00

The Next Census.

The enumeration of the inhabitants of any country is always an interesting matter, but the census of a great and growing country like this, extending from the icy North to the sunny South, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, comprehending almost every variety of climate, fertility of soil, agricultural and mineral productions—a country settled by an enterprising, hardy, and intelligent people, enjoying free institutions, and receiving vast accessions every year by immigration—a country wonderful for its progress in commerce, manufactures and the useful arts, and comprehending such a difference of social organization in the different sections as to make it a very prominent feature—the census of such a country, comprehending its mines, its agriculture, its commerce, its manufactures, its means of education, as well as its people, must be a subject of the greatest interest to every citizen, and to the inquiring minds of the whole civilized world.

In order to assist them to do justice to this important interest, the able and intelligent Census Board, at Washington, have issued the following Circular Letter, the object of which will be seen on its perusal:

Washington, May 16, 1849.

Sir: By the act of Congress, entitled "An Act to make arrangements for taking the Seventh Census,' it is provided that the Census Board "shall prepare and cause to be printed such forms and schedules as may be necessary for the full enumeration of the inhabitants of the United States; and also proper forms and schedules for collecting in statistical tables, under proper heads, such information as to Mines, Agriculture, Commerce, Manufactures, Education, and other topics, as will exhibit a full view of the pursuits, industry, education, and resources of the country; it being provided that the number of said inquiries, exclusive of the enumeration, shall not exceed one hundred."

The principal aim of the Board at this time, is to acquire such information as will enable them to arrive at the most proper enumeration of subjects to be embraced in the next Census.

The communications of all persons who may feel disposed to make suggestions or contribute information on the subject, will be respectfully considered.

Address "Department of State—Census," Washington,

John M. Clayton,
Reverdy Johnson,
Jacob Collamer.

Jos. G. C. Kennedy, Sec'y.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Wants of the Church.

The general outline which I endeavored to sketch in a former communication, appears to exhibit a sufficient number of features in the portrait to justify the conclusion that the wants of the Church are both real and urgent. Even if the sketch serve no better purpose than to point the eye to a few well known beacons or land-marks, more prominent than the rest, towards which the sympathies of the benevolent ought more especially to be directed. Enough has been said to inculcate a weighty lesson of charity—of that charity which begins at home.

Could we, however, throw into the scale the whole amount of truth which might be uttered upon the subject, it would not require the powers of a lofty mind, or the richness of a fervid imagination, to suggest the remedy, by giving a brighter hue to unvarnished truth.—On the contrary, the plainest intellect must discern, and that without any deep abstraction of thought, that the very nature of the wants of the Church, at once, of themselves, suggest the nature of the remedy. To all it must appear evident that we mean the WANTS AND THE REMEDY—these stand forth in bold relief, like light and shade in the same landscape, fairly opposed the one to the other. If then the cry which is so frequently re-echoed from the abodes of the destitute be, "Oh! send us ministers,"—if the sound of lamentation has arisen by reason of a dearth of faithful laborers in the holy office, a discharge of whose solemn duties must ever prove a savor of life to life, or of death to death, to the children of men, it must be readily perceived, not merely that ministers ought to be sent to the destitute, for this indeed were to say but little; rather must it appear evident, from a correct view of the case, that none but such efforts can be available as tend at once to equip for the field young men of the proper stamp, and also to give them to the Church in larger numbers than hitherto has been found practicable.

We speak first of the necessity of securing young men to meet the present exigencies of the Church; and this we do with a propriety which appears to be unquestionable. Various considerations upon opposite points illustrate this propriety. On the one hand, the majority of posts for which pastors are needed, are for the most part weak in numbers, and generally remote in point of place. Hence, even if pastors of long experience in the ministry could be spared, and were willing to remove thither, they would not only be burdened with the additional cares of a family in the removal, but would in all probability be sufferers for a time from the want of an adequate support. On the other hand, it is not only reasonable that old and long established settlements, which possess the ability of supporting ministers burdened with a family, should retain such; but as it is to be presumed that in old settlements the people have made larger progress in the knowledge of divine truth, it is highly reasonable that they should be furnished with an instructor experienced and enlightened, in proportion to the intelligence of the people.

Yet if both these considerations bear no correspondent weight or importance, it does appear (with all due deference to our elder berthren in the ministry) that men who from the experience of years have firmly settled their habits, and fixed their mode of thinking and of acting, are not the best qualified for removing to distant outposts, where important changes in all these particulars may be found necessary. So that however rude and inexperienced may be the condition of young men, when thus sent out to do the work of an evangelist, we must still believe that the youthful mind, with its pliant materials, which can most readily be moulded into conformity with the peculiar exigencies of a people comparatively in limited circumstances.

But whoever shall be the individuals whose lot it shall be to stand forth as the propagators of the gospel within the borders of our Western territory, it is certainly indisputable that little or nothing can be expected from their labors unless they be men who have their calling from God, with a strong desire to carry into effect the design of that calling. In other words: if the Church calls for ministers to relieve her necessities, she does not call for men indiscriminately, who may or may not suit the emergency. On the contrary, her demands are for men who shall possess within themselves a pledge of their competency for the task; men whose unwavering piety shall appear as a bright ornament of their profession, and whose attainments in theological knowledge, (to say nothing of collateral sciences,) shall qualify them to enter upon their toils without fear of discomfiture. She only demands, upon grounds the most self-evident, that the deep piety of the experimental Christian, the piety of the heart, be really, yet happily blended with a proper cultivation of the mind.

Finally. The Church wants a missionary revival, and that too among her ministers. It is to be feared that the missionary spirit, in a great degree, has died and been buried. If we take a survey of Elderships in years gone by, what a contrast? Missionary reports show the fact that then our missionaries were alive to their calling, revivals were breaking out at many places under the labors of missionaries, the Church was travailing and bringing forth sons and daughters. But how is it now? Why it is just so, it is to be feared, that the commissions of many are left to rust, and be eaten up with the love of filthy lucre. Some come to the Eldership, and give in their report, "That they have preached some, but they must acknowledge they have not done as much as they ought to have done; but they hope to do more for the Lord next year." But alas! they hope on, and that hope is never carried into effect. Oh! my brethren, reflect on the condition of that man who knew the will of his Lord and did it not; and then consider what will be the state of that man who neglects his calling, and at the judgment be charged by many souls with their condemnation. Oh! dear reader, let me insist upon your using every exertion in your power to reclaim souls from sin; and if you cannot preach His word, by your economy and liberality you can help to relieve those who can, and by so doing you will clear your skirts of the blood of souls. May God help both preachers and people to discharge their duty before Him, so that when we come to leave this world we may depart in peace and be with Christ, which is far better.

Yours, fraternally,

J. C. SEABROOKS.

Mount Alto, Pa., March 24, 1849.

On Christ's Ascension.

Our victorious Saviour ascended on high and led captivity captive. The chariots of God which attended Him were twenty thousand, even thousands of angels. Pslams 68: 17, 18. He being gone into heaven is now seated on the right hand of God, angels, and authorities, and powers being made subject to Him. Let us His humble followers look after Him with holy joy and pleasing anticipation, congratulating His triumphs, and trusting through His grace to share the same in a coming day.—Like the Apostles, let us bow down and worship Him, and while we continue here below, let us make it our daily labor and care to seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God. Instead of amusing ourselves with the dreams of temporal grandeur and felicity, or with curious inquiries after those times or things, let us apply ourselves with vigor and zeal to that business which He has assigned us, laboring to the utmost to promote His gospel, and by a diligent improvement of our time and opportunities, to prepare for his final appearance, when He shall descend from Heaven with more public splendor than He returned thither, and shall come in the glory of His Father and His own glory, with a majesty and pomp which every eye shall see, and with the sound of a trumpet, which even all the nations of the dead shall hear. In the meantime let us own His gracious presence, with His disciples, whom He left behind Him, and with admiring gratitude reflect upon the happy consequences resulting from the enjoyment of His presence. In this world we may have life through His name, and may at length receive the end of our faith in the complete salvatiou of our souls through Him, to whom, with the Father and the Eternal Spirit, be undivided honors and everlasting praises. Amen.

Yours, in Christian love,

GEORGE MARTIN.

Lancaster, May, 1849.

Letter from Bro. J. Myers, V. D. M.

Ashland, Ohio, May 29, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

This informs you and the brethren in the East, that we have finally reached this place, that is myself, wife and our three youngest children. We embarked on board the canal boat "Rochester," Capt. Anson, for Massilon, on Tuesday the 1st inst. But through some unavoidable contingencies, on my part at any rate, we did not leave Pittsburg until Thursday afternoon, 4 o'clock, the 3d. After reaching Beaver that evening we laid by over night. On the 1st my youngest son, John Wesley, took very ill with a species of Pneumonia, but was now, the 3d, better. The night at Beaver I took a severe cold, which brought on in the morning every symptom of Pleurisy. This afflicted me very much for a few days.

On Friday we navigated very slowly, reaching, by sun-down, the village of Mahoning, Lawrence county, Pa. Here I saw and conversed with some old acquaintances, formerly of Mount Joy, Lancaster county.

Powerful showers of rain now coming on successively, causing the river Mahoning and its tributaries to swell so prodigiously, that we were arrested in our course on Saturday evening at a village by the name of Nilestown, five miles below Warren, Trumbull county. Here is a Rolling-mill, also a Grist-mill and Smelting Furnace. In fact, the whole country along the Mahoning to Warren, is dotted with Furnaces, Rolling-mills, Foundries, &c., Iron Ore and Bituminous being abundant throughout this region.

At this village we were detained, owing to the high water, from Saturday evening until Wednesday following, 10 o'clock, A. M. The low-lands were not unlike a boundless sea. During our sojourn here we were insulted, especially on the Lord's day, with the coarse and vulgar talk and horrid oaths which were constantly belched forth by the half civilized denizens of the place. Although there are four meeting-houses in the village, there was no preaching all Sunday. However, in the evening we had prayer-meeting on the boat—the Captain's infidelity to the contrary notwithstanding—my brother Samuel and his family being in company.

Besides these unpleasant contingencies without, we had poor fare in the boat—especially for a sick man. I shall remember Capt. A. and his impious crew for a long time, for the treatment we received for the space of nine days, after having had promised every thing comfortable—although he charged us $4 00 per passenger.

We stopped at Cuyahoga Falls, a thriving manufacturing town five miles from Akron, the county seat, from 4 o'clock until 11 o'clock, P. M., discharging and receiving freight,—Here I saw brother Elkanah Ingraham. He resides in this place. He staid with me until the boat departed. We reached Akron, Summit county, on Friday morning before day. This is a large, splendid and flourishing town.

Here our Captain was going to tranship us to another boat, contrary to his agreement.—This displeased me, and I ordered him to unload us here, and make out his bill. This he did, for 40 cents per 100lbs. instead of 50 cents to Massilon. We engaged two teams to transport us to Ashland, to which we had yet 52 miles, via Wooster. In Wooster I learned that Mrs. Megrew was very ill and not expected to live. The shortness of stay prevented me from visiting her.

We reached Ashland, the place of our destination, on Saturday evening, the 12th inst., where we were kindly and hospitably received and entertained by brothers Fasig and Stephens and their excellent families.

On Sabbath, the 13th, I went with brother Fasig to brother Briggle's, about two miles westward. Here I preached to a house full of plain, unassuming farmers and their families. After refreshing ourselves at the hospitable and plentiful board of brother Briggle, I hastened with my two little sons, Lorenzo Dow and John Wesley, four miles further, to Olivesburg, to rejoin my wife and little daughter, Ann Maria, who had preceeded us ten days by the stage. I found them all well, only in trouble, not knowing what was detaining us. Our meeting of course was a joyful one.

Since then we have been in and about Ashland. The brethren have visited us considerable. I am exceedingly well pleased with the physical aspect of this country. But notwithstanding the richness of the soil, there is a vast territory of poor, frost-bitten grain fields, which will, to all appearance, not yield a quarter crop.

I have not preached much here, owing to my bodily infirmity. However, I have sent several appointments out into the country and one for town.

Ashland is a thriving, somewhat manufacturing, town—the seat of justice of Ashland county.

The shortness of my stay here, makes it impossible for me to know much respecting the thriving or declining state of the Churches within the bounds of the Ohio Eldership. I have things only from hear-say. However it is a pity that there is not more union and brotherly love among all the brethren in Ohio. It is a pity that there is so much hair-splitting going on—so much disputing about mere words and forms. There is much preaching in Ohio in general, but I fear too much of the polemic order, and not enough of plain, practical, matter of fact preaching—admonitions to perfect holiness in the fear of God. I will not assert this as bona fide matters of fact, but there is an impression on my mind, from what I learn, that there is too much truth in what I say.

Last Sabbath week ago I saw Elder E. West. He was in Ashland and brushed (any how he thought so) a couple of Disciple preachers. I did not hear him at his day's work, but in the evening I heard him preach a gospel sermon in the Court House. I call this last gospel preaching, because that which has only a tendency to set the people, Christians I mean, at persecuting, slandering and back-biting each other, can hardly have its origin in the peaceable fountain of the gospel, which is conspicuous for promulgating "peace on earth, and good will to man."

Brother Winebrenner, some of the brethren here are at a loss to know what is meant by an editorial article in the Advocate of the 15th inst., respecting the Greene County Church. They wish to know whether you censure that Church for excluding pro-slavery persons from Christian and Church-fellowship. They think the resolution on slavery passed by the General Eldership, goes wholesale in for such measures. Will you give some more light on that subject.*

I should have wrote better matter than what this letter contains; but as I have affliction in my family, namely: the scarlet fever, I am not greatly in the humor of writing. I will, however, God willing, give the readers of the "Church Advocate" something every now and then. By the next letter I shall have collected more things worthy of note. Till then I subscribe myself your brother and yoke-fellow in the gospel. Yours, &c.,

J. MYERS.

* Remarks.—I do not censure churches for excommunicating Slaveholders when the action of the church is regularly had, but I condemn all irregular and proscriptive proceedings. The church alluded to did not, (if we understand the matter right,) exclude Slaveholders from their communion, but those members who cast their votes in favor of Slaveholding candidates for civil offices. Now the exercise of such proscriptive power was evidently not intended to be sanctioned by the General Eldership. This is all we meant.

Letter from Brother Levi Wolfersberger, V. D. M.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

I here give you a history of my travels to the West. We left Harrisburg on the 3d of April, on a Packet, for Pittsburg, with about 150 passengers on board, including children and all. In consequence of the crowd on board we found it very unpleasant; but we arrived safe on Saturday night about 9 o'clock, We then got on a boat for St. Louis. The boat had about 400 passengers on board. We paid $8 00 from Pittsburg to St. Louis, boarding and all included. At St. Louis we took another boat to Bloomington, and paid $3 50 fare. From that we went on a wagon to Linn county, Iowa, for $2 00. The whole amount of expenses from Harrisburg to Iowa, being $24 50. We made the whole journey in two weeks.

No doubt some of the brethren would like to know how I like the country. I must say I like it well. The soil, in general, is very rich and easy to cultivate. With two horses as much can be farmed as in Pennsylvania with four, and with more ease. The buildings are not yet as convenient as in Pennsylvania, the country being new.

In regard to religion, I found that God was there as well as in Pennsylvania. I tried to preach and exhort, and God was my helper. The state of religion, however, seems, in some places of Iowa, to be in a low state. I was in Iowa city and made inquiry about religion, when I was told that the Methodists there attend balls and parties as well as the world. O! Lord, thought I, if this is Methodism, how different from what it used to be? But where I had my principal residence they are very zealous. Preachers there have to go very ragged. Perhaps if some of the brethren in the East would see them, they would give more freely to the missionary cause.

On the 20th of May I left for home, in company with brother and sister Neidig. The first day we went to Bloomington, where we remained all night. Next morning we left for Davenport. The driver upset the coach, with four of us in it, but all went off safe.—We then set up the coach and resumed our journey to Davenport. When we arrived there we had to cross the Mississippi river to Rock Island, Illinois; but it being very stormy we were somewhat afraid to cross in the sail-boat. Having no other alternative we agreed to venture it. But really it looked frightful. We sometimes thought the boat would and must capsize. The waves ran so high that the water splashed over us, so that we got quite wet. But thank God, we got over safely. The stage for Chicago being full, we were obliged to remain here over night. That evening I was attacked with the cholera; but through the aid of medicine and God's blessing, I was soon relieved. The next morning we left for Chicago in an extra wagon. We passed through the Northern part of Illinois, by the way of Dixon, &c. In this part of Illinois there is very good land. On Friday morning we arrived at Chicago, about two hours too late for the steamboat. We then had to wait till next night. Thus far it cost us $10 25. The next night we took the boat and crossed Lake Michigan to New Buffalo, in the State of Michigan. There we took the cars for Detroit, which is 225 miles by Railroad. We travelled this whole distance in eleven hours. The cars on this road are splendid. We came to Detroit in the afternoon, and then got on a boat to cross Lake Erie to Cleveland. But that night we had an awful storm. God, however, was with us, and preserved us until next morning, when we safely arrived at Cleveland, Ohio. From Chicago to Cleveland we paid only $6 00, but we had to find our boarding. We then took the stage from Cleveland to Beaver, Pa., and paid a fare of $4 00. There we took steamboat to Pittsburg, and paid 50 cents. Next day we left Pittsburg for Harrisburg, by stage and railroad, and paid $9 00. On Tuesday morning we arrived safe and sound at Harrisburg. The whole inward route occupied about 11 days, and the cost was about $38 00, boarding and fare. My whole journey cost me about $75 00: that is, including all expenses.

This, then, is a brief history of my travel, as near as I can relate it. But truly, my brother, I had to see much wickedness. Playing cards was very common, and swearing the same. I first thought it could not be that men were so audaciously wicked, and had no more respect for themselves and God.

Your brother in the Lord,

LEVI WOLFERSBERGER.

Letter from Brother D. Keplinger.

Canal Dover, Ohio, May 28, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I again resume my pen to drop a few thoughts, or ideas, for the consideration of the numerous readers of your valuable paper, the Church Advocate.

In looking over the world of mankind, we see that all are pursuing their way to the tomb; some in one course, and some another. We see the poor inebriate reeling and falling to the ground. The swearer pouring forth from his lips oath after oath. The liar and tattler telling tales and carrying news from neighbor to neighbor, until the whole vicinity is in confusion and envious one toward another. The Sabbath-breaker violating the Lord's day, which was designed for a day of rest and the true worship of God. The proud man and woman are boasting of their fine clothing and wealth, while they live in almost all the vices of the day. The backslider from God and religion, now living as a stumbling-block to the ungodly and the sinner. The infidel denying the only name given under heaven whereby we can be saved. The hypocrite deceiving himself and trying to deceive his fellow-men. The lukewarm professor of religion living at ease in Zion. All these, with thousands of others that might be named, are travelling on the unlocked wheels of time to the awful judgment, where all mankind, good and bad, must appear and give a strict and impartial account for every deed that has been done in the body.

I now appeal to my dear brethren and sisters in the Lord, to look for a moment at what God hath done for us. Summa! He has so loved us that He gave His only Son to die for us. God's Son came down to this lower world to save us all from our sins, and ultimately take us up to Heaven, there to praise Him forever. My brethren! though Jesus has come, and suffered and died, and was buried, and rose triumphant from the tomb, yet all this will profit us nothing unless we hearken and obey His revealed will, live unspotted from the world, and live as the gospel requires us to live. Then, and only then, can we expect to enjoy that happiness promised in the gospel of God.

Again, when we look abroad in the world, and see the devastation that sin and iniquity is making among the souls of our fellow-men, how, I ask, can we live so inactive and careless in our Master's cause? Oh! let me say, awake, O! Zion, from thy stupidity, and press forward to rescue the fallen sons and daughters of Adam from sin's destructive way.—This is thy indispensable duty. Take the golden rule and live according to it, and we will see the victories of the cross triumph. Then Zion shall soon prevail on land and sea. Yea, then every nation, tribe and tongue, shall see and feel the salvation of our God.

Brethren, is this not the most desirable of all things? Yes, verily. But I fear that this will not be the case, unless all the lovers of our God throw off sectarianism, malice and envy, and unite together as one in the Lord, and all do the will of God, in spirit and truth. My prayer to God is, that the time may soon come when the Lord our God shall pour out His Holy Spirit upon the people everywhere, and reformations prevail in all Christendom.

A few words more and I will close. You, my dear friends, who, in years that are gone by, used to meet at the place of worship almost every appointment; yea, through cold and heat, rain or sunshine, what shall I say to you? Let me ask, how is it now? To all human appearance, many can content themselves by going once in a great while, and in staying at home, or in visiting their neighbors and others, on the Sabbath, and talk about almost any thing but the things that belong to the salvation of their immortal souls. Oh! how our eyes grow moist with the dew of the heart, to think of the erring children of our Heaveniy Father. Oh! friends, think on your latter end; come and retract your steps if you wish to find at last a home in heaven. I ask my faithful brethren to pray for me, that I may endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

I remain yours in the bonds of love.

DAVID KEPLINGER, Jr.

Letter from Bro. J. H. Hurley, V. D. M.

Lancaster City, May 31, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

Two months have passed away since I came to this city, to fill the charge assigned me at our last Eldership. Being comfortably situated, and having a few leisure moments, I will try to improve them by dropping you a few lines, which are at your disposal.

Although not one of the elect contributors, yet I trust you will not let down the safety-valve entirely upon us.

In the first place I wish to offer a few thoughts with regard to my present lot. I am remarkably well pleased with the people of Lancaster. I met with a cordial reception by the church, and have become already very much attached to them, and trust that I may be useful among them. Yet I would prefer a circuit to a station. Covet, says Paul, the best gift. One of the best gifts bestowed by the Eldership is a circuit. I then covet a circuit; because circuit preachers have opportunities to enjoy what a stationed preacher never can: that is, to soar aloft. I do not mean with high-sounding words, or on hobbies, but over the beautiful mountains—feasting their eyes upon the beautiful landscape, and now and then slaking their thirst, in a hot, sultry day, from some of the limpid springs, as they girgle from their base. Here we inhale the pure, wholesome atmosphere, and are refreshed by the ample shade, while the little feathered songsters are warbling their notes among the branches, in praise to their maker. This itself is a little heaven; and who would exchange it for a dull, monotonous city station? While the stationed preacher retires to his study in a sultry summer day, almost suffocated with heat and a confined atmosphere, exposed to the cholera, small-pox, dyspepsy, hypochondria, and almost every other disease, the circuit preacher can take his book in hand and retire to the grove, and there engage in sweet meditation beneath the foliage of the trees.

But again: on a circuit the gospel is enjoyed in all its simplicity and power. If a brother gets happy in religion, he exercises the privilege, if he chooses, and shouts glory to God. And while in the exercise of this blood-bought privilege, he has no fears of being led to the door, or of being tapped on the shoulder, with, "Brother, don't be so loud."

Again, I would prefer a circuit to a station, because I believe that the people there have not departed so far from the old paths. On circuits they have no pewed churches, nor fiddles, nor organs, nor even choirs, consisting of some dozen individuals, a majority of whom, perhaps, are unconverted, to monopolize all the singing, while the congregation may have the precious privilege of looking on and listening to their performances.

But the principal reason why I would at any time prefer a circuit to a station is, because I am not qualified for a station. You know, Mr. Editor, that this is the best of all reasons. This, at least, is my opinion, and I think it is not mine alone. It is an old adage, and I think a very true one, that Vessels large may venture more,

But little boats should keep near shore.

It is certainly more comfortable and pleasant for a preacher to be appointed to a charge where he knows that his talents are duly appreciated, and where he may be useful in bringing souls to Christ, as well as building up the church. But then I have learned, with Paul, to be content with my lot. I think I can say, I thank God that I am where I am, and what I am.

I remain, with respect, yours as ever,

JOSIAH H. HURLEY.

Letter from Bro. A. Megrew, V. D. M.

Wooster, May 22, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I am now confined at home, and have been since the middle of April, in consequence of affliction in my family. My wife has been confined to her bed for the last five weeks.—Her disease is a complicated one, principally, however, pulmonary consumption. She is very low at this time; and yesterday her physician told me that there was no more hope for her recovery. However, this morning she appears to be a little better, and I have some little hope that she will yet recover. But the good Lord only knows, who orders all things right. This affliction is truly a severe one to me. The thought of being left with eight (principally small) children, is hard for me to be reconciled to. However, I am endeavoring to be submissive to the will of Him who knows all things best. I am not able to see my way through: but this precious promise consoles me, "The Lord will provide." The brethren have been very kind, for which they have my grateful acknowledgements.

There is one thing more that affords me comfort, mingled with the bitter cup of my afflictions, and which tends to sweeten it, at least to some considerable degree; that is, that my afflicted companion appears to be resigned to the will of her Heavenly Father; and as to her safe passport to the celestial city, I have no doubt, should it be the will of the Lord to take her from me.

I have been preaching every second Sabbath for the little church in Wooster, and brothers Deshiri and Soule the other Sabbath, so that the church now has preaching every Sabbath, and that is what it ought to have, in this place particularly.

The church is still in fine spirits. Two persons have been baptized and received into fellowship since I wrote to you last. May the Lord carry on the good work in Wooster.—Brethren pray for us. There remains much to be done yet.

I would say to those scattered brethren who have been expecting me to visit them as a missionary, that if the Lord in His Providence sees fit to open my way, I will yet visit them. It would be my delight to visit them all. I would much sooner be out blowing the gospel trumpet, than to be at home. I have realized, since confined at home, that preaching is more my element than I really thought it was.

My brethren in the ministry, in the name of the Lord set up your banners and go on. Blow the trumpet. Sound the alarm. Cry aloud—spare not. Fight manfully. Soon the crown will be given. Another valiant soldier has left the field of labor, namely, our much beloved brother S. Sherich. He has been permitted to lay his armor by, and is now reaping the reward of his labor. Brother Sherich's tour in the gospel field of labor was but short, but he labored hard, and was truly a pillar in the Church of God. Who will be the next? Is it I? Lord help me, with all my brethren, that we may have our work done, and well done, that we may have a great reward.

Amen and amen,

A. MEGREW,

Letter from Brother Isaac Webb.

Belvidere, Boon County, Illinois,
May 23, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I take my pen in hand to drop a few lines to you. We have all been well since we have lived in this Western country. We are still striving to make our way to the everlasting kingdom of God, "where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

This will inform you and the readers of your valuable paper, that the good Lord has visited us in a small prayer-meeting, where there were but five or six brethren, and where the fire of the Lord was lit up, and sinners made to tremble. This was on the first Sabbath in March. On Wednesday evening ensuing said Sabbath we appointed another prayer-meeting, not expecting any preacher. But Elder Lawrence, a Free-will Baptist, came and preached for us, and kept up the meeting eight weeks; during which time we had some precious seasons. There have been thirteen baptized by the Baptists, and eight made application to the Methodist brethren, to be immersed next Sabbath.

We have had invitations to join their churches; but this I told them I could not do: for I thought it a sin to leave the Church of God and join any other sect or people. And besides, we could read of but one Church in the word of God. The Church of God sounds new to people here.

I do wish we had a preacher of the Church of God to preach for us here. I think there would be more of a revival than there has been if we had preaching of the right kind. Alas! how long will men persist in such folly? Can they claim to be doing the work of God while they are building up sects and parties of their own? How do men, professing Christianity, expect to give an account to God for pursuing a course that is contrary to the word of God?

If there are any brethren travelling to the West, or any that live near to us, I should be happy to have them call and see us. Let them inquire for Shaddoe's Grove, Boon county, Illinois.

Enclosed you will find one dollar for the present volume of that welcome visitor, the Church Advocate.

Yours in love,

ISAAC WEBB.

Letter from Brother D. Williams.

Haysville, Ashland Co., Ohio,
May 14, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I would drop a few lines of revival news for you and the readers of the Advocate. We commenced a meeting in Bloomington township, Richland county, on the third Saturday in February, and it was continued nearly four weeks, and resulted in the hopeful conversion of twenty-one souls. There were nine baptized. The preachers in attendance were J. Neil and Wm. Adams.

The church in Bloomington township is a loving and prosperous church at present.—May the Lord bless them and add to their number daily.

We held a meeting also in Jericho, Knox county, which resulted in the conversion of four souls. This meeting commenced on the last Saturday in March, and closed on the 8th of April. I left on the 6th, to follow my appointments. Brother D. Neidigh closed the meeting, and baptized two, and administered the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's supper.

May the good Lord bless the brethren in Jericho, and save them from the very appearance of evil. I am in brother Colman's house at present, near to Lexington, and on my way to Jericho.

Yours in love,

DANIEL WILLIAMS.

OBITUARY OF Sister MAGDALENA LAUCK.

Died, near Madisonville, Wayne county, Ohio, April 20th, 1849, sister Magdalena Lauck, consort of brother Joseph Lauck, (of Pulmonary Consumption,) aged 45 years, 6 months and 24 days.

Sister L. was born September 26th, 1803, at Little York, Pa., and was married to brother Lauck, of the same place, March 1st, 1827. They were favored with three daughters, of whom one is no more.

Sister L. became convinced that she was a sinner, consequently she sought and obtained like precious faith with the saints, by an humble reliance on the merits of the Saviour, some 13 years past. Shortly after her conversion to God, she was buried with Christ in baptism, after which she identified herself with the Church of God at Madisonville; in the communion of which she lived a holy and devoted saint.

She lingered long and suffered much; but she endured her sufferings with much fortitude, and through the rich grace of Christ assisting her, she was wholly resigned to the will of her Heavenly Father.

In her near approach to death, she triumphed: yea, she gave the fullest attestation of the genuineness of that faith and hope which she was in possession of, and which enabled her to shout glory and victory over the last enemy. For several days she had complete victory.—Seldom have we witnessed a death which was in every respect so triumphant. Even in the last struggle, the nearer she approached death, the happier she grew; and while her lips quivered in death, she beheld her husband, sisters and others weeping. She cast her dying eyes upon them and said, weep not a tear. Her soul was filled with God, with holy rapture, and she exclaimed, "For we know if the earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands eternal in the heavens."

April 20th, at 4 o'clock, she gazed upon them for the last time, with an eye sunken almost in death, yet beaming with heavenly light, she fell asleep in Jesus.

Her remains were interred in a family grave yard on their own farm. A discourse was delivered on the occasion by the writer, from 2d Cor. 5: 1, 6, and followed with an exhortation in the German, by brother Eberly.

By this Providence of God, brother Lauck is bereft of an affectionate wife, the two dear children of a tender mother, and the Church of a pious and worthy sister. Howbeit, we doubt not but our loss is her eternal gain.—May we all live so as to meet our dear sister in glory.

THOMAS H. DESHIRI.

OBITUARY OF Sister HESTER MEGREW.

Died, at the residence of her husband, in Wooster, Wayne county, Ohio, sister Hester Megrew, consert of brother Archibald Megrew, of the Ohio Eldership, aged 36 years and 11 days.

Sister Hester Megrew was the daughter of John and Elizabeth Pipher, of Cumberland county, Pa., and was united in marriage to brother A. Megrew on the 8th of December, 1831. The following December she was led to the feet of Jesus, to inquire after the salvation of her soul. She sought after Him of whom Moses and the Prophets did write. She did not seek in vain, for she felt Christ speak and say, "Thy sins which are many are all forgiven, go in peace and sin no more."

She was one of the converts of the great revival that took place at Churchtown many years ago. She was baptized, and was one of the number that formed the first Church that was organized at Churchtown. She retained her standing there until the fall of 1836, when she removed with her family to Richland county, Ohio, where she resumed her identity with the Church of God, and continued her membership at that place until the spring of 1843, when it became her lot to be moved from place to place, and share the perplexities and privations of an itinerant minister's wife.

Sister M. truly was a daughter of affliction. The disease with which she was afflicted was Pulmonary Consumption. She suffered much—she suffered long—having been indisposed for the last year; but more particularly for the last three months. But her sufferings now have forever ceased.

Sister Megrew was a lady and a saint. Her disposition was calm, sweet and Christian-like—a model for the imitation of all Christians. To sit under the ministration of God's word, was to her a little heaven. The praying circle was delightsome to her soul. She was a peaceable neighbor and an affectionate companion. This she evinced during her last illness several times, by the affectionate and wise admonitions she imparted to her deeply afflicted husband. Oh! how affecting, how soul-rending and yet comforting her prayers. More than once did she importune her God that her kind husband might have grace to encounter the loss he would be called to sustain, as well as enable him to rear up their children in the fear of the Lord.

Sister Megrew has left a kind husband and eight dear children, with a large number of relatives and friends, to mourn her departure. But their loss is her eternal gain.

THOMAS H. DESHIRI.

OBITUARY OF Sister ELIZABETH STROCK.

Died, on the 17th of April, 1849, sister Elizabeth Strock, daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth Strock, of Churchtown, Cumberland county, Pa., aged 33 years, 4 months and 21 days.

Sister Strock embraced religion about 18 years ago, and since that has adorned her profession by a Godly walk and conversation, that even the world had to confess that indeed and in truth she was a Christian. Her affliction, which terminated her existence, was Consumption, which she bore with Christian fortitude, even to the end. She conversed freely on her departure, and expressed a willingness to die.

Her afflictions, which she bore for five long years, ended her natural life on the 17th of April, about 10 o'clock in the morning. When visited by her sisters a few days previous to her departure, she told them not to weep for her when they heard of her death, for she was willing to go and be with Jesus, who would soon send for her. On the morning of her departure, her parents noticing that her strength was failing, they remained by her bedside, and to whom she talked of Jesus until her strength was gone; and when unable to speak, she clapped her hands as if to let them know that all was well, even down through the valley and shadow of death.

In sister Strock's death the Church of God at Churchtown has lost an exemplary member; but Oh! may they all strive to meet her in heaven, where she has gone to enjoy the company of the faithful.

Her funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Murray, of Dillstown, and Elder Wm. Hinney, of Mechanicsburg.

J. C. S.

OBITUARY OF JOHN B. C. REDSECKER.

Died, at Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, Pa., on Wednesday May 23d, 1849, John Butler Cameron Redsecker, youngest son of Jacob Redsecker, Esq., aged 2 years, 6 months and 27 days.

Sorrow, care, disappointment had not yet crossed his pathway, before the bud planted on earth, began to bloom perennially in heaven. Possessed of extraordinary powers of mind for one so young, too glorious to be defiled on earth by sin, God chose him thus early as an angel to sing around his throne. Caressed, beloved, and cherished as a priceless gem, God in his wisdom took him, to call in loudest tones to those that loved him most, to meet him above the skies, where they can see him again, love him, and enjoy his company forever. A mother and two brothers have met in heaven, never to be parted. Will his father, sisters and brothers prepare to meet them there? Thus God often calls the innocent and spares the guilty. It will not be so always.

G. R.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

American Consuls Abroad.—The N. York Tribune contains a statement of the official income of our consuls abroad, by which it appears that no consulate is at present worth $10,000. The largest amount received is by the consul at Liverpool, who in 1845 received $9,965 05. The consulates at Rio de Janeiro and at London, are also worth $9,000. The next best are the consulates at Havana and Glasgow, both of which yield annually upwards of $6000. St. Thomas and the Sandwich Islands each yield $4000; six other posts yield $2000 per annum; eighteen are worth 1000; and the remainig nninety consulates range from $900 to $400 per annum, much the largest portion of them being worth less than $500. The consul at Alexandria, in Egypt, receives a salary of $3,600. Three consuls on the coast of Barbary each receive a salary of $2000, and five in China receive a salary of $1000 a year, each.

Extraordinary Surgical Operation.—We learn, says the Boston Journal, that Dr. Warren, of this city, recently took from the stomach of an Irish girl, at the Mass. General Hospital, by means of an incision, a tape worm forty-one feet and eleven inches in length! The operation was performed while the sufferer was under the influence of ether. She observed, on coming to her senses, "Oh! I have had a pleasant dream, and feel relieved." The wound was dressed with great care, and she has scarcely complained of pain since the operation. This, we are told, is the only case on record, where the tape worm has been literally cut from the human stomach.

Plank Roads.—Plank Roads are multiplying rapidly in different parts of the U. States, or rather in the old States.—They are reported by many of our exchanges to be well adapted for the purposes intended—safety and expedition, at a comparatively small cost. The interest arising from stock invested is proving to be no small item of gain.

Astor Library.—John Jacob Astor left by his will $400,000 to the city of New York for a free library. The Trustees have applied to the Legislature for an act of incorporation. The building, as specified by Mr. Astor, is to cost $123,000.

Longevity.—A lady, Mrs. Anne McMillan, died on the 24th ult., at Bellefountain, Logan county, Ohio, aged 124 years and 3 months.

Cholera at Independence, Mo.—The Cholera is sweeping everything before it. Gloom reigns on every side. Business is at a complete stand. All the Californians have left in affright. The Cholera rages so extensively among some of the emigranting parties, that they do not even stop to bury their dead. Corpses are found, wrapped in their winding sheets, lying along the road, in heaps of five and six together. The scene on every side is painful and horrible in the extreme.

The Cholera has appeared among the Mormous at Council Bluff, and is committing fearful ravages.

The California emigrants are also suffering greatly from the Cholera.

Buffalo and Pennsylvania State Line Railroad.—A preliminary survey of the route of the Buffalo and Pennsylvania State Line Railroad is to be made immediately, under the direction of William Wallace, the Superintendent of the Buffalo and Attica road. The Buffalo Republic is urging upon the corporation of that city a subscription of $500,000 to the Railroad from Buffalo to Erie. The Buffalonians, and all on the line from that city to Erie, are busy obtaining stock for a Railroad between those two points.

Fruit and Crops.—The Ohio papers now state that the fruit in that region is far from being all destroyed. From other States the report is equally favorable In fact vegetation will stand a great deal of cold without being injured, and the crops are found to have in a great measure recoverd from the recent frost, which did more injury to the insects than to the plants. The wheat crop in every county in Wisconsin is said to be remarkably promising. The same is said of Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio.

Galena and Chicago Railroad.—Twelve hundred and twenty one passengers have been carried on this road during the month of April. The road is now finished twelve miles, or one mile beyond the Des Plaines river. Workmen are busy in building the superstructure and laying the rails.

Methodist Book Concern.—From a recent exhibition of this vast establishment, in New York, its assets appear to be $643,217 60, while its liabilities amount to $8,403 94 only. The profits of the concern are annually divided among the several Conferences.

Minesota.—It is stated that this new territory already contains 10,000 inhabitants, and the belief is expressed that before the close of the present year, the number will exceed 30,000.

Election of Postmasters.—The Senate of Wisconsin have passed a resolution in favor of an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, to give to the people the power to elect postmasters.

A New Motive Power.—The subject of the patent has the advantage of possessing greater expansive power than steam, and being at the same time more controllable and requiring less machinery. It is of the nature of gun cotton, and is used in dipping any kind of vegetable fibre for 11 or 15 minutes into nitric acid, strengthened by an admixture of an equal quantity of sulphuric acid, then well washed with pure water, and dried about two hours.—By this process the vegetable fibres become highly explosive. The gasses envolved consists chiefly of carbonic acid and carbonic oxide, both permanently elastic, so that passing through cold air or water, they do not collapse, but will follow up the piston to the utmost limit of its work.

In using this material neither fire nor water is required, and it creates neither smoke nor any offensive effluvia, and with the exception of a slight moisture or pure vapor, it leaves no residium behind.

Death of Maj. Gen. Worth.—It is with unaffected sorrow that we have received the announcement of the sudden death of the brave and distinguished General W. J. Worth. It is stated in the New Orleans papers that he died of cholera, on the 7th inst., at San Antonio de Bexar, in Texas. There was not a braver spirit in all the ranks of his chivalrie profession than his, nor will the military history of his country contain any pages more bright than those in which his name, with others of his gallant companions in arms, is conspicuously and imperishably inscribed.

Remedy for Cholera Morbus.—A New York paper gives the following recipe as infallible in a case of cholera morbus: Take equal quantities of nutmeg, cloves and mace, one-half ounce each, and add half a pint of genuine brandy, and cork it up tight in a bottle. In the course of a few days the admixture will be fit for use, which is done by dropping from ten to fifteen drops upon a small lump of loaf sugar.

Specie.—The N. Y. Tribune says: "The specie in the down-town and up-town banks has been counted, and reaches $8,238,000. This is an increase of $4,000,000, or nearly 100 per cent., since 31st March, when the amount was 4,000,000. there is also in the sub-treasury to day $2,107,800, making a total of $10,345,000 in the city. The banks have many of them more than they want.

Important Decision.—The supreme court of Illinois has recently decided that an act of the legislature creating a new county, upon the votes of a majority of the people of the district being cast in favor of the measure, is constitutional.

☞ John H. Witherspoon has been appointed Appraiser at the port of Philadelphia, vice Mr. Carpenter.

Remarkable Temperance Law.—A stringent bill relating to intoxicating drinks has been passed by the Wisconsin Legislature, consisting of ten sections. It requires all persons who would vend or retail "spirituous liquors," to give bond to the town authorities, with three sureties, in $1000, "conditional to pay the damages the community or indivdinals may sustain by reason of such traffic; to support all paupers, widows and orphans; pay the expenses of all civil and criminal prosecutions made, growing out of, or justly attributable to such traffic." And it is made the duty of the officer holding the bond to deliver it to "any person who may claim to be injured by said traffic.

Monster Apple Tree.—There is an apple tree on the estate of Mr. Joseph Briggs, on Federal Hill, in the town of Dedham, supposed to be about one hundred years old, which measures thirteen feet in circumference, one foot from the ground. Its branches cover an area of about sixty feet in diameter. This tree is second only to that in Duxbury, which is sixteen feet in diameter, a foot above the surface of the ground, is over one hundred years old, and bore in one year fruit which made ten barrels of cider, in addition to thirty barrels of apples put into the cellar.

Boston Traveller.

To Drive away Rats.—Mr. Charles Pierce of Milton, pounded up potash and strewed it around their holes, and rubbed some on the sides of the boards and under parts where they came through. The next night he heard a squeaking among them, which he supposed was from the caustic nature of the potash that got among their hair or on their bare feet. They disappeared, and he has not been troubled with them since that time, which was nearly a year ago.—Boston Cult.

Important Discovery.—Dr .Merryman, of Springfield, Ill., says the St. Louis Organ, has invented a process by which butter may be packed and kept for any necessary length of time, in any climate, and under any circumstances, in a state perfectly sweet, without salt or any other chemical agent. Butter prepared in this way has been kept for two years, apparently as fresh and sweet as when taken from the churn.

True Progress.—The people of Massachusetts voluntarily taxed themselves last year, one million of dollars, for the support of the Common Schools. There is not a native born child in the State, old enough to learn, who cannot read and write.

Emigrants.—The packet ship New World arrived at New York from Liverpool with 700 steerage passengers, a larger number than was ever brought in any one ship.—Not a case of sickness occurred during the passage.

Missions in Oregon.—The Methodist Missions embrace six missionaries and twelve or fifteen local preachers. There are two Presbyterian Churches and one Congregational, with seven clergyman; the Baptists have two ministers and Churches, the Cumberland Presbyterians three, the Seceders two, the Campbellites one, and the Catholic priests are numerous.

History of the Bible Society.—The Harpers have in press, and will publish shortly, a history of the American Bible Society, from its organization to the present time, by Rev. W. P. Strickland, one of the Society's Agents, with an introduction by Dr. Rice, of Cincinnati. It will form an octavo volume; and be embellished with a likeness of the Hon. Elias Boudinot, L. L. D., first President of the Society.

Washington Monument.—It is the intention of the Board of Managers of the Washington Monument to have, as far as practicable, a specimen of the marble or granite of each State in the monument, and the name of the State from which it comes engraved upon it.

☞ A lump of gold, worth nearly fifteen hundred dollars, was picked up a few days since at a mine near Dalton, Georgia, by a poor laborer. Another lump, yet larger, has been found at the same place.

☞ The Hon. Daniel Duncan, late member of Congress from Ohio, who has been ill at Washington ever since the adjournment of the late session, died in that city on Friday evening, the 25th ult.

☞ Passengers are now conveyed from Cincinnati to the city of New York in three days and a half. The route is by the Lakes, Buffalo and Albany.

MISCELLANEOUS.

STATISTICS OF MONARCHY.

The year 1848 has witnessed more changes among the European sovereigns than even the year 1830. The aggregate of sovereigns has been reduced from 47 to 33. There is but one over 70 years of age, King Ernest Augustus, of Hanover. Six monarchs have made a voluntary or forcible abdication of the power, viz: Louis Philippe, on the 24th of February; Louis, of Bavaria, on the 21st of March; Charles Price of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, on the 29th of April; Henri LXII., Prince of Reuss Lobenstein Eberdoff, on the 1st of October; Joseph, Duke of Saxe Altenbourgh, on the 30th of November; and Ferdinand I, of Austria, on the 2d of December. The Dukes of Modena and Parma have been forced to abdicate by their subjects; but the first has recovered his power, and the duchy of the second is governed in his name by the Austrians. Three reigning princes have died—Christian VII., of Denmark, on the 20th of January; Louis I, Grand Duke of Hesse Darmstadt, on the 16th of June; and Gustavus Landgrave of Hesse Homberg, on the 8th of September.

SANITORY REGULATIONS FOR CHOLERA.

We copy the following sanitory regulations from the forthcoming number of the Louisville Journal of Medicine and Surgery:—

Let every impurity, animal and vegetable, be quickly removed to a distance from the habitations, such as slaughter-houses, pig sties, and all other domestic nuisances.

Let all uncovered drains be carefully and frequently cleansed.

Let the grounds in and around the habitations be drained, so as effectually to carry off moisture of every kind.

Let all partitions be removed from within and without habitations which unnecessarily impede ventilation.

Let every room be thrown open for the admission of fresh air; and this should be done about noon, when the atmosphere is most likely to be dry.

Let dry scrubbing be used in domestic cleansing in place of water cleansing.

Let excessive fatigue and exposure to damp and cold, especially during the night, be avoided.

Let the use of cold drinks and acid liquors especially under fatigue, be avoided; or when the body is heated.

Let a poor diet, and the use of impure water in cooking or for drink be avoided.

Let the wearing of wet and insufficient clothing be avoided.

Let a flannel or woolen belt be worn around the body.

Let personal cleanliness be carefully observed.

Let every cause tending to depress the moral and physical energies be carefully avoided: let exposure to extremes of heat and cold be avoided.

Let sleeping in low or damp rooms be avoided.

Let fires be kept up during the night in sleeping or adjoining apartments, the night being the period of the most danger from attack, especially under exposure to cold or damp.

Let bedding and clothing be daily exposed during winter and spring to the fire, and in summer to the heat of the sun.

FEELING WHAT YOU GIVE.

The Rev. Daniel Baker, in his report of a missionary tour in the State of Texas, very pithily remarks: "Methinks one reading this report says—"Well, I will give five dollars to the cause of domestic missions. I can give this amount and not feel it." Suppose, my Christian brother, you give twenty, and feel it. Your Saviour felt what he did for you. A remark of this kind, once heard from the pulpit, thrilled through my whole soul, and made me do more than empty my purse; I borrowed from a friend. The idea of feeling what I gave was delightful.

STEWED CELERY.

The editor of the Horticulturist gives the following mode of cooking celery, and from long experience of its merits, recommends it as a delicious dish: "Cut the blanched or white portion of the celery stalks in pieces about an inch in length, and put them in a sauce-pan over the fire, with milk and water in equal proportions, barely sufficient to cover them; add a little salt, and let them stew gently until perfectly tender. Then take out the celery, add a piece of butter to the liquid it was boiled in, thicken it slightly with flour, pour it over the celery and serve it up."

ELECTRIC LIGHT—A SUBSTITUTE FOR LAMPS.

The idea of producing lights that should displace the use of lamps by means of the galvanic battery, is not new. It was spoken of as a probable attainment thirty years ago. So attempts to propel machinery by steam were made long before steamboats were invented. But electrical lights give promise soon of being a practical reality.

We have previously alluded to the experiments in progress in London by Mr. Staits. He has brought his apparatus to procure such results as to have created no small panic in the gas companies of London. His apparatus consists of an ordinary Voltaic battery, having an hundred cells. To each wire or pole is attached a piece of carbon artificially prepared. The light is produced by first bringing the points of these two pieces into contact, and then setting them a small distance apart—the dtstance varying with the intensity of the eleetric current. His model battery produces a light equal to 800 wax eandles; and what is especially wonderful about it is, that all this is done at less than no expense. The aparatus is actually making money while it produces the light; for the materials used in the battery to excite the electrical action, undergo a chemical change, which enhances their value as an article of merchandize. This invention unquestionably promises the most important result.—N. E. Puritan.

A CHILD OVER THE FALLS.

Two or three weeks since, a party of little children were playing by the brink of the Niagara River. There was a boat partly drawn up on the shore, and the children in their play were jumping in and out of it, when it suddenly slipped out into the waves, bearing one little boy with it toward the foaming rapids.

It was the Sabbath, and the Churches were just coming out, when the alarm was given that a child was going over the falls. The poor mother of the little boy reached the shore among the first, and saw her darling child drifting out in the rapids. A good swimmer might then have saved him, but the only man near her could not swim, and before others came he was beyond the reach of aid. The little fellow stood up in the boat, and stretched out his arms toward his mother, calling "Mamma, mamma, take me: I want to come to you, mamma;" while the poor frantic mother ran screaming and shrieking along the shore, beseeching those near to save her child.

But nothing could be done; it was a hopeless case. A thrill of horror ran through the crowd, as the boat struck a rock, and was upset, and the little fellow was seen no more till his body was picked up twenty miles below the falls.

After hearing an account of this sad event, which came from one who witnessed it, I saw, in my mind,s eye, another scene far more sad and terrible, and which should cause in our hearts a deeper and more intense interest than did this scene at Niagara.

I see hundreds of immortal beings drifting down the rapids of time toward the fearful precipice over which they will plunge into eternity. Heedless of approaching danger, they are hurried on, till suddenly they strike an unseen rock, disappear, and are seen no more. There is a time when they might be saved, if friends were to put forth all their efforts; but those who stand by seem not to see the danger, and raise not the warning voice. O how strange! how unaccountable is this apathy! If their danger was to be seen as plainly as was that of the child drifting toward the cataract, what efforts would be made, what shrieks, what prayers, what warnings to them, what cries to God for deliverance!

If, my young friend, you have not given your heart to the Savior, if you are not in reality a Christian; even though all may seem smooth and pleasant around you, you are surely and certainly drifting on, and will soon be in the fearful rapids. But, remember, that you are not yet beyond the reach of safety. There is a strong Arm stretched out, upon which you may seize, and be drawn from those waves, and your feet placed firmly upon the "Rock of ages." There, and there alone, you will be safe; the billows may dash and foam around you, but they can never disturb that "firm foundation," or harm him who rests his hopes thereon. O seek that Rock in time, for the dreadful precipice is just before you, and you know not at what moment you may strike an unseen rock, and disappear from human sight for ever!—American Messenger.

ANTIDOTE TO POISON.

A correspondent of the London Literary Gazette, alluding to the numerous cases of deaths from accidental poisoning, and particularly the melancholly fate of the late Royal Academian, Mr. Owen, adds—"I venture to affirm, there is scarce even a cottage in this country that does not contain an invaluable, certain, immediate remedy for such events; nothing more than a desert spoonful of made mustard, mixed in a tumbler of warm water, and drunk immediately. It acts as an instantaneous emetic, is always ready, and may be used with safety in any case where one is needed. By making this ample antidote known, you may be the means of saving many a fellow creature from an untimely end.

MOHAMMEDAN COMMANDMENTS.

There are six commandments in the Mohammedan religion, viz: 1. There is no Diety but God; 2. There is no Prophet but Mohammed, he is God's Apostle; 3. To fast during Ramadan every day; 4. To pray and practice ablutions five times a day; 5. To apply two-and-a-half per cent. of their property to the poor; 6. To make a pilgrimage to Mekkeh and Mount Ararat. Its most important duties are praying, alms-giving, fasting, and pilgrimage. The hours of prayer are five: 1. At sunset; 2. When the evening has closed, and it is quite dark; 3. At daybreak, on the first faint appearance of light in the east; 4. At noon; 5. About mid-time, between noon and nightfall.

PRESIDENT TAYLOR'S OPINION OF THE BIBLE.

The Bible is the best of books, and I wish it were in the hands of every one. It is indispensable to the safety and permanence of our institutions; a free government cannot exist without religion and morals; and there cannot be morals without religion, nor religion without the Bible. Especially should the Bible be placed in the hands of the young. It is the best school book in the world. I can remember what I learned when a child, far better than what I read now, and I would that all of our people were brought up under the influence of that holy book.

POETRY.

MORNING.

BY H. J. BEYERLE, M. D.

Hark! Hark! The birds are singing
Their charming morning lays,
And ev'ry bush is ringing
With sweetest songs of praise.

The azure-colored mountain,
The green and balmy plain,
The rippling crystal fountain,
The heaving restless main,

The cooling morning breezes,
The dew-clad blushing rose,
All, all, unite in praises
To HIM from whom all flows.

Why should not we the story
Prolong, while life-time lasts?
And spread abroad His glory
Through songs and trumpet-blasts?

Why should we not be kneeling
In ashes and in dust?
And worship Him with feeling,
And in Him build and trust?

Is not His care and kindness
Seen, felt, in ev'ry place?
Then why should we in blindness
Reject His proffered grace?

Yet many reel in rudeness,
In evil ways and sin,
Forgetting that His goodness
Their hearts and minds should win.

Oh! that the word Salvation
Were lisped by ev'ry tongue,
And ev'ry land and nation
Were torn from sin and wrong!

Linglestown, June, 1849.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 11th of April, by A. Swartz, V. D. M., Mr. HENRY H. LENT to Miss SARAH WELCH, of Middletown.

On the 31st ult., by the same, Mr. DAVID REED to Miss ADALINE PLATTS, both of Portsmouth.

On the 22d of March, by C. Price, V. D. M., Mr. WILLIAM JAYLOR, of Perry county, to Miss LEAH GESELMON, of Carroll county, Md.

On the 22d ult., by Rev. C. W. Schæffer, Mr. MICHAEL ULRICH, of Dauphin county, to Miss ELIZABETH HOOVER, of Cumberland county.

On the 27th ult., by the same, Mr. JOHN GERBER to Miss SUSANNAH YOUNG, both of Lancaster county.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On Saturday May 26, ROGER H., only son of brother Joseph and sister Ellen Lingle, in the 6th year of his age.

On the Friday the 1st inst., CECELIA KURTZ, daughter of David and Elizabeth Kurtz, in the 5th year of her age.

Both of the above named children were regular scholars in the Bethel Sabbath School. How solemn to think that the dreaded tyrant, death, could not be induced to spare those innocent buds not yet fully open. The skill of physicians, with the prayers and tears of parents, teachers and fellow-scholars, all fail to melt his frozen heart. But how consoling to reflect that death shall not always hold them under his empire and dominion.

They shall rise in robes more bright
Than day's most unclouded light,
And with lustre all divine,
In immortal splendor shine.

Parents, teachers, scholars, then,
Your steps above you should bend,
To meet those ties gone before,
To Canaan's blest, peaceful shore.

G. U. HARN.

In Lisburn, Cumberland county, on Wednesday the 2d of May, WILLIAM, son of Abraham and Mary Wagner, aged 16 years, 6 months and 10 days.

The deceased had lingered with sickness for some months, and was not ignorant of his near approaching dissolution. About ten days prior to his dismiss, his faith became so perfect that he realized pardon through the blood of Jesus. His last audible devotions were—

I am glad that I was born to die,
From grief and woe my soul shall fly.

The funeral obsequies were performed by the writer, and sermon preached from, "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death."

How sad to see a manly form
Slain by the scythe of death,
Or fall before the scourging storm
Of pestilential breath.

But kings and monarchs on their thrones,
With beggars at their feet,
Shall lay their wealth and honors down,
On common grounds to meet.

No sounding names, or titles fair,
Distinction then shall make,
Nor auburn lock, nor hoary hair,
Will death a ransom take.

G. U. HARN.

On Saturday the 31st of March, sister ELLEN, wife of brother Daniel Fleagle, aged 43 years, 2 months and 13 days.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Protracted Meetings on the Dauphin Circuit.

By leave of Providence, the following Protracted Meetings will be held on the Dauphin Circuit, viz:

Matamoras, June 16; Stumpstown, June 23.

Protracted Meeting.

A Protracted Meeting will be held, deo volente, in the Harrisburg Bethel, commencing on Saturday evening, the 16th inst.

G. U. HARN.

Woods-meeting.

A Woods-meeting will be held near brother Bolden's, Hancock county, Ohio, commencing on the 15th of August.

Camp-meeting.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the farm of brother John Stump, on the old camp-ground, two miles east of Bethleham, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 22d of August.

The brethren generally are invited to attend, particularly the latter meeting, with their tents. It will be expected that the brethren of Wayne county will attend with their tents, inasmuch as there is no camp on their circuit this year.

A. MEGREW,
On behalf of the Committee.

Elders' Meeting.

The Elders of the several churches on the Cumberland circuit are requested to meet in the Union Bethel at Mechanicsburg on Wednesday, the 20th inst., at 3 o'clock, P. M. precisely, to agree upon the time and place of holding a Camp-meeting.

WM. H. MULLENIX.
JOHN C. SEABROOKS.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 00	a 4	12½
Do. Rye, do. - -	2 25	a 2	37
Do. Corn, do. - -	2 20	a 2	25
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	95	a	97
Do. Rye, do. - -	48	a	50
Do. Corn, new do. - -	47	a	48
Do. Oats, do. - -	27	a	28
Do. Barley, do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 00	a 3	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	3 00	a 3	25
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - - -	5 00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - - -	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -	7	a	8
BUTTER, do. - - - - -	12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -	7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -	50	a	60
ONIONS, do. - - -	75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -	37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - - -	1 30	a 1	31
HAY, per ton, - - - - -	12 00	a15	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -	4 00	a 4	50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 50	a 4	62
Do. Rye, do. -	2 75	2 a	80
Do. Corn, do. - -	2 70	a 2	75
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	1 04	a 1	05
Do. Rye, do. - -	56	a	58
Do. Corn, new do. - -	60	a	61
Do. Oats, do. - -	32	a	34
Do. Barley, do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 00	a 3	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 75	a 3	00
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt., - - - -	7 00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - - -	7 00	a 7	25

Tract of Land for Sale.

THE undersigned wishes to sell at private sale, a small tract of land, containing about 30 acres, situated in the village of Andersonstown, York county, Pa.

The improvements thereon are a two story DWELLING HOUSE, 20 by 32 feet; a Log Barn, with Wagon-shed attached to it; a Blacksmith-shop, 20 by 30 feet, with Coal-house attached; together with other out-buildings: such as Mill-house, Pig-stye, Bake-oven, &c.

Also, a thriving young Orchard, and various other fruit trees, with a Pump between the house and shop, and an excellent and never-failing Spring of water a few hundred yards distant from the house.

The whole tract is in a fine state of cultivation, fenced off in small fields, with two acres of wood-land on the premises, and five acres of wood-land in a separate lot, situated about one-fourth of a mile from the 30 acre tract. This lot will be sold with the main tract, or separate, as may best suit the purchaser. Possession and a good title will be given to the purchaser on the first of April, 1850.

PETER KNISELY.

June 1, 1849.—tf.

Dow's Family Medicine.

AS sundry persons, here and there, are beginning to complain of Bilious Fevers, Dysentery, Fever & Ague, &c., we would advise them to call and get Dow's Medicine, which is a most excellent remedy for these and other complaints.

For sale at the office of the Church Advocate. Price 50 cents per bottle. Aug. 1.

Agents Wanted.

SUITABLE persons can find employment for the sale of the "He Pasa Ekklesia," in this and other States. Apply to the Editor of the Advocate.

McAllister's All-Healing Ointment,

OR THE

WORLD'S SALVE.

Contains NO MERCURY or other MINERAL.

From the Reading Eagle.

"There was never, perhaps a medicine brought before the public, that has in so short a time won such a reputation as "McAllister's All Healing or World's Salve."—Almost every person that has made trial of it, speaks warmly in its praise. One has been cured by it, of the most painful Rheumatism; another of the Piles, a third of a troublesome pain in the side, a fourth of a swelling in the limbs, &c. If it does not give immediate relief in every case, it can never do injury, being applied outwardly. As another evidence of the wonderful healing power possessed by this salve, we subjoin the following certificate, from a respectable citizen of Maidencreek, township, in this county.

Maidencreek, Berks Co., March 30, '47.

Messrs. Ritter & Co.—I desire to inform you that I was entirely cured of a severe pain in the back, by the use of M'Allister's All-Healing Salve, which I purchased from you. I suffered with it about 20 years, and at night was unable to sleep. During that time I tried various remedies, which were prescribed for me by physicians and other persons, without receiving any relief, and at last made trial of this Salve with a result favorable beyond expectation. I am now entirely free from the pain, and enjoy at night a sweet and peaceful sleep. I have also used the salve since, for tooth ache and other complaints, with similar happy results. Your friend,

JOHN HOLLENBACH."

I certify that I have used "M'Allisters All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, or the World's Salve," for a healing in a my wife's breast, which has done her incalculable benefit. Also, on one of my children for Sore Eyes, which gave immediate relief. I therefore recommend it as a good medicine, to all desirous of trying it. PARKER REED.

Morris tp., Wash. co., Aug. 21, 1847.

I certify that I have used McAllister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, for coldness of my feet—also for Rheumatism in my limbs, and Corns on my feet, and have been entirely relieved. Believing it to be a good medicine, I do not hesitate to recommend it in the above complaints. LEONARD VAILE.

☞ Around the box are directions for using McAllister's Ointment for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Erysipelas, Tetter, Chilblain, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Nervous Affections, Pains, Disease of the Spine, Head Ache, Asthma, Deafness, Ear Ache, Burns, Corns, all Diseases of the Skin, Sore Lips, Pimples, &c., Swelling of the limbs, Sores, Rheumatism, Piles, Cold Feet, Croup, Swelled of Broken Breast, Tooth Ache, Ague in the Face, &c., &c.

☞ This Ointment is good for any part of the body or limbs when inflamed. In some cases it should be applied often.

CAUTION—No OINTMENT will be genuine unless the name of James M'Allister, is written with a pen on every label.

☞ PRICE, 25 CENTS PER BOX. ☜

JAMES M'ALLISTER,
Sole Proprietor of the above Medicine.

Principal Office No. 28 North THIRD street, Philadelphia.

AGENTS: Geo. H. Bell, Harrisburg; M. Lutz, do.; Jacob Bener, Middletown; George Ross, Elizabethtown; M. M'Barren, Portsmouth; J. & L. Reigel, Mechanicsburg; G. W. Singiser, Churchtown; Smith & Henry, Lebanon; C. Roth, Bloomfield; Jacob Keiser, Petersburg; J. M. Beatty, Pottsville; Samuel P. Sterret, Mount Joy; Henry Thatcher, Newport; Wm. Jackson, New Buffalo; Brown & Ritter, Pittsburg; John Lloyd, Mount Pleasant; Jacob Welty, Greensburg; Edward Scull, Shippensburg; John Diller, Newville; and sold by our Agents in every town in the State.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;

ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the couclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

THOMSONIAN MEDICINE STORE.

REMOVAL.

DR. W. BARR begs leave to inform the citizens of Harrisburg and vicinity, and the public in general, that he has removed his Medicine Store to the N. W. corner of WALNUT and SECOND streets, where he now has, and constantly keeps on hand, a general assortment of

Thomsonian Medicines, Medical Books, Instruments, &c., &c.,

together with his well known preparations for the cure of Rheumatism, Tetter, Scald or Sore Head, Itch, or any eruption of the Skin, Sore Mouth or Throat, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Liver Complaint, Coughs, Colds, Headache, Costiveness, Sore Eyes, Fever and Ague, Influenza, Erysipelas, &c., &c., &c. No cure no pay.

Thankful for past favors, he respectfully solicits a continuance of public patronage.

☞ All orders thankfully received and punctually attended to.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—3m.

DAGUERREAN GALLERY.

"Secure the shadow, ere the substance fade."

THE DAGUERREAN ROOMS of DR. BARR & SON have also been removed to the North West corner of SECOND and WALNUT streets, (up stairs,) where they will be happy to see their old patrons, and all others who feel desirous of having a life-like portrait of themselves or relatives taken in a superior and unsurpassed style. Visit their gallery and see their beautiful and artistical specimens, taken and put up in the latest improvement of the art—faithful likenesses, delineating every feature and expression of nature in almost life itself.

From the experience of the Doctor, and the close observations of the artiste of the profession, they flatter themselves that they will be enabled to please every one that may favor them with their patronage.

Likenesses taken as well in cloudy as clear weather, and persons are not required to sit more than once, unless they desire it. Come on, Ladies and Gentlemen,

For sometimes our friends die and leave us,
And then, O how sad we oft feel;
But if they a true likeness give us,
On their mem'ry with pleasure we dwell.

Then hasten to BARRS' all ye people,
Before ye have reason to grieve;
The cost you will find it but little,
And to all satisfaction they'll give.

☞ Pictures taken for from $1 to $10, according to size, number of group, finish, &c.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—4t.

PROSPECTUS

OF A

New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches

OF THE

First One Hundred Ministers

OF THE

Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

JOB PRINTING

NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., JULY 2, 1849. NUMBER 5.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Fourteen.

Names.	Am't paid	Names.	Am't paid
Adams Margaret	$1 00	Hicks Josiah-B	$1 25
Ayres John	1 00	Keller Wm	1 00
Augustine J A	1 00	Keller Levi W	1 00
Ashton Thomas	1 00	Kiser Jacob G	1 00
Anglemyer Joseph	1 00	Kelly Henry	1 00
Bear Nancy	1 00	Knisely Samuel	1 00
Bricker Samuel	1 00	Lingle David	1 00
Barkstresser David	1 00	L gue Mary Jane	1 00
Burger Michael S	1 00	Miller Jacob (vol 14 & 15)	2 44
Bollinger Abraham	1 25	Mots David	1 00
Baker William C	1 00	Myers John	1 25
Berlet Jacob	1 00	Miller Christian	1 00
Bricker Julian	1 00	Mountz Jacob	1 25
Boyer David	1 00	Metzger Geo	25
Brown John	1 00	Overholser Christian	1 00
Byers Daniel	1 00	Rosen Charlotte	1 00
Bossler Elizabeth	1 00	Ross Ayres	1 25
Bear Ephraim	1 25	Remley Wm	1 00
Bankson Jane	1 00	Ross Christian	1 00
Campbell Geo	1 00	Reed Henry	50
Croft George	1 00	Snaff Wm A	1 00
Dintsman Adam	1 25	Smith Samuel	1 00
Diehl Simon	1 25	Sivits Geo	1 00
Donley John J	1 25	Scheaffer E	1 00
Fleiser Henry	1 00	Stouffer Samuel	1 00
Furrey John	1 00	Singiser Geo W	1 25
Fetterman Andrew	1 00	Swisser Ann	1 00
Fetterman David	1 00	Snyder John	1 00
Ferguson James	50	Starret Rachael	1 25
Foreman Samuel	1 00	Tucker Noah	2 00
Funk Jno B & David A	1 00	Trout Jacob	1 00
French Mary A	25	Umsted Joel	1 25
Grose Solomon	1 00	Wagoner Wm	1 00
Grose Samuel	1 00	Will Elizabeth	1 00
Gilford Isaac	1 00	Winsler Wm	1 00
Geyer Henry	1 00	Webb Isaac	1 00
Geistwhite Moses	1 00	Wollersberger Levi	1 00
Gardner Peter	1 25	Wykert Nicholas	1 00
Himes Henry	1 00	Wykert Richard	1 00
Hertman Jacob	1 00	Yan Lewis	1 25

Cholera Medicine.

Those who may want to purchase Cholera Medicine, can address the Editor, Advocate Office, Harrisburg, Pa.

Our Book Depositories.

We have sent a supply of books to the several Depositories in the West. Hymn Books, &c., can now be had at St. Louis, Wooster, and at Pittsburg. See list of Depositories on last page.

The New School Assembly.

This body held its triennial sessions in Philadelphia. They have resolved to return to the Annual meeting, and have appointed the place of their next assembling at Detroit, Michigan.

Books Forwarded.

We have forwarded books to each of the following brethren, viz: to Christian Winebrenner, Miamiesburg, Montgomery county, Ohio—to Benjamin Ober, Blairsville, Indiana county, Pa.,—and Emanuel Logue, Hagerstown, Washington county, Md.

Democratic Ticket.

The Democratic County Convention, which met in this place on the 12th ult., nominated the following ticket:

Assembly—Simon Sallada, Michael McBarron. Prothonotary—William D. Boas. Treasurer—Peter Hummel. Commissioner—J. M. Awl. Coroner—George J. Shoemaker. Director—Jacob Cassel. Auditor—Isaac Novinger.

Our Terms.

It may not be amiss to remind our subscribers that our terms are inflexible. Those, therefore, who wish their paper for $1 25, must make payment on or before the first of August, proximo. We are pleased to find that many of our patrons begin to understand our terms, and act accordingly. We hope they will all learn to see the propriety of righteousness ere long.

Editorial Convention.

The Editors of the 17th Congressional District of this State, recently held a conference in Lewistown, and resolved to call an Editorial State Convention. The Convention is to be held at Harrisburg, on the 8th of November next. The object is the adoption of certain reforms which are deemed essential to the interests of the country press.

The Scientific American.

This admirable little paper deserves to be better known to the mechanical part of communities. It abounds in sound, practical views on labor and machinery, and by its numerous engravings, recommends to notice many inventions, which would otherwise never emerge from the shade of the Patent Office. Thus furnishing a channel of advertisement to the inventor and a standard of judgment to the mechanic, it should be in the hands of every one interested in the labor-saving improvements of the day.

Terms $2. Address Munn & Co., Publishers, 128 Fulton Street, New York.

Old School General Assembly.

This body has decided it to be improper to invite ministers of Christian denominations, not in correspondence with them, (the Old School,) to sit in any of their judicatories, as corresponding members.

The Assembly has elected the Rev. J. W. Alexander, of New York, to the Professorship of Church History, at Princeton Theological Seminary, in place of Dr. Miller, resigned.

National College of the Pupils of Temperance.

A plan is about going into operation in Philadelphia, having for its object the organization of boys into associations for the promotion of the cause of temperance under the title of the "Order of the Pupils of Temperance." The boys are to undergo a course of instruction in classes, upon the subject of intemperance, under the teaching of professors selected for the purpose, so as to be fitted in after life to combat, in any station in which they may be placed, the evils of rum drinking.

Dwight's Treatment of Cholera.

Prepare a mixture of equal parts of Laudnum, tincture of Camphor and tincture of Rhubarb.

Dose.—Eighteen drops of this mixture is a dose for an adult, in mild cases, to be given every two or three hours, and increased according to circumstances. For children in proportion.

Dr. Bird's Remedy for Cholera.

Take 12 grains of Sulphur, 3 grains of Charcoal. Mix and divide into four equal parts, Take one part (in the form of pills or mixture) every three hours. Children proportionate doses.

Missionary Pledge.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00

Sunday Schools.

The benefits of Sunday Schools are so obvious as to be, in our day, almost universally admitted. The fruits of this simple, but sublime institution, are strewed, like the leaves of autumn, all over the world. The Sunday School constitutes the great conservative power in our morals, the bulwark of our liberties, and the nursery of the churches. From it we may expect our most efficient members and our most useful ministers.

All this will appear when we consider,

1st. That the Sunday School affords intellectual culture. The meat here furnished the young mind, is the meat of heaven—the light poured upon the tender heart, is the light of heaven. While the head is stored with the most sublime and important truths, the heart is taught in heavenly affections. Here the children are taught to read books of wisdom and purity. Thus the key of knowledge is placed in their hands—they may unlock the stores of wisdom and happiness, which, otherwise, to them, must have remained sealed for life.

2d. Again, Sunday Schools prevent crime. It is said that 99-100ths of all crimes committed, have their origin in these three fountains of wickedness,—ignorance, Sabbath-breaking and intemperance. Of all the pupils of Robert Raikes, not one was ever convicted of crime. The subjects of the penitentiary are not likely to be trained in the Sunday School.

3d. The Sunday School is one of the best substitutes for the preaching of the gospel. With the present scarcity of ministers, it is out of the question to have preaching in all the churches every Sabbath. Some substitute should be had—what should it be? In our humble conception it should be the Sunday School. Here church members and the world, the old and the young, can all meet and study God's holy word.

4th. Sunday Schools are also the best supports to churches and pastors. Do we want efficient benevolent churches and a supported ministry, we must train our members in the Sunday School. When scholars from this school join the church, they know what are their duties to God, their pastor, their brethren, and the world: hence they enter at once upon the discharge of these duties.

Having mentioned these things, we now remark, that no church can have a valid excuse for neglecting this heaven-blessed instrumentality—the Sunday School.

OBJECTIONS ANSWERED.

It is said, we have no one to commence the school.

We ask, have you a pastor? Then you have one competent to commence the school.

It is said we have no books.

We reply that one hundred books can be had for ten dollars. Where is the church that cannot pay ten dollars for so noble an object? Where there is a hymn book and a Bible, there are books enough to commence.

VARIOUS QUESTIONS.

What is the design of the Sunday School?

Simply to instruct all who are willing to learn in it—old and young, high and low, rich and poor.

What the course of instruction?

Reading, understanding, believing and obeying the Bible.

What are the terms?

Willingness to attend, and to learn.

O, brethren! for the good of the rising race, for the prosperity of Zion, for the happiness of our own minds, for the evangelizing of the whole earth, let us try to sustain Sunday Schools in all the Churches of God.

Acknowledgement.

BISHOP THOMAS HICKERNELL has our thanks for sending us a handsome list of new subscribers. Those who have paid, shall be credited in due time. Brother Hickernell is entitled, by this list, to the second premium.

Death of Ex-President Polk.

EX-PRESIDENT JAMES K. POLK died at his residence in Nashville, on Friday evening, the 15th ult., after an illness of seven days.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Materialism Refuted.---No. 1.

THAT man is a complex being, is the general opinion formed by experience and observation. The validity of this opinion has seldom been questioned, except by a few of mankind, once in a while. Their scepticism on this question has never gained much influence. It has always been circumscribed, and in time withered and died. The reason of this is, because it is opposed to universal consciousness. It is one of the intuitions of of the mind, that we shall live hereafter. This seems to be the universal impression in all times. It is not a conviction generally, (if at all,) produced by demonstration; for the popular mass have never scrutinized the arguments by which it is sustained. Yet it is the general opinion. You may try to erase this impression, but it, like a strong man, will bind you fast, notwithstanding all the arguments to the contrary.

That there is something abstruse connected with matter and mind, is not questioned; but their existence is intuitively certain. With matter, we think, we are intimately acquainted; yet if the question was proposed, what is matter? the only answer we can give is, we know its general properties, and the laws by which it is governed. What it is, is still a mystery. Beyond its properties we cannot go in our investigations into its essential nature. The question, then, still comes back, what is matter? We may name over its properties: solidity, extension, form, color, &c. On this eminence we may stand, and look with wonder beyond it, but fail to comprehend its essential nature. Yet should scepticism be tolerated on this subject, when the evidence of its existence was crowding and crowning its whole history, and all the world bowing in submission to its claims upon their faith, on the ground of mystery? No, verily not. Matter, as well as mind, is shrouded in mystery. With mind we form an acquaintance from a knowledge of its properties and faculties; and we may learn the laws by which it is regulated. The testimony of universal consciousness to its properties, is clear and indisputable; especially to thought, feeling, willing, &c. These properties of mind are as intuitively certain as the properties of matter. Yet these properties of mind are essentially different from those of matter. Hence the conclusion we come to is, that they must be different substances. If they were the same, they would have the same general properties. For this diversity, there must be a cause or reason.—The only cause or reason I conceive is, the substances are essentially different. Thought, as a property of mind, has never been found to be a property of matter. If it was, it would be found in every atom; and the combination of atoms would increase the power of thought and intelligence. The history of facts are to the contrary. Feeling, willing, &c., are properties of mind, and they are found by universal observation to belong to mind, and not to matter. How can we account for this diversity in their properties in any other way than this, that their natures are essentially different? The unavoidable conclusion, therefore, from these premises, would be, that man is not entirely material.

There are those, however, who still urge premises, the legitimate conclusions drawn from which, would make man material, both body and mind. These conclusions are contrary to sound philosophy, and opposed to general or universal consciousness.

For myself, I apprehend serious and lamentable results, if materialism would gain the ascendancy in the popular mind. The general adoption of such a theory, would change the social organization, and introduce into the life-blood of society a moral viris that would undermine the whole body politic.

The chief argument on which materialists rely is, that the Scriptures teach that man has nothing that consciously survives the death of the body. If this be true, the doctrine on this subject has always been false and erroneous, and universal consciousness a fatal deception. If the doctrine of materialism be Scriptural, it is passingly strange that the wise and good of every age never learnt or understood its teaching. It is certain, from the history of the Church, that the teaching of the Bible never was so understood. But when this doctrine first made its appearance, it was always, (if I am not mistaken,) repudiated as false and erroneous. On what hypothesis are we to account for this universal error, if the opposite doctrine be true?

1st. Can it be on the ground of ignorance? If so, the materialist labors under the same difficulty in ascertaining the truth of his doctrine. For the process of investigation, and the laws by which it is conducted, are the same by which the other sciences are learnt and believed. Now, as they are believed to be true, can we not more consistently believe in the science of mind, and the immortality it elucidates, seeing it is confirmed to us by universal consciousness.

2d. Can it be because it is to serve a purpose? What inducement could lead men to deceive themselves, and to keep others in ignorance, on a subject of such vital importance, and so intimately connected with their present happiness? None at all. The correctness of such a notion would charge the benefactors of mankind with the deepest and darkest deception; and instead of them having the character of good men, they would justly be execrated by all.

But how is the error of materialism to be accounted for? It is generally accounted for by the introduction and teaching of vain philosophy, and others blindly receiving it, without investigation, or under the influence of prejudice and strong delusions. Hypocrites and broken down professors are usually its votaries.

After all, if the Scriptures teach the doctrine laid down by materialists, to its infallible authority we must, or should, submissively bow. But to see how this matter stands, let us enter somewhat into the investigation of this subject in the light of the Scriptures, and learn its truth, by a common sense interpretation.

The first passage on this subject is to be found in Genesis, 2d chapter. The first fact brought to view there is, that man was formed out of the dust of the ground: after this formation, there were no signs of life—thought, feeling, &c. The second fact is, God breathed into him—formed of the dust of the ground—the breath of life, and then, and not till then, he became a living soul, or a knowing, feeling, and willing man. If he only breathed into him common air, we know, by observation, it did not communicate intelligence.—And if it did not, then God communicated something more; and this is confirmed to us by Job 32: 8. "The inspiration of the Almighty gave him understanding." We observe there is a clear distinction between the dust out of which he was formed, and that which was breathed into him. Was that which God breathed into him material? Does it die with the body? That it does not is evident, for after the death of the body, man ceases to be a knowing, feeling, and willing being. Then these qualities of mind are not to be observed. They are either extinguished, or are absent. If they are extinguished they cease to be part of man. If this was true, it would blot out his responsibility; and if death be the extinction of life, as materialists say, then the responsibility of man must necessarily cease. For this reason: the whole moral character of man is formed by knowing, feeling, and willing; as these at death are extinguished, or this is death itself; the life incorporated in the resurrected body, being a new life; and it not having been connected with this life, when moral actions were done, (for the one possessed in this was extinguished,) there must of necessity be a new one; and this not having been the author of any actions, it is neither rewardable or punishable. The Scriptures teach us that natural death is the suspension of the organic functions and the absence of the spirit or mind; therefore called a separation from the body. 1 Kings 17: 21. Eccl. 12: 7. Luke 8: 55. James 21: 26. The conclusion is, that God originally communicated to man a mind with these powers, and these were not part of his formation from the dust of the ground.

Again, it is said, he was created in the image of God. This could not be man as a material being. If it was, it would be an image of materiality. The Scriptures say God is a spirit. The body itself is not, neither could it be, the image of God. It must be found some where else. The only place to which we can direct our attention and seek it is, the mind or soul. In this, if anywhere, we will find the likeness of his immateriality.—This would be the natural image of God in man. His moral likeness, says the Master, consisted in righteousness and true holiness. This is the view taken by the historian: for when he records the death of the Patriarchs, this doctrine is contained on the face of the record, and therefore shows his understanding of man's original creation. When recording the death of Abraham, "He gave up the ghost and died, and was gathered to his people."—What is denominated the "ghost" is separated from the body at death, and therefore does not go down to the grave with it. The second thing said of him is, he should be "gathered to his people." This cannot be true, if the whole man went down to the grave, for he was not buried with his people by natural decent, if the history of the fact can be relied upon. For his people were buried at either Padan Aram, or Ur of the Chaldees; while he was buried in the cave of Machpelah in Canaan. His people, therefore, must have been those of the blessed. To them he was gathered.

In Genesis 35: 29, Isaac's death is given in the same language. In Genesis 49: 32, we have Jacob's described in the same way.—Why this similarity? The doctrine on its face is false, if they believed in materialism. The historian certainly selected language that was calculated to lead men into error, if he was a materialist. But the contrary being his faith, therefore the propriety of his descriptions.

In Numbers 27: 13, the Lord gave notice to Moses of his death, and says he shall be gathered to his people, as Aaron his brother was. We know the gathering to his people does not signify the place of his burial. If it did, it does not agree with the history given of the place of his burial; for in Deut. 34: 6, it is said, "He was buried in the land of Moab, and the Israelites knew not the place." The gathering, then, refers to something else than the place of his burial.

Again, David commends his spirit to God. Now, if he believed it went with him down to the grave, his language does not express his faith, but the contrary; and this being true, therefore its propriety.

The testimony of Solomon also, is clear and decisive, as to a part of man living after death, if language is the representative of things that are real. In Eccl. 12, he describes the natural body under a variety of beautiful imagery; and when it terminates its work, he tells us, in the 7th verse, what it is. The DUST, he says, out of which man was originally formed before he had intelligence, shall return to dust as it was, and the SPIRIT to God who gave it. This passage agrees with the one in second of Genesis. That describes his creation. The distinction here, as well as there, between body and spirit, is clear and unequivocal; and as their natures are different, death is the dissolution of the one, but not of the other. Therefore we must conclude man is not entirely material.

I shall now close my brief investigation of this doctrine, by the evidence furnished by the Old Testament, on this subject.—From the facts that we have noticed, the doctrine that man is a compound being is clear and evident. This certainly is contained upon the face of every passage I have noticed. But this doctrine has a still clearer developement in the New Testament. In my next, therefore, I shall investigate the doctrine under consideration by the testimony and teachings of the New Testament.

S. A.

"OPEN rebuke is better than secret love."—Proverbs.

Jerusalem.---No. 1.

Jerusalem, otherwise called Hierosolyma or Hierusalem, appears from the 76th Psalm and 2d verse, "In Salem also is his tabernacle, and his dwelling place in Zion," to have been the same mentioned in Genesis 14 : 18, as the residence of the peaceable King-Priest, Melchizedek. He reigned in it as early as 1813, B. C., 435 years after the deluge, and 2091 of creation.

In the days of Joshua it was inhabited by a people denominated Jebusites, and bore the name itself, Jebusi. About 1451, B. C., or 462 after the dominion of Melchizedek, Joshua conquered it and slew her King, Adoni-zedek, with four other Amorite Potentates.

In the division of the land to the various tribes, it fell within the lot of Benjamin, but was inhabited jointly by the Jebusites and the tribes of Benjamin and Judah, about 26 years. "Now, the children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, aud set the city on fire." Nor subsequently to this destruction of the city, did the children of Benjamin drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerûsalem ; but the Jebusites dwelt with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this day. Judges 1 : 8, 21.

After the triumph of the Shepherd-boy of Bethlehem over proud and disdainful Goliah of Gath, he deposited the giant's head in Jerusalem. 1 Sam. 17 : 54.

David being exalted to the throne of Judah, reigned seven years and six months in Hebron; but on his accession to the throne of Judah and Israel, he transferred his residence to Mount Zion, the city of David, within the walls of Jerusalem. Mount Zion was the strong-hold or fort of Jerusalem. He enlarged, improved and beautified this part of the city very much. Ever after, Jerusalem was recognized as the capital of Judea. 2 Sam. 5 ; 5. The throne of David was erected in it about 1040 years, B. C., or 411 after the conquest of Joshua.

Solomon rendered it the admiration of the whole oriental world, and raised it to its highest degree of splendor. But this splendor was destined to be marred. The Assyrian Empire, having spread her victories since the days of the mighty Nimrod, now felt her importance, and moved by pride and love of conquest, with the Atheistic Sennacherib at her head, poured her idolatrous armies into the territories of Judea, and besieged the metropolis of the Jews, bidding defiance to the virtuous Hezekiah and the living God, who rules in the armies of Heaven. At the instance of the prayer of the pious King, the atheistical insolence of the blasphemous Assyrian was signally rebuked, by a single messenger from the world of spirits, slaying in one night to the number of 185,000 of his soldiery.

But soon the remembrance of this display of Divine displeasure was forgotten by those whom it should have always humbled, and Hyerosolyma was frequently plundered and sacked by various Kings, till finally, in the days of treacherous Zedekiah, it was entirely demolished by Nebuzaradan, under the King of Babylon, and her inhabitants—except the most inferior classes—reduced to servile bondage in his own land ; being 590, B. C., 450 subsequent to the commencement of the reign of David over the whole house of Israel and Judah, and 133 years from the captivity of the "ten tribes" by Shalmaneser, the predecessor of Sennacherib.

But this most renowned place of the world was not destined to remain a perpetual desolation. The weeping Prophet, Jeremiah, foresaw the return of his people after 70 year's servitude in Chaldea, and apprised them of it 62 years before its accomplishment, and in the 8th year of their bondage.

The sagacious Prophet—the devoted man of God, and profound statesman, very graphically describes this return-march of his nation. "In those days, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall come, they and the children of Judah together, going and weeping : they shall go, and seek the Lord their God. They shall ask the way to Zion with their faces thitherward, saying, Come let us join ourselves to the Lord in a perpetual covenant that shall not be forgotten." This prophecy being reduced to history under Ezra and Nehemiah, the walls of the city, with her ruined Temple, were again re-built and beautified.

The Kings of the surrounding nations, however, beheld the rise of the pride of Judah with a jealous eye, and ever exercised a vigilance in watching her movements, not met with in relation to any other city of antiquity.

Ptolamy besieged and destroyed her ; but, rising from her ashes, she maintained her distinction till 60 years before the birth of the last legal heir to David's throne, when she again fell before the scourging rod of Pompey, who reduced the city to a tributary of the Roman President ; and leading Aristobulus captive, returned with him to the Court of Rome.

From this forth she remained a servile slave, in bondage with her children, literally and spiritually, till that allegoric prophecy, "Cast out the bond-woman and her son," was morally accomplished in the days of Messiah, and literally embryoed under Vespasian, and finally brought to full birth under his son Titus. Since which time she has undergone all the ebbings and flowings, the advances and retrogrades incident to oriental cities, nations and institutions ; and has, now, a population of abont 30,000 inhabitants, in a miserable condition, when compared with the glory of the days of Solomon and Christ.

But this glance at the history of literal Hierosolyma, is the least object in view in this letter. The figurative use of the word shall next claim attention.

Fraternally,
G. U. HARN.

The End of the World.

Leaves torn from the Scrap-Book of Thought.

Leaf the Twelfth.

BY JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

Deity has declared that time shall have an end, and that at the end of time a judgment shall take place concerning the good and evil deeds performed by the inhabitants of this world. That important day has been described by inspiration in the most dreadful yet happy terms. The punishment that shall be allotted to the wicked, and the pleasures that the saved shall begin to partake of on that day, have been foretold in a manner well calculated to excite the most intense interest. But what mortal has ever told the full grandeur and greatness of that momentous day ? Can imagination picture a grander scene ? Can the writer find a nobler theme to dwell upon, beside the crucifixion of the Redeemer ! Can the hopes of the Christian be placed upon a greater coming event ? Will the historian of eternity write upon his tablets the record of a brighter epoch ? No ! That day, on which the destinies of millions will be determined—that day, on which the power of God will be proved true—that day, on which the reality of the Christian religion will be triumphantly wound up, will far surpass every era that has occurred in eternity. It will exceed the creation—it will eclipse the deliverance from Egypt—its glory will be more magnificent than the palmiest days of King Solomon, and its deeds will even rival the Sacrifice of Calvary !

Then, in the clouds of Heaven, the insulted, scourged and crucified prisoner of Pilate shall appear on a throne of dazzling glory, in his second visit to his chosen people. He shall wear a crown of gold instead of a chaplet of thorns. He shall have the homage of angels instead of the mockings of mortals. He shall hear the praises of seraphs instead of the blasphemous shouts of the perfidious Jews.

Then in all their variety shall appear the nations of the earth. The land shall be covered as with locusts. Adam, the progenitor of the human race, shall be there, generations shall stand around him, his descendants, the mockers of Noah, the dead of the deluge, and the drowned of the Red Sea, shall all be there. Abraham and Isaac will be there. The Prophets and the forerunner of Christ shall be there. The "mother of God" and the grey-haired Joseph will there stand together and gaze up to see the result of their mission in Bethlehem. The blasts of the archangel's trumpet shall awaken old St. Paul—the Apostles and disciples of the Redeemer shall all stand around him and shout aloud the rapture of their hearts. The martyrs of Rome and the heretics of Piedmont shall be there ; and the countless host shall wait and look up for the consummation of all things. The trumpet's voice shall cease ;—

The sceptre of God waves over the multitude ; amid the mighty mass a separation takes place. The lips of the Redeemer move—he speaks—and the winged spirits of Heaven fly to meet the blessed of earth. Oh ! how they shout ! Gracefully they rise. Breezes of celestial glory fan their snow-white wings, and the hallelujahs of the saved ring through Heaven louder than the voices of Sinai, and more beautiful than the melody of earth's grandest music. As if preconcerted, the angels raise forth their arms ; in them are displayed golden harps, and they join the music of all the bands of Heaven, causing even the accursed to listen with wonder and despairing admiration !

Oh ! how happy are the blessed ! What a great triumph shall this be for the despised Nazarenes ! Would you not like to be there ?

[To be concluded.]

Essay on Strife.

And there was a strife between Abraham's herdmen and Lot's herdmen.—Genesis 13 : 7.

Domestic altercations began to perplex in the very childhood of time ; the blood of a brother was shed even before the affinity became known. But with how much tenderness and good sense doth Abraham here prevent the disagreement which had arisen, as is but too often the case, from the quarrel of two servants. The heart is easily affected by circumstances in private life, and the conduct of Abraham is in many points so admirable, that the transactions of this single patriarch are of sufficient consequence to furnish a very voluminous and captivating commentary.

He said to Lot, "I pray thee let there be no strife between me and thee, or between my herdmen and thine." Why ? For the best and tenderest reason in the world : "because we are brethren." The very image of the patriarch in the attitude of entreaty,—the fraternal tear just starting from his eye, is this moment before me ; and thus, methinks, I catch instruction (as he addresses Lot) from the lips of the venerable man. Away, my dear brother, with strife; we were born to be servants of God, and the companions of each other : the twin breasts of our mother are not so closely united as thou and I. As we sprang from the same parent, so we naturally partake the same affections. We are brethren, sons of the same father. We are friends, for surely kindredship should be the most endearing and exalted friendship. Let not us then disagree because our herdmen disagree, since that were to encourage every idle pique and senseless animosity. Great, indeed, hath been our success since our migration into this delightful and fair country. We have much substance and much cattle. But what of all that ? Shall brothers quarrel because it hath pleased kind heaven to prosper them ?—Oh, ungrateful!—Oh, impious !—But if, notwithstanding these entreaties, and these persuasives, thy spirit is still troubled, let us rather separate, rather than contend with a dear and much beloved brother.—Hard as it is, I could even part with him for a time.—Haply the occasion of dispute, (which I have already forgotten,) shall soon be no more remembered by thee. Is not the whole land before thee ? Take then my blessing and my welcome embrace, and separate thyself from me. To thee is freely submitted the advantages of choice. If thou wilt take the left hand, then, that I may not appear to thwart thee unbrotherly, I will take the right : or if thou art more inclined to the country which lieth upon the right, then I will go to the left. Be it as thou wilt, and whithersoever thou goest, happy mayest thou be, and may God's richest blessings ever attend you. Lot listened to his brother, and departed. He cast his eyes on the well watered plains of Jordan. There seems a degree of avaricious insensibility in his character, and when he separated, it appears to have been with the hope of increasing his wealth, more than having that degree of respect for his kind and affectionate brother which he so duly deserved; while Abraham, no doubt, often pressed his brother's hand, and often bade him adieu : and even followed him to repeat the farewell wishes, ere he would suffer him to depart.

"Can Jesus, whom we would have slain,
Forgive us the evil which we did !
And will he our household maintain,
Oh ! this is a brother indeed."

I remain yours in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ,

S. M. HOOVER.

Carlisle, June 6, 1849.

The Broad Road to Destruction.

Wide is the gate and broad the way that leadeth to death, and many there be which go in thereat.—Matt. 7 : 13.

It is very agreeable to the flesh to travel upon this broad way. It is here that scoffers can walk after their own lusts : the lusts of the eye, the lusts of the flesh, and the pride of life. These are indulgencies of those who are unconcerned about their souls salvation.—They are entirely opposed to those that walk in the narrow way to life. They speak evil of them, and say it is not necessary, and those that walk therein are no better than themselves. They think it would be better if all went one way: then there would be peace and union. They plead up their own indifference by saying, that many who were no better than themselves, (that is such that lived as they do,) died happy. Hence they look at it as melancholly, and a great folly, to enter upon such a rough way.

Notwithstanding their way appears to them very smooth and pleasing, yet their path is a slippery one, and leadeth to death—eternal death: yea, that death which never dies. Yet how true it is, that many live as though they had never to die, and appear before God to render an account of their vain spent lives. And many stand in the way of others and keep them from entering upon the narrow way of life. Parents sometimes stand in the way of their children, and children in the way of parents; and one relative stands in the way of another. Thus they hurry each other on in the way to destruction. Oh! how greatly will those be disappointed when they come to the end of their journey and see that they have taken the wrong course. In the day of judgment they will have to exclaim, Oh! fools that we were! We have erred from the way of truth, and the light of righteousness shined not upon us;—the sun of righteousness rose not upon us. Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, fall upon us and to the hills cover us. Luke 23: 30. But not so with the Zion pilgrim. Though his journey be a thorny maze, yet he makes his way onward. Though he meets with many trials and difficulties, yet he glories in the many good things he is permitted to enjoy. He can sing—

"Oh! good old way how sweet thou art,
May none of us from thee depart."

But it is not here that he expects his full reward. He looks forward to a future period, when he shall obtain the crown and shine like the brightness of the sun in the kingdom of his Heavenly Father. He fears not death. He fears not the judgment. Then shall the righteous man stand in great boldness before the face of such who have afflicted him, and made no account of his labors. When they shall see it they shall be amazed at the strangeness of his salvation: so far beyond what they looked for. Then, groaning for anguish of spirit, they shall say within themselves, this was he whom we had sometimes in derision, and whom we made a proverb of reproach. We accounted his life madness, and his end to be without honor. Oh Lord! search our hearts, and see whether we are on the narrow or broad way, and lead us upon the way of eternal life. Amen.

Yours, fraternally,

A. SNYDER.

Linglestown, June, 1849.

Things in the Monumental City.

Baltimore, Md., June 23, 1849.

Mr. Editor:—

Notwithstanding the reports to the contrary, there is not a single case of cholera in our city at present, nor has there been this season. It is strange how such rumors spread and gain belief, so much so, as to cause a great cessation of communication between the country and the town. Things are not very brisk just now. The flags are flying to the breeze, at half mast, in all parts of the streets, in memory of Ex-President Polk. The last few weeks the deaths were less than in the corresponding weeks last year. The Mayor has prohibited the sending of oysters in the shell within the limits of the city, to prevent the bad effects of their accumulation. There are three muderers in the jail now. John Price, a notorious gambler and ruffian, for shooting George Campbell;—he will be tried soon. A Mr. Drum, for shooting a boy, who, with others, was outraging the peace by teasing and plagueing him at his store. And Conrad Vender, for murdering Mrs. Cooper, not long ago, a short distance from the city. He will doubtless be hung; and then the boys and "rat" printers will have a chance to make a speculation, by printing and selling his confession, embellished with his portrait and a gibbet. A great many folks are getting ready to depart for the springs and watering places. Religion is slack—less, perhaps, now, than it has been this century. Several riots have lately taken place. California gold is coming in. Gold Dollars are getting plenty:—I have had several. A great many eminent and ingenious inventions are expected at the Convention of Inventors, 21st of August next. No destructive fires have lately occurred. Business is as dull as it is usually in this time of the year. While I write this, the heat is almost suffocating. Every body is glad that the 4th of July is near. Herr Alexander, the Magician, Theopholus Fiske, the Lecturer, and a fellow named Spencer, a Mesmerizer, are treating the people to their amusements. The great alarm about the cholera is foolish. It brings to my mind the following:—Once the plague was met as it was entering Smyrna, and asked what it wanted. "I will destroy ten thousand people, and then depart." It entered. Thirty thousand persons died. When it left the gates, the same person rebuked him:—"You said you would kill but ten thousand." The plague replied:—"Well, that is all I did. Fear destroyed the rest!" President Taylor is expected here soon, on his tour North.—Excursions down the Bay are numerous. Emigrants from troubled Europe are not few. Rights for Weishampel's "Horizontal Revolving Coal Grate" are now for sale. It is a good invention, and persons purchasing rights for counties or States, can make it profitable. But I must stop short.

Yours,

J. F. WEISHAMPEL, Jr.

A New Plan to Raise Missionary Funds at Camp-meetings.

Mr. Editor:—

The following plan for raising missionary funds was suggested by brother John Bowman at the Camp-meeting last year on the Cumberland county circuit. It is a good one, and deserves the consideration of all tent-holders.

Let the brethren who reside near the camp-ground, if they are able, provide the necessaries for a boarding-tent and provender for horses. Let them put up a tent and stabling, and employ proper persons to attend to the tent and feeding. Exclude all speculators from the ground. Let a daily report be made to the Treasurer, and after the expenses of the boarding, provender, &c., are paid, let the balance be divided among the preachers, or be paid to the Board of Missions. Thus excluding speculators, the tent, if prudently managed by disinterested brethren, would yield a handsome income for a good purpose, and obviate much of the trouble and confusion generally incident otherwise. This plan is certainly worth the attention of the churches.

J. F. W., Jr.

June 9, 1849.

Notice to Editor of R. Telescope.

Fayetteville, June 20, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I see in a late number of the Religious Telescope, a reply to your remarks in reference to the action and resolution of the United Brethren Conference in the case of William Miller. I wish, therefore, to inquire, through the columns of the Advocate, whether the Editor and Managers of the Religious Telescope will permit us to reply to the said article, through the columns of their paper, the Religious Telescope? If they will allow us access to the columns of their paper, we are ready to test and investigate the proceedings of the Conference in the case of Mr. Miller.

Will the Editor of the Religious Telescope please to give us an answer to the above in the next number of that paper, or as soon as possible? E. LOGUE.

Remarks.—By some means or other, we did not see the reply to our remarks above mentioned. But we are content to let others enter the arena of rencontre. At any rate, the gauntlet being now thrown, we may anticipate a contest, except the antagonist be cowardous; of which, we opine, there are many chances.

Letter from Brother Benj. Fritchey.

West Baltimore, June 11, 1849.

Dear Friend:—

Having waited some time for a Post Office to be established in this place, and being unable to obtain one as yet, I have come to the conclusion to have my papers and letters sent to the office four miles East of this place. The office is called Centre Post Office, Montgomery county Ohio. You will then please to forward my back numbers of the Advocate as soon as possible on the receipt of this, as I am very anxious to see your valuable paper.

We have some brethren living about three miles North of this place, where they have a small society, and also brother Hickernell for their preacher. I have not been able to be amongst them as yet, but expect to be soon. We have preaching about one mile from here, by the United Brethren, and also by the Methodists. We were with the United Brethren yesterday, and we had quite a good old-fashioned meeting. Sister Matilda, with her husband, were here on a visit. They live only about 42 miles West of us. We were to meeting together. After the sermon was over, Matilda asked the preacher whether she might say a few words to the congregation. He replied that she was welcome to do so. She then commenced by saying, that she did not intend to preach to this people, but that she felt that it was her duty to relate to them what the Lord had done for her in days past, and down to the present time. She was so filled with the spirit, and spoke with so much zeal and energy, that it seemed to reach the hearts of many of those present who professed no religion, and those who did were filled with joy and gladness.

The preacher's name, who held the meeting, was Hoffman. His father, an old man, who was also present, said that he was now on the way 48 years, and had labored much in the vineyard of the Lord. I think he said he used to preach in Baltimore, Md.

There seems to be a prospect of much good being done in this vicinity, if those few who profess religion will exert themselves and be faithful in the good cause.

We live in a fine part of the country, on the line between Montgomery and Preble counties. We will have a Gravel Pike through here, from Dayton Westward, the greatest part of which will be finished this year. Also, a Railroad from Dayton, which comes through the country at the West end of this place; so that it is likely that this part of the country will become valuable before long.

We have enjoyed tolerable good health ever since we left Harrisburg, and are becoming more satisfied every day with the country and the people. The people generally seem to be rather more sociable than they are East.—Living also is much cheaper here than it is in Old Mother Cumberland. Wheat is 62 to 66 cents per bushel. Corn 20 to 22. Butter 7 to 8. Eggs 5. Wood 62 per cord—brought to the door. Potatoes are high, from 50 to 80 per bushel. Land is fast rising in price.—There was, however, a sale of a small tract of 30 acres, one mile from here, to-day, at $12 00 per acre, which is considered low.

I would like very much to see you take a journey to this section of country this summer. You might do much good in the Master's cause, and at the same time improve your health. Your expenses, I think, would not be much, as collections might be made at your different appointments.

I must now conclude my hasty scribbling for the present, by subscribing myself,

Yours in Christian love,

BENJ. FRITCHEY.

Letter from Bro. D. Neidigh, V. D. M.

Reedsburg, Wayne Co., Ohio.
May 28, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I would again resume my pen to drop a few lines for the columns of the Church Advocate. According to previous appointment, I commenced a protracted meeting on the 19th of May with the Church of God in Lake township, Ashland county, in connection with some of my elder brethren in the ministry, viz: brothers Isaac Whisler, Wm. Adams, J. Briggle and D. Williams. On the first night of the meeting we had good preaching, and a good feeling prevailed among the people of God. On the Lord's day morning the brethren and sisters met for prayer and experience meeting, and witnessed a good confession, that they were born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth forever, and were heaven born and heaven bound. When the hour of preaching arrived, our place of worship was too small. In order to render the people all the satisfaction desirable, we were under the necessity of moving the seats out of the house into the open air. After the congregation (or as many as could conveniently) was seated, a German discourse was delivered, to a large concourse of people, by Elder Briggle, from John 3: 7.—This of course led to the subject of the new birth. It was a plain and pointed discourse—followed immediately by another in the English language, by Elder Wm. Adams, from Matt. 16: 26, upon the subject of the soul and its duration in eternal happiness or endless woe. This subject appeared to have a deep bearing on the minds of the people.—

After services, having knowledge of some who desired to be baptized, we gave an invitation to candidates for baptism to come forward; and while we were singing a hymn, five came forward and demanded the right to be baptized. After prayer we made preparations to go to the water, a distance of a quarter of a mile, and there those believers were buried with Christ their living head, beneath the yielding waves of Jordan, in the presence of a large concourse of people. The Lord was well pleased with them, and owned his ordinance by pouring out blessings upon his obedient children.

This meeting continned over the second Sabbath, and on to the last of the meeting there were two forward at the altar of prayer, but only one fonnd him of whom Moses and the Prophets did write. We also attended to the ordinances of God's house, the washing of the saints feet and the Lord's supper. The Lord also owned these ordinances in blessing his children. Oh! how happy are they who know these things and do them.

I find that truth is shining clearer from the sacred pages, and causes prejudice to give way:—at least with some professors of religion. Oh! that the time was nigh at hand when all that profess the spirit of God would do the commands of God's dear son, who says, "Why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I say? My yoke is easy, and my burden is light."

Yours, truly,

DAVID NEIDIGH, Jr.

INFORMATION WANTED FROM INDIANA.

N. B.—Where is brother Thomas Hickernell's Post Office address? It is Mendon, Mercer connty, Obio. D. N., Jr.

Letter from Brother J. C. Seabrooks, V. D. M.

Mechanicsburg, June 6, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

By the blessing of God I seat myself to inform you that I am still going to and fro in the earth, trying to do good to the sons of men. I am now travelling throngh Cumberland Valley, Pa., the bounds of my charge. I am highly pleased with the people. I have met with a loving set of brethren, and many who are contending earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints. I bave tried to labor with an eye single to the glory of God, and for the salvation of souls.

The state of religion is running very low at present. There appears to be no excitement on the subject of religion, but plenty of every thing else. The most we hear about now is, the harvest of grain that is fast drawing on, and the state of the weather. This is so broken that it is seldom right for the people. Sometimes it is too wet, and at other times too dry. It is well that God governs times and seasons himself.

But when will the time come for the showers of grace to return? There is a large and plentiful harvest before us. That season is looked up to, by many, for the copious showers of grace; or in other words, the salvation of souls: (I mean the Camp-meeting season.)—When it arrives, many will go to the grove to wait upon the Lord. But then I fear many will retire there, not for the purpose of serving God, but to feast, and to see and be seen. They spend their time in feasting and dressing. I have noticed persons at camp, dress three times a day, and put on the best they can afford. Many spend more time before the glass and toilet, than on their knees. I fear if it were not for the name of the thing, they would not bow once. Others are seen promenading and making a great show, while they are never seen in the altar of prayer. I say these things to warn and re-warn the guilty.

Oh time, how few thy value weigh,
How few will estimate a day.

Oh my dear friends, if you are spared to go to camp this season, go bearing the oil of grace in your hearts, that when you come together the glorious blessings of God may rest upon you.

I have also a word to my brethren in the ministry. Whenever you go to camp, go there with this end in view, to warn the sinner of his danger. Let your actions prove to them that you are in earnest about what you are doing. Remember that they look on and behold your actions, for actions speak louder than words.

Finally, let me say to all, come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty, that God may bless his word and own many precious souls through your labors. Oh! may the time soon come to favor Zion. Oh! Lord our God, may thy little Zion come np out of the wilderness, fair as the moon, bright as the sun, and terrible as an army bearing banners; and may, oh! may the slain of the Lord be many.

Yours, in the gospel,

J. C. SEABROOKS.

Letter from Sister C. Stambaugh.

Landisburg, Perry Co., A. D., 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I am glad to hear that my beloved friends at Newburg have established a Sabbath School. I do not know when I heard any thing that gratified me as much. I am also glad to hear that the brethren prosper in so doing. May God bless their efforts and labors.

I should be very much pleased to see such zealous preachers in Perry county. I am very much in favor of Sabbath Schools, and always was. I can tell you why; because I was benefitted by attending it myself. When a child it led me to Jesus, our best friend. I remember that my teachers knelt with me, and prayed with me, which my parents neglected at that time at home. It is to be feared that there are too many such families now-a-days, who neglect to pray with and for their children.—But if parents neglect their children, I believe Sabbath School instructions may be the means of bringing them to Christ. He said, "Suffer little children to come to me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God."

For my part, I should be very much pleased to see our brethren in Perry county up and a doing in this work, while it is called to-day. I should try, by the help and grace of our good Lord, to assist them all that lay in my power. I am concerned about tbe welfare of the young and rising generation. I know they would be benefitted thereby, if their teachers would be diligent in their duty in bringing them before the throne of God in earnest prayer. If we thus see our duty before God, and neglect it, will we not be found guilty in a coming day? We had better be up and a doing while it is called to-day, least the night overtake us.

If woman is not permitted to speak in the church, but be silent, is she not permitted to write and throw in her mite among the rest of the human family? Disobedience is no profit to any person. Give me obedience for happiness. In true obedience true happiness consists. We all like to be happy. Well, then let us all be obedient children, and we will be happy.

It does my soul good to read and hear what others write, and I think every one is at liberty to improve their time and talents, whether male or female, although some may be further advanced in writing.

My brethren will bear a little with me in my folly. We have a comfortable school-house in sight of our house, two miles from Landisburg. Any brother that wishes to pay us a visit, is respectfully invited to come and preach. All those that preach the true gospel, are welcome. We would be very much pleased to see some come and preach for us. We have preaching only every three or four weeks. At Landisburg and Germany there is preaching every few weeks. We would like to have more frequent and regular preaching, at our own house, or at the school-house, if it would snit the brethren to do so.

There are some families in our neighborhood that are not blessed with the convenience to go three or four miles to preaching, especially at night. Perhaps I have wrote enough for this time. No more at present.

I remain your friend till death,

CATHARINE STAMBAUGH.

Letter from Brother J. J. Doman.

Grandview, Grandview Co., Iowa, May 12, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Having a few leisnre moments, I will embrace the present opportunity to inform you, and also my friends and acquaintances, that we landed on the Mississippi river on the 4th inst., well and hearty. I left that place and moved to the place above mentioned.—Wagner and family are still living at Fort Louisa. We have bought 200 acres of land together. I have bought a honse, shop and tools, with two lots of ground. I am carrying on my trade. I am well pleased with this new country. My expenses were $59 22. For my part, I do not wisb myself back to Danphin county any more.

We have meetings here, such as they are; Methodists, United Brethren, Campbellites, Lntherans, and German Reformed. But there is none of the Church of God. I would like very much if some of the brethren of the Church of God would come to this place to preach, and to live. This is a fine country, so far as I can see. No more at present.

Yours, truly,

J. J. DOMAN.

Letter from Brother A. J. Fenton.

Tilghmanton, June 9, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I have no reason to complain of my health at this time, thank God. I hope that you and yours enjoy the same.

It has been rumored abroad that the Standing Committee wanted me to go with brother Keller to Lancaster county, and that it was published in the Advocate. But I never saw it; and as you never wrote to me personally, I did not know what to do. If I had received the intelligence, I should have complied with the same, as I am desirous of doing all the good I can, by the help of God. If you know of any place where I may be of service, write to me and let me know, and I will comply with the same.

Books are wanting very badly, but the people are not prepared at all times to send the money in advance. If you will send them, your money will be snre. Write and let me know all abont it. No more at present.

Yonrs, in Cbrist,

A. J. FENTON.

The Young Convert,

BY WILLIAM M. H——R,

When converts first their jonrney take,
Toward the Heavenly land;
When they this sinfnl world forsake,
And run at God's command.

Their theme is all redeeming love,
They feel the hallowed fire;
Their thoughts are raised to God above,
To Heaven their minds aspire.

They wonder why all knees don't bend
Before the living God;
And from their hearts let praise ascend,
And spread the news abroad;—

And tell to all the world around,
That Jesus Cbrist has saved—
His long rebellious child hath found,
Who was by sin enslaved.

They think the battle all is o'er,
When first they take the field:
By faith they view the distant shore,
And think redemption sealed.

But presently great foes arise,
To intercept their way,
To check their progress to the skies—
To realms of endless day.

Bnt yet the convert presses on,
Although by foes oppressed,
And travels, as he has begun,
To mansions of the blest.

Affliction, too, may rack his frame,
And gaunt disease invade
His fireside—his kindred name—
But by God's arm he's stayed.

And yet a while he travels on,
Toward the destined shore;
Where myriads of happy souls are gone,
Wbo're blest for evermore.

But oh! how many converts bold,
Who fonght with valiant care,
Have suddenly released their hold,
To earth's sedncing snare.

Their harps are on the willow hung—
That once melodious voice:
Its every chord is now unstrung—
They now no more rejoice.

In holy accents to the Lord,
No more their praises rise;
The recompense of their reward,
Is blotted from the skies.

Then oh! young convert persevere,
Toward that Heavenly land;
For soon the gladsome news you'll hear,
Come join the Heavenly band.

For soon in majesty divine,
The Lord of Heaven shall come;
And angels in refulgence shine,
To welcome travellers home.

Oh! brethren, you who love the Lord:
Say, will you for me pray!
Lest I should lose my great reward,
And be a cast-a-way.

East Sharpsburg, Blair Co., June 5, 1849.

OBITUARY
OF Brother JOHN THOMAS.

DIED, on the 8th of May, 1849, brother JOHN THOMAS, son of Charles and Rachael Thomas, aged 18 years, 19 months and 27 days.

Brother Thomas embraced religion on the evening of the 13th of April, 1849, and united with the Church of God in Bethlehem township, in the neighborhood of stump's. But now he is gone to that bourne from whence no traveller returns. How narrowly he escaped! But thank God, he sought the Lord and found him precious to his soul, and a comfort in death. He died young, but full of the hopes of heaven. Funeral services by the writer, from Revelation 14: 13.

HENRY MURRAY.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Cholera.—The following table, which is from a work published some years ago by Mr. Tanner, will no doubt be acceptable to our readers. The first column shows the time of the commencement of the disease—the second the number of cases—the third the number of deaths—and the last its continuance at each place:

PLACES.	DATES.	CASES.	DEATHS.	DAYS.
New York,	July 3,	6078	2214	59
Quebec,	June 8,	5783	2050	86
Montreal,	June 9,	4083	1842	85
Philadelphia,	June 27,	2289	746	43
*Baltimore,	Aug. 10,	——	649	42
Albany,	July 3,	1144	406	61
Norfolk,	July 24,	——	405	49
Brooklyn,	July 11,	457	191	69
Portsmouth, Va.,	July 24,	392	185	38
Utica,	Aug. 12,	464	177	27
York, Canada,	June 24,	409	172	62
*Washington,	Aug. 7,	660	168	81
Buffalo,	July 15,	343	144	55
Rochester,	July 23,	420	135	48
Poughkeepsie,	Aug. 3,	212	163	23
Kingston, Can.,	June 20,	202	91	72
Bergen, N. J.,	July 15,	297	90	58
Caughnewaga,	June 13,	225	68	83
Newark,	July 6,	143	64	56
Sing Sing	July 17,	381	162	50
Ogdensburg	June 18,	153	49	62
New Brunswick,	July 14,	174	42	47
*Richmond,	Sept. 7,	81	40	15
Wilmington, Del.,	Aug. 7,	87	38	24
*Boston,	Aug. 15,	28	24	50
New Haven,	July 11,	44	17	50

The disease continued to prevail, though in a mitigated form, at the places marked (*) when this table was prepared.

The National Appropriations.—The aggregate of the appropriations, made by the last Congress, is over thirty-five millions, as follows:

Civil, diplomatic and miscellaneous	$6,301,705 64½
Military, including formations, Indian departments, revolutionary and other pensions	7,937,161 96
Naval, including naval pensions	9,601,882 91
Post Office department	4,337,391 00
In fulfilment of the treaty with Mexico	7,260,000 00
Total	$35,429,041 61½

Among those for fortifications is one of $40,000 for the Fort at Sailors' Point, Baltimore harbor.

☞ Sufficient stock of the Lancaster city Gas company has been subscribed to enable it to procure a charter.

The Methodist Church South.—From the Southern Christian Advocate we learn that there are nineteen Annual Conferences in the Church South, covering the Southern States and the Indian territory. The general superintendence of the whole is in the hands of four Bishops; the regular pastoral and missionary work is entrusted to the care of 1,476 travelling preachers, being an increase, during the past year, of 73. The total number of superannuated preachers is 108; and of local preachers 3,026, a decrease of 116, though some of the Conferences give no returns. The total number of members 491,786, viz: whites 354,258, colored 134,153, Indians 3,365, exhibiting upon the returns of the last year the increase of 26,233. The Missionary collections of the past year are reported from sixteen of the nineteen Conferences, and amount to a little upwards of $65,000. Putting down the Conferences not reported according to the returns of the previous year, the aggregate Missionary revenue will stand at ablout $67,000, an improvement of more than $4,000 upon last year's operation.

Greatest Invention of the Age.—The Rochester N. Y. American alluding to Bradshaw's Telegraphic Sewing Machine, on exhibition in that city, says:

Of all amazing, novel, curious Yankeeisms, this is the greatest. It is contrived so ingeniously as to do the labor of eight persons, in a style that will compare with that done by the carefulest hands, and yet so simple as to be worked by a child, without the slightest possibility of getting out of order. A pair of pantaloons can be made by it, the bottom and the sewing on of the buttons excepted, in thirty minutes. We have never seen any work so strongly put together as the work done by this machine. And this is also the opinion of many manufacturers of clothing, who have borne testimony thereto.

It is truly one of the greatest labor-saving machines of the age, and we should think, for good or ill, one that must work an entire revolution in the seampster's art.

The Oldest Man in America.—Geo. Buckhart, living in Harlan county, Ky., is one hundred and fourteen years old; was born in Germantown, Pa., and has lived for several years in a hollow sycamore tree, of such dimensions as to contain his family, consisting of a wife and five or six children, bed and bedding, cooking utensils, &c. He professes to hold the Lutheran faith.

Houses for California.—The ship Deucalion cleared at Boston for San Francisco, having on board fifty houses, with bricks, nails, &c., sufficient to put them in order for use immediately on her arrival out.—Another vessel also cleared for the same destination, having a large amount of building materials.

Crime in Ohio.—The Attorney General of Ohio has furnished a report of crimes committed in 61 counties of the State, for year the 1848. It appears that the persons prosecuted were 5018; convicted, 1579; acquitted, 565.

The remaining prosecutions are still pending. Four hundred and fifty of the above cases arose from intoxication, more than one-fifth of the whole. The following statement shows the grade of crime:—Murder, 23; arson, 20; burglary, 57; robbery, 3; counterfeiting, 25; mayhem, 16; grand larceny, 57; horse stealing, 26; petit larceny, 165; retailing, 665; assault with intent to kill, 22; duelling, 1; assault, &c., 17; perjury, 8; assault and battery, 370; gambling, 204; riot, 116; keeping tavern without license, 128.

Of the convicts, two were sentenced to death, three to the Penitentiary for life, two for a period over twenty years, 195 under twenty years, and 145 to the county jails.

To the Editors and Publishers of the United States.—Mr. Vattemare wishes to place in the 'American Library,' which is now being formed in the City Hall at Paris, 'a collection of American newspapers, presented to the city of Paris by the journalists of the United States, July 4th, 1849.' He will thank all editors and publishers to send to the 'Boston Daily Bee,' (the editor of which has undertaken to form the collection,) a copy of their paper published on the Fourth of July, 1849, with a copy of each semi-weekly and weekly which they may issue during the first week in July. Papers published in other American nations, and old or rare newspapers, will be thankfully received. Acknowledgements will be made through the Boston Bee of all donations received.

Editors will please 'Copy' the above notice, and bear it in mind on Independence Day.

Appalling Shipwreck.—The brig Hannah came in contact with the ice on the morning of the 3d ult., when off the coast, bound for Quebec, Canada, while the passengers were in bed, and foundered in about 20 minutes. One hundred and twenty-nine passengers and six seamen were taken off the ice, eighty-six of whom were put in different vessels. No pen can describe the pitiable situation and destitution of these passengers—parents, with loss of children, children with loss of parents, and they themselves almost naked, and the greatest part of them frost-bitten. Fifty-five persons perished before assistance could be rendered them.

Dispensing Power.—The Catholic fast of Friday in each week, was abolished at Cincinnati, as it also had been previously at St. Louis, during the prevalence of the cholera—meats, especially if smoked, being considered of less danger than fish and vegetables.

Memphis Convention.—On the 4th inst., a great convention of persons favorable to the construction of a railroad from some point on the lower Mississippi to the Pacific, is to be held at Memphis, Tenn. The Governor of South Carolina has invited one hundred and twenty gentlemen of that state to attend it, and Governor Towns, of Georgia, has extended a similar invitation to 100 citizens of that state. The citizens of Mobile and other towns in the Southern and Southwestern States are holding meetings on the subject.

Railroads in England.—In a speech recently delivered by Lord Brougham, in the British Parliament, he stated that £180,000,000 had already been invested in Railroads in Great Britain, and that £150,000,000 would have further to be paid up, to make good existing subscriptions.

Costly Boiler.—The steam boiler which is being made in Philadelphia, for the United States steam frigate now in process of construction at the Brooklyn navy yard, is composed of 75,000 pounds of pure copper, and will cost $30,000.

Great Squirrel Hunt.—The Cincinnati Gazette gives the result of a squirrel hunt lately by eight gentlemen, four on a side. They were gone but a few hours over a day, and returned with four hundred and thirty-four head of the animals.

German Immigration.—Ten thousand emigrants from Germany have been engaged by the North American Land Company, acting in conjunction with companies in London and Germany, and will arrive in this country during the present year.

Episcopal Election.—At the recent session of the Protestant Episcopal Convention of Mississippi, held at Natchez, the Rev. Wm. M. Greene, D. D., President of the University of North Carolina, was unanimously chosen Bishop of the Diocese.

Energetic Railroad Construction.—There are about 2,500 men at work on the Columbus and Cleveland Railroad, mainly on the first 35 miles out of Columbus. It will be carrying freight and passengers during the fall.

Fearful Mortality.—It is stated in the Natchez Courier that 39 out of 40 slaves on the plantation of Mr. James Miller, in Waterproof, La., have died of the cholera.

Huguenots.—A Huguenot congregation, numbering seventy members, exist in New Orleans, and a house of worship is about to be erected for its accommodation.

☞ Pope Pius has addressed his patriarchs, bishops, and people, and declared authoritatively that the Virgin Mary was conceived without the original taint of sin. This immaculate conception has been the topic of long dispute among Romanists. Pius has settled it in his exile.

Honors to the Memory of Gen. Gaines.—The Secretary of War has issued the necessary orders for the military obsequies to the memory of the late lamented Gen. Gaines.

☞ Some 200,000 German immigrants, mostly men of means, more or less compromised in the revolutions, are expected to reach America during summer—probably adding some millions to the funds in the country. The investments for German account in our National and State funds are said to be very large.

☞ Bishop Alexander, on the 21st of January, solemnly consecrated a Christian church at Jerusalem. The Syrian Bishop was present, with several Priests and Deacons.

☞ At the Polytechnic Institution in London is exhibited one pound of glass, spun by steam into a length of 4000 miles, and woven with silk into beautiful dresses and tapestry.

☞ The Allegheny City Council have ordered the sale of City unimproved property, valued at $150,000, to take up the scrip in circulation.

☞ The Philadelphia Bulletin says that nearly one hundred thousand of the new one dollar pieces have been already coined at the mint.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRESENT STATE OF THE SEVEN CHURCHES OF ASIA.

At a recent meeting of the Asiatic society, the secretary read a memoir, by Capt. J. T. Newbold, on the present condition of the seven churches of Asia, mentiond in the Revelation, which the writer has recently visited. He observes that the history of these interesting localities is well known; but their present condition has been little adverted to.

Ephesus, the first church mentiond by St. John, and that which still maintains its ecclesiastical superiority in giving a title to the Greek Archbishop, while the others have only Bishops at their head, though it is low in statistical importance. The port of Ephesus is now choked up by a pestiferous morass and lonely walls, tenanted only by the Jackal, occupy the site of the once populous city. The village of Ayasalux stands about a mile from the ruins, and contains about forty scattered cottages, one only tenanted by a christian.

Smyrna, The most flourishing of the whole, is an increasing city. Its population, which twenty years ago was about 77,000, is now 130,000, and is rapidly increasing. There are five Greek, three Latin, and two Protestant churches. The Greeks have numerous schools, and the Latins a large college; but the Protestant schools have failed. The Greek church at Smyrna continues in a flourishing condition.

Pergamos is the most prosperous of the churches, after Smyrna. The population is 16,000, of whom 14,000, are Turks, and nearly all the rest Christians. The Christian quarter contains two Greek churches and one Armenian. Close to the ancient church he found a Greek school, where the pupils were seated on marble tomb-stones, which formed the pavement of the school.

Thyatira is still a flourishing town. It had been lost to the Christian world from the fall of Constantinople, under the Turkish name of Alkhissar, until brought to light in the seventeenth century. The population is above 19,000, of whom 2,000 are Greeks, and 120 Armenians, each having a church; the former said to be on the site of the Apocalyptic church.

Sardis, the ancient capital of Cræsus, is now more desolate than ever Ephesus. Scarcely a house remains. Massive ruins of buildings still remain, the wall of which is made up of sculptured pieces of Corinthian and Ionic columns, that once formed portions of the ancient temples.

Philadelphia has a population of 10,000 Turks and 3,000 Greeks. It contains twenty-five churches, all small and mean, but containing fragments of ancient sepulchres. A massive ruin was pointed out as the church of the Apocalypse.

Laodicea, whose fate had been forgotten for centuries, was brought to light in the seventeenth century. It was and is a mass of desolate ruins. The hills on which it stands have been supposed to be volcanic. but erroneously. They are composed of aqueous beds, chiefly limestone. Church of England Magazine.

THE DUTY, MANNER AND TIME OF GIVING.

Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him.—1 Cor. 16: 2.

From the above text we learn, that it is not improper to collect money for benevolent purposes on the Sabbath.

This text shows it to be the duty of ALL Christians to give something for the support of the cause of Christ. Do you ask, what is the cause of Christ, I answer the work of saving souls. He has no other cause upon earth. To sustain this cause, I repeat, ALL the members of the church are bound to give. But you will ask, perhaps, what those are to do who are too poor to give, I know of none such.—Your Divine Master was POOR—"had not where to lay his head"—his apostles were poor. Yet our blessed Saviour had in his little family a benevolent society and a treasurer—probably appointed by vote.

The congregation is badly trained where the more wealthy members are expected to pay the pastor's salary and defray the contingent expenses of the church. Give, brethren, if it be only six and a fourth cents per year.

Members of the congregation—perhaps the Deacons—are sometimes to blame on this subject. It is too small a business to go around among the poor of the congregation to collect a few cents here and there. I have been an observer of these things for many years and have always seen matters go on best and last longest were all gave—EVERY ONE OF YOU, it will be seen, is in the text—EVERY ONE,

No, brethren, "despise not the day of small things." Train all your members to give something, and to do it systematically or statedly—once a month, quarterly or weekly, if thought best. The church at Corinth gave weekly.

But how much shall each one give? Here again let us refer to the rule—"AS GOD HATH PROSPERED HIM." If he be in a large business and very successful, let him give more; but, if unfortunate, less. If the crop be good and produce in great demand, let the farmer give accordingly. If the merchant make good sales and safe collections, let him remember the rule. So with the doctor, lawyer, mechanic, &c., give "as God prospers" you. Why it is the plainest rule in the world. If you make little, give little, and if you make more, give more. And if you make nothing this year, go back and draw upon the income of last year. Nothing is more common than for members of the church in case of misfortune, to forget the prosperity of former years, and excuse themselves from giving, Perhaps the calamity was sent because they had not previously given "as God has prospered" them. If you wish prosperity next year, be sure to pay what you owe the Lord this year, if all other debts remain unpaid.

SPEECH BY SENATOR BENTON ON SLAVERY.

Senator Benton made a speech at Jefferson City, recently, upon the subject of slavery, the first part of which, only, is published, and occupies several columns of the paper in which it appeared.

Mr. Benton goes into a lengthy exposition of Mr. Calhoun's inconsistency upon the question of slavery. Mr. B. is very explicit. He says that it is absurd to deny that Congress has the power to legislate as it pleases upon the subject of slavery in territories; it has never used the power; and with the sanction of all the authorities, state and territorial, from the formation of the government to the present time, Congress has had the power to prohibit or admit slavery, and no one else. It is not in territories, or their government and its deputies, or the creatures of Congress.

No citizen of any state can carry any property derived from a law of that state, an inch beyond the boundary line which creates it. Slave property, for this reason, cannot be removed to California or New Mexico. Nor can any legal establishment of slavery be looked for in either territory. The only effect of carrying slaves there, would be to set them free. The people of both territories were unanimous against it.

The Missouri resolutions were copied from those offered by Mr. Calhoun in the senate of 1847, and to know their design, you must know his was aimed at the harmony and stability of the Union, and that the members from slave-holding States would not hold the lead, myself especially.

RAILROAD TO CALIFORNIA.

A public meeting in Boston has appointed a committee to present Mr. Degrand's project of a railroad from St. Louis to San Francisco, to the President, and to ask the aid of the government. It proposes that a company be chartered, with a capital of $100,000,000; of this $2,000,000 is to be paid in by private subscription, and the remainder to finish the road, not exceeding $98,000,000, it is proposed to borrow of government, in stock payable in London. It is also proposed that Congress shall give to the company a strip of land ten miles wide, north of the track, and shall grant the right to take gravel, stones, &c., from the public lands. to construct the road. To secure the loan of United States' stock, and the carrying out of the company's contract, it is proposed that the United States shall take a mortgage of the road and its property.

FEATHER BEDS.

Feather beds are highly injurious: because "the whole external skin of the human body, is continually exhaling a vapor loaded with various excermentitions matters, and held in an æriform state by the heat which passes with it from the body. Feathers being non-conductors not only retain much of this heat about the body, but also retain so much of the gaseous and other perspired substances as to keep the body surrounded by a very impure atmosphere, while in bed. This impure atmosphere penetrates into every part of the bed; and besides this, there is always more or less of dead animal matter belonging to the feathers, whch is continually undergoing decomposition and forming unwholesome gases and offensive odors.

A HUSBAND'S COMMANDMENTS.

Thou shalt not gad in the streets, thou shalt not covet the articles thou seest in the store windows, nor twenty dollar embroidered handkerchiefs, nor ten breadths to thy dresses, nor eight flounces, but thou shalt clothe thyself and thy household with such as thy husband can afford.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Woods-meeting.

A Woods-meeting will be held near brother Bolden's, Hancock county, Ohio, commencing on the 15th of August.

Camp-meeting.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the farm of brother John Stump, on the old camp-ground, two miles east of Bethleham, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 22d of August.

The brethren generally are invited to attend, particularly the latter meeting, with their tents. It will be expected that the brethren of Wayne county will attend with their tents, inasmuch as there is no camp on their circuit this year.

A. MEGREW,
On behalf of the Committee.

East Pennsylvania Camp-Meetings.

Agreeably to appointment, the Standing Committee met in Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, on Wednesday, the 27th ult., to arrange the Camp-Meetings for this season: when sundry applications were made, and the meetings arranged as follows, to wit:

1. The first Camp-meeting will be held, Providence permitting, near Andersonstown, York county, commencing on Friday, the 10th of August, proximo.

2. The second Camp-meeting will be held on the Camp Hill, near Bowman's, Cumberland county, about two miles from Harrisburg, commencing on Friday, the 17th of August next.

3. The third will be held near Germany, Perry county, commencing on Monday, the 20th of August.

4. The forth will be held at or near Stonerstown, Bedford county, commencing on Friday, the 24th of August.

5. The fifth will be held at Auburn, Schuylkill county, commencing on Monday, the 27th of August.

Should any other meetings be desired, application can be made to the Editor of the Advocate.

ABRAHAM SWARTZ,
JOHN WINEBRENNER,
JACOB KELLER.

POETRY.

TO A STAR.

BY J. F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

Gentle, little, twinkling star,
Shining in the skies afar,
How I love to gaze on thee—
Oh! how dear thou art to me!

When I see thee in the night,
Shedding forth thy brilliant light,
Thought doth flee to ages back,
When thou lit the shepherds' track!

Bright as any golden gem
In an angel's diadem—
Thou hast mirrored tales of love,
How they reign who live above.

Thou hast told me by thy light
That in Heaven all is bright—
Thou hast whispered by thy rays
Hope to me of better days.

Oh, thou little golden guide!
Distant on a space so wide—
Never, till I cease to see
Shall I stop from loving thee!

Thou art mine!—I'd like to keep
Such a guardian of my sleep!—
Thou art mine—for thus it seems
When I wander in my dreams!

Baltimore, Md., May, 1849.

HYMN.

1. Should bounteous nature kindly pour.
Her richest gifts on me,
Still, O, my God, I should be poor,
If void of love to thee.

2. Not shining wit, nor manly sense,
Could make me truly good,
Nor zeal itself, could recompense,
The want of love to God.

3. Did I possess the gift of tongues,
And were devoid of grace,
My loudest words, my softest songs,
Would be but sounding brass.

4. Tho' thou should give me heavenly skill,
Each mystery to explain,
Had I no heart to do thy will,
My knowledge would be vain.

5. Had I so strong a faith my God,
As mountains to remove,
No faith could do me real good,
That did not work by love.

6. O, grant me then, this one request,
And I'll be satisfied,
That love divine may rule my breast,
And all my actions guide.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 24th of May, by Elder A. J. Fenton, Mr. PERRY DIGGS, of Washington county, Md., to Miss CHARLOTTE GAY, of Jefferson county, Va.

On the 2d of June, by the same, Mr. ISAAC DIGGS to Miss REBECCA HOMES, all of Washington county, Md.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On the 9th ult., ELLEN CATHARINE HORNING, aged 10 years, 1 month and 9 days.

Departed this life, April 14th, 1849, ANTOINETTE MAGUIRE, daughter of Jane Bankson, after an illness of two days, aged 6 years, 5 months and 29 days.

Funeral services by H. Murray, from Matt. 18: 3.

MY CHILD.

There is no trace of suffering now,
Upon her calm, sweet face;
The silken tresses o'er her brow,
Have found a resting place.

Those little lips, a withered rose,
Have lost their fragrant breath;
And now her dreamy eye-lids close—
It is the sleep of death.

Oh! will they not my darling save?
She is too pure—too fair—
To place within the dark, cold grave,
And leave forever there.

I cannot have the summer rain,
All night, fall on her head;
And when the winter comes again,
The snow drift on her bed.

Is there no eye above to see?
No ear to hear my cry?
And give my darling back to me,
Or suffer me to die.

I see her there, all cold and still,
Too pure a thing for earth;
And must I bow unto His will,
Who knew my Antoinette's worth?

Then lay her in her little shroud,
The snowy veil replace:
I would not have the wordly crowd,
Gaze on her angel face.

So leave me here alone to-night—
Alone with this pure clay;
But come thou with the morning light,
And bear her form away.

Now let me weep;—you cannot feel
The cord that's snapp'd in twain:
Oh! let me weep;—it will not heal
Until we meet again.

JANE BANKSON.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,	$4 00	a 4	12½
Do. RYE, do.	2 25	a 2	37
Do. CORN, do.	2 20	a 2	25
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,	90	a	93
Do. RYE, do.	48	a	50
Do. CORN, new do.	47	a	48
Do. OATS, do.	25	a	26
Do. BARLEY, do.	60	a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER, do.	3 00	a 3	50
Do. TIMOTHY, do.	3 00	a 3	25
Do. FLAX, do.	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt.	5 00	a 5	50
PORK, do.	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound,	7	a	8
BUTTER, do.	12½	a	15
LARD, do.	7	a	8
TALLOW, do.	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen,	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel,	50	a	60
ONIONS, do.	75	a	87½
APPLES, do.	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound,	37½	a	45
WOOL, do.	30	a	50
SALT, per sack,	1 30	a 1	31
HAY, per ton,	12 00	a15	00
PLASTER, per ton,	4 00	a 4	50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,	$4 50	a 4	62
Do. RYE, do.	2 75	2 a	80
Do. CORN, do.	2 70	a 2	75
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,	1 00	a 1	02
Do. RYE, do.	56	a	58
Do. CORN, new do.	60	a	61
Do. OATS, do.	30	a	31
Do. BARLEY, do.	75	a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER, do.	3 00	a 3	50
Do. TIMOTHY, do.	2 75	a 3	00
Do. FLAX, do.	1 30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt.,	7 00	a 8	75
PORK, do.	7 00	a 7	25

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Dow's Family Medicine.

AS sundry persons, here and there, are beginning to complain of Bilious Fevers, Dysentery, Fever & Ague, &c., we would advise them to call and get Dow's Medicine, which is a most excellent remedy for these and other complaints.

For sale at the office of the Church Advocate. Price 50 cents per bottle. Aug. 1.

Agents Wanted.

SUITABLE persons can find employment for the sale of the "He Pasa Ekklesia," in this and other States. Apply to the Editor of the Advocate.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

THOMSONIAN MEDICINE STORE.

REMOVAL.

DR. W. BARR begs leave to inform the citizens of Harrisburg and vicinity, and the public in general, that he has removed his Medicine Store to the N. W. corner of WALNUT and SECOND streets, where he now has, and constantly keeps on hand, a general assortment of

Thomsonian Medicines, Medical Books, Instruments, &c., &c.,

together with his well known preparations for the cure of Rheumatism, Tetter, Scald or Sore Head, Itch, or any eruption of the Skin, Sore Mouth or Throat, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Liver Complaint, Coughs, Colds, Headache, Costiveness, Sore Eyes, Fever and Ague, Influenza, Erysipelas, &c., &c., &c. No cure no pay.

Thankful for past favors, he respectfully solicits a continuance of public patronage.

☞ All orders thankfully received and punctually attended to.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—3m.

Tract of Land for Sale.

THE undersigned wishes to sell at private sale, a small tract of land, containing about 30 acres, situated in the village of Andersonstown, York county, Pa.

The improvements thereon are a two story DWELLING HOUSE, 20 by 32 feet; a Log Barn, with Wagon-shed attached to it; a Blacksmith-shop, 20 by 30 feet, with Coal-house attached; together with other out-buildings: such as Mill-house, Pig-stye, Bake-oven, &c.

Also, a thriving young Orchard, and various other fruit trees, with a Pump between the house and shop, and an excellent and never-failing Spring of water a few hundred yards distant from the house.

The whole tract is in a fine state of cultivation, fenced off in small fields, with two acres of wood-land on the premises, and five acres of wood-land in a separate lot, situated about one-fourth of a mile from the 30 acre tract. This lot will be sold with the main tract, or separate, as may best suit the purchaser. Possession and a good title will be given to the purchaser on the first of April, 1850.

Jul, tf. PETER KNISELY.

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., JULY 16, 1849. NUMBER 6.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Charles A. Hay, of Hanover, has received and accepted a call from the Lutheran church in this place, vacated by the removal of the Rev. C. W. Schæffer to Germantown.

Harrisburg Cotton Mill.

We are informed that sufficient stock has been subscribed to ensure the erection of a Cotton Mill in Harrisburg, with a capital of at least $200,000. The company will be immediately organized for the purpose of contracting for the building and machinery.

Barn Burnt by Lightning.

The barn of Mr. Martin Mumma, residing in Lower Swatara township, in this county, was struck by lightning, on Sunday, the 23d ult., and consumed, together with a large quantity of hay, and other articles of value. The loss is estimated at $2,000.

Wool-Growers' Convention.

There was a second Convention of the wool-growers of Western Pennsylvania and Ohio, held in Washington on the 21st ult., when a committee was appointed to organize an association for the establishment of a wool depot at Washington; another for the establishment of a Saving's Fund, to make partial advances on wool; and a third to take measures for the establishment of a woollen manufactory. Measures were also adopted looking to the exportation of the finer qualities of wool to the continent of Europe.

Advance Paying Churches.

There were nine churches that paid for the Advocate in advance. See first page of No. 3. We shall now soon know how many more will pay up within the first three months.—Remember the 1st of August is near at hand. Then pay your papers and save your quarters.

Roman Catholic Church.

The Council of Romish Bishops which recently met in Baltimore, appointed the following Archbishops:—Bishop Hughes, Archbishop of New York; Bishop Blanc, Archbishop of New Orleans, and Bishop Purcell, Archbishop of Cincinnati.

A Word to the Preachers.

Two things are very desirable at present, viz: First, that those who have not yet written their Biographical Sketches, attend to the same without delay: and, secondly, that renewed and general efforts be made to increase the number of our Missionary Pledges.—Please not to lose sight of these matters till they be fully accomplished.

Whig County Ticket.

At the late meeting of the Whig township delegates of this county, the following ticket was settled:—

Assembly—John B. Rutherford, Thomas Duncan. Prothonotary—Stephen Miller. County Treasurer—Jno. J. Clyde. Commissioner—Felix Nissley. Director—Christian Ummel. Auditor—Samuel Gilbert.

The Fourth of July.

The return of the Anniversary of our National Independence is well calculated to awaken a multitude of profitable reflections in the minds of American Christians. Seventy-three years have passed away since first these United States took their place as a separate and independent people among the nations of the world.

And now where is there another nation like to this Nation? Search the wide world over, and you will not find a single nation that will compare with the United States of America.

1. Here is the best soil and climate for all kinds of agricultural products.
2. Here labor is best rewarded.
3. Here is the cheapest living, because here are the cheapest and best markets.
4. Here are the best facilities for acquiring knowledge and a good education.
5. Here is the best form of civil Government.
6. Here are the most healthy, industrious, enterprising and prosperous people.
7. Here the inhabitants enjoy the greatest amount of civil and religious freedom.

The First Religious Newspaper.

The "Christian History" was the first religious newspaper in the United States, and was published in Boston. It was printed by Kneeland and Green, for Thomas Price, Jr., A. B. Each number contains 8 pages, and forms a neat 8vo. volume of 416 pages in the year.

This paper was essentially a newspaper—a religious newspaper. It was devoted to the history of revivals in this country, and to intelligence from the Scotch revivals. It was patronised and sustained by such men as Edwards, Prince, Webb, Cooper, Foxcraft, Colman and others. Edwards prepared for its columns his account of the revivals before the year 1740.

Baptism of Ex-President Polk.

There are two serious errors connected with the baptism of the late President Polk, viz: The state and manner in which it was done.

1st. The state of mind in which he received the ordinance, if his own confession is to be believed, was not according to truth. Hear and judge from his own words. Seven days before his death, he sent for Dr. Edger, a Presbyterian minister, and to whom he said:

"Sir, if I had suspected twenty years ago that I should come to my death-bed, unprepared, it would have made me a wretched man; yet I am about to die, and have not made preparation. I have not even been baptized. Tell me, sir, can there be any ground for a man thus situated to hope?"

Now if it be so, that "he had made no preparation for death," and felt himsef "unprepared," then, in our opinion, he was unprepared for baptism. Baptism alone, in any state of mind, would not, and could not, prepare him. And, on the assumption that he was prepared for it, and therefore bound to attend to it, he was equally prepared for and bound to attend to Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper. Why did he not desire these ordinances? Why did not the minister of Christ teach him to observe all things, whatsoever Christ has commanded? Is it not as essentially necessary, in order to salvation, to obey God in the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper as it is to obey Him in the ordinance of Baptism? If not, then partial obedience is just as good as entire obedience. And who will dare to maintain that? No one, we venture to assert, will undertake to do so. Why, then, we ask, did not President Polk desire to obey God in these ordinances as well as in baptism? And why did not his mother bring some minister along with her to administer the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper, as well as bring her minister along to baptize him? But,

2d. The manner in which it was done was another great error. If Christ has commanded immersion, or a burial with him in baptism, it will not do to substitute something else, and call it baptism. Will any one pretend to say that dusting the feet is Feet-washing, or that eating meat and drinking ale is the Lord's Supper? No, verily not. But alas! the world by wisdom knows not God! The right ways of the Lord are hid from the wise and prudent, but revealed to babes. May the Lord convert the people, and conform them to the image of a child!

Scriptural Discipline.---No. 1.

The life, purity and prosperity of the church depends, in a great measure, on a faithful exercise of Scriptural discipline. To insure the administration of good Bible discipline, two things are indispensable.

1st. Competent officers. Bad men will never make good rulers. Neither will all good men make the right kind of officers. It takes wise, attentive and through-going men to rule well. It requires men "full of faith;" who can trust God for the protection of his cause, when they truly and faithfully administer his laws.

2d. Bible rules. Human laws will not do for Bible discipline. Evils, and evil-doers, that cannot be reached with Bible rules, had better be tolerated and borne with. To judge and set at nought our brethren, for slight causes, or on our "ipsi dixit," without a clear Divine warrant, is any thing but Scriptural Discipline. For instance, to fellowship infant sprinklers, and excommunicate Sons of Temperance;—to fraternize Sectarians, and such as cause divisions contrary to the doctrine of Christ, and expel our brethren for opinion's sake,—to brother the luke-warm and coveteus, and to unchristianize the zealous and tithe-paying saints, is a Babylonish blunder for which there is no apology.

But no discipline is worse, if any thing, than bad discipline. Bible rules must be maintained. Christian order and discipline must be kept up, or religion will sink. The sad declensions and fruitless efforts in the church in these days, is attributable, in our opinion, to the want of wholesome discipline more than any thing else. If this be so, then let those who sigh and cry for the abominations which are committed in the holy city, (the church,) wake up and sanctify the people by the exercise of a faithful Scriptural discipline, and the God of grace and order will soon restore the joys of his great salvation. Lamps must be trimmed, to burn well. Trees must be pruned, to bear well. Gardens must be weeded, to yield well. Children must be corrected, to do well. Kingdoms must be governed well, to prosper. So, even so, Churches of God must be ruled and disciplined according to the Scriptures, in order to increase and prevail.

The Bible furnishes not only the best, but also, the only authoritative rules, for keeping the church in proper order. Office-bearers of the Church of God stand to your posts.—Neglect not your duty as rulers and overseers of the flock of God. Rule well the house of God, and you shall be counted worthy of double honor.

[To be continued.]

Disposition of a Sermon.

The following is a sketch or skeleton of a sermon preached at the funeral of George Rupp, Jr., who hung himself in the garret of his own house, May 21st, 1849.

Text.—"In those days men shall seek death."—Rev. 9: 6.

Consider,—

1. What death is.
2. What it is to seek death.
3. Who it is that seeks death.
4. The reasons why it is sought; and,
5. The sin and folly of seeking it.

I. What is meant by death? The word is used to signify,—

1. A separation between soul and body, and the extinction of the principle of natural life This is natural death. Matt. 20: 18. 1 Cor. 11: 26. Acts 8: 1. Rom. 5: 12.

2. A departure from God, by reason of a carnal and sinful state. This is spiritual death. John 5: 25. Eph. 5: 14.

3. The damnation of hell. This is eternal death. Rom. 6: 21 and 23. Rev. 20: 14.

4. The legal dispensation. 2 Cor. 3: 7.

5. The danger of losing life. 2 Cor. 11: 23.

6. A poisonous or deadly thing. 2 Kings 4 40.

7. A contagious and dangerous disease. Jer. 15: 2.

II. What it is to seek death.

1. An inordinate desire for it.

2. Pursuing the road to death. They that live in sin seek death. James 1: 15.

3. Committing suicidal acts..

III. Who are the persons that seek it? As a general thing,—

Negatively,

1. Not Christian men.
2. Not sane men.
3. Not healthy men; but,

Affirmatively,

1. Aged and worn-out men.
2. Sick and tormented men.
3. Disgraced and ruined men.
4. Insane and melancholy men.

IV. The reasons why many seek death.

1. Worldly loss and sorrow.
2. A desire to be relieved from pain and suffering.
3. Hopes of avoiding public exposure and disgrace.
4. Insanity and despair.

V. The Sin and folly of seeking death.

1. Because it is unreasonable.
2. Because it is unscriptural.
3. Because it invades the rights and prerogatives of God.
4. Because it jeopardizes the soul's everlasting interests.

Fast Day.

The President of the United States has appointed Friday, the 3d day of August next, as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer, in reference to that fell destroyer of man, the Spasmodic Cholera. We hope it will be devoutly observed by the entire people of the U. S.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Materialism Refuted.---No. 2.

In the New Testament it is said, "Life and immortality is brought to light through the gospel." It does not affirm it had no existence before; but in the gospel we have a clearer development of it, and that the veil that had partially covered it, has been withdrawn. The testimony it affords should be decisive.

The first we notice is to be found in Matt. 4: 4, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord. His two distinct natures are here implied. For it is certain man's material body can live on bread alone, or material substance, because it is adapted to his physical nature. But a mere knowledge of God's word will not, in itself, afford nourishment to his body, because not adapted thereto; it being the legitimate food of mind, therefore he does not live by bread alone, and vice versa.

Another fact implied is, that the pleasures of the body and mind are distinct. From eating and drinking the body receives its pleasures. From knowledge, virtue, and religion, mind receives its delights. The conclusion from these premises is, that man is composed of two natures, and for his happiness in life, he needs two kinds of nourishment; and these being different in nature and kind, therefore he is not entirely material. But the New Testament, I think, plainly teaches that man is a complex being, and that the soul or spirit lives after the death of the body. This, I think, is the doctrine it teaches, and that it will afford ample proof for its confirmation.

The first I give, in support of the proposition, is to be found in Matt. 17: 1—8. This contains a history of his transfiguration on the Mount, and that Moses and Elias were present. Elias is one of those who had been translated, therefore his presence is easily accounted for. But how shall we account for Moses' presence? For according to Num. 27: 33, and Deut. 34: 6, he died and was buried. Yet we find him living in the days of Christ, and conversed with him on the Mount. If he did not survive the dissolution of his body, his presence at this time is unaccountable. To say he was translated, would be giving the lie to God's testimony, as contained in the above passages; and to say he was raised from the dead before would make void the fact declared by the Apostle, that Christ was the first born from the dead, and that he should have the pre-eminence in all things. If Moses was raised from the dead, it was with an immortal body; and if so, he then would have been the first born from the dead, and not Christ. Others had been raised from the dead before, but to die again. His presence on the Mount can therefore only be accounted for by the declaration, that after death "he should be gathered to his people."

Some persons have thought that the passage contained in Matt. 27: 52, accounts for his presence, where it says, "The graves were opened, and many bodies of the saints arose, and appeared to many." On the face of this passage the doctrine which we advocate is found, instead of giving the solution of his presence with Christ on the Mount. There might have been something plausible in it, if the transfiguration had taken place after the resurrection; tub it says it (their resurrection) took place at his resurrection—the transfiguration long before—therefore it is of no force. This Scripture sustains our view; for it says "bodies of the saints." This looks very much as if the saints owned bodies, which had been absent for a while, and had been restored to them again. The fact of Moses' living is a clear demonstration that man has a conscious existence after death.

In Matt. 22: 23, the same doctrine is taught. In this you have Christ's answer to the doctrine of the Sadducees, who denied the resurrection, angels and spirits. This answer contains the doctrine of a conscious state. "I am the God of the living, and not of the dead." If the dead here spoken of were in no sense then living, (as the opposite teaches,) then he would have been, according to this declaration, the God of nothing. It is certain that they were dead; and if it included soul and body, on this hypothesis we unavoidably make him the God of nothing. On the other hand, we make him the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, because they were then living, although their bodies were dead. Death to them was not the extinction of intelligence, but its absence from the body. And this constituted the man in reality and fact: for as the body is the medium of communication with this world, while the mind resides in it, so death, as Paul calls it, is only a departure from it. Hence the truth of the declaration in the text. If the opposite be true, they were dead soul and body: and if this declaration has any meaning, he was not their God. This shows the absurdity of the theory of the unconscious state of the dead.

In Matt. 16: 22, we have the value and danger of losing the soul. Its worth he wished to impress on the mind, and by the comparison he makes, the danger of losing it. Its loss is nowhere represented by the idea of extinction, but exclusion from happiness. It also teaches that after its loss it still exists. If it went down to the grave with the body, how can it be lost? The mere loss of a thing does not blot it out of being, but places it where it should not be. Another truth is, there can be no exchange for it after man goes beyond life. Therefore its happiness only can be secured here, and not hereafter. Why does he wish to teach its value, if it possessed only a common nature with the body? I cannot conjecture. But on the ground of its immateriality, the reason to me is an obvious one; the soul being the thinking, feeling and willing part of man, its happiness depended materially upon the proper direction of its powers; and a loss of happiness is the danger to which it is exposed.

In Luke 16 we have the clearest evidence of the conscious state of the dead, if common sense is to be the interpretation. The first thing observable is, a rich and poor man in life, with the conveniences of the one and the inconveniences of the other; secondly, their death; thirdly, their conscious existence after death; fourthly, the diversity of their state and condition; fifthly, the rich man's concern for his brethren. These are the prominent facts presented in this passage of Scripture, and this seems to be the common sense meaning. I judge that ninety-nine out of one hundred would take this view of the passage. It is certain the Bible was intended for all classes, and not to be confined to a few, who alone can understand it. But it is a book adapted to the capacities of all, and therefore the duty of all to search the Scriptures. Why is it that the great mass have been deceived in respect to facts contained in this passage, provided the opposite be true? Aand if so, it belongs to them to answer the question. It has taken a labored effort at sophistry to darken the truth contained in it.

It is said to be a parable. Whether it is or not, it is certain there is nothing in the passage that warrants this conclusion; for it says, "There was a certain rich man," &c. It bears on its face the language of history; and until they find something in the passage, or its connection, that warrants us to believe that Christ used it as such, we have no right to use it contrary to its original intention and common sense construction. On the admission it is a parable, this admission would not destroy a single truth it elucidates. It is unquestionably true, parables are intended to teach truth; and what other truth can it teach but this, that a man lives after death? This is unavoidable, if any thing is elucidated. If the description in the text was not real, it was intended to elucidate real facts. In order to escape the truth in the text, the materialist says, it describes his state after the resurrection.

On what is this interpretation founded, if valid? There must be something in it to warrant this application. They urge that this is its true intention, because it says he had eyes, tongue, &c.; and as a spirit has none of these, therefore must refer to his state after the resurrection. Does this language make it clear and indisputable, that they give it the true application? Let us examine and see how the case stands. S. A.

[To be continued.]

A Voice from the Far West.

Hail brethren in the East! How do you do? "Bless the Lord, O! my soul, and all that is within me, praise his holy name."—Notwithstanding the hundreds and thousands that are dying by that awful scourge, the Cholera, and otherwise, we are still in the land of the living, in reasonable good health. We enjoy more tranquility and happiness, in a general way, than what I anticipated before I came to this country. God grant it may continue so. Amen. However, I got into the "brush" pretty often since here, but they were only hazle brush! Having got me a horse, and travelled him, perhaps, a little too hard, he got what is called the "Thumps." The complaint being new to me, and I some thirty miles from home, all this together, gave me what is called the "dumps!"—and so poor Barney and I were, for a time, pretty bad, as I think, but now both convalescent.

We are, as yet, still staying in the town of Salem, (Peace,) and I am all the while on the alert; but my mind has not come to a bearing as yet. I have been through part of Henry, Lee, Louisa, Cedar, Johnson, Washington, and other counties. I have found the deep black vegetable soil, which is generally level or flat. Also, the blue-black, or rather greyish soil, more rolling. I found the blueish or lead-colored clay soil, generally on level Prairie, which is rather too cold, like our Pennsylvania yellow lime-stone clay. I have rode for 12 miles over the green carpet of nature. O! what a pasture field—12 miles from fence to fence. Here, on the borders of these Prairies, if you stay over night, you will meet with a salutation from the Prairie Fowl. You may imagine, when you first rise, that you hear some hundreds or thousands of yearling calves bellowing. This fowl is much like the pheasant in color and shape, or in shape like the guinea fowl, but of a rusty color; and in size much like the guinea fowl. Their cooing is not unlike that of the tame male pigeon, or the noise of the owl. During the summer season they generally keep hidden, like our partridges, until toward the fall of the year, say October, when they will become very numerous and destructive to corn. My time being too short, for the present, to continue writing, I shall bring my letter to a close for the present. I intend to go to Johnson county, to see brothers Hawk, Kepford, and others. After my return I shall resume my pen. Farewell.

M. F. SNAVELY.

Salem, Henry Co., Iowa, May 25, 1849.

Voice from the West.---Continued.

HAVING now returned from "North Bend," Johnson county, I resume my subject of writing about Iowa, &c.

On the 29th of 5th month I left Salem at an early hour,—crossed "Skunk River," and passed on to Trenton, where Elder Logue formerly lived,—stayed there until next day.—During my stay I went to Mr. Vanvost's, and saw brother Logue's fine stout son. I also went to the burying ground and saw sister Logue's grave. The remembrance of sister Logue is still lively in this neighborhood, by the people generally. She, it would seem, was of the excellent of the earth. What a blessed thing it is to die in the Lord! Next morning I left that place for North Bend, with a promise to preach on my return in that place. So the Lord prospered my journey, and safely brought me to the house of my old friend, Daniel Doner, where I stayed over that night. From thence I went to see my esteemed brother Hawk and family, and found them all reasonably well. Also, brother Kepford and family. They are well, and seem to be doing well. On Sabbath morning I preached in German, and in the afternoon in English, in that country. There appears to be a considerable ingathering into the "North Bend" settlement. Some six or eight families settled there from York county, Pa.—four from near Plainfield, Cumberland county, Pa.; and during my stay those few days there, there were two families from Ohio landed, and word from one family from Pennsylvania on their way thitherward.

I must say this is a beautiful country. Rich and fertile, and a real nest of Pennsylvanians; and I am told the best of society, since the "Hoosiers" are selling out and going off.

Here, in this settlement, I bought a home,—a beautiful one,—of 120 acres of Prairie and 30 acres timber—very good for this country, though little improvement—for $700 00. Land is on the rise wherever Eastern men settle.

The markets in Iowa City were as follows: Wheat (spring) 50 cents; Corn 15 and 20; Oats 20; Potatoes 35 and 40, cash. We have from there about eight or ten miles to market. Horses sell about like in Cumberland county; perhaps a little lower. Working cattle, good, from $40 00 to $50 00 per yoke. Milk cows from $10 00 to $12 00, for fresh; Sheep, clipped, $1 00 to $1 50, ordinary good; Hogs very low. Dried Pork, round, $4 00 per hundred; Ham $5 00. Prairie Hens by the thousands, in the fall of the year, can be had for the catching of them. No need of paying eight to ten dollars for fish per barrel here. Only spend one half or a whole day, in the spring, in fishing, and you will have as many as you want. One man put up, last spring, three barrels.

Wages, generally speaking, are high. A jour blacksmith gets $20 00 per month. Carpenter's wages per day, $1 00, $1 25 and $1 50.

I hired my three oldest boys. They earn from $19 00 to $20 00 per month—the three. The oldest is going in 16 years. My second daughter is also working from home. No bargain, but not less than from $1 00 to $1 25 per week. Wages for good hired girls is as high as $2 00 per week.

When I left home I promised to give true statements of things, and so I will. Moreover, I thought within myself, I would say all the bad about Iowa that I could find; but I can hardly tell where to begin: and what is still worse on me is, that I ought to have began sooner, for I begin to like it so well by this time, that I can hardly find many bad things to say about it; but I will try withal.

First, the money is, as in all new countries, scarce; and a great deal of trading must be done. Timber, in proportion to Prairie, is too scarce. Fall wheat is difficult to raise; but plenty of spring wheat can be raised, good enough for any use. There are some sloughs or wet places, and hob deep in places, in wet seasons. Barbers plenty! You can get "shaved" most any where among the Hoosiers, and also others. Therefore watch!

But, once for all, this is decidedly one of the most beautiful countries I ever saw. I can lay my hand on my breast and say, I am glad, very glad, I came to this country.—Brother Eberly told me he would not take $500 00 and go back to Chambersburg again.

But I am not yet quite done with the evils of Iowa. In the Prairie country winters are very cold. In fine, the greatest abomination to me is, the devil was here before me, and has those mysteries of iniquity, called "Secret Societies," started. With these "unfruitful works of DARKNESS" I may have no fellowship, but rather reprove them; and this is all that I can do. After thinking over, and hearing and reading of those vain, worldly, selfish institutions, I cannot think that any reflecting child of God can identify himself with those things, in the shape they stand. There must be a want somewhere and somehow. Yea, a want of heavenly mindedness—a want of grace. For if, perchance, one good one is gulled, he will, no doubt, retract shortly, rather than destroy the work of God. Give me room; I fear not to speak, and let the sin thereof rest upon me. Farewell.

Yours, in hope of eternal life,

M. F. SNAVELY.

Salem, Henry Co., Iowa, June 12, 1849.

Indiana Camp-Meeting.

THIS Camp-meeting was held on the old camp ground, Noble county, near Northport. It commenced on the 7th of June, and broke up on the 12th. The weather was somewhat cool. Otherwise we had a pleasant time.

The preachers in attendance were brothers G. Thomas, C. Sands, J. Blickenstaff, A. Slyter, E. Gillespie, a Free-will Baptist preacher, by the name of Keniston, J. Martin and myself. During the meeting there were three persons baptized, and 10 converted, principally youths. We were very much disturbed on Saturday and Sunday nights. After that we had good order.

Brother Slyter appeared before the Standing Committee, to have his character examined, and existing difficulties between him and the Eldership removed. The humility exhibited in his conduct, and the frank acknowledgments made by him, not only excited astonishment and surprise, but had a tendency to arouse the sympathies of the Committee in his favor. He asks pardon, both of the Church and Eldership, for the injuries done them, and desires to be restored to fellowship as in former days. The Committee thought it proper, after hearing his acknowledgments and fair promises, to renew his license, and have him restored again to fellowship.

Yours,

T. HICKERNELL.

June 12, 1849.

Letter from Brother J. B. G. Kinsloe.

WHEELING, Va., June 29, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I LEFT your place on the afternoon of the 8th of May, on board the Juniata Packet Boat "Delaware, Capt Geo. W. Hooper, for Juniata county, where I spent a few days with my parents and friends, and on the morning of the 21st I had the pleasure of resuming my journey for this place, in company with the same kind Captain and crew of the "Delaware," as far as Hollidaysburg. From thence I came to Johnstown, across the Portage Railroad, in the most uncomfortable passenger car I ever had the lot of being crammed into.—From Johnstown we again took the canal as far as Pittsburg, at which place we arrived on the evening of the 23d, and the next morning took passage on the steamboat James Nelson, for this place. Take it altogether the trip was rather a pleasant one. The weather was fine;—with the exception of the cars, the accommodations were good, and all things passed off quite pleasantly.

In the commercial way, there is but little doing here at present, owing, I presume, to the low stage of the water and the existence of the cholera, to an alarming extent, below us. However, the folks will build here, and in this respect Wheeling may decidedly be said to be on the rise. I have been informed that there are upwards of 150 houses being put up here the present season, and I judge it is pretty near correct, for take a stroll in what way you will, it is impossible to evade the piles of lumber, bricks, &c., which are all ready to be placed in their proper places.—The buildings being put up are principally brick dwellings. The 2d Presbyterian church is about erecting a very fine meeting-house. The foundation is laid and the work progressing finely. The Catholics have resumed work on their chapel, and will probably now be able to complete the same. This will be the finest building in the place, and is even now, although not near completed, quite an ornament to the city.

The wire suspension bridge is also being pushed along towards completion. It is now positively stated it will be finished by the 1st of October. This is the largest suspension bridge in the world, (so said,) the span being 1160 feet. This too will add much to the beauty of the place.

All reports to the contrary notwithstanding, I feel happy to inform you that we have not as yet been visited by that fatal scourge, the cholera, notwithstanding it has, and continues to rage to some extent below us, and there has been some cases above us, in Beaver, Pittsburg, &c. We have been signally blessed thus far, in being preserved from this fell destroyer, and the desire and prayer of all is that the day may be far distant when the desolation shall visit us and lay waste the domestic hearth and family circle.

Much credit is due to the Board of Health—the Sanatory Committee, &c., for the promptness and zeal which they have manifested in the discharge of their respective duties; and in fact numbers of our citizens are of the opinion that had it not been for the precautionary measures used, in appointing these committees, and cleansing the streets, alleys, cellars, and the free use of lime, &c., that we would not have it to say at this time, that the city of Wheeling is unusually healthy. Be this as it may, I presume it has been many a long day since Wheeling presented as clean a face to the public gaze as at present. She looks as blythe and gay, and clean and tidy as a buxom lass on her way to see her country cousin.

Quite a sensation was produced a few days since, by the landing of a boat at our wharf with a few cases of cholera on board, and the depositing of one of the passengers, who had died on the way up, in one of our burying places. The deceased is represented as being the daughter of the late Commander Stewart, and her remains are now deposited in a family vault, awaiting the arrival of her friends, for recognition, &c.

The Board of Health received a pretty severe castigation through the columns of one of our papers, the Argus, for permitting the boat to land, after it was ascertained there were cases of cholera on board, and also for permitting a corpse to be landed; but more especially for suffering the same to be conveyed through the streets of our city to its final resting place. This was thought, however, by the majority as an uncalled for piece of business, and is termed by some as a "heartless and senseless censure" upon that body. The Editor of the Gazette, an influential paper published here, says, and we believe he advances the sentiments of the people upon the subject:—"We say, therefore, what our abundant means of ascertaining public opinion on the subject, enables us to say, that almost the entire body, probably ninety-nine in a hundred, of the educated portion of our community, are firm in the belief that the cholera is not contagious, and are of course under no apprehensions of contracting the disease from the sick or the dead who may be brought hither from other places; that were they under such apprehensions, even, they certainly would not object that boats arriving at our wharf with victims of cholera on board, should remain long enough to procure all necessary supplies and medical attendance, nor that the sick should be brought ashore and provided for, and the dead given the rites of christian burial in our cemeteries,"

The cause of religion appears to be somewhat on the advance here. The churches generally are in fine spirits. Considerable zeal is manifested upon the part of the membership; and although there is no special work going on in any of the various denominations, they are looking for better days. God send them, and that speedily:—when party names shall be forgot, and the professed followers of Christ battling under one name, and, having but one object in view, shall put forth their united efforts to build up the "Church of God."

There are none of our brethren here—at least so far as I know of. Would to God there were.

Yours, in the bonds of love,

J. B. G. KINSLOE.

Letter from Bro. A. Megrew, V. D. M.

Wooster, June 19, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

In looking over the 4th number of the present volume of the Advocate, I saw a communication from Elder Myers, dated May 28th, in which he gives a very satisfactory account of his journey from Pennsylvania to Ohio, his trials, the prosperous state of towns, manufactories, &c. But when he comes to speak of the state of the churches in the bounds of the Ohio Eldership, he gives quite a dark color to the picture. I am truly sorry, that I am under the necessity of replying to some things that Elder M. has written, relative to the same. I am, with many others, utterly opposed to the Advocate being loaded with such things, and of brethren combating each other through the paper, when it can be reasonably avoided. It ought to be filled with better things—things that unite and edify one another. But to the point.

In the first place, brother M. says, that his stay here has been so short, that it is impossible for him to know much about the thriving or declining state of the churches within the bounds of the Ohio Eldership. Now, if brother M. had stopped here, it would have been satisfactory. No one could have reasonably expected him to have told that which he did not know. But he goes on to say, "that it is a pity that there is not more union and brotherly love among all the brethren in Ohio." Well, I freely admit that there cannot be too much of these heaven-descending principles among the people of God in any country. But how did brother M. ascertain so very soon, that there was a lack of these principles among the brethren in Ohio, having been here but a few days, and not having been, I presume, in the bounds of any of the local churches?—Why, he says he has it from hear-say. So, then, some one who appears to have quite an extensive knowledge, has been quite busy in giving brother M. the earliest information respecting the state of things.

In the second place he says, it is a pity there is so much hair-splitting going on—so much contending about mere words and forms.—Now, where does brother M. learn all these things? O! he says again, only from hear-say. Well, supposing his authority to be good, has brother M. touched the string that was calculated to quell these unpleasant things? I think not.

But again, in the third place he says, that there is much preaching in Ohio in general, but too much of the polemic order, and not enough of plain, practical, matter of fact, &c.

Now, whether brother M. has reference in the latter to the brethren of the Ohio Eldership, or including the different denominations, I can hardly determine; but I am inclined to believe he has reference to the former, and it would, perhaps, generally so be understood, from the fact that he commences with the Ohio Eldership. If this is his meaning, I would just say here, that brother M. has been misinformed, to a very great extent. As to the first, I am satisfied that there is perfect union in the ministry, and also in the local churches, with a very small exception; and as to brotherly love, I do think that the brethren in Ohio give the clearest demonstrations of their love one to another. It is true, they do not extend the hand of Christian-fellowship to schismatics, expelled members, and fomenters of evil, and those who are simple enough to be gulled by those designing men, and who are now cliqued together. But this is no evidence of a want of brotherly love. We have had considerable trouble with these erratic spirits; and besides, we have our faults and imperfections, in common with other Christians; but still, we claim to be upon the original apostolic ground, and we are endeavoring to keep the unity of the spirit, to love as brethren, and to perfect holiness in the fear of God.

As to hair-splitting and contending about words and forms, I would say, thank God, that day is past, and I hope will never return. We have got rid of those strange creatures who can strain at a gnat and swallow a camel. Perhaps there are a few who still keep prating about, and to a stranger they appear very saintly, and, if possible, make him believe that they are right, and all the rest are wrong. In this way these persons still make us some trouble when strangers come in; but it will not be long till their folly will be manifest to all men.

As to the preaching among the brethren, (about others I have little opportunity to know,) it is remarkably plain and practical, so far as I can judge. Upon the whole, I must say, some have been expelled, and others have absconded, in one way or another, yet the church has lost nothing, but on the other hand, I think, has gained much. So that the prospects are good at present, and the church is prospering. This, at least is my opinion, and I have endeavored to give things as I really believe them to exist.

In conclusion, I would just say, with all good feeling towards brother M., and all others, when you go into a strange country, do not undertake to publish to the world the state of things, till you have been there long enough to learn them, and be careful from what source you learn them. May the Lord grant us wisdom, that we may be wise as serpents, and as harmless as doves.

Yours in Christian esteem,

A. MEGREW.

Letter from Brother Wm. Booth.

Milton, Wayne County, Ind., June 18, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

By these lines I inform you that we left Springville, Lancaster county, Pa., the county that gave us birth, on the 14th of May. Winding our course along the Susquehanna and Juniata canals, on the evening of the 18th we arrived at Hollidaysburg, in good health. On the 19th we crossed the Allegheny, and arrived safely, in the evening, at Johnstown. We ran on that night as far as Blairsville. Here we lay over Sabbath. It is right and just that the Sabbath should be observed as a day, sacred. But, in this case, it failed of its original intention. "Oh shame, where is thy blush!" Many of them fell in company with king alcohol, and were so overcome by its power and influence, that it was disgusting to hear the filthy communications that proceeded from their lips. Ourselves being obliged to remain in the boat with our little family, and not enjoying our usual privileges of the Sabbath, it was to us a long and unpleasant day, being among such an evil party.

On Monday morning we again resumed our journey, and on Tuesday, the 20th, in the morning, we arrived at Pittsburg. About ten o'clock we set sail, in the steamer Isaac Newton, down the Ohio river: passing a number of towns scattered on either side of its banks. After a pleasant ride, on the morning of the 24th, we arrived at Cincinnati. In the afternoon at four o'clock, we set sail, in the packet, on the White-water canal. About dusk we passed the farm and residence of the late President Harrison. We seen where he is buried. And on Friday, the 5th, in the evening, we landed at Milton, the end of our journey. We met with a kind reception by our friends and old acquaintances, all being well and in good spirits.

So far as I have had the pleasure to view this country, in my opinion, it is decidedly a fine country. The land around the neighborhood of Milton is of a superior quality. I travelled a short distance North, to Hagerstown, and been to Newcastle, which is the county seat of Henry county. This is decidedly a pleasant location: the land not so good in quality, but will doubtless become a smart town.

The religious societies in this place are Quaker, Methodist, Disciple, Dunkard, &c.—The first mentioned have two houses of worship in Milton, Orthodox and Hicksites. The Methodists have one; and there is a public school-house occupied by various other denominations.

I have inquired, but have not heard of any of the brethren of the Church of God being in this section of the country. I have conversed with various individuals, who say that they have heard yourself preach in the East, and would be happy to see and hear you in this Western country.

I have one request to make, that we wish to be borne in mind by all our brethren and friends. As we are here all alone in this place, having no one to unite with, holding the same views with us, consequently we feel a considerable loss.

Having noticed some time since in the Advocate, that brother Thomas Hickernell is appointed a missionary in the State of Indiana, we would most affectionately invite him to pay us a visit. This invitation we wish also to extend to all who may chance to pass this way. If any of the preachers, as I learn there are a few scattered through this country, can visit us, we shall be glad. We invite them to make themselves acquainted with us, by giving us a call, and talking to us about God and his ways, as soon as they can. We would further say, if there be any of the brethren in this section of the country, we would feel happy to become acquainted with them, if they will be kind enough to make themselves known.

I would inform brother Thomas Hickernell that I have become acquainted with a relation of his, by the name of David Adams, who lives about three miles East of Hagerstown. Will brother Hickernell give us a call? We will do our part in getting a house for preaching. Don't neglect us, dear brethren.

My Post Office address is Milton, Wayne county, Indiana, where you will please to send us the Advocate. We are satisfied that the Advocate will be a great comfort to us. We may there learn what the brethren are doing, if we cannot see or hear them. Our love to you all.

Fraternally yours,

WM. BOOTH.

Letter from Brother T. Hickernell.

Decalb Co., Ind., May 31, 1849.

I have no special news from the circuit. I had a large meeting near Samuel Anderson's, Logan county, which lasted five days, and broke up on the 23d of April. Four persons were forward for prayers, but found no peace.

I also preached five days in the vicinity of Addison, Clark county, Ohio, near brother Wiley's. The meetings were well attended, but no conversions. I went from thence to Dayton, and preached near father Shupp's, one mile below town. From thence I went to Sharpsburg and Euphema, and preached in both of those places. Here I formed an acquaintance with father Hinckle, and found him well. I left there for Dark county, where we attended to the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper, and had quite a good meeting.

Yours truly,

THOS. HICKERNELL.

Remarks.—This letter came to hand too late for No. 5 of the Advocate. We are much obliged to brother Hickernell, for the goodly list of new subscribers, and remittances from old ones. These credits will be given in our next.

Brother Hickernell, being now entitled to our second premium, will please to state how we shall send him the books.

We hope brother H. will visit brothers B. Fritchey and Wm. Booth. They are worthy brethren. For directions where to find them, we refer him to their letters in this and the former number of the Advocate.

Editon.

Letter from Brother John Stump.

Stark County, Ohio, A. D., 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I would once more beg leave, as I have heretofore been favored a place in the Church Advocate, to tell the brethren of the Church of God our doings, our prospects and determinations in serving God. Since the Church of God has been first set in order in the neighborhood of Stump's, (a few years ago,) we have been taking the last will and testatment of our Saviour Jesus Christ as our only rule and guide of faith and practice, and we have always found it a sufficient guide to square our lives by, and also to transact business for the church. Although we have had great opposition from the creed-making community, yet still we stand up for Jesus and His word.

Dear brethren in Christ, let us try to avoid every thing that is unscriptural, and rule the Church of God by the Book of God, and if God is for us, who can be against us? If we have been born into Christ, then we have put on Christ; and if we have been born into Luther, Calvin, Wesley, Clark, M. Simon, Albright, Otterbein, or Herr, then we have put them on. Then also we walk in them, and rule and govern the church by them, and by their creeds and doctrines. But let us remember what Christ says, "I am the vine, ye are the branches." Let us recollect also that He is the chief corner-stone, upon which foundation we are to build. And if so, then we may not build on man or the arm of flesh. Christ and the Church do not belong to man, but to God.

Brethren, let us be very careful when we transact business for God, not to go by men's opinions, but take the word of God for our only guide and rule of faith and practice.

A word to the brethren and sisters of the Stark County Circuit, and the surrounding Circuits. The Committee of the Ohio Eldership has been so kind as to appoint another Camp-meeting on the old camp-ground, in my woods, commencing on the 23d day of August next. This is the fourth year we shall meet on that camp-ground, if God permits us to live and have our health, and we have never, as yet, had the camping-ground fully surrounded with tents. I would therefore earnestly invite every one that knows God to meet with us, without fail. It has every year been the case that many have excused themselves from tenting out. Excuses will be accepted when there is sickness or death, but let us try, brethren, to lay aside all unnecessary excuses, and let us bring out our tents to surround the camp-ground, and give one week out of fifty-two entirely to the service of God. Let us not say we are too poor to bring a tent. If you will but make application, a tent will be given you. If you are in tack of provision to support a tent, tell me, and I will pledge myself to supply your wants. And if you will say I have not the time to spare, recollect what the word of God says, "First seek the kingdom of heaven, and all things shall be added to you." God has created us to glorify Him. Now let us do it with all our hearts. Some of those who found the favor of God at the last year's Camp-meeting are now with us no more, but are gone to reap the fruits of their doings.—Again, think also, many of our friends and neighbors are yet strangers to God. O! come, brethren, let us labor together for the welfare of souls. Bring out your tents without excuse. God has visited His Church at this place very rapidly, in calling a goodly number from us, that were, one year ago, yet out of Christ.—Perhaps, by coming to Camp-meeting, some of your children may be brought into the fold of Christ.

We ask the prayers of all those who know the worth of prayer, that some good may be done at this Camp-meeting. Will the preaching brethren be sure to attend! I send you here one new subscriber. No more.

Your affectionate brother in Christ,
JOHN STUMP.

Letter from Brother T. Hickernell.

Lagrange Co., Ind., June 12, 1849.

Is Brother Samuel Sherich dead! Has another faithful watchman on the walls of Zion fallen! His voice and earnest cries can be heard no more in the land amongst the living. You may guess what were my feelings, when I read this obituary notice, in the Advocate: especially when I come to contemplate the circumstance of my conversion to God, as being partly attributable to his coming to the place of my nativity to live, immediately after his espousal to Christ. He moved to Lisburn, Cumberland county, Pa., about 24 years ago; where he set up the wagon-making business. I was at that time 12 years and several months old. I was surprised to hear him make a public prayer, for some time before that, he had been a very wicked man. He and brother Isaac Millard commenced holding prayer-meetings, which I frequently attended. A revival immediately took place, and about the close of the same, I was brought into the ark of safety.

After my espousal to Christ, I frequently visited him to receive instruction and comfort. He oftimes tried to encourage me by saying: O! Tommy, Tommy, prove faithful. I oftimes left his house much encouraged, after laboring under dark clouds and disconraging scenes and circumstances. But, alas! he is now gone. I look back upon by-gone days with deep emotions; but I trust our loss is his infinite gain. No more time to write.

Yours, &c.,
THOS. HICKERNELL.

The Mother's Blasphemy.

BY JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

A scene of gloom—'twas in a darkened hall,
Within the precincts of a crowded town,
There a mother sat beside her infant,
Who stretched its little arms upon a bed
Of woe; disease had seized upon its form,
And driven every hope of life away.

A man of grave demeanor and an eye
Of pity, stood by also—gazing first
Upon the child, then upon its mother;
Dead words were with his tongue;—hesitation
Silenced him a moment, but duty urged
Him on; and he slowly spake—"The child dies,
A few brief moments and his breath is gone;
He lingers now upon the steps of death!

The mother, who, the while, was hoping good
And sighing o'er the bed, sprang to her feet,
And shrieked: "My child!—my son!—he shall not die!
If he departs from me, I, too, shall cease
To live!—Oh God!—physician! save him—save!
And hear!—you priest of God!—pray for my son!
Oh! let us kneel and supplicate—pray!"

The preacher of righteousness bowed his head,
And uttered forth a prayer; but feeling want
Of language to address the Lord, he spoke
What God had spoken long before—Christ's prayer:—
"Our Father, who art above in Heaven,
Hallowed be thy name, thy holy kingdom
Come;—Thy will be done on ——"
"No! stop! my will,
He shall not die!—My will be done, not Thine!
Oh, look!—he lives!—he moves!—my will be done—
Not Thine!!" Thus cried the stricken mother, and
In agony gazed at her child, the grand
Attraction of her earthly love. She wept,
Then prayed, then wept again, until the Lord,
In seeming answer to the mother's prayer,
Breathed, like Elijah, on the sickly son,
And he returned to life. * * *

* * * Time sped along.
A score of years had passed. One summer's day
A mighty hum was heard without the wall,
Where malefactors live their banishment;
A multitude, like tigers, dry for blood,
Were talking, looking, waiting for a great
But terrible event. A woman, sad
And sickly—woe-begone and faint, was there,
Also waiting for the expected scene.
It came—it came!—Alas!—alas for her!—
For while the culprit dangled on the rope,
She threw her arms toward the gallows tree,
And shrieked the shriek of death. The people looked,
And trembled when she fell—for they had seen
The execution of the woman's son!

Baltimore, Dec., 1848.

Lines Written on the Death of Sister Megrew.

Weep not for her, Jehovah saith,
For I will take her by a stroke;
Bow to the sceptre of my power,
And be submissive to thy lot.

Weep not for her, though she has died,
Mourn not as those who have no hope:
Although she rests in silence there,
And has no partner in her lot.

May her dear children not forget,
To walk the path that she has trod;
It's virtue's path—the heavenly road,
That leads the weary soul to God.

Here those that love are called to part,
However strong the tie may be;
All that have lived in ages past,
Have gone to long eternity.

The spring of life with beauty decked,
Which pain and death doth take away;
And so old time her temples build,
To fade, and moulder, and decay.

HENRY L. SOULE.

OBITUARY OF Sister CATHARINE HUFFERD.

Died, on the 31st of May, 1849, sister Catharine Hufferd, aged 35 years, 7 months and 22 days.

Sister Hufferd embraced Christianity in the spring of 1840, and acknowledged her faith in a crucified, buried, and risen Saviour, by being buried with him in Christian Baptism, on the 31st of May, 1840. She was taken into church-fellowship on the 7th of June following, at Oakland School-house, Perry county, Pa., as the wife of Samuel Norris. Her husband died in March, 1844. She then remained a widow until the 6th of January, 1848, at which time she united in holy matrimony with brother Benjamin Hufferd, who yet survives her, to lament her loss. But painful as her loss may be to her surviving husband and other near and dear relatives, it is doubtless her eternal gain. She lived in all good conscience before God, and continued faithful in the discharge of her Christian duties, as a member of the Church of God, since the time she first embraced the Saviour's love, until her death. Her sickness was of short duration. She suffered much; but death has put an end to her sufferings. She died in the triumphs of faith, and in the hopes of a glorious resurrection.

Her funeral services were conducted by Elder S. Bigham.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Extensive Manufactory of Gold Pens.—A correspondent of the Philadelphia North American, writing from Syracuse, New York, says:—There are more gold pens manufactured in this place than all other places beside in this country. There are five or six large establishments employed solely in this business. The principal of these is the well known firm of Benedict & Barney; they enjoy an extended and deservedly high reputation, and manufacture more than any other establishment in the United States. Besides the great quantity bearing their own name, they manufacture to order pens having the name of some fifteen or twenty other firms scattered all over the country.

Drawings done by the Sun.—Mr. Langeheim, of Philadelphia, has recently made such improvements in Daguerreotyping, that he is now able to produce instantaneously upon paper, copies of any desired object, with the utmost exactness. By this method faithful drawings of machinery for the Patent office, views of buildings, landscapes, &c., may be executed without loss of time, and with great beauty.

Foreign Postage.—Considerable difficulty having occurred in different parts of the country, especially in places remote from the large cities, in ascertaining correctly the rates of postage under the new postal treaty with Great Britain, the New York Courier has obtained from the Post Office Department, the following schedule of the various rates, which will be found of importance, and convenient to all having occasion to correspond with parties in Great Britain or on the continent:—

Letters by the British or American steamers to England, Ireland and Scotland, 24 cents a single rate, to be pre-paid or not. Newspapers 2 cents each, to be pre-paid.

To the Continent of Europe, by the British steamers, 5 cents a single rate, and newspapers 2 cents each, to be pre-paid.

Letters by the American steamers, to Portugal, France, Spain, Belgium, Holland, and Italy, 24 cents a single rate, must be pre-paid, with the inland postage to New York to be added. Newspapers 3 cents each, to be pre-paid.

Letters by American steamers, to other places on the Continent of Europe, not mentioned above, can be paid or not, postage to New York to be added. Newspapers 3 cents each, to be pre-paid.

Letters must be pre-paid to Havana, 12½ cents. Chagres, 20 cents. Panama, 30 cents a single rate.

Letters to California from any part of the United States, can be pre-paid or not, 40 cents a single rate. Transient newspapers 3 cents each, to be pre-paid.

By single rate, is meant letters weighing a half ounce or less.

The Postmaster General has decided that the British West India steamers do not come within the provisions of the postal treaty, and letters sent by them, hence must have the inland postage pre-paid.

More Common School Teachers—Governor Slade has just brought to the West twenty more young ladies as teachers of common schools. Ten only of the number came as far as Chicago; the others, we learn, stopped in Michigan and Indiana. They were composed mostly of Baptists, Congregationalists and Methodists, one of whom was a converted Papist, who had been driven from her paternal roof for embracing the Gospel. This company makes the number one hundred and thirty who have come out under the direction of the National Education Society. One only out of the whole number has died, and eight only have married.—Chicago Watchman.

Distressing Casualty.—Mr. Hiram Geiger, engaged as a clerk on the line of the Central Railroad, was drowned in the Juniata, near Lewistown, on the 30th ult. He had gone into the river to bathe, and being taken with cramp, sank to rise no more. His body was not found until the next day.

Maine on Slavery.—In the House of Representatives of Maine recently, Mr. Appleton, of Bangor, Whig, offered the following preamble and resolution:—

Whereas, the people of Maine regard slavery with feelings of profound abhorrence; as conflicting with the principles of freedom and free government, detrimental to political progress, and it ought not to be upheld and sanctioned in the capital of our glorious Union, the very sanctuary of liberty; therefore,

Resolved, That our Ssnators and Representatives in Congress be requested to use their utmost influence to abolish slavery and the slave trade in the District of Columbia by all constitutional means.

On motion of Mr. Sewall, of Oldtown, Democrat, the rules were suspended, and the resolve received its several readings, and passed, 112 to 14.

In the Senate, the preamble and resolve were unanimously adopted.

Rome Attacked and Besieged.—From Rome we learn that the French army commenced the attack on the 30th ult., and after a sanguinary engagement, in which the Romans lost 800 men, succeeded in carrying several important posts.

A series of attacks have since taken place, in which the victory is variously stated, but in which the invading army has suffered most.

The latest despatch from Gen Oudinot stated that he had opened his trenches, and had regularly besieged the city.

There is no appearance of yielding on the part of the Romans, but on the contrary, every thing goes to confirm the belief that they would make a most determined resistance, and fight to the last.

Chaplainey to the Hotel.—A hotel like the Adams House, so spacious, so centrally situated, so elegantly furnished, recognizing in its management the principles of temperance and religion, is an honor to the city. In a room designated for the purpose, family worship is observed morning and evening; and any of the guests who may be so disposed are welcome to unite in it.

A chaplain is engaged to conduct this service. We read of chaplains attached to the domestic establishments of European nobles and gentlemen of past ages as well as the present; but we presume the Adams House has set the first example of a chaplainey connected with a Hotel.—Boston Watchman.

Railroads in the West.—Charters for a railway from Toledo, through Southern Michigan and round the southern bend of Lake Michigan, to Chicago, have been secured by a company of N. Y. Capitalists. A railway from Chicago west to the Mississippi is being constructed. It is expected that the Ohio Railroad company will be soon revived, under its charter, and the line from Toledo to Bunkirk completed at an early day.

Cure and Prevention of Cholera.—Laudanum 2 ounces; spirits camphor 2 ounces; tincture Cayenne pepper 2 drachms; tincture ginger 1 ounce; essence peppermint 2 ounces; Hoffman's anodyne 2 ounces—mix all together. Dose, a tablespoon full (in a little water) for an adult.

This prescription is carried on nearly all the boats on the Western waters, and will check diarrhœa in ten minutes, and abate the other premonitory symptoms of cholera immediately. I have tried it in my own person, and given the recipe to over one hundeed persons.

THOS. S. BRYANT,
Paymaster U. S. Army.

The Rush for Minnesota.—It is said that accommodations cannot be had at the hotels in St. Paul, at any price, so great is the rush of emigration. Some of the immigrants have provided themselves with tents, being the best accommodation that that can be had at present. Men are doing their own cooking, and oversee the household affairs. Board is $5 per week, whether you sleep on a bed or under a counter.

Cholera Rebuking Sabbath-Breaking.—The Germans of Cincinnati held a musical festival, in accordance with an ancient German custom, on Sabbath the 3d ult., on a hill a short distance from the city. It is said by reliable papers in the city, that the wine drank was estimated at from four to nine thousand bottles, and that about one hundred of those who partook have since died of Cholera. "God will not be mocked." Let Sabbath-breakers beware.

Benevolent Bequests.—A. Bishop, Esq., of Bridgeport, Conn., died suddenly at Saratoga, on the 10th ult. He left a large estate. During his brief illness, he composedly arranged his pecuniary affairs, and among other bequests, gave $8,000 to the American Bible Society. He also left $5,000 to the Female Benevolent Society of Bridgeport; and to his beloved pastor, the Rev. Dr. Hewit, $100 annually, during the life of his (Bishop's) wife.

The Pope—Turin papers have accounts from Gacta which announce the intention of the Pope to go to Florence, with the Grand Duke of Tuscany, who was about to return to his kingdom. From thence the Pope was to proceed to Bologna, where he would establish his government, until Rome should be in a state to permit his return thither.

From Independence.—The St. Louis Republican has accounts from Independence to the 28th ult. The Cholera had subsided at that place, but was making great ravages on the plains. Some companies have lost nearly all their number. It was reported that a Pittsburg company of 100 men were completely broken up.

Arrival of Father Matthew.—The ship Ashburton, with Father Matthew on board, arrived off Sandy Hook on Friday evening, the 29th ult. She reached the quarantine, Staten Island, at sundown, when the Apostle of Temperance went ashore, where he was received with the utmost enthusiasm by the people.

Capital Punishment in New Hampshire.—The Capital Punishment question has just been decisively acted upon in the Legislature of New Hampshire. The vote stood 60 yeas to 149 nays; majority against abolishing Capital Punishment, 63.

Railroad Iron.—This article is now sold in New York city, of English manufacture, at about $42 per ton, which is death and destruction to the American manufacturer and the American laborer, in the iron workshops.

The Bible.—Arrangements have been made, it is stated, for printing the Scriptures in five of the principal cities of Italy, and colporteurs appointed for their general distribution, since the flight of the Pope.

Cholera in France.—At Paris, the disease is making a most frightful havoc—upwards of 11,000 deaths have already occurred, and in one day, there were 900 cases and 600 deaths reported.

Nauvoo Temple.—The walls of this temple have been purchased by Mons. Cabet, for the use of his association of French Communists.

☞ The Commissioners of the M. E. Church South, have actually commenced suit against the trustees of the Chartered fund of the M. E. Church.

☞ The crops in Europe are reported to be favorable—except the potato crop in Ireland, which gives evidence of the disease again.

☞ The Merrimack River, according to the Haverhill Gazette, turns more machinery than any other river in the world.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COLORING WALLS.

Take good lime and slack it as usual. To this add one and a half pounds of blue vitriol. Dissolve the crystals with boiling water. When dissolved, add one pound of glue, well dissolved.

This should be prepared in a glue pot, if possible, to prevent it being burned or scorched. When well mixed, the first coat may be put on horizontally, or from side to side; the second coat vertically, or up and down. The wall will thus have imparted to it a permanent, bright blue color resembling the blue bottles seen in apothecaries' shops. By regarding, strictly, the foregoing rules, females can put on the coloring as smoothly and as well as men.

We have seen walls colored this way which retained their brilliancy and beauty for years. The cost is trifling.

INFANT BAPTISM.

It is a fact that ought not slightingly to be passed over by the student of Ecclesiastical History, that Augustus Neander, regarded as the most profound historian of the Church which this age has developed, has said, as the result of all his investigations, that 'baptism was administered at first to adults only,' and that 'we have all reason for not deriving infant Baptism from Apostolic institutions!' See Neander's History, page 311, Boston edition, translated by Torry.

Now when it is remembered that Neander is connected with a Church that recognizes and practices infant sprinkling, his testimony should certainly be regarded as impartial, and if liable to bias at all, to a bias favorable to this human institution.

But that Infant Baptism is of human origin, and that too not very creditable to the intellectuality of those who have ever practiced it, is evident from one single fact. Indeed, it is stamped, as by the Providence of God, even to this day, with an impress which forever excludes it from a Divine appointment, and shows that it must be classed with the superstitious usages of ages past; and that is: when the officiating minister, administers what he calls baptism to an infant, he addresses IT as though by some miraculous power it could understand him! He does not say to the parent or sponsor, 'I baptize your child,' but he says to the unconscious, puling infant, 'John or Mary,' (as the case may be,) 'I baptize you in the name &c.' Only imagine an otherwise intellgient man, one who is regarded as a teacher of the people,—before a discriminating audience, speaking in the Holy name of God, to an infant a month old! Talk not of the mummery of Roman Catholicism after this. This one fact leaves an unmistakable mark, that infant baptism is a superstitious custom, borrowed from a superstitious age, which is discreditable to this age of light and advancement, and which requires no sacrifice were it consigned with relics, holy beads and amulets to the tomb of darker periods in the history of the church.—Christ. Mag.

A NEW MANURE.

Robert Bryson, Esq., of Cumberland county, about eight miles from Harrisburg, has been experimenting for the last ten years, to make exhausted tan-bark available and valuable as a manure. Besides his magnificent farm, he likewise carries on the tanning business. Finally, after a great deal of expense and many failures, he has succeeded in discovering a method of producing from tan an efficient manure. This is the plan. He has his tan wheeled out on a level piece of ground, and leveled off, two or three feet thick. Over this he spreads a layer of two or three inches of lime, and so on. He lets the bed so prepared remain for two years; at the end of that time he finds himself in possession of a bed of manure the effects of which upon the land can hardly be surpassed, for the richness of its product, and the durable fertility which it imparts.

The great battle of the world, says Dr. Merk D'Aubigne, is no longer between infidelity and faith—that battle was of the last century. The contest now is between Popery and a spiritual religion; a batle of the word of God against the word of man; a battle between forms and life, between error and truth.

FEELING IN RELIGION.

The religion of Jesus Christ is more than a doctrinal belief—more than an intellectual exercise: to be a Christian is to be anything but a stoic. It has to do primarily and continually with the moral feelings, the sensibilities, and affections of our nature. It appeals as really and as earnestly to all that feels as to all that thinks in man. Depravity is a terrible state as well as a doctrinal error;—an alienation of the affections and passions from their proper object, as well as the perversion and blight of the mental faculties; and a religion that would recover man from his apostacy must, while it enlightens and corrects his understanding, lay a divine hand upon his heart as the seat of emotion, and invoke its sensibilities, and through it electrify and quicken the soul, and pour into it the tide of life everlasting.

We have no sympathy with those who make religion all feeling and no doctrine—a passion only or natural excitement, instead of an inward and pervading life. Still we hold that religion demands and justifies, and is adapted to produce, feelings the most intense and profound that ever glowed in the heart of man, or seraph, or found expression in language or life. No man, we think, can know what religion is as a divine doctrine, and life in the soul, and not be moved to the very depths of his intellectual and moral being.

Men feel enough on every subject but that of religion. In the pursuit of wealth, fame, power and pleasure—and of the objects of earthly destre and love—their passions blaze; earnestness looks out in every feature; decision, intense interest, all-absorbing devotion, mark all their conduct. They feel intensely; they show it in their manner and life; and who calls them mad? The world justifies their intensest feeling, in the pursuit and enjoyment of its transient good. Must a man show feeling on every subject save religion? Has the world such power to facinate, electrify, energize its votaries in every line of thought, pursuit and experience; and yet religion, with its infinite range of incomparable objects, and worlds of truth and fact, must awaken or elicit no emotion?

Religion is pre-eminently adapted to produce feeling. As a doctrine, it stands out before the mind as a grand, living, sublime embodiment of Jehovah, in the perfections of his being, and the enactments of his law and the wonders of his grace. It heralds the awful realities of the future; it is the voice of immortality speaking to all the hopes and aspirations of the immortal within. It fastens on the soul the idea of an all-perfect and everywhere present God; it reveals the stupendous fact of man's apostacy and the method of his salvation—in the distance, looming up with fearful distinctness, we get a sight of the world on fire—the judgement seat of Jesus Christ—the resurrection scene—the final gathering and separation—the glory of the blessed and the doom eternal of the damned. As a matter of doctrine, religion is the most important, desirable, terrible thing in the universe.

Religion is a life as well as a doctrine; and that life is from God himself. To experience religion, therefore, is to experience a thorough renovation of nature—a radical change of character and living; to put off a sinful and corrupt nature and put on a holy one; to forsake all the old paths of thought and habit and experience, and go in a new and opposite direction. And this change is produced by the mighty workings of the Word and Spirit of God; no other agency is adequate to cause it. Now is it reasonable to suppose, that a man could undergo so great a moral change, be shaken by the powers of the world to come, and wrought upon by the Divine Spirit; experience in his soul conviction and penitence for sin, the hopes and joys and fears of religion, and show no feeling.

A SHORT SERMON.

"I robbed other churches, taking wages of them to do you service."—2 Cor. 11: 8.

Paul addressed these words "unto the Church of God which was at Corinth."

I. Paul was a preacher of the gospel "separated unto the gospel of God," "not of men, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ and God the Father."

II. Paul took wages for his preaching. What the preacher receives is not a charity to himself from his brethren, but his due for his services rendered: wages, i. e. "hire, reward, that which is paid or stipulated for services."

III. The churches to whom services are rendered are bound to pay these wages, and Paul begged pardon of the Corinthians for "this wrong," that he had not been burthensome to them, thus making them inferior to other churches.—2 Cor. 12: 13.

IV. Paul received wages from one set of churches for preaching to others.

From these facts connected with the ministerial life of the great Apostle, we draw the following inferences:—

1st. It is right for a church to pay wages to a minister for preaching, and right for a minister to receive wages from a church for preaching.

2d. It is right for a church to promise to pay wages to a minister for preaching, and right for a minister to serve under such a promise.

3d. It is right for a church to promise to pay a specific amount of wages to a preacher, as well as to any other laborer.

NOTE.—Churches are generally very clear of hiring a carpenter to repair their meeting-house without a definite agreement of so much money for so much work. The carpenter will not suffer himself to be defrauded; the preacher will. We wonder if this is the cause of the difference of the contracts of the churches with their ministers and other laborers.

4th. It is right for a number of churches to pay wages to a minister to preach to remote and destitute people, "taking wages of them to do you service,"

Concluding reflection.—If we do not find it in our hearts to do these things which are right, let us at least not find fault with those that do.—Chris. Index.

A stream of scolding, as long as from sun to sun, never yet had any other effect on children than to render them wholly regardless of what is said to them. Mild looks, kinds words, and gentle and affectionate treatment are the true incentives to obedience.

MINNESOTA.—Minnesota, the name of the new teritory, is generally written with but one 'n,' which is an error.—making the pronunciation Mine sota. The true orthography is as above, and is so used in Government documents.

MISSIONARIES IN CALIFORNIA.

Rev. T. Dwight Hunt, in a letter from San Francisco under date of April 2d, which appears in the Newark Sentinel, gives the following account of the movements of the missionary brethren on that field:

"I accompanied Rev. J. W. Douglas to San Jose, and was absent eight days, having preached and lectured on temperance to good congregations. I left Mr. D. there, and he has since been engaged by the American residents there as their preacher at the salary of $2500—so that the Home Society are relieved from his support.—Brother Willey is engaged as teacher at Monterey, and will preach as he has opportunity. Brother Woodbridge has located at Benicia, a rising city at the head of navigation on the bay for large vessels.—Brother Wheeler (Baptist) is here with me, but leaves to-morrow for a new house. The steamer Oregon yesterday brought Rev. Mr. Williams (Albert Williams, from Orange, N. J.,) but I have not yet seen him.

"Five months of my year have rolled away rapidly and pleasantly, and I hope profitably. For four months I was the only regular preacher in the territory. On the first Sabbath of January I administered the first Sacrement of the Lord's Supper ever administered here (Roman Catholics excepted.)"

CHILDREN BE PROMPT.

Never say when told to do anything, 'In a minute,' or 'By-and-by.' This leads to a bad habit, which, if not overcome, will prevent all confidence in you as you grow up. You will then put off duties you owe to your neighbor in the same way, and lose his confidence. Many men lose the respect of their neighbors, not so much because they mean to do wrong, as through mere carelessness. 'By-and-by,' and 'to-morrow,' have ruined thousands, robbed them of their character, and made them anything but blessings in a neighborhood. Little confidence can be placed in their word, not because they mean to tell falsehoods, but because of carelessness.—No obligation is fulfilled when it should be. And it is sometimes so in their own affairs. They lose days and weeks because business is not attended to when it ought to be. A tool is lost, because not promptly put away when done with.—Fulfil every promise promptly. Put it not off an hour.

ALEXANDER CAMPBELL ON EMANCIPATION.

The founder and leader of the numerous sect known as Campbellites, has spoken out very plainly and worthily on the subject of emancipation in Kentucky.—The following are his words:—

A time has come in Kentucky, when the Christian population of that noble and rapidly advancing State will speak out like Christians at the polls, and demonstrate its love of liberty and right by extending them to every thing in the form of man, that breathes its air or treads its soil. It will be her greatest honor, as I am sure it will be her greatest interest, to be first in this great work.

Always be ready to avow your principles of action. Scorn concealment. Put out your true colors to the gaze of men and angels. There is a false prudence, a mock modesty, which inculcates the opposite method.

POETRY.

GOD'S MAJESTY.

BY G. U. HARN.

GREAT God! enthroned above all worlds!
Around whose seat all nature whirls;
Who rides upon the mighty storm,
And guides the seasons, cold or warm.
The boist'rous seas thy voice obey,
And raging, dash their snowy spray!
The whirl-wind, in its dreadful path,
Displays the terror of thy wrath!
Etna's everlasting fire,
Miniature thy incensed ire.
The quaking earth, its groans ascend,
Ominous her approaching end—
Prophetic of her last great sigh,
When to atoms she then shall fly.
Niagara's shrouding water-fall,
Sublimely speaks to great and small,
That thou art God—a God to fear,
To worship, too, with minds sincere.
Yon concaved arch a tone sends forth,
From West to East, from South to North.
The rolling thunder's heavy peal,
Through heaven's vast etherial field,
Proclaim the majesty Divine,
Of Him who sets the bounds of time.
The forked lightning's vivid flash,
The stately oak to splinters dash!
And speaks again the wond'rous fame,
Of His eternal, fearful name,
Who rolls the pond'rous wheel of state,
Or turns the crank of boundless fate,
And order gives to all the worlds,
Which round His throne doth spin their whirls.

Harrisburg, July, 1849.

AN ALBUM PIECE.

FAREWELL, sister—serve thy God,
Where ere thy home may be:
Serve him, where ere thou travel,
Whether by land or sea.

This is thy bounden duty,
As thou canst clearly see,
In Nature's book, and Bible,
The school-books of the free.

These blessed books to study,
Be it thy heart's delight;
Light, life, and free salvation,
Come through their heavenly light.

But most of all live holy;
Do good to all mankind;
Then, when thy days are ended,
The crown of life you'll find.

J. WINEBRENNER.

April 30, 1849.

HYMN FOR A LITTLE CHILD.

BY J. F. W., JR.

THOUGH the distant heathen kneel
To the gods who cannot feel,
I would rather swiftly fly
To the One who cannot die!

Some have bowed to wood and stone—
Such poor gods I would not own!
Let me worship, rather far,
Him who made each twinkling star.

Him I'll worship—Him I'll love
Till He carries me above—
There where every spirit sings
Praises to the best of Kings!

Baltimore, Md., June, 1849.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 17th ult., by Elder Jacob Keller, Mr. John Sipe to Miss Catharine Sides, both of Lancaster county, Pa.

On the 5th inst., by the same, Dr. Henry Shipley of Barkley county, Va., to Miss Francina Crawford, of Carroll county, Md.

On the 5th ult., by Elder A. Swartz, Mr. John Snyder to Miss Sarah Stouffer, both of Susquehanna township, Dauphin county.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—In Ottawa, Illinois, on the 12th ult., at her father's house, Jemina Ann, daughter of John and Eliza Shuler, aged 9 years and 6 months.

In Upper Swatara township, Dauphin county, on the 28th ult., Mr. John Reigart, aged 91 years.

Mr. Reigart served in the American Army during the Revolutionary struggle for Independence, and participated in the trials and privations of those "times which tried men's souls."

Departed this life, June 17th, 1849, Mary Ann Franks, daughter of Alexander J. and Nancy Franks, formerly of Perry county, Pa., aged 9 years, 3 months and 24 days.

Her body was consigned to the grave on the following day, at which time an appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. J. Hamilton, of the Evangelic Lutheran Church, from the words, "Be not afraid, only believe." Mark 5: 36.

Stark Co., Ohio, June 26, 1849.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Woods-meeting.

A Woods-meeting will be held near brother Bolden's, Hancock county, Ohio, commencing on the 15th of August.

Camp-meeting.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the farm of brother John Stump, on the old camp-ground, two miles east of Bethleham, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 22d of August.

The brethren generally are invited to attend, particularly the latter meeting, with their tents. It will be expected that the brethren of Wayne county will attend with their tents, inasmuch as there is no camp on their circuit this year.

A. Megrew,
On behalf of the Committee.

East Pennsylvania Camp-Meetings.

Agreeably to appointment, the Standing Committee met in Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, on Wednesday, the 27th ult., to arrange the Camp-Meetings for this season: when sundry applications were made, and the meetings arranged as follows, to wit:

1. The first Camp-meeting will be held, Providence permitting, near Andersonstown, York county, commencing on Friday, the 10th of August, proximo.

2. The second Camp-meeting will be held on Camp Hill, near Bowman's, Cumberland county, about two miles from Harrisburg, commencing on Friday, the 17th of August next.

3. The third will be held near Germany, Perry county, commencing on Monday, the 20th of August.

4. The fourth will be held at or near Stonerstown, Bedford county, commencing on Friday, the 24th of August.

5. The fifth will be held at Auburn, Schuylkill county, commencing on Monday, the 27th of August.

Should any other meetings be desired, application can be made to the Editor of the Advocate.

Abraham Swartz,
John Winebrenner,
Jacob Keller.

Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held at Uniontown, Carroll county, Md., on the premises of Wm. Roberts, Esq., commencing on the 24th of August.

Brother B. Howard and son, (if in Pa.,) and all the brethren who can make it suit, are invited to attend.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,		$4 00	a	4	12½
Do.	Rye, do.	2 25	a	2	37
Do.	Corn, do.	2 20	a	2	25
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,		88	a		91
Do.	Rye, do.	47	a		48
Do.	Corn, new do.	46	a		47
Do.	Oats, do.	25	a		26
Do.	Barley, do.	60	a		65
SEEDS—Clover,	do.	3 00	a	3	50
Do.	Timothy, do.	3 00	a	3	25
Do.	Flax, do.	1 00	a	1	10
BEEF, per cwt.		5 00	a	5	50
PORK, do.		5 00	a	5	25
HAMS, per pound,		8	a		9
BUTTER, do.		12½	a		15
LARD, do.		7	a		8
TALLOW, do.		8	a		10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.		6	a		7
EGGS, per dozen,		10	a		12½
POTATOES, per bushel,		50	a		60
ONIONS, do.		75	a		87½
APPLES, do.		25	a		30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.		1 25	a	1	30
FEATHERS, per pound,		37½	a		45
WOOL, do.		30	a		50
SALT, per sack,		1 30	a	1	31
HAY, per ton,		12 00	a	15	00
PLASTER, per ton,		4 00	a	4	50

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,		$4 44	a	4	50
Do.	Rye, do.	2 75	2 a		80
Do.	Corn, do.	2 70	a	2	75
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,		1 00	a	1	02
Do.	Rye, do.	56	a		58
Do.	Corn, new do.	57	a		58
Do.	Oats, do.	30	a		31
Do.	Barley, do.	75	a		80
SEEDS—Clover,	do.	3 00	a	3	50
Do.	Timothy, do.	2 75	a	3	00
Do.	Flax, do.	1 30	a	1	32
BEEF, per cwt.,		7 00	a	8	75
PORK, do.		7 00	a	7	25

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner,	$10 00
William Reichert,	5 00
Isaac Miller,	10 00
J. H. Hurley,	5 00
Geo. U. Harn,	5 00
M. F. Snavely,	10 00
Jacob Miller,	10 00
James Miller,	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh,	5 00
Thomas Strohm,	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe,	5 00
Abraham Sherich,	7 50
Abraham Swartz,	5 00
A liberal brother,	20 00
A liberal sister,	2 00

PRITNING MATERIALS FOR SALE.

THERE are for sale, at the office of the Cumberland Presbyterian, an improved Smith Printing Press, 32 by 22 inches—together with from 359 to 400 lbs. of Long Primer and Brevier type, and several fonts of Fancy letter. Also, Cases, Stands, &c. These materials are all in good condition, having been in use but a short time, and will be disposed of on reasonable terms. Persons wishing to purchase will please address the Editor.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

Biographical Sketches
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children—professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to snbscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Cholera Medicine.

Those who may want to purchase Cholera Medicine, can address the Editor, Advocate Office, Harrisburg, Pa.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles,	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul,	75
Evangelical Music,	75
Treatise on Regeneration,	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament,	37½
Revival Hymn Books,	50
View of the Church, &c.,	37½
Almost Christian, in German,	25
Young Christian's Guide,	25
Harn on Feet-Washing,	25
Lyceum Spelling Book,	15
Traveler's Guide to the West,	50

THOMSONIAN MEDICINE STORE.

REMOVAL.

DR. W. BARR begs leave to inform the citizens of Harrisburg and vicinity, and the public in general, that he has removed his Medicine Store to the N. W. corner of WALNUT and SECOND streets, where he now has, and constantly keeps on hand, a general assortment of

Thomsonian Medicines, Medical Books, Instruments, &c., &c.,

together with his well known preparations for the cure of Rheumatism, Tetter, Scald or Sore Head, Itch, or any eruption of the Skin, Sore Mouth or Throat, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Liver Complaint, Coughs, Colds, Headache, Costiveness, Sore Eyes, Fever and Ague, Influenza, Erysipelas, &c., &c., &c. No cure no pay.

Thankful for past favors, he respectfully solicits a continuance of public patronage.

☞ All orders thankfully received and punctually attended to.

Harrisburg, May 1, 1849—3m.

Tract of Land for Sale.

THE undersigned wishes to sell at private sale, a small tract of land, containing about 30 acres, situated in the village of Andersonstown, York county, Pa.

The improvements thereon are a two story DWELLING HOUSE, 20 by 32 feet; a Log Barn, with Wagon-shed attached to it; a Blacksmith-shop, 20 by 30 feet, with Coal-house attached; together with other out-buildings: such as Mill-house, Pig-stye, Bake-oven, &c.

Also, a thriving young Orchard, and various other fruit trees, with a Pump between the house and shop, and an excellent and never-failing Spring of water a few hundred yards distant from the house.

The whole tract is in a fine state of cultivation, fenced off in small fields, with two acres of wood-land on the premises, and five acres of wood-land in a separate lot, situated about one-fourth of a mile from the 30 acre tract. This lot will be sold with the main tract, or separate, as may best suit the purchaser. Possession and a good title will be given to the purchaser on the first of April, 1850.

Jul, tf. PETER KNISELY.

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., AUGUST 1, 1849. NUMBER 7.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Fourteen.

Names.	Am't. paid	Names.	Am't. paid
Anderson Samuel	$1 00	Kinsinger David	$1 00
Brandt Frances	1 00	Latta Ephraim	1 00
Barnhart Peter	1 25	Machlan James F	1 25
Baker Philip	1 00	Mayberry Elias G	1 00
Bryan Richard	1 00	Martin John V D M	1 00
Benneman Benjamin	1 25	Menely Alex	1 00
Balmer Catharine	62	Mellison Jacob	1 00
Corell Benjamin	1 00	Overholt M (S1 over-paid)	3 00
Corell Joseph	1 25	Oliver Ann	1 00
Dawson John 11 12 13 & 14	5 00	Paulus Henry	1 00
Everett Grovenor S	1 00	Reed Henry	50
Engle Joseph	1 00	Rice Christian	1 00
Freed Paul	1 00	Russel John R	1 25
Frunk Syrus	1 00	Strawbridge Joseph	1 00
Franks A J	1 25	Sprout Elizabeth	1 00
Fesler William	1 25	Sowers John	1 25
Freed David	1 00	Snyder Noah	2 25
Gish John S	1 25	Shearman Samuel	1 25
Gooden Jacob	1 00	Strock Joseph	1 25
Garverich Joseph	1 25	Stees Isaac	1 25
Gable William	41	Thomas George	1 00
Gher Matilda	1 25	The New Subscriber	1 25
Hickernell Thomas	1 00	Wilson Robert	1 00
Hood William	1 00	Wenger George	1 25
Heistand John	1 00	Wiley James	1 00
Jones Robert H	1 00	Zorger Michael	1 00

Receipts on Volume Thirteen.

Names.	Am't. paid	Names.	Am't. paid
Carper Catharine	$1 50	Musselman Ann	$1 00
Gish John	1 25	Neidigh David	1 00
Hostetter John S	62	Ross Christian	1 25
Heisey Henry	1 50	Sowers John	75
Hickernell Thomas	1 00	Umsted Joel	1 50
Hawk John	1 00

"The Congregationalist."

This is the name of a new paper published in Boston. It is quite a large sheet, and we regard it as a valuable addition to our list of exchanges.

A Request.

Brothers Thomas Hickernell and A. Meorew are requested to pay brother Henry Heisey and family a visit, and preach for them. They reside near Newton, Union county, Ohio. By inquiring at the Post Office in Newton, they can ascertain their place of residence.

English Interference in French Affairs.

It is said that the English Government has presented a friendly remonstrance against the bombardment of Rome, and has urged on the French Government the necessity of coming to an accommodation with the Romans.

The New Railroad Track.

The Canal Commissioners had a session in Philadelphia recently, and fixed, conditionally, upon a route for avoiding the Inclined Plane at the Schuylkill. The desiguated route of the road terminates at the western end of the High Street Bridge.

Death of Capt. Hooper.

George W. Hooper, Captain of one of the Juniata Packet Boats, an estimable young man, died of Cholera at Newton Hamilton, on the 12th ult. He had been afflicted with diarrhœa for about ten days previous, but thought himself better when he left here the day previous to his death.

Our Delinquent List Rectified.

We are always willing and happy to correct mistakes when discovered. Several errors having occurred in making out our delinquent list for the last year, they are hereby rectified, by acknowledging payment from the following persons for volume 13, to wit: James Warner, John Wingert, Jacob Coup, Peter McFarren, Andrew Miller, Ann Musselman, George Heffner, John Reis, and Jacob Beelman.

An Acknowledgment.

Our acknowledgments are due to Messrs. E. S. Bell & Co., for a dozen bottles of their superior Sarsaparilla and Mineral Water. It makes quite a pleasant and delightful beverage in this extremely warm weather.

Messrs. Bell & Co., we are informed, manufacture and put up large quantities of this excellent article daily, and yet they cannot supply the demand.

Our Cotton Mill.

The Committee appointed to purchase a site for the Cotton Mill, have purchased a piece of ground from Gen. Forster, which lies at the upper end of this borough, between Second street and the river, comprising about seven acres, for the sum of $8,000.

The Committee have also contracted with Gen. James to erect the factory, engines, and machinery complete, to be ready for operation within a year.

The stock of the company is designed to be $210,000, of which $194,000 are already subscribed, and only $16,000 is wanted to make up the full amount desired.

Opening of the Central Railroad.

The Central Railroad was opened on Friday, the 20th ult., as far as Millerstown, Perry county.

A locomotive and two passenger cars, built expressly for the road, were brought on here and put on the road a few days before its opening.

Both the locomotive and cars are among the finest and best in the State. This road will be a grand affair for Pennsylvania and Philadelphia.

Notice to Agents.

Brothers J. P. Winebrenner and David Neidigh will please to inform us where the following persons lift their papers, viz: C. Balmer, Wm. Gable, and J. R. Russell.

When will our agents learn to observe our standing rules, and always give us the Post Offices along with the names of subscribers? Else how can we know whom to credit, seeing we have many persons of the same name on our books. Hence, we repeat the request, to one and all of our agents, never to omit mentioning the Post Office, or offices, in connection with names sent us.

A Day of National Fasting.

It will be seen, by the following proclamation of the President, that Friday next, being the 3d of this month, should be set apart as a Day of National Fasting and Prayer. This very appropriate and timely recommendation will, we hope, be gladly responded to by the people of the U. States, and in the same spirit which prompted the President in making it.

OFFICIAL.

By the President of the United States.

A Recommendation.

At a season when the Providence of God has manifested itself in the visitation of a fearful pestilence, which is spreading its ravages throughout the land, it is fitting that a people, whose reliance has ever been on His Protection, should humble themselves before His Throne; and while acknowledging past transgressions, ask a continuance of Divine Mercy.

It is, therefore, earnestly recommended that the first Friday in August be observed throughout the United States as a day of Fasting, Humiliation and Prayer. All business will be suspended in the various branches of the public service on that day, and it is recommended to persons of all religious denominations to abstain, as far as practicable, from secular occupations, and to assemble in their respective places of Public Worship, to acknowledge the Infinite Goodness which has watched over our existence as a nation, and so long crowned us with manifold blessings; and to implore the Almighty, in His own good time, to stay the destroying hand which is now lifted up against us.

Z. TAYLOR.

Washington, July 3, 1849.

Notice.

Brother Wilson G. Coulter is hereby informed that the Standing Committee have received his letter of recommendation in favor of brother Moses Utley, and that he has the consent of the committee to employ brother Utley as an assistant on the Perry circuit.

Asiatic Cholera.

This fearful and desolating scourge of nations is raging over almost the whole of our country. From Maine to Texas, its ravages are seen and felt. In some of our large cities especially, such as Cincinnati, St. Louis, &c., the people have suffered very much under this scathing judgment. It seems to be no respecter of persons. Some of all ranks, ages and conditions of life, have been its victims. Our Generals, our Statesmen, our Professors and our Judges, as well as the common people, have been struck down by this direful pestilence.

How long this indignation of the Lord will continue the work of death among us, and how many thousands more of our fellow-citizens will be cut down as with a stroke, and hurried into eternity, no human fore-sight can decipher. One thing is certain, if the Cholera is a judgment from God—if it is sent as a punishment for the sins of the people, then its real cause must be sought for in the moral world, and not in the physical. And if so, then it follows that in the moral world also, we must seek for the best and most appropriate remedy.

In vain we resort to sanitory means and regulations to stay the vengeful hand of God. Cleanliness, fumigation, disinfectants, and hygienics, with other sanitory measures, may be all well enough in their places, as natural means, but they are wholly inadequate for the removal of a judgment sent by the Almighty for the punishment of sin.

In vain, also, will men adopt and conform to the best dietetic rules. Abstinence from gluttony and intemperance is wise and useful. The observance of a well digested system of prudential and dietetic rules, is highly commendable: but all this is no absolute remedy or protection against the Cholera or any other pestilential scourge.

Again, in vain do men seek refuge and protection in Cholera medicines. Of these we have not a few in these cholera times. They may not all be a humbug: but sure we are that not one of them is a panacea or sovereign specific. Medicines and medical skill may, under God, prove great blessings to the afflicted, but it is all idle to talk of natural means as a sovereign cure for the judgments of Heaven.

As we said before, so we say again, if the cause lies in the moral world, in the moral world also, lies the remedy. What, then, is the real cause? And what is the true remedy? Here is the jist of the whole matter.

1st. What is the cause of the Cholera? Natural men often attempt to account for natural evils, upon natural principles. It is so in this case. Men have undertaken to account for the Cholera, by looking to the atmosphere, the seasons, the fruits, the waters, and the localities. They have analyzed all the natural elements, and pryed into all the physical laws, in order to discover the cause of this desolating pestilence. But thus far their science has been mocked, and their most profound researches baffled. To-day its true cause is discovered, and a specific announced for its cure—to-morrow it is declared a humbug.—To-day the disease seems manageable by the physician's skill; to-morrow the same skill and the same remedies are utterly set at defiance. The laws which seem to govern it in one locality seem reversed in another. Hence many have become utterly confounded and forced to admit the fact, that the judgments of God are unsearchable and his ways past finding out.

The only satisfactory way to account for natural evil, whether in the shape of famine, pestilence or war, is on the principle of moral evil, or moral wrong. We mean, the existence of moral evil as the cause. Sin is the greatest and worst of all evils. It is the fruitful source of all physical evil. Sin, therefore, is the real cause of the Cholera. Banish sin from our world, and there will be no more Cholera. But,

2d. What is the remedy? The only true and best remedy for the Cholera, is holiness. By this we do not mean the best cure for it in its physical and individual attacks, but the best means for the prevention, mitigation, and removal of the judgment. Holiness is a conformity to the will of God. Sin is a transgression of the law, or will of God.—Now if sin is the cause, then holiness, its opposite, must be the cure. Remove the cause, and the judgment will cease. The Prophet says, "When thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness." Isaiah 26: 9. This passage shows us the end or design for which judgments are sent, viz: "To teach the inhabitants of the world righteousness." When this end is accomplished, the judgment visitations are withdrawn. Thus it was in ancient times, in generations of old.

When the wickedness of ancient Nineveh came up before God, Jonah was sent to proclaim its overthrow. No sooner than the people heard it, they proclaimed a fast, repented and called mightily on God; saying, "Who can tell but what God will turn away from his fierce anger, that we perish not?—And God saw their works--what works? the works of faith, repentance, fasting, prayer and reformation—then God repented of the evil that he had said that he would do to them; and he did it not." Jonah 3: 4—10.

Thus, again, when Israel sinned against God, at Mount Hor, they were punished for it, by fiery serpents, which bit the people, so that many of them died; but no sooner than they humbled themselves, and asked Moses to pray for them, the Lord had mercy on them, and provided a remedy for them. Num. 21: 4—9.

Again, in the 8th chapter of 1st Kings it is said, "If there be pestilence in the land,—or whatever plague, whatever sickness there be,—because thy people have sinned against thee; if they shall turn again to thee, and pray and make supplication to thee; then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel."

From these and other passages we learn that humiliation, fasting and prayer, connected with true repentance, and reformation of life, are the very best, if not the only, means to escape the Cholera, and all other judgments of God, or bring them, when they exist, to a speedy cessation.

Go, then, O! ye guilty people of this highly and heaven-favored country, imitate the people of Nineveh, fast and pray, repent and turn to God, and he will have mercy on you, withdraw his judgments, and pardon you all.

But on the other hand, if you continue in your iniquities—if you remain impenitent and disobedient, then God may punish you yet seven times more for your sins.

J. F. Weishampel's Coal Stove Grate.

Patented June 19, 1849.

The following is inserted for the benefit of the public whom it may concern, and as a token of our regard for our old and esteemed friend, J. F. Weishampel, who, by his inventive genius, has brought forward a decided improvement on Coal Stove Grates, which it is likely will soon take the place of all other fixtures of the kind, and perhaps enable our brother to realize a fortune: the one-tenth of which we, in advance, bespeak for the Lord, in the promotion of his cause.

My Letters Patent secure to me the exclusive right to the combination and arrangement of the four segmental hinged and sliding doors with the revolving grate. Likewise the combination of a double incline plane, with the case or stove box, and projections on the doors of the Grate for bolting the doors as the cylinder is turned, by the projections coming in contact with the incline plane, which draws the doors forward and places the bolt-journals in the corresponding openings in the front head of the Grate. These with a number of other improvements, which make my invention practicable, are included in my Patent.

The stoves for my Grate can be made in any style or shape; and the Grate will answer every class of stove. It may be fitted to work in many of the stoves now in use, simply by a slight alteration of the fire-chamber, which will adapt them to the shape of the Grate.

The advantages of this invention are as follows:

1. By a few slow revolutions of the Grate, with all the doors closed and bolted, the ashes are easily sifted from the coal into the ash box, leaving the coal loose to enjoy a free draught.

2. The coal need never be removed from the Grate to kindle or re-kindle a fire; as you always, after sifting the ashes by the revolutions of the Grate, build the wood or charcoal fire upon the top of the old coal remaining in the Grate, and kindle the wood on top; and when it is fairly ignited close and bolt the doors and by half a revolution turn the burning wood under and the coal uppermost in the cylinder. A dying fire can at any time be revived by placing kindling wood upon the top of the coal, and after it is ignited turning it under, thus obviating the disagreeable necessity of emptying the Grate to get the wood under the coal.

3. Any kind of coal, Anthracite or Bituminous, can be burned in it; and from the great facility in separating the ashes from the fuel in the Grate, tan, saw-dust and chip-dirt can be burned intermixed with coal, with a great saving. This and the fact that all the old coal is thus burnt without loss, makes it an economical Grate, saving both labor and expense for fuel to a great extent.

4. Cleanliness is another great desideratum connected with it, as the daily emptying of the Grate is obviated; so that no dirt or dust is made about the stove in kindling a fire in the morning or re-kindling through the day; and when the ashes are sifted by revolving the Grate, all the dust is confined within the stove. Nothing worth preserving passes through the Grate.

5. To clear the Grate of cinders or slate occasionally, one door is to be unbolted and turned under, when it will fall open and the contents be emptied into the ash-box.

The following certificates are from the Rev. Dr. Johns, of this city, and his Hon. Col. Elijah Stansbury, Mayor of Baltimore:

TESTIMONIALS.

In company with Mr. David Dick, a distinguished practical machinist of Western Pennsylvania, I examined the Revolving Coal Grate, patented by Mr. J. F. Weishampel, and have great pleasure in saying, that for simplicity of construction and adaptation to the end it seeks to accomplish, it far surpasses any thing of the kind I have ever seen.

HENRY V. JOHNS.

Baltimore, June 27, 1849.

I witnessed the performance of one of Mr. Weishampel's Revolving Grates last fall, at the fair of the Maryland Institute, and believe it to be a complete yet simple contrivance for the purpose intended; and think it deserves the attention of those interested in coal stoves.

ELIJAH STANSBURY.

Baltimore, June 28, 1849.

The Committee appointed to examine the stoves at the Fair of the Maryland Institute, held in November last, of which Joseph Simms, Esq., (one of the most extensive stove dealers in this city,) was chairman, reported the Grate as an excellent invention, and awarded it the only premium for stove Grates.

Persons desiring to purchase State, County or Shop Rights for the above Grate and its combinations, will please address the subscriber (post paid) or call either at his office, second floor, N. W. corner of Baltimore and Harrison streets; or at Mr. A. F. Uhl's, 41 Centre Market Space; when prompt attention will be paid them.

J. F. WEISHAMPEL,
Inventor and Patentee.

Baltimore, June 30, 1849.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Materialism Refuted.---No. 3.

First, there is no plainer usage in the Scriptures than this, that spiritual things are represented to us by things with which we are acquainted. And did God try to communicate to us facts, without using words descriptive of things with which we are acquainted, the result infallibly would be, we could not grasp them, and far less comprehend them. In harmony, therefore, with this usage, he has always dealt with mankind. In this way has he communicated a knowledge of himself.—He says he has eyes, ears, hands, &c. If this was a literal description of himself, then it would give him locality, and destroy his perfections, by which we only can arrive at a true knowledge of God. The reason why he represents that he sees all things by eyes is, because we know of no other way by which objects are seen, except by the use of this organ. We cannot tell yet how he sees, but have the fact declared to us. He says he has hands, to denote his power, &c. Now, in this way, he has communicated a knowledge of himself.

In John, 7th chapter, he represents spiritual operation by a living fountain: "Out of your bellies shall flow rivers of living waters." How could he give its operation, only by some imagery with which we are acquainted?—Paul says, "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature, old things have passed away, and behold all things have become new." This, literally and physically, is not true; nor is it mentally, but morally. This spiritual change is represented here, under the figure of a creature. It is also represented again under figure of a resurrection, and a new birth. The instances are too numerous in Scripture for me to call your minds to them, in a brief discussion, where spiritual and future things are represented to us by things with which we have some acquaintance; they all establish the usage, and it is one of the laws of its interpretation. The reason for this usage is obvious, for it is the only way by which he could give us an intelligent view of spiritual and future things. In what other way could he describe the miseries of a soul in hell, besides the one adopted in the Scriptures? I know of none. Let those who wish to take an advantage of the language used, describe to others, if they can, things with which they are not acquainted, without using words that do represent things they have some knowledge of, and they will find it a laborious and fruitless task. Therefore we see the wisdom and benevolence of God, in condescending to adopt a usage adapted to our capacities. Had he acted otherwise, we would have remained in ignorance of a subject of paramount importance to mankind. This argument is intended to answer theirs, as if we had admitted its truth, but not the conclusion.

There is a passage in Rev. 6: 9—11, that is a perfect confirmation of the fact that disembodied spirits live, see, and feel, &c.—Therefore, it is a complete answer to their objection against the common understanding of the passage. In this passage John says, "I saw the souls of THEM who had been beheaded, or slain, for the word of God, &c. And they (the souls) cried with a loud voice, saying, how long, O! Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?" Now, if they had the capacity of seeing, feeling, and speaking, in a disembodied state, is it not an unanswerable argument for the view we have taken of the 16th chapter of Luke, and a refutation of theirs founded on the mere assumption that it referred to the state after the resurrection, because they could see and feel, &c. But we say it does not and cannot always represent the state of souls after the resurrection, because of the answer of Abraham to the request of the rich man: "They have Moses and the Prophets, let them hear them." From this we learn, the event spoken of in the 16th of Luke, took place under the law, and not the gospel. Paul says, by deeds of the law shall no flesh be justified; or the hearing of Moses and the Prophets, for there is no other name given under heaven, but the name of Jesus, whereby men can be saved. Or as Christ gives it, "The Law and the Prophets were the public teachers until John, and now the kingdom of God is preached, and men press into it."—Therefore it could not be descriptive of an event under the ministration of the gospel, or after the resurrection. If there could have been any direction given them, it would have been to Christ, and not Moses. This not being done, it must have taken place under the law.

Again, if this describes the state after the resurrection, how comes it that five brethren are living and impenitent? Is it true, that the New Testament teaches that one of six are to be pent up in hell, and the five equally impenitent still have opportunities to repent? If Paul correctly states the doctrine on this subject in 2 Thess. 1: 8, there will be none of these impenitents enjoying these opportunities. Instead of mercy being offered, it is to be an everlasting banishment of all that know not God and obey not the gospel. The admission may be made, that it took place under the law, to avoid the difficulty in which they would be involved by the above argument, and then urge the propriety of the reference. If he died under Moses, it is certainly true, his five brethren also died before the resurrection. How, then, shall we account for this partiality shown to the five? Is it true, at the resurrection one out of six shall be raised to a resurrection of damnation, and five to a resurrection of probation? This is the necessary conclusion; and this contradicting the whole New Testament view of the resurrection, therefore its fallacy.

There has been a labored effort to evade the force of this passage, because it strikes a death blow to materialism. Hence they have resorted to the most novel interpretation of it. But the truth on its face, and in all its parts, will always be a living and unanswerable proof of a man surviving death consciously. If their mode of interpretation, as applied to this passage, was adopted generally, the Scriptures then would become a play-thing to amuse mankind, instead of instructing them. Again, it would involve the popular mass in great perplexity. They would be unable to learn this sophistry, because it would require more of their time than they would have to devote to this subject, and therefore be left forever in the dark. The common understanding of mankind revolts at this disposition to wrest the Scriptures to serve a purpose, and they practically repudiate it.

In Luke 23: 43, the same doctrine is set forth. Here we have Christ's answer to the request of the thief, made while in the agony of death: "To-day thou shalt be with me in paradise." If this promise was fulfilled, according to a common sense understanding of it, he then lived after his death: for it was to-day. The first thing in the promise is the place, "Paradise." This would be the grave, if the opposite doctrine were true. The term is never used to describe the grave; but to denote a place where intelligent beings reside. Paul uses it with this meaning in 2 Cor. 12: 4, where it says, "I knew a man caught up into paradise." This is not going down to the grave. He further says, "I heard unspeakable words in paradise. Paradise, then, must be a place where intelligent beings dwell.—The grave has no character like this. It is a place of silence, where intelligence has not yet been found. We find this word used again by the Revelator 2: 7, descriptive of a place where there are living intelligencies. These are the only places where the term is used, (if I am not mistaken,) and they agree as to the character of the place. We then have the place promised.

The second thing is the time when he should inhabit it, "To-day." To evade the truth on this point, it is said to mean the day of his coming. If this be the true interpretation of "to-day," it was calculated to mislead and deceive, because it was not customary to deal in such ambiguities. This evasion of the time in the passage, impeaches the wisdom and benevolence of God. But is the phrase to-day ever used in the New Testament with this application? I answer no. When Christ said to Zaccheus that salvation should come to his house to-day he certainly did not mean the day of his coming. When also Paul says, "To-day if you will hear his voice, harden not you hearts," does he mean at Christ's coming they should not harden their hearts? Certainly not. From this we learn that the word to-day in the text referred to the very day the engagement was made, or the common understanding must forever be bewildered.

There is another item in the context that confirms this view of it. Christ, in his last agony, cries out, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said thus, he gave up the ghost." If this prayer was answered, (and there can be no doubt of that,) then his spirit, or soul, went to God, and nothing but his material organization, called his body, went to the grave. Now if Christ's spirit went, that day, to God, and the thief was not there, or his spirit, then his engagement to him was not fulfilled, as I understand it.

S. A.

[To be continued.]

Thoughts.

There are moments in a Christian's pilgrimage on earth when he would gladly divest himself of the incumbrances of mortality, and take wings for that far-distant land where the "wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest." At times, when it seems as if one was forsaken by all on earth, as if all the world had conspired against him,—when dire experience proves that we have no earthly friend in whom we can trust, it is then that we feel the value of the declaration of the Psalmist, "It is better to trust in the Lord than put confidence in man." Then we feel the sweetness of religion! And, oh! how pleasant it is to know that there is a balm in Gilead!

When the beautiful "light of day" has finished his oft-repeated journey through the azure firmament, and has buried his splendor behind the most distant hill in the West, and dusk, and the doleful whoop of the sweeping weep-poor-will, and the hum of thousands of nocturnal insects, remind busy man that the hour of repose has arrived, how happy is his heart if his conscience is clear and untarnished, and if he can, in humility and peace, commend his soul and body into the care and protection of his Creator! And how much will a calm summer's evening, when man, in solitude, stretches his weary limbs upon a couch in his arbor, or beneath a tree on the skirts of some wild forest, when the shadows of night commence to fall upon the surrounding objects, and the cool breeze of eve fans his burning brow,—how much will such a scene contribute to elevate his thoughts Heaven-wards! Oh! how often do we find our souls too full—too full for utterance—of sublime admiration. We would joyfully communicate to our friends, we would gladly write upon paper, for the benefit of others, the emotion, the happiness, the ecstacy we feel, but words fail us! Ah! there are things which cannot be told: they must be felt! The soul, that essence from God which was blown into the nostrils of man, itself proves, if the heart is pure, its divine origin, by holding, as it were, communion with God himself. When you are lost in deep meditation, and your thoughts gradually mount upwards, contemplating, at first, the flakes of variegated clouds above you, and then, passing on, encounter the amiable Queen of Light as she sails in majesty upon the blue canopy aloft, and rising higher, they skip from star to star, until they penetrate the elysian fields of the Heavenly Canaan, and when your thoughts picture glory and happiness far, far, beyond where human eyes have ever gazed, say, man, has not your soul left, for a moment, its tenement of clay? And does it ever return before it has attempted to see what is not to be seen, and, with shame at its prying curiosity, recollects its mortal part below?—Though humbling, yet how refreshing are these rambles of the mind!

Though our knowledge of the glory that awaits us, is very much restricted, yet we know that "there remaineth a rest for the people of God." And this makes us happy! This assurance bids us hold out a little longer! It leads us successfully through temptations and adversities! It is this that stimulates the thoughts of mortal men to attempt to peep beyond their reach! It is this that invites the soul, filled with glorious anticipation, to fly with the breath of fancy beyond the things which God has revealed to us; and it is this, too, which, when the soul has returned from its peregrinations—from its voyage of discovery and pleasure,—clothes it in humility and meekness, and extorts the confession of the weakness, the nothingness, of man!

After viewing the works of God as far as human eye can penetrate, and after admiring the plan of the universe as far as Revelation informs us, we must exclaim, "Lord, what is man that thou art mindful of him!" And having brought our thoughts home to ourselves, we search again, and discovering how we have sinned,—how Jesus, by leaving his Heavenly throne, descending upon earth, and suffering for us, has atoned for our transgressions, we feel ashamed that we are not more worthy of the kindness and esteem of God.—This is the road to humility!—And who will not pray, "Lord, make us more worthy of thy care." Who will not resolve to strive more for Christian perfection? And who will not joyfully resign his all into the hands of his Beneficent Parent?

H. J. BEYERLE.

Linglestown, July, 1849.

Sunday-school at Newburg.

Newburg, July 12, 1849.

Dear Brother:—

For encouragement to others, I improve a few moments, to say that the Sunday-school at this place is in a very flattering condition; all moving on most harmoniously, scholars and teachers are alike alive to duty. In the spring we lost about one dozen scholars in the removal of the families of brothers Hefflebower and M. F. Snavely; notwithstanding we received accessions from other sources more than to make up for the loss, at least in point of numbers. We never had a more full school, with more praiseworthy attention, than at present.

On the first day of April last, brother Snavely visited and delivered an interesting and affectionate farewell address to the children, parents, teachers and officers of the Sunday-school—urgently exhorting all onward to move in so laudable a work. In conclusion he and family of children, as a parting token of love and good will, contributed a donation of three dollars and some cents. I hope the Lord will, in a coming day, return them principal, with compound interest, as they ever were very liberal in contributing to our wants, while among us. I believe we, as parents and members of the Church of the living God, should be willing to forego any sacrifice, (almost,) at least of a temporal nature, rather than suffer the institution of the Sunday-school pass by neglected.

The Lord has given us children, and requires us to rear them to His glory and honor. He has also placed within our power the means thus to rear them. Are we training them in the way they should go? Do we, with a parental and Christian-like interest, watch over and properly care for them, by looking well to their spiritual welfare? Or are we only caring how to secure treasures for them on earth? Let us in no wise omit to care for their eternal interest, but, as with haste, make every possible effort to direct and lead them as lambs to Christ.

The Lord has distributed certain talents unto men, to be put to usury; and are there any in the Church of God that would presume to say, none has been given them? Nay, verily. But one has talents given him, with a a call to go forth and proclaim a free salvation to fallen man. Another considereth that he has given him five talents, and he manfully enters upon duty as an efficient member in the church. Others think they have only one talent given them, and scarcely that; consequently say, it is not for them to do any thing more than remain content as inactive lookers-on: when at the same time they have ability and talent sufficient to do much. Yet, say they, to whom much is given, much will be required, and they that know not much, but little will be required: and should some one in the meantime attempt to enlighten their understandings, they appear to shrink back, replying, we do not know much, and the less we know the better. Try to solicit their aid and influence in behalf of establishing a Sunday-school, in the town or vicinity, then again do they urge this well treasured plea, I am not qualified, or indeed I have not the time.

Now, if any should consider themselves unqualified, then it is they should themselves the more urge the establishing of Sunday-schools, for there we receive instruction, as well as do the children. And, as to not having time, that plea will not stand. For whom is the Sabbath day? Is it for us to spend, as do too many, by gossiping from house to house? Or are we not rather to devote the day to God's service, in doing all the good we can in every possible manner? The day belongeth to God, and we shall be held accountable to Him for the abuse of it. True, there are a few exceptions, where members are excusable. There are some who cannot aid in person, though they desire it with all the heart. But the ten, five and one talent members of the church are all required to engage in this labor of love.—Are all engaged in this work as they should be? How many churches are there, with children enough, that have no Sunday-school? The members of such churches should surely do something for raising a standard to the Lord, for the better instruction of the youths. The influence of the minister in charge, can be such as to do much in the furthering on of this cause—a cause which will result in great and lasting good, and ultimately draw down blessings upon his heart and head.

There is another important part of the matter to be regretted. After some do become inclined to urge on the work, others are found unwilling to aid its progress by contributing a pittance, and therefore those good designs become wholly frustrated, by a downfall of every effort. Now, let it be considered that the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. All we possess is His, and yet some become so penurious as to withhold that which so justly belongs to God and His cause. The Sunday-school demands our support. Books, &c., are wanted, and we must procure them. The children of themselves cannot, or in most instanees they would.)

Here, then, is work for all. It will not answer the purposes of the Almighty, that we sit down and get to folding our hands, pleading for a little more sleep, a little more slumber. Nay, verily not. Therefore, arouse us, oh! Lord, from our wonted lethargy and supineness, and propel us, by thy graee, to act more efficiently for thy holy cause. In thus arousing us to action, may He that in His day taught on earth, assist us now, by graee Divine, in the teaching of these young diseiples, and bless the efforts put forth to His glory, and to the honor of His eause on earth! And finally, may He own and save us all in the great day of the Lord.

Yours, in the blessed hope,

S. S. SNYDER.

J. Winebrenner, V. D. M.

A Word to the Faithful.

To the Household of Faith:—

When the great Apostle of the gentiles abode at Athens, waiting for his brethren, Silas and Timotheous, his noble spirit was stirred within him, with holy indignation, seeing the city abandoned to idolatry.

A glance at the moral aspect of things at the present time, and the deleterious tendency of prevailing principles and practices, is well calculated to arouse similar emotions in the breast of every reflecting Christian. Perhaps, no period in the history of the Church of our Lord Jesus Christ, has more urgently demanded the ardent prayers and the devoted energies of his people, than the present. And this is demanded, not only from the accumulated interest which characterizes each successive step in the militant progress of the Redeemer's cause, but also, from the circumstance, that, on the one hand, the antagonists of the church are entrenching themselves in bulwarks, which, in any human conflict, would be absolutely impregnable, and girding on an armor so well appointed as to pass unscathed through any contest, but that with the host of the living God; and on the other hand, a large proportion of those professing devotion to the cause of religion, are at the same time busy in heaping up the dust of the earth, making gold their hope, and saying to fine gold, thou art my confidence. Hence, the mass of mankind are distinguished by a profound indifference to the gospel, and are overwhelmed with the cares and pleasures of this life. The bond-servants of Mammon are sowing to the flesh, and preparing to reap its fearful harvest of corruption.

Again, whilst the enemies of the cross of Christ are in the field, prepared for action, with the fore-sighted wisdom of the children of this world, the marshalled armies of Jehovah, although generally aware that there is danger to be apprehended from their opponents, yet comparatively few of the ennobled warriors of Immanuel appear to be impressed with the greatness and imminence of the danger, and the consequent obligation to be prepared to meet it. Few, indeed, seem to be sufficiently impressed with the magnitude of the cause of Christ—with the tried efficiency of the weapons of their warfare, the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God,—and with the certainty and the glory of a final triumph. And hence, many strive forcibly and unlawfully in that contest, which is not one of mere defence, but also of unceasing, uncompromising aggression. Superstition and tyranny are utterly incompatible with the final triumph of the reign of righteousness.

In view of this, dear brethren, we should ever advocate the great principles of truth, which were first promulgated in the gospel: I mean the faith once delivered to the saints; recognizing the sovereign authority of these principles, and keep them before the people separate and distinct from all the isms and notions of men, and they will and must prevail. In this has ever been the secret of our success, in days that are past. I, for one, am opposed to any thing like a union with unscriptural sects and parties by foreed fusion. Yet, nevertheless, I try most sedulously to cultivate the union of the spirit in the bonds of peace, by which God's people should be influenced; and to strengthen those cords with which those are united who walk by the Divine rule, the Christian's chart, which alone can save our souls.

J. H. HURLEY.

Lancaster City, July 16, 1849.

Nine Sabbaths in Shippensburg.

BY J. FLAKE.

The brethren at Shippensburg invited me to come up and preach among them. The Presbytery, or Eldership, said, "Go;" and out of the respect and love which I bear to the Eldership, and the churches, I thought I would do so, at least for a short time.

And so I went, and preached the blessed doctrine of the gospel of Christ, and the law of Christ, and the people of the town and neighborhood seemed glad to hear these things, though it was not new to them.

I visited among the members, in and out of the town, and was cordially received and entertained. I prayed and preached nine Sabbaths, and also held a special meeting, at the celebration of the communion, for several days. I went to Orrstown on three Sabbath mornings, and preached, and prayed, and returned in the afternoon to Shippensburg.

The church at Shippensburg numbers somewhat less than one hundred members, among whom are a number of steady and respectable heads of families, who have considerable weight and influence. They have no church debt, and are very favorably circumstanced as to temporal things. All this demands that they should be very liberal in sustaining the work of the Lord, and doing good to the bodies and souls of men. Wesley said, that to give all we can, is the only way of safety to those who are well off in the world.

There had been somewhat of a division among the brethren at Shippensburg for two or three years past. A minority had stood off for a while, and I tried to persuade the brethren all round, to give way a little toward each other, and all fall in the ranks again, so as to be united among themselves as a church, and to join heartily with the churches and preachers composing the Eldership, to labor and help in the good cause. The prospect is that union will prevail, and the minority have given in their names to go along with the church.

The church holds the same doctrine and practice which is taught by the Eldership preachers, and I think wish them to preach and live among them. There are three brethren regularly licensed as preachers, belonging to the church, and residing in the town; so that in this respect they are well off. I was only a visiter, and sojourner, for a little while.

And so may the grace and peace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with the brethren at Shippensburg, and Orrstown; that whether I see and speak to them again or not, I may hear that it is well with them spiritually, and may meet them in a better world.

July 2, 1849.

Antidote to Poison.

Mr. Editor:—

Having noticed an article in you paper entitled "Antidote to Poison" and believing that antidote is not so generally found in the dwellings of the poor and humble, I am induced to offer the following, which I have proven and know to be invaluable.

Some months since, having mixed some "Arsenic" in corn-meal, for the purpose of destroying rats and vermin, I carefully set it in an out-house for that purpose; but by some means my little boy, who is between three and four years of age, got at the mixture, and being fond of corn-meal, commeneed eating, and had eaten a very considerable quantity before I discovered it. It being inconvenient to go for a physician, and fearing he would die before I could return, I was induced to try the following, viz: I mixed about a half table-spoonful of soft-soap with the same quantity of water, and gave it to him to drink. In about five minutes it caused him to vomit very freely, and he threw up the whole of what he had eaten, and in the course of half an hour he was as well as ever. For an adult, I should think, a large table-spoonful would not be too much. Believing the above to be an infallible antidote, and thinking it might be the means of saving human life, I am induced to offer the same to the public.

Yours, &c.,

GEO. SCHOCH.

Poplar Island, July, 1849.

Letter from Brother L. W. Keller.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive.—Acts 20: 35.

Again, "he that giveth to the Lord shall not lack." And why? Because "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver." "The Lord hath ordained that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel." 1 Cor. 9: 14.

If, then, the Lord has ordained, or designed, that wherever he sends his servants we should support them, is it not wrong if we withhold from giving? Certainly it is. For the laborer is worthy of his hire.

I hope the brethren will bear a little with me in my folly, for I always have been of the opinion, and am yet, that the more we give to the cause of God and to the support of the gospel, the more the Lord will bless us in our temporal affairs. O! if we would consider how some people live in the world, we would more freely give, and not only give, but we would pray the Lord to send more laborers into his vineyard, and especially into this Western vineyard, where we have meeting only every month, and sometimes not for two or three months. Brother Wm. Adams has now been preaching for us some four years; and the reasons why we have not more frequent preaching are various. Some of these are the following: because the brethren are not yet so numerous, preaching places far apart, the road somewhat tedious, in the winter especially, and brother Adams is rather too feeble to travel the road oftener. He has some sixty or or seventy miles from where he lives. I would request, therefore, especially my brethren of the Ohio Eldership, to send us another spiritual man, by another year, if suitable provisions can be made, that we may have more frequent preaching. I have no doubt but what the churches would soon increase.

Let us therefore cast our bread upon the water, for I have faith to believe that we shall find it many days henee.

We have no preaching in Tiffen at the present time. Any time when it is convenient, I should be glad to have preaching in Tiffen. There are a great many more places where there appears to be a call for preaching, that cannot, at the present time, be supplied.

I will close my remarks by saying, keep yourselves in the love of God.

Yours, in love,

L. W. KELLER.

Tiffen, Seneca Co., Ohio, July 6, 1849.

Letter from Brother S. S. Snyder.

Newberg, July 11, 1849.

Dear Brother:—

As I am confined to my room, in consequence of being indisposed in health, since the 7th inst., I will therefore devote a little season in penning a few lines, which, if you deem expedient, you may give publicity to in the "Advocate."

My family and the brotherhood generally, are all reasonably well. Praise the Lord. Matters and things in general are wearing a more favorable aspect in this, the Lord's, vintage. There is more unanimity of concert—a more fixed determination to stand unshaken and immovable upon that "Rock," on which His Church is built.

I had in contemplation to write for the "Advocate" in April last, relative to the labors and departure of our worthy brethren, M. F. Snavely and G. U. Harn, who, after the last Eldership, labored with and for us in word and doctrine to good acceptance. But, owing to a multiplicity of business, I was prevented.—Considerable good was effected in behalf of their Master's cause. One or two professed a change of heart. Some three or four were babtized. A greater unanimity of feeling also was effected. Yet those brethren have departed from our midst. Brother Harn to Harrisburg, there to do his Master's will. Brother Snavely, with his affectionate family, have gone to Iowa, there to locate himself and family, and to minister to the spiritual wants of the brotherhood and people generally in that distant clime. Both these brethren have the prayers and best wishes of the church to follow them.

Brother M. F. and sister Catharine Snavely and family, have left us with regret, on the part of the people. No one ever having left our midst, by temporal removal, which had the effect of producing such deep regret, out of the church too, as well as in it, as in the case of this dear family. In all his ministrations, brother S. aimed to promote the comfort and happiness of all around him, and for the onward furthering of the Redeemer's kingdom. For general acts of benevolence, his heart and purse were ever open. How he may find or meet with things in the far West, and how succeed there, is unknown, though we fondly hope that he may not have all his labor in vain. We hope that he may be well rewarded in time and eternity, for his toil and labor of love.

Brother E. H. Thomas and family are with us, (though absent at present,) and are very comfortably housed in the beautiful and convenient brick dwelling of sister S. Leiby's.

He has entered upon his ministerial labors, and we humbly trust that, under God, much good may be accomplished to the enlarging of Zion's borders.

The brethren at this place, have under consideration at this time, the propriety of holding a Camp-meeting in August. My vote stands in favor of it, and I hope they will decide in the affirmative. I think if there ever was a time that a reformation was needed it is now, even now. Wickedness is abounding to an alarming extent,—men are waxing worse and worse; and the love of many professing Godliness growing cold. In verity, it would appear as though men had formed a league with the Wicked One, to bid defiance to the Almighty, their Creator and benefactor. He from whom they receive all the good they enjoy, in and by whom they live, move and have existence, they do not glorify. God save, save the people! Give to thy people a heart to pray, and to pray in the spirit, for the salvation of the impenitent sinners. I would rejoice, if the people will conclude to hold a Camp-meeting this season, and go out to spend a few days in the grove, as for the Lord and His cause only.

Yours, truly,

S. S. SNYDER.

J. WINEBRENNER, V. D. M.

Letter from Bro. J. Glenn, V. D. M.

GLADE MILLS, June 22, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

THIS will inform you that I am now on the Old Harmony, Slippery Rock and Columbiana Circuit, according to the arrangement of the late Standing Committee. I have made three rounds, and truly I am happy to say, that I have been kindly received by the brethren.—But I am sorry to say, that religion is at a low ebb in Ohio. There was a considerable excitement last winter, about one mile north of Columbiana, through various meetings held by brother J. Anglemeyer and others. However, the excitement was down when I came there. But we are endeavoring to raise it again. We preached on the subject of Baptism, which caused some queries in the minds of the Sects. We also preached on Feet-washing, and attended to it, and bless God we had a good time. I think there are omens of good there. May the good Lord grant it may be so. There are only seven members there at present, I believe, but the example of most of them is worthy of imitation. I expect some will be baptized there soon. May the good Lord commence and carry on a reformation, such as has never yet been seen about Columbiana, is my prayer.

From that I came to Slippery Rock, intending to hold a week's meeting; but I was so much worn down, I had to forbear, having labored before, nearly three weeks, every day or evening, and twice on the Sabbath. However, there appears to be a general barrenness there, from some cause unknown to me: perhaps it is sickness. The members have not been all out to meeting, at once, since I came to the circuit.

I intend soon to hold and make some protracted and special efforts, the Lord willing. Brother Klein has promised to assist. I have preached for the brethren of Harmony and Evensburg only once. At father Latshaw's it is truly a hard place. There is every aspect of discouragement there. However, I intend, by the grace of God, to do my duty. According to their request, they can have Sabbath preaching, but it will be the third Sabbath in every month, and as much through the week as they want, except when necessity calls me away,

I have been up at Middlesex, and have preached a few times. The folks are all friendly, and seem to wish me God speed.—There are only two difficulties there. Some have difficulties with one another, and are not willing to take a Scriptural course for settlement. The fault is, a general want of zeal and vital piety, which ought ever characterize the followers of the meek and lowly Jesus.—This seems to be the greatest of all difficulties. I have endeavored to get peace restored and to get the church purged and revived. But how we shall succeed in the work, I know not as yet. We are all looking up for better times. May the good Lord grant that his work may be revived on this circuit, and throughout the West Pennsylvania Eldership.

I remain, in the kingdom and patience of our Lord Jesus Christ,

Yours,

J. GLENN.

Letter from Brother S. Barnhart.

GREENE CO., Pa., June 29, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

IN looking over the columns of the Advocate, I am led to believe that there is a mistake existing among some of the brethren in Ohio, in regard to the difficulties under which the brethren of the Greene County Church have been laboring. Elder Myers, and others, are truly mistaken. There never has been any person expelled from the church for voting either for Cass or Taylor. I wish in this short epistle, to give a true history of the transactions in this church, in regard to politics, which are as follows.

On the last Sabbath in December last, brother Wertz preached at our meeting-house, at which time he preached an excellent sermon, accompanied by a beautiful exhortation. The brethren and sisters were apparently much revived, and even sinners evinced a disposition to learn wisdom; yes, we were looking forward for a bountiful season of blessings. But no sooner was the meeting over, than one of the Elders wished to hold a consultation with the other two Elders and Deacons, in regard to voting at civil elections. Brother Wertz repudiated the idea of binding the conscience of the brethren in regard to voting. This was the commencement of our difficulties. Then, to aid our difficulties, it appeared the Sectarians were trying to help on as much as they could; that is, the Wesleyans. The Church of God has ever had enemies, and has some enemies yet. Hence, when they found the church in this place in a crippled situation, they delighted in preaching up their doctrines and creeds, as if (sometimes I thought) to entirely destroy the work of God in this place.

But, again to the point. During last winter religion was almost forgotten by some; politics was all the go. Cass and Taylor, pro-slavery, Van Buren and anti-slavery, were the bones of contention. Several days were set to adjust our difficulties. But there was no final decision until in June, when Elder J. Hickernell came out and brought the church right up, where, in my opinion, I think, she ought to have been long before. In this he done right. Since then she is quit, and is considered a co-operative branch of the Church of God. The consequence of which was the loss of a few brethren, by withdrawing from the church. Those who are now in the church appear to be united. May the God of peace be with us and bless us.

Brother Wertz has had some severe trials this season. He has been badly treated by those who should have been his friends. However, in a general point of view, he is well spoken of.

There are some Baptist brethren here who sometimes co-operate with us in holding meetings. May God bless them for their labors of love.

Sincere prayer and pious living, I think, will soon bring us right again.

Yours, &c.,

STEPHEN BARNHART.

Letter from John Keiser.

PIQUA, Ohio, July 2, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

IF you have a vacant place in the Church Advocate, you will please publish the following account concerning the death of my dear wife, MARY KEISER.

She died on the second day of May, and was buried on the third. Funeral sermon preached by Rev. Mr. Thomas, a Baptist preacher, from Job 7: 8. One day before her death I asked her whether she was prepared to meet God. She said she was; and would soon meet her four children in heaven. With her last words she exhorted us, and advised us all to repent, and meet her in heaven. May the Lord help me and the rest of my family to set out anew. Pray for us all.

We were formerly from Pennsylvania. We moved out to this State four years ago, and are now living in a fine little village called Piqua. In consequence of myself and wife becoming cold in religion, the Lord visited our family with the vengeful arm of death. He called away four of our youngest children. This stirred us up and caused us to contend again for the faith once delivered to the saints. Three months before my wife's death, I noticed a change in her for the better; but alas for me, I was still unblessed in religion, and am not much better yet. Yet I am determined, by the help of God, to get on the good old way again. I ask the prayers of the church in my behalf. I am surrounded with sectarians; but I believe a good work may be wrought in this place, if some of the preachers would give us a call. I can get a house for preaching any time. There is a very popular and intelligent people here.

Brother Hickernell would be an acceptable preacher among us. I will give five dollars per year towards a good speaker; and I believe twenty dollars more can be raised. Tell brother Hickernell to come on and pay us a visit No more, but remain

Yours, &c.,

JOHN KEISER.

OBITUARY OF ALLEN S. TOLBERT.

DIED, on the 12th of July, 1849, ALLEN SIMPSON TOLBERT, of North Carolina, formerly of Cumberland county, Pa., aged 25 years 3 months and 10 days.

Again has the Lord visited us by his afflicting hand, and that too by calling one of our brightest youths from our midst. In this dispensation of God's providence, he selected a bright ornament for his target. Mr. Tolbert was a promising young man. While yet a boy, he took a great delight in improving his mind, and used every exertion to become useful to his fellow beings around him. By close application to his books, he was soon able to take charge of a common school in his own neighborhood, Monroe township, Cumberland, county, Pa. In the discharge of his duty as a teacher, he gained the affection of a large circle of acquaintances; especially of his employers and scholars. After following this employment for a short time, he went to Dickinson College, where he won for himself a name, not soon to be forgotten. After staying there as long as his pecuniary circumstances would allow, he went to North Carolina, where he succeeded in raising a select school, and was doing well. From this he looked forward when he would be still more useful; still giving his parents comfort, that in time he would be able to command more influence and do more good. But, oh! how soon did it change. Having impaired his health by study, and being delicate, he contracted a bad cold last winter, which settled on his breast. The symptoms of Consumption were now seen and felt. Being admonished to think that his days would be short, he was now compelled to lay all by, and hasten homeward, to his parents. When he arrived, it was evident his days were but few; and being advised to make all preparations necessary for death, casting himself upon Christ, he strove so to do; and calmly yielded up his soul, on the 12th of July, to God who gave it. On the 13th his remains were conveyed to their resting place, near Dillstown, York county, Pa. Funeral services by the writer, from the text, "And because I will do this unto thee, prepare to meet thy God." Amos 4: 12.

I WILL NOT BE THERE.

When closed are all life's busy schemes,
And I am in the tomb;
Those that succeed, pleased with its dreams,
Will occupy my room.

The congregation of the Lord,
Will meet for praise and prayer;
And from his servant hear his word,
But I will not be there.

Autumn and winter will return,
With spring and summer fair;
And plenteous harvest fill the barn,
But I will not be there.

With lightsome heart and mirthful glee,
Dismissed from every care;
The youth, in wedlock joined, will be,
But I will not be there.

Around the family altar, too,
Households will come for prayer;
They'll read, and sing, as we do now,
But I will not be there.

Fierce armies, too, led by the brave,
Will spread death every where;
But silent in my lowly grave,
I'll not be with them there.

J. C. SEABROOKS.

Mechanicsburg, Pa., July 16, 1849.

OBITUARY OF Sister MARY ANN HOOVER.

CARLISLE, July 14, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

PERMIT me hereby to inform you that I have met with an almost intolerable affliction, in the sudden loss of my wife. On the 10th inst. she ate a hearty supper. At about sun-set she complained of a violent headache, when I went to a physician and got some medicine.

which gave instant relief. At ten o'clock she had a very severe vomiting spell, after which she was perfectly easy, and went to sleep, and slept for near an hour. But at eleven o'clock she was violently attacked with spasms, which I thought would instantly kill her. I immediately sent for a physician, but when he came he pronounced her case a hopeless one. Her spasms continued, at intervals of half an hour, until she died, at five o'clock, A. M., on the 11th inst., aged 30 years, 1 month and 11 days.

Her funeral took place on Wednesday, the 12th, when the Rev. Mr. Brown officiated by reading the 19th Psalm, after which he delivered a very appropriate address, on the vanity of this mortal life, and the certainty of death.

Mary Ann embraced religion between eight and nine years ago, and has ever since endeavored to live an exemplary, virtuous and holy life. She was a kind, loving and affectionate wife—an endearing, caressing and sympathizing mother—a liberal, tender-hearted and charitable neighbor, ever ready to supply the wants of the needy, to relieve the distressed, and to soothe the sorrowing heart with the oil of consolation.

In the evening, when retiring to rest, on the 10th inst., we both knelt side by side before the throne of sovereign mercy. Then she offered up a prayer calculated, I think, to melt a flinty heart. Oh! what fervency! Oh! what zeal! And what ardent devotion! Language would fail me to portray, and the pen insufficient to describe. She prayed most fervently in behalf of her husband and dear little children.

My dear Mary Ann has left me, and four small children, and many relatives and friends, who mourn over her sudden departure, but not as those who have no hope. I truly believe that our great, inestimable and irreparable loss is her eternal gain. I do believe with all my heart, that she is safely seated in Abraham's bosom, with a crown of glory upon her head, and with palms of victory in her hands, rejoicing in her deliverance, with a full salvation.

She has suffered affliction, sorrow, pain and death; but, glory be to God, we ardently and sincerely hope and believe that she has conquered death, hell and the grave, and was conveyed by heavenly messengers from this sin-cursed earth to the haven of eternal rest:

(LINES.—PART I.)

Where the wicked cease from troubling,
  Where the weary are at rest;
Where the saints shall cease from praying,
  Where they are divinely blessed.

Free from sickness, free from sorrow,
  Free from anguish, free from pain;
No dread thought of glowing honor,
  Ere shall frighten them again.

Where the saints sing hallelujahs—
  Are complete in Christ their King:
Ask the grave, where is now thy victory?
  Boasting monster, where's thy sting?

If we're pardoned through the Saviour,
  Though the grave may us annoy;
Death's the gate to endless pleasure—
  Road to everlasting joy.

(LINES.—PART II.)

Let me go, the day is breaking—
  Dear companion, let me go;
We have spent a night of waking,
  In this wilderness below:
Upwards now I bend my way—
  Part we here at break of day.

Let me go, I may not tarry,
  Wrestling thus with doubts and fears;
Angels wait my soul to carry,
  Where my risen Lord appears:
Friends and kindred, weep not so—
  If ye love me—let me go.

We have travelled long together,
  Hand in hand, and heart in heart,
Both through fair and stormy weather,
  And 'tis hard, 'tis hard to part:
While I sigh, "FAREWELL," to you,
  Answer, one and all, "ADIEU."

'Tis not darkness gathering round me,
  That withdraws me from your sight;
Walls of flesh no more can bind me,
  But translated into light:
Like the lark, on mounting wing,
  Though unseen, you hear me sing.

Heaven's glad day hath o'er me broken,
  Far beyond earth's span of sky;
Am I dead? Nay, by this token,
  Know that I have ceased to die:
Would you solve the mystery,
  Come up hither—come and see?

S. M. HOOVER.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Awful Fatality in Louisiana.—We have been favored by a friend with the following extract of a letter received in Baltimore from Louisiana, which shows an alarming destruction of the slaves in that State: —"The cholera is sweeping off the black population in great numbers. For instance Dr. Duffel has lost 7 negroes, M Le Blanc 4, Trist 20, Kenner 34, Doile 40, Minor opposite this place, has lost 66 within a week. These are within sight of our house. Down the Lafourche, Col. Bibb has lost 74, Bishop Polk (Episcopalian) 64, and many others in proportion. The victims have no premonitory symptoms. They are taken with weakness in the legs, and in two hours they are dead! They have neither diarrhœa nor vomiting. It is awful to see how they drop down in the field; at one moment perfectly well and hearty, and by the time they are carried to the house they are no more. Every morning there are a number reported dead on the different plantations.

Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad.—The ceremony of breaking ground on this important link of our great Pennsylvania improvement was performed on the 4th of July, in the presence of a concourse of about 3000 people, assembled to celebrate the occasion. The ceremony was peformed on the line between this State and Ohio. Hon. Geo. Darsie of Pittsburg presided at the meeting, assisted by other gentlemen from this State and Ohio as Vice Presidents and Secretaries. Addresses were made by Messrs. Darsie, S. W. Roberts and others, and appropriate resolutions passed.

Restraint on Marriage.—The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has decided that a testator can devise real estate to his widow upon condition that she shall not marry again. In the Court of Common Pleas of Lancaster county, such condition was held to be void upon the principles that contracts in restraint of marriage are not favored by laws. But the Supreme Court has settled the question another way. Chief Justice Gibson delivered the opinion.—Lancaster Union.

The Mormon Manifesto.—This singular sect, who moved to the great Salt Lake valley after expulsion from Iowa, and Missouri, and Illinois, have published their first manifesto to all their brethren throughout the world. It is a curious document containing a strange admixture of sense, cant, shrewdness and impiety, together with many quite interesting details respecting the region in which they have taken up their abode. They have commenced the erection of a city on a grand scale which is divided into nineteen wards, consisting each of nine blocks, each three square. They are to have a council house, bridges, bath houses, schools, colleges, and all the institutions of civilization. A gold mine was discovered, it is said, by a party of them who had gone on an exploring tour through the northern part of Western California. John Smith, the uncle of Joseph, has been ordained "Patriarch of the Church."

Cholera Specific—Important Correction.—A gentleman residing in Kentucky, writes to us as follows, concerning a recipe for Cholera, which lately appeared in our colums:

DEAR SIR: I observe in the Intelligencer of June 26, a "Cure for Cholera," viz:

Laudanum, 2 ounces; Spirits Camphor, 2 ounces; Tincture cayenne pepper, 2 drachms; Tincture ginger, 1 ounce; Essence peppermint, 2 ounces; Hoffman's anodyne, 2 ounces. Mix all together. Dose, a table-spoonful for an adult.

This is a good prescription; but it was a sad omission not to mention it was all to be put into a quart of French brandy. This would give about twenty drops of laudanum, &c., to a dose.—Nat. Intel.

Influx of Emigrants.—Emigration promises for the coming season, to more than double that of any former year. Every ship arriving at our ports is filled with the peasantry of the old world, some flying almost penniless from starvation and pestilence, and some with hoards of wealth, to escape revolution and settle down in peace on our free soil. The tide pours principally from Great Britian and Germany, the largest stream from Ireland. The port of New York is the recipient of probably two thirds of the entire arrivals. New Orleans receives the next largest number, while Boston stands third on the list. Vast numbers also find the U. States by way of the Canadas. However they may be unladen at Halifax or Montreal, they soon find their way over the border.

Manufactures.—There are in Pittsburg, Pa., about 100 furnaces and other manufacturing establishments, included in which are 14 rolling mills, with nail factories to most of them, 20 iron founderies, and 44 engine shops. The amount of iron rolled daily is fully equal to 300 tons, of which 60 tons are made into nails. Queensware is now manufactured at East Liverpool, fifty miles below Pittsburg, of American clay, and is in all respects as beautiful, and far cheaper than the English ware. There is also within a short distance of Pittsburg one of the finest beds of clay for the manufacture of yellow, or Rockingham ware, to be found in the world.

New Bishop.—The election for Bishop of the Diocese of Mississippi, resulted in the unanimous choice of the Rev. William M. Greene, D. D., President of the University of North Carolina.

Distinguished Persons Recently Deceased.—Within a very short space of time, the following distinguished persons have died in this country and in Europe:

James K. Polk, Ex-President of the United States.

Mrs. Madison, relict of the late Ex-President.

General E. P. Gaines, of the U. S. Army.
General W. J. Worth, of the "
General S. W. Kearney, of the "
Colonel James Duncan, of the "
Marshal Bugeaud, of the French Army.
Charles Albert, Ex-King of Sardinia.

Girard College.—This institution has now been in operation nearly two years. The first President, Joel Jones, Esq., resigned his post and left on the 1st of June. We learn that the Board of Directors have elected in his place, Frederick A. Packard, Esq., who has long been connected with the Am. S. S. Union. He is said to be very fully adapted to the post, and it is hoped that under his auspices the institution will flourish.

Revival at Mobile.—The protracted meeting of the Franklin Street Methodist Church, which had no intermission for the past six weeks, will be continued indefinitely at the St. Francis Street Church. Thus far the labors of the ministers have been attended with the most happy results. More than one hundred and eighty persons have been converted, one hundred and sixty-two of whom have attached themselves to the Methodist Churches of this city.

The Locust Visitation.—It has been stated that the 17 year locusts were to be looked for this season in Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. The prediction is being verified, for the Pittsburg Gazette says:—We paid a visit to the country in the early part of this week, and were really astonished at the countless millions of locusts which swarm in all directions.

Sunday Liquor Traffic Stopped.—The Mayor of the city of New York has issued a proclamation, ordering all groceries and liquor shops to be closed on Sunday. The police are required to keep this order enforced. For his firm stand on this subject, the Mayor deserves thanks; and in maintaining it, we trust, he will receive the co-operation of all good citizens.

Manufacturing Spirit South.—The Augusta Chronicle says that no less than a million and a half of dollars have been subscribed in Georgia lately, to build new Cotton Mills, which are now being erected. One hundred and forty thousand of this sum have been invested and subscribed in Augusta.

Cincinnati.—It is stated that there are 259 houses for rent in Cincinnati, the tenants having fled from the Cholera. It is estimated that the city has lost about 1300 inhabitants from this cause, and four or five times that number by the ravages of the Cholera.

☞ The largest artificial fountain in the world is at Chatworth, the seat of the Duke of Devonshire, England. It shoots up almost like lightning a column of water 267 feet high—more than one hundred feet higher than Niagara Falls and about fifty feet higher than the Bunker Hill Monument.

Removals from Office.—The Maine Democratic Convention, at their late session in Portland, passed a resolution calling upon the Senate of the United States not to confirm the numerous appointments now being made by President Taylor.

Gas in Lancaster.—The Lancaster Gas company has been organized; Hon. Ellis Lewis being chosen President. Proposals are to be received for erecting the works, which are to be completed before the 1st of January.

Relaid.—The West Chester Railroad track has been relaid the entire length, with T rail, of the best quality, and American manufacture.

☞ The news from Europe is of an exciting character. The movements of the Hungarians and Italians continue to be the chief objects of interest. But the tendency of events seems to be toward a general war, from which it will be exceedingly difficult for any of the nations of Europe to stand aloof.

☞ One can now travel from Buffalo to Chicago, in Illinois, in 34 hours, for $5.—The route is on Lake Erie by steamers, across Michigan by cars to New Buffalo, and thence by steamer to Chicago. The above fare secures cabin passage, meals and berth on both Lakes.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE DISTILLER AND THE PREACHER.

Some years ago, the Rev. Mr. Axley, of eccentric but pious memory, had preached to one of the congregations on his circuit, and after the sermon, as was the custom of Methodist preachers in those days, the preacher had class-meeting. He had questioned each brother and sister on the subject of their experience, practice and enjoyment in the divine life, giving each a word of encouragement, comfort, and advice, as the case seemed to require, filling up the intervals by singing a suitable verse with life and spirit, until all the members had been questioned but a certain very prominent member of the church, who it seems owned a distillery, and by some means his preacher found out the fact.—When, after the most serious conversations with others, the following examination took place:—

Preacher.—Well brother Jerry, how do you come on, making whiskey?

Brother.—(Somewhat startled.) Oh, I do not know, tolerably well enough.

P.—Well, brother, tell us how much money you give for a bushel of corn?

B.—Twenty-five cents a bushel.

P.—Twenty-five cents; very cheap that, I should say; but another question, brother, how much whiskey do you suppose one bushel of corn will make?

B.—Can't say. I suppose about three gallons. (Very much confused.)

P.—So, three gallons! Why that's a considerable turn out, I should judge.—But brother, what do you get for a gallon of whiskey?

B.—(Looking rather wild.) Seventy-five cents.

P.—Seventy-five cents. Two hundred per cent? and that too, I reckon, by the bushel; you get more by the jug full.—But, brother, tell your brethren, isn't the slops very good to fatten hogs upon?

B.—Yes, pretty good.

P.—And won't the hogs you fatten on the slops for nothing, come mighty nigh paying for the corn?

B.—Well, very nigh it.

P.—But come to the question, brother, do you make a good article? Will it bear a bead?

By this time the brother was so perfectly confused by the preacher's interrogatories, he began to wish he had never seen the preacher or distillery either. The class could scarcely maintain their gravity during the dialogue; and we need not add that the poor fellow was so tormented, every time he met a neighbor, with the salutation, "Well, brother, how do you come on making whiskey?" and "Do you make a real good article?" "Will it bear a bead?" that he actually broke up his distillery and became a consistent temperance man.

TITHING MODLES.

In reading the biography of the most eminently, pious and useful in different ages, we have often been struck with the fact, that almost all of them devoted a regular proportion of their income to pious and charitable uses. We will mention a few whose names are familiar, whose writings are venerated, and whose memory is precious. Among those who made a tenth the fixed portion of their almsgiving, was Lord Chief Justice Hale, the Rev. Dr. Hammond, and the Rev. Dr. Annesley. Baxter informs us, that he long adhered to this, until, for himself, he found it too little, and observes, "I think, however, that it is as likely a proportion as can be prescribed; and that devoting a tenth part ordinarily to God is a matter that we have more than human direction for." Doddridge was another instance of this kind. "I make a solemn dedication of one tenth of my estate, salary and income, to charitable uses; and I also devote to such uses an eighth of every thing I receive by way of gift or present." A fifth part was the fixed proportion of Archbishop Titotson and Dr Watts. A fourth part was the proportion constantly given by Mrs. Bury, the wife of the eminently pious and useful Rev. Mr. Bury. Her husband, in his account of her life says: "She thought it was reasonable that such as had not children should appropriate a fourth part of their net profits to charitable purposes." Mrs. Elizabeth Rowe gave even more than this, "I consecrate," says that excellent female, "half of my yearly income to charitable uses; yes all that I have beyond the bare conveniences and necessities of life shall, surely be the Lord's." Such too was the constant practice of the Hon. Robert Boyle, of the Rev. Mr. Brand, and of the Rev. Thomas Gouge. Of the latter, Archbishop Tillotson says, in his funeral sermon, "All things considered, there have not been, since the primitive times of Christianity, many among the sons of men, to whom that glorious character of the Son of God might be better applied, that "he went about doing good."

The last might be extended to those who have lived since, to many of our own age, and in our country, but these examples are sufficient. If Christians generally were to act thus, to fix some due proportion, and keep a separate fund for charitable purposes, with how much more wisdom, prudence and cheerfulness would they perform this Christian duty. How often would they lift up their hearts to God, in devout thanksgiving, for affording them opportunities of enjoying this privilege, and of showing to themselves and others, that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."—London Watchman.

INDIA—A MISSIONARY FIELD.

That vast continent, occupying an area of 1,200,000 square miles, and containing a population of 150,000,000 of responsible and immortal beings; that continent thus peopled, mysteriously but wisely opend to the Gospel of Jesus, is a theatre to which the attention of the Christian Church should be more immediately and vividly directed, and towards which their efforts and prayers should still more directly tend. That country has been remarkably prepared for the reception of heavenly truth. A great external work has been carried on there for many years. The prejudices of the government of the country have been materially removed. The influence of idolatry upon the native mind has been greatly weakened. Slavery has been legally abolished. Education vastly extended. Converts have been made to the Christian faith. Churches after the New Testament model have been formed. Native teachers and schoolmasters have been prepared and sent forth into the length and breadth of the land; and India at the present moment is, to the preacher of the Gospel, as free as the air we breathe and the grace we preach; and all that is required at the hands of the common Christianity, that they will provide ample means for meeting the new wants, and dispelling the old woes of the masses of the people of India.—London Anniversary Speech.

HISTORICAL RECORDS.

It will be remembered that Gen. Scott, at the capture of the city of Mexico, seized and brought home some 5000 volumes of historical works in the archives of Mexico, all in the Spanish language. Some of these are 300 years old, and contain a perfect history of that country from its origin. It is the intention of the United States Government, as we learn from the New York Tribune, to extract from this library all that may be useful in forming a complete history of the prossessions which we have acquired by the treaty, to be retained in our own archives, and the books will then be sent back to Mexico.—The right to bring the books away is perhaps undoubted, but it evinces liberality in this Government to return them. The work of translating such portions of them as will accomplish the object we have in view will occupy a year in all probability, and a competent person is already engaged to fulfil this duty.

WHO DISCOVERED THE GOLD IN CALIFORNIA?

The first discovery of gold in California, it appears was made by a Jerseyman, a native of Lambertville, who has been in California some six years. His name is James W. Marshall. In partnership with John A. Suter, he erected the famous Colluma saw mill in July, 1847, and he himself found the gold in January, 1848, in the tail race of the mill.

The fifth commandment of the Mohammedans is, to apply two and a half per cent. of their property to the relief of the poor.

It is not the length, but the strength of prayer that is required; not the labor of the lip, but the travail of the heart that prevails with God. Let thy words be few, as Solomon says, but full, and to the purpose.—Spencer.

POETRY.

HYMN.

O LAND of rest for thee I sigh,
When will the moment come,
When I shall lay my armor by,
And dwell in peace at home.

No tranquil joys on earth I know,
No peaceful shelt'ring dome;
This world's a wilderness of wo,
This world is not my home.

To Jesus Christ I sought for rest,
He bid me cease to roam,
And fly for succour to his breast,
And he'll conduct me home.

I would at once have quit this field,
Where foes with fury foam,
But oh! my passport was not seal'd,
I could not yet go home.

When by affliction sharply tried,
I view the gaping tomb;
Although I dread death's chilling tide,
Yet still I sigh for home.

Weary of wand'ring round and round,
This vale of sin and gloom;
I long to quit the unhallowed ground,
And dwell with Christ above.

THE GRAVE.

THE grave calms down the ruffled breast,
That flows from sorrow's secret spring,
And gives the wearied sufferer rest,
From anguish of oppression's sting.

Where all is deep, and dark, and still,
Where every vexing mischief's o'er,
Where passion's once unbridled will,
And suffering can afflict no more.

And thus the peasant, and the peer,
The freeman, and the meanest slave,
Have every one his troubles here,
Which only vanish in the grave.

Wealth cannot dry the dropping tear,
When sorrow fastens on the heart;
Nor want, with all its force, allay
The anguish of a bleeding heart.

But drive the sober thought away;
Reason or not, the time will come,
When every form of human clay,
Shall find its mother mould its home.

Then who, oppress'd with bitter grief,
Or maddened by tumultuous care,
Would sigh to find the yellow leaf,
Or dread to be an inmate there?

A SCRAP.

When we look around on earth,
O'er the forest and the field,
Where the oakling has its birth,
And the earth doth plenty yield—
We are led to see the kindness
Thus bestowed on Adam's race,
And think that utter blindness
Could not hide it from our face.

J. F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

Baltimore, Md., June, 1849.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 12th ult., by Elder A. Swartz, Mr. GEORGE REDLY to Miss ELIZABETH GRISEL, both of Londonderry township, Dauphin county.

On the 15th ult., by Elder J. J. Miller, Mr. VALENTINE DALSON, of New Market, York county, to Miss MARY HARMONY, of Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, Pa.

On the 26th of June, by Elder J. H. Hurley, HENRY J. SHOPE, M. D., of Dauphin county, to Miss MARY JANE YOUNG, of Lancaster county.

On the 19th of June, by the same, Mr. WILLIAM HARRY to Miss NANCY DANIELS, both of Lancaster city.

On the 9th ult., by the Rev. Charles A. Hay, Mr. CHARLES HEPBURN, of Tioga county, to Miss SARAH BRUBECKER, of Harrisburg.

On the 18th ult., by Elder J. C. Owens, Mr. JOSEPH MENTZER, of Fayetteville, Pa., to Miss SARAH ANN UPPENMEN, of Baltimore, Md.

On the 12th ult., by James Mackey, V. D. M., JOSEPH STRAWBRIDGE, V. D. M., of Orrstown Franklin county, to sister MARGARET POULEY, of Shippensburg, Cumberland, county, Pa.

On the 12th ult., by Elder A. Snyder, Mr. JACOB L. MEILER to Miss EMALINE WOLF, both of Rockeyville, Dauphin county, Pa.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—In this borough, on Tuesday, the 10th ult., JAMES HARN YODER, infant son of Daniel A. and Mary J. Yoder.

Was life so bitter to thy taste—
Its cup so full of gall?
That thou shouldst leave it in such haste—
So soon forsake us all?

Then speed thou to a better land—
There wait thy parents' time,
And we will come at God's command,
To view thee all divine.

In Petersburg, Adams county, Pa., on the 27th of June, Mrs. MARY ANN, wife of Rev. Henry Aurand, aged 42 years.

At her residence in Washington city, on the 12th ult., Mrs. MADISON, widow of James Madison, Ex-President of the United States, aged about 82 years.

In Philadelphia, on Friday, the 13th ult., WILLIAM HENRY, infant son of William and Eliza Davies, aged 8 months and 16 days.

Farewell, sweet babe, thy spirit's gone,
Where Jesus, smiling, bids thee come,
Away from earth's afflicting shore,
To worlds where parting is no more.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Woods-meeting.

A Woods-meeting will be held near brother Bolden's, Hancock county, Ohio, commencing on the 15th of August.

Woods-meeting.

A Woods-meeting will be held, Deo Volente, on the premises of Major Row, in the neighborhood of the Green Spring, Cumberland county, commencing on Friday, the 3d inst., being the National Fast-day. Services will commence at 10 o'clock, A. M. The meeting will last over Sabbath, and perhaps longer.

E. H. THOMAS.

Camp-meeting.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the farm of brother John Stump, on the old camp-ground, two miles east of Bethleham, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 22d of August.

The brethren generally are invited to attend, particularly the latter meeting, with their tents. It will be expected that the brethren of Wayne county will attend with their tents, inasmuch as there is no camp on their circuit this year.

A. MEGREW,
On behalf of the Committee.

East Pennsylvania Camp-Meetings.

Agreeably to appointment, the Standing Committee met in Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, on Wednesday, the 27th ult., to arrange the Camp-Meetings for this season: when sundry applications were made, and the meetings arranged as follows, to wit:

1. The first Camp-meeting will be held, Providence permitting, near Andersonstown, York county, commencing on Friday, the 10th of August, proximo.

2. The second Camp-meeting will be held on Camp Hill, near Bowman's, Cumberland county, about two miles from Harrisburg, commencing on Friday, the 17th of August next.

3. The third will be held near Germany, Perry county, commencing on Monday, the 20th of August.

4. The fourth will be held at or near Stonerstown, Bedford county, commencing on Friday, the 24th of August.

5. The fifth will be held at Auburn, Schuylkill county, commencing on Monday, the 27th of August.

Should any other meetings be desired, application can be made to the Editor of the Advocate.

ABRAHAM SWARTZ,
JOHN WINEBRENNER,
JACOB KELLER.

Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held at Uniontown, Carroll county, Md., on the premises of Wm. Roberts, Esq., commencing on the 24th of August.

Brother B. Howard and son, (if in Pa.,) and all the brethren who can make it suit, are invited to attend.

A Camp-meeting is to be held in the woods of John Baker, about one mile northwest from Linglestown, to commence on the 3d of September next.

Ohio Camp-meetings.

A Camp-meeting will be held in Crawford county, one mile east of West Liberty, and five miles west of Shelby, on brother Shade's farm, commencing on the 15th of August.

The brethren at Marion, Lexington, Blooming Grove, Shanedore, Sharon, Plymouth and Caroline, are invited to come out with their tents. The brethren in the ministry are especially invited to attend this camp.

Another Camp-meeting will be held in Ashland county, one and a half miles west of Reedsburg, near the brick meeting-house, commencing on the 29th of August.

The brethren in the bounds of the Wooster, and east and south parts of the Ashland circuit, are invited to come out with their tents. The brethen in the ministry are especially invited to attend. DANIEL WILLIAMS.

Missionary Pledges.

WE, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner,	$10 00
William Reichert,	5 00
Isaac Miller,	10 00
J. H. Hurley,	5 00
Geo. U. Harn,	5 00
M. F. Snavely,	10 00
Jacob Miller,	10 00
James Miller,	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh,	5 00
Thomas Strohm,	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe,	5 00
Abraham Sherich,	7 50
Abraham Swartz,	5 00
A liberal brother,	20 00
A liberal sister,	2 00

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,	$4 10	a 4	12½
Do. RYE, do.	2 25	a 2	37
Do. CORN, do.	2 20	a 2	25
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,	88	a	91
Do. RYE, do.	47	a	48
Do. CORN, new do.	47	a	48
Do. OATS, do.	25	a	26
Do. BARLEY, do.	60	a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER, do.	3 00	a 3	50
Do. TIMOTHY, do.	3 00	a 3	25
Do. FLAX, do.	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt.	5 00	a 5	50
PORK, do.	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound,	8	a	9
BUTTER, do.	12½	a	15
LARD, do.	7	a	8
TALLOW, do.	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen,	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel,	50	a	60
ONIONS, do.	75	a	87½
APPLES, do.	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound,	37½	a	45
WOOL, do.	30	a	50
SALT, per sack,	1 30	a 1	31
HAY, per ton,	12 00	a15	00
PLASTER, per ton,	4 00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,	$4 62½	a 4	75
Do. RYE, do.	2 75	2 a	80
Do. CORN, do.	2 70	a 2	75
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,	1 02	a 1	03
Do. RYE, do.	56	a	58
Do. CORN, new do.	58	a	60
Do. OATS, do.	30	a	31
Do. BARLEY, do.	75	a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER, do.	3 00	a 3	50
Do. TIMOTHY, do.	2 75	a 3	00
Do. FLAX, do.	1 30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt.,	7 00	a 8	75
PORK, do.	7 00	a 7	25

Tract of Land for Sale.

THE undersigned wishes to sell at private sale, a small tract of land, containing about 30 acres, situated in the village of Andersonstown, York county, Pa.

The improvements thereon are a two story DWELLING HOUSE, 20 by 32 feet; a Log Barn, with Wagon-shed attached to it; a Blacksmith-shop, 20 by 30 feet, with Coal-house attached; together with other out-buildings: such as Mill-house, Pig-stye, Bake-oven, &c.

Also, a thriving young Orchard, and various other fruit trees, with a Pump between the house and shop, and an excellent and never-failing Spring of water a few hundred yards distant from the house.

The whole tract is in a fine state of cultivation, fenced off in small fields, with two acres of wood-land on the premises, and five acres of wood-land in a separate lot, situated about one-fourth of a mile from the 30 acre tract. This lot will be sold with the main tract, or separate, as may best suit the purchaser. Possession and a good title will be given to the purchaser on the first of April, 1850.

PETER KNISELY.

June 1.—tf.

PRITNING MATERIALS FOR SALE.

THERE are for sale, at the office of the Cumberland Presbyterian, an improved Smith Printing Press, 32 by 22 inches—together with from 359 to 400 lbs. of Long Primer and Brevier type, and several fonts of Fancy letter. Also, Cases, Stands, &c. These materials are all in good condition, having been in use but a short time, and will be disposed of on reasonable terms. Persons wishing to purchase will please address the Editor.

Cholera Medicine.

THOSE who may want to purchase Cholera Medicine, can address the Editor, Advocate Office, Harrisburg, Pa.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages. is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

FOR the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles,	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul,	75
Evangelical Music,	75
Treatise on Regeneration,	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament,	37½
Revival Hymn Books,	50
View of the Church, &c.,	37½
Almost Christian, in German,	25
Young Christian's Guide,	25
Harn on Feet-Washing,	25
Lycenm Spelling Book,	15
Traveler's Guide to the West,	50

JOB PRINTING

NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., AUGUST 15, 1849. NUMBER 8.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Errata.

In giving the obituary of sister Hoover in our last, several mistakes occurred. One in respect to her age, which ought to have been 30 years, 1 month and 18 days—and the other in reference to the Psalm which was read at her funeral, which ought to have been the 90th Psalm, instead of the 19th.

New Subscribers Wanted.

As some of our delinquent subscribers are falling off, we should like to have a recruit of new and cash-paying subscribers in their place. Let an effort be made at all the Camp-meetings East and West, and then it will appear what can be done. We will furnish the paper from the 1st inst. to the end of the volume, in April next, for 75 cents.

The Fast-Day.

The Fast-day on the 3d inst., was very generally observed here; and also, from what we have learnt through our exchanges, by the people generally throughout the United States. This fact speaks volumes in favor of the character of our citizens, and of the character and nature of our Government. Our example, on this score, presents a sublime moral spectacle to the nations of our world at large.—Although there is no union between Church and State in this country, yet we possess the same facilities, for uniting the people in the observance of religious duties, as in Monarchial Governments.

Camp-meeting Reports.

In our next we hope to be able to give some of the reports of the Camp-meetings. Will our brethren bear in mind our former request on this subject, and furnish us short and correct accounts of the several camps throughout the bounds of the different Elderships? These reports will form historical records of these meetings, for years and ages to come.

Capitulation of Rome.

The army of "Republican" France has at length succeeded in getting possession of Rome. On the 30th of June, the Roman Constituent made a decree couched in these terms: "The Assembly ceases a defence which has become impossible." At the same time the General-in-chief of the Roman army demanded a suspension of hostilities.

Cumberland Valley Railroad.

We learn that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Cumberland Valley Railroad, held a short time ago, it was determined to lay the road at once with T railing. The work will be first commenced at Carlisle, and progress toward Chambersburg; after the completion of which, the portion between Carlisle and Harrisburg will be re-laid. The amount of money requisite to complete this repair or improvement, is estimated at $250,000, for which a preferred lien is to be given upon the earnings of the road.

Newburg Woods-meeting.

This meeting, it is said, turned out very well. The weather was fine, and the congregations quite large and well-behaved. The preaching was considered sound and evangelical; and the impressions made upon the minds of the people, to all appearance, quite good and favorable. A few came out publicly to seek the Lord.

The preachers in attendance were brothers Ross, Swartz, Mackey, Thomas, and several others. May the seed sown spring up and bear much fruit, "after many days!"

The Cholera.

We are happy to learn, from the public prints, that the Cholera is abating in most of our Atlantic and Western cities. We hope it will continue to abate, and speedily come to an entire cessation. But whether it does or does not, we devoutly hope and pray that it may be abundantly sanctified to the people of this whole nation, and especially to those evil-doers in the land, whose sins and iniquities have brought this desolating judgment upon our otherwise highly favored and prosperous country.

Notice to the Brethren in the West.

Our brethren in the West are again informed that we have established several Depositories for our books, in the West, and far West, for their own accommodation.

Messrs. Watson & Williams are our agents at St. Louis; Mrs. Sarah Sadler at Pittsburg, and Elder a Megrew and J. P. Winebrenner at Wooster, Ohio.

We sent a box of books, principally Hymn-books, in May last, to Pittsburg, directed to Myers & Dobson. This box was left (by brother L. Wolfersberger, who took it out,) either at the Exchange or Merchants' Hotel.

Brother Wolfersberger was to deliver the box, but not stopping in Pittsburg as he had intended, he left it at one of the afore-mentioned Hotels. Mrs. Sadler will please to get the box and supply the brethren who may want.

Doubtful Disputations.

We consider all disputations more or less unprofitable and hurtful, but especially those on doubtful subjects. Doubtful subjects are mysterious and indifferent ones.

If the subject is mysterious, we may hold it and teach it as an article of faith, but it is no proper subject for investigation, beyond the teachings of revelation. For instance, the doctrine of the Trinity, the doctrine of Angels and Spirits, the modus operandi of the spirit, and many other theological subjects are profoundly mysterious; hence all human speculations and disputations, concerning these and kindred subjects, will make no one wiser or better, but tend only to distract and bewilder the mind.

Just so, likewise, with all matters of indifference: that is, such as may be done, or not done, with perfect impunity—a mere matter of opinion.

Now, why should Christians contend or dispute about such things? What profit can they have from such doubtful disputations? None at all. Then let all be careful to avoid such useless, yea such injurious disputations.

But on the other hand, it is a duty to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints; that is to say, for the true principles, experience and practice of the religion of the Bible. These are no mere matters of opinion, and with few exceptions, no unfathomable mysteries, but plain matters of faith and practice. Hence, for the defence and prevalency of this system of truth and righteousness, we may dispute; and if need be, like Paul, "from morning till night," But, then, let our speech always be seasoned with salt; and let us be sure never to give place to vain jangling.

New Edition of German & English Hymn-Books.

We have now on hand a good supply of German and English Hymn-books.

In getting out this new Edition of the German Hymn-book, we were greatly hindered, by repeated disappointments on the part of different workmen in Philadelphia. But after a long and tedious progress of workmanship, we have succeeded at length in having it finished. We very much regret the delays which have occurred in its publication. Yet we flatter ourselves with the hope, that the superior merits of the work, and the elegant style in which it is got up, will, in a great measure, atone for its long delay. It is altogether an excellent book. Neither its intrinsic merits, or style of workmanship, will suffer by comparison, with any work of the kind, extant in our country.

The new edition of the English Hymn-book is also improved in its general appearance, having been worked on larger and better paper than usual.

Bamberger's Journal.

This interesting little work is now out of press and ready for delivery. It is considerably larger than the Treatise on Regeneration, containing 342 pages—which is nearly 100 pages more than the work on Regeneration. An idea of the nature and merits of its contents may be gathered, in part at least, from the following short preface to the work:—

In presenting to the public, the Journal and Miscellaneous Writings of the late and much lamented Joseph H. Bamberger, the Publishing Committee of the General Eldership would merely remark, that they have complied with the instructions and wishes of that body, in the hope and belief that it will be a useful and profitable book, especially to the young in the ministry, and the church.

His Journal is written in a plain and easy style, and shows the various exercises and mental conflicts of the young Christian, in his pilgrimage from earth to heaven. It shows the wise, observant and pious mind of its youthful author, whose praise was in all the churches, and who will long be remembered with cherished affections. It shows also how prudent and careful he was in the improvement of his time and talents; what assidious efforts he made for high attainments in the divine life; and how unreservedly devoted to God, he strove to feel, and live, and act.

His Short Sermons, Skeletons, and Miscellaneous Articles, manifest, for a young man without much learning, both tact and talents of a superior and commanding order. This part of the work will be found of special service to young ministers.

We commend the work to the attention and careful perusal of all orders, ages and classes of the community, but especially to young Christians and Christian Ministers, and to Sabbath-school Teachers and Scholars.

By the Committee.

Arrival and Reception of the President.

PRESIDENT TAYLOR arrived here on Saturday afternoon, the 11th inst., and was received by the military and citizens with great eclat. He put up at Mr. Coverly's Hotel, tarried over Sabbath, and left on Monday morning, the 13th, on his tour Westward by way of Chambersburg, Bedford, &c.

We were highly gratified to see the President look so well, but especially that he remembers the Sabbath-day so as not to profane it by travelling. We hope he may ever do so.

"Peter Pence."

THE New York Tribune says:—"At the Roman Catholic churches throughout the city and suburbs, very large sums were collected for the relief of Pope Pius IX. At St. Peter's Church, Barclay street, the handsome sum of $750 was received; St. James's Church, St. James street, over $500 was taken, and the sums at all the other churches were proportionately large. Supposing the Roman Catholic churches of New York, Jersey City, Brooklyn, and Williamsburgh, to be twenty-five, (and that is about the number,) and the receipts to average $250 at each, the total realized would be about $6200. Multiply this by the United States, and at least ten times six, that is, $60,000, shall have been received."

This is a good round sum to be raised within our country for the aid of a foreign deposed monarch. Verily, we doubt whether Peter or Paul, or their Master, ever had such a sum, or the tithe of it, furnished them. But they did not need so much to keep up their State as the "humble and unworthy" Pius IX does. They had no pomp to maintain, no battles to fight for earthly sceptres.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Materialism Refuted.---No. 4.

ANOTHER passage which I offer in support of my general proposition, may be found in Acts 7: 59. Here we have Stephen's dying request. While receiving a shower of stones from his enemies, he cries out, "Lord Jesus receive my spirit." This language places his faith in a conscious state after death, beyond a doubt. If he had been a materialist, would he have given utterance to this request? It is unreasonable to think so; because on the face of it you would learn a different doctrine. How can we account for this uniformity of sentiment between the words of Stephen and of Christ? He, entertaining the sentiment expressed in Christ's commendation on the cross, therefore his faith is expressed in such unequivocal language. If this was not his faith, then scepticism must be the goal of our investigations, its rocking waves our strong entrenchmen', behind which we are to find security. Is this the citadel where truth, in her majesty, resides, and regales its votaries with doubtful speculations? Is this their chief delight! Ah, tell it not in Gath!

But truth, like a munition of rocks, offers a safe protection, and points to Him that never erred as its exhaustless fountain; and it will live uninjured when the waves of scepticism shall be hushed into everlasting silence, and come forth, clad in the garb of invincibility, commanding the reverence and submission of all intelligent beings to its authority. We all ought to bow to its authority now, and walk in the pathway it directs.

We shall now listen to the testimony given by the great Apostle of the Gentiles on this subject. In Phil. 1: 21—25, he introduces his view of death, and shows that death would be to him a "gain." How, we ask, could death be a personal gain to him, if he would not consciously exist after death? He was one of the most eminent and useful ministers in the Church; one of the most efficient instruments employed by Immanuel for the conversion of the world. Hence, his death, or sleeping in the grave, would have been a loss instead of a gain, both to the Church and to himself personally. But according to the truth in the text, death would have been a personal benefit to him; because after the dissolution of the body, he expected to be with Christ. In this point of view only it would have been a gain to him to die. "If I live in the flesh," &c., (verse 22.) Here is a plain distinction made between I (Paul) and the flesh, or body, in which he lived. Why this distinction, if life is only an accident of matter!

The next thing is his desire to depart. Now if the opposite was true, this could not take place. If the whole man goes down to the grave, then he could not depart. But Paul chose to differ from them, therefore the propriety of his desire.

Again, his expectation to be with Christ, shows the same thing. Christ is not in the grave. He is said to be at the right hand of the Father: therefore not in the grave. Paul could not express his faith in a conscious state in language more clear and explicit than he has done here.

Again, he was willing to sacrifice his desire, (if it could be gratified,) for their interest and welfare. "Therefore more needful for you that I abide in the flesh." Does not this passage clearly teach that he could live in the flesh, and also out of it? This single passage should determine this controversy forever.

But the doctrine we plead for is taught in other texts. There is a passage in 2 Tim. 4: 6, where Paul informs Timothy that the time of his departure (or death) was at hand, and he should receive a crown at that day. Our antagonists say this is a description of the same event, and must have been written at the same time, and refers to the coming of Christ, like the one we have just been discussing. It is admitted that the same event is referred to in this as well as in his other epistles. But that it was written at the same time, and refers to Christ's coming, is a mistake, and easily detected. The first thing in this passage is his death, or departure—the time when the crown was to be received, at that day. What day? They say the day of his coming. That is begging the question. The coming of Christ is not the subject in the passage. The time mentioned in the text, is the time of his departure. With this agrees the Revelator, where it says, be faithful until death, and I will give you a crown of life. Therefore this does not teach what they wish it to teach.

If these passages are contrasted, we see a striking difference. The first difference lies here: In the passage in Timothy, his death was settled, fixed, decided: "The time of my departure is at hand." In Philippians it was only a desire to depart; the time was not settled or fixed. He says, "To abide in the flesh is more needful for you. I have this confidence, that I shall abide in the flesh for your furtherance and faith." The second difference is this: In Timothy "he was ready to be offered up." All the arrangements were made. In Philippians he only was in a strait betwixt two. These passages would never have been confounded, but to serve a purpose, and carry a point.

He gives further testimony in 2 Cor. 5: 1. There he compates his body to a tabernacle, or moveable tent, that at any time might be thrown down or "dissolved." The second is, the possibility of leaving this tabernacle and dwelling with the Lord. In the 6th verse he makes it clear, by giving us the reasons: "We are always confident, knowing that while we are at home in the body, (the place of his present residence,) we are absent from the Lord." In the 8th verse he gives us his wish and desire: "We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." Is not the distinctinn clear and evident, between I, Paul, the residenter, and the house in which he resided? And also, I, Paul, can live out of this house; and therefore the propriety of his desire and preference. If his language represented his view of the future state, it demonstrates a conscious state, if human language can express it.

Another fact, that confirms this view, need only be stated; that in all his epistles there is not a single passage that teaches the contrary doctrine. In the 12th chapter of this epistle, his faith is again expressed in these words: "Whether in the body or out of it," &c. If he believed a man could not be out of the body and live, this language can never be, on this hypothesis, accounted for. On the other we find an easy solution. This language could not possibly be used by one who believed in materialism, without making a wrong impression; for there is no living out of the body, according to their theory. On the face of this language his faith is implied. This agrees with what he had taught in those passages we have already presented. We here close the examination of this witness for the present.

S. A.

[To be continued.]

Jerusalem.---No. 2.

FIGURATIVELY, or spiritually, Jerusalem and Zion, or Sion, are convertible and interchangeable terms, being applied to denote the Church of Christ, whether in her militant or triumphant estate. As we have already proven, God had determined upon the final overthrow of the literal city, and removal of all her inhabitants, by the hand of the victorious Romans, but designed that that title should be transferred to a city which cannot be moved.

The following Scriptures doubtless refer to the Church, in their use of these words, in her militant estate. "Sing praises to the LORD, who dwelleth in ZION." Now the Lord dwells no more in the hill where David's palace stood than in Etna or Vesuvius; but in the Church he does. "I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people." Psalm 9: 11. 2 Cor. 6: 16. "Praise waiteth for thee, O God, in Zion." Psalm 65: 1. "And in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, we will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel; only let us be called by thy name, to take away our reproach. In that day shall the branch of the LORD be glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and comely for them that are escaped of Israel. And it shall come to pass, that he that is left in ZION, and he that remaineth in Jerusalem, shall be called holy, even every one that is written among the living in Jerusalem." This Scripture cannot refer to the resurrection state of the Church; for, in that, women will have no need to, nor will they in fact, lay hold on a man to remove their reproach, by being called by his name. Again, every one left in Zion shall be holy, can refer to none other than the saints of God, redeemed from sin. "Be ye holy for I am holy." All of this accords with Jeremiah 31: 31—34. This New Covenant, Paul tells us in Hebrews 8: 6—13, is the Covenant of the Church of Christ, and the covenantees thereof are holy—they know God, yea, from the very least to the greatest.

Isaiah says again, "Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner-stone, a sure foundation." No Christian has a doubt about who is alluded to in the prediction; for "no other foundation can any man lay than that which is laid, which is CHRIST." Now, as this foundation is Christ, and the rock on which the Church is built, so he was laid in Zion, and still lays there, as the hope of all his people.

In that beautiful and masterly handled contrast, drawn between Hagar and Sarah, in the latter part of the fourth chapter of the epistle to the Galatians, the inspired logician employs the name Jerusalem in no other possible acceptation. "Tell me," says he, "you who wish to be under the law, do you not hear the law? For it is written, that Abraham had two sons; one by the bond-maid, and one by the free woman. But he, indeed, who was of the bond-maid, was begotten according to the flesh; but he who was of the free woman, was through the promise. Which things are allegorized: for these women are two institutions: the one, indeed, from Mount Sinai, bringing forth children into bondage,—as a slave mother always does—which is Hagar, (for the name Hagar denotes Mount Sinai in Arabia,) and she answers to the present Jerusalem, and is in bondage with her children. But the Jerusalem above is the free woman, who is our mother." Mark, this Jerusalem is the free woman, and this woman the mother of Christians individually. Can we next find who the mother of the children of Christ is? Without a shadow of misgiving, his bride or wife, and she is none other than the Church. "Thus, my brethren, you also have become dead to the law, by the body of Christ, that you may be married to another, who rose from the dead, that we may bring forth fruit unto God." This fruit consists in our holy obedience and the increase of his family. Romans 7: 5. The Apostle adds, "I have espoused you to one husband, that I might present you as a chaste virgin to Christ." This espousal had already taken place: Christ is a husband; and Paul felt jealous of his bride, lest while he was personally absent, her affections would be placed upon another—the world, the flesh and the devil.

But the Revelator caps the climax, when he declares, "The spirit and the bride say, Come." The spirit and Church, animated by him, say, Come, to a sinful world.

Another very sublime effusion of Paul to the Hebrews, evinces the truthfulness of my argument. "But you are come unto Mount Zion, and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to myriads of messengers; to the general assembly and congregation of the first-born, who are enrolled in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and the spirits of just men made perfect, and to Jesus the Mediator of the new institution, and to the blood of sprinkling."

We are told, however, that this coming to Mount Zion and Jerusalem is yet future—that it will not take place till the resurrection of the just. To this I beg leave to reply, that the language is in the present tense, you are come, without any reason for supposing it prophetic, unless to avoid my conclusions. Secondly, if coming to Zion and Jerusalem is yet future, then have we not come to God—to the church of the first-born—to the Mediator of the new covenant—to the blood of sprinkling—consequently we have not had our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and are yet in our sins!

As ancient Hyerosolyma was typical of the Church, so there are some definite points of resemblance between them. Among others are the following.

No place in the whole earth did God exercise so great and constant a diligence over as Zion and Jerusalem. "The hill of God is as the hill of Bashan; a high hill as the hill of Bashan. Why leap ye, ye high hills! This is the hill which God desireth to dwell in; yea, the LORD will dwell in forever." This same care, yea, a far greater, does God have for His peculiar people. It is this care that renders His Church the glory of the whole earth. So great has been the regard of Christ for His Church, that he gave himself for it, that he might sanctify and cleanse it, with the washing of water by the word, that he might present it in all its glory, without a spot or wrinkle.

The first mark of a Divine regard for those places is, that God erected there the throne of his kingdom, and set David on it, as the first of a long line of illustrious monarchs, who reigned in the city, forcibly rended from the embrace of the Jebusites.

Christ, the last legal heir to the throne of Israel, being the true David, having a two-fold right to the regal honors of his father, first by law and secondly by promise, has taken up his royal residence in heaven, the centre of his general assembly or Church.

In Jerusalem God also established his altar and recorded his name for worship: there songs of praise were sounded aloud to the king of potentates, and now to the Church has God left his name to be magnified, and the sacrifice of our lips, offered from the burning altar of flowing bosoms and glowing hearts.

The Divine protection against invading foes was also signally displayed in the defence of that city, so long as her people were obedient and humble. So has God pledged his constant protection to his children or people. The gates of hell shall not prevail against them.

Fraternally,

G. U. HARN.

Contend for the Faith.

ELDER M. F. SNAVELY sendeth greeting to all the brotherhood, &c. The second number of the "Church Advocate" arrived here to-day, dated 15th June. After reading it through, I held it in my hand, and looking over the title-page, I noticed the above hinted text, in Jude. Thinks I to myself, I am certainly trying to do that; and I can assure you, my brethren, I have plenty of that to do. I am here alone among a large number of "Quakers," (so called,) but I cannot see any "quaking." And, judging from appearance, I would not suppose that there is enough of the spirit of God among the whole of them, to make even one quake much. These people, you know, (I suppose,) explain away very much of the "faith" of the primitive Christians; and I, professing to be a believer in all the teachings and commandments of Christ, do, and cannot help, as a matter of course, to "contend" with them.

We have had some pretty smart contentions too,—and that sometimes daily. Finally, they sent me their strongest man, (as I suppose,) viz: a book, published by a Robert Barkley. On being asked what I thought of it, I replied, I thought I was acquainted with all the arguments that Barkley could use against the New Testament,—for I had read "Tom Paine's Age of Reason;" and the only difference, I thought, was, that Paine explained away the whole of the New Testament, and Barkley a good part: and that he wrested and perverted a great deal of the New Testament, which did not run parallel with his new theory! This, of course, "was a hard saying," and led to a new controversy this morning, in "my own hired house." So, in "contending earnestly for the faith," I told my opponent that I hesitated not in saying, that the man even blasphemed in saying, that MAN could baptize with the Holy Ghost.

I then challenged them to a public debate. I requested them that they should furnish me with one of their strongest men that they could produce, that I might have one week with him on the subject. Lord pity the poor, blind, duped followers of Robert Barkley! Such things are too sacred to be trifled with, or left pass without expressing, at least, my utter disapprobation to such fallacy of reasoning.

It does not so much grieve me to hear men differ from me, because they do not altogether agree with me in their views of Scripture; but when I hear them treating contemptibly the plainest of all Scriptures, such as that of Water Baptism, the Lord's Supper, and washing of Feet, &c., &c., then I cannot, nay, I will not hold my peace. I have told them plainly, that whenever I was prepared to throw away as much of the Scripture as they do, that then I will throw away the WHOLE, and join Charles Sherman, who, by the way, is a confirmed Infidel!

Having, then, the Quakers,—the Infidels,—the Universalists,—the Predestinarians,—the Methodists, and such like, around me, all differing from me more or less, you may judge of my situation. I will either have to run or yield. But I will not do either. So I (as a public character) must "fight," (contend.) and so I do, in good earnest too. You may think I do not lack much of being an "Ishmaelite," in this respect. Would to God my health was right good, I would fairly make them "loathe" me as a "full soul doth the honeycomb!"

Brethren, forget not to pray for me. I want to do the will of God, that I may be saved when I am done "contending" here below.

Grace be with you, and all the Israel of God. —Amen.

M. F. SNAVELY.

Salem, Henry Co., Iowa, July 4, 1849.

The Mutual Recognition of Departed Souls in a Separate State.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

WHETHER the souls of Christians who have been acquainted in this life will recognize one another in a future state of bliss, is a question which has sometimes painfully exercised the minds of survivors. Happening upon some remarks from "Leslie's Vision of the Heavenly World," which appear to me to throw a degree of light on the question, I copy them, and send to you. As I believe they would be acceptable to your readers, their insertion in your valuable paper would oblige, Yours, fraternally, K.

"Amongst the pleasures and employments of Heaven, that of the knowledge of, and the converse which the saints will have with one another, appears to hold an exceedingly prominent place. The inhabitants are always represented as a society, and as a family continually in the presence of each other. We are told of elders together, of many angels together, and of an innumerable multitude together singing one song, even the song of Moses and the Lamb. "But ye are come unto Mount Sion, the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of angels; to the general assembly and church of the first-born who are written in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to Jesus, the Mediator of the new covenant."

Now, as we can have no idea of a society always existing together, without its members being intimately known to each other, so we can form no idea of the society of heaven without the same conception. Indeed this sentiment is plainly conveyed to us in the words of the Saviour, "Many shall come from the east and the west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven;" for it could not with propriety be said, that we should sit down with these three patriarchs, if we did not know them, and were not able to recognize them in particular amidst the innumerable company.

If it be true, therefore, that we shall know Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, men whom we have never seen on earth, much more true is it likely to be that we shall know those pious persons whom we have seen, and with whom we have been intimately acquainted in this world.

The Apostle, in his first epistle to the Thessalonians, writes: "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them who are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others who have no hope; for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also who sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." This language evidently implies, that pious friends here, though separated by death, will meet again at the resurrection; for if this be not intended, there does not appear to be any meaning in the Apostle's words. He writes to the Thessalonians to comfort them under the loss of some of their fellow-Christians, and tells them not to sorrow as those without hope. And what is that hope? "That them who sleep in Jesus will God bring with him;" words which plainly intimate that the separation occasioned by death was only for a time, and that parted friends should meet again. And if they are to meet again, what comfort can there be in the thought of meeting, unless we suppose that each will be fully known to the other?

That every inhabitant of the blissful world will be as much distinguished from all the rest, as one man is distinguished from another in this world, is a sentiment fully supported by the word of God. And though John says, that when Christ shall appear, the righteous will be like him; yet that same Apostle in the apocalyptic vision, saw that the righteous and the Saviour were not so much alike, but that he could distinguish the Lamb amidst the throng, that he could mark the elders amidst the angels, and that he could know the martyrs amidst the innumerable company. And to the same Apostle, along with James and Peter, it was also granted, on the mount of transfiguration, to see that there was such a difference between one celestial inhabitant and another, that Moses could easily be distinguished from his companion Elias.

If, therefore, every heavenly inhabitant is to preserve his own special identity; and if we are to be blessed with the faculty of vision,—a truth which none will dispute,—what then will prevent our recognizing all the pious whom we have known, and with whom we have been associated on earth? The thought is delightful; and its delight is increased because the fact is certain. The dead in Christ have only reached their home first; but as their home is to be our home, and their abode to be our abode, at the appointed time we shall meet again, and the joy of meeting will be increased by the temporary separation."

Jericho.

JERICHO, "the City of Palm-trees," derives all its importance from history. Though now only a miserable village, containing about thirty wretched cottages, which are inhabited by half naked Arabs, it was one of the oldest cities in Palestine, and was the first place reduced by the Israelites on entering the Holy Land. It was reduced to the ground by Joshua, who denounced a curse on the person who should re-build it. Five hundred and thirty years afterward, this malediction was literally fulfilled upon Hiel of Bethel, who rebuilt the city, which soon appears to have attained a considerable degree of importance. There was a school of the Prophets here in the days of Elijah and Elisha, both of whom seemed to have resided much here. In the vicinity of Jericho there was a large but unwholesome spring, which rendered the soil unfruitful, until it was blessed by the Prophet Elisha. In the second chapter of Ezra we read, that three hundred and forty-five of the inhabitants of Jericho, who had been carried into captivity, returned to Judea with Zerubbabel, and in the third chapter of Nehemiah we find them at work on the walls of Jerusalem.

Jericho appears to have continued in a flourishing condition during several centuries. In the time of our Saviour it was inferior only to Jerusalem, in the number and splendor of its public edifices, and was one of the royal residences of Herod, misnamed the Great, who died there. It was situated in the hollow or bottom of the extensive plain called the "Great Plain, (which circumstance marks the propriety of the expression of the Evangelist, "Going down to Jericho,") and is about nineteen miles distant from the capital of Judea. In the last war of the Romans with the Jews, Jericho was sacked by Vespasian, and its inhabitants were put to the sword.—Subsequently re-established by the Emperor Hadrian, in the year A. D., 138, it was doomed, at no very distant period, to experience new disasters. Again it was repaired by the Christians, who made it an Episcopal See; but in the twelfth century it was captured by the Mohammedans, and has not since emerged from its ruins. Of all its magnificent buildings, there remains part of only one tower, the dwelling of the Governor of the district, which is traditionally said to have been the residence of Zaccheus, the publican, who dwelt in Jericho. The steep mountainous ridge near the ruins of the city, is called the mountain of Quarantania, and is supposed to have been the scene of our Saviour's temptation. Here, Dr. Shaw is of opinion, that the two spies of Joshua, concealed themselves when they fled from Jericho. This mountain commands a distinct and delightful view of the mountains of Arabia, and of the Dead Sea, and of the extensive and fertile plain of Jericho. According to Mr. Maundrell, Quarantania is a most miserable, dry, and barren place, consisting of rocky mountains, so torn and disordered, as if the earth had here suffered some great convulsion. On the left hand, looking down a steep valley, as he passed along, he saw the ruins of small cells and cottages, the former habitations of hermits, who had retired thither for penance and mortification; for which purpose a more comfortless and abandoned place could not be found in the whole earth. The particular mountainous precipice, where, it is believed, "all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them," were shown to Jesus Christ, is, as the Evangelist describes it, "an exceeding high mountain," and, in its ascent, not only difficult, but dangerous. It has a small chapel at the top, and another about half way down, founded on a projecting part of the rock. Near the latter are several caves and holes, evacuated by the hermits, in which they kept their fast of Lent, in imitation of that of Jesus Christ.

HENRY SHOPE.

Linglestown, Pa., July 18, 1849.

The Poor Minister.

Of all men who fill the various stations in life, the minister of the gospel is one of the greatest importance. Commissioned by God to proclaim his gospel to a dying world, which is groaning in sin and iniquity, and, as it were, thousands around him who are going down to eternal ruin. O! how solemn the thought. If he sees the sword coming, and cries not aloud, that they may see their danger and flee, God declares that he will require the blood of those souls that perish at his hands.

Dear reader, have you ever considered the responsibility of your minister's calling?—Why is it that he is willing to leave houses, father and mother, sisters and brothers, to preach the gospel of eternal salvation? Why, it is his call.

Behold him, standing between the living and the dead, crying aloud to sinners to flee the wrath to come. Such is the nature of his calling. But we are not done. We ask you to go to his family circle. See him there, with his companion in life, subsisting, as it were, upon a scanty peter-pence. His appointment comes: he goes out, with a heavy heart, to preach; and while he travels along, he is weighed down with sorrow to think of his penury and sufferings at home. He is to impart to others the food of life, and he needs comfort himself; yet he is treated with a cold indifference by those who should esteem him highly. Many give to their preacher a small sum, by way of giving a charity. They do not consider it is their duty to do it. But let such remember, that he that preacheth the gospel, shall live of the gospel. The poor minister is commanded, by God, to cry and spare not. He looks around, takes courage, and arises with all his strength. He blows the trumpet; but hark, do any heed it? Ah! no. All appears dark and gloomy. His strength begins to fail: he loses courage and sinks. He now takes his commission and lays it at his Master's feet, and kneeling before him, with tears streaming from his eyes, he implores mercy: he begs of God. Oh! hear it. He pleads for mercy to help him in this arduous work. But after all, although he bears a burden which might make the shoulders of an angel sink, he hears the voice of God, saying, go and proclaim my gospel.

Dear reader, can you turn from such a scene with a cold indifference, and leave your preacher suffer on? Look back, years that are gone by, when the Church was warm in the love of God, the preacher's wants were enquired after: he was relieved, and he could come up clear and free. And then did God manifest himself to his people.

When will that time come again? Why, just when the people of God come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty, and stand and hold up their preacher's hands, so that Israel may prevail. May God help you to do your duty, and defend the cause of God manfully, so that his cause may not suffer.

J. C. SEABROOKS.

Lisburn, Pa., July 30, 1849.

Iowa Once More.---No. 3.

Having still a few more things to write in reference to this beautiful country, &c., I again resume the subject. However, I would here say, you misunderstood a word in my first letter. You made me say, John Heck's bottom, whereas I said, John Heikes' bottom, viz: west of Plainfield. Howbeit, they are both fit specimens.

Brethren, I am very glad this day that I came out here. I have said so frequently, and say so now, that I would not this day take $1000 in gold and go back to where I came from, and be situated and circumstanced as I was.

What I now want is a little better health, (which was somewhat impaired by travelling, and necessarily eating unhealthy food,) and a number of good, faithful brethren, and a few preachers, who could devote all their time to preaching. A man with a small family I am certain can be sustained. I know he can, and more too. And a more beautiful country no one need ever wish to see, only it is new. But thousands are pouring into it from various parts. Last week I received a letter from brother J. J. Doman, (who once lived with brother Snodgrass, in Dauphin county,) who informed me in his letter that himself and brother Wagner and families, from Fishing Creek, Dauphin county, arrived in Iowa only two days before we did, and that they have all bought farms in Louisa county, not far from "Grandview," from which their letter was mailed. They want preaching, and in very many places preaching is wanted. But who is to do it? I cannot, and dare not, preach much. But this new country is attended with many inconveniences. Here fine meeting-houses are wanting. Fine dwelling-houses, barns, &c., are not here. You will not see many barns in Iowa, and very few stables for horses, much less for horned cattle. But better water I never did drink in all my travels, than this country has. Numbers of Illinois folks are coming to Iowa; because it is generally more rolling, and has much better water, and much healthier too, in consequence of the water.

But home is home to almost any one; therefore, any one coming to this new country, undergoing such a vast change of scenery, customs, &c., and being entirely strange, will feel it sensibly at first: but one month's location, and a little fixing, will cure all. "Sweet home" then will be here as well as yonder. I would advise every one to bring most of their best household goods with them, especially such as can be boxed up. It will cost but a trifle, and then you will have your own old things. Brethren, if nothing yet happens me, other than I now know and see, I could not like it better than I do; but this may not be the case with every one. I do insist on the brethren coming to see it at least. I feel more at home here in two months than in two years at Linglestown, Pa. Farewell.

M. F. SNAVELY.

July 4, 1849.

Camp-meetings.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

There is, in my opinion, no religious meetings so good, in my enjoyment, as Camp-meetings. There are many professing Christians now, who once were in favor of Camp-meetings, who say that they would rather see them done away with, for some time at least, until the people would get more light on the subject. Others, again, have this reason, because there was so little good done for the last few years past. It were easy to answer these and other objections. But, O! foolish professing Christians, have we begun in the spirit, and are we going to end in the flesh? Or, like the rebellious Jews, are we going back into Egypt again? God forbid. But may we have grace from the heavenly hill to perform our duty in all things with fidelity.

Come, then, dear brethren in the Lord, let us go out into the wilderness in the name of the God of Israel, not to be seen of the world—not to make a show in the flesh—not to make a feast for the rich—not to see who can bring the most grandeur there—nor stay at home because we have no carpet to spread in our tents, as some others have. No, my dear brethren, this will not do. We must pick up courage and go out with our tents, not fearing the cold ground, but casting our thoughts upon our blessed Redeemer, when he lay in the garden, with his face upon the cold ground, shedding, as it were, his blood for us. O! dear friends, remember it is dangerous to lay aside the means of grace by which souls might be saved from hell. Let us, therefore, go forth without the camp, bearing his reproach, exercising faith in the Lord, and be filled with the life and power of religion, and then we will see whether the Lord will not go before us in the chariot of his power, and slay the wicked, on the right and left, with conviction and power from on high, that they may be converted. Let us not hang our harps upon the willow and say, how can we sing the Lord's song in a strange land. No, my brethren, let us tune our harps anew in the service of the Lord, inasmuch as we know that it is not in vain to serve the Lord.

Yours, fraternally,

ABRAHAM SMITH.

Journey to Westmoreland.

I left home on the second day of May, and arrived in Bethany on the 11th. From this place I went to brother Walter's, near Youngstown, to a protracted meeting, where I found brothers John Hickernell, Vance, and Beujamin Ober. Here I stayed and labored with them in the cause of Jesus, to persuade men and women to love him and forsake their sins. After this I went to another protracted meeting at Turkey-foot, Somerset county, where brothers John Hickernell and Weitz were present. Here I saw, to my astonishment, that the hills, rough roads, &c., do not keep the people from meeting, if there is a willingness to go.

I was twice at West Newton, or Rappstown, and wherever I got amongst the brethren, I found a cordial reception, for which I feel thankful to God, and also to them. There is a flattering hope, that much good may be done here among the European German. Therefore, I have made up my mind, if no Providence prevents me, to move out in the fall. The prosperity of the cause, and the condition of the churches, as far as I came, I must say, is very flattering. There is also great prospects, that these busy brethren in the ministry will have great success in their Master's cause. I must say, I had great delight in their unweary labor, being with them, and feel confident that if the good Lord shall bring me amongst them, I shall share with them great joy as well as labor, through the grace of our Lord Jesus. Amen.

FELIX HARTMAN.

Annville, July 20, 1849.

Letter Brother J. Myers, V. D. M.

Ashland, Ohio, July 23, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

After being now a resident of Ohio something more than two months, I resume my pen for the Advocate and the benefit, I trust, of its readers. By this time, I think, I have collected better information than what I transmitted in my letter of last May; because what I now have is mostly obtained by actual observation and ocular demonstration. At the first, some things, I have since understood, were communicated not altogether free from prejudice and selfishness.

I think I may venture to say that the brotherhood, within the bounds of the Ohio Eldership, are on good footing, and well grounded in the principles of primitive Christianity. Some churches, it is true, are small and few in number; others have had a severe sifting, occasioned by the recklessness of an individual, (who may remain nameless in this letter,) who has been disowned by the Eldership. He has a considerable adherence to himself, made up of expulsionists, and probably others, under a wrong impression concerning the man's guilt or innocence. This, I say, has been a severe sifting in some places; but notwithstanding, those who remain are firm and united in the bonds of love.

The preachers have been with me considerably, and I see that they esteem each other. Evil speaking and depreciating each other's talents and usefulness, is not done. At all events, I never yet saw or heard any thing of the kind.

As far as I have been abroad on visits, I have found a similar spirit among the brethren in general. A couple of weeks ago, I preached twice on one Sabbath-day, to the brethren of Vermillion. A considerable number of folks attended, notwithstanding other meetings at the same hour, in the immediate vicinity.—Here I saw and conversed with my old friend and brother, William Tate, or Master Tate, formerly of Andersonstown, York county, Pa., having taught school in former days. Besides him I saw other old acquaintances. I find myself quite at home in Ohio. Every day old acquaintances come in.

Thus, I say, I believe the brethren in Ohio are just about as established in the faith as could be expected, considering the difficulties they have had. It is true, a diversity of opinion exists in reference to Elderships or non-Elderships—numbers being purely Congregational. But they do not disagree to hate and persecute each other. Respecting the General Eldership they have, I believe, one mind.

Brothers Bear and Williams travel the circuit here. They preach at brother Briggle's every two weeks, which is two miles west of Ashland. At brother Briggle's I also preach about every two weeks. Brother Bear has preached once in our Court House, to general acceptance. He will preach more frequently, probably regular, in Ashland. Both these men are young in the ministry, but talented, considering all things, and will doubtless become efficient laborers, provided they continue to go to Christ's school, and learn constant lessons of humility.

Brother Adams calls on me once in a while. I understand he is always busy. As to brother Briggle, he is busy preaching, in the German language, every Lord's-day, in some place or other. Indeed, brother Briggle is a useful man as a preacher, considering that he, at the same time, superintends and works a farm of two hundred acres.

About ten miles west of Ashland is quite a colony of Dauphin county and Linglestown folks, who I contemplate visiting in two weeks from yesterday, and preach for them. There are the Shifflers, the Burgoynes, the Millers, the Buchers, the Leichtys, D. Schaffner, and the Cralls. Old grand-father Crall is now on a visit here, to his son Jacob, who is an extensive merchant in the borough of Ashland. The old man calls frequently on me, to read some dutch books and talk of old times. He seems to be quite a pious old man.

It will be quite a treat to me, provided the Lord spares me two weeks longer, to strike hands with my old Linglestown brethren, friends and customers. I have seen but few of them since my location here—none, to say, but brother Shiffler, who paid us a visit last week.

There will be three Camp-meetings in Ohio this summer, which, it is earnestly and sincerely hoped, will be well attended, both by preachers and non-preachers.

The first one is at West Liberty, Crawford county, commencing on the 16th of August next.

The second is at or near Bethlehem, Stark county, commencing on the 23d of August.

The third one is near Reedsburg, Ashland county, commencing on the 27th of August.

With this I will close this letter by only saying, that I hope and pray, that all who feel interested in these Camp-meetings, will contribute whatever is in their power, to sustain them, and that they may be so conducted as to redound to the praise of God and the salvations of souls.

Christians ought to go to Campmeeting, not to get fire, as is too often in contemplation, for numbers have very little holy fire remaining, but all should take fire there. If they all bring but a little fire along, they will soon have a great one.

All, therefore, endeavor to get your hearts right before you go to camp, and do not wait to have them rectified there. Christians are Christians every where, both at camp and away. There are such beings as "Camp-meeting Christians," so styled. We used to have them in Pennsylvania. Farewell.

J. MYERS.

Ashland, Ohio, July 25, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

While about closing the letter of the 23d inst., an epistle of Elder A. Megrew, of 19th of June, ult., came to hand, in which he makes some strictures on my first communication from Ohio.

Now, I think, brother Megrew was rather gratuitous in this. In applying the whip to me alone, was, in my opinion, a respect to persons. In the first place, why did he not chastise Elder Deshiri, who wrote prior to me, and severer things than I did? I would be willing to take all the penalty for the transgression, provided there was any.

Secondly, I owe some apology in not defining myself better. I ought to have given a clearer discrimination, so that the reading public might have known that I did not mean the Christians belonging to the Ohio Eldership of the "Church of God," when I said, "preaching in Ohio." In this I meant, while penning the same, the state of Christendom in this State in general, and had not exclusive reference to the "Church of God."

Brother Megrew, in his remarks, is not sure whether I did not mean the various denominations in this State. I consider I have written correct, when I apply these remarks to the professors generally in Ohio.

Thirdly, He might have waited a little, and seen what I would do subsequently.

I am under the impression that brother Megrew, and other good brethren, were dreadfully afraid I would be influenced and swayed by that "nameless individual," and that I believed all things that certain "men" told me. But even their very fears were uncalled for.—Never fear old Myers: he has went through the "flint-mill" too often to be a man-pleaser, or to be biassed by every one that cries, Lord! Lord! &c. Farewell.

J. MYERS.

P. S.—I am requested to state, for the information of brother Reiber's friends and relations, that he has been, and still is, very poorly in health. His health is such, that his friends and the brethren here, despair of his recovery. I have not learned what his disease is, but in all proabability it is a pulmonary affection. He is very low now. J. M.

Letter from Brother J. A. Stewart.

Near Landisburg, Perry County. }
July, 1849. }

Brother Winebrenner:—

In looking over my paper, the Advocate, I see letters of intelligence, and oftimes glad tidings of good news, from the different churches, but seldom, if ever, a word from Perry county. I, the weakest of God's people, have taken my pen in hand to write a few lines respecting the state of religion in this place.

Now, I believe, if we cannot tell how well we are prospering in the good way, it will not be amiss to state how ill we are fareing. It grieves my soul to say, that religion is at a very low ebb in Perry county at the present time. And because iniquity doth abound, the love of many waxeth cold. Some have "turned again like the dog to his vomit, and like the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire." When I look around me, upon the desolations of Zion, I feel to exclaim with the weeping Prophet: "O! that my head were waters, and my eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people."

I believe there is a lack of zeal on the part of professed Christians. The Church has become too much conformed to this world. When we go to the house of God, we see a few disciples scattered about through the house, but you can hardly tell the Church from the world. Now, God's people are to be a peculiar people, apart from the world, a light to the world, and as a city that is set upon a hill, that cannot be hidden. Yet we have reason to thank God, there are still a few in Perry county who are contending for the faith once delivered to the saints.

Brother Coulter is laboring with us. He preaches once a month at Landisburg. May the Lord make him instrumental in the salvation of many souls!

Brethren and sisters in the Lord, ye who love God, and desire to see his work revive in Perry county, join us in effort and fervent prayer before God, that he may bring again Zion. It is high time for us to be up and a doing, for "wo to them that dwell at ease in Zion," saith the Lord.

It is about seven years since I set out anew, with a full purpose of heart, to serve the Lord. I embraced the religion of Jesus Christ when a child; but, like too many of the young people, when I began mingling with the world and evil companions, my love grew cold, and I wandered away in forbidden paths. I have reason to thank God that he did not withdraw his spirit from me, but gave me no rest until I renewed my covenant with him. And now, by his grace, I stand; and by his grace, I mean to press onward, until I land my little bark safe in the fair haven of eternal felicity:

Where the wicked cease from troubling,
And the weary are at rest.

My young fellow-Christian friends, a word to you. You have lately enlisted in the army of the Lord. Beware of the baneful influence of a wicked world. Beware of the influence of worldly companions. Choose not your companions in the world. Come out from among them and be ye separate. "Touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you, and will be a father to you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters," saith the Lord Almighty. May the Lord impart to us, one and all, grace to keep ourselves unspotted from the world, is my prayer. Amen.

Yours, in Christian union,

J. A. STEWART.*

---

*Notice.—Brother Stewart: Bamberger's Journal shall be sent you by the first opportunity.

Letter from Brother G. U. Harn.

Frizzlesburg, Md., August 4, 1849.

Dear Editor:—

Since I left home, I have had a very variable state of health—almost incessant colds—unusual for this season of the year.

The weather has been unusually dry in these parts, for a long time past. The wheat harvest was good and well saved. Oats are inferior, and corn is indicating a light crop.

I think we at Harrisburg, have a decided advantage over our neighbors in respect of rain, in a dry season. Located as we are, just below that gorge in the mountains, where our lovely Susquehanna, by the perpetual washing of many thousands of years, has made an unobstructed passage for its eternal waters to flow along, every cloud, formed by the innumerable mountain valleys of Perry, Juniata and Dauphin, burst themselves over us and refresh us with their genial showers. In addition to this, the fatality of our bridges will apprise the observer that we are very subject to storms, tornadoes and whirlwinds. I presume this accounts for our general health in Cholera times.

Since last Saturday, being seven days since I am here, I preached nine sermons, in and about Uniontown. Two of them were funeral discourses; the former on Saturday morning in this place, over the infant remains of Harry Wantz, son of Valentine and sister A. E. Wantz. The latter over the corpse of Albert C., infant son of Elder Price and lady. He was born on the 29th of May, and died on the 30th of July. How hard the stroke that thus bereaves young parents of the pride of youth and the hope of future days!

Still, the Christian parent has a decided advantage over the unbelieving parent. He acknowledges the superior wisdom of him who gave the pledge of love, and bows to his wise will, and permits, without a murmur, the removal of his holiest pride, to the care and tuition of angels. There it shall be trained for a post of higher usefulness than he could possibly have selected for it here!

Like Rachael, weep your children slain,
"Because that they are not;"
Still live that you may meet again,
On Zion's lofty top.

There, in the garden of the Lord,
Shall they forever bloom,
Till at the noting of his word,
Their dust shall leave the tomb.

The gentle rays, which beam from grace,
In heaven all divine,
Shine forth from God's eternal face,
In love the most sublime.

Beneath those tender, soft'ning rays,
In that most fertile clime,
Where night's unknown, and ceaseless days
In cloudless glory shine:

Your tender plants shall grow and bloom!
And shed their odors there;
Then drive away your cheerless gloom,
For heaven has none there!!

Fraternally,

G. U. HARN.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

New Style of Shot Towers.—Shot towers have been superseded by a new invention, by which a current of air is forced upward in a flue, and thus retards the shot as it falls from above, and cools it, without making it necessary that it should drop from any great height, a tower of moderate height answers the purpose. Formerly it might have cost $80,000 to build a shot tower; now we are told one may be built for an eighth part of the sum, and the process of manufacture is greatly cheaper. A shot factory on this plan is now in operation in New York.

Mortality among Eels.—The present season, says the Haverhill Banner, a great number of the Lamprey Eel, which are in the habit of going up the Merrimack to spawn, have been washed upon the banks of the river, dead. At East Bradford, there dead fish have lined the shore to such an extent, that it has been complained of as a nuisance.—Boston Times.

Tremendous Victory over the Russians.—Intelligence has been received by the Nation, a Belgian journal, to the following effect:—On the 1st and 2d July Dembinski, with his own corps d' armee and all the reserve of the veteran troops drawn from the Army of operations, now acting in different parts of Hungary, amounting altogether to 80,000 men, attacked the Russian Army, consisting of 110,000, commanded by Prince Paskiewitch, in the defiles between Miskotez and Oilan. The attack took place in flank so as to drive the corps commanded by the Prince in person, into the marshes of the Theiss.

We have not received any details of the important battle, but the success seems to have been so complete that the same Hungarian reserves of veterans, to the number of 40 000 men, marched the next day by Waaten for Comson, to reinforce the army of Georgey, who, from the 4th of July, has been able to resume the offensive against the Austrian armies. Dembinski, with 55,000 men, was in pursuit of the army of Paskiewitch, and it is probable that immediately when the news of Dembenski's victory becomes known, the warlike population in the defiles in which the Russian Prince has imprudently engaged himself, will rise en masse to cut off his retreat through the passes.

Splendid Building.—The State Capitol of Tennessee, at Nashville, it is said, will be one of the grandest edifices of the kind in the Union, exceeding in its dimensions the Girard College at Philadelphia. It is two hundred and forty feet deep, by one hundred and thirty-five feet front, and will be supported by twenty-eight columns, each forty feet in height. The height of the building will be eighty feet. The "Banner" says that the whole building is to be constructed of stone and iron, inside as well as outside. Unlike any other building in the United States, the interior is to be of dressed stone.

Hottest Days.—The hottest days this season, were said to have been on Friday and Saturday, the 13th and 14th of July. From the Baltimore Sun we learn that the mercury stood in the shade on Friday to 96; in New York it went to 99, though in Wall street only to 98. It was the hottest day in New York since 1835. In Boston the mercury went up to 101, though in some parts of the city it reached 98 only.

These days will be memorable to many on account of their intense heat.

On the 13th 112 died of Cholera in Cincinnati, and on the 14th 127 died.

Crop in Ohio.—The Cincinnati Gazette estimates that the deficiency in the Wheat crop of that State this year, will be about one-third, or between 7,000,000 and 8.000,000 bushels. The loss falls principally upon the large wheat growers.

The information received from Michigan, from Iowa, and from Central and Northern Illinois, is favorable; and the Corn is also said to have a fine appearance.

Vegetables, Fish, etc., Proscribed.—The City Council of St. Louis, in view of the ravages of the cholera in that city, have passed an ordinance forbidding, under a penalty of from $20 to $100, the sale of vegetables, fruits, fresh pork, sausage meat and fish, in any of the markets of the city, or at any other place within he city limits.

Force of Imagination in Cholera.—A curious experiment was recently tried in Russia with some murderers. They were placed, without knowing it, in four beds where four persons had died with cholera. They did not take the disease. They were then told that they were to sleep in beds where some persons had died of malignant cholera, but the beds were, in fact, new, and had not been used at all. Nevertaeless, three of them died of the disease within four hours. We state this upon the authority of the London Medical Times.

Lake Superior News.—The "Minnesota Copper Company" have recently increased their forces to sixty men. Their mine is opened by two shafts sixty feet deep, connected by a drift 150 feet. Metallic copper abounds in all their openings, at most points presenting solid walls of copper. To remove them and their extent determined, a further descent is necessary. The company are erecting a steam engine and other machinery for mining purposes.

The Ice Trade.—The quantity of ice exported from Boston, for the month of June, and at antecedent periods, was as follows:—To East Indies, 1020 tons; Batavia, 490; Ceylon in Calcutta, 287; Havana, 563; St. Jago, 230; St. Thomas, 194; New Orleans, 3467; Mobile, 325. Total for June, 6576; previous five months, 35,880. Total since January, 42,459; same time last year, 34,881. Increase, 7575.

Professional Ladies.—The American Medical Education Society of Boston, established for the education of females for professional duties, but more particularly to instruct them in the obstetric art, promises to be one of the most useful educational establishments in the country. Twenty intelligent women have recently been instructed in the institution, and are now getting into successful practice.

Ohio Central Railroad.—It is proposed to build first the division of the Central Ohio Railroad which lies between Zanesville and Columbus. The estimate of the cost of this 60 miles is $977,000, of which $500,000 are to be borrowed, and $477,000 subscribed by Muskingum, Licking and Franklin counties. The amount apportioned to Muskingum is already subscribed. An engineer corps is to be at once organized.

The Fish Dying.—We learn from a gentleman who has recently returned from a visit to the Eastern shore of Maryland, that both sides of Chester are lined with dead fish, from the smallest to the largest size. The same phenomenon was observed during the existence of the cholera in 1832, and the causes which then existed have no doubt produced a like effect now.

Dreadful Mortality.—A private letter from a gentleman who was a passenger on the steamer Sultana, which left New Orleans recently for St. Louis, states that of 450 emigrants on board, 200 died of cholera before reaching St. Louis.

Sunday Drinking.—In consequence of the increased mortality from cholera in Chicago, every Sunday, the Mayor has ordered the enforcing of the ordinance for closing tippling houses on that day, the penalty being $25.

The Methodist Church Property.—The statement, that suits have been instituted by the Church South for its share of the property, is contradicted by the Cincinnati Globe, which says:—"The Methodist churches, known as 'North' and 'South,' which have had large amounts in litigation, have come to an agreement to submit to an amicable and fair division of the property. It is well known that a large amount of Church wealth has been accumulated in this city, which was likewise involved in the contest."

Printer's Convention.—The Editors and Proprietors of country newspapers throughout New York are to hold a State Convention, at Syracuse, on the 19th day of September next, in favor of the resolution of the law of Congress of 1815, granting free circulation to newspapers for thirty miles from their place of publication, and to adopt such measures as they may deem proper, to secure such restoration.

The Wheat Crops of the Union.—The wheat in central and southern Ohio, is, to a very great extent, destroyed by rust. Perhaps one-third of a crop will be realized. The crop in the northern portion of the State is said to be much better. In Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland, the crop was good. In South Carolina the crop is also good. In Indiana and Illinois there has been quite a failure in the wheat, owing to the rust.

Sunday-schools and Crime.—A dignitary of the Church of England gives it as his opinion, that Sunday-schools have saved the manufacturing districts; and Dr. Browning states, that out of 1,066 prisoners who were conveyed in five different voyages, under his authority and superintendence, to the penal colonies of Australasia, only fourteen had ever been in a Sunday-school.

Cholera among Hogs and Horses.—The Cincinnati papers state that hogs, and even horses, in the streets have been smitten with the cholera, and died. We learn from the officers of the mail boat that Mr. Cruchfield, lost about 50 of his hogs in a single night, the hogs apparently suffering great pain, and in continued cramps and spasms.

The Wheeling Bridge Controversy.—The Wheeling and Belmont Bridge company have been served with notice, that application will be made to Mr. Justice Grier, of the U. S. Supreme Court, at Philadelphia, on the 18th day of August, for an injunction against the erection of the Wheeling Suspension Bridge.

The Potato Crop.—The growing potatoes at the North and East are generally represented as healthy, though the crop is somewhat shortened by drought. In Maine, however, there are some signs of the rot.—Gen. Farmer.

Corn Pudding.—Now is the time to make green corn pudding; take two quarts of green corn, grated, one quart of milk, three fresh eggs, one table-spoonful of flour, and half a tea-spoonful of salt, mix well in a dish, and bake three or four hours.

Minnesota.—Gov. Ramsey has divided the Territory into three Judicial Districts, the Courts of which are to sit at Minnesoty, the Falls of St. Autony, and Stillwater.

Two Governors in Florida.—Advices from Florida inform us that Governor Mosley, the old Democratic Executive, still holds on to his office, and intends doing so till October next. Governor Thomas Brown, Whig, who was elected last fall, has been installed, so that Florida is blessed with two Governors.

The New State House.—The Capitol of Ohio now in progress of building, will be one of the largest and noblest piles in the Union. It is of dressed stone, 304 feet by 184, and covers a superfices of 55,936 square feet.

Wealth of Mr Polk.—Ex-President Polk, it is said, has left one hundred thousand dollars, the greater part of which is settled upon his widow.

Father Mathew.—We learn that Father Matthew administered the temberance pledge to 20,000 persons in New York and Brooklyn.

☞ The New Hampshire Legislature at its recent session, provided that after the second Tuseday in March next, the day of the State election, no licenses shall be granted for the sale of liquors, except for medicinal or mechanical purposes.

☞ Mrs. Taylor, the President's lady, made her first appearance in public since the 4th of March, on the 4th inst., on the occasion of a visit of some Sabbath School scholars to the Presidential mansion.

☞ Eleven young ladies, in company with Gov. Slade, have gone to Minnesota, for the purpose of establishing schools in that Territory. They are sent out by the Board of National Popular Education.

☞ The total amount of California gold deposited at the Philadelphia and New Orleans mints, up to the 15th of July, has been $1,306,526.

☞ Wealthy Mexican families are almost daily arriving at Cincinnati, for permanent settlement.

☞ A large edition of Protestant Bibles has been recently published and circulated at Rome.

☞ Baron Rothschild has been re-elected to a seat in Parliament from London, by 3000 majoriy.

☞ There are now about three thousand persons at Cape May.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WAR AND THE GOSPEL.

The Christian nations of Europe and America expend every year in preparations for war, £200,000,000. This amount, when compared with "the most comprehensive form of Christian charity," stands thus:—For preparations of war, per day, £548,000. For preaching the Gospel of peace to the heathen, £1,640; or, to make the comparison more distinct, one pound sterling for preparations for war between Christian nations, against one half penny for evangelizing the Pagan world, and bringing myriads of benighted idolators to bow to the sceptre of the Prince of Peace! Or, millions for Mars, and mites for the Messiah.

JUDGE McLEAN ON SLAVERY.

If slavery subsists only by virtue of the municipal law, it is clear that it can no more exist in a Territory without such a law, than a man can breathe without air. The power of the master as much depends upon local law, as the power of a corporate body. Ohio confers corporate powers upon certain individuals; these powers cannot be exercised by Kentucky. Nor can a slaveholder in Kentucky exercise a power on a slave in Ohio. And if the Constitution of the United States and the Act of Congress had not provided for the surrender of fugitives from labor, every slave that escaped, by whatever means, from a slave State to a free one, would be a free man.

This is a doctrine of the civilized world. It is found alike in the common law and in the civil.

Can slaves be taken into a free Territory as property? This is answered by the inquiry, are they property in such Territory? No one can maintain this. That one man should have property in another, is contrary to all law, except that which makes a man a slave. Under it he is considered property; but this law is limited to the State which originated it. It has no extra-territorial operation. A colored man, therefore, taken by his master into a free Territory, can no more be held a slave than he can be sold in a free State. The law which creates the right of the master and the obligation of the slave, is wanting, and without it no slavery can exist.

As a measure of policy, however, a notice of prohibition cannot be too strongly urged. There can be no doubt that Congress have power to prohibit slavery in a Territory, although they cannot establish it. Having implied power to legislate for the protection of the citizens of the Territory, they may prohibit colored persons, whether free or slaves, from coming into it. They may extrude from the Territory any persons who are not citizens, and who may disturb the peace or corrupt the morals of the people.

Although the legal principle against Territorial slavery would not be made stronger by a prohibition, yet the master would not be likely to hazard the right to his slaves, by disregarding such an expression by the law-making power. In this point of view, the adoption of the Wilmot Proviso, or of some authoritative declaration not less explicit, would be important.

A WORD TO BOYS.

Be Polite.—Study the graces; not the graces of the dancing master, of bowing and scraping; nor the foppish, infidel etiquette of a Chesterfield; but benevolence, the graces of the heart, whatever things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely, and of good report. The true secret of politeness is, to please, to make happy—flowing from goodness of heart—a fountain of love. As you leave the family circle for retirement, say, Good night, when you rise, Good morning. Do you meet or pass a friend in the street, bow gracefully, with the usual salutations.—Wear a hinge on your neck—keep it well oiled. And above all study Solomon and the epistles of Paul.

Be Civil.—When the rich Quaker was asked the secret of his success in life, he answered, 'Civility, friend, civility.' Some people are uncivil, sour, sullen, morose, crabbed, crusty, haughty, really clownish, and impudent. Run from such, as for your life. 'Seest thou a man wise in his own conceit? There is more hope of a fool than of him.'

Be kind to everybody.—There is nothing like kindness: it sweetens every thing. A single look of love, a smile, a grasp of the hand, has gained more friends than both wealth and learning. 'Charity suffereth long, and is kind. See 1 Corinthians, 13th chapter.

Never strike back.—That is, never render evil for evil. Some boys give eye for eye, tooth for tooth, blow for blow, kick for kick. Awful! Little boys, hark!—What says Solomon? 'Surely the churning of milk bringeth forth butter, and the wringing of the nose bringeth forth blood: so the forcing of wrath bringeth forth strife.' Recompense to no man evil for evil, but overcome evil with good. 'Love your enemies, bless them that curse you.'

In reply to a question, avoid the monosyllables yes and no:—thus, 'Is your father in very good health?' instead of saying, 'Yes sir,' say, 'Very good, sir, thank you.'

Avoid vulgar, common-place, or slang phrases, such as, 'by jinks,' 'first rate,' 'I'll bet,' &c. Betting is not merely vulgar, but sinful—a species of gambling. Gentlemen never bet.

Think before you speak.—Think twice, think what to speak, how to speak, when to speak, to whom to speak; and withal hold up your head, and look the person to whom you are speaking full in the face, with modest dignity and assurance. Some lads have a foolish, sleepish bashfulness, sheer off, hold down their heads and eyes, as if they were guilty of sheep stealing! Never be ashamed to do right.—C. Wit.

TO KEEP FISH ALIVE.

The London Literary Gazette has the following in relation to keeping fish alive:

"Those worthy individuals who take delight in Izaak Walton's art; who moreover are in the habit of sending the results of their sports to their epicurean acquaintances, must learn an indispensable piece of information, viz, to keep fish fresh.—This may be done by soaking the soft part of bread in brandy, and inserting it into the gill of the fish while it is yet alive, afterwards sprinkling it over with brandy. Thus prepared and carefully packed in straw, the fish will keep alive ten or twelve days, as may be proved by putting it in fresh water at the end of that time, when, after a few hours' immersion, it will recover from its protracted drunkenness."

THE PRETTIEST PRESENT YET.

An Ink Supplying Pen Holder, a desideratum which has for the last twenty years baffled the skill of inventors, has just been produced with complete success by Coant & Co., of this city. The article is made of silver, in size no larger than a common pencil case; by touching a spring, the ink is let on the pen at the pleasure of the writer, dispensing entirely with the ink-stand. It is said that twenty pages of letter paper, or four thousand words, may be written by once filling the holder.—The article being adapted to a gentleman's pocket or lady's reticule, will be found of great service to the travelling public, and all who wish to be provided with pen and ink at an instant's notice.—Boston Eve. Journal.

STATISTICS OF HUNGARY.

Hungary is divided into five circles or provinces, containing 57 counties. Its principal rivers are the Danube, the Drave, the Maresch, the March, the White Doresch, the Izarnos, the Theiss, the Waag, and the Ternes.

It contains 56 large towns, 751 market towns, 11,707 villages, 1,307,172 houses, 2,885,500 families, 5,917,202 males 6,-179,000 females. Total population, 12,-096,202. Of these, 5,500,000 are Roman Catholics, and about 2,000,000 of the Greek Church, about 1,000,000 Lutherans, 2,000,000 Calvinists, 250,000 Jews; and its regular army before the war 56,-000 men. There are about 15,000,000 of arable land, American measure, 1,330,-000 in vineyards, 4,800,000 in gardens, 4,850,000 in pastures, about 15,000,000 acres of wood-land; 4,500.000 head of horned cattle, 650,000 horses, and 8,000,-000 sheep.

Buda, the capital, stands on the right bank of the Danube, and has 25,000 inhabitants. It was once the residence of the kings of Hungary, when it was taken by the Turks. For 160 years it was contested between them and the Christians, and it was finally surrendered to the latter in 1686. In 1810, 600 houses were destroyed by fire, but they have been replaced with improved buildings. Immediately opposite Buda, on the east side of the Danube, is Pesth, or Presburg, which is the largest city in Hungary. It is well built, containing many elegant public buildings, and mansions of the Hungarian nobility. Its University is one of the most richly endowed on the continent of Europe, and this city of Pesth contains about 60,000 inhabitants; it is about 130 miles east-southeast of Vienna.

LONG AND SHORT ARTICLES.

A long newspaper article, like a "great book," is a great evil. They are less apt to be read: and if perused at all, a great part of their effect is necssarily lost, if the beginning is lost before the end is reached. Short articles, on the contrary, as they are the most easily read and remembered, are most likely to be useful. Virgil's good old maxim in agriculture, is equally applicable in writing for the public. "Admire," says he, "large farms, cultivate small ones." Many subjects cannot justly be treated with brevity. But such are not suitable to the columns of a newspaper; they should be discussed in the monthlies or quarterlies, or in books. A newspaper article or paragraph (they should be nearly synonymous) should be brief, and to the point. It is a great art to say, either verbally or in print, just what one has to say, and no more, and to stop when you have finished.—Charlestown Free Press.

KNEELING in the reception of the Sacrament contrary to the form in which the Supper was taken from Christ, by the twelve, was instituted by Pope Honorious the Second, in the 13th century. It came in as a consequence of the doctrine of Transubstantiation, which had been decreed just before. The Sacramental bread being declared to be God, it was judged proper to worship it by kneeling before it. Hence the practice was indolatrous in the beginning.

"Not that which is much is well, but which is well, is much."

POETRY.

HYMN.

WHAT poor, despised company
Of travellers are these?
That walk along yonder narrow way,
Along that rugged maze?

Ah! these are of a royal line,
All children of a king,
Heirs of immortal crowns divine,
And lo, for joy they sing.

Why do they then appear so mean,
And why so much despised?
Because of their rich robes unseen,
The world is not apprised.

But why keep they that narrow road,
That rugged, thorny maze?
Why, that's the way their leader trod,
They love to keep his ways.

Why do they shun the pleasing path,
That worldlings love so well?
Because that is the road to death,
The open road to hell.

What, is there, then, no other road
To Salem's happy ground?
Christ is the only way to God,
No other way is found.

J. H. B.

THE CUP OF CRIME.

ON Israel's head a crown was bound;
Her God was Israel's pride;
She trod the desert's fiery ground;
She passed the ocean's tide:
Unhurt the pestilence she breathed,
Unwounded met the sword,
Met toil and agony unscathed—
Her angel was the Lord.

And while she to herself was true,
The might of earth was vain;
Her footsteps scattered like the dew,
The spear, the shield, the chain;
Still flamed before her holy eyes
The presence of her King;
Still o'er her holy sacrifice
Stoop'd Heaven's eternal wing.

That guiding star, that holy light,
Long saved her from the blow—
Still mightiest in her Maker's might,—
She sinn'd—where is she now?
An outcast through earth's widest range,
Struck from the roll of Time,
Beyond the power of chance or change,
She drinks her Cup of Crime.

And Europe, too, the Cup of Crime
Has to her hot lip come;
And is there yet no hand sublime
To save thee from the tomb?
Must perish, too, the laurel wreath
That round thy helmet glow'd;
Thy sword be rusted in its sheath;
Thy garment be thy shroud!

Ambition, Folly, Frenzy, Guile,
Are stalking through the land;
And unbelief, with traitor smile,
And with the traitor hand.
King of the Heavens! God, Father, friend,
To thee we lift the eye;
To thee the trembling knee we bend!
Lord! save us, or we die!

THERE is a path that leads to God,
All others go astray;
Narrow, but pleasant is the road,
And Christians love the way.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 24th ult., by Elder E. Logue, Elder Andrew J. Fenton to Miss Frances Funk, both of Washington county, Md.

On the same, by the same, Mr. Dennis Mangan to Miss Elizabeth Jones, both of Tilmington, Washington county, Md.

On the 17th ult., by Elder A. Swartz, Mr. Henry Snell, of Cumberland county, to Miss Elizabeth Lonoshore, of Portsmouth, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 29th ult., by the same, Mr. William Barker, of York county, to Miss Mary Miller, of Middletown, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 3d ult., by Elder J. M. Klein, Elder Joseph Glenn, of Harmony Circuit, to Miss Mary Cahner, of Venango county, Pa.

On the 2d inst., by Joseph Ross, V. D. M., Mr. Simon Snyder to Miss Elizabeth Beidler, both of Middletown, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 29th ult., by Elder Felix Hartman, Mr. Franklin Kramer to Miss Lavina Nightling, both of Auburn, Schuylkill county, Pa.

On the 9th ult., by the Rev. Charles A. Hay, Mr. Reuben F. Brown, of Reading, Pa., to Miss Louisa T. Baab, of Harrisburg.

On the 15th ult., by the same, Mr. Peter Bernheissel to Miss Elizabeth Shott, both of Harrisburg.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On the 29th of June, 1849, Oliver Ergene Hamilton, son of Thomas D. and Elizabeth Ann Grim, aged 2 years, 1 month and 27 days.

This lovely bud, so young and fair,
Called hence by early doom,
Just came to show how sweet a flower,
In paradise could bloom.

Funeral sermon preached by Elder E. Logue on the 22d of July.

On the 29th ult., at the residence of his father, Charles Barrett, son of Mr. O. Barrett of the Keystone, aged about 17 years.

He was a youth of high promise, talented, moral, industrious and amiable in disposition. His death is a severe affliction to his parents, with whom we most sincerely sympathize.

At Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, on the 1st inst., infant son of Jonathan and Elizabeth Young, aged 1 month.

On the 4th inst., in New Market, York county, Pa., John Koch, son of Henry and Harriet Koch, aged 7 years, 1 month and 2 days.

Funeral services by Elder J. J. Miller, from Job 14 : 10.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

East Pennsylvania Camp-Meetings.

Agreeably to appointment, the Standing Committee met in Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, on Wednesday, the 27th ult., to arrange the Camp-Meetings for this season: when sundry applications were made, and the meetings arranged as follows, to wit:

2. The second Camp-meeting will be held on Camp Hill, near Bowman's, Cumberland county, about two miles from Harrisburg, commencing on Friday, the 17th of August next.

3. The third will be held near Germany, Perry county, commencing on Monday, the 20th of August.

4. The fourth will be held at or near Stonerstown, Bedford county, commencing on Friday, the 24th of August.

5. The fifth will be held at Auburn, Schuylkill county, commencing on Monday, the 27th of August.

Should any other meetings be desired, application can be made to the Editor of the Advocate.

Notice.

A Camp-meeting will be held at Uniontown, Carroll county, Md., on the premises of Wm. Roberts, Esq., commencing on the 24th of August.

Brother B. Howard and son, (if in Pa.,) and all the brethren who can make it suit, are invited to attend.

A Camp-meeting is to be held in the woods of John Baker, about one mile northwest from Linglestown, to commence on the 3d of September next.

The brethren of the surrounding churches are requested to meet on the camp-ground, August 28th, to prepare the ground for holding said meeting. We hope the brethren will not permit this burden to rest upon a few, but will turn out well in helping to prepare the ground.

No hucksters will be permitted nearer the ground than the limits of the law.

Thomas Strohm.

Lancaster County Camp-meeting.

This Camp-meeting will be held on the premises of Frederick Hipple, Esq., about two miles east from Bainbridge, commencing on the 31st of August.

The brethren generally are invited to attend, and as many as possibly can, are requested to tent out.

The brethren are requested to meet on Monday, the 27th, to prepare the ground for holding the above meeting.

Ohio Camp-meetings.

A Camp-meeting will be held on the farm of brother John Stump, on the old camp-ground, two miles east of Bethleham, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 22d of August.

The brethren generally are invited to attend, particularly the latter meeting, with their tents. It will be expected that the brethren of Wayne county will attend with their tents, inasmuch as there is no camp on their circuit this year.

A. Megrew,

Another Camp-meeting will be held in Ashland county, one and a half miles west of Reedsburg, near the brick meeting-house, commencing on the 29th of August.

The brethren in the bounds of the Wooster, and east and south parts of the Ashland circuit, are invited to come out with their tents. The brethen in the ministry are especially invited to attend. Daniel Williams.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

Jnhn Winebrenner, -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4	37½	a 4	37½
Do. Rye, do. - -	2	50	a 2	50
Do. Corn, do. - -	2	50	a 2	50
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,		96	a	96
Do. Rye, do. - -		47	a	48
Do. Corn, new do. - -		50	a	50
Do. Oats, do. - -		27	a	27
Do. Barley, do. - -		60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3	00	a 3	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	3	00	a 3	25
Do. Flax, do. - -	1	00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - - -	5	00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - - -	5	00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -		10	a	11
BUTTER, do. - - - - -		12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -		7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -		8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.		6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -		10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -		75	a	75
ONIONS, do. - - -		75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -		25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1	25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -		37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -		30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -	1	25	a 1	25
HAY, per ton, - - - - -	10	00	a 11	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -	4	00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4	87½	a 5	00
Do. Rye, do. -	2	87½	a 3	00
Do. Corn, do. - -	3	00	a 3	00
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	1	05	a 1	08
Do. Rye, do. - -		58	a	60
Do. Corn, new do. - -		61	a	62
Do. Oats, do. - -		30	a	31
Do. Barley, do. - -		75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3	00	a 3	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2	75	a 3	00
Do. Flax, do. - -	1	30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt., - - - -	7	00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - -	7	00	a 7	25

Tract of Land for Sale.

THE undersigned wishes to sell at private sale, a small tract of land, containing about 30 acres, situated in the village of Audersonstown, York county, Pa.

The improvements thereon are a two story DWELLING HOUSE, 20 by 32 feet; a Log Barn, with Wagon-shed attached to it; a Blacksmith-shop, 20 by 30 feet, with Coal-house attached; together with other out-buildings: such as Mill-house, Pig-stye, Bake-oven, &c.

Also, a thriving young Orchard, and various other fruit trees, with a Pump between the house and shop, and an excellent and never-failing Spring of water a few hundred yards distant from the house.

The whole tract is in a fine state of cultivation, fenced off in small fields, with two acres of wood-land on the premises, and five acres of wood-land in a separate lot, situated about one-fourth of a mile from the 30 acre tract. This lot will be sold with the main tract, or separate, as may best suit the purchaser. Possession and a good title will be given to the purchaser on the first of April, 1850.

PETER KNISELY.

Juue 1.—tf.

PRITNING MATERIALS FOR SALE.

THERE are for sale, at the office of the Cumberland Presbyterian, an improved Smith Printing Press, 32 by 22 inches—together with from 359 to 400 lbs. of Long Primer and Brevier type, and several fonts of Fancy letter. Also, Cases, Stands, &c. These materials are all in good condition, having been in use but a short time, and will be disposed of on reasonable terms. Persons wishing to purchase will please address the Editor.

Cholera Medicine.

THOSE who may want to purchase Cholera Medicine, can address the Editor, Advocate Office, Harrisburg, Pa.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., SEPTEMBER 1, 1849. NUMBER 9.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Revival at Shippensburg.

The Church of God at Shippensburg, we understand, is enjoying a season of religious revival. We hope it may continue and prevail as in former years.

School Convention.

The National Common School Convention which was to be held in Philadelphia on the 22d ult., has been postponed until the 7th of October.

Whig State Convention.

The Whig State Convention assembled in this place on Thursday, the 16th ult., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the office of Canal Commissioner, when Henry M. Fuller, of Luzerne county, was unanimously chosen as the nominee of the Democratic Whig party of Pennsylvania for Canal Commissioner, at the ensuing election.

Railroad to avoid the Inclined Plane.

On the 8th ult., the Canal Commissioners made the allotments of work on the Railroad to avoid the Inclined Plane, at prices which are said to be comparatively lower than the estimate. The work was immediately commenced; and we understand it will be prosecuted with the utmost vigor. The route will be on the west side of the Schuylkill from a short distance above the Inclined Plane to West Philadelphia, where it will be intersected by the city Railroad.

York County Camp-meeting.

This meeting was large and turned out to be very good. The brethren on that circuit, we understand, intend to give us a detailed report, so that we shall not go into particulars at present. However, we would remark, that meetings have been kept up by the church at Siddonsburg ever since, and that a glorious reformation has been going on among the people in that neighborhood.

Notice.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Company for the manufacture of cotton goods in the borough of Harrisburg, held on Saturday, August 18, 1849, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the subscribers to the stock of this company be required to pay to Robert J. Ross, or James W. Weir, Receivers, the second instalment, being ten per cent., on the amount of their respective subscriptions, on or before SATURDAY, the fifteenth day of September next, and that notice thereof be given in the newspapers of Harrisburg.

Isaac G. M'Kinley, Secretary.

Harrisburg Gas Company.

This Company was duly organized on the 14th ult., by the election of the following officers, viz:

William Ayres, Director and President.
George S. Kemble, Director.
Jacob Seiler, "
D. W. Gross, "
David Fleming, Director and Secretary.
John C. Bucher, Treasurer.

The company have purchased a lot on the canal, below the Railroad machine shop, and will proceed forthwith to the erection of the works. It is contemplated to finish them this fall, and have our town and the Legislative Halls lighted with Gas the coming winter.

The Seventh Census.

Two circulars are now being distributed throughout the United States, says the Republic, for the purpose of eliciting information, to render as perfect as possible the result of the arrangements for taking the census of 1850. One of these calls for such information as will enable the Census Board to arrive at the most proper enumeration of subjects to be embraced in their report; and the other for suggestions as to the possibility of abandoning, in the several States, questions which have no practical bearing on their respective resources.—The Secretary, under the direction of the Board, is now busily engaged in the preliminary arrangements for this important labor, and it is most desirable that replies should be sent at as early a date as possible. All communications should be addressed, Department of State—Census, Washington, D. C.

Stopping Newspapers.

Should you desire the publisher of a newspaper to discontinue sending his paper to you, always be positive that he is paid for the same up to the date of your request. Remember, if you neglect this duty, it is at his option to do so or not, and if he may prefer to continue sending it, can hold you responsible for the same until all arrearages are paid. See article headed, "The Law of Newspapers," in the first number of the present volume.

The August Elections.

In Tennessee the members of the next Congress will stand six Whigs to six Democrats. In the last there were seven Whigs and five Democrats. Whig loss, one.

In North Carolina the Whigs have elected six members of Congress and the Democrats three.

The returns from Kentucky and Alabama are incomplete. It is probable that the Whigs have lost one member of Congress in Kentucky and gained one in Alabama.

Camp-hill Camp-meeting.

This meeting commenced on the 17th ult., and closed on the 23d. There were 27 tents, beside the boarding tent. The weather was remarkably fine—the congregations large and attentive. The preaching was plain, practical and powerful. The visible fruits of the meeting were not so abundant as in former years, yet there were some conversions, but how many we are not able to state. The Lord grant that the influence of the meeting may be seen and felt, like the one in York county, for many days to come. We hope also some one of the brethren on the circuit will give us a full and accurate account of the meeting.

The Season.

For the last six or eight weeks, up to the 23d ult., this neighborhood and the interior of Pennsylvania has suffered a most severe and trying drought, parching up the corn, and greatly injuring and destroying the pasture and potatoes. We doubt whether there will be more than half a crop of corn in some parts of this section of the State, if even we have this much. However, the late rains, since the 23d ult., have very much refreshed the earth, and will make pasture and vegetables more plenty.

We notice that the same state of affairs exists in a part of Virginia, the upper part of Maryland, a portion of New York, and nearly the whole of the Eastern States, even down to Portland, in the State of Maine.

While this long spell of dry weather has affected so large a portion of our country, we notice that our Southern and Western brethren are nearly drowned out with the incessant rains.

The Nachitoches Chronicle says:—"It has been raining here almost without interruption for forty days."

The Red River Republican says:—"It is impossible for the cotton crop to recover from the injury it has sustained by the rainy weather, which has already prevailed for more than thirty days, and as yet affords no promise of stopping. Such a season, old and intelligent planters assure us, has not been experienced for twenty-five years. They assert that even with the most favorable weather, more than half a crop of cotton cannot now be made."

The Birth of Water.

This subject is singularly explained by a writer in the Christian Palladium. The following are his views.

"Except a man be born of water and of the spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God."

To say that to "be born of the water," means to be baptized with water, is to us a manifest absurdity. We are aware that certain commentators have affixed this exposition to the passage before us. The only reason assigned for it is, the ancient Jewish custom of proselyte baptism. But we have yet to learn what that custom had to do with our Saviour's conversation with Nicodemus.

We think our Saviour, in this passage, brings to view two distinct births; a natural birth and a spiritual birth. We think he has these two births in view in the passage before us. To be born of the water, means nothing more or less than the natural birth; and to be born of the spirit, means regeneration. As much as if our Saviour had said, "to enter into the kingdom of God, a man is born twice." This illustration appears to us the most consistent of any we have seen. Water baptism is neither "the regenerating act," nor the door into the church. D. M.

Our own explanation of this birth, as given in our Treatise on Regeneration, is as follows.

In the passage under consideration there are brought to view two things, viz:

The instrumentality and the agency by which regeneration is accomplished. The instrument or means of this change is said to be water. Of this a man must be born, or he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. But what does the Saviour mean by the word water? This is a question of no small moment. Various opinions have been entertained as to the true meaning of this term in the above text.

Some have explained it to mean the tears of penitents. Others have said that it meant baptism. And others again have explained it to mean the grace of the Spirit. None of these interpretations do we believe to be the true one.

The word water does not mean the tears of penitents. Some penitents cannot weep.—Others weep much, and yet they are not born again. Besides, it is nowhere affirmed in the Scriptures that sinners must weep, in order to be born again.

The term water does not mean baptism. Water is an element; baptism is an action. Many have been regenerated before baptism. (Acts x. 44—47.) Others have been baptized, and yet not regenerated. Besides, the Apostles never preached baptism as a means of regeneration. In fine, this explanation proves too much; and, therefore, proves nothing at all. It conflicts with other Scriptures, and, therefore, must be false.

This word does not mean the grace of the Spirit. It is never said that man must be born of the grace of the Spirit, and of the Spirit. Regeneration is not attributed to the grace of the Spirit, as a means or an influence different from the Spirit.

If, then, the Saviour did not mean by the word water, in this text, the tears of penitents, nor baptism, nor the grace of the Spirit, what did he mean? We answer, he meant the truth, or Word of God. To prove this, we will show,—

1. That the word water is used to mean the Gospel, or Word of God.

1. We say, by water the Gospel or truth of God is meant. In Deuteronomy xxxii. 2, it is said, "My doctrine shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass."

Again, in Ezekiel xlvii. 1—5, it is said, "Afterward he brought me again to the door of the house, and, behold, waters issued out from under the threshold of the house eastward: for the forefront of the house stood toward the east, and the waters came down from under, from the right side of the house, at the south side of the altar. Then brought he me out of the way of the gate northward, and led me about the way without to the outer gate, by the way that looketh eastward; and, behold, there ran out waters on the right side. And when the man that had the line in his hand went forth eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters; the waters were to the ankles. Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters; the waters were to the knees.—Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through; the waters were to the loins. Afterwards he measured a thousand, and it was a river that I could not pass over: for the waters were risen, waters to swim in, a river that could not be passed over." This vision of holy waters evidently refers to the Gospel, and beautifully exhibits both its rise and rapid increase.

Again, in 1 John v. 8, the Apostle says, "There are three that bear witness in earth, the Spirit, and the water, and the blood; and these three agree in one." Here the word water also means the Gospel.

These passages may suffice to show, that the term water is used to signify the Word of God. We propose to show,—

2. That regeneration is ascribed to the power of the Gospel as a means. The Apostle says, Rom. i. 16, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God to salvation to every one that believeth." Here the Gospel is declared to be the power of God, which saves them that believe. In German it reads—"Eine kraft gottes, die da selig macht alle, die daran glauben." If, then, the Gospel has saving power, it has regenerating power; for without regeneration there is no salvation.

Again, Paul, in his letter to the Corinthians, says, "In Jesus Christ I have begotten you, through the Gospel;" 1 Cor. iv. 15. James says, "Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth;" James i. 18. Peter says, "Being born again not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God;" 1 Pet. i. 23. The Psalmist says, "The law of God is perfect, converting the soul;" Ps. xix. 7.

In these, and other passages of like import, we have proof positive that regeneration is brought about by the instrumentality of the Gospel, or truth of God. The obvious meaning, therefore, of the Saviour, in the words, "Except a man be born of the water, and of the Spirit," is, except he is renewed in heart and life by the power of truth, rendered effectual by the energy of the Holy Spirit, he cannot be saved from hell, and get to heaven.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Materialism Refuted.---No. 5.

We shall now call on Peter for his view of this question. It is to be found in his second Epistle 1: 13–15. The first thing here is his distinction between I. Peter, and the tabernacle in which he dwelt. The second thing is his faith in a conscious state after death; for I, says he, must first put off this tabernacle, as Christ had shown him. This putting off he calls death. This language would not represent his faith if he held the opposite view; for then the whole man would go to the grave. I, Peter, and the tabernacle, therefore, could be no putting off. On the other view, all is plain and easy of understanding.

Again, the testimony of the Revelator is clear and decisive. I shall only present you one out of a number, which are equally plain. It is to be found in Rev. 6: 9–11. It describes the conscious state of the souls of the martyrs. "When the fifth seal was opened, I saw under the altar the souls of THEM that were slain for the word of God, and the testimony which they held."

The first is, their death by martyrdom. The second, their conscious existence as knowing, feeling and willing beings. Third, they lived in this disembodied state while their murderers were still living on the earth. Fourth, the event described took place long before the resurrection. They lived out of the body, if we believe his testimony, and is therefore an unanswerable argument. To make void the force of this passage, they say, these persons were not yet born, and only seen in a vision. Is it not strange to what refuges they will fly, to serve a purpose, rather than give up their error? Their evasion amounts to this: the Lord revealed through his Prophets events to transpire in the history of the world: these are not to be relied upon, because they had not taken place, and therefore are no argument in support of a proposition. Let this be applied to Christ's coming, and you will see its fallacy. Again, if the opening of these seals is descriptive of future events, and as there is no doubt of it, that under the fifth seal was as real in the mind of God as though it had taken place; and the events of this seal have gone by. The fact described has taken place. If not, John's testimony is impeached. For my part, I would rather take his before all this sophistry.

There is a passage in Matt. 10: 28, passed by, and I shall notice it here. It contains Christ's view of man. First, his two natures. Second, the body could be killed by man, but not the soul. The fact that man is unable to kill the soul, proves that he possesses a nature different from his animal; and as this is not killed at death, therefore survives it. How can we account for this unanimity of sentiment in favor of conscious existence after the death of the body? To say they believed in materialism? The language they used would look as though they wished to deceive mankind, and impress a sentiment contrary to their faith. Therefore the force of the terms used does teach a conscious state. Their honesty is clearly seen on the face of their writings; therefore the truthfulness of the impression made, and the harmony of their faith and language by which it is expressed. This agreement has thwarted every effort to build up the contrary.

Another argument we offer is, the distinction between the outer and inner man. Rom. 7: 22, and 2 Cor. 4: 16. This sustains our main position.

Another argument that sustains our position is, the general belief in those times, and that it was never repudiated by Christ, when opportunities offered. One of these you will find in Matt. 14. The belief will be found in Luke 24: 37, and Acts 23: 8. Is it not strange that he never corrected this popular error, if the opposite was correct, when so many opportunities offered, and even the subject of discourse? The reason why is expressed in his words, when quieting the apprehensions of the disciples, when they had thought they had seen a spirit, "A spirit has not flesh and blood." Here his faith is clearly expressed.

Another argument that confirms the view we have taken is, the promises of Christ. "He that believeth on me, shall have everlasting life," and "He that loveth and believeth on me, shall never die," and many more of like import.

Another argument of some weight, are those things promised after death. For instance, "Be faithful until death, and I will give you a crown of life." "He that endureth until the end shall be saved," &c. All these arguments make out a clear case.

The objections to this view of the subject may be concentrated into two. The first to this view is: If true, animals have likewise souls, or minds. To admit the force of this objection, it would not in the least invalidate the doctrine we have tried to establish. There is one fact we should not forget; that is, all created mind is progressive. So says the history of the world. With animals it is not. The Otter, Bee, Ant, &c., build their houses now as they have ever done. Progression does not belong to them.

The second is, the dead know not any thing. What is here said not to know, is that which is dead; and that being the body, it could not know any thing. Therefore the same writer does distinguish between the body and spirit. He says, "The body goes to the dust and the spirit to God who gave it." It cannot be said of the whole man that he knows not any thing. The Bible does most distinctly teach that he lives after the dissolution of the body, and therefore what is here said of the dead, and in some other places, is said of the body only. This makes the sacred writers harmonize. It is one of the usages of the Scriptures to use terms that sometimes embrace the whole man, and at other times only a part of man. This can be proven beyond a question; and agreeable to this usage, this declaration is made. Therefore there is no force in the objection.

I have now frankly given my views on this question, with the object of exciting thought and examination, and contribute something towards rooting and grounding believers in sound doctrine. S. A.

Endless Existence.---No. I.

Man was created to glorify God, and was put by the Lord in the garden of Eden, there to dwell. God gave man a law, and to that law annexed a penalty. The law was, that he might eat of every tree of the garden, except of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, of that tree, saith God, "Thou shalt not eat; for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Death was the penalty.

Here Destructionists start to prove Annihilation. From the same point we shall start to disprove the same doctrine. The question here arises, what is the signification of the penalty here said to be death? Destructionists say that death is the opposite of life, and that life is existence, and consequently death annihilation. If this be so, then it remains that they must prove that man did not die, according as God had said, or else that man must have been put out of existence in that day. If we ask them what man lost in the fall, they tell us in reply, that he lost eternal life, which they say is endless existence. Well, if eternal life be endless existence, I can prove that the devil has as much eternal life as anybody else. But endless existence is not eternal life. Hence man, by losing eternal life, has not lost eternal existence. Death is the opposite of life, and life is not merely existence. And if not, what is it? Let the Scriptures speak. Read John 3: 36. "He that believeth on the Son, hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son, shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him." Now, in this passage we see two states in existence set forth. The one said to have life, while the other has not life. Still both exist. What is it to love the Son of God, which is said to be life? To love the Son of God, is to take him as our surety, and come to the Father through him, by repentance toward God and faith in his name; by which his favor, or grace, which is life, is again restored to man.

Again, in 2 Timothy 1: 10, it is said, "But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." By Christ coming into the earth, the grace or favor of God is thereby made attainable, which is said to bring life into the world, or to light.

Again, in John 5: 11, 12, 13, it is said, "This is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the son of God hath not life. These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God." The question here is answered; if the Son is life, to be destitute of the Son is death. This is what man lost by the fall, namely, the grace or favor of God. Now this is again made attainable through Christ, the Son.

Now, as death being the opposite of life, let us see what the Scriptures say concerning death. Read Romans 5: 15. "But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many." Again, Colossians 2: 13, "And you, being dead in your sins and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses." Here we see plainly, that through trespasses and sins, death is incurred, which is the displeasure of God. As before said, he that hath not the Son, which is the favor of God, hath not life, and is under spiritual death. Our opponents say, that according to Matthew 3: 10, "Now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire." From this language in Scripture, they draw the conclusion that it imports an extinction of being, which I cannot believe. For to burn up, as is said in the 12th verse, is not to put out of existence, as the Scriptures clearly prove. Read Matthew 12: 32. "And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come." What! God hold sin against a being not in existence?—This would be worse than folly. Again, Mark 3: 29, "But he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation." Now, here the term eternal is used to denote the duration of the punishment due to sin, which denotes unending duration. So, likewise, Mark 9: 43, 44, "And if thy hand offend thee, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that shall never be quenched: where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched." Now here again, is a place mentioned which is unending in its duration. Fire never quenched, and fire not quenced. Likewise the worm that dieth not. Where is the end or termination of the eternity herein mentioned? Again, Jude 7th, "Even as Sodom and Gomorrha, and the cities about them in like manner, giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire." Here again is set forth the eternity of punishment due to sin, which seems to me too plain to be misunderstood.

But again, our opponents say the term destroy signifies to annihilate, which we intend to prove to be false. To destroy, is not to annihilate. In proof of which read Job 6: 8, 9, 10. "Oh! that I might have my request; and that God would grant me the thing that I long for: even that it would please God to destroy me; that he would let loose his hand, and cut me off! Then should I yet have comfort; yea, I would harden myself in sorrow." Here Job speaks of destruction, and in that to have comfort. What! comfort in a state of non-existence? Again, Job 9: 22, "This is one thing, therefore I said it, he destroyeth the perfect and the wicked." Now it would seem, according to this passage, that the perfect man and the wicked man, according to Destructionist's doctrine, will be put out of existence together. Again, John 2: 19—21, "Jesus answered and said unto them, destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. But he spake of the temple of his body." Here Jesus doubtless had his death and resurrection in view, not of being put out of existence. Again, Daniel 8: 24, "And his power shall be mighty, but not by his own power; and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practice, and shall destroy the mighty and holy people." Here in this place, destruction seems to be the lot of even the holy people. If destruction signifies to put out of existence, the righteous also, by the same rule, must be put out of existence. Again, Luke 17: 29, "But the same day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all." Here it is said, in that very day that Lot went out of Sodom they were destroyed. And Jude says, "They were set forth as an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire;" and to that vengeance there is no end. What! suffering vengeance in a state of non-existence? Why argue so inconsistent?

ISAAC MILLARD.

(To be continued.)

Pastoral Visits.

No means of doing good should be neglected. Preaching from the sacred desk has its advantages and successes. But are these sermons paramount to a discourse fitly concocted, and plainly, and pointedly spoken to a single family or person? Some may be disposed to call it a mooted question. But if we reason by analogy, all disputes on this score must fall to the ground. A plea for pulpit exhortation alone, plainly indicates either a lack of Godly wisdom, or a lazy neglect of duty, manifestly taught and plainly and powerfully sustained in the Bible, as well as by every day's observation and experience.

See the world's plan of operations to accomplish their ends and purposes, and learn a lesson. That they often do congregate their subjects, and address them, is true; but do they not do the main part of their work in private? For although we have not committed ourselves for or against secret compacts or factions, yet we do insist, and that earnestly too, that in religion and morality much permanent good may be effected in private conclave.

For is it not a true but lamentable fact, that in sermonizing, if the sins of the people are touched upon and exposed, each hearer is kind enough to say, or think at least, that the sermon was just suited to the faults of his neighbor. Thus none are benefitted. Pearls are thrown before swine. For we take it for granted, that much may be gleaned from every sermon to suit the faulty whims and sins of all that hear, if each one is willing to glean. Thus seed is thrown on "stony ground," and no harvest is gathered. The minister stands aghast at the end of the pastoral year, for no visible good has been done. Where lies the fault? Want of private conversation with the flock. Where is the remedy? "Feed the Church of God." Give appropriate food. Some need the "sincere milk of the word;" others need meat.

But let us draw an analogy. A physician visits a room full of sick persons; one has a fever, another a consumption, a third has the rheumatism, while a fourth is much debilitated. Here are diseases requiring opposite remedies; but the physician, notwithstanding all this, stands at one end of the room and throws his medicine indiscriminately to all. It may be that he gives a tonic, and all are killed but the debilitated man; or, perchance, he gives directions for the lancet's use, and none are benefitted—all are worse when he makes his next call—perhaps all are dead. Let common sense answer what would have been the proper course to adopt. He ought to have gone singly to each, and given each their proper remedy.

The Bible tells us sin is a disease; and the minister that only proclaims from the pulpit, and does not visit the flock, stands in the same category with the physician that uses but one remedy for a hundred distinctly different diseases. One may be weak, and needs a tonic, or encouragement; another may need a severe castigation for sins committed. Now, if a mistake is made, and the weak man is castigated, you may kill him, or at least do him no little injury. But privately you can encourage the weak—dethrone the proud—exalt the humble—teach the ignorant—explain to the dull—theorize the theorists—discover the foibles of all, and thus be able to apply the appropriate corrective means.

ROSETTUS.

August 20, 1849.

My Only Sister is Gone.

Mrs. Eliza Flake Carrigan departed this life, in the faith and peace of Christ Jesus, very early on Friday morning, August 10, 1849.

In the morning of life she became a follower of Christ, and for upwards of thirty years has held fast the good confession of her faith and love to the Saviour. The ways of the Lord—the worship of her God—the fellowship of his people—in these things she took delight. Her kindness and benevolence to the poor and friendless, and how faithful and affectionate she was, as a friend, and wife, and mother, will be remembered by many—especially by myself. She was greatly esteemed as a worthy member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

I was at Shippensburg when I heard of her being very low, and hastened off to see her once more. I arrived on Tuesday afternoon, and found her in great outward affliction, but her mind was clear, and her soul was at peace with God.

Two days before I came, they told her she would soon be gone, and she answered with great composure. On the same day several preachers came, and with them, for the last time on earth, she partook of the broken bread, and poured out wine, which is the memorial of the sufferings of Christ on the cross. They say it was a solemn and heavenly season.

On Wednesday morning she requested that all her family should come around her bed, and that I should pray with them all. Then with love and fidelity, she gave her last advice to her husband, and children, and myself, to keep together, and help one another, and exhorting all to obtain religion, and get safe to heaven. She then wished us all to kiss her once more.

She remarked on Wednesday morning that she was nearly over the waters, and requested us all to give her up, and expressed her thankfulness that she had all along the right use of her mind.

On Thursday morning she requested us to pray to the Lord to take her away, and I did pray that she might be spared from severe suffering and pain; but the terrible pains came for nearly two hours in the middle of the day, and then again in the evening, wringing our hearts with anguish to witness it.

But still she prayed, and called on those around her to pray, and bore up under the fiery trial, until early on Friday morning when she sunk apparently to sleep for a while, and then when those in the room came and looked, they found it was the sleep of death. She has safely passed the dark valley, by faith in God's dear Son, and I would not bring her back.

And now to Him who gave her grace and help to bear up in the trying hour—even beyond what I would have expected—to God our Father, and Jesus Christ our Saviour, be the praise.

His love is an everlasting love—it had no beginning, and will have no end.

J. FLAKE.

Philadelphia, August 16, 1849.

Temperance Sermon.

Smithville, Wayne Co., Ohio, April 23, 1849.

Dear Brother:—

I send you a short sermon on temperance, which I copy from the North American. You may, if you see proper, give it an insertion in the Advocate. D. S.

The following article was copied from some old writings, brought to this country some forty years since, and your contributor, who has never seen or known of its ever being in print, thinks it may be of interest to your readers, as it is too good to be lost, particularly in these days of temperance reform, and will go to prove that at that time temperance had its able advocates:—

The Rev. Dr. Dodd lived within a few miles of Cambridge, England, and had offended several students by preaching a sermon on temperance. One day some of them met him. They said one to another, "Here is Father Dodd. He shall preach us a sermon;" accosting him with, "Your servants." "Sirs, yours, gentlemen," replied the Doctor. They said, "We have a favor to ask of you, which must be granted." The Divine asked, what was it. "To preach a sermon," was the reply. "Well," said he, "appoint the time and place, and I will." "The time the present, the place that hollow tree," (pointing to it,) said the students. "Strange imposition," said the Doctor. "There ought to be consideration before preaching." "If you refuse," responded they, "we will put you into the tree." Whereupon the Doctor did as desired, and asked of them the text. "Malt," said they. The reverend gentleman commenced:—

"Let me crave your attention, my beloved. I am a little man, come at a short warning, to preach a short sermon, upon a short subject, to a thin congregation, in an unworthy pulpit. Beloved, my text is Malt. I cannot divide it into syllables, it being but a monosyllable, therefore I must divide it into letters; which I find in my text to be four, MALT. M, my beloved, is Moral; A, is Allegorical; L, is Literal; T, is Theological. First, the moral teacheth such as you drunkards good manners: therefore, M, my masters, A, all of you, L, leave off, T, tippling. Second, the allegorical is when one thing is spoken and another meant The thing spoken is Malt; the thing meant is oil of Malt, which you rustics make, M, your master, A, your apparel, L, your liberty, T, your trust. Thirdly, the theological is according to the effects it works, which are two kinds. The first is this world; the second is the world to come. The effects it works in this world are in some, M, murder, in others, A, adultery, in all, L, looseness of life, and particularly in some, T, treason. In the world to come the effects of it are, M, misery, A, anguish, L, lamentation, T, torment; and thus much for my text, MALT.

"Infer first, as a word of exhortation, M, my masters, A, all of you, L, leave off, T, tippling. Second, a word for conviction; M, my masters, A, all of you, L, look for, T, torment. Third, a word for caution: take this. A drunkard is the annoyer of modesty—the spoiler of civility—the destroyer of reason—the brewer's agent—ale wife's benefactor—the wife's sorrow—the children's trouble—his neighbor's scoff—a walking swill-tub—a picture of a beast—a monster of a man."

The young men, it is supposed, left.

Letter from Brother David Baker.

UNION, Wayne County, Ohio, July 6, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

PERMIT me, through the Advocate, to drop a few thoughts for the consideration of my brethren and sisters in the Lord, with all good feelings towards the whole body, so far, at least, as I myself am concerned. We, as a body, profess to be the Church of God, the pillar and ground-work of truth; and are in Christ members one of another. We proclaim to the world we stand upon Bible ground, the word of God to be the Book of our Discipline. Its laws were legislated in the sacred council of Heaven. This law or creed-book, we consider to be all-sufficient to govern His Church and people. This profession appears to be strictly Apostolical, so far as I can understand the import of the teaching of Christ and his Apostles. Peter says, God is no respecter of persons. James tells us if we have respect to persons we commit sin. This appears to be the breathings of holy writ, so far as my mind penetrates into it. Taking this book as the Book of God, are not some of us guilty of a violation of the just law of God in some of its bearings? Now, if we violate any part of its laws, we become transgressors: and the word says, every transgressor shall receive a just recompense of reward. Let us look to ourselves, and see that we be not deceived. Having referred your minds to the above thoughts, I shall call your attention to something more: nevertheless, I still wish you to understand, I remain your brother in Christ. Should I call your minds to something which you might think improper, read your Bibles, and then, from its contents, draw your conclusion.

There is a great want of one thing among us, that is this: a little more principle in regard to supporting the itineracy. I think there is too much holding back upon this point.—This is about the way it goes, at least, with some:—"I don't like the preacher. He preaches about money, and this is somethiug I don't like to hear. If such or such a brother had been sent here, he would not talk so much about money, and that would suit us better." In this way our poor preachers, at the end of the year, when they leave their circuits and go on their field of labor, they have to bear with many discouragements, which weighs down the mind, and must, in some degree, curtail their usefulness on their field of labor. I know some good brethren who are wearing down a good constitution, and doing all in their power to promote the cause of their Divine Lord, who are under great perplexities and embarrassing circumstances. They are, in fact, almost under the necessity to leave their fields of labor, in order to procure something to clothe and feed their families. Now, it is written, "They that preach the gospel shall live of the gospel." And again, "The laborer is worthy of his hire." In view of all this, I ask my good brethren, you who have large farms, the God of heaven has blessed you with much of this world's goods, can you employ a man to labor on your farms before you in the first place make a calculation whether you shall be able to pay him for his work? This is all right. Well, then, do you not consider that God's demands are equally just? And if this is the case, which it undoubtedly is, how then can men professing Godliness, and out of their abundance, give but one, two or three dollars in the course of a year to the support of the cause of our blessed Lord?

Sometimes when we talk about the support of the ministry, some will answer us about in this way:—"This year I think I can't do anything for the preacher. I have bought a piece of land, or I am building a house or barn, and that will take all that I can make to meet my demands or judgments." I have no objections to brethren building houses or barns, nor to their buying land; but I think there is objection in brethren belonging to the Church that will add house to house, and farm to farm, and thus have continually their arrangements ahead, so as to strain every nerve, and employ every power of the mind, to gain the desired point: and when it is obtained, there is something else to draw their attention.—They do not consider that the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof: the cattle upon a thousand hills are his.

Under the law they had to bring the first fruits of the land an offering unto the Lord; and under the gospel, also, have we not something to offer? Let us appeal to the word of the Lord and see. We read in Exodus 25: 2, "Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring me an offering of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart." 2 Cor. 9: 7, "Give not grudgingly, or of necessity: for the Lord loveth a cheerful giver." Prov. 11: 25, "The liberal soul shall be made fat." Again, "He that watereth shall be watered also himself." 1 Cor. 9: 11, "If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap of your earnal things?"

So we might go on and enumerate proof one after another, to show what God demands of his people in this respect; yet men, with their Bibles in their hand, will violate God's law in this respect. Now, to make things as they should be, let each member love their preacher, pray for him, give and support him, as God requires of him, and all those difficulties will be obviated, and things will wear quite a different aspect. The ox will get his corn, and souls will feel glad, and then, methinks, we will not see so many lukewarm churches and fault-finding and narrow-hearted professors.

I think, moreover, it depends a great deal on the part of the Elders and Deacons, to instruct their brethren in this holy principle. If the churches would all come up to their duty in this respect, Zion would travail, sinners would get religion, and God's name be glorified; and I think the preachers who labor among us, when they leave their homes to pass round their circuits and visit their brethren, will do it cheerfully and in all good feelings: and they will all feel mutually glad to see each other. It appears to me these things must be remedied. So must all say.

I do hope these thoughts will have their desired effect on all, and when we meet in our next Eldership, we will not meet our poor preachers to hear them complain so much for the want of a support; but that they may, with holy zeal, cheerfully mount the walls as watchmen, and proclaim the gospel of the kingdom. If this would be the case, I think none would be sorry; and then the preachers and their little ones will have the necessaries of life, and feel grateful to God. May the good Lord bless us all with loving hearts and open hands, to meet and stand upon the principles of his word.

Your brother in the Lord,

DAVID BAKER.

Letter from Rusticus.

CLINTONVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 12, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

BEING in the regular receipt of the Church Advocate since the 13th number of the 13th volume, together with some scattering numbers previous to that time, and also feeling an interest in the welfare of the same, let me congratulate you upon the rapid improvement in the temper and matter of many of the communications that enrich its columns. And may God grant, that a spirit of love may govern all who try to write for the edification of the whole. I love the paper for the sake of the cause it advocates. I love to read the communications of the tried soldiers of the cross. The names of a Flake, Owens, Thomas, Maxwell, McFadden, and many others, are still dear to many living west of the Ohio river.

Well, thanks be to God, that though a Sherrich has been called to enter into his reward, He has left us a Hickernell, an Adams, and a Megrew; and we trust a Deshiri and a Soule will do honor to the cause of their Lord and Master.

It is a pity that men, calling themselves the ministers of the Most High, should ever stoop to personalities and recrimination. The children of God should not strive. If all things are to be done to edification, suffer me to say, that in my judgment, articles of a certain class had better be dispensed with. I mean such as are of a personal character, and generally have their origin in disputes of a trifling nature. We uniformly find, that brethren who make it their business to save souls, have neither time nor relish for such a calling.

Again, ministers will give us lengthy articles on the melting, moving incidents and hair-breadth escapes, by flood and field, they have to encounter in order to reach this Eldorado of the West, and just as they are about ready to exclaim, Eureka, Eureka, they discover that Sons of Temperance, Odd-Fellows, or Free-Masons have been there before them; and how quick the change: their imaginary gardens of roses are withered, the lily of their fancy is blasted, and the peace of their earthly paradise forever fled. Now, I would ask, my brethren, what are we to do? Are we going to proscribe many that we have every reason to believe are fearing God and working righteousness, whose only fault, (if fault it is,) is a union with unconverted men in trying to carry out a benevolent enterprise, and at the same time enter into a national union with those scourges of the earth, the slave-holders of the South? Yes, my erring brother, every vote you cast for such, strengthens that bloody band, and perhaps you never thought of it. I ask you, have you ever reflected on that Heaven-daring system of oppression that is daily driving three millions of the inhabitants of our land to the lowest grade of degradation and suffering, robbing them of their God-given rights, and by your aiding and abeting the advocates of such a soul-destroying system, that you are bringing, yea, have already brought, a reproach upon the religion you profess and on the church of which you call yourself a member? These are weighty matters, and in my judgment, ought to bear with due weight on our minds. I live in a free State, where this damning sin is not tolerated, and I feel thankful to God that there is a spot whereon to stand, where I can express my mind and raise my voice; and if thought best, to unite with the men of this world to ameliorate or better the condition of my fellow-man, in rescuing him from the oppression, or the soul-destroying vice of intemperance. I feel free to do so. And further, I believe God will be well pleased with the matter. All I ask is an open field, and am willing to trust God in thus uniting with the men of the world to do good.

RUSTICUS.

N. B.—You speak of the baptism of J. K. Polk. Is sprinkling baptism?

2. Can a local church which refuses to pay its subscriptions, be properly called a Church of God? A friend at my elbow wishes you to answer the above questions. Perhaps it may benefit some of the many readers of the Advocate.

R.

REMARKS.—Sprinkling is Sectarian, not Scriptural baptism.

2. A church that refuses or neglects paying her honest debts, is like a delinquent church member who neglects the same, faulty. But whether by that neglect he forfeits all claim to a Christian character, depends somewhat on circumstances.

EDITOR.

Letter from Brother J. J. Bear.

SHENANDOAH, Richland Co., Ohio, July 7, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I TAKE up my pen to drop a few lines for the Advocate and its readers. My health is not very good at present, which militates much against my travelling in the ministry; but I hope the great physician will bless means and medicine to restore my health again.

I arrived on the place assigned me by the Eldership last fall on the 7th of April, and commenced my labors on the 19th of the same month. I have travelled the circuit twice, which is near 200 miles around; and would have been round the third time had it not been that I held a meeting, and protracted it sometime.

But I hope the dear brethren whom I disappointed by said meeting, will forgive me, for I was trying to do all the good I could. The result of the meeting was, eight came out for prayer, and three were made happy in the Lord, and numbers of lukewarm professors stirred up. Here we have had to fight the devil, and fault-finding and back-biting professors, who have such enormous great big beams in their eyes, that they cannot see any thing but the faults of their poor fellow beings. May my God help these crooked, knotty, contentious creatures to cast out the beam that is in their own eyes first, and if they do that, they will have enough to do to keep them busy. I hope my dear brethren and sisters will have nothing to do with such persons, but will rebuke them sharply wherever they find them, and be at peace among themselves. I have tried to preach some sixty sermons since I commenced my labors, and am not yet tired. I am thankful to the Lord that he has made my weakness a blessing to at least some poor souls, and also that my brethren and sisters are so well satisfied with my labors. I am well pleased with my brethren on this circuit. They are zealous and faithful in many respects; but they would encourage me more if they would go more heartily into the Sabbath-school cause. Children have souls, and those souls will meet us in eternity, and we must go to work if we want to do any thing. I do hope that poor, fretful little word will no more be heard among us, "I can't do any thing." I have been around amongst the brethren a good deal, and find that they can talk and trade as well as the Sectarians can. Well, Sectarians are going ahead with Sabbath-schools, with a perfect rush; and shall we let them beat us? No! my dear brethren, I say no. But let us wake up, preachers and all, and not let ourselves be beat in this respect. I do not mean upon party principles, but upon the broad platform of the gospel.—Let us love all men, and do good to all as far as possible, that the gospel be not blamed.—But, says one, Sectarians are much richer and abler to carry on these things than we are. Well, my dear brethren, there is a pretty good number of you that are worth from one to five thousand dollars, and some are worth from five to ten thousand dollars; and a good many have things very plentifully in this world, and live well: and if sects beat us, it is because they are more enterprising, more zealous, and more benevolent.

In conclusion I would say, that I lost my dear mother on the 29th of April last. She was born in Greenville township, Somerset county, Pa., in the year of our Lord, 1793. She was 52 years and some few days old. She was the daughter of Samuel and Mary Findley, who lived and died in that county. She was married to my father, Daniel Bear, in the latter end of the year 1814. She was the mother of seven children; three are dead and four are yet alive. She was a widow near twenty-five years. She was left a widow in the back-woods and far from all her relations, and had to conflict with all the hardships of a new country, and her helpless little children. She knew what it-was to be in want, and saw great hardships in her time; but I hope she has exchanged all for a crown of glory. All her remaining sons are trying to preach the gospel. Yours, in love,

JOHN J. BEAR.

Letter from Bro. A. Megrew, V. D. M.

Wooster, August 11, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Having a little leisure time, and a little money to send you, I submit a few lines to you, which you may give a place in the Advocate, if you think proper.

I am well at present. My family is well. The brethren of Wooster are well. And while we are surrounded with that worst of diseases, the Cholera, the health of our place is good. For this we should be very thankful, humble and obedient to the great God, who is the Supreme Governor of the Universe.

As to the state of religion, generally, in this country, I can say but little at present. My travels are limited, in consequence of my peculiar circumstances, so that my knowledge of the state of things is not extensive; but so far as I know, things are pretty fair. I have been round some on brothers Deshiri and Soule's circuit. Their preaching takes with the brethren generally. They have baptized some, and received some into fellowship, in the different local churches, and some have embraced religion under their labors.

My own labors are principally confined to Wooster. Times are good here. The Church has her banner up. May the Lord grant that she may keep it up. Some are still rallying around the old blood-stained banner of King Immanuel. Last Sabbath we had meeting, forenoon and afternoon. After the forenoon services, we resorted to old Apple Creek, and there I had the pleasure of baptizing four happy disciples. It was truly a solemn and interesting time. The tears were seen to run down over many faces. These disciples, at least three of them, had been sprinkled. Some thought it criminal to re-baptize them, as they call it. But for my part, I have no scruples on that subject. No persons are legally and Scripturally baptized, until they have believed with all the heart, and then been immersed in water, in the name of the Father, Son and Spirit. After the baptismal services on said day, we received five into fellowship. The opposition runs middling high at present; but no matter for this, if we may but keep the unity of the spirit, which is the bond of perfectness. The cause is God's and must prevail.

There are, however, some dangers to be avoided, especially in a place of this kind. There is the vortex of pride, the love of fashion in dress, &c., into which thousands have fallen. This is frequently disguised by a scum, called modesty, decency, &c.: and Mr., Mrs., or Miss such a one has walked over, and I can too. When the fact is, probably, they have fallen in. But there is also the destructive pool of popularity, love of numbers, and an ambitious spirit of mastery, guided by a false zeal. O! may the God of heaven and earth, save the people here, and everywhere else, from these and all other evils.

I am trying to make my arrangements to attend the Camp-meetings. We have three this year. May the Lord revive his work at all of them. I love to see the work of the Lord go on. I love the brethren. I love to preach, and I would love to be out more among the brethren. Brethren pray for me.

A. MEGREW.

Letter from Brother S. Barnhart.

Greene Co., Pa., Aug. 2, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I again take my pen from behind my ear, to relate a few things to you and the readers of the Advocate, a part of which may be somewhat cheering to the friends of our blessed Master.

I have been informed that a revival has taken place in the Church of God in Marshall county, Va.; the result of which has been the conviction and conversion of several precious souls. O! that the good Lord may take them under his strong arm and protection, and save them from the many evils by which they are surrounded.

The Church in Greene county is looking forward with a prospect of some good being done in the name of Jesus, who is ever willing to bless and prosper his people. Our new pastor, Elder Gillespie, appears to labor with the power and the spirit. He preached last Sunday to an attentive congregation, in our Bethel. We have faithful preaching—good preaching, and gospel preaching, in this country. But our atmosphere has become so poisoned by some of our Sectarian creed-makers, that the right ways of the Lord are almost forgotten by some. Oh! that the Lord may save us from changing our "glory into the similitude of an ox that eateth grass." But may we be up and a doing while it is called to-day, in "contending earnestly for the faith which was once delivered to the saints," so that when we come to die, we may have a gentle passport from earth to heaven. Amen.

The health in this neighborhood and country is reasonably good, no contagious diseases prevailing; for which we should be thankful.

Wheat in this section of country is badly hurt with rust. Rye and Oats are pretty good. Pretty good prospect for Corn.

Greene county is making rapid strides in the way of improvements. Splendid flouring mills and villages are now to be seen where, a few years ago, we could but behold the towering forest. Merchants and mecbanics are making quite a stir. Factories of various kinds are now doing business. Truly, this is a day of improvement.

Yonrs, in love,

STEPHEN BARNHART.

Letter from Brother J. W. Keplinger.

July 29, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

After a long delay I venture to lift my pen to drop a word for the consideration of the numerous readers of your valuable paper, the Church Advocate.

I would merely say, to one and all, let us be up and a doing. Let us not sleep as do others; but let us watch and be sober. And when we go to the house of God, let us deeply possess our minds with the instructions and privileges we enjoy; for we ought to consider that these privileges are precious, and bought with the precious blood of Christ. Recollect that it is enjoined upon you to take heed how you hear, and to "keep thy foot when thou goest up to the house of God," and be ready to hear. Let us fully possess our minds with this fact, that we can contract or expand our minds to hear what is commanded. Come, my brethren, let us consider that if we are indifferent and sleepy hearers, that we will be stumbling-blocks in the way of others. Now, in order to be ready to enter upon these devotions, let us not work too late on Saturday. Let us rise early on the Sabbath morning, and go to meeting, direct from the place of secret prayer. Let us pray for our minister, and for our brethren generally. With these remarks I must close, hoping that what I have written may be for the better. May the good Lord bless us all, and help us to be ready for his coming, is my earnest prayer.

Yours, in the bonds of love,

JAMES W. KEPLINGER.

Letter from Brother G. Sandoe.

Hinkletown, August 3, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

It is with heart-felt gratitude that I now take my pen in hand to write a few lines, which you may insert in your paper if it seemeth thee good.

As this day was set apart by the higher powers as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, we, namely, the Church of God in Hinkletown, have observed it as such. And I for one can say, my soul is refreshed—my faith strengthened, and hopes brightened up: and I believe those of the members who were present received the same nourishment. O! how good is the Lord to all those who, out of pure motives, endeavor to serve him in an acceptable manner. Surely, they who meet his approbation in this world, while seeking to serve him in his own appointed ways, will undoubtedly be owned also in another and a better world, as the purchase of his own blood.

Of the Church in this place there is nothing special at present, farther than those who have espoused the good cause prove faithful to their high calling, looking daily for the manifest grace of God on behalf of our countrymen around us.

For this we fast, for this we pray,
Ever longing for that day,
When they shall a warning take,
And all their sinful ways forsake.

No more at present, but remain yours,

G. SANDOE.

Letter from Brother John Hupert.

Payson, Adams Co., Illinois,
July 21, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I take my pen in hand to inform you that we are all well at present, and have been so since we left the East. But the Cholera is raging all around us. St. Louis has lost 5,000 of its inhabitants, and Quincy lost from 10 to 25 per day; but the pestilence is now on a decrease. There is but little business doing at present. Payson is a very healthy place, and is crowded with people from different parts of the country, who have fled from the Cholera. It is situated on a beautiful Prairie, and surrounded by a good country. Work is plenty for good preachers, and plenty of good materials to work on. May the Lord send us a preacher soon.

Before I left the East I subscribed and paid for your valuable paper. I gave my subscription and Post Office address to brother Keller, but as yet have received no paper. I wrote to brother Hinny on the subject, but received no answer. I now embrace the opportunity to inform you to send on my paper.

I remain yours in the Lord,

JOHN HUPERT.

N. B.—Brother Hupert is informed that his paper went to Quincy for a while, but now goes with McFall's to Payson, Adams county, Illinois. Editor.

OBITUARY OF Mr. JACOB ZELL.

Died, at Washington, Washington county, on the 8th instant, Mr. Jacob Zell, of Springville, Lancaster county, Pa., of Diarrbœa, in the 28th year of his age.

The circumstances connected with the death of Mr. Zell, are somewhat peculiar, and very affecting. He left home, in company with two other men, on the 29th of July last, to go to Ohio. They went about seventy-five miles, and all agreed to return home. His company left him on the way, (he having some business to transact.) expecting him home in a few days; but before he got to Harrisburg, be met an acquaintance going West, and turned back and went with him. They travelled together, and arrived at Washington on the 4th inst., when Mr. Zell was sick and unable to go any further, and there died on the 8th, as before stated, leaving a distressed wife and three small children, a widowed mother, sister and brothers to mourn his loss, whose grief will cause them long to remember his departure.

By accounts, the people where he lay sick, and others of Washington, paid all necessary attention to the deceased while he lay sick, and manifested great respect to him at his burial, for which his relatives tender them their sincere thanks.

Written for publication at the request of the widow of the deceased,

By a Friend.

Springville, Aug. 21, 1849.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Wool Growing in Illinois.—The Peoria Register gives a good account of the sheep pastures of that part of Illinois. They are becoming numerously stocked, with very superior qualities of sheep. The entire number of head in the county is stated at 30,000, and the wool clip of the past spring at 90,000 lbs. The venerable Bishop Chase is one of the their wool growers of that immediate vicinity, owning a flock of 2,000 head. C. Stone also has a flock of the same size, and there are several other flocks of 1100 to 1500 head.

The business of wool-growing is receiving a great deal of attention there, and becoming one of much importance. An interesting account is given of a flock of pure French Merinos just introduced into that county, by Mr. Truman Humphreys, of Elmwood. These sheep are represented as distinguished for the extraordinary firmness and thickness of the fleece, large frame and strong constitution. The head and face is completely covered with wool, down to near the end of the nose. The imported buck weighs some 250 lbs, and sheard 22 lbs of wool. The average weight of fleece from these sheep is said to be from 10 to 14 lbs per head.

Physicians and the Cholera.—The physicians appear to be more frequently the victims of the epidemic than any other class, probably from their greater exposure and the fatigue attending their professional duties. At Chicago, Buffalo, and New York, the names of practicing physicians are mentioned as dying of cholera. In St. Louis five have died, Drs. H. Lane, Pollock, Farrer, Drake and Barbour. The first, Dr. Hardage Lane, was the foremost man of the faculty in that city.

Important Purchase.—We understand, says the Pittsburg Gazette, that the city of Allegheny has effected a purchase of the property belonging to the Western Theological Seminary, known as Seminary Hill. The price paid is $35,000, the money to remain on perpetual interest. The city contemplates levelling the hill, and filling up the ravines, and will, we presume, sell off lots on the level part of the commons, west of the hill, immediately. The ground purchased, we believe, amounts to 18 acres, and is very valuable.

Arbitration.—The American Peace Society has passed unanimously the following vote: "That the Hon. Judge Jay, of New York, President, the Hon Isaac Collins, of Philadelphia, Vice President, and the Rev. Charles Brooks, of Boston, Chairman of the Eexcutive Committee, be a delegation to wait on the President of the U. States, to urge on him the expedieney and importance of inserting the arbitration clause in all our future treaties with foreign nations."

Foreign News.—The cholera was alarmingly prevalent in England. The deaths had doubled in London and much increased in Liverpool. In London, 678 against 339 the week previous. In Liverpool, 640 against 463.

The potato crop in Ireland, promises an abundant yield—and the weather was most excellent for the harvest.

The American consul at Rome had not resumed his functions since the outrage upon his flag and family by the French soldiers. The consul, after strongly protesting against the indignity, withdrew.

Father Mathew's Success in Boston.—It is estimated that eighteen thousand persons have taken the pledge since the arrival of Father Mathew in Boston. Speaking of the success which has attended his labor, the Journal says:—"Many persons residing out of the city have come in for the sole purpose of taking the pledge. The effect has been to shut up a large number of grog shops. One officer states that within his district where there were thirteen of these places open and full of people on Sunday week, there were but three open last Sunday."—Compiler.

Another Florida War.—The Indians continue to commit outrages in Florida. An attack was recently made by them on a plantation between Tampa Bay and Charlotte Harbor. They were pursued by the military to a stream, where 100 warriors appeared shouting the war-hoop, and bidding them defiance. The military being in too small force retired. The Governor of Florida has made a requisition for a large number of troops, with the intention of prosecuting the war with vigor.

Clearances for California.—From a register, kept in the Bulletin office, of clearances for California ports from all the ports of the United States, as well as from England, France and Bremen, we find the following is the whole number, from November 14th, 1848, to August 1st, 1849:

	United States.	Europe.	Total.
Ships,	132	13	145
Barques,	130	1	131
Brigs,	71		71
Schooners,	54		54
Steamers,	6		6
Total clearances,	393	14	407

Distilleries and Ignorance.—North Carolina reports 2,803 distilleries, and over 56,000 persons who cannot read or write, in a population of 750,000. Massachusetts contains 37 distilleries, and of nearly a million of people, there are less than 5,000 who cannot read or write.

Important Decision.—The Supreme Court of New Jersey has decided that owners of cattle are bound to keep them off railroads.

Gas in Pottsville.—A location for gas works in Pottsville has been secured, and the works are to be erected immediately.

College Education in the U. States.—Jared Sparks, in the course of his address, made on being inaugurated as president of Harvard University, lately, stated that, for a century and a half after the settlements of this country, there were five colleges in it, and now there are over one hundred and twenty. He also expresses his belief that there is more money expended in the United States for collegiate education than any country in the world.

☞ The Corporation of New York is expending $200,000 for the purpose of extending the supplies of Croton water. A new iron pipe, 30 inches in diameter, is being laid down to the extent of four miles, the entire weight of which will be 4,000 tons. The Journal of Commerce remarks: "The value of the Croton water is now felt by all the citizens to be above price. They really feel as if they could not exist without it. Although procured at a cost of $3,000,000 it was cheaply purchased."

☞ The Philadelphia Emigrants' Friend Society, Office, No. 99 S. Front Street, supported by voluntary contributions of the citizens, is designed to give advice and protection to all FOREIGN EMIGRANTS, and to assist them in obtaining employment and directeng them to suitable places of settlement in this country.

Those wishing to obtain the services of Emigrants, should apply at the Society's Office. Letters must be post-paid.

D. R. THOMASON, Secretary.

☞ The Tunnel on the Pennsylvania Railroad is more than eleven hundred feet in length. It was commenced at both ends, although at different times, and was worked so as to meet about one hundred feet from the centre. It is given as a remarkable proof of instrumental science, that the work meets with absolute exactness, and that neither the eye nor the instrument can detect any variation in the line.

☞ The Election in Kentucky for the Convention to amend the Constitution, has resulted in favor of the pro-slavery candidate. It is said that they will have a decided majority.—It is not believed that a majority of the voters in Kentucky, are in favor of perpetuating slavery—and the result of this election, will be regarded as one of the fruits of the continued interferenee and agitation on the subject in the neighboring States.

Father Mathew.—Father Mathew intends to stay a year in the United States, and has written home advising his countrymen to emigrate to this country. He is about to make an extensive purchase of land out West for homes for them.

The Next Congress.—Kentucky will have 6 Whigs and 4 Democrats in the next Congress.

☞ The Salary of the President of Mexico has been fixed at 25,000 annually, the same as our President. The Mexicans think that it is West Point which makes good soldiers in the United States—they probably think it is the salary which also makes good Presidents for our government.

☞ The Washington Monument has reached an elevation of 26 feet above the surface, with a foundation of solid masonry 81 feet square at the bottom and 50 feet 10 inches at the top, upon which the obelisk, cased with beautiful white marble and elevated 500 feet, is to be erected.

☞ A correspondent of the Western Christian Advocate, writing from Fort Kearney, June 6, says:—Drunkards have died by hundreds on this route, and sixteen men, professing to be skillful physicians, have been buried between St. Joseph and this place in one month past.

☞ Dr. J. F. Wright, of Greenfield, Ohio, has invented a machine to print the names of subscribers on newspapers, by which eighteen hundred papers can be directed in an hour, with the greatest accuracy. It is to be patented.

☞ The Mormon emigration to the great Salt Lake, continues large. Four hundred wagons crossed Missouri, at Council Bluffs on the 10th, on their way across the plains.

☞ We learn from the Keokuk (Iowa) Register, that the wheat crop in that section of country was harvested in good order and turns out well. The corn crop is also very promising.

The New York Conventions.—The Conventions of the "Hunkers" and "Barnburners" of New York, recently in session at Rome, have adjourned without effecting a union.

Election in Tennessee.—The papers state that Gen. Trousdale, the Democratic candidate, is elected Governor by a majority of about three thousand.

Great Mortality.—The Cholera has made frightful havoc in the Bucks county Almshouse. Of 150 paupers in the house about 100 have died.

Drought in New England.—We see by the papers that throughout these States a most terrible drought has prevailed for the last three months.

☞ Georgia has now six hundred miles of Railroad, and three Railroads are in process of construction which will cost about $4,000,000, and make 1000 miles of Railroad.

☞ The Austrian soldiers receive four cents a day. Killing their brethern for four cents a day! What an occupation.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SYMPATHY.

O how sweet to turn from the cold—chilling and heartless world—the world that ever misjudges the motives of the pure and upright—to seek in some sympathising heart, the dew-drop of consolation. How calm and sweet the realm where green pastures are; and stilly waters flow.—What pleasure unutterable to find congenial souls that can feel our sorrows, can share our joys, and appreciate the feelings which actuate us. In sorrow how consoling is the angel voice of sympathy—that sympathy which may be prefigured by a beautiful woman, whose heart is a garden, where the lilly of innocence, the rose of love, the evergreen of hope, olive branch of peace, the immortal—the rosemary, the violet, ivy and forget-me-not, all sweetly blending, bring forth when called into action the fruit of heaven, love—joy—peace! as she bends by the resting place of the poor, broken hearted—the disconsolate—the afflicted, soothing their sorrow, and pouring a healing balm into their every wound, causing them to forget for the while their lesser afflictions, and gently float on the love-wave of heavenly sympathy. Blessings on those sympathetic ones who go through life with a sweet smile for every one, and kind words for the desponding, who are ever ready to extend the hand of friendship, though they may sometimes be deceived. Yet they have faith in the divine that lives within us all, they believe no one is so degraded but the sunshine of truth may yet call forth the sweet, though perhaps wild flowers of hope and reformation. Blessings on such, may the flowers that bloom in the garden of their heart, ever be fragrant, and never know the chill which ingratitude brings, nor the frosts of life that nip the flower blossoms and shrivel the white and flowing robes of the angel of sympathy. Reader resolve to feel for the woes of others, there is felicity in it. It partakes of the attributes of Jesus.—The Christian.

A GENTLE WHISPER IN THE HUSBAND'S EAR.

Husband, think of the good qualities of your beloved, not of her bad ones; think of her good common sense, her industry, neatness, order; her kindness, affability, and above all, her ardent piety, her devotedness to things heavenly and divine. Suppose you had a slattern for a wife, a slipshod hussy, a gossip, a real termagant, whose tongue was not merely a triphammer, but as the forked lightnings! so that even the house top would be a thankful retreat from her unmitigated fury! Suppose all this, and still more, then say, has not God dealt very kindly, graciously, mercifully, in giving you such a wife as he has? God has dealt infinitely better than your deserts.

"But she is not all I could wish."

Marvellous, wonderful! And are you, think, all she could wish? Turn the wallet. Suppose you cast an eye within and without, view your own ugliness, and crookedness, and blackness? How many things does your beloved wife see in you that she has reason to despise as mean, selfish, miserly, grovelling? Are you all that she could wish? far from it. But this prying into and scanning each other's faults hypercritically, is altogether wrong, and will always keep you on the hatchel, fidgety and rickety. Better a thousand times, study each others graces and good qualities, endeavoring to correct the faults of one another in the spirit of meekness and love. The cause of all this bickering, and sparring, and jarring, and splitting, and twitching, and hitching, is want of love. Love covereth a multitude of blemishes. Let the heart be filled with love, and the little faults which appear mountains, will be swallowed up, or become as mole-hills. A husband who is always complaining, and growling, and snapping, and snarling, is enough to crush a heart of steel, to sour the mind of an angel. The female heart is tender, soothing, sympathetic, lovely. Husband, speak kindly to your beloved—

Speak kindly to her. Little dost thou know
What utter wretchedness, what hopeless wo
Hang on those bitter words, that stern reply;
The cold demeanor, and reproving eye,
The death steel pierces not with keener dart,
Than unkind words in woman's trusting heart.

The frail being by thy side is of finer mould; keener her sense of pain, of wrong, greater her love of tenderness. How delicately tuned her heart; each ruder breath upon its strings complains in lowest notes of sadness, not heard, but felt. It wears away her life like a deep under-current, while the fair mirror of the changing surface gives not one sigh of woe. Man, put away unbelief, banish that sourness, and moroseness, and sullenness, and mulishness; put on a smile of sweet affection; exhibit kindness, tenderness, sympathy, and love; and rest assured, your wife, if not a real termagant, will reciprocate, clasp, you to her bosom in affection's grasp.—Your mouth will be filled with laughter,—your domestic fireside, instead of a pandemonium, will be a little paradise. Your little ones will gather round you as olive plants—blooming sweetly in all the beauty and freshness of spring. Man, try it; try, try.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES IN EUROPE.

The stars are falling from heaven, and the great men of the earth are hiding themselves from the fury of the on-rolling storm, and from the wrath of the Lamb. The stone which was cut out of the mountain, has become a great mill-stone, and is grinding the oppressors of man to dust, the once orthodox doctrine of the Divine Right of Kings and of authoritative ecclesiaitical dictation, are fast receding before the on-rushing-glory wave that is washing and surging against the borders of every country in Europe, and dashing its life-giving spray far into their interior. The PEOPLE rise and speak! thrones tremble beneath the thunder of their voice, and Kings, Princes and Potentates are scattered like chaff before the wind, leaving behind them the mock insignia of their power, and all the symbols of their once terrible authority. While the people all radiant with light and right stand in immovable fixedness like a monument of colossal grandeur, towering above the ruins of thrones and the total wreck of oppressive greatness, and stand they will, sheltered by the plumage of the angel of Liberty, and blessed by the Prince of Glory, whose work they are doing. Freedom's chariot is loose on the chainless winds, preceded by the lightning, and flanked by the thunder, it soon will encircle the world, then will the people, to earth's remotest bounds, pregnant with the jewel of universal earthly salvation, deliver themselves and stand up in the heaven-born majesty of Freemen.—A common—Equal and fraternal Brotherhood! that day is dawning. Yes, we live in it,—the winds are laden with its perfume, and ocean-waves shout its meridian approach. Apostles—martyrs—all the good of other centuries longed—desired to see this day, the earth and the inhabitants thereof are flushed with the advancing effulgence and transcendant glory of that Prince who bears in his right hand the Scales of Justice—in his left, the flowing banner of universal peace and good will to all his subjects. Never since Adam became a living soul on this earth, has there existed a period so full of the pavilion of glory and unequalled grandeur of the God of the Universe, the light of His countenance shines upon the dark and mysterious pages of written prophecy, and Lo! in the twinkling of an eye they are fulfilled. More glorious far are these days, than those in which the angels descended from the warm presence of the Heavenly King, and with a song, introduced to the inhabitants of Earth the great Redeemer,—then he came to suffer, now he comes to reign. Already Mount Olivet trembles with electric sympathy at His near approach, and longs to open her bosom to welcome to earth again, the Prince of the Everlasting Kingdom, the electric stream has gone forth from the centre power of the universe, for the restoration of all things. Germany,—Saxony,—Bavaria,—Prussia,—Italy and Hungary have all felt the shock, the seven-hilled power has felt its influence, the thunders of the Vatican have been by it hushed,—Rome has pulsated with its thrill, and the sons of the noble ancients begin to live again, and the hired minions of a mock republic have fled aghast before the fire-flashings of freedom's eye, and withered beneath the steel of those whom they came to oppress.—The Christian.

OFFICIAL.

By the President of the United States.

PROCLAMATION.

Washington, August 14, 1849.

There is reason to believe that an armed expedition is about to be fitted out in the United States, with an intention to invade the Island of Cuba, or some of the Provinces of Mexico. The best information which the Executive has been able to obtain, points to the Island of Cuba as the object of this expedition.

It is a duty of this Government to observe the faith of treaties, and to prevent any aggression by our citizens upon the territories of friendly nations. I have therefore thought it necessary and proper to issue this proclamation, to warn all citizens of the United States, who shall connect themselves with an enterprise so grossly in violation of our laws, and our treaty obligations, that they will thereby subject themselves to the heavy penalty denounced against them by our acts of Congress, and will forfeit their claims to the protection of their country. No such persons must expect the interference of this government in any form on their behalf, no matter to what extremities they may be reduced in consequence of their conduct.

An enterprise to invade the territories of a friendly nation, set on foot and prosecuted within the limits of the United States, is, in the highest degree, criminal as tending to endanger the peace, and compromise the honor, of this nation; and, therefore, I expect all good citizens, as they regard our national reputation—as they respect their own laws and the laws of nations—as they value the blessings of peace and the welfare of their country, to discourage and prevent, by all lawful means, any such enterprise. And I call upon every officer of this Government, civil and military, to use all efforts in his power to arrest, for trial and punishment, every such offender against the laws providing for the performance of our sacred obligations to friendly powers.

Given under my hand, the eleventh day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thonsand eight hundred and forty-nine, and the 74th of the Independence of the United States.

By the President.

Z. TAYLOR.

John M. Clayton, Sec. of State.

SINGULAR PROPHECY.

Mr Editor:—Lorenzo Dow, of eccentric memory, was in possession of a German work on the Prophecies, which he valued highly, and frequently made quotations from. Among other remarkable sayings of the author, were these:

"I would not be a king, in 1848."
"I would not be a grave digger in 1849."
"I would not be a soldier in 1850."
"I would be either, in 1851."

The work alluded to was written about 200 years ago. It certainly possesses an interest for the curious. How frail the tenure by which kings held their crowns, in 1848! Who would like the office of a grave digger in 1849, unless he was solely mercenary? How more than presumable is it that the military men of the earth will contribute multitudes, in 1850, to fill a wide and quiet grave! And we may hope, at last in 1851, for the fair harbingers which promise "peace on earth and good will to men."—N. Y. Jour. of Com.

By the translation of Enoch and Elijah, God showed how men should have left the world if they had not sinned—not by death, but a glorious translation.—Math. Henry.

Those born once only, die twice—they die a temporal, and they die an eternal death. But those who are born twice, die only once—for over them the second death has no power.—Jay.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Notice.

A Camp-meeting is to be held in the woods of John Baker, abont one mile northwest from Linglestown, to commence on the 3d of September next.

The brethren of the surrounding churches are requested to meet on the camp-ground, August 28th, to prepare the ground for holding said meeting. We hope the brethren will not permit this burden to rest upon a few, but will turn out well in helping to prepare the ground.

No hucksters will be permitted nearer the ground than the limits of the law.

Thomas Strohm.

Woods-meetings.

A Woods-meeting will be held, Deo Volente, by the Church of God at Newville, near the Depot, commencing on Friday, the 14th of September, at 3 o'clock.

A Woods-meeting will be held near John R. Machlan's, in Warrenton township, York county, commencing on Friday evening, the 21st of September next.

The brethren and the public generally are invited to attend.

POETRY.

THE LAST TEAR I SHED.

The last tear I shed, was the warm one that fell,
As I kissed thee, dear mother, and bade thee farewell;
When I saw the deep anguish impress on thy face,
And felt, for the last time, a mother's embrace;
And heard thy choked accents, impassioned and wild,
God bless thee forever, God bless thee my child.

I thought of my boyhood, thy kindness to me,
When youngest and dearest, I sat on thy knee;
Of the love to me ever so fondly expressed,
As I grew up to manhood, unconscious how blest;
Of thy praises when right, thy chidings when wrong,
While wayward with passions, unyielding and strong.

I thought of thy counsels, unheeded and spurned,
As mirth had enlivened, or anger had burned;
And how, when by sickness all helpless I lay,
Thou did'st nurse me, and soothe me, by night and by day;
How much I had been both thy sorrow and joy,
And my feelings o'erflowed, and I wept like a boy.

Years, years of endurance have vanished, and now
There is pain in my heart, there is care on my brow;
The visions of hope and of fancy are gone,
And cheerless I travel life's pathway alone.
Alone! aye, alone, though some kind ones there be,
There are none here to love me, to love me like thee.

My mother, dear mother, cold-hearted they deem Thy offspring; but oh! I am not what I seem:
Though, calmly and tearless, all changes I bear,
Could they look in my bosom, the feeling is there:
And more sad and lovely, as memory re-calls
Thy blessing at parting, again the tear falls.

E. W. R.

Tiffin, Ohio, 1849.

THE THRONE OF GRACE.

The throne of grace—O sacred spot!
Dead is the heart that loves thee not;
Faith, hope and love round thee entwine;
O, precious treasure! thou art mine.
Shall I not bow where Patr'archs bent?
Shall I not go where Prophets went?
They bowed the knee in holy pray'r,
Conversing with Jehovah there.
Apostles did that throne surround,
And martyrs bowed in faith profound;
And Jesus, too, with groans and tears,
There breathed his all-prevailing pray'rs.

Now on that throne the Saviour sits,
Where many a minist'ring spirit waits,
To take the blessings of his grace,
And bear them to the human race.
O lovely throne! before thee now
The suppliants of all nations bow;
There rank forgets it pomp and pride,
And merit lays its plea aside;
There royal story can't avail,
More than the beggar's plaintive tale.
Blest throne, to thee my wants I'll bring,
To thee my pray'r its way shall wing;
To thee when overwhelmed with grief,
My heart shall fly and find relief.

Whom there that bowed with contrite heart,
Did Jesus ever bid depart?
Ah! well I know, the Saviour ne'er
Despised the mourner's humble pray'r;
Ah! well I know, that at his cry
Compassion beams from mercy's eye.

O! blessed Jesus, I would go
Where blessings do so freely flow;
From earthly pleasures I would flee,
To seek my happiness in thee.
Ah! let me to thy mercy cling,
And hide beneath thy shelt'ring wing.

How high or low soe'er I be,
The world may smile or frown on me;
While I am on this earthly place,
I'll bow before the throne of grace.
And when earth's pilgrimage is o'er,
The throne of grace I'll need no more:
Triumphant songs of joy I'll raise,
Where pray'r is lost in endless praise.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 11th ult., by Elder S. Crawford, Mr. John Gensel, of Cumberland county, to Miss Phœbe Ann Gray, of York county.

On the 8th ult., by Elder David Maxwell, Mr. Joseph Wise to Miss Sarah McGuigan, both of Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, Penn'a.

On the 31st of July, by Elder Wm. Mooney, Mr. George Garber to Miss Ruth Ann Hanmans, both of Rapho township, Lancaster county, Pa.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On the 15th ult., in New Cumberland, Cumberland county, Pa., Mary Ann Rife, daughter of John and Mary Rife, aged 6 years, 3 months and 4 days.

Funeral services by J. J. Miller, V. D. M.

On the 19th ult., in New Market, York county, Pa., Catharine Elizabeth, daughter of David and Elizabeth Hickernell, aged 1 year and 2 days.

Funeral services by J. J. Miller, V. D. M.

Departed this life, after a short and severe illness, in Lancaster city, Ann Elizabeth, youngest daughter of David M. and Mary Martin, aged 1 year, 3 months and 21 days.

Her remains were interred in Mount Joy on the 16th ult., at which time and place a discourse was delivered by the writer from 2 Sam. 12: 22, 23, to a respectable assemblage of citizens and relatives of the deceased.

Wm. Mooney.

On the 11th ult., in this place, Sarah Catharine, daughter of brother David and sister Regina Lingle, aged 1 year and 22 days.

Funeral services by Elder G. U. Harn.

As distant lands beyond the sea,
When friends go thence, draw nigh,
So Heaven, when friends have thither gone,
Draws nearer from the sky.

And as those lands the dearer grow,
When friends are long away,
So Heaven itself, though loved ones dead,
Grows dearer day by day.

Heaven is not far from those who see,
With the pure spirit's sight,
But near, and in the very hearts,
Of those who see aright.

Near Siddenstown, York county, Pa., on the 23d of July, 1849, Martha Jane Shaffer, daughter of George and Margaret Shaffer, aged 2 years, 7 months and 2 days.

Funeral services by Elder Simon Flegle, from Matthew 2: 18.

Farewell, sweet babe, thou art gone,
Unto thy long, eternal home,
Where with angels thou dost dwell,
And sweetly sing that all is well.

In Jesus' arms you sweetly sleep,
While in the grave you be so deep;
But in the resurrection morn we'll meet,
In Heaven above at Jesus' feet;

To sing and shout as angels do,
Our harps and songs forever new;
From sins, sorrows and sufferings free,
In time and in eternity.

Departed this life on the 8th of June, 1849, near Highspire, Dauphin county, Pa., Mary Sophia Bamberger, aged 10 years, 3 months and 3 days.

Funeral sermon preached by the writer on the 5th of August, from Ezekiel 24: 16.

This sweet, lovely flower, in the morn of its bloom,
By the strong breath of death has it faded away:
Dear Mary has gone to her long, happy home,
There to reign with her Saviour in an endless day.

Then weep not, dear parents, o'er the grave of your love,
Though great your bereavement may be:
Prepare to meet her in Heaven above,
Where pain, sorrow and death will not be.

A. Snyder.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 62½	a	4 75
Do. Rye, do.	2 75	a	2 75
Do. Corn, do.	2 75	a	2 75
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	95	a	98
Do. Rye, do.	48	a	50
Do. Corn, new do.	55	a	58
Do. Oats, do.	27	a	30
Do. Barley, do.	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do.	3 00	a	3 50
Do. Timothy, do.	3 00	a	3 25
Do. Flax, do.	1 00	a	1 10
BEEF, per cwt.	5 00	a	5 50
PORK, do.	5 00	a	5 25
HAMS, per pound,	10	a	11
BUTTER, do.	12½	a	15
LARD, do.	7	a	8
TALLOW, do.	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen,	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel,	87½	a	87½
ONIONS, do.	75	a	87½
APPLES, do.	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a	1 30
FEATHERS, per pound,	37½	a	45
WOOL, do.	30	a	50
SALT, per sack,	1 20	a	1 20
HAY, per ton,	10 00	a	11 00
PLASTER, per ton,	4 00	a	4 25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$5 00	a	5 12½
Do. Rye, do.	3 20	a	3 25
Do. Corn, do.	3 25	a	3 25
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	1 05	a	1 08
Do. Rye, do.	61	a	61
Do. Corn, new do.	65	a	65
Do. Oats, do.	30	a	31
Do. Barley, do.	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do.	3 00	a	3 50
Do. Timothy, do.	2 75	a	3 00
Do. Flax, do.	1 30	a	1 32
BEEF, per cwt.,	7 00	a	8 75
PORK, do.	7 00	a	7 25

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo decimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner,	$10 00
William Reichert,	5 00
Isaac Miller,	10 00
J. H. Hurley,	5 00
Geo. U. Harn,	5 00
M. F. Snavely,	10 00
Jacob Miller,	10 00
James Miller,	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh,	5 00
Thomas Strohm,	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe,	5 00
Abraham Sherich,	7 50
Abraham Swartz,	5 00
A liberal brother,	20 00
A liberal sister,	2 00

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

Retail prices.

History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles,	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul,	75
Evangelical Music,	75
Treatise on Regeneration,	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament,	37½
Revival Hymn Books,	50
View of the Church, &c.,	37½
Almost Christian, in German,	25
Young Christian's Guide,	25
Harn on Feet-Washing,	25
Lyceum Spelling Book,	15
Traveler's Guide to the West,	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., SEPTEMBER 15, 1849. NUMBER 10.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Kentucky.

The Democrats will have a majority of six in the Kentucky Convention.

Iowa Election.

The Democratic ticket for Congress in this State, has been elected entire.

Alabama Election.

In this State the Whigs have elected two members of Congress, and the Democrats five.

Indiana Legislature.

The next Indiana Legislature will stand as follows:—Senate, Whigs 21, Democrats 29. House, Whigs 42, Democrats 58.

Tennessee Legislature.

The vote of the Legislature of this State will be a tie on joint ballot. The Whigs have a majority of three in the House.

The Pennsylvania Railroad.

This road was regularly opened for travel on Saturday, the 1st inst., and a train of cars now runs daily up and down to Lewistown.

The President's Tour.

President Taylor continues to receive the warmest congratulations of the people throughout his whole progress. His health has greatly improved.

Bamberger's Journal.

This excellent work is now printed and bound, and ready for delivery. We hope the preachers and others will send in their orders, and help to circulate this little book broadcast through the land. Price 50 cents.

Remedy for Diarrhœa.

Dr. Wicke's Cholera medicine, made and for sale at this office, is an excellent remedy for Diarrhœa and Dysentery. If any of our friends are disposed to give it a trial, they can have the medicine on the easy terms of "no cure no pay."

Contagiousness of Cholera.

At the last two meetings of the Academy of Medicine, Paris, nearly all the members, with M. Valpeau, the President, agreed that the cholera was contagious under certain circumstances. The English physicians do not coincide in this opinion.

The Cholera.

This pestilence is abating in all parts of the country, except in a few places. We hear of no extensive ravages in any quarter. In our large cities it seems passing into other kindred diseases, and the mortality from Diarrhœa and Dysentery is alarming.

Woods-meeting.

Providence permitting, a Woods-meeting will be held at or near brother J. Albright's, in Martic township, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Saturday, the 29th inst., in the afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Brothers Jacob Keller, Wm. McFadden and our humble self expect to attend and assist in holding the meeting.

Baptismal Regeneration.

The Court of Arches, in London, Sir Herbert Jenner Fust presiding, has at length decided the question involved in the case of the Rev. Mr. Gorham and the Bishop of Exeter, respecting the teachings of the standards of the Church of England, in relation to the doctrine of Baptismal Regeneration. The decision is, that these standards do teach the doctrine, that children are spiritually regenerated in the act of baptism! The decision will produce a great sensation among Low Churchmen, and, it is believed by some, will rend the Church of England in twain.

Is it not rather queer that diocesan Bishops, the veritable successors of the Apostles, should make their appeal to a Civil Court, to interpret the Prayer Book for the Apostolic Church!—An appeal has been taken from the decision of the Court of Arches, to her Majesty's Privy Council.

Glorious Revival in Ohio.

At Hibbardville, Athens county, Ohio, there is a powerful revival of religion in progress, chiefly under the labors of the Cumberland Presbyterians. Meetings have been kept up almost daily for the last two months. It is supposed between eighty and ninety have felt the pardoning influences of Divine love. The work still appears to be progressing, and it is hoped that many more will be brought to a saving knowledge of the truth.

A New Scourge.

The Washington Republic publishes a letter from Hungary, in which a terrible scourge is said to have seized on the Russian soldiers, known as the "lice pest." The individual is attacked by vermin under the skin, which increases until the whole body becomes one mass of corruption. Hitherto no remedy has been discovered, and the person attacked is considered as doomed; and the letters say, "hundreds have, at their own solicitations, been thrown into the river, to terminate their sufferings."

The Meeting in Fishing Creek.

There was a Woods-meeting held in Fishing Creek Valley, Perry county, near brother Myers' mill, on Saturday, Sunday and Monday last. The meeting was well attended, and the word seemed to have free course.

On Sabbath afternoon there were 4 persons baptized, and truly it was a happy and glorious time. Light seems to be spreading in that valley. At night there was one soul happily converted to God. The preachers present were D. Maxwell, M. M. Utley, J. F. Machlan and ourself. The circuit preachers, as usual on such occasions, were among the non-attendants. Howbeit, they appear to be industrious, and from all accounts are doing well.

The Cholera in Boston.

While this pestilence is abating in other parts of the country, the virulence with which it now rages in Boston and its vicinity, is creating greater alarm than at any previous time. Few whom the epidemic attacks escape becoming victims, and the suddenness with which it destroys life, makes it to be held in the greatest dread. The Boston Evening Times of the 9th inst. says:—"Between eight and nine o'clock yesterday morning, two police officers discovered a man 'sitting bolt upright upon a door-step in Cross street, with eyes set, and body apparently inanimate. On taking hold of the body, it was found to be cold in death!' It was taken to the Watch House, and Dr. Moore opened and examined the body and pronounced it a case of cholera."

It is truly distressing to think of a man thus seized, and changed into a lifeless corpse, in a moment, as it were, in the streets of a city, and while its inhabitants were passing to and fro on their daily business.

Reform Convention.

"The election in Kentucky for the Convention to amend the Constitution, has resulted in favor of the pro-slavery candidates. It is said that they will have a decided majority. It is not believed that a majority of the voters in Kentucky, are in favor of perpetuating slavery—and the result of this election will be regarded as one of the fruits of the continued interference and agitation on the subject in the neighboring States."

So says the Christian Advocate. And truly this is one of the most remarkable elections on record. A majority of the people are in favor of liberty, yet a minority rule in favor of slavery; and slavery in its very worst form. It is not only slavery of those in bonds as property, but it is slavery of those who claim to be free. In Kentucky a man must not think and act for himself, if he thinks and acts in opposition to slavery. Slaveholders put their chains on all who differ from them in opinion, and if they will not carry the chains, proscription and banishment follow.

The Camp-meetings.

The Camp-meetings of this season are now over. There were eight held within the bounds of the East Pennsylvania Eldership; five of them we attended and assisted in holding. The two first, namely, the York County and the Cumberland County meetings, we gave a short account of in the last paper. Brother Machlan also, has given an account of the York County Camp in this paper: and brother J. Haifleigh also gives a very satisfactory account of the Stonerstown Camp. From the rest we have, as yet, no regular accounts for publication. We hope, however, we shall have written reports from all of them before long. We have had verbal accounts from all of them; and, judging from what we have heard, we conclude that much good has been done. There were not as many converts as in former years, yet notwithstanding there must have been, from all accounts, upwards of one hundred in the aggregate. Besides there may be as many more, who were savingly convicted, and may soon be converted. In York county there have been twice as many more converted since the meeting, as were converted at and during the time of the meeting. If the same good results should follow the rest of the meetings, or even but one-half thereof, the fruits, in all, will be glorious.

But if even no more should be converted, as the fruit of the Camp-meetings, still we have a good reward already, in the accessions that have been made to the Church of God, and in the food given to Christ's sheep and lambs. This in itself is no small matter. It is a good thing for Christians to meet once a year, to worship together, and to build each other up, so that they may persevere in well doing. The Jews held three annual feasts at Jerusalem, not to make converts, but to glorify God and promote their own happiness. So likewise ought we to continue and abound in the service of the Lord, whether others turn in and serve him along with us or not. Some brethren do not tent out to Camp-meetings any more, because there are not as many converted as formerly. That excuse may lie against other meetings, as well as Camp-meetings. But who ever thinks of absenting himself from the worship of God, on other occasions, because sinners will not "repent and be converted!" Surely, of all lame excuses this is the worst. But is only a feigned excuse. The real cause is something else. The excuses made vary in different individuals, according to times and circumstances. The main ones are covetousness, the love of ease, and lukewarmness in religion. Where people remain zealous in religion, keep up a working spirit for the good of souls, and above all keep clear from the love of the world, there the Camp-meeting spirit never dies away.

OBITUARY
OF
Bro. ABRAHAM HAMILTON.

Died, at his residence near Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, Pa., on the 2d of September, 1849, brother Abraham Hamilton, aged 39 years, 9 months and 16 days.

Brother Hamilton was a member of the Church of God at Shiremanstown for many years, and one of its brightest ornaments. He was a great friend to the preachers, and his house was a kind of a preacher's home.

He fell sick a few days after the Camp-meeting at Bowman's, and as soon as he took ill, he said he would die, but was ready and willing to depart. He exhorted the brethren who visited him during his sickness to be faithful, to keep together, and to contend for the principles of the Church of God. These principles, he said, he knew were good and well worth contending for.

In the death of brother Hamilton the Church has lost a valuable member, the community an esteemed citizen, and his family a kind protector.

He has left an affectionate wife and several small children, whose irreparable bereavement will, no doubt, be long and deeply felt.

His funeral was very large and solemn. The services were conducted by Elders David Maxwell and W. H. Mullenix. He was buried in Bowman's grave-yard. By his special request, the following hymn was sung at his burial.

Shed not a tear o'er your friend's early bier,
When I am gone—when I am gone—
Smile if the slow tolling bell you should hear,
When I am gone—I am gone.
Weep not for me when you stand round my grave;
Think who has died his beloved to save;
Think of the crown all the ransomed shall have,
When I am gone—I am gone.

Shed not a tear when you stand round my grave,
When I am gone—when I am gone—
Sing a sweet song unto him who doth save,
When I am gone—I am gone.
Sing to the Lamb who on earth once was slain;
Sing to the Lamb who in heaven doth reign;
Sing till the world shall be filled with his name;
When I am gone—I am gone.

Plant ye a tree which may wave over me,
When I am gone—when I am gone—
Sing ye a song if my grave you should see,
When I am gone—I am gone.
Come at the close of a bright summer day;
Come when the sun sheds its last ling'ring ray;
Come and rejoice that I thus passed away,
When I am gone—I am gone.

OBITUARY
OF Brother JACOB MYERS.

Died, at Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, Pa., on the 30th of August, brother Jacob Myers, aged about 40 years.

Brother Myers was a member of the Church of God at Shiremanstown, and lived and died in the hope and faith of the gospel.

In 1843, during the Millerite excitement, brother Myers was carried away with that erroneous and fanatical movement, but on second sober thought, he saw and confessed his error, and returned again to the Church. We hope his example will soon be followed by all those who were led off in like manner, by schismatic teachers, for filthy lucre's sake. The most of those, who are yet worthy of Church membership, have come back to the Church, but there are still a few more worthy ones, who are yet bewildered in error, and wanderers from the fold of God. May the Lord give them repentance to life. They were once happy and useful in the Church, and we can see no cause why they cannot be so again.

The funeral services were conducted by brothers D. Maxwell and Jacob Erb.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Endless Existence.---No. 2.

Again, Destructionists say, that the term perish denotes extinction. Let us hear what the Scriptures say. Read Job 31: 19. "If I have seen any perish for want of clothing, or any poor without covering." Here the Scriptures, according to Annihilationists' doctrine, would teach us that the poor would be put out of existence for want of clothing; but this cannot be. Perish here signifies to die for want of clothing. Again, Isaiah 37: 1. "The righteous perisheth, and no man layeth it to heart: and merciful men are taken away, none considering that the righteous is taken away from the evil to come." Here the righteous are said to perish the same as the wicked. How then can the term perish denote extinction? Again, Daniel 2: 18. "That they would desire mercies of the God of heaven concerning this secret: that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon." Here again Daniel and his fellows are said to be in danger of perishing, and that by the hand of a man. Now, if man could annihilate man, many would be put out of existence. Again, 2 Cor. 4: 16. "For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." Here the Apostle would say, according to Annihilationists' doctrine, that the bodies of the righteous would be put out of existence, while the soul would continue to exist. What! the soul of a man exist, while the body is extinct!

Again, they say that to be driven from the presence of the Lord, is extinction of being. Read Genesis 3: 8. "And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden." Afterwards we read that God called to Adam in a state of existence, and not in a state of non-existence. Again, Genesis 4: 16. "And Cain went out from the presence of the Lord, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden." What! is the land of Nod out of existence? New idea, indeed! Why should man thus trifle with the word of eternal truth?

Again, 1 Kings 9: 7. "Then will I cut off Israel out of the land which I have given them; and this house which I have hallowed for my name, will I cast out of my sight; and Israel shall be a proverb and a by-word among all people." Here, again, this house spoken of is afterwards said to be in existence, which proves that this passage does not signify annihilation. Other passages might be brought forward to prove that the term destroy does not signify extinction of being, but we deem the foregoing sufficient.

Again, they consider the term consume to signify annihilation. But read Deut. 5: 25. "Now therefore why should we die? for this great fire will consume us: if we hear the voice of the Lord any more, then we shall die." Here the people were not afraid of being put out of existence, but of dying. Hence it is said again, (chapter 7: 16,) "And thou shalt consume all the people which the Lord thy God shall deliver thee." Here the work of consuming is put into the hands of men. If men could annihilate one another, the earth would soon get rid of its inhabitants. Again, Psalms 37: 20. "But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall be as the fat of lambs: they shall consume; into smoke shall they consume away." Now, to consume into smoke, is not to put out of existence: though turned into smoke, they are still in existence. Smoke, though it vanishes out of sight, this is no proof that it is out of existence; for the wind we cannot see, still we are sensible that it is in existence. Again, Psalms 119: 139. "My zeal hath consumed me; because mine enemies have forgotten thy words." What! is the Psalmist speaking of a state of non-existence? No. He here is speaking of discouragements, because of the disobedience of others—because they had forgotten the words of the Lord their God. Again, Prov. 5: 11. "And thou mourn at the last, when thy flesh and thy body are consumed." It is an impossibility to mourn after being annihilated.

Again, Isaiah, 64: 7. "And there is none that calleth upon thy name, that stirreth up himself to take hold of thee: for thou hast hid thy face from us, and hast consumed us, because of our iniquities." If consume signifies extinction of being, then these people are in a conscious state surely. Again, Galatians 5: 15. "But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another." This passage throws the power of consuming into the hands of man, which surely is not his prerogative. Again, Ezekiel 43: 8, 9. "In their setting of their threshold by my thresholds, and their post by my posts, and the wall between me and them, they have even defiled my holy name by their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in mine anger. Now, let them put away their whoredom, and the carcasses of their kings, far from me, and I will dwell in the midst of them forever." Now, here the Lord, by the mouth of the Prophet, speaking of this rebellious people, says that he has consumed them, but if they put away their abominations, he will dwell in the midst of them forever. The term consume therefore cannot signify annihilation.

Here I close this brief sketch, considering that the pernicious doctrine of Annihilation has done, and if not withstood, will do immense harm and injury.

I remain, in love and Christian fellowship,
Yours, ISAAC MILLARD.

"He that Believeth and is Baptized, shall be Saved."

"Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things, whatsoever I have commanded you." Now, mark, Christ commands to teach first, and then to baptize. It is said by our opponents that infants make a part of every nation, and therefore ought to be baptized. With the same propriety we might say that Infidels make a part of every nation; but should Infidels be baptized? Assuredly no; because they have not faith, as the gospel requires. Although there are infants in every nation, they make no part of the strength of any nation. Whilst in their infantile state, they are not called on to fight in the defence of the rights of the nation, neither are they admitted into its councils. But Christ's Church is represented as an army with banners. Canticales 6: 10. That army as carrying terror with it. This cannot be said of infants.

But again, how will a preacher of the gospel go about to teach them? What are they capable of being taught? It would look very singular to see a minister address a congregation of infants, with a doctrinal discourse, and make use of all his powers to inform their understandings in the scheme of redemption. Our opponents, it is very likely, will say this matter is not fairly stated. We answer, if it is not, do not blame us; we cannot alter the order of Christ's commission. He saith teach in the first place, and then baptize. As we are not to add nor diminish, we ought not to alter; and if we put baptism before teaching, we are equally as guilty as if we added to or diminished from the word of God. Let us receive Christ's words as he delivered them to us, and follow that order given in his commission, to all his preachers. Why should we undertake to be wiser than He? "He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved." Mark 16: 16. Mark's testimony agrees with Matthew's, in the order of the commission. He says, believe first. Matthew says, teach first. Let us join both passages together, and they will sweetly harmonize. Christ says, "Go and teach, (here is the command,) and he that believes is to be baptized, in the name of the Trinity: and then, according to Christ's word, he is to hope for salvation. This hope is founded on his promises. In all this order we find nothing to support infant baptism, for they are not capable of being taught, neither can they believe, and therefore they ought not to be baptized; and if we do baptize them, we do it without a commission from God. The Apostles acted up to this commission, and therefore, as Peter saith we ought to repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ. Perhaps some one will say, Physician heal thyself. As you have been censuring people for altering the order of words, why do you do it? I answer, this alteration does not destroy the end of Christ's commission, but sweetly coincides with it; and reading it thus, does not alter the Apostle's intent, as the word stands, "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." Acts 2: 38. It shows evidently that the people are to repent before baptism, and that with regard to those who do repent, it is their duty and privilege to be baptized, and on their compliance with the order of Heaven, their sins are to be forgiven. Philip also acts agreeably to this commission in Acts 8: 27. "If thou believest with all thy heart thou mayest:" which strongly implies if thou dost not believe, thou mayest not be baptized. As this expression from Philip to the Eunuch is stated conditionally, it follows of course, that its negative form is proper and correct, as exhibited above, and this reasoning will apply to all propositions of like description. Hence, then, the Eunuch had to make confession and give in to Philip the first article of the Christian faith, viz: that Jesus Christ is the Son of God; and on this Philip baptized him. Here is an example worthy of our imitation, and it ought to influence every gospel preacher, inasmuch as it is agreeable to Christ's commission; Acts 10: 48. In this passage he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Who were they that this command referred to? I answer, such as were under the influence and operation of the Holy Ghost, and who were born again. In the above mentioned texts of Scripture there appears nothing like infant baptism, but on the contrary, they speak loudly for believers' baptism. "And now, why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." Acts 22: 16. The Lord opened the heart of Lydia, so that she attended unto Paul's preaching and was baptized. Acts 16: 14. The Jailor believed and was baptized; and not only himself, but it is said the whole family rejoiced, believing in God. And Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, believed on the Lord with all his house; and many of the Corinthians hearing believed, and were baptized. Acts 18: 8. The household of Stephanas was the first fruits of the gospel in Achaia, and they addicted themselves to the ministry of the saints. 1 Cor. 16: 15. There is, in fact, no account in Scripture of any infant being baptized.

We read of three thousand believed in a day,
And they were baptized without a delay;
The house of the Jailor believed in the night,
And they were baptized before it was light.

St. Paul's great conversion we find in the way,
A light shined around him exceeding the day,
Though he was three days, neither drank nor took meat,
Yet he was baptized before he did eat.

Some call it baptism and think it will stand,
A few drops of water, drop from a man's hand
In the face of the infant that is unconscious,
But we find no Scripture that proves it to us.

There is no being buried with Christ in this case,
For Jordan and Enon was John's chosen place,
Our Lord in Jordan John did him baptize,
And Christ's sweet example we own and do prize.

D. NEIDIGH, Jr.

Reedsburg, Ohio, July 15, 1849.

[To be continued.]

Elder D. Neidigh, Jr.,

Is hereby requested to give us the Post Office address of Mr. John R. Russell in his next letter, and be sure not to omit compliance with our repeated request on this subject, whenever he makes a remittance. How is it that this thing is so often neglected? Editor.

York County Camp-meeting.

Agreeably to former arrangements for the York County Camp-meeting, there were, on Friday, the 10th inst., twenty-five tents struck up, and one on Saturday, making in all twenty-six. The brethren and friends of the cause of God turned out well from all quarters, North and South, East and West.

Brother Crawford preached the opening discourse, from Eccl. 9: 6, with great zeal and much of the spirit of his Master. He was followed with a warm exhortation, by brother Fleagle. On Saturday morning at 7½ o'clock, the tent-holders met at the stand, and appointed three brethren to rule the stand, and twelve to rule the meeting. At 8 o'clock a prayer-meeting was held. At 10 o'clock preaching by brother Oliver—pointed, plain and spirited—from Matt. 12: 6. At 2 o'clock brother Kyle preached from Psalms 63: 3. He spoke with a great deal of zeal and energy. At candle-light brother Keller preached from Acts 2: 37. His sermon was pointed, plain and conclusive, mixed with spirit and faith, After preaching penitents were invited, but the crowd of people was so great, that but few came forward.

On Sabbath morning an experience-meeting was held, when the brethren and sisters began to drink in freely of the spirit. At 10 o'clock brother Winebrenner preached from Luke 10: 42, to as large a concourse of people as I have seen for many years at a Camp-meeting. Brother W. spoke with his old-fashioned, spirited way of preaching, to the satisfaction of a majority of the concourse. At 2 o'clock brother McFadden preached from Matt. 19: 27, with much zeal and spirit, mixed with faith and light. In the evening brother Mullenix spoke from Rom. 9: 24. He was plain and practical. Penitents were invited forward. Several presented themselves, and a few professed to find peace. Meeting was kept up till near day-light on Monday. At 8 o'clock experience-meeting:—quite a good time for God's children. At 10 o'clock brother Winebrenner preached from Rev. 22: 14; and we need only add, with his old-fashioned way of drawing the attention of his audience, by holding forth the word of the Lord in spirit. At 2 o'clock brother Bowser preached from Matt. 5: 6. In a few minutes he was so powerfully blessed that he shouted praises to God, and could not finish his discourse, but left it with the Lord. There was quite a reviving time among the children of God. At candle-light brother Seabrooks preached from Luke 21: 35. He was pointed, plain and practical, and although a young man, yet quite old-fashioned in the way of preaching: after which brother Keller invited the mourners out. A few came forward, and some professed to have obtained peace. On Tuesday at 8 o'clock there was experience-meeting, and a good time. At 10 o'clock brother Maxwell preached from Rom. 6: 23, and used the old sword, to give the old Gallilean gospel, which had its desired effect. At 2 o'clock brother Hurley preached from Sam. 30: 6. His sermon was on the good old gospel plan, plain, pointed and practical. He spoke on baptism; after which a few remarks on the mode were made by brother Keller, when the candidates were invited forward. Afterwards they repaired to the old Yellow-breeches, where brother Fleagle baptized seven believers beneath the yielding waves, an emblem of the Saviour when he lay in the grave. At candle-light brother Harn preached from Exodus 23: 20, with that zeal which becometh God's ministers; after which penitents were invited forward, and a number presented themselves, but only a few returned to give glory to God. The meeting was kept up until near day; and we suppose that between 12 and 20 embraced religion during the progress of the meeting.

On Wednesday morning the horn sounded, and all assembled at the stand, where brother Kister exhorted all to be steadfast, and to prove all things and hold fast that which is good, and especially the young converts.—Afterwards brother McFadden invited forward all who wished to join in church-fellowship, when 27 came forward and gave the right hand of fellowship. A circle was then formed, and the meeting was closed in the usual way. It was a solemn and a feeling time.

J. R. MACHLAN.

N. B.—About one hundred and forty communed in the simple but important ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper.

J. R. M.

York County, Aug. 15, 1849.

Linglestown Camp-meeting.

This meeting commenced on the 3d of September, according to previous appointment. There were not many tents, owing to some brethren who were once very much in favor of Camp-meetings, becoming indifferent, and some few rather turning against them. They plead up for an excuse, that not much good is done at Camp-meetings any more. But what is the reason? Is it not because that Christians do not feel the same interest in those meetings as in former years? Let them examine and see whether the fault does not lie at their own door.

But some of our dear brethren, who had calculated to tent out, were prevented from so doing, by the afflicting hand of Providence. Oh! that God may bless them abundantly, and sanctify their afflictions to their good.

The preachers in attendance were T. Strohm, J. Winebrenner, G. U. Harn, J. H. Hurley, W. G. Coulter, J. Strawbridge, F. Hartman, J. Stomm, and last and least of all, A. Snyder.

The preaching was plain, practical and pointed; and I hope that it may be as bread cast upon the waters, that may be seen many days hence. The congregations were pretty large and attentive. We had no disturbances, until the last evening, when some such characters came in and were present, who would be more fit to be among a herd of swine than in any Christian and decent society.

There were only about six converted, and several followed their Saviour down into the rolling stream and were buried with their living head. O! that they may lead a life of continual devotion to God, and at last be so happy as to shine among the redeemed in heaven.

A. SNYDER.

Linglestown, Sept., 1849.

Stonerstown Camp-meeting.

This meeting was held about half a mile from Stonerstown, Bedford county, Pa. It commenced on Friday, the 24th, and closed on Wednesday morning, the 29th ult.

We had very fine weather during the meeting. By Saturday evening the brethren had all their tents pitched—twenty-five in number. This was the largest encampment that the brethren ever held in this hill country, or one amongst the largest. The ministerial brethren in attendance were brothers E. H. Thomas, G. U. Harn, Wm. H. Mullenix, J. Lininger, D. Kyle and the writer.

The preaching was plain, practical and edifying. Should it be the unhappy lot of any of the dear people who attended this meeting to be lost, after hearing the solemn appeals of God's word, they will have an awful hell to endure.

There were eight or nine converted, three baptized, and the brethren encouraged and built up in the faith of the gospel. It is to be hoped that the good seed sown at this meeting will yet germinate, spring up and bring fruit to the honor and glory of God.

On Tuesday evening we attended to the ordinanees of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper, and God's dear children were abundantly blessed, and realized the precious promise, "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." John 13: 17.

I am certain that we shall never all meet around the table of the Lord in this world, as we did that night. Some of our dear brethren and sisters who met with us on that occasion, will shortly leave for the 'Far West," there to weep, labor, and toil, till the Lord shall say, it is enough, come up higher.

We had very good order during our meeting. This speaks well to the credit of the neighborhood, and we hope the Lord will bless the dear people for the respect which they have shown for the cause and people of God.

J. HAIFLEIGH.

September 1, 1849.

Woods-meeting at Sandy Mount.

Sandy Mount, Carroll Co., Md.,
August 8, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I send you a few lines, to let you and the readers of your valuable paper know the result of our meeting, which we held at this place on the 3d of August. The preaching brethren in attendance were brothers Price, G. U. Harn, and S. Bowser. Brother Harn opened the meeting on Saturday evening, by preaching a very able discourse from 1 Thess. 2: 14. He also preached on Sabbath morning, from Acts 2: 38, to a very large and attentive congregation. Truly we felt that the Master was present and owned his word. We continued our meeting until Wednesday evening. The result was, that one was hopefully converted to God, and a number pricked to the heart, whom we expect to see come out shortly upon the Lord's side. I, for one, have reason to think that ere long God's cause will prosper here. I hope, therefore, that the people of God will unite with us in fervent prayer and supplication to the Great Head of the Church, that he may, in answer thereto, pour out his spirit in this part of his moral vineyard, that we may soon see an ingathering of souls here. Especially I would ask an interest in the prayers of God's people for myself, that I may, by living a holy life, contend earnestly for the gospel, which first sounded out from Jerusalem.

Lines on the convert of our meeting.

And when the mourner rose and said,
That Jesus Christ the debt had paid;
Methinks that angels heard the voice,
And bid this mourner now rejoice.

And now the angels sing a song,'
To God, the Father, and the Son,
That one more sinner now has striven
To enter the fair climes of heaven.

God grant that she may strive and pray,
To travel on the narrow way;
And O! that she may always say,
I'm glad I found this narrow way.

JOHN H. CHEW.

Letters of General Information.—No. 1.

North Bend, Johnson Co., Iowa, August 17, 1849.

"The harvest is past." Cutting of the winter grain commenced about the 2d of July;—right after it, the spring wheat was ripe, and the Oats rather waited on the spring grain. The winter or fall wheat was very good in every respect; which, however, is not common in this country. Spring wheat is not so good as common this season. Oats very fine. Corn, potatoes, and all the crops yet growing, promise abundantly.

Rye does very well though very little is raised. Mr. Daniel Doner, two years ago, sowed two bushels of rye, and from it reaped 72 bushels.

Much of the grain in this country is cut by horse-power; also, grass for hay. Four horses to a reaper, cut as high as 18 to 20 acres per day. Of grass about 10 acres per day. This machine, with care, will make cleaner work than any other that ever I saw. A machine of this kind will cost from $120 to $130.

OSAGE-ORANGE.

This highly useful hedge-thorn is about being extensively cultivated, in nurseries and otherwise. It is, I believe, a native of Mexico or Texas. Its leaf is quite similar to the sweet orange or lemon, having a long sharp thorn at every leaf. In three years it is said to make a hedge sufficient to turn from a Buffalo down to a Hare. Numbers of the farmers of Iowa have planted considerable last spring. I have been told that the nurserymen offer to set one mile for $50, and tend them for three years. If those do well, which I think they will, it will be worth millions to Iowa and Illinois. The leaves, and indeed the whole tree, is so exceedingly bitter that no kind of beast will offer to eat them. If the Lord spares me, and I possibly can, I expect to have some set next spring, or buy a quart of seed, which can be got for $1 00 per quart. Fancy to yourself that in five or six years you are coming out here to the Bend country, to pay me a visit, (if I still live,) and behold, all round my beautiful black farm, stands the beautiful pale-green hedge, all full of yellow oranges! No need of repairing fences continually then.

We have now moved to Johnson county, in what is called North Bend, by reason of a bend northward in the Iowa river. We moved here the last of July, and since that time my boys and myself have earned $20 00 harvesting, and made ten loads of hay in the big meadow,—where $10,000 might be made, and still pasture enough for thousands of thousands of cattle! Cattle here, even milch cows, are sufficiently fat to kill out of pasture! Not like in Pennsylvania slate hills, where the poor cattle must worry themselves all day, and sometimes all night too, to pick enough to keep them alive.

However, after all, not every one will be pleased as I am. Some who came out here last spring are going back again. Why? O! the land is good, and all well enough, but its too new! No good houses and barns, &c., &c. Aye, its not home, that is all. There are some thirty-five farmers now in the Bend settlement, about four miles in length, and three in breadth. All these would fain patronise a Blacksmith, a Wagon-maker, a Shoemaker, a Cabinet-maker, &c., &c. None of these nearer than Iowa City, from seven to ten miles off. There are two school-houses in this settlement. Shortly we expect a Post Office here, and have some prospects of a store. Here live brothers Hawk and Kepford; and brother Samuel Blymesser, formerly from Cumberland county, Pa., near Basehore's, has lately come to our Bend, and bought eighty acres Prairie and some timber land. Brother Henry Bechtel owns forty acres of land, with a house on it, in this settlement, but resides at this time in the city, working at his trade, tailoring.

Brother Lininger, your ten acres of land are ready when you come. Now if any one thinks that nothing good can come out of Iowa, to him I would say, "Come and see." Post Office address, Iowa City. Farewell. More after a while.

M. F. SNAVELY.

Letter from Brother Moses M. Utley.

"Brethren, pray for us."—2 Thess. 3: 1.

This is the language of an eminent minister of the gospel, namely, Paul, the great Apostle of the Gentiles. Prayer, it is said, makes the Christian's armor bright. It is indeed the life of the Christian; for only while we pray, we live. The Apostle felt the importance of prayer, and the prayers of his brethren. Your unworthy servant also feels the need of prayer.

But I understand Paul to request the Church to pray for the ministers. Hence again he says, "Pray for us, that the ministry be not blamed." Young ministers, especially, need the prayers of the Church. But how is it, that instead of the Church praying for them, they discourage them by their words and actions? So it has happened where I travel. However, only on the part of two Churches; and if they had the mind of Christ, they would restore the brother overtaken in a fault, if so they consider him to be. But the members of said Churches that oppose me, have the first time to state their objections to me face to face. However, I intend to do my duty, and leave the result with God. I can pray for those brethren that oppose me, though they will not have me to preach for them. With the exception of these two appointments, I am received very well, and I believe brother W. G. Coulter, the preacher in charge, is also. Pray for us, then, that the ministry be not blamed.

Brother Coulter and myself, with a few other preaching brethren, held a Camp-meeting on this Circuit, as you may see in the Advocate. Some four or five professed religion since the Camp-meeting closed, and there are many yet, that have been operated upon by the spirit and word of truth, who, I hope and pray, may find no rest until they seek and find it by believing in Christ. But I must soon close for the present. Much, then, let me say, may be accomplished by prayer and faith. And I may safely say, that prayer and the assisting grace of God, has made me what I am. I know the time was, that I suffered my light to be almost put out; but, thank God, that time is past, and my prayer is, and shall be, to let the time past suffice to have wrought the will of the gentiles. Pray for me, then, that my faith fail not. Though I travel on foot, yet I feel it my duty to preach the gospel: yea, "wo is me if I preach not the gospel; for necessity is laid upon me." I have a good many appointments, sometimes large congregations, and sometimes small. However, things appear to look up in Perry county. People, generally, behave well at meeting, and give good attention to the word. And now, in conclusion, I ask my brethren in the ministry to pray for me, and also the rulers and lay members of the Church of God.

Yours, in Christ,

MOSES M. UTLEY.

Letter from Bro. D. Wertz, V. D. M.

Woodlands, Va., Aug. 22, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

After forenoon services to-day, I take up my pen to write a few lines for your worthy little Church Advocate. I thank God for his goodness to me; for life, for mercy and blessings. How bountiful have his dealings been in mercy to me. O! may I live and preach his gospel to his glory: do good, save many souls, and at last get a crown of life with all my brethren in the patience and kingdom of our Lord.

I baptized two believers this day in the Ohio river. I preached six times in this section, at this meeting. I thank God that among a dead, lifeless people a work of grace has begun. There is a noble people in this place, but spirituality and Bible religion is almost a stranger. May the Lord bless this lovely people with a shower of his Divine grace. The Lord is at work all over my circuit.—There have been 23 baptisms, and above that number came into fellowship with us. We have opposition, by Priests and higots, and such as love not God, nor obey his Divine authority. But God's people are always forward and ready to do good. I love every good man, as a Christian, not as a Sectarian. I do not care about his place of residence, so he is in the household of faith, a lover of Jesus, of his people, of his law, and his institutions.

When will the time come for all sects to adopt the following ground or platform: "One faith, one Lord, one baptism:" to be all one in Christ Jesus, by giving up human ceremonies and traditions, and doctrines of men, for Divine truth, primitive order and discipline? My prayer is, that grace and truth may do much for us in this place, in the name of a blessed Jesus. My brethren pray for us, and labor faithfully in the gospel field. Let truth have its way, in faith and practice. Never fear to speak what God has authorized and declared; but cry aloud and spare not.

Yours, in truth and friendship,

D. WERTZ.

Letter from Brother N. Worley.

Centreville, Fulton Co., Illinois, August 20, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I take the privilege to write a few lines to you. I am now in the State of Illinois. I formerly lived in Cumberland county, Pa. There my parents were converted and made heirs of salvation. Their house was there open for the people of God, for worship; and whilst the ministers of God were proclaiming his word, conviction struck deep to my heart. In the fall of 1836, my parents moved to Richland county, Ohio. On the evening of the 27th of August, 1837, the Lord spoke peace to my soul, at a Camp-meeting, at Jefferson, in Wayne county, Ohio, held by the Church and the ministry in that section of country. It was a glorious night to my soul. Next day I arose and was baptized. When thinking on the mercies of God in spareing my life and converting my soul, I have been made to sing, and shout, "Bless the Lord!"

My parents died in Ohio. I have since came to Illinois. I sent for the 12th volume of the Advocate. No. 3 I never got.

I think that good can be done in this country for Christ's kingdom. O! that many, who hardly know where to labor, in the East, would come to the West, where the harvest is great and the laborers few. Here the people are very anxious to have preaching, and quite attentive. I think, in some instances, more so than in the East. I have not yet permanently settled myself, as we may term it; but intend to settle where there will be a good chance for good being done. I wish to do all that my means will permit me to do. If any of the ministering brethren come to this part of the country, I hope they will call with us, and they shall be welcome. As I am a stranger to you, (although yon are not altogether to me,) I shall come to a close, hoping the Lord may help us to serve him and obey his holy word. So farewell.

Please send me No. 3 of volume 12, and No. 21 of volume 13, of the Advocate.

Yours, in love,

NATHAN WORLEY.

N. B.—My Post Office address, at present, is Centreville, Cuby Post Office, Fulton county, Illinois.

N. W.

Remarks.—No. 3 of volume 12 has run out; but No. 21 of volume 13 shall be sent. Will brother Worley be so good as to get us some new subscribers in his neighborhood? Terms only $1 00 in advance. Editor.

Letter from Brother Benj. Fritchey.

West Baltimore, Ohio, Aug. 21, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I wish to inform you, by these lines, that we have lately obtained a Post Office in this place, to which you will henceforth direct my paper. If you see any of my relations, yon may inform them of our present address.

We are all in the enjoyment of our usual good health, and still trying to make our way to the land of promise, by the grace of our God. We were on a visit to Union last Sabbath, which is ten miles from here, where brother Eby resides. They were all well. We also heard from Lebrick's in Indiana, by letter. They were enjoying good health at the time. They had the Cholera in the neighborhood, but none in Dublin, where they live. We have had it all around us in every direction, but no actual cases of Cholera nearer to us than ten miles.

It would seem that the people of this State, and the United States, have, on account of their transgressions, incurred the displeasure of Divine Providence. This we have reason to believe from his having sent this desolating scourge through nearly every principal town, and also through many parts of the country, of this and other States.

Our wheat crops have been cut short, almost throughout the whole State, by mill-dew, and in some places by the blast. But we have still enough, perhaps, to answer the wants of our citizens; there being still a considerable quantity of old wheat. Of Corn and Rye, and all other grain, there will be a usual crop.—The health of our section of country has been good all along. Perhaps this may be ascribed to the unusual quantity of rain that has fallen. For about six weeks past, it has been too wet for farmers to plough, only where the land is elevated. I must now close my hasty scroll, with my best wishes for yourself and family, and beg an interest in your prayers.

BENJ. FRITCHEY.

OBITUARY OF SOPHIA SHAFFER.

Died, near Siddonstown, York county, Pa., Sophia Shaffer, daughter of James and Martha Shaffer, who was born July 17th, 1828, and departed this life August 30th, 1849, aged 21 years, 1 month and 13 days.

Her afflictions were of nine days' duration, and very severe indeed. She died of an inflamation on the lungs, caused by a severe fever. She had professed religion some years ago, and was baptized; but, like many others, had gone back into the beggarly elements of this world. But a few days after she took her bed, she gave her heart to God once more, and found a glorious peace to her soul, which caused her to be inexpressibly happy during all the time she had yet to live, She called her friends up to her dying bed, and exhorted them to get religion, and many of them have promised to do so and meet her in heaven. I do hope and trust in God they will not forget their promise to such a dear dying sister as she was. Oh! who can forget such a heavenly exhortation as rolled from her smiling lips? Who can forget the dying words of our afflicted friends! She was weak in body towards her end, but she could yet praise her Redeemer aloud, by singing hallelujah and glory to God! And thus she died happy in the Lord, crossing the cold stream of death without fear of its terrors, being assured that she was exchanging a sickly and sinful world for the kingdom of immortal bliss. We were all sorry to give her up in the bloom and morning of life, but our loss, we are certain, is her everlasting gain. We hope one day to go and see her in our Father's kingdom, where we shall part no more. Her mortal remains were buried in Filey's grave-yard, at the brick meeting-house, and a sermon preached by Elder John A. Plowman, from Jeremiah 15: 9; "She hath borne seven languisheth: she hath given up the ghost; her sun is gone down while it is yet day." Brother Plowman was followed in exhortation by Elder James Machlan, and conclusive prayer by Elder Simon Fleagle. A large concourse of people attended on this occasion, and many more would have been in attendance, had it not been for the inclemency of the weather. May the Lord sanctify this affliction to our good, and the community at large. We are certain the Lord has spoken very loudly and forcibly to the minds of the people of this neighborhood, through this dispensation of his Divine Providence. Farewell.

GEORGE D. SHAFFER.

Farewell, dear sister in the Lord,
You're gone from us below;
Death hath broke that silver cord,
That made us love each other so.

But still your dying face we see—
By faith we still remember well,
How dear your life to us could be,
Before it to death a victim fell.

Your smiles and exhortations, dear,
To us with power and spirit come;
Oh! may we, as father and mother near,
Our dear Sophia meet at home.

Your brothers and lonesome sister too,
Will soon be carried beside your grave,
And bid all earthly friends adieu,
And soar away to meet you, dear.

Your dying graces we'll never forget,
Nor pain nor anguish which you felt—
Your prayers are on our memory left,
Your smiles and looks still make us blessed.

But, my sister, a long adieu,—
You're gone, and I must part with you.
Ere long I hope we shall meet,
And shout and sing at Jesus' feet.

There may father and mother dear,
Their seven childern meet and see:
Brothers and sister, all so near,
May meet and greet a sister dear.

John A. Plowman.

Revival in Siddonstown.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

This is also to inform you that there is a revival of religion going on at this place. Thirty-six souls have already been converted. May the Lord continue to work. Amen!

J. A. P.

OBITUARY OF Brother HENRY W. COBLE.

Departed this life, on Thursday evening, August 23, 1849, at the residence of A. H. Shott, in Portsmouth, Dauphin county, Pa., Henry W. Coble, of Elizabethtown, aged 22 years, 3 months and 6 days.

How true it is, that "in the midst of life we are in death!" How very mysterious and inexplicable are the Providences of God! But while we mourn his loss, and look in vain to fill his place in the social circle, we cannot but bow in submission to the will of Heaven, and kiss the rod that chastiseth, being assured that whatsoever the Lord doeth is right.

In early life, Henry was surrounded with a halo of religious influence, which won upon his youthful heart, and at the early age of fourteen years, he consecrated himself to the Lord, and rejoiced in the knowledge of salvation, through faith in Christ. He soon after united with the "Church of God" at Elizabethtown, of which he continued a worthy member to his death. Not unlike many others, however, the blandishments of life and the various influences that beset a young man, had the effect of partially leading his mind away from the ardent warmth and fervor of practical religion, yet he retained the principle of piety in his heart; which developed itself in that purity of morals, honesty and integrity of character which were eminently his, and which endeared him to all who knew him.

The writer deems it but an act of justice to say, that in his illness, his brother Odd-Fellows were constant in their attention and efforts to minister to his comfort. Nor were his Christian brethren, in the church, unmindful of him.

In the early stage of his illness, he acknowledged he had been too negligent of his better interests; but felt a confidence, nevertheless, that he would be saved through Jesus Christ. Therefore,

Why should we mourn departed friends,
Or shake at death's alarms,
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends,
To call them to his arms.

A. H. S.

The following is from Dr. Geo. Ross, touching the lamented youth noticed in the above obituary.

Died, at Middletown, Dauphin county, Pa., on the 23d of August, 1849, Henry W. Coble, in the 23d year of his age.

In the bloom of youth, at the age of 14 years, the deceased embraced experimental religion, and frequently spoke of his certain knowledge that his sins were pardoned, through faith in Christ's atonement. He united with the Church of God, at Elizabethtown, in 1841. He was baptized on Easter-Sunday, 1843.—His conduct through life was modest, unassuming, obliging, and pious.

Here we have another demonstration of the sad truth, that "in the midst of life, we are in death." A few weeks ago we saw the deceased buoyant with life's brightest hopes; the future seemed opening to him under the most favorable auspices—but disease seized upon him, and death blasted all his earthly prospects.

Death is always unwelcome, but doubly so is the death of the young, the promising, the beloved. in the midst of this affliction, a glorious hope fills the soul with joy; he lived and died a Christian. Brother Coble has gone from earth, and we must soon follow. Shall our death be lamented? It will depend on our conduct in life. If we live piously, we shall be happy here and hereafter. For let it be distinctly understood, that religion, and religion alone, makes men and women truly amiable.

G. R.

Elizabethtown, Sept. 3, 1849.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Black Lead.—The lead from which pencil points are made, comes from the principal plumbago mine in the world, at Borrowdale, Cumberland, England. It is situated in a hill, and instead of being worked constantly, like other mines, it is opened only once a year, when a sufficient quantity is taken to supply the world for a year to come, and it is again closed with strong doors, bars and locks, until the next annual supply is required. From the time of Queen Elizabeth, it is said all the fine pencils in the world have been made of the black lead from this mine.

Factories in Alabama.—A writer in the West Alabamian, states the paper factory, at Tuscaloosa, is now doing tolerably well, making good work in manufacturing wrapping paper principally, and some good printing paper. The cotton factory at the same place, he says, is doing as well as any mill in the United States, for the quantity of machinery in operation. They are running 1536 spindles, forty looms, and make per day 2800 yards of coarse heavy osnaburgs, thirty inches wide, and weighing eight ounces per yard. This is an average of seventy yards for each loom.

Emigration.—The number of emigrants who arrived at the port of New York by sea, during the months of June and July of the present year, was 59,176, against 47,669 last year; an increase of 11,507 in two months.

The License Law in New Hampshire.—At its recent session, the Legislature of this State enacted the following law. If properly enforced, its effects will be salutary.

An Act in amendment of Chapter 117 of the Revised Statutes.

§ 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, that the selectmen of the respective towns, shall license one or more suitable persons to sell wines and spirituous liquors, for medicinal, mechanical, and chemical purposes, and for no other use or purpose.

§ 2. If any person, not licensed as aforesaid, shall sell any wines or spirituons liquors, mixed or unmixed, he shall be subject to all the penalties provided in the existing laws.

§ 3. All licenses granted under this Act shall be recorded, and may be revoked in the same manner as provided in regard to licensed taverners.

§ 4. The Town Clerk shall be entitled to a fee of 20 cents for recording each license.

§ 5. The fifth section of the Act of which this is an amendment, and such parts of the sixth section as are inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, are hereby repealed.

§ 6. This Act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved July 6, 1849.

Paper Folding Machine.—We have seen the model of a machine intended for paper folding, which, from the simplicity of its construction, and the saving of time and labor that must result from its adoption, is deserving of attention. Mr. C. R. Smith, of Springfield, Mass., is the originator, and his application for a patent is now before the authorities at Washington. The sheets are received from the press on a horizontal board, and, after the turning of the main wheels, are thrown off in the desired form. The machine is designed to be as applicable to the sheets of a book as to newspapers, the particular size being governed by similar wheels which act upon the folders. About a hundred sheets can be thrown off in a minute.—Jour. of Com.

Poison of Rusted Wheat.—It is stated that in some portions of the State people have been made sick and hogs died of eating the wheat of the season which has been shrunk by the rust. This is not incredible. It is, we believe settled, that the disease in wheat known as rust is occasioned by its being attacked, in a certain stage of its growth, by a parasitic plant of the fungus species.—Ohio State Journal.

First Towns in America.—It will seem curious to those who are not aware of the fact, that the first towns built by Europeans upon the American continent, were St. Augustine, in East Florida, and Santa Fe, the capital of New Mexico.

Are Ripe Fruits Healthy in Cholera?—A distinguished physician in Boston, who was asked this question, replied that he would almost as soon raise the question, is bread safe during the cholera? Fruits, next to bread, are the great staple in human diet. Of this there can be no reasonable doubt. They not only may be eaten freely, when in a perfect state, but should be. Used in proper manner, not only generally, but even in a time of cholera, they are not merely innocuous, they are positively and greatly useful. They prevent diseases. He thinks however, that they should be regarded always as food and eaten as such. They should make a part of our meals, not an addition to them. Certain parts of many of our fruits should be rejected with care. Thus in eating the grape we should reject the husk and seeds; in eating the cherry, the stone or kernel.

Suspension Bridge at Wheeling.—The splendid new suspension wire footway, erected across the Ohio, at this place, by Mr. Ellet, projector of the wire suspension bridge across the Niagara, is now complete, and the first experiment in crossing it was made this morning. The span, from bank to bank, is one thousand and ten feet, the largest in the world. It is a decidedly beautiful structure, and, in all its parts, fully meets the most sanguine expectations. It is the desire of Mr. E. to erect a large suspension bridge, alongside of this footway, for the use of the railroad company, over which the cars, locomotives, &c., are to pass.—Balt. American, Aug. 9.

The Iron Business in Butler County, Pa.—We learn from the Butler Whig that there are already five furnaces in blast in that county, yielding an annual aggregate of five thousand tons of pig iron. "Butler county," says the Whig, "abounds in iron ore of the richest quality—timber is almost inexhaustible, and limestone and coal are so abundant that a century hence will probably witness no sensible diminution in the quantity. It is only within a few years that these vast beds of mineral riches have been known to exist in Butler county, and even now they have only been partially developed."

Revival of Religion.—The Louisville Herald says, there is an unusually interesting revival in progress in New Philadelphia, Ia., under the pastoral care of Rev. E. K. Lynn, in the progress of which twenty-six persons have been admitted to the church. Seven husbands with their wives were among the converts.

Land Warrants.—Ninety thousand land warrants have been issued to soldiers who served in the Mexican war, giving away to them as a bounty, 13,800,000 acres. Estimating the value of this land at $1,25 an acre, we have an aggregate of $17,-230,000.

Alarming Depression of Trade.—Fourteen hundred tailors are now in London totally unemployed, and hundreds daily applying for relief to the general fund; the funds are, however, exhausted. Nine hundred shoemakers out of work, have their names on the books, and seventeen hundred are working for half wages. The curriers and leather dressers are in the same situation. There were never known so many working jewellers out of employ, and meetings of the trade are now holding to petition Parliament for protection against the competition of foreign labor.—Morning Star.

Sickness in Ohio.—The Cleaveland Herald gives the following summary account of the prevalence of cholera and other diseases in Ohio:—"For years, sickness has not been so general and so severe in the towns of Ohio, as at this time. In addition to the fearful mortality at Sandusky, and recently at Cincinnati, the large and small towns in the western half of the State have been much afflicted. The towns in the neighborhood of Cincinnati have generally been visited with cholera, and in some of them the mortality has been great."

A Great Yield of Potatoes.—We are informed that Mr. Moses R. McGarrity, of West Hoboken, an enterprising farmer of New Jersey, has entered his field of potatoes for the first premium of the American Institute. The potatoes, we learn, are from seedlings of Mercers, of the second years' growth; are of a superior quality, oval in shape; white, with a dash of red at the ends: estimates the crop at more than 600 bushels to the acre. A committee from the board of agriculture will visit his farm in a few days.—N. Y. Com.

The Wheat Crop.—The Ohio Cultivator winds up an article on the wheat crop with: "From all that we can gather, therefore, we set it down as our opinion, that the wheat crop is not over one-third of a full average yield. This will be only about enough for home consumption and for seed."

Good News.—The Rev. Baptist W. Noel has openly avowed an attachment to Baptist principles, has been baptized, and become the minister of a congregation in Gray's Inn Road, London. We learn also from good authority, that a work on baptism will shortly appear from his pen.

Maine Homestead Exemption Bill.—The Maine Legislature adjourned a short time ago, after a session of three months, during which the "homestead exemption" was passed, exempting property to the value of five hundred dollars from execution.

☞ The office of sheriff of the city of New York is said by the Herald to be worth the clear sum of $46,000 per annum.

New York Canal Tolls.—The tolls on all the New York State canals during the second week of last month, amounted to $66,422 07; during the corresponding period last year, $70,805. Decrease in '49, $3,883. The aggregate of tolls from the commencement of navigation to the 14th ult., inclusive, was $1,463,488 93. Increase in favor of this year, $11,475 21.

Hotel For San Francisco.—The N. O Picayune says that the frame work of a magnificent hotel, to be erected in San Francisco, is now under construction in that city, which will be sent forward as soon as completed. It is said to have 100 feet front by 75 feet deep, and the fittings are to be in the most superb style.

Father Matthew.—This eminent apostle of Temperance still numbers his converts by hundreds. His health improves, and he can now speak with frequency. He proposes to proceed from Boston to Albany, thence to New York city, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. He will spend the winter at the South and West.

Egypt—Death of Mehemit Ali.—The London Times announces the death of Mehemit Ali, which event took place on the 2d of August, at Alexandria. His body was interred on the 4th, in the new alabaster mosque, built by himself in the citadel.

Kentucky Elections.—The Frankfort Commonwealth of the 21st ult., gives lists, official and reported, of the delegates and representatives elected to the convention and the legislature, The Whigs will still have a majority of 4—52 Whigs and 48 Democrats.

Coinage for July.—The coinage at the United States Mint in Philadelphia during the month of July last, was as follows:—Gold coinage $1,098,600, silver $28,000; making a total of $1,126,690.

Kentucky.—The friends of Emancipation in Kentucky have failed to elect a majority in the Convention, which is soon to meet to amend the State Constitution. They do not despair, however, of ultimate success.

Reverse of Fortune.—Of all the members of the French Provisional Government of 1848, Lamartine and Cremieux alone are now in the Assembly. All the others are in disgrace or exile.

Tennessee.—All the counties are heard from, and Trousdale's (dem.) majority for Goveror, is 1,517. The official vote may differ from this one or two hundred either way.

Quick Travelling.—Mr. Fuller of the Milwaukie Sentinel, lately made the trip from Milwaukie to the city of New York in sixty-two hours and a half, running time. The distance is about 1100 miles.

German Immigrants.—A writer in the Journal of Commerce estimates seventy-five thousand Germans will arrive at New York alone this year, and that on an average, each person will bring forty dollars in coin—making an aggregate of three millions of dollars!

☞ There are over a thousand princes in Germany, great and small, who receive annually from the people over two hundred millions of dollars; while a laborer works eighteen hours out of 24 for 72 cents per week. Yet it is called by some "red republicanism," to attempt to right this montrous wrong. Germany cannot have liberty nor prosperity while one of these royal drones remains in power.

☞ Frederick Smith, indicted for the murder of Frederick Foster, was tried in the Quarter Sessions of Adams county, before Judge Durkee. The jury returned a verdict of guilty of muder in the first degree! A motion for a new trial was filed by the counsel for the prisoner.

☞ The plans for the Astor Library, says the New York Literary World, are nearly completed; ground will be broken immediately, and the foundation laid the present season. The collection of books already made is about twenty thousand.

☞ Samuel V. Merrick, Esq., resigned the Presidency of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Wm. C. Patterson, Esq., has been elected to fill the vacancy. The new President is brother of General Robert Patterson.

☞ Messrs. Longenecker, Grubb & Co., of Lancaster, have established a Banking House at Lewistown, which has been placed under the charge of Mr. Russell, late teller of the Lancaster Bank.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEWSPAPERS.

A good religious paper ought to have a place in every family in the land. Many parents who would be very careless about reading will thereby form a taste for reading; besides that, the mind is always seeking after something new, especially of the young. There being something new in every week's paper, the children therefore will be anxious also, to read the news, and will thereby acquire a taste for reading. And though they may go to school, the reading of newspapers will greatly facilitate their studies, from the fact that they will have a relish for them. But should not the parents be very careful what kind of papers they introduce into the family? Most certainly, for just as the twig is bent the tree is inclined: and impressions made on the young mind will last while memory lasts. O, think of this parents. You especially who turn a good religious paper out of doors, and receive in its place a political or corrupt paper,—filled with political falsehoods, and romance, novels and sickning love tales.—Rel. Telescope.

FACTS FOR MECHANICS.

St. Paul was a mechanic; a tent-maker. Our Saviour was a mechanic; a carpenter. The great Architect of the universe, in the mechanism of the heavens and earth, with its productions, animate and inanimate, displays a power and skill which human hands and human wisdom may attempt to imitate, but which they can never equal or approach.

Next to farmers, mechanics are the most numerous and the most important class of the community. Whatever promotes their interests, of course promotes the interests of the public. They, like farmers, have great facilities and great inducements to become men of science and sound knowledge. Every mechanic, in every operation, brings into use some principle of science; which principle it is, of course, has interest and his convenience to understand.

Every apprentice boy, no matter how assiduous or how rigorous his employment, if he spends a few minutes daily in useful reading and other modes of improvement, is certain to be a man of future influence and respectability. That apprentice who seeks most assiduusly the interests of his employer, promotes most effectually his own interests; as character is the best capital a young man can have for the commencement of business.

Mechanics, like farmers, make safe and enlightened statesmen. They are well educated for legislators, and for other offices, because educated in schools of experience. Who can be better qualified to make laws for aiding the operations of business than those engaged in these operations?

In 1826, a few farmers and mechanics in a small village in Massachusetts organized a society entitled the "Millbury Branch of the American Lyceum;" its object the mutual improvement of its members and the "diffusion of knowledge over the globe."—From that humble, but dignified and republican origin, has arisen the general institution of lyceums now in operation in almost every section of both continents, and in many of the Islands of the Atlantic and Pacific.

It is evident that if farmers and mechanics through the country generally, should enlist in earnest in the great work of self-education, they might reform and perpetuate our republican institutions, and hand down pure Christian republicanism to posterity. Without that step, it is equally evident that, though the American republic may retain its name, republicanism, especially in America, will soon be known only among the things that were.

WANT OF EARNESTNESS IN MINISTERS.

If ministers were set upon the work of the Lord, it would be done more vigorously than it is. How few ministers preach with all their might; or speak about everlasting joy or torment in such a manner as may make men believe that they are in good earnest. It is enough to make a man's heart ache to see a company of dead and drowsy sinners sit under a minister, and not have a word that is likely to quicken or awaken them; to think with ourselves, "If these sinners were but convinced and awakened, they might be converted and live." And, alas, we speak in such a smooth and careless manner, that sleepy sinners cannot hear; the blow falls so light, that hard-hearted persons cannot feel it! Most ministers will not so much as put out their voice, and stir themselves up to an earnest utteranee. But if they do speak loud and earnestly, how few answer it with earnestness of matter; and then the voice does but little good: the people will take it but as mere brawling, when the matter does not correspond. It would grieve one to hear what excellent doctrines some ministers have in hand, and let them die in their hands for want of close and lively application. What fit matter they have for convincing sinners, and how little they make of it; and what a deal of good it might do if it were sent home, and yet they cannot or will not do it! O, sirs, how plainly, how closely, and how earnestly should we deliver a message of such vast importance as ours; in which the everlasting life or death of men is concerned! Methinks we are nowhere so wanting as in this seriousness. There is nothing more unsuitable to such a business than superficiality and dullness. What! speak coldly for God, and for men's salvation! Can we believe that our people must be converted or condemned, and yet speak in a drowsy tone?

In the name of God, brethren, labor to awaken your hearers before you come, and when you are in the work that you may be fit to awaken the hearts of sinners!—Remember that they must be awakened or damned; and a sleepy preacher will hardly awaken them. If you give the holy things of God the highest praise in words, and yet do it coldly, you will in the manner unsay what you said in the matter. It is a kind of contempt of great things, especially things so great, to speak of them without great affection and fervency: the manner as well as the words must set them forth. If we are commanded whatever our hands find to do, to do it with all our might; then certainly such a work as preaching for men's salvation should be done with all our might. But, alas, how few, how scarce are such men: here one, and there one, even among good ministers, that have an earnest, persuading, working way; so that the people can feel him preach when they hear him.—Baxter.

POLITENESS AT HOME.

Always speak with the utmost politeness and deference to your parents and friends. Some children are polite and civil everywhere else, except at home; but there, they are coarse and rude enough. Shameful!

Nothing sits so gracefully upon children, and nothing makes them so lovely, as habitual respect and dutiful deportment towards their parents and superiors. It makes the plainest face beautiful, and gives to every common action a nameless but peculiar charm.

"My son, hear the instruetion of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother, for they shall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck."—Prov. 1: 8, 9.

FACTS FOR REFLECTION.

"1. Every one of the nations, now or recently the seat of anarchy in Europe, has had an established church. 2. In all these countries there are very few dissenters, and if the comparison proves anything, it proves that England, where there are tens of thousands of dissenters, is not the worse for their presence, and is probably a great deal better than she would be without them. They are, in fact, the peace-preservers of the land. 3. England is what she is, not because of her establishment, but in spite of it."

IMPROVED LOOM FOR WEAVING CARPETS AND OTHER FIGURED FABRICS.

Mr. James McKenzie, a loom builder by profession, residing at present in Schenectady, New York, has made some important and novel improvements on the Carpet Loom, a model of which we have seen and examined. The improvements consist, 1st, in a new mode of arranging and operating the shuttle boxes. 2d. A new match motion, or way, graduating the let-off speed of the warp beam and the take-up speed of the cloth beam. 3d. A new stop motion. The shuttle boxes are what the inventor terms the quadrant box. They are different in form and motion from both the sliding and rotary boxes now in use. They are quarto rotative, and are shifted by a back spring at any point desired, for they can be set for this purpose. This operation is certainly novel to us and very simple. We should like to see it have a fair trial. The match motion is not easily explained. It is well known how complicated the common plans are to accomplish this object. His is not complex. The principle of it consists in having a guide apron or rest pressing by a spring against the warp and against the cloth beams, and according as there is more or less yarn on the one beam, and cloth on the other, to require a corresponding increase of surface motion on the warp beam and a decrease on the web beam, a blade from the lathe at every stroke, is so guided by the guards or rests on the warp and web beams, as to move a ratchet lever the exact distance required in gathering round the teeth of beams to graduate the let-off and take-up in unison.

The stop motion is a double finger one, very different, we believe, from any in use, which when the thread breaks, at once detaches a crank lever, which throws the driving belt at once on the loose pulley and most effectually prevents all breakage. The improvements on these looms are simplicity. One can be built for $500, as good perhaps as some that cost $1000. The inventor has taken measures to secure a patent and is prepared to manufacture the looms and make contracts with those who may desire to enter into engagements with him. Address post paid, to Schenectady, New York, where the inventor is at present residing.—Scientific Amer.

PETER MILLER'S WILL.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has confirmed the decision of Judge Jones, setting aside the will of the late Peter Miller. By this decision, some of the most valuable property in the borough of Easton, and some of the finest farms in that rich agricultural region, will fall into the hands of Peter Miller's nephew, who is a sensible, industrious man, and at present in moderate circumstances. The whole estate is estimated at $350,000.—The part of the will bequeathing legacies to several individuals, and $10,000 in equal shares to the Lutheran and German Reformed benevolent societies, the interest of which is to be expended in the purchase of fuel clothing, &c., for the poor of Easton, will be faithfully carried out.

DAYS OF GRACE.

The Supreme Court of Albany has just decided that sight drafts and bills are entitled to days of grace, just as any other draft or negotiable paper.—Albany Journal.

USEFUL RECIPES.

CAMPHINE FOR POLRSHING.—Ladies are very fond of keeping the door knobs, spoons, plates, &c., in brilliant order.—Now, if instead of water and chalk, and such preparations, ladies will use camphine and rotten stone, a far brighter, quicker, and more durable polish can be obtained than in any other way. Camphine is the article used for producing the exquisite polish on Daguerreotype plates, and nothing has yet been found to equal it. So says an exchange, and it is worthy of trial.

TO KEEP A STOVE BRIGHT BY TWO APPLICATIONS A YEAR.—Make a weak alum-water, and mix your British lustre with it, perhaps two teaspoonsfull to a gill of alum-water; let the stove be cold, brush it with the mixture, then take a dry brush and rub the stove till it is perfectly dry. Should any part, before polishing, become so dry as to look gray, moisten it with a wet brush and proceed as before.

ORDER AT HOME.

One great source of evil to children is the differences between their fathers and mothers concerning their faults, and the quarrels of which they are sometimes witnesses. Children cannot honor their parents when they see them quarrel; and if, when the father corrects, the mother will fondle the child, or the reverse, the child will have his way, and will be sure to repeat his fault. Many a child's soul will rise up in judgment against its parent on this account. Wherever there is a difference, God has given the authority to the husband, and the wife must not let the child see her oppose that authority. All differences must be privately settled.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Woods-meeting.

A Woods-meeting will be held near John R. Machlan's, in Warrenton township, York county, commencing on Friday evening, the 21st of September.

The brethren and the public generally are invited to attend.

Protracted Meetings.

1. One at Matamoras, Paul's Valley, to commence on Friday, the 21st of September; and

2. One at Millerstown, Lebanon county, to commence on Friday, the 5th of October.

T. STROHM,
A. SNYDER.

West Pennsylvania Eldership.

This body will hold its next annual meeting with the Church of God near the mouth of Big Fish Creek, Marshall county, Virginia, commencing on the 24th day of October next.

It will be remembered that business will commence at 10 o'clock, A. M. It is hoped there will be a general turn out by the preachers. Those who may wish to go by water from Pitusburg or Athens county, will land at Smith's Landing, near the mouth of Big Fish Creek.

East Pennsylvania Eldership.

The East Pennsylvania Eldership will be held, Deo Volente, at Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Wednesday, the 31st day of October next.

The opening sermon will be preached by Elder David Maxwell, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

Ohio Eldership.

This body will meet, God willing, at Madisonville, on Monday, the 15th of October next.

POETRY.

SMILES.

WM. N. H——R.

I have seen the smiles of infant years,
The laughing smile of youthful glee;
While yet their cheeks were bathed in tears,
Exult in infant jolity.

I have seen the schoool-boy's joyful smile,
As with a bound he skipped away;
Glad he was free from books a while,
Allowed to spend a holy-day.

I have seen a smile light up the brow
Of manhood, as the world he scanned;
With dreams of fame and glory, now
His future operations planned.

I have seen a smile light up the face
Of maidens, when, with joyous pride,
They can their warm affections trace,
To that fair form just by their side.

I have seen a smile on mother's lips,
When gazing on her lovely child,
As o'er the floor he proudly skips,
With joyous notes and gestures wild.

I have seen a smile on Christian's face,
More mild and cheerful than they all;
Methinks I there could clearly trace
A safe deliverance from the "fall."

I have seen a smile illume the face,
'Twas not of revelry or mirth;
But a soul triumphant through His grace,
To gain a heaven beyond the earth.

Now, see the Christian on the verge,
Just ready to be launched away;
The next proud surge will him emerge,
To realms of endless day.

While standing on the verge of time,
Then, with ecstatic rapture, see,
Their hopes of that delightful clime,
With smiles they join eternity.

East Sharpsburg, Pa., July 27, 1849.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 2d inst., by J. J. Miller, V. D. M., Mr. JOHN A. HOPKINS to Miss RACHAEL ROSEBAUM, both of Harrisburg, Dauphin county, Penn'a.

On the 11th inst., by the same, Mr. ANDREW WOONS, of Dauphin county, to Miss FRANCES COWENS, of Perry county, Pa.

On the 16th ult., by Elder J. Haifleigh, Mr. DANIEL SHAUNTZ to Miss RACHAEL BAKER, both of Newburg, Huntingdon county, Pa.

On the 7th ult., by Elder C. Price, Elder EMANUEL LOGUE to Miss CATHARINE FETTERLING, both of Frederick county, Md.

On the 24th ult., by the Rev. J. F. Mesick, Mr. HENRY SPAHR to Miss CATHARINE DILLER, both of Churchtown, Cumberland county, Pa.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—Near Harrisburg, on Saturday, the 18th ult., MARY A. FULTON, wife of Richard Fulton, in the 36th year of her age.

On Saturday, the 25th ult., at his residence in York, Pa., Rev, Dr. LEWIS MAYER, late Professor of the German Reformed Theological Seminary.

In Philadelphia, on the 17th ult., after a short illness, Mrs. MARY ANN FRANKEM, wife of Mr. Joseph Frankem, formerly of Harrisburg, in the 31st year of her age.

Departed this life, on the 1st inst., in Highspire, Dauphin county, Mr. PETER WOLFE, aged 42 years, 4 months and 14 days.

In this borough, on Wednesday, the 22d ult., REBECCA, only daughter of John and Ellen Smith, aged 8 years, 7 months and 7 days.

On the 28th ult., after a short illness, Mrs. MARY CARSON, aged 66 years.

On the 16th ult., at Windham, N. H., Mr. WILLIAM M. BURKE, son of Michael Burke, of this borough, in the 24th year of his age.

In this borough, on the 31st ult., FREDERICK, son of Rudolph F. and Mary A. Kelker, aged 4 years, 11 months and 23 days.

On the 5th ult., in this borough, JACOB M. AWL, in the 57th year of his age.

On Wednesday, the 15th of August, at Landisville, Pa., ALBERT SHELLY LANDIS, son of John C. and Fanny S. Landis, aged 1 year, 11 months and 26 days.

At Mechanicsburg, on Friday, the 7th inst., HENRY KIMMEL, aged about 48 years.

He has left a wife and two children to bemoan his sudden and melancholy departure.

On the 31st ult., near Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, Pa., SUSANNAH STONER, aged 1 year, 7 months and 29 days.

On the 1st inst., SAMUEL STONER, aged 4 years, 5 months and 15 days.

These children were cut off by Dysentery, and were both buried in one grave. Funeral services conducted by D. Maxwell and Geo. Rupp.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4 56	a 4	62½
Do.	RYE,	do. - -	2 75	a 2	75
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	2 75	a 2	75
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,			95	a	96
Do.	RYE,	do. - -	60	a	62½
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -	55	a	58
Do.	OATS,	do. - -	30	a	31
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	3 00	a 3	50
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	3 00	a 3	25
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt.		- - - -	5 00	a 5	50
PORK,	do.	- - - - -	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound,		- - -	10	a	11
BUTTER,	do.	- - - -	12½	a	15
LARD,	do.	- - - -	7	a	8
TALLOW,	do.	- - - -	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.			6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen,		- - - -	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel,		- -	87½	a 1	00
ONIONS,	do.	- - -	75	a	87½
APPLES,	do.	- - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.			1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound,		- -	37½	a	45
WOOL,	do.	- - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack,		- - - -	1 15	a 1	16
HAY, per ton,		- - - - -	10 00	a 11	00
PLASTER, per ton.		- - -	4 00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$5 00	a 5	12½
Do.	RYE,	do. -	3 20	a 3	25
Do.	CORN,	do. - -	3 25	a 3	25
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,			1 05	a 1	08
Do.	RYE,	do. - -	61	a	61
Do.	CORN, new	do. - -	65	a	65
Do.	OATS,	do. - -	30	a	31
Do.	BARLEY,	do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER,		do. - -	4 00	a 4	25
Do.	TIMOTHY,	do. - -	2 75	a 3	00
Do.	FLAX,	do. - -	1 30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt.,		- - -	7 00	a 8	75
PORK,	do.	- - - - -	7 00	a 7	25

York and Cumberland Railroad.

ELECTION.—The Stockholders in the York and Cumberland Railroad Company are hereby notified, that an election will be held on Monday, the 24th day of September next, between the hours of one and three o'clock, P. M., at the office of the company in York, for the purpose of choosing a President and six Directors, to manage the affairs of the Company for the ensuing year.

By order of the Board.

ELI LEWIS, Secretary.

York, August 27, 1849.

Printers and Publishers

OF Newspapers are informed that the subscribers are extensively engaged in the manufacture of PRINTING INK of every color and quality, which they know to be equal to any manufactured, and which they will sell at the lowest prices for Cash. As they are determined that their INK shall recommend itself, they only solicit ONE TRIAL of it, relying upon its merits for future patronage. Their Colored Inks are warranted superior to any manufactured. A circular containing prices, &c., will be sent to those who desire it. Orders for Cash on City Agents accepted.

☞ Publishers of Newspapers inserting this advertisement to the amount of $2 and sending us a copy of paper, by remitting $5 at any time will receive a 30 lb. keg of EXTRA News Ink.

ADAMS & CO.,
Steam Printing Ink Works, Philadelphia,
Agents for the sale of new and second hand printing materials.

Property for Sale.

THE subscriber will sell at Private Sale a small property, situated in Fairview township, York county, Pa., about 1¼ mile from Lisburn, consisting of 43 acres and 44 perches, 18 or 20 acres of which are wood-land.

The buildings are a Two Story Log House, a Bank Barn, partly new, together with other necessary improvements.

There is an excellent Spring of water quite near the dwelling. Also, an Apple Orchard of about three acres, and a variety of other fruit; such as Pears, Peaches, Quinces, Cherries, &c.

There is an excellent Garden, which can be irrigated or watered in dry seasons, so as always to yield well.

If the above property is not sold on or before Saturday, the 27th of October next, it will then be offered at public sale, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The property will be sold on very easy and reasonable terms, which will be made known on the day of sale.

Sept. 6, '49. JACOB FREESE.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Missionary Pledges.

WE, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner,	-	$10 00
William Reichert,	- -	5 00
Isaac Miller,	- - -	10 00
J. H. Harley,	- - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn,	- - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely,	- - -	10 00
Jacob Miller,	- - -	10 00
James Miller,	- - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh,	- - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm,	- -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe,	- - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich,	- - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz,	- - -	5 00
A liberal brother,	- - -	20 00
A liberal sister,	- - -	2 00

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

FOR the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Refereoce Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., OCTOBER 1, 1849. NUMBER 11.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Notice.

Preaching may be expected by us and S. Fleegal at Siddonstown, York county, on Saturday evening and Sabbath, the 13th and 14th of this month. On Sabbath morning there will be a sermon preached to the Sabbath-school of that place. Editor.

Hungary.

The disastrous news from Hungary is confirmed by the late arrival. Georgy and his army have surrendered. Bem's army, 8,000 strong, has also surrendered with 50 cannon. Bem and Guyon had made their escape. Besides these, 25,000 Hungarians and 176 cannon had been captured by the Imperial forces.

Meeting at Griffith's School-house.

We attended a meeting in York county, held in Griffith's school-house, on Saturday and Sabbath, the 22d and 23d ult., where we had quite a good time. A number of persons appeared to be convicted, and several professed religion on Sabbath evening. On Monday we returned home, but the meeting is still continued, by brother Fleegal and others, and we hope soon to have more good news from York county.

The Lord has been doing great things for the people on brother Fleegal's circuit, since the Camp-meeting. There have been about fifty conversions, and the work is still going on. The Lord speed the work more and more, for his name's sake!

Agents Wanted.

We wish to employ several more good agents to sell our books, especially the History of Denominations, Bamberger's Journal, the Evangelical Music, and the German Hymn-book. Those who wish employment at that business, will please make application soon, whilst the weather and roads are good, and before the severity of the winter sets in.—Liberal wages will be given, to good agents.

Drought in Nova Scotia.

Many of the people in Nova Scotia are sending their cattle to New England. It is stated that the drought has cut off the crops to such an extent that the cattle cannot be supported there the coming winter. Oxen can be purchased there for $20 per yoke, and horses for one-quarter their value. Farmers owning several cows are giving away two to have the third one fed through the winter.

The Election.

The time for holding the State elections is near at hand. Next Tuesday a week, the 9th inst., is the election day. Let the brethren of the Church of God be careful. If you consider it your duty to vote, go to the polls quietly and orderly, cast in your votes, and then return to your homes. It illy becomes Christians to mingle with the crowd and spend the day in electioneering and arguing politics. Besides, it is hurtful to the cause of Christ, and injurious to the interests of the soul, for Christians to meddle inordinately with the subject of politics.

Money and New Subscribers Needed.

We request our delinquents and others, who are in arrears for the paper, to send us our dues, by the hands of the preachers, at the approaching Elderships. We have quite too much money standing out for books and papers, to get along pleasantly. Our friends and brethren, who know themselves to be in arrears, will oblige us very much by making prompt payments. Those who do not like to send their money by mail, will please to send it by the hands of the preachers or delegates, attending the approaching several Elderships. Please fail not.

Those who bring remittances for us to the Western Elderships, will please pay it over to the several Clerks, and request them to send it enclosed with the Journals.

We also want new subscribers. Will the travelling preachers and other agents, make special efforts and send in a fresh recruit? From the commencement of the next month to the end of the volume, the paper can be had for 50 cents.

Newville Meeting.

We assisted in holding a Woods-meeting at Newville, Cumberland county, Pa. The weather was fine and the congregations large and attentive, but nothing special occurred during the meeting. We think, however, some seed fell on good ground, and may yet germinate, grow up and produce plentifully.

Bad as the people still are, yet they are not so grossly ignorant now, as formerly, on the subject of experimental religion. Many of them are beginning to see "men as trees walking," and were it not for the hurtful influence of "blind guides," they might soon be brought to the knowledge of salvation by the remission sins. God grant that the days of Sectarianism, superstition and bigotry may soon be numbered, and enlightened and living Christianity spread and prevail throughout the land and the whole earth!

A Useful Publication.

V. B. Palmer's Business Almanac is one of the best publications of the kind issued from the press in this country. We see, by the following announcement in the New York Tribune, that the number for 1850 is about to be issued, from which we infer that it is hereafter to be looked for annually. The public can scarcely appreciate the usefulness of this Almanac except by examining its pages, and then its superiority will be evident:

Business Men's Almanac for 1850.—We understand that the greater part of this useful little Annual for the ensuing year, is already stereotyped, and that the whole will be speedily published by the proprietor, Mr. V. B. Palmer, when we propose to give a notice of its contents. The number for 1849 had an extensive circulation; and if we may judge from the language of the press, it gave very general satisfaction.

Postponement of the National Common School Convention.

At the suggestion of several State Superintendents and other influential friends of the cause of popular education in different sections of the Union, the meeting of the National Convention of the friends of Common Schools, which was to have taken place in this city on the 22d inst., has been postponed to the 17th of October, on account of the prevalence of the Cholera throughout the country.

☞ Officers of Conventions or Associations which have appointed delegates, will please forward to the Corresponding Secretary the names of persons appointed as delegates.

By order of Local Committee of Arrangements.

JOS. R. CHANDLER, Chairman.
Alfred D. Wright, Cor. Sec.
Philadelphia, Aug. 1st, 1849.

Missionary Collections.

The preachers will please to attend to the taking up of the missionary collections before the Eldership. Let none come with lame excuses this year. We have had enough of them heretofore. Those who forgot them, or who otherwise neglected this matter last year, will remember their promises, and fail not to redeem them. Concert of action will accomplish much. In union there is strength. Many hands make light work. Co-operation is the way to reformation. Giving is the way of getting; and tithing is the way of thriving. Hence let no one weary in well doing. But let all resolve to be working, doing and giving Christians, and their reward shall be great now and ever.

Meeting of the Elderships.

The East Pennsylvania Eldership of the Church of God will hold its annual meeting at Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Wednesday, the 31st inst., at 10 o'clock, A. M.

Punctual attendance on the part of delegates and others having business with the Eldership, will be expected.

The opening sermon will be preached by Elder D. Maxwell.

The Ohio Eldership will meet at Madisonville on Monday, the 15th inst.

The West Pennsylvania Eldership will commence its sessions on Wednesday, the 24th inst.

The Indiana Eldership will meet on the third Monday of this month, near Auburn, Decalb county, Indiana.

The Iowa Eldership held its meeting at brother Neff's, on the third Monday of last month. We hope to have their Journal for our next.

☞ We hope the several Elderships will be mindful of the special business recommended by the General Eldership.

The Peace Congress at Paris.

The Niagara brings us detailed accounts of the assemblage at Paris of representatives from every part of Christendom, whose object is to persuade all the nations of the earth that a reference of all difficulties to arbitration is better than an appeal to force. The sword and the cannon, have never yet fairly settled any differences.

On Tuesday, August 21st, the friends, numbering between six and seven hundred, left London for Folkestone in two express trains. They arrived safely at Folkestone about 12, and about 1, embarked on board two steamers. The day was remarkably fine, and the company appeared greatly to enjoy the passage. The two vessels arrived safely at Boulogne, where many hundreds were assembled to witness their arrival. The visitors were cheered as they landed, and were met by the Mayor, who stated that he had received instructions from the Government to extend every facility to the English and American delegations for landing at Boulogne and proceeding at once to Paris. He had been instructed to dispense with the ordinary formality of passports, and to exempt the baggage of the Delegation from all search by the Custom-house authorities.—He therefore wished the gentlemen and ladies to know that they were at liberty to land and proceed without any hinderance. On the part of the authorities and inhabitants of the town, he wished to express the pleasure which it gave him to welcome the Delegation to the shores of France, on their benevolent mission to promote the cause of peace.

On Wednesday the Congress met in one of the most splendid public Halls of Paris; the delegates are disposed in benches before the platform on the floor. Visitors from a distance occupy inclined sittings in the rear, while stranger visitors fill up the back-ground and a range of side galleries on the left. The Hall is superbly decorated. Science and art have been lavish in using their gifts to adorn it, and the scene now presented is a grand holocaust of their power.

The chair is occupied by Victor Hugo, and around him, on the platform, the gentlemen composing the English and French Committee. On the platform, there are also a few of the Delegates from America. Viewed from this point, the Congress is a sublime demonstration; men of all nations being before the eye, diverse in language, but evidently, on this great question, one in heart. They engaged in silent devotion, after which the President M. Victor Hugo, rising to inaugurate the meeting, was received with a universal burst of cheering. His address was in proof, and he read it from the tribune in a quiet, yet dignified energy, which produced a right impression.

Prominent among the orators, who have been addressing the meeting, a few days before the steamer left, was Victor Hugo, the well known author. His speech, as reported in the London Times, was eloquent and feeling. We quote an extract, as a fair example of the rest:—"A day shall come when you will no longer make wars—a day shall come when you will no longer arm men one against the other. You will still have many disputes to settle, interests to contend for, difficulties to resolve; but do you know whom you will select instead of cavalry and infantry, of cannon, of falconets, lances, pikes, swords? You will select, instead of all this destructive array, a small box of wood, which you will term a ballot-box, and from which shall issue—what!—An assembly—an assembly in which you shall all live—an assembly which shall be, as it were the soul of all—a supreme and popular council, which shall decide, judge, resolve every thing—which shall make the sword fall from every hand, and excite the love of justice from every heart—what shall we say to each? 'Here terminates your right, there commences your duty. Lay down your arms!" (Great applause.)

Among the gentlemen in the Peace Congress was Dr. Mahan, President of the Society of Peace, in Ohio. His remarks the Times gives as follows:—"I could never feel, as I was advancing towards Europe, that I was advancing towards enemies. I came on a mission of benevolence. I have some individual opinions. As I understand the subject, the object of the friends of peace is not only to abolish war, but to secure peace by efficient means. The measures to be taken I hold to be such as will approve themselves to all parties. I advocate arbitration. I had rather my own nation was defeated in an arbitration than saved by a war. If we resort to arbitration, who will be selected as arbitrators? The Executive of the nations that might be selected as arbitrators would of course not be employed. Unless nations agree before-hand upon the body (not the Executive) to whom they would submit the question, difficulties would certainly arise. The Executive appears little capable to me, from its necessary financial and political influences, to act without prejudice. I think somebody should be entrusted who would only be actuated by benevolence and justice, and be separated from all other influences."

To a portion of these remarks Hon. Richard Cobden, who is a Delegate from England, made objection; thus:—"The honorable gentleman, the American, has objected to arbitrate. His objection to arbitration is merely as to the details. He has admitted the principle of arbitration in general. He objects to the appointment of the Executive of the Government, and requires arbitrators to be appointed before-hand. Now, I think the arbitration should be appointed when the cause of quarrel should arise. I make this observation because I would not that anything that fell from our American friend should be considered as indicating a difference in the Congress."

The following is a programme of the resolutions submitted to the Congress:—

1. As peace alone can secure the moral and material interests of nations, it is the duty of all Governments to submit to arbitration all differences that arise amongst them, and to respect the decisions of the arbitrators whom they may choose.

2. It is advisable to call the attention of Governments to the necessity of entering, by a general and simultaneous measure, upon a system of disarmament, for the purpose of reducing national expenditure, and of removing at the same time a permanent cause of disquietude and irritation from among the nations.

3. The Congress recommends all the friends of peace to prepare public opinion, in their respective countries, for the formation of a Congress of Nations, whose sole object should be to form a code of international laws, and to constitute a Supreme Court, to which should be submitted all questions relating to the reciprocal rights and duties of nations.

4. The Congress condemns all loans and taxes intended to aid the prosecution of wars of conquest and ambition.

5. The Congress recommends all its members to endeavor to eradicate from the minds of all in their respective countries, both by means of a better education of youth and by other methods, those political prejudices and hereditary hatreds which have so often been the cause of disastrous wars.

6. The Congress addresses the same invitation to all ministers of religion, whose sacred mission it is to encourage feelings of goodwill among men; as well as to the various organs of the press, which exercises so powerful an influence over the development of civilization.

7. The Congress earnestly hopes for the improvement of the means of international communication; for the extension of postal reform; for the universal adoption of the same standard of weights, measures, and coinage, and for the multiplication of peace societies, which shall keep up a correspodence with each other.

8. The Congress decides that the Committee be instructed to draw up an address to all nations, imbodying the resolutions of the Congress, and that this address shall be presented to the various Governments of Europe and America, and particularly to the President of the French Republic.

The Congress was still in session at last accounts. It is a significant fact that the French Government have expressly forbidden the speakers to make any allusion to passing politics.

OBITUARY OF Sister MARY MILLER.

Died, at her father's residence, in Wayne county, Ohio, on the 18th of August last, sister Mary Miller, eldest daughter of brother Isaac Tate, aged 30 years, 3 months and 17 days.

Sister Miller was a member of the Church of God. She obtained religion when quite young. Her disease was Consumption. She was brought up in York county, but removed to Ohio, where she intermarried with Michael F. Miller, with whom she had three children. Her youngest child, a son, died on the 31st of May last, aged 3 years, 6 months and 3 days. She has left a husband and two daughters, together with a large circle of acquaintances and relations, to mourn her loss. But their loss in her gain. She departed in the triumphs of faith, and is, no doubt, numbered with the blest in heaven.

Funeral services were conducted by John Kimbert. Text Rev. 14: 13. Hymn 423, Revival Hymn Book.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Whence Originated Death?

That death is the wages of sin, is a proposition sustained alike from reason and revelation. Although susceptible of the strongest proof, and amounting to an axiom with every well-balanced mind, there are those who doubt it, and some even deny it. Their first argument is, that were it true, and had man never sinned, the constant propagation of the human species would ultimately have filled the world with mankind: that, of necessity, the farther increase of the family of man would cease. To this may be replied, there is no evidence that God's original design was, the eternal generation of man. One of the consequences of the fall is, the undue indulgence of the passions, with the inordinate increase of the species. But from certain expressions of the Bible, we may fairly infer that Jehovah had a specific end in view in the generation of man: that design accomplished, the means to obtain it would be longer useless. The wise and noble end was, the entire subjugation of the whole earth; that it might become a boundless Eden. Moses deposeth, that God addressed man the day he made him, and said. "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it." The extent of the territory he was to replenish or populate, was the wide earth, with probably a great deal more dry land to it then than now; while the design of its colonization was, its ultimate and entire subjugation to the family of Adam. Man was to be no sloth.

But, allow it to have been God's original intention, that the endless generation of Adam's family should proceed uninterruptedly, there is still no necessity for so dreadful and terrible a calamity as death, to be the divinely constituted agency, for man's regular removal from earth to some other colony in the shoreless universe. A glorious translation, similar to that of Enoch and Elijah, would more comport with the lofty benevolence of Deity.—Man would then have undergone a resplendent change, which all would have looked for with a triumphant expectation, and none would have dreaded, as we all do now, the terrors of death!

But it is again urged, that all things earthly are vascillating, changing, dying; and that as man has a corporal or physical organization, he is destined to dissolution, with all the dying, wasting departments of nature. My first answer here is, that philosophy has suggested, and appears to sustain with much reason, the fact, that man changes his body once in seven years; and still he dies not during that period. Could he not, then, imitate nature, in her mutability, were it not for sin?

Again, there is certainly nothing in the construction of the human body, which indicates that its wreck and dissolution entered into the original plan or design of its formation. It is a mechanical locomotive, first designed to be propelled and operated throughout a ceaseless eternity.

But that the immortality of man, as well as angels, entered into the Divine plan of his creation, is indicated by that moral sense we have of infinite and unselfish benevolence. Supreme benevolence would prompt the desire for, all-wise fore-sight devise the plan thereto, and unlimited energy effect, the greatest happiness and least misery to the innocent: death is surely not the most rational way of carrying into effect so benevolent a scheme. For, let it be disguised as it may, naked and unmasked death, brings a host of terrors to the stontest and most pious mind, not only on account of the gloom of the territories of the dead, but the horrors of the struggle with the monster and the pangs attending the last gasping after life.

Still, we are not left to unaided reason alone, to guide us on so important a truth. Revelation has also spoken in the most unmistakeable language. God said to Adam, not till after he had sinned, "Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife," &c.; "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return;" and all this because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife. Paul, in his usually masterly style of argument, in a brief comment on this dreadful denunciation, extends it to all mankind, or Adam's whole progeny. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; (how else could death have entered?) and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned;" in Adam, for it is not true all have sinned actually: thousands die without so sinning. "For until the law sin was in the world; but sin is not imputed where there is no law. Nevertheless, death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them who had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, who is the figure (or type) of him who was to come."

Nor could they sin after such a similitude, for there existed no such a positive law as he had; and had there have existed such a law, the majority of them could not have been under it, for they knew nothing of its demands: they were yet unconscious. Still the sentenee of death had passed upon them all, for they were involved in the transgression by their federal progenitor.

The Apostle adds further, "For as by one man's disobedience many have become sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous." In consequence of Adam's departure from the path of duty, his whole posterity are out of the road of life, and in the sweeping channel of death; and, whether they are actual violators of his law or not, they are corrupt—tending to a final overthrow of that corrupted preternatural state. In this we discover the inseparable connection of a viciated nature and our materiality. In this we have a tremendous exhibition of God's displeasure towards sin. The death that infants undergo is not the result of any actual iniquity of theirs, but the fruit of that moral and physical virus that has run through all our race. If this is not the case, death is not the wages of sin, but the reward of innoeency.

Our final proof, and one which admits no doubt or equivocation, is to be found in 1 Cor. 15: 20-22; "But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." The writer is beyond cavil speaking of the death and resurrection of the body: it is the whole burden of the chapter. The immortality of the body, lost in Adam, is regained in Christ: for nothing can be more distinctly stated than, that a resurrection from the grave is one among the benefits of the resuscitation of Jesus Christ; so that, had he not have risen, there would and could not have been any resurrection of man: and, as a matter of course, Jesus Christ would have had to have entered the world, suffered, died, and risen again, even had man never have sinned, or man, dying, would have slept in the dust forever. There is no avoiding this conclusion: the gain in Christ, was the loss in Adam: restoration to natural life is one of the gains in Christ, therefore the forfeiture of it was a loss in sinful Adam.

As the leperous house under the law, when the plague became general in it, was to be dispossessed of all its inhabitants or inmates, broken down, the stones, timber and mortar conveyed to an unclean place, so this tabernacle of man is destined to be deserted of the inner man or spirit, all its walls and timbers torn down, disjointed and finally conveyed to the lonely tomb, in consequence of that fatal infection, which taints and vilifies, and transmits the elements of decay and destructibleness throughout the whole elements of our nature, where, in the putrefaction of the grave, it shall be purged from all the seeds of corruptibility and decay; so that, when fitted together at the resurrection, it shall be perfectly suited and adapted to be the habitation of the redeemed soul.

Fraternally,

G. U. HARN.

Stark County Camp-meeting.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

I assume my pen to give you and the many readers of the Church Advocate, a brief account of our Camp-meeting. According to previous appointment, a goodly number of the brethren came out on Wednesday, pitched their tents, and prepared for the worship of God in the grove. But the evening turning out to be wet, it was thought best to have meeting in brother Stump's large tent. After a short but spirited discourse by brother Murray, we continued our meeting for some time with singing and prayer, and many realized the presence of the Lord.

Thursday morning, in our prayer-meeting, we realized the promise of God also. In consequence of some of the brethren coming with their tents, there was no preaching till night. Several of the preaching brethren came in through the day. Preaching at night, by brother Megrew. The hearts of the brethren appeared knit together with love, and all seemed zealous for the cause of truth as it is in Christ.

Friday, as usual, our meeting was good. Brother Deshiri preached in the morning, brother Holms in the afternoon, and brother Williams at night. The word of the Lord was carried home to the hearts of saint and sinner, and while the one was made to rejoice, the other wept.

Saturday, in the morning, brother Holms preached, in the afternoon brother Adams, at night brother Deshiri. That night there was a large congregation, and the devil had his people there too, and among them were our Sectarian neighbors, who appear to think they are doing God's service, by trying to interrupt us. Oh! Lord pity their blind leaders, and open their eyes, before they wake in torments.

There were two out of the great crowd of sinners that resolved to start for the Heavenly Canaan, and in so doing, realized the pardon of their sins.

Sunday morning the people gathered early. We had prayer and experience-meeting, when the Lord blessed his people; after which, brother Holms preached to a large congregation of people. In the afternoon brother Megrew preached, to a more attentive people, and not without some effect. At night brother Adams preached, setting forth the terrors of the law upon guilty sinners, when some concluded it was best to prepare to meet their God. Sinners that night appeared quite docile, and were awed into reverence, by an overruling power.

Monday morning we had a soul-reviving time, while the brethren and sisters were telling of the goodness of God toward them in pardoning their sins, and placing their feet on the rock Christ Jesus. Brother Williams preached in the forenoon, brother Deshiri in the afternoon, on the subject of baptism, showing, briefly, the subjects, and form or mode of baptism. Five came forward to follow their Savionr, and concluded that it became them to fulfil all righteousness. After repairing to the water, six were huried with Christ in baptism, by Elder Megrew. The Lord owned the ordinance and blessed the administrator and candidates abundantly.

Some tell us this ordinance is not essential, yet the good Lord blessess his people in it and in the observance of all his commandments.

At night brother Holms preached. The word was attended with power, and many were pricked to the heart; some yielded, confessed their sins, asked forgiveness, and realized the blessing. Others went away weeping, and would not yield to be saved.

This being the last night of our meeting, we attended to the ordinances of God's house, such as washing the saints' feet, and partaking of the memorials of the broken body and shed blood of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. It truly was good to be there. Our preaching brethren, as well as the laity, could lay aside their garments and wash their brethren's feet. This, in my view, is just as things ought to be. Then there will be no Popes, Bishops or Presiding Elders, or Lords over God's heritage amongst us.

Tuesday morning, after breakfast, we convened at the altar. After an exhortation by brother Murray, some 10 or 12 united with the Church of God. We then took the parting hand. It was truly a solemn, weeping, and also a rejoicing time. On the whole, we had a good Camp-meeting. Believers were made strong—the luke-warm were made alive—backsliders were reclaimed—some seven or eight sinners converted—and some hard Sectarians said, these people enjoy the spirit of the Lord. Love seemed to flow in every heart. May Heaven bless and keep us humble until death. Farewell in the Lord.

Yours, in the bonds of Christian love,

J. M. WEST.

Stark Co., Ohio, Sept. 3, 1849.

Camp-meeting at Uniontown, Md.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 1, 1849.

On Friday, August 24th, a Camp-meeting was commenced by the Uniontown and neighboring Churches, under the charge of Elder Calton Price. The weather was beautiful, and continued so during the whole meeting. Contrary to general expectation, there were not many preachers present—only eight, viz: Elders Hurley, Price, Winebrenner, Bean, Appler, Bowser, Logue, and my father, all of the Church of God. Rev. Messrs. Reese and Zollikoffer, of the M. P. Church, were also upon the ground, the former officiating once. On Sabbath, the greatest number of people (about 6000) were on the encampment, which was comprised of about thirty tents, and a number of large wagons. The people exhibited more order and gentlemanly conduct there, than at any meeting I ever visited. On Wednesday afternoon the ordinance of Baptism was administered to six white and two colored persons—one an old Methodist gentleman. In the evening the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper were administered to a great number of believers. The number of converts was, I believe, seven. The ground upon which the meeting was held, is owned by Mr. Roberts, of Uniontown. The greatest good caused by the convening, is doubtless yet to be shown, as deep feeling was exhibited by all classes, and revivals of religion may commence in the neighborhood immediately, which will produce excellent effects. I return my thanks to the tent-holders, and others, for their kindness to me during my visit to the neighborhood. So much for the camp.

Uniontown is a picturesque village of about 300 inhabitants, 7 miles from Westminster, in Carroll county, Md. The inhabitants are generally courteous and hospitable, as may be remarked of most of the residents upon that road. There is a preaching place for the brethren at Sandy Mount, on this side of Westminster, the only one along the turnpike between Uniontown and Baltimore; but arrangements are just being entered into, securing one or more: and probably, in a short time there may be a complete chain of brethren between the two places, which will greatly facilitate the spread of the glorious cause of the Redeemer in this section of the country.

The Church at Baltimore does not present a very flattering aspect, though hope, the last thing that deserts, is making efforts to revive. The humble career of the brotherhood bespeaks no friends or proselytes in this Gomorrah of Ameriea, and would well nigh discourage the stoutest heart. But the Bible has a balm for every grief, and blesses the Christian for suffering obloquy in Christ's cause, and denounces those of whom "all men speak well;" therefore we do not care, but desire to act the right part, and expect the reward will be received in the day of the Lord's judgment.

At our Alms-house, three miles from the city, the Cholera has disappeared, and the city has yet escaped a single visitation. Perhaps it will not come—perhaps it will. May the destruction of other cities act as a warning to the wicked here!

In haste, yours,

JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL, Jr.

Siddonsburg Revival.

Siddonsburg, York County, Pa., Sept. 7, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

This is to inform you that myself and family are all well at present, for which we praise God.

I would also state, that we have had a very gracious out-pouring of the spirit of God at this place. After camp we commenced a protracted meeting here, on Thursday night, and the meeting was continued from night to night, with very little exception, and God once more poured out his spirit upon our labors, and the people became concerned about their soul's salvation, and many came forward to be prayed for. Thank God, many obtained the pearl of great price. They were hopefully converted to God. Every night we could hear the groans and cries of mourning souls at the altar of prayer, and the consequence was, the happy and loud shouts of new-born babes went to heaven. O! it was enough to melt the hardest and most obdurate heart. There were forty-two happily converted to God during the revival. Eight were baptized the first Lord's-day after the meeting commenced, and seventeen the next. The Lord truly was with us while going down into the beautiful rolling stream. Twenty-four united in fellowship with the Church of God. Thank God, for such a glorious work. We trust it will never be forgotten in time nor in eternity. On Wednesday night last, we attended to the ordinances of God's house. We were weak in body, but the Lord gave us strength to labor. Among the converts were some elderly persons, but chiefly young men and women.—There were also a few young Samuels' and Timothys' converted at this meeting. O! may they hold out faithful, and be as bright and shining lights in the cause of God. Some few were backsliders. We hope they will also now continue to be faithful, to this their second covenant, which they have made between them and their God.

I trust that all my young brethren and sisters will prove faithful to the end, and show the world how Christians live, and at last show how Christians die. O! ye fathers and mothers in Israel, take care and nurse the lambs of the flock wherever they are found. And you, my dear brethren, strive to maintain your integrity in God, do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly before your God. Forsake the world with all its vanity, its pride, and all its allurements. Consider the mighty struggle, the cries and tears, prayers and efforts, to obtain it. O! my soul feels for the young converts of the cross. May God raise them up in our room, when we are dead and in eternity.

Our help in this revival was very weak, as it respects the ministry, but some of our brethren and sisters labored faithfully with mourners, and were themselves abundantly blessed. May God continue to revive his work here and at all other places, until the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdoms of our God and his Christ, is the prayer of your brother and fellow-laborer in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ.

SIMON FLEEGAL.

P. S.—We have concluded the above meeting at Siddonsburg, on the 5th, and commenced one last night at Andersonstown. The prospect is good there. The first night 4 mourners came forward to the altar of prayer. We have had no help as yet—not any visits from our brethren in the ministry. We do hope they will not fail to visit us, especially those that promised to come, if not otherwise hindered. Pay your debts. S. F.

The Contents of the Bible.

Many Christians and ministers have little more expansive views of Christianity than that it is a dogmatism to establish and carry out their selfish and contracted opinions of propriety. Little do they consider the shoreless and fathomless ocean of wisdom, and the buried treasures of inexhaustible riches with which the Bible abounds! The endless mine of sublime historic fact; the high, lofty, and beautiful poetic eloquence and imagery; the deep piety and fervent feeling of devotion; the self-substantiating and practical rules of moral rectitude; the most striking exhibitions and out-bursts of the gushing founts of sympathy—that noblest attribute of apostatized humanity; the most luminous examples of patience and fortitude amid the most excruciating tortures and distresses of the thorny road of life; the highest wrought tragical displays of true friendship and enthusiastic affection; with the profoundly exciting yet plain and sublime developments of the future fortunes of our race depicted in living colors by the pencil of Deity and the canvas of prophecy. These are a part of the materials of Christian thought, and shall engage his powers of contemplation while ages infinite roll their eternal before his mental vision!!

And with the Bible in my hand,
A mind to read and understand,
What God hath spoken there,
Is riches gained by odds more far,
Than all the trophies reaped in war,
Or treasures hid elsewhere.

O Lord, who art thyself all light,
Quicken my sense—brighten my sight—
To view fresh beauties there:
Dispel all clouds from off my mind,
Let me new glories ever find,
In this transcript of Thy mind,
Is my most humble pray'r.

G. U. HARN.

Letter from Bro. J. Myers, V. D. M.

Ashland, Ohio, Sept. 10, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Once more, under such favorable circumstances, I send you and the readers of that ever welcome messenger, the "Church Advocate," a communication, informing you that I am still on the surface of God's footstool, enjoying so much health as to be able to do something for my fellow-men in regard of soul and body.

This is a sickly season in our country:—this calls me constantly out. Chill-fevers, agues, billious complaints, diarrhœas, dysenteries, and other complaints, peculiar to the season, are exceedingly prevalent. Homœopathy is rather a novelty; but the good purpose it answers, has induced many in our country here to avail themselves of one of the greatest blessings God ever gave to man, as far as the healing art is concerned.

But this extensive practice has hindered me from preaching so much, and attending as many meetings, as I would like to have done: although there are few Sabbaths that I do not preach somewhere. To the Camp-meetings, however, I could not go, except to the one near Reedsburg, eleven miles from here; where I was merely on Sunday, and talked in German to almost hundreds, I dare say, of folks formerly of Pennsylvania, old acquaintances, relations, &c.

Of the Camp-meeting at West Liberty, Crawford county, I can say but little, for the very good reason, because I was not there. I however understood from some of the preachers, that sickness in that region operated against it. There were but few tents there,—and those surrounded with plenty of rebels and traffickers, to the no small annoyance of God's people. This circumstance, with other ones, after mature deliberation, brought the brethren to the determination to dismiss and end the Camp-meeting on Sabbath. They very wisely concluded that the powers of darkness were too potent for a few weak-handed children of light, under the then existing circumstances. I was told the traffickers and their kindred spirits, who had anticipated a splendid speculation, were no little confounded when they heard the announcement of the meeting being adjourned sine die.

Concerning the Stark County Camp-meeting I have heard so little, that I will not undertake to write anything respecting it.

The Reedsburg meeting commenced on Wednesday, the 29th August, and ended on the following Wednesday. I had the pleasure of being there on Sabbath from nine o'clock, A. M., until five o'clock, P. M., hearing two sermons, besides the one I delivered in the morning. The first after me was preached by Elder A. Holmes, on the resurrection of the body. It was delivered in a pleasing style, able and scientific. Good attention was paid by the vast crowd which had congregated on the ground. On the whole, there was exeellent order observed, considering the thousands on the spot.

Elder Megrew preached a sermon in the afternoon. But sickness among the children belonging to the tents, kept me so busy that I did not even hear his text. Subsequently I heard, from the tenor of his discourse, that he was preaching on repentance. Of the merits of that discourse, I need say nothing. It fully recommended itself, and hundreds of eager listeners will say so too.

I saw one man on this ground for whom I felt the deepest sympathy. Well might I exclaim, "How have the mighty fallen!" When I remember with what energy, zeal and talent, perspicuity and eloquence he used to preach the glorious and everlasting gospel, and now to behold him but the shadow of his former self, my heart dies within me. I mean Dr. James Richards, formerly of Columbia, Pa. His name is connected with the first Eldership of the "Church of God" in the United States. Besides his shipwreck of faith, he is sick in body:—his vision, too, is impaired, by the commencement of a cataract. He appears to be cast down in soul, and undoubtedly feels his mental and corporeal afflictions in the most pungent manner. O let us pray for him, that he may yet be reclaimed! Let us not treat him with contumely—let us not despise him—let us not add pain to the pangs he already feels. But on the contrary, let us speak kindly to him, and remember him for the use he has been to the Church.

After the breaking up of this Camp-meeting, I was informed by returning Elders and brethren, that it was on the whole a profitable meeting. Twelve persons embraced religion, of whom three were baptized. Among these were two of Elder Briggle's daughters.

If, then, not hundreds, nor even scores, were brought to the altar as mourning seekers, let us console ourselves with the assurance that it was salutary to the older professors.

There were quite a respectable number of preachers there. I counted fifteen. Among them was Elder E. West:—but on the Sabbath he was not there, having, in company with brother Soule, attended to his appointments in Windsor and in Ashland. On Monday morning they returned to camp.

Brother W. wishes me to correct an error I made in saying that he brushed two Disciple preachers last spring. He wishes me not to say "brushed," and that it was only one, instead of two. I make this correction cheerfully. Brother W. does not wish to be considered a controversialist any longer. God bless him for it.

I want you also, Mr. Editor, to correct a typographical error in my reply to brother Megrew, wherein I am made to say, "I would willingly bear all the penalty," &c. But in my manuscript it reads "half the penalty." This is easy inferred from the foregoing language.

Believing that some of the brethren will send you a full detail of the three Camp-meetings in Ohio, I shall now close this epistle, with my warmest wish and prayers for the prosperity of the cause of Christ.

I have nearly completed the translation of your work on Regeneration—that is, the revision of my last winter's labor. As soon as sickness abates somewhat, and I can get some little leisure, I will finish it, and send it to you by the first safe opportunity. Farewell.

Yours truly,

J. MYERS.

Letter from Bro. A. Megrew, V. D. M.

Wooster, Sept. 10, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

I have had the pleasure of attending the three Camp-meetings in Ohio. The first was held in Crawford county, and commenced on the 15th of August. This was a very small camp, in consequence of the much sickness in that part of the country: and if there was any good done at that meeting, it was not manifest.

The second was held in Stark county, and commenced on the 22d of August. This meeting was well attended by the brethren. The congregations, however, rather small; but upon the whole, the meeting was excellent:—love and union prevailed amongst the brethren. There were a number found peace by believing—how many, I did not ascertain. Some of the brethren will give the particulars of these meetings. There were, however, six baptized, and, I think, eleven united in church-fellowship.

The third meeting was held in Ashland county, and commenced on the 29th of August. This meeting was well attended, both by the brethren and others. The brethren came out manfully with their tents, and they had a mind to work, and they did work. And, praise the Lord, not in vain. I do think there was much good done at this meeting, although there were not a great number of conversions; yet the meeting was very interesting, and will tend much, no doubt, to the building up of the brethren in this part of the country.

I think I never saw more love and union amongst brethren. My prayer is that these essential characteristics may prevail and abound more and more.

Elder Myers, of Ashland, was with us at the latter camp on Sabbath, and delivered a German discourse.

Matters are beginning to wear a pretty fair aspect in Ohio, and I do think, (and thank God for it,) that we are now done contending with contentious ones. And now we will be able to labor more directly and successfully for the salvation of sinners. O! may the good Lord revive his work, once more, powerfully amongst us. Brethren pray for us.

Yours, in love and Christian esteem,

A. MEGREW.

Missionary Subscriptions.

Notice is hereby given to the brethren in Ohio, who have subscribed to the missionary cause, to pay their subscriptions between now and the next Eldership, or at least at that time, so that the Board may settle with the Eldership, and the Eldership know what they can do in employing missionaries. We hope the brethren will be very punctual in this matter, as it is a matter of importance.

A. MEGREW.

Letter from Bro. J. H. Hurley, V. D. M.

Lancaster City, Sept. 17, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

By this you may perceive that I am once more in this city, after an absence of a few weeks, enjoying the blessings of Camp-meetings, and feel much encouraged and refreshed while resuming my labors. I have enjoyed myself exceedingly well, while looking upon familiar faces, renewing old acquaintances, and mingling my voice in worship with those of kindred spirits and kindred feelings, and among whom I labored in former days. There is nothing more delightful to me, than to withdraw for a season from the tumult and bustle of a city, and from the works of man, to behold the freshness and beauty of those of the Great Architect, and to mingle our voices in praises to the Author of Nature beneath the foliage of the trees. As a lover of nature, I delight to get abroad into the tall forest, by the side of the murmuring brook or winding river, to be fanned by the breezes under the shade of the sturdy oaks of many centuries, where the voice of adoration may ascend from nature up to nature's God. How refreshing to the mind and to the eye of the observer is the mantle of living green, nature's almost universal primeval covering. How happy does animated nature appear! Birds singing among the trees, children playing, all equally rejoicing in their liberties. But the most cheering is, to see the ransomed of the Lord coming into Zion with songs of joy upon their heads, rejoicing in the liberty of the sons of God. We forget all sorrow and care—we exclaim, what a beautiful world! How great, and good, and wise its Creator! What a paradise on earth! Like Peter on the mount, we feel like building tabernaeles, and staying always.

I have often thought, how happy might the original possessors of this world have been roaming, as free and unrestrained as the birds of heaven, had not sin sent forth its deadly shoots and marred their felicity. And how happy might be the present race, not only here, but on the whole earth, did each and every one love God with a pure heart fervently, and their neighbor as themselves,—measuring themselves by the golden rule.

Yours, fraternally,

JOSIAH H. HURLEY.

Query.—Where are all your co-editors, that were going to write on doctrinal subjects? I am tired waiting. I would like to see their productions, in order to get indoctrinated.

J. H. H.

Letter from E. Logue, V. D. M.

McConnelstown, Sept. 10, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

This morning I started for the "Far West." The Lord willing, I expect to get back by the first part of the month of November. Matters of rather an urgent character, influence me to go West this fall. I am sorry to leave the Churches of my charge so long. But I informed them of this absence in the spring when I took charge of them. During my labors among the brethren of Fayetteville and Washington circuit, I have given them as good attention as I could. But the travelling is too hard to give them all the attention they ought to have. If, however, the Lord spares me to return to them this fall, I hope to resume my labors among them with renewed diligence. And during my absence, the Churches of Washington county and Fayetteville need not be destitute of preaching, seeing there are four ordained preachers in connection with those Churches. But if they should not have preaching, I hope they will not neglect the assembling of themselves together, for prayer and experience-meetings, &c., for if these are neglected, how much good would preaching do? Yours, &c.,

E. LOGUE.

Letter from Bro. F. N. Thompson.

Bourbon, Ind., August 28, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I saw brother T. Hickernell at Fort Wayne, for the first time in seven years. I then subscribed for the Advocate. As I did not pay for it at that time, you will find enclosed in this letter one dollar.

Brother Hickernell said he would visit our part of Indiana after harvest. There have never yet been any of the preachers here, and none of the brethren nearer than forty miles. We would be very glad to have brethren call and see our country. If any of the preachers travel to the West, they are invited to give us a call. We live in Bourbon township, Marshall county, Indiana. We moved here from Wayne county, Ohio, in 1842. I will close by saying, pray for us, that we may be so happy as to land our souls on the banks of deliverance. Yours, in love,

F. N. THOMPSON.

Letter from Bro. D. Kyle, V. D. M.

Martinsburg, Sept. 15, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I rejoice to inform you that the cause of God is still progressing in the mountain country. We commenced a protracted meeting in Mr. Neal's school-house, Huntingdon county, on the 8th inst., and up to the 14th, on which day I started home, three souls were happily converted to God. The meeting is still continued by my colleague. Pray for us, that we may have success in this good work.

Yours, D. KYLE.

OBITUARY OF Sister BARBARA MELLINGER.

Died, August 28th, 1849, in the borough of Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., after a lingering illness, sister Barbara Mellinger, in the 48th year of her age.

The subject of this notice, was sprinkled in her infancy, and reared up in the Lutheran Church, and made a confirmed member in her riper years; but alas! without a knowledge of her forgiveness of sins. Thus she lived in carnal security, till the memorable revival in Washington in the winter of 1835, when she and her husband, together with the writer, and many others, were brought from nature's darkness to God's marvellous light, and from the power of satan to God. The following month of May, her and myself, and wife, and three others, were baptized, near Washington, because there was much water there. Soon afterwards we organized a church, called "the Church of God" at Washington, where she remained a faithful member till her death.

I asked her, when her end had near approached, how she felt for eternity? She laid her hand on her breast and said, "All is well." So she fell asleep in Jesus. On Monday following, her remains were taken to the burying-ground and deposited by the side of her beloved husband, who had died about twelve years ago. Funeral services by brother I. Brady.

By this act of Providence, the children were bereaved of an affectionate mother, the Church of a beloved sister, and the neighborhood of a kind and respectable member. But we hope our loss is her eternal gain.

Dear sister, farewell, thou art gone to thy rest;
No more will thy flesh be in pain;
Thy spirit in rapture now reigns with the blest,
It is free from sin's crimson stain.

To dwell with thy husband in mansions above,
Thy Saviour has called thee away;
Assured that his children he always did love,
So calm in his arms you will stay.

ANDREW J. KAUFFMAN.

OBITUARY OF Sister SUSAN McALLISTER.

Departed this life, on the 8th of February, 1849, sister Susan McAllister, wife of brother Ryland B. McAllister, and daughter of Andrew and Elizabeth Miller.

Sister McAllister was married to brother R. B. McAllister, by the writer, on the 17th of July, 1834. She became the mother of eight children, four of whom are yet living. She embraced religion about one year previous to her death. She was taken sick on the 4th of February last, and died on the 8th of the same. On the evening previous to her death, she called her family and friends who were present to her bedside, and bid them all a final and an affectionate farewell, hoping to meet them in heaven. And having thus finished her work here, she sweetly fell asleep in Christ.

Sister McAllister was indeed one of the excellent of the earth: having by nature an amiable disposition, and when purified by grace, her husband told me that it was, as it were, a paradise while she was permitted to stay with him. In her death, brother McAllister and the surviving children have sustained an irreparable loss; but their loss no doubt is her eternal gain. Her funeral sermon was preached by brother Townsend Miles, attended by a very large concourse of people. S. CRAWFORD.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

The Blasphemer Suddenly Stopped.—Whilst the cholera was raging in New York, and shortly after the President's recommendation of observing the Fast-day, an editor of a newspaper in New York made use of the following language, with much more of the same kind, some of which is too vulgar to re-produce:—"How much better it would be, if every human being would mind his own temporal concerns, keep his stomach well supplied with beef and potatoes, preserve a clear conscience, live honestly, deal justly, and love his wife and children, instead of troubling himself concerning the fiat of Heaven, and seeking to change the very order of nature."

Before the readers of his paper received it, the writer was already a corpse! He had become a victim of the cholera.

Mistake Caused by not Taking a Newspaper.—On Friday, the day of our national Fast, a man came into Rochester with a load of produce, and seeing very few men in the street, and stores and shops closed, asked a person what it meant, who, being disposed to be rather waggish, told him very soberly that "Rochester folks were not in the habit of buying produce on the Sabbath," and suggested to him the propriety of clearing out before he should find himself in limbo for Sabbath-breaking.—The hint was very thankfully received, and man and wagon were soon on their way home.—Star of Temperance.

Immense Damage to the Cotton Crop.—The Red River Republican of the 21st ult. gives the particulars of the late overflow at that place, and estimates the damages at five millions of dollars. It is thought that where 130,000 bales of cotton were gathered last year, not 30,000 will be made this year. Much apprehension exists by the appearance of the cotton worm in many parts of Louisiana.

Intelligence from Mexico.—Advices from Mexico are to the 23d of August. Gen. Urrea and some other prominent officers of the Mexiern army, have recently fallen victims to the cholera. The ravages of the cholera in Durango and other parts of the country, continue most fearful.

Cholera in Aurora, Illinois.—Never has a more melancholy duty devolved upon me as a citizen, than that of recording the fearful mortality that has occurred in our village since the appearance of the cholera. Within the short space of two weeks, there have been upwards of two hundred cases, forty-five of which proved fatal.—This dreadful disease first made its appearance among the French population, but is not confined to them. The same awful results are felt in all classes of society. The temperate as well as the intemperate, have equally shared largely in the fatality of this disease. Business of every department has been closed. Public and religious congregations have ceased to convene on the Sabbath. All seems to be gloom and consternation, there not being well people enough to take proper care of the sick. Perhaps there is no place in our country (except Sandusky,) where the mortality has been so great, the population being only about 2,000. However, we feel flattered with a hope, that the scourge has left us, from the fact that not one new case has occurred within the last forty hours.—Morning Star, Sept. 19.

Pennsylvania Railroad.—That portion of the Wesern division of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Blairsville and Johnstown is about to be placed under contract, proposals having been issued therefor.—The following extract of a letter from the Engineer of the Western Division, dated Summit, Cambria county, Aug. 29, 1849, gives some information on the subject:—"The Board have adopted the Southern route for the Railroad, through Westmoreland county, passing near Greensburg, (the surveys and estimates of the Engineers showing very conclusively that this was the proper route,) and have wisely determined to push the road continuously westward, using the Portage as a temporary connection, until the Western Division shall be finished."

Census of Oregon.—The census of Oregon has just been taken, in pursuance with an act of Congress, and shows a total, present and absent, of 8,903 souls. This includes the foreign population, which amounts to less than 300 souls. By the census, there are 2,509 voters in the territory, but in consequence of the absence of many who are in the mines, and by reason of there being some six candidates, it is supposed that the successful aspirant for the office of Delegate will not receive more than 200 votes.

☞ The Presbyterian Church in Scotland is divided into five different denominations. The established church has 1,000 congregations; the free, 700; the United Presbyterians, 500; the Reformed Presbyterians or Cameronians, 50; the United Original Seceders from Presbyterians, 50.

New System of Music—Accomplishing the Million.—It is said that a new system of musical notation has been invented by a German, which has created no little sensation among the musical profession of Boston. By the simplest method in the world, it sweeps away all the complexities of the present system, and makes an A B C sort of an affair. Several of the most eminent musicians in New York have, it is said, examined and approved it. It has been patented at Washington, and the French Government have also offered a patent.

New Jersey Zinc Mine.—The ore procured by the Sussex Company from the Zinc Mine recently opened at Minehill, N. J., is said to be uncommonly rich, containing about 80 per cent. of red oxide of zinc and franklinite, in nearly equal proportions.—The zinc is very pure, and strikingly superior to the imported article, being free from sulphur, arsenic and other impurities. Reduced to an oxide, it is fine white paint. The iron is remarkable for its fineness and tenacity. The ore is supposed to be inexhaustible.

Yellow Fever and Cholera.—In 1793 the yellow fever visited Philadelphia, when the population was about 50,000; of these, about 17,000 fled from the city, leaving but about 33,000 inhabitants. The official number of deaths by yellow fever was 4,041; but Mr. Matthew Carey estimated the real number at 5,000. The deaths by cholera in Cincinnati and St. Louis have been larger, in proportion to the population, than the above by yellow fever.

Illinois.—Gov. French, of Illinois, has issued a proclamation convening the Legislature for an extra session, to assemble on the 22d inst. Among other reasons, is the filling of the existing vacancy in the office of U. S. Senator; to provide for the settlement of claims against the State, and to make provision for the redemption of hypothecated bonds; to enact a law providing for a homestead exemption from execution, &c., &c.

Cholera.—A clergyman, whose means of information are equal to any other man's, estimates the whole number of deaths from cholera in St. Louis, at 8000—in a population of 60,000. In Cincinnati, there died in seven weeks, 4,488. In Sandusky 400; or one-fourteenth of the population have died. In Buffalo 762 deaths from cholera were reported. In Lafayette, Ind., 130, in a population of 3000. The health of Detroit continued good.

☞ The Belleville (Illinois) Advocate says that over fifty persons have died of cholera in that town, out of a population of 350, or one-seventh of the whole population. It was still lingering about the place.

Baptism at the South.—We learn from Lyell's "Second Visit to the U. States," that Dr. Elliott, Bishop of the Episcopal Church in Georgia, has adopted immersion for baptism, as the only hope of successful labor among the slave population. Their simple minds, unaccustomed to the nice logic which eliminates immersion from the Bible, can find no other baptism there, and the Bishop has prudently yielded to the current of public opinion.

Semi-Centennial Celebration.—In accordance with an overture from the young ministers of Cumberland College, it is proposed that a Convention of the ministers of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church be held at Princeton, Ky., in May next, to commemorate in a suitable manner the great Revival of 1800, which gave birth to that branch of the Presbyterian Church.

Texas Teaching Morals.—The livery stable keepers in Galveston, Texas, advertise horses and carriage to let, except upon the Sabbath. What a reproach to the old Puritan towns and cities of the United States, where the hardest day in the seven for the poor animals, is often that which God has emphatically named the day of rest!

Chinese mode of administering Oaths.—The witness is made to kneel, and to break a saucer on a bar in front of him.—The following oath is then administered: "You shall tell the truth, and the whole truth; the saucer is cracked, and if you do not tell the truth your soul will be cracked like the saucer."

Sentence of a Defaulter.—The Collector at New Orleans, who was convicted of being a defaulter to the amount of $21,000, has been sentenced to two years' hard labor in the Penitentiary, he must restore the sum embezzled, pay a fine of the same amount, the costs, &c. He has appealed to the Supreme Court.

Sixty Ministers Hung.—The Commercial Advertiser's London correspondent, in reviewing the recent cruel acts of General Haynau, says that the hanging of the Bishop of Erlau was followed by the similar execution of 60 Hungarian ministers of the gospel, who were charged with praying for the success of their country's cause.

Marriage on Sunday.—It is said that the Pennsylvania Courts have decided that marriage is a civil contract, and that they have also decided that no contract made on Sunday is valid.

[If the contract was previously made, and only ratified on Sunday, is it not valid?]

Poor Pay.—The Austrian soldiers receive but four cents a day. Killing their brethren for four cents a day! What an occupation.

☞ The Managers of the American Bible Society have sent out in the steamship Falcon the Rev. Frederick Buel, who is to act as their agent for the distribution of Bibles in California. He takes with him a large number of copies. The managers have now under consideration the propriety of sending Bibles and colporteurs into Hungary. It is said that a short time before the late revolution in that country, 10,000 Bibles were distributed there by the British and Foreign Bible Society, and that they had a powerful effect in teaching the masses of Hungary their rights.

☞ The Rev. Wm. M. Thomson, a missionary under the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions, has just returned to this country from Beyrout, Syria, where his family still remains, and to which place he intends returning in a few months. He states that the Syrian mission is prosperous, numerous converts having been made among the native youths.

☞ Fifty-three Priests have been arrested at Rome, by the established court of the Vicar General, for having been present at the decease of the republicans killed in defence of Rome, and for having administered to them the last consolations of religion.

☞ Diseased potatoes should not be eaten. As many as twenty-one persons recently died at a farm in Ohio, the property of a gentleman named Rennick, and it is believed from no other cause than eating diseased potatoes.

First Church in California.—Rev. Sylvester Woodbridge, Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of Missions, has organized the first Presbyterian Church in the golden country.

Election in Maine.—PORTLAND, September 17th.—There has been no choice for Governor. The returns indicate that the Senate will be Whig, and the House Democratic by a small majority.

Arkansas Marble.—The Little Rock (Ark.) Democrat says that black marble has just been discovered at the head of steamboat navigation, on White river. It appears on the bank on either side of the stream.

Steamboat Building.—From 1844 to 1848, nine hundred and twenty-four Steamboats were built in the United States. Abont 200 are now built yearly, more than two-thirds of which are on the western waters.

☞ The cholera expenses of the New York Board of Health amounts to about 100,000 dollars.

☞ Mr. BELL, elected Governor of Texas, is a Whig. The election, however, was not upon party-political grounds.

☞ Over 400 German immigrants arrived in Cincinnati during the last month.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ON LOWLINESS.

While the man of the world is aiming at something great, and crying, O that I were higher, the true Christian, with grace in his heart, cries, O to be lower, lower, lower! Give me humility, O Lord!—When shall I be lower? Lowliness of mind is not a flower that grows wild in the fields of nature, but requires to be planted by the finger of God; and God is always willing to put a finger to this work. It is a most excellent disposition; it makes a worm stand higher than an angel. All experience has proved it safer and better to be humble with one talent, than lifted up with ten. It is one of those lessons a man sits down and learns at the feet of Jesus Christ. It is one of those parts of practice which enlist the sympathy of angels, and call down the care and condescension of Jehovah himself, for "He giveth grace to the humble." Palaces and thrones have no attractions for him, so he passes them by; but "to this man will I look who is poor, and of a contrite heart." It is a preparative for receiving grace, and the effect of grace received, from both which considerations, the more a man has of it the better. It not only fits a man for the grace of God, but puts him in possession of a God of grace; and he who seeks earnestly the best gifts, will find this to be one of them. Let us not be satisfied with a small degree of this lowliness, but strive after it, make it an object, "so run as to obtain" it; and remember that he who is contented with grace enough to get to heaven, and desires no more, may be very sure that he has none at all.—Christian Intelligencer.

EXTENT OF THE UNION.

A contemporary who has been going into statistics on the subject, in speaking of our immense possessions, says that the territory not yet formed into States, will make forty-six and a half States as large as Pennsylvania. Of these, thirty-five will be north of 36 deg. 30 min, or free States; eleven and a half south of 36 deg. 30 min., or slave States, supposing the Missouri compromise line to be adopted.

The United States will then consist of seventy-six sovereign States.

Should Oregon, California and Mexico fly off, and the Rocky Mountains be the division between the Atlantic and the United States of the Pacific, the Atlantic Union will contain fifty-seven sovereign States.

These calculations are based upon the recent report of the United States Commissioners of the General Land Office—and take in all the United States territory of every kind not yet formed into States.

[Weekly News.

PETER PENCE.

Peter-pence, now being collected for the benefit of Pope Pius IX., was a tax which originated in England, of a penny upon every house which contained twenty pennyworth of any kind of goods, and paid to the Pope. It was anciently called Rome fee, Rome penny, Rome scot, Denarii S. Petri, and Census Petri. It originated with the Saxons in the year 702, was discontinued by Edward III., revived by Richard II., and terminated on the Reformation. It was a collection from among the faithful to pay the personal expenses of the Pope.

BAPTISM OF REV. BAPTIST W. NOEL.

The Hon. and Rev. B. W. Noel was baptized on Thursday evening, in the Rev. Mr. Evans's Chapel, John-street, Bedford-row. As might be expected, the chapel was crowded long before the ceremony commenced. After a hymn had been sung, the Rev. Mr. Evans's co-pastor, read the latter part of the 8th chapter of the Acts, beginning at the 25th verse. Prayer was then offered by the Rev. Mr. Morris.—Mr. Shepherd delivered an introductory address; and another hymn having been sung,—

Mr. Noel entered the pulpit, and said:—Having been asked, my brethren, to address a few words to you on this occasion, I gladly avail myself of the opportunity of speaking a few words on this particular point—why a person who is unbaptized should be baptized, after having made a profession of faith in Jesus Christ in other ways, and perhaps for many years. I have not come to the resolution to obey what I believe to be Christ's command without having fully weighed the grounds upon which that step is to be taken.—Without having read anything whatever in favor of the exclusive right of believers to Christian baptism, I have read all the strongest arguments that I could meet with upon the other side. I believe I have weighed well every considerable argument that has ever been adduced in the maintenance of infant baptism as an addition to, and which evidently becomes a substitution for, the baptism of believers in Christian churches; and I have come distinctly to these two conclusions, which appear to me, at least, to be certain. I will not speak of the conviction of others, but I speak of the conviction of my own mind, after very much examination. It appears to me to be distinctly proved, first, that baptism, as ordained by Christ, is an immersion in water—a being buried in the water; and, secondly, that immersion is meant to be a profession of faith in Christ. If those two conclusions are correct—and I believe they will completely prevail with the Christian world eventually—then it follows that a person who, like myself, has only been sprinkled in infancy, is unbaptized, because such a person has neither been immersed, nor has he made a baptismal profession of faith; and these two things constitute Christian baptism. So that if these conclusions are correct, then I, and others, who have been sprinkled in infancy, are in neither sense baptized.—Should we then, after having professed our faith in Christ at the Lord's table, at many times, come to this, which is the initiatory rite of Christianity, and begin again a profession of faith in Him? There are these reasons which have led me to conclude so for myself, and which have led, I believe, some of my brethren and sisters, who are about to be baptized, to the same conclusion. In the first place, there is no instance in the New Testament of any person unbaptized, after the institution of Christian baptism by our Lord, coming to the Lord's table: and therefore, if we should continue to attend the Lord's table without being baptized, knowing that Pædobaptism is not the baptism appointed by Christ, we should be doing contrary to all the precedents of the New Testament. In the next place, Christ has required a baptismal profession of faith. It does not appear to me to be sufficient to say that we have confessed Christ in other ways. That may be true; but there is no reason why one confession of Christ, appointed by Him, should be taken as the substitute of another confession, appointed likewise by Him: and therefore, as He has said to us, as well as to others, "Repent and be baptized for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the Holy Ghost;" "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved;" therefore, he requires from us a baptismal profession of faith, as well as a profession of faith in other ways. This has been so clearly seen by the Churches of Christ in general, that it is not only those which are called "Baptist Churches," but all the churches, who refuse to admit to the Lord's Supper or into church membership any whom they consider to be unbaptized. If a man—for instance, one of the Society of Friends—has been a consistent Christian for years, has followed the Lord diligently and zealously, has done good by his pen and by his preaching, and is welcomed by all persons who rejoice in seeing the work of the Spirit as a thorough Christian—if that person should come to recognize that the sacraments are still obligatory, and that he should come to the table of the Lord, there is no Church that would receive him unbaptized. Neither the Roman Catholic, nor the Anglican, nor the Presbyterian, nor the Independent churches would receive such an one, unbaptized. And, therefore, the fact of his having made a profession of faith in other ways has not appeared to any of the Churches of Christ as a reason why an unbaptized person should not, at any point in his heavenward course, be baptized when he comes to recognize his error. Our blessed Saviour has set us an example in this matter. At the age of 30, when he was known by all who knew him to be devoted to God—when His whole life was a profession of devotedness, not in the least requiring baptism as an expression either of repentance or of faith—when John was baptizing converts, because the kingdom of heaven was at hand, summoning men to believe in Christ as the Saviour about to appear—then it was that Jesus, not certainly needing to be baptized unto faith in himself, and needing no repentance, was yet at that age baptized, after long years of piety. This he did because He would honor the ordinance of God, not needing it Himself, but with a view to the welfare of others and the honor of God. He was therefore baptized. The honorable and reverend gentleman proceeded with his discourse to some length. On these grounds it has seemed to him to be his duty not to shrink from a public acknowledgment of Christ's authority, but with his brethren around to be baptized, to acknowledge that he has a right to our subjection.

After singing, and prayer over the pool, Mr. Noel, and thirteen others, six of them females, were baptized in the usual manner by the Rev. Mr. Shepherd.

AN INDIAN'S GIFT TO CHRIST.

In a portion of the Southern territory from which the red man has now been driven, I once attended a large protracted meeting held in the wild forest. The theme on which the preacher dwelt, and which he illustrated with surpassing beauty and grandeur, was "Christ and him crucified." He spoke of the good Shepherd who came into the world to seek and to save the lost. He told how this Saviour met the rude buffetings of the heartless soldiers. He drew a picture of Gethsemane and the unbefriended Stranger who wept there. He pointed to Him as he hung bleeding upon the cross.

The congregation wept. Soon there was a slight movement in the assembly, and a tall son of the forest, with tears on his red cheeks, approached the pulpit and said, "Did Jesus die for me—die for poor Indian? Me have no lands to give to Jesus, the white man take them away; me give him my dog, and my rifle."—The minister told him Jesus could not accept those gifts. "Me give Jesus my dog, my rifle, and my blanket: poor Indian, he got no more to give—he give Jesus all." The minister replied that Christ could not accept them. The poor, ignorant, but generous child of the forest bent his head in sorrow and meditated. He raised his noble brow once more, and fixed his eye on the preacher, while he sobbed out, "Here is poor Indian, will Jesus have him?" A thrill of unutterable joy ran through the souls of minister and people, as this fierce son of the wilderness now sat, in his right mind, at the feet of Jesus. The Spirit had done his work, and he who had been so poor, received the earnest of an inheritance which will not fade when the diadems of earth shall have mouldered forever.—Amer. Mess.

EXCITEMENT IN VIRGINIA.

The Rev. W. A. Smith, of Loudon county, Va., lately delivered a sermon in vindication of Slavery, which was afterwards published, and extensively circulated. Taking this as a challenge to discussion, Samuel L. Janney, minister of the Society of Friends, commenced a series of articles in the Leesburg Washingtonian, reviewing the sermon and exposing its fallacies. No sooner had the first number appeared than the slaveholders were up in arms. Mr. Janney was arrested and indicted by the Grand Jury for publishing incendiary matter. No stronger evidence of weakness could be presented by the slaveholders, than this. It shows that they fear discussion. The maxim of Jefferson, that "error of opinion may safely be tolerated, where reason is left to combat it," meets with no concurrence on their part. They feel that they have not sufficient "reason" wherewith to combat what they affect to consider "errors of opinion;" and hence they resort to indictment and excitements when a free voice is lifted up in their midst. We are glad to learn, however, that the Prosecuting Attorney of Loudon county has expressed an opinion that the indictment against Mr. Janney cannot be sustained.

THE PRESENT FASHIONS AND THE PURITANS.

The Puritan fathers watched over not only the conduct of persons, but the cut of their garments. The present style of dress it will be seen by the following order, was not much admired by that straight-laced sect:

"July 7th, 1639. No garment shall be made with short sleeves whereby the nakedness of the arm may be discovered in the wearing thereof, and such as have garments already made with short sleeves, shall not hereafter wear the same, unless they cover their arms to the wrist with linen or otherwise; and that hereafter no person whatever shall make any garment for women, or any of their sex, with sleeves more than half an ell wide in the widest place thereof, and so proportionably for bigger or smaller persons."

PUNCTUALITY.

When a minister says he expects to preach at any place on a certain day, there is a moral obligation resting upon him to fulfil his promise. He should not be prevented by a slight headache or a small cloud. Disappointments injure a man's moral character. When he creates a habit of disappointing congregations, he may become careless about performing other engagements.—Rel. Herald.

SMOKING.

Rev. Mr. Montgomery remarks on the harmlessness of smoking: "There is no harm in smoking tobacco, except that it leads to drinking, drinking to intoxication, intoxication to bile, bile to indigestion, indigestion to consumption, consumption to death—that is all!"

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

West Pennsylvania Eldership.

This body will hold its next annual meeting with the Church of God near the mouth of Big Fish Creek, Marshall county, Virginia, commencing on the 24th day of October next.

It will be remembered that business will commence at 10 o'clock, A. M. It is hoped there will be a general turn out by the preachers. Those who may wish to go by water from Pittsburg or Athens county, will land at Smith's Landing, near the mouth of Big Fish Creek.

Ohio Eldership.

This body will meet, God willing, at Madisonville, (4 miles north of Wooster,) Wayne county, Ohio, on Monday, the 15th of October.

The ministers and Elders will please bear in mind the resolution passed at our last session, to meet on the previous Saturday prepared to stay one week, in order to give the Church more preaching than usual. It is the desire of the Church at Madisonville, that the brethren should attend generally. They have a large and commodious house and plenty of accommodations. A. Megrew.

East Pennsylvania Eldership.

The East Pennsylvania Eldership will be held, Deo Volente, at Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Wednesday, the 31st day of October next.

The opening sermon will be preached by Elder David Maxwell, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

Protracted Meeting in Lancaster.

A special meeting of days, Providence permitting, will be held with the Church of God in Lancaster, Pa., commencing on Saturday, the 27th inst. A general invitation to neighboring ministers and people is hereby given, to attend the meeting.

J. H. Hurley, Pastor,
On behalf of the Church.

Protracted Meeting in Harrisburg.

A Protracted meeting will be held, Deo Volente, in the Harrisburg Bethel, commencing on Friday, the 5th inst., and to be continued indefinitely. G. U. Harn.

Protracted Meetings.

A Protracted meeting will be held at Millerstown, Lebanon county, Pa., commencing on Friday the 5th inst. T. Strohm,
A. Snyder.

A Protracted meeting will be held, God willing, at the Bethel, near brother J. B. Coover's, Cumberland county, commencing on Saturday evening, the 13th inst.

The preachers and members of neighboring churches are respectfully invited to attend.

POETRY.

WASHING THE DISCIPLES' FEET.

BY J. F. WEISHAMPEL, JR.

The praise of Jesus let us sing—
Our God, Redeemer, Ruler, King—
Who ransomed man from awful woe,
And raised himself a Church below.

He gave us life, and gave us grace,
And offered thus to save our race;
And told us deeds that we should do,
If Heaven's path we would pursue.

He told us that he could forgive,
And that we should "Repent and live,"
And follow ev'ry thing that He Performed in His humility.

And further still—to keep mankind
From being proud, and therefore blind,
He gave this law.—Now we may see
The virtue of Humility!

When we assemble in His name,
We often should perform the same:—
Our brethren one another greet,
And HUMBLY WASH EACH OTHER'S FEET.

O Jesus! Thou of David's line!
Smile down upon this deed of Thine—
For we can sing whene'er we meet,
That JESUS washed His people's feet!

Camp-meeting, Uniontown, Md. 1849.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 6th ult., by the Rev. J. F. Mesick, Mr. WILLIAM BOWMAN, of Londonderry, Lebanon county, to Miss ANN GINGRICH, of East Hanover, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the same, by the same, Mr. GEORGE STROOP, Editor of the Perry County Democrat, to Mrs. LARA JANE ROTH, both of Bloomfield, Perry county, Pa.

On the 15th ult., by J. Palmer, Esq., of Mechanicsburg, Mr. JOHN OBRES to Miss MILLINDAH SMITH, both of Cumberland county, Pa.

On the 18th ult., by John Winebrenner, V. D. M., brother JOHN V. HEISTAND to sister EVE ANN GONDER, both of Lancaster county, Pa.

On the 20th ult., in Wooster, Ohio, by Elder A. Megrew, Mr. EMANUEL SHISSLER to Miss CATHARINE HAINLEY, both of Wayne county, Ohio.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—Near Linglestown Dauphin, county, Pa., August 23d, 1849, JONAS ALFRED REEME, son of brother Benjamin and sister Eliza Reeme, aged 8 years and 24 days.

Brother B. Reeme's family has been very much afflicted with sickness for some time. May the good Lord comfort him and his family in their bereavement.

THOMAS STROHM.

Near Linglestown, September 6th, ELIAS W., son of brother William H. and sister Catharine Reeme, aged 2 years, 9 months and 17 days.

His remains were conveyed to his resting place, after which a discourse, appropriate to the occasion, was delivered in the Bethel, to the friends and neighbors, by the writer, from Isaiah 64: 6. And on our return to the house, we found JOHN A. REEME lying a corpse. Thus we perceive death has entered this dear family, and robbed it, in the short space of twelve hours, of two of its brightest jewels. A loss that can never be repaired on earth.

No more their much loved mother's arms,
Shall clasp her lovely, prattling boys;
Their father, on their blooming charms,
Shall look no more, on earth, with joy.

Some angel on his wings of love,
Has born to yonder gates of gold;
To yonder land of light and love,
Where they their God may now behold.

Weep not, ye parents, for their flight,
But think, how soon you'll meet your boys,
Upon that blissful shore of light,
Where all is peace, where all is joy.

Weep not that now those lovely flowers,
Lie withering 'neath the silent sod:
For oh! they bloom this very hour,
In the bright garden of their God.

J. H. HURLEY.

On the 5th ult., at Maria Forges, very suddenly, RICHARD BRYAN, aged 7 years, 1 month and 11 days.

Funeral sermon by the writer, from 2 Sam. 12: 23. D. KYLE.

In Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., August 27th, CHARLOTTE, daughter of Israel and Susan Brady, aged 5 months and 14 days.

Farewell, dear babe, thou art gone,
To thy long eternal home;
There with angels thou dost dwell,
And sweetly sing that "all is well."

A. J. K.

On the 11th ult., near Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, ELIZA JANE, daughter of Geo. and Elizabeth Eppley, aged 2 years, 1 month and 1 day.

"Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."—Jesus.

Funeral services conducted by Bishops J. Erb and D. Maxwell.

On the 10th ult., at Linglestown, Dauphin county, Pa., NICHOLAS CULP, aged 29 years and 4 months.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,		$4	50	a 4	62½
Do.	RYE, do. - -	2	75	a 2	75
Do.	CORN, do. - -	2	75	a 2	75
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,			96	a	98
Do.	RYE, do. - -		60	a	62½
Do.	CORN, new do. - -		55	a	58
Do.	OATS, do. - -		30	a	31
Do.	BARLEY, do. - -		60	a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER,	do. - -	3	00	a 3	50
Do.	TIMOTHY, do. - -	3	00	a 3	25
Do.	FLAX, do. - -	1	00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -		5	00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - -		5	00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -			10	a	11
BUTTER, do. - - - - -			12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -			7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -			8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.			6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -			10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -			87½	a 1	00
ONIONS, do. - - -			75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -			25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.		1	25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -			37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -			30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -		1	15	a 1	16
HAY, per ton, - - - - -		10	00	a 11	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -		4	00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,		$5	12½	a 5	25
Do.	RYE, do. -	3	00	a 3	10
Do.	CORN, do. - -	3	00	a 3	12½
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,		1	03	a 1	05
Do.	RYE, do. - -		62	a	65
Do.	CORN, new do. - -		65	a	65
Do.	OATS, do. - -		30	a	31
Do.	BARLEY, do. - -		75	a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER,	do. - -	4	00	a 4	25
Do.	TIMOTHY, do. - -	2	75	a 3	00
Do.	FLAX, do. - -	1	30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt.,	- - -	7	00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - -		7	00	a 7	25

Printers and Publishers

OF Newspapers are informed that the subscribers are extensively engaged in the manufacture of PRINTING INK of every color and quality, which they know to be equal to any manufactured, and which they will sell at the lowest prices for Cash. As they are determined that their INK shall recommend itself, they only solicit ONE TRIAL of it, relying upon its merits for future patronage. Their Colored Inks are warranted superior to any manufactured. A circular containing prices, &c., will be sent to those who desire it. Orders for Cash on City Agents accepted.

☞ Publishers of Newspapers inserting this advertisement to the amount of $2 and sending us a copy of paper, by remitting $5 at any time will receive a 30 lb. keg of EXTRA News Ink.

ADAMS & CO.,
Steam Printing Ink Works, Philadelphia,
Agents for the sale of new and second hand printing materials.

Property for Sale.

THE subscriber will sell at Private Sale a small property, situated in Fairview township, York county, Pa., about 1¼ mile from Lisburn, consisting of 43 acres and 44 perches, 18 or 20 acres of which are wood-land.

The buildings are a Two Story Log House, a Bank Barn, partly new, together with other neeessary improvements.

There is an excellent Spring of water quite near the dwelling. Also, an Apple Orchard of about three acres, and a variety of other fruit; such as Pears, Peaches, Quinces, Cherries, &c.

There is an excellent Garden, which can be irrigated or watered in dry seasons, so as always to yield well.

If the above property is not sold on or before Saturday, the 27th of October next, it will then be offered at public sale, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The property will be sold on very easy and reasonable terms, which will be made known on the day of sale.

Sept. 6, '49. JACOB FREESE.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in duo decimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Missionary Pledges.

WE, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, -		$10 00
William Reichert, - -		5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -		10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -		5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -		5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -		10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -		10 00
James Miller, - - -		5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -		5 00
Thomas Strohm, - -		5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -		5 00
Abraham Sherich, - - -		7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -		5 00
A liberal brother, - - -		20 00
A liberal sister, - - -		2 00

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following

NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and imbossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post-paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

FOR the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, and BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. JACOB MYERS, Pittsburg, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., OCTOBER 15, 1849. NUMBER 12.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Fourteen.

Names	Am't. paid	Names.	Am't. paid
Albright Peter B	$1 00	Laverty D A L	$1 25
Angle Samuel	1 25	Lux Henry	1 00
Andrews Abraham	1 00	Lambert Michael	1 00
Atticks Peter S	1 50	Long Hiram	1 00
Alleshouse John	62	Markley Martin	1 00
Anderson James	1 25	Myers Susan	1 00
Anderson William	1 00	Mahany Wm J	50
Albright Peter B	25	Miller Robert	1 00
Atticks Jacob	1 50	Moyer Samuel K	1 25
Ash Josiah	50	Miller Jacob	1 00
Bean Thomas	1 25	McNeil John	50
Barnhart Stephen	1 00	McAllister Ryland B	1 00
Benedict John	1 25	Millard Isaac	1 00
Bossler Jonas	1 00	Millisen Alfred W	1 00
Bowser Solomon	1 00	Nauman Rebecca	1 00
Bolgh Michael	1 50	Oren Jesse	1 00
Cramer Michael	1 25	Orth Andrew	75
Charlton James	1 00	Patterson Creig	1 00
Christ J H	1 25	Presler Henry	1 00
Cobaugh Christian	1 25	Reeme Daniel	1 25
Cramer Mary	2 00	Rohrer David	1 50
Dendler Jacob	1 25	Reese Wm M	1 00
Dennis James	1 50	Reeme Jonas	1 00
Druckenbrodt Samuel	50	Stees Daniel	1 25
Ettinger J G	1 00	Speelman Jonas	1 25
Etter George	1 25	Shelly Daniel	1 25
Freeburn John	1 25	Sheckler Susannah	50
Flowers John	1 00	Shontz Aaron	1 25
Fosnacht Conrod	2 00	Shott A H	1 25
Fenton Andrew J	1 00	Sweigert Jacob (in full)	3 00
Funk Abraham	50	Stoner Henry W	1 00
Fuss David	1 25	Snavely Jacob	1 00
Forney John	50	Schaeffer Jacob	1 00
Gramling John	1 25	Smith Jesse	2 00
Gingerich David	1 00	Sholl Henry	1 50
George John G	3 00	Singiser Mary	1 25
Grove Christian	1 25	Siple Henry	1 25
Handshue John	2 12	Stamen Elizabeth	1 00
Hollinger Seth	1 25	Sheader Henry	1 00
Hunsecker John Z	1 25	Thompson F N	1 00
Houston Levi	2 50	Vandersaul Jacob	1 00
Houston John	1 50	Wolfley John	1 25
Heistand John	25	Wagner John	50
Heistand Henry	75	Wolf Mary	1 50
Hicks Amos	1 50	Wagoner Samuel	1 00
Kriger Eliza	1 00	Walton Geo W	1 25
Kumbler William	1 25	Whitnight E W	1 25
Kline Jacob	1 25	Winters Daniel	1 87
Kimmel George	1 52	Wulsler John	75
Lehman Michael	1 25	Weaver Jonathan	1 00

Suicide of a Murderer.

Frederick Smith, convicted at Gettysburg of the murder of Frederick Foster, was sentenced to be hung on Tuesday, the 25th ult. On Friday the prisoner anticipated justice, by hanging himself in his cell.

Dedication.

The new Bethel near brother Kumbler's, Perry county, Pa., will be dedicated to the worship of God on Sabbath, the 18th of November.

The services will commence on Saturday evening previous.

A public collection will be taken up on the occasion.

The ministers and people of the neighborhood and surrounding country, are respectfully invited to attend.

Deplorable Accident.

John Reily, eldest son of Dr. L. Reily of our borough, lost his left arm on Friday, the 28th ult., by the accidental discharge of a gun. He was out on a hunting excursion, accompanied by his father and brother. The gun was accidentally discharged on his attempting to remove it from the carriage, shattering his arm so terribly as to render amputation necessary. It was taken off above the elbow. We are gratified to learn that he is doing well.

Martic Meeting.

The meeting in Martic township, Lancaster county, turned out well. The rain, on Sabbath, drove us out of the woods into brother J. A. Augustine's house. The meetings throughout on Sabbath and Monday were solemn and reviving. Some half dozen or more were hopefully converted, and six happy souls were baptized, in the name of the Holy Trinity, on Monday afternoon.

Another baptizing was given out for Tuesday afternoon, and preaching for the evening; but as we left there on Tuesday morning, and have heard nothing concerning the meeting since, we cannot now give any further results of the meeting, except that prospects were very flattering when we left.

Dedication of the Churchtown Bethel.

The Bethel at Churchtown, Pa., built for the use of the Church of God, will be dedicated, Deo Volente, on the 11th of November, 1849.

Services are to commence on Friday evening, the 9th. There will be public collections taken up on the occasion, to aid in defraying the expenses incurred by the erection of the building.

As the meeting is to be protracted for some time, it is expected that the brethren in the ministry, who may visit us on the occasion, will make their arrangements to stay some time.

We give a special invitation to the brethren of the local churches, and the people generally in the surrounding country, to visit us at that time.

GEORGE SINGISER,
Chairman of Committee.

Our Book Depository at Pittsburg.

We gave notice heretofore that Mrs. Sarah Sadler, in Allegheny city, was our agent for the sale of our books. Those who may want Hymn-books, &c., can be supplied by calling on her. The preachers can have books on credit, for notes, at sixty or ninety days.

Money Wanted.

We again request our subscribers who are in arrears for the Advocate, to send us our dues. If they do not wish to send by mail, they will please to send by the hands of the preachers or Elders, to the ensuing Elderships. By so doing, they will much oblige.

Our book agents will also oblige us, by making arrangements to pay up their accounts by that time.

New subscribers can now have the paper, from this to the first of May next, for fifty cents. How many will send us their names?

Evangelical Music.

The proprietor offers for sale, at reduced prices, the Evangelical Music-book, containing a great variety of popular Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Set pieces and Anthems.

This popular Music-book has been before the public for a number of years, and has received a very flattering reception among various Religious Denominations and Musical Associations. The following favorable recommendations and notices, are given in evidence of the truthfulness of this statement.

Extracts from Various Recommendations.

From the Minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia.—"The committee state that they have examined, as carefully as practicable, the 'Evangelical Music,' and cheerfully recommend it to the congregations under their care, as a good system of Church Music."

From the Philadelphian.—"'Evangelical Music' is pronounced, by those who are qualified to judge of its merits, an excellent collection of the most approved tunes appropriate to psalmody. As it is adapted to promote a correct taste and sound judgment as it regards an important and animating part of the sacred services of the sanctuary, it cannot fail to secure the favor of all who are interested in the exhibition of true religion in its native loveliness."

From the Weekly Messenger.—"This work needs but to be known, to give it a standing with the popular works of the day."

From the Minutes of the Bellefonte Musical Association.—"Resolved, That we consider 'Evangelical Music' the best work of the kind known to us; and cheerfully recommend it to all lovers of Sacred Music."

From the Minutes of the Jacksonville Musical Association.—"Resolved, that we concur in the many flattering commendations already given to this work. We consider it an invaluable acquisition to Singing Societies, and recommend it in preference to any other collection of Sacred Music with which we are acquainted."

"Having found, from actual use, that the work entitled 'Evangelical Music' is eminently calculated for the use of Singing Schools, Societies, and Choirs, I would encourage its publication, and recommend it to public patronage.

"AMOS ALLEN, New York"

"Every lover of good music should seek to introduce it, as the most effectual means of improving so important a part of church worship. "H. W. KAUFMAN."

"Carlisle, Pa."

"I can, with pleasure, add my name to the many who have recommended the work. The choice selections of tunes, and the richness of the harmony, render it highly valuable to Singing Schools and Societies. I have used most of the Music-books lately published, and give this a decided preference.

"JOHN DAY."

"Coatsville, Pa.

FOR SALE,

At this office, and at our Depositories. See last page of this paper. Editor.

Nevin on the Sect Spirit,

alias

Review of the History of Denominations.

Prof. J. W. Nevin has taken in hand to review the work entitled "History of the Religious Denominations in the U. S." The lover of the marvellous and ridiculous will find a long and labored article, on this subject, in the September number of the "Mercersburg Review," from page 482 to 507. The greater part of this long and paradocical piece, is in perfect keeping with the haughty and erratic notions of this modern troubler of God's Israel.

Not content with the troubles he has made at home—in the church which adopted him—he every now and then walks abroad, and trys to pick a quarrel with his neighbors. In the article under consideration, he repeatedly sounds the "war-hoop," and makes sauey and impudent attacks on various Denominations: such as the Congregationalists, the New School Presbyterians, Lutherans, Baptists, Disciples, &c., &c. The fact is, he is full of the war spirit, and if we mistake not, is laboring for a warrior's crown. But he may chance to die in battle;—if not, it may nevertheless be true, that like Luther's would-be Priest, he would make a better sheep than a shepherd.

On the whole, would it not be more befitting for that learned sage, as a professed minister of Christ and Professor of theology, to study to be quiet, to mind his own business, to cast the beams out of his own eye, and to meddle less with other people's matters. We make this suggestion for his particular benefit and consideration.

We have neither time nor inclination to review his article at present, (we may hereafter correct some of his blunders,) nor, in any way, to come in contact with him. Not because we fear him, but because he is a coward, a railer, and a bitter Sectarian. Heretofore we have proved him, and found him to be such. Hence we seek no controversy with him.

But we cordially sympathize with the people of the German Reformed Denomination, that they have been so unfortunate as to get such a Puseyistic distractor at the head of their literary and theological institutions. Yet, I greatly fear, that some of them even love to have it so. But time, by and by, will show whether it was good policy in them,—whether for their weal or wo, that they went abroad, to buy up their Professors in Germany or among the Presbyterians.

Howbeit, Dr. Nevin has said and written some good things. Even in this fulsome article, on the sect spirit, &c., there are some excellent sayings. For the present we shall only notice what he has been pleased to say in commendation of the book in question. His words are as follows :

"We are willing to acknowledge, that we made very small account of this book when it first came in our way. But we were wrong. That first judgment was quite too hasty and sweeping; and we have been brought to entertain since, a much more favorable feeling towards the work. Our prejudice is fairly converted into a sort of a fond partiality. We positively like the book, and would not consent to part with it easily. There is much to be learned from it for a seriously thoughtful mind; something directly; and a good deal more in the way of suggestion and silent circuitous meditation,

"It was a happy thought, to add in this second edition the twenty-four lithographed pictures of 'distinguished men in the different denominations.' This is is a decided improvement, worth itself almost the price of the book; for the pictures are good in their kind, and may be taken we believe, as very fair and truthful images of the men they represent Altogether then, we are well pleased with these portraits. They have already fixed themselves in our mind, and we frequently revert to them, in the view now mentioned, as subjects for profitable contemplation."

On Baptism.

If the Scriptures are to be understood in their first signification, unless it will make no good sense, what is the import or meaning of the following texts on baptism? viz :—Mark 16: 16. Acts 2: 38. Acts 22: 16. 1 Peter 3: 21. Romans 6: 4. Colos. 2: 8—12.

Yours, DANIEL WERTZ.

Remarks.—The Scriptures must always be taken in a literal common sense signification, unless there is something in the text or context that requires and indicates a different interpretation.

The texts referred to, must be understood according to the primary meaning of the original terms, relating to the ordinance of water baptism. The following authorities, as to the true and proper meaning of the original terms, and some of the passages referred to, are deemed sufficient :—

Calvin says: "The word baptizo signifies to immerse; and it is certain that immersion was the practice of the ancient church." (See Institutes, Lib. v. ch. 15 § 2)

Luther says: "Baptism is a Greek word, and may be translated immersion, as when we immerse anything in water, that it may be wholly covered." (See Luth. Op. vol. i. page 336.)

Beddeus: "The words baptizein and baptismos are not to be interpreted of aspersion, but always immersion." (See Theolog. Dogmat., Lib. v. ch. 1, § 5.)

Wesley: "Mary Welsh was baptized, according to the custom of the first church and the rule of the church of England, by immersion." (See J. Wesley's Journal.)

Dr. Geo. Campbell: "The word baptizein, both in sacred and classical authors, signifies to dip, to plunge, to immerse."

Dr. A. Clarke: "That the baptism of John was by plunging the body, seems to appear from those things which are related of him: namely, that he baptized in Jordan; that he baptized in Enon, because there was much water there; and that Christ being baptized, came up out of the water; to which that seems to be a parallel, Acts viii. 38, Philip and the eunuch went down into the water, &c." (See Notes on Baptism at the end of Mark.)

Bishop Taylor: "The custom of the ancient churches was not sprinkling, but immersion; in pursuance of the sense of the word in the commandment, and the example of our blessed Saviour."

Dr. Chalmers: "The original meaning of the word baptism, is immersion; and the administration of it in the Apostles' days, was by an actual submerging of the whole body under water." (See Chalmer's Lectures on Rome, ch. vi. 4.)

The last two texts referred to above, are thus explained by the following pœdobaptist authors, to wit :—

Dr. Whitby: "It is expressly declared here, (Rom. vi. 4, and Cor. ii. 12,) that we are buried with Christ in baptism, by being put under water; and that immersion has been observed by all Christians for thirteen centuries." (See Note on Rom. vi. 4.)

Archbishop Tillotson: "Anciently, those who were baptized were immersed and buried in the water, to represent their death to sin; and then did rise up out of the water, to signify their entrance upon a new life. And to these customs the Apostle alludes, Rom. vi. 3-5; Col. ii. 12."

John Wesley: "Buried with him, &c., alluding to the ancient manner of baptizing by immersion." (See Wesley's Notes on Rom. vi. 4.)

Bloomfield, (a German author,) in his Critical Digest on Rom. vi. 4, says: "There is here plainly a reference to the ancient mode of baptism by immersion; and I agree with Hoppe and Rosenmuller, that there is reason to regret it should have been abandoned in most Christian churches, especially as it has so evidently a reference to the mystic sense of baptism."

Dr. A. Clarke: "The baptism which they (the first Christians) received, they considered as an emblem of their natural death and resurrection. This doctrine St. Paul most pointedly preaches, Rom. vi. 4, 5." (See Notes on 1 Cor. xv. 29.)

The following question is propounded by another correspondent, and is briefly answered.

The Operations of the Spirit.

Does the Holy Spirit act immediately upon the heart of the sinner, enabling him to receive the truth, or does he affect the heart through the truth, after it has been presented to the mind!

The above questions are put for the purpose of receiving light on this subject; but who can fully elucidate it! If the statements of the Bible do not decide and settle the questions suggested, can it be hoped that the reasonings of metaphysicians will ever settle them, so as to satisfy thinking inquirers?

If we mistake not, it will be difficult to find authority in the Holy Scriptures to warrant anything like positive assertion in support of one of the above questions, to the exclusion of the other. For who can affirm that the spirit of God acts directly, rather than indirectly, in affecting the developments of mind through the medium of truth? "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh or whither it goeth: so is every one that is born (begotten) of the spirit." The operations of God in the kingdom of grace, like many of his works in the natural world, are too profound to be scanned or comprehended by human reason.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

The Lord's Supper.

ITS DESIGN.

It was an interesting meeting. Not indeed a boisterous popular assembly where stirring eloquence aroused the dormant energies to meditate deeds of valor or of madness. Nor was it the sitting of the Senate where august and honored legislators were weighing the fate of empire. Nor yet was it the multitudes thronging the path of the returning conqueror, eager to "throw the ready cap in air," and erect monuments to perpetuate his triumphs. It was not the meeting and greetings of friends long parted where cherished affection remains strong and ardent. Neither was it the return of the absent and sinning, in penitence to the paternal or to the domestic hearth. No! It was none of these. These all have their interest, but quite unlike that of this meeting.

It was the meeting of Jesus and his disciples in an upper chamber on the night before the Jewish passover. Night rested upon Jerusalem, and its inhabitants were busily engaged in preparing for the celebration of the feast. Ever and anon they pause to hear some rumor of a marvellous event that had recently transpired in a neighboring village. Jesus, wandering from city to city houseless and well nigh friendless, followed by despised fishermen and publicans, and eating and mingling with sinners, had raised the dead. The evidence was conclusive—Lazarus was indeed alive, after having laid in his grave for four days. The other miracles of the Saviour were also supported by indisputable evidence; but all this only incensed the Jews and their rulers the more against their author. Indeed the more the Saviour exhibited of the evidences of his mission, the more his countrymen were resolved not to acknowledge him as the long expected Messiah. Failing to answer him in his teaching, their shame for their complete discomfitures led them to more secret and violent means. So bitterly did they become incensed that they would be satisfied only with his death—bloody passions thirsted for his life. Treachery even was lurking among his little band of chosen disciples, and this treachery was about to betray him to death by the shameful cross.

Of all this the Saviour was fully aware, as he gathered his disciples around him on that memorable night. The burthen of his heart, soon to be exhibited in the garden, seems to have been rolling upon him; and he begins to prepare the little band around him for the blow about to fall and deprive them of the earthly presence of their Master. He speaks of his approaching crucifixion, of his separation from them—implying that this is their last meeting—and thus fixes their attention upon the subject of his death. The disciples are utterly amazed; for they had not thought so soon to be separated from their chosen teacher and leader. They had not understood the Prophets, and those intimations which Jesus himself had before given of the termination of his ministry by the sacrifice of himself. Still they supposed that his success, the truthfulness of his mission, and their own future well-being to depend upon his life.

But now the popular ferment without, and the declarations of their Master, for the first time brings them to realize that soon he was to be taken from them: for he had not only spoken of the instrument of his death, but of the treachery which should lead to it, and had even pointed out the traitor, and fixed upon him the mark of hell. He who has stood at the bedside of a friend upon whom death has set his seal, and watched the ebbings of life while the strong cords of affection are breaking, can realize something of the feelings of the disciples on that occasion. Their Master, whom they had left all to follow, was about to die, and his death seemed to them the end of his ministry to the world and the blasting of all their hopes.—Preaching "Christ crucified" was a thought they had never entertained.

In the midst of such circumstances, Jesus instituted the Lord's Supper, and gave language to their silent but unmistakable significance, and the design of the ordinance, saying—"This do in remembrance of me." To have introduced anything with any other design than to fix their minds upon his death and its significance would have been like levity in the chamber of death. In relation to any other design the Scriptures are entirely and ominously silent.—To remember Christ, to show forth his death till he come, and to discern the Lord's body, are the only design of which they speak. Who will dare to add another? Who will dare to add to the positive ordinances of Christ? And is it not enough that we obey what he has commanded? What works of supererogation would we perform to render ourselves more acceptable to him?—especially when to do so would be to forbid what his teaching permits.

This design is at once definite and easily to be understood. By requiring them to remember him in so solemn a manner, it threw their reflections forward to the mission of Christianity in the future; indicating that "Christ crucified" was to become at once the burthen of their thoughts and to subserve this the object of their lives. A vicarious atonement, Christ suffering in our stead, is foreshadowed in the sacred emblems, and faith in this atonement the substance which obedience to this rite indicates.

If this be the only design of the institution, then it clearly follows that whosoever is capable of truly remembering Christ in a Scripture sense; or, what evidently means the same thing, of showing forth his death till he come, or of discerning the Lord's body, is not only permitted but commanded by the Divine founder to participate in this ordinance. And who will say that all true Christians, all real disciples of our Lord are not able to remember him, &c.? Hence all who partake of the substance by spiritual communion with the Saviour, are authorized and commanded to partake of its symbols in the bread and cup of the Lord's Supper. A. D. W.

Lights and Shadows.---No. 1.

BY J. FLAKE.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9, 1849.

AGAIN within thy walls, O city of brotherly love—home of my childhood and youth; and unto thee how gladly I still cleave in later years. The world has no city equal to thee, as a pleasant dwelling place.

I was summoned away from Shippensburg to see the best friend I had in the world—an only sister—before she died. She sleeps in Christ Jesus, and is buried alongside of her mother and mine.

I resigned the charge of the Church at Shippensburg to the brethren, who kindly released me. I understand since, that a good work of religion has commenced. I did not expect to be there longer than the time of the Eldership, but the sad Providence I have mentioned hastened my departure. So it will be when called to pass over Jordan myself—there must be no lingering on these mortal shores. O for grace to be ready.

Churches are multiplying greatly in this wide spreading town. I preached by invitation in a new and independent church a couple of Sabbaths ago. My young friend, Henry D. Moore, preaches there the evangelical doctrine, and practice, nearly as we do. It is in Thirteenth street, near Coates street, where they have built a large and handsome house, and have a fine congregation. And this morning I preached for the Protestant Methodists, in the western part of the city. My subject was the dream that Jacob had on his journey. Genesis 28: 13. Another of my young friends is stationed here, Frederick Swentzell, who was one of the converts in our memorable revival when I first went to Lancaster, eight years ago. The true and living ministry, like the true Church, never dies. One falls from the walls of Zion, and another steps into his place, and the sound of salvation still rolls round our guilty world, and the Lord gathers in one after another to make a people for himself.

—

SEPTEMBER 23.

Last Sabbath evening I preached again for the P. Methodists, from that good saying—Psalm 84: 7—"They go from strength to strength; every one of them in Zion appeareth before God." I likened the journey of the Christian now, to the journey of the pious Israelites, going up from a distance to Jerusalem, to worship, every year at the great festivals. Mark it—every one at last appears safe in Zion. The dangers of the way are great—but none are missing.

"They go from strength to strength,
Through this dark vale of tears;
Till all arrive at length,
Till each in heaven appears;
O happy place!
When God our King,
Shall hither bring,
Our willing souls."

It is thus my text is put into rhyme, by Watts, the sweet singer of gospel days.

And then, this morning I preached a third time for the same people. My text was Luke 11: 13, "If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children; how much more shall your Heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?" It is a sanctification text, and I try to preach the blessed doctrine from it. We must be sanctified, or we cannot stand on Mount Zion, and walk the streets of the holy city.

In my text the first point of doctrine that our Saviour teaches is, that men are evil; and we cannot by self-flattery make the fact otherwise. But how far evil? Why the moral disease exists in all, but some are worse than others. We need not say that man is a brute, and a devil:—this would be ultraism, and going to extremes. But the Prophets, and Apostles, and Jesus are sure guides, and they tell us that man is evil—but not so far gone as to be incurable.

I hope to have the privilege of meeting the brethren at our ensuing yearly meeting, which we call the Eldership. This is to me a great satisfaction. The chief brethren attend the meeting, and these ought to be the best men among us, for they have the oversight of the churches, and will have to give account of their stewardship in the great day. In the Eldership let selfishness, and the fear of man, be lost sight of, and the fear of God, and love of his cause, prevail over every other consideration. The Presbytery, or Eldership, is to advise, and lead, and govern.

The summer days are gone, and the soher autumn is here. The year forty nine has been a year of trial to many. A large part of the nations of Christendom have been in a state of political turmoil, in which the down-trodden millions have tried to gain a share of the earth, which it is said, "the Lord gave to the children of men." But the Kings and nobles have triumphed for the present, and our own Republic stands alone in its beauty, and greatness, as the refuge of the oppressed, who come here from the old world to find a home.

But even we have been visited in many of our towns and cities with the fearful Cholera, which through God's mercy has now nearly passed away. And many dwellings now seem desolate, and lonesome, because some dear friends are gone, to return no more. O for a happy lot in that better land, where those who loved the Lord here on earth, have gone before us.

My Present Lot and Afflictions.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I NOW, by the blessing of God, seat myself to give you a sketch of my experience for the last four weeks. On the 23d of August the Cumberland County Camp-meeting ended. It was a dark, dreary, damp morning, and we were visited with a heavy rain before we left the ground.

During that camp I heard a good old mother tell her experience. It was something for me. She gave such encouragement, that I feel this morning, by the grace of God, never to yield preaching the gospel till my tongue is still in death.

From the camp-ground I went, in company with brother Worst's kind family, to Mechanicsburg. We arrived there about eleven o'clock, where I dined. I then began to think it was too late for me to go to the camp in Perry county or at Broad Top; so I committed myself into the hands of God and started that afternoon to see my aged mother. On Friday I had a pleasant day. The sun shone beautifully: nature seemed enshrouded in splendor. As I rode along, the sun being hot, I hoisted my umbrella, and taking one of brother Bamberger's Journals, tying the lines of my horse to the buggy, I spent the day in reading. I found it very interesting and comfortable to my soul. I try to redeem my time, brother Winebrenner, because I feel the calling to the ministry is important. On Friday night I stayed with brother Matthews' kind family. On Saturday I visited some friends, and Sabbath I spent where there was a revival of religion going on. During the day I felt very unwell. In the evening I felt I was about taking the fever. I took some medicine, and retired for the night. On Monday morning I felt so much indisposed that I was unable to go farther.

But, committing myself into the hands of God, I waited until noon. Feeling much better, I started, and in a few hours I arrived safe at my esteemed friend and relation, Dr. J. Carpenter's. He has been my physician for the last few years. I gave him a statement of my case, but he thought it was a cold that I had taken at the camp, and would wear off in a few days. I took more medicine and retired to bed. The next day I spent with him, but I felt quite unwell. I was but a few miles from my mother's. But on Wednesday morning I awoke with a scorching fever and symptoms of head pleurisy. In a few hours I was insensible of my condition. Here I lay suffering intense pain; the Doctor doing all that lay in his power to arrest the disease, until next Lord's-day, when he checked the fever, which had changed to a billious disease.

After the fever left me, and I became sensible of my condition, I felt, if it was the Lord's will that I must die, only to spare me to get back to my brethren in Cumberland county. I think I could live and die amongst them; for I am much attached to them. Hence I will try and say,—

Father, thy will, not mine, be done,
So prayed on earth thy suffering Son,
So in his name I pray:
The spirit fails, the flesh is weak,
Thy help in agony I seek,
O! take this cup away.

If such be not thy sovereign will,
Thy wiser purpose then fulfil,
My wishes I resign;
Into thine hands my soul commend,
On thee for life or death depend,
Thy will be done, not mine.

After the fever left me, I lay for one week that I felt no change. But I am now getting better, although my body is very weak and much reduced. I feel that I will not be able to resume my labors for some time, but I hope to get my place supplied by some kind brethren on the circuit. We are to bear one another's burden. I hope they will help me.

This was the severest spell of affliction that I have had for six or seven years. But since the Lord has chastised me, through it he has shown me what he wants me to do. I hope it may yield me the peaceable fruits of righteousness.

During my sickness I was visited by four preachers. Mr. Hallowell, from Baltimore county, Md., and Messrs. Shuman, Elderdice and Keller. But the most consolation that I got was from an aged mother in the Lord, who watched over me during my sickness. I feel that I can never repay her for her kindness to me. Truly has the Lord said, ye shall receive fathers and mothers, sisters and brothers. I found it so in this case as well as others.—When I get able to travel, I will start out I hope, with fresh courage and strong faith in God, to preach his word. May God bless and sanctify this affliction to me, and make me submissive to his will, is my prayer.

—

SEPTEMBER 22.

I have now arrived at Mechanicsburg. Many are the changes since I left. Some have died and gone to eternity. But I thank God that I am still what I am. For the present I am too weak to preach. My bodily strength is far gone.

Brother Winebrenner, I trust that my afflictions are a sufficient excuse for my non-attendance at the meeting in Fishing Creek. It is well known that when I disappoint, something is the matter. But as I was laying upon a bed of sickness, all I could do was to pray the Lord to send the church preachers. God answered my prayer. As long as my body is able, I will blow the trumpet. I desire an interest in the prayers of God's dear people in my behalf, that he may help me to preach his word May God help me so to do.

Yours, affectionately,
J. C. SEAFROOKS.

A Baltimore Epistle.

BY JOHN C. OWENS.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

IN compliance (no doubt) with the wishes of many readers of the Advocate, I at length have concluded to break a long and conflicted silence, and place before the numerous readers of your excellent paper a few reflections. I shall do this by laying down some facts as a basis of my communication.

The first is, that for nearly a year and a half, I have been (almost) constantly laboring and living under deep and severe trials. Those feelings arose, in part, from not seeing as much good effected in Baltimore, as I have seen in other places, with less labor on my own part. It is true, some little good may have been done, but at the present it is rather a dark and gloomy time with us.

The second point is, to give some of the prominent reasons for this state of things. So far as I can understand the matter it is, that a part of those composing the Church of God at Baltimore have never obeyed the important charge of the Apostle, namely: "Be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord." But on the contrary, they have been unstable in all their religious movements; one thing to-day, and another to-morrow.

However, much as some Churches are weakened by such troubles, there are those who are the salt of the earth. A few of such noble men and women, we have in Baltimore; whose example and Christian integrity, is a standing evidence that they love to hear and practice Bible truth. There are a few names in Baltimore, who have not defiled their garments with traitorism, through whose faith and practice, joined with fervent prayer, we trust God will yet pour out his spirit of awakening grace, and give them a triumphant and successful victory over the devil and all his doctrines and practices.

There are a few other impediments in our way of progress, as a Church, in Baltimore. One is the want of temporal means. Poverty by no means is a sin, but it is a very inconvenient and perplexing companion. This I have proven to my satisfaction, since I have been a residenter of the Monumental City, of the State of Maryland. It is true, that the Church here (except those troubles) have done nobly in trying to sustain the cause among them.—Also, the small relief sent us by a few good brethren scattered among the Churches in Pennsylvania, was a great blessing to us at a time when it was most needed. Their charity and love to the poor, as expressed in their communications, shall be rewarded to them four-fold in this life, and shall be volumes of commendation (for them) in the world to come. Could others feel for our situation as did they, what an additional comfort would we realize. We do not ask as is stated in Prov. 1: 14, "Cast in thy lot among us; let us have one purse."

But the East Pennsylvania Eldership is fast approaching; and in order to prepare the Board of Missions to meet those calls which, from necessity, will be made on them, it is expected that the preachers and the brethren on the different circuits, and in the several stations, will not forget (in good time) to bring before the people the cause of the poor and dependent. The neglect of this matter will be a source of deep regret to those who are expecting promised aid from that quarter.

The second and last difficulty that I shall now mention is, the pride of human judgment, aided by the influence of the prejudice of education, interposes a formidable obstacle to the true teachings of the gospel kingdom, in its fullness. So prone are men (in Baltimore) to substitute something, either to aid in the accomplishment, or to serve as a substitute, for Bible teachings, that thousands of them continue to seek the substance in the shadow; and so inveterate are their prejudices in behalf of their dogmas, that they are ready to set down all who differ with them in opinion, (who are at the same time presenting to them, for their faith and practice, nothing but Bible truth,) as little better than the subverters of the very foundation of Christianity. But in all those conflicts through which we have passed, the Lord has been our strong tower. I can say, none of these things move me. I feel I am strongly attached to the cause of my Divine Master, and with my present feelings, I hope to live, labor and die in communion with the ministers and people of the Church of God.

Indiana Camp-meeting.

Some time in last May, brother T. Hickernell was with us, and left an appointment for a Camp-meeting in our neighborhood, Wabash county, Indiana, to commence on the 23d of August. At the Camp-meeting in Noble county, a number of the Elders promised to attend our meeting. Brother Baker says that brothers Martin, Slyter, C. Sands, and many other brethren, promised to come.

When the time drew near, the Methodists appointed a Camp-meeting close by, and they being a strong sect, we thought, of course, they would take our congregations, and so greatly injure or break up the meeting appointed by the Church of God. Hence, when we met to prepare the ground, we consulted with each other as to the propriety of holding a meeting, under these discouraging circumstances. But, in consequence of the Elders that we expected, coming from so great a distance, we thought it almost impossible to withdraw the meeting. Again, we thought there were so many brethren coming from the North, that we could, under God, have a good meeting notwithstanding. We accordingly prepared the ground, built a good stand, sufficiently large for all of the Elders in the State, and in addition to this, put up six tents, all of boards. When all was done, I thought that the beauty of the place, and the good feelings of the brethren, all seemed to bespeak the good enjoyments and happy results of our meeting, and that God would revive his work once more in our neighborhood. The day appointed came on. We moved into our tents. Brother Wm. Hood and myself into one tent, (neither of us making calculations to preach any at the meeting,) and others into theirs, earnestly waiting for the preaching brethren. Thus we toiled on and waited till Saturday evening, when we gave up all hopes of seeing them.

Reader, you may easily think it was a discouraging time. The beauty of the place, the good stand and tents, all seemed to increase the gloom that pervaded the church and people. The thought of some was, now the people will all go to the other Camp-meeting, and we shall be put to an open shame. Some were casting reflections on us, for having went on with the meeting. Reports, also, were put in circulation that we had appointed it in opposition to the other Camp-meeting. One man came and made a tent, but did not move into it, because he thought if the brethren did not come, he would not have to bear part with us. To this, I would say, there are some who are good soldiers after the battle is fought and the victory won.

Brother Hood and myself had been preaching through this country a long time, and we could not meet the wants and expectations of the people, but now the hardest trial was on hand. Every brother and sister was cast down, and seemed as if they could not get into the work. But the Lord our God be praised, for what he done for us in our extremity. The Son of righteousnes arose—the heavy clouds were dispelled—heaven appeared to smile. God gave energy to his word, spiritualized the devotions of the brethren, and victory was truly on the Lord's side.—Some were shouting aloud the praise of God, and others dancing like David before the ark. There was excellent order at the meeting. The people would take their seats in the congregation, and give attention to the word. The brethren faced the enemy like men in the holy war.

Brother Wm. Hood and myself were considerably worn down with the labors of the meeting; but I hope we have learnt a lesson that will do us both much good in the future. But as to a reward, the shouts of the new-born in Christ, is enough for us in this world. I do think that if the brethren had came on, according to promise, we would have had a glorious revival. But so it is; they disappointed us, and we have not heard from brother T. Hickernell, nor any of the Elders that we expected at the meeting, since. Probably they are convicted of their wrong, and are seeking forgiveness before they show themselves; but it may be they may have some disease. If I live to go to the next annual Eldership, I shall know the utmost of this matter.

I would say to the brethren of the North, that I cannot come to preach for them before the Eldership. But then arrangements will be made. May the Lord prosper them, and be with them. GEO. THOMAS.

September 16, 1849.

Perry County Camp-meeting.

Newport, Perry County, Pa.,
September 24, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

The Camp-meeting season is past; during which time I had the pleasure of attending two, for a part of the time, viz: one in Cumberland, and the other in Perry county.

I left home for the former on the 10th August, and, travelling by way of canal, arrived at the metropolis of our State on the next morning; and after spending a part of the day in walking through the borough, and pleasuring myself with the sight of many beautiful buildings, and with the delightful scenery presented to the eye of the beholder, by the broad bosom of the Susquehanna, which is spanned by the beautiful bridges,—in connection with many other things calculated to divert the attention,—I left the place for camp-hill; and on arriving at the place, was gratified to see a beautiful circle of tents erected in the grove by many disciples, who collected from different sections to worship the God of their salvation. There, with many of my Christian acquaintances and others, with whom for a few days I engaged in devotional exercises, the opportunity of so doing truly afforded me much gratification. It was with reluctance that I extended to many the parting hand on Monday. My desire was to remain until the conclusion of the meeting, but duty called me elsewhere to preach the gospel. Accordingly, by way of canal, I returned home on Tuesday, and by Wednesday morning arrived on the camp-ground, near Germany, Perry county.

This meeting was small:—but seven tents were erected. On seeing this small number, my mind was immediately carried back to the time when four times the number of tents were erected in this section of country. But why the same zeal is not manifested now, in the cause of God, as formerly, is best known to those who profess the name of Christ, and to the Great Head of the Church. But we hope the friends of the Redeemer's cause will be more active, if spared, by the next Camp-meeting season. Notwithstanding the meeting was small, yet it resulted in much good. The Church was considerably revived, some backsliders reclaimed, and a number converted, during the meeting. The reclaimed and newly converted. I estimate at between twenty-five and thirty. However, only seven were baptized. Seventeen united in church-fellowship. And I have understood that since the meeting, there have been several more that embraced Christianity. May God bless them all, and make them active, faithful and circumspect members of his kingdom.

The preachers in attendance were Elders Mullenix, Hartman, Wingard, Utley, Snyder, Coulter and myself.

As it regards the order observed during the meeting, I am glad to have it to say, to the honor of the people of Perry county, that I have never witnessed better order and conduct at a Camp-meeting.

SOLOMON BIGHAM.

Letter from Bro. J. H. Hurley, V. D. M.

Lancaster City, Sept. 25, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

By your permission, I will drop a few lines that may perhaps be of some interest to your readers. It just takes our city to afford us the raw materials. We have incidence in abundance, more especially if we light upon the precepts and maxims. Such, for instance, as the flutterings and flirtings of the giddy ladies, the frolics and rows of infatuated men that crowd our streets, who are going with magnetic speed to the devil, without ever pausing to think that their is a way of repose through the blood of Jesus. But the relation of these abroad, however, will not be likely to create a mental convulsion or raise an intellectual storm. There was no small fuss to-day, occasioned by the arrival of a company of some kind of creatures called a circus company. Men, women and children, from the town and country, made on the streets a motley crowd. Now, I have accidentally hit upon a text, so let me preach. These travelling circus companies constitute a bane for which there is no antidote, but a well regulated culture of the youthful mind, both morally and politically. In morals their whole tendency is to prevent the perceptions of the youths, whose minds are just being formed, and entice them to vice of more kinds than one. At a theatre, where tragedy is performed, there is something to arouse the mental faculties: at a circus there is nothing else than nonsense, vulgarity and sensual words and gestures. Yet they are countenanced by some who profess to know the Lord, not only by going themselves, but giving their children the reins and the levies and quarters too, to go there to learn to act the fool. But to lay religion to a side, in a political point of view, they ought to be frowned down by every lover of his country, and by every parent despised. Say not that I speak harsbly, but hear me. One glance at any of the glaring bills posted up or placarded by these travelling mountebanks, will satisfy every sensible man that I am not far wrong. One is pictured off as he appeared before her Majesty, the Queen of England: another has the equipage of Louis Phillippe, Ex-King of France: another has performed before all the crowned heads of Europe. Now if this was even true, ought it to commend them more to an American audience of intelligent men and women? By no means. It should sink them in the estimation and admiration of every friend of our Republican Government. How long will an intelligent community suffer themselves to be humbugged by these idle, money-loving mountebanks? How long will professors of religion continue to throw their influence against the Church of Christ? Oh! God arise and plead thine own cause. Subdue the power of the Prince of the air, who ruleth in the hearts of the children of disobedience. Let him have dominion no longer over this world of weeping and wo.

Yours, as ever,

J. H. HURLEY.

The following is from the Express, or Temperance organ, of Saturday morning, September 22d. You may, if you see proper, give it an insertion in the Advocate. J. H. H.

The Ladies' City Tract Society of Lancaster.

The Annual Meeting of this Society took place on Wednesday evening last, in the German Reformed (Rev. N. A. Keyes') Church. That a proper feeling is manifested by our citizens in this noble and philanthropic cause, was verified on the above evening, by the numbers that were present to give a listening ear and a praying heart for the advancement of this heaven-born institution.

The meeting was opened by Elder J. H. Hurley, pastor of the Church of God; then singing by the choir. After which the Rev. Dr. Baker read the report of the Society's operations during the past year, wherein it was shown that the ladies of Lancaster have done a magnanimous work in this their first year's organization. It was seen that during the past year 2082 tracts had been distributed, 22 destitute families supplied with the word of life, 82 Sabbath-school scholars secured, and seven persons persuaded to attend church. After which the Society was addressed by the Rev. J. McNair, Rev. N. A. Keyes, and Rev. Dr. Baker, on the good results that had taken place since their organization, which we trust will serve as a stimulus to propel the Society on in their labor of love, knowing that in due time they shall reap if they faint not. This Society numbers 264 members, whose influence is in active operation. Closing prayer by the Rev. Mr. Schweinetz, of the Moravian Church; and anthem by the choir.

Letter from Bro. L. Wolfersberger.

HARRISBURG, August 31, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

PERMIT me, through the Advocate, to drop a few thoughts for the consideration of my brethren and sisters in the Lord. I do it with all good feelings towards all that love God. I have been reading the history of good men, such as I believe had the love of God in their hearts; but I find that they went through a great many trials and difficulties, and preached with so much power, that sinners sometimes fell down and commenced crying for mercy. Here, a few inquiries arise in my thought.—Why is it not so now? I have frequently heard it related, that it was so under brother Winebrenner's preaching at first. But will any one say, we need not have such a power of God now, because the people know better in our enlightened days?

But, brethren, I will give you my opinion on this subject, and tell you what I think is the reason that there is not the same power.

One reason is, professors of religion are too cold; being, as the Revelator says, neither cold nor hot. And because they are so, God says, "I will spew them out of my mouth."

Secondly, there is too much pride among professors. This is another principal reason. Following after the fashions is too much in vogue; and preachers are afraid, if they touch this subject, they will hurt the feelings of some brethren and sisters. But let me here say, read the 33d chapter of Ezekiel, and learn that if you see an evil, and blow not the trumpet, and souls will be lost, their blood will be required at your hand.

But, says one, this and that preacher has it, and why cannot I? Or a sister, perhaps, says, this preacher's wife has it, and why may I not also have the same?

But, I believe, this is one of the greatest evils, and the downfall of most all the denominations, and may be the downfall of the few which are yet living. But, my brethren, let us preach against this accursed thing all that we can. It is through this that the devil fell and came into the world. It is this that has ruined thousands of young converts; and we may add, preachers along with them have become victims to this enemy. I have sometimes thought, if preachers were more of a light in this respect, there would not be so many backsliders. Brethren look at the revivals. Sometimes from twenty to fifty get religion at one place, and during one winter; but where are they the next winter again? Alas! then you will see them in all the maxims and fashions that the devil can bring up; and as the result of all this, they will soon be found backsliders ond stumbling-blocks. But some will say, they have a good deal of wool on their backs. We dare not put him out—he pays so much to the cause of God. If we do, we shall lose by it. If we put him out, he will not give any longer. But I say, out with the rotten fish, for fear they will spoil all the good ones.

Another cause of this degeneracy and declension, is miserlyness. Oh! stop, says one, you are going too far. But I say no. Let me tear down the sandy foundations. The miser sometimes would like to tent out at Camp-meetings, but he is afraid of his pence. He holds on to the strings, for fear some half-dollars will slip out. If you want means for the preacher, Oh! he says, he might preach without so much money! Just as though preachers ought to make their living they best way they can, and he treasure up all his dollars for his children. Oh! Lord, save the people from error.

Another cause is levity. This is another reason why the power of God is not as it has been. The Apostle says, "Neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, which is not convenient; but rather giving thanks." Beware, brethren, this evil is now raging among professors, and it is as contagious as the leprosy was in all times.

Still another evil is Sectarianism. Where is the love that John speaks of? He that is born of God, loves him that is born of God. Why is it so, that Christians do not unite more? If we are brethren, let us act as brethren. Let us go hand in hand, and tear down the strong-holds of the devil. Then, I believe, we can again have the same power; for God is the same God he ever was. But, says one, how is this to be done? Well, here I would say, let us all labor for the good of souls, and not from selfish motives, and I am certain the devil will have to fly. I go in for Christians uniting and extending to each other the hand of love. We are born of one spirit, and I am certain if we drink out of one cup, we can eat at one table.

These, brother, I believe, are some of the reasons why the same power is not now among the people as it was. My God remove all obtacles. Let us all pray for it, and labor for it, and I am certain God will again add his blessing, as he did in former years.

Yours, in the Lord,

LEVI WOLFERSBERGER.

Letter from Brother A. C. Raysor.

SALISBURY, September 15, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I TAKE my pen in hand to write a few lines for insertion, in that welcome visitor, the Church Advocate.

1st. The temperance cause is gaining ground here, notwithstanding the opposition of those who advocate the use of spirituous liquors.

A circumstance I will mention that occurred here. A man had asked a number of men to assist him in raising his barn, but as a Mr. Whiskey was not there, many left the place; which being made known in the village, the temperance men started out to take their place and to assist in the work, and the barn was soon raised: although some had remarked that the man would not get his barn up without whiskey. This circumstance gave a fresh impulse to the temperance cause.

The vice of intemperance is prevailing here to a shameful degree, so that many of the farmers believe that they could not gather in their grain without a Mr. Whiskey. Some few, however, have been convinced of the impropriety of taking it out into their fields, by a temperance sermon delivered here by Rev. Mr. Knepper.

2d. We have a Sabbath-school here, which was commenced a few years ago, but was in a declining state till lately, when through the exertions of some Sabbath-school friends, it was revived again, and a meeting appointed to re-organize it. In this movement all denominations united, viz: Lutherans, German Reformed, United Brethren and Evangelieal; and the writer of this, chosen Superintendent. The school is at present in a flourising condition, and numbers about fifty.

3d. The cause of God is at a low ebb in this country. We have preaching here by different denominations; but I have heard only one sermon, that I could fully concur in, and that was preached by a man from Frederick county, Md., belonging to the German Baptists, (Dunkers.) It was the best sermon that I ever heard by a preacher of that denomination. The subject of his discourse was, the hope of the Christian, and the foundation of that hope. In his discourse he fully accorded with the doctrine of the New Testament, and as taught by the Church of God.

On the 22d of August the Lutheran Conference commenced its session here, which continued for several days, in which several subjects were discussed, viz:

1st. Does the Scripture teach the posture in prayer? Negatived.

2d. Does the Scripture specify the time of the administration of the Lord's Supper?—Negatived.

3d. Why does the Lutheran Church practice sprinkling in baptism, in preference to immersion?

1st. Because it is most Scriptural.

2d. It is most expedient.

3d. There is no precept nor example in the New Testament proving immersion.

4th. The Greek word Baptizo has different meanings, and does not always mean immersion.

5th. The water is applied to the subject.

The rite of circumcision was also brought in, and the identity of the Jewish and Christian Churches.

But strange to think, that of all the authors quoted to prove sprinkling, Martin Luther was not so much as named.

We are left almost to ourselves in this country, without having a sermon from one of the preachers of the Church of God. We are still on the firm foundation, contending for the faith of the gospel. And for my part, I would much sooner stand alone and aloof, than to unite with sects that do not follow the gospel fully.

Through the medium of the Church Advocate, I would request brother John Hickernell to write to me, and let me know whether he can come and preach for us occasionally. I understand he preaches within twenty miles from us. I heard of a protracted meeting held in Turkey-foot, but never could find out by whom, until through the Church Advocate, in a letter by brother Hartman. As I do not know brother Hickernell's Post Office address, I cannot write to him. I therefore request him to inform me whether he can come, and if so, when; and inform me precisely where the Eldership is held, for it might be that I would attend the same. Let him likewise give me his Post Office address.

My Post Office address is Elk Lick, Somerset county, Pa. The village is called Salisbury. Yours,

ABRAHAM C. RAYSOR.

Letter from Brother B. Ober, V. D. M.

LIGONIER, Westmoreland Co., Pa., September 18, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I TAKE up my pen to drop a few lines for the readers of the Advocate, which you may give publicity to, if you please, as it is, no doubt, the desire of all the lovers of Christ to hear of the state of things in this part of God's vineyard.

I have no Camp-meeting returns to give, inasmuch as there was none held within the bounds of this Eldership, by the brethren of the Church of God. The reason of this I cannot tell, unless it is for the want of zeal and interest, in both ministers and laity.—These are meetings that I have always been a warm advocate for. I hope that the Camp-meeting spirit will be revived among the people of God in general, when they see the happy results of those held this year, and all prepare for another Camp-meeting season, (if time shall last,) to go out into the grove in the strength of the Master, to spend a few days for the conversion of souls and the strengthening of the faith of the people of God.

Prospects on the ground I travel over, are good. We held a Woods-meeting at Mill Creek Furnace. The preachers in attendance were brothers J. Hickernell and Wm. Vance. The meeting commenced August 24th, and ended the 27th. We had good attendance, part of the time. Our meeting did not prove as interesting as it might have been, in consequence of the brethren having to attend to their work, and could not attend regularly; but we hope the result of the meeting will be good, and the fruits thereof be seen many days hence. As the doctrines of the Church of God were something unheard of, by many persons, before this meeting, it has aroused and caused them to search the Scriptures, to see whether these things are so, that they heard. May the Lord help them to search diligently, and with unprejudiced minds, that they may become as noble as the Bereans. The church at that place is in good standing at present, and a good degree of love exists among the brethren and sisters. Notwithstanding they have great opposition, both by the world and professors; and to my astonishment, I find that men wearing the black coat and professing to be ministers of the gospel, feel no hesitation in publicly ridiculing and trying to scandalize some of the plain institutions and ordinances of God's house. Such persons I would ask, ye sons of Baal, when will you cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord? Yours, as ever,

B. OBER.

Letter from Brother John C. Landis.

I ONCE more take up my pen, in order to write something. We have had no religious excitement in our part of God's vineyard. Yet, I must say, we have good reason to thank God that it is as well with us as what it is. We enjoy privileges in this section of country, that thousands of others do not enjoy. For in common with many others, we live in a gospel land; we enjoy the religion of the Bible, and we can worship God under our own vine and fig-tree. But at the same time, we would like to see our friends and neighbors go along with us on the Heavenly road. Yet so it is; they will not go along with us, nor believe in the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ. Alas! a great many around us have the form of Godliness, but deny the power thereof. From such, says the Apostle, turn away. Instead of doing right, the greater part of professing Christians seem to mingle with the world, knowing at the same time, that these formalist Sectarians, which hold on to dead churches, are not doing right, and neither believe in the power of religion, &c. Such, however, justify themselves by saying, we must make some allowance: all people cannot see alike in the Scriptures, and such and such points are mere matters of opinion; as for instance, water baptism by immersion, Feet-washing, Church government, &c.; as though the Scriptures were not explicit enough on these subjects.

But my opinion is, that the Scriptures are so plain and explicit on those points, that they are without excuse. Such conduct as that alluded to above, is contrary to the doctrine of the primitive Christians, who manifested by their walk and conduct that there was a reality in the religion of Jesus. If Christian professors are right, in this our day, let them act it out, as in primitive times. When a person first embraces religion, how warm and zealous he is! He will attend all kind of meetings, and be engaged in the work of the Lord; but no sooner does that person get cold and indifferent, how cold and negligent he will be about attending meetings, and taking up his cross in prayer, &c. Let these few hints be kindly received. JOHN C. LANDIS.

[To be concluded in my next.]

OBITUARY
OF
ELIZABETH RITTENHOUSE.

Died, near Reedsburg, Wayne county, Ohio, September 5th, 1849, sister Elizabeth Rittenhouse, aged 17 years, 10 months and 13 days

Sister R. became convicted that she was a sinner somewhere about the first of February last, consequently she sought and obtained like precious faith with the saints, by an humble reliance on the merits of the Saviour. Shortly after her conversion to God, she was buried with Christ in baptism. She also, toward the close of the same month, identified herself with the Church of God in this place; in the communion of which she lived a holy and devoted saint.

Sister R. was confined to her bed about three weeks, with the typhus fever; but she endured her afflictions with great fortitude, and through the rich grace of Christ anointing her, she was wholly resigned to the will of her Heavenly Father during her afflictions. I had the opportunity of conversing with her in reference to her hope. Her reply was, "I am prepared to die." O! what consoling words in a dying hour! Sister R. truly was a pattern of piety. She lived the life of a Christian. When it was said, come, let us go up to the house of the Lord and worship, she was found there. Thank God, it was her delight to set under the sound of the gospel. It was a heaven to her soul. The last time she was permitted to meet with her brethren and sisters for prayer, she realized the truth, that they that wait upon the Lord, shall have their strength renewed. The Lord blessed her powerfully, while lifting her soul in prayer to God. Sister R. was one that was much loved and highly esteemed by the Church of God in this place. She left a father, three brothers and three sisters, and a large circle of friends, to mourn her loss. But this we know, that our loss is her eternal gain. Her remains were interred in a family grave-yard on their own farm. A discourse was delivered on the occasion by Elder John Shumaker, of the German Baptist denomination, because the father of the deceased was a member of that society. Text, 1 Peter 1: 19—22.

Eliz'beth, our sister, is dead,
And gone from the evil to come;
From earth's toils and labors she's fled,
To dwell with her Saviour at home.

But Oh! the deep grief that we fee,
For one so young, useful and dear;
Kind Saviour, to Thee we appeal,
O, chide not for shedding a tear!

DAVID NEIDIGH, Jr.

Reedsburg, Ohio, Sept., 1849.

OBITUARY
OF
Brother TILLMAN MUSSER.

Died, at his residence, in Wayne county, Ohio, August 24th, 1849, Tillman Musser, aged 34 years, 5 months and 13 days.

The disease of which he died was Dysentery, and lasted but a few days. He embraced religion about nine years ago, and lived an exemplary life until his last. He was truly one of the excellent of the earth, and was much beloved by all that knew him, and the worth of a Godly man.

He was married to Mary Metzler, daughter of Samuel Metzler, formerly of Lisburn, Cumberland county, Pa.

He has left an affectionate wife and four children to mourn his loss. Truly, the Church of God at Moreland has lost a worthy member, his wife an affectionate husband, and his children a kind father; but their loss is his eternal gain. He left the world in the triumphs of a living faith, leaving an undeniable evidence that he was going to glory.

Funeral discourse by the Rev. Mr. Gary, a Presbyterian minister.

A. MEGREW.

OBITUARY
OF Elder JOHN RIVER.

Died, at his residence, in Moreland, Wayne county, Ohio, Elder John River, formerly of Perry county, Pa.

He embraced religion some 18 or 19 years since, in Pennsylvania, removed to this State some 13 or 14 years ago, and received license from the Ohio Eldership to preach; but in consequence of poor health, probably he never advanced far in preaching. In the fall of '47 he requested his name to be dropped on the minutes, without any reasons at that time.—During his last illness, he frequently expressed to different persons, his doubts and fears, as to his own case. As to his general deportment, I believe no one could find fault. How it is with him now, the Lord only knows, in whose hands he now is, and who is both just and merciful; but charity would say, I hope he is now resting in the bosom of the Saviour, exempt from all trouble.

His complaint was Pulmonary Consumption. He lingered long, being confined to his house and bed for the last six months. He has left a kind and affectionate wife and four children to mourn his loss. But we hope and trust that their loss is his gain.

Funeral discourse by the writer, from 2 Cor. 5: 1. Age not known—probably 45.

A. M.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Sugar Manufactures.—In a commercial article of the New York Courier and Enquirer, we find the following translation from the Courier des Etats Unis:

Important Discovery.—The Paris Moniteur of the 22d July, publishes officially the report of M. Laujuniais, on the discovery of a Belgian chemist, M. Melsens, a pupil of M. Dumas, of a process by which the beet and the sugar cane can be made to yield up the totality of the saccharine matter they contain, and whereby sugar of a superior quality can be obtained, without the intervention of the cumbrous and expensive machinery now required in the manufactures of beet-root sugar, and the refineries.

If this discovery, loudly insisted on by men of science, should turn out as is anticipated, the product from beets would be increased one-third, and that from the cane one-half, and moreover, all the apparatus, except that for the trituration or grinding, and that for purifying the juice, would be dispensed with.

By this process of marvellous simplicity, and of the readiest application—the decomposition and separation of the portion of the plant containing the saccharine is accomplished—and the clarification takes place without any other process—the condensing, the filtering, the boiling, and I had almost said, the skimming, are dispensed with. The new process applies to the syrup—hence the cutters, pressers, and even the boilers for purifying the juice are still needed—but the syrup once obtained then commences M. Melsen's miracle. With a single pinch of the marvellous substance which remains the secret of the inventor—he brings about in a few minutes the clearing and the crystalization of the saccharine matters. Good by! therefore, to refiners with their slow and costly process, since in seven quarters of an hour, may be produced a loaf of the whitest and purest sugar.

The correspondent may well add, as he does, supposing his version of the effects of this discovery to be correct, "it is impossible to conceive, or to calculate, the consequences of this new process."

The sugar growers and the sugar refiners in the United States—in both which branches large capitals and expensive processes are employed—will doubtless look early into this alleged discovery—which seems too marvellous.

School Convention.—A National Common School Convention will be held at Philadelphia on the 17th of October. The N. Y. Mirror suggests that Webster, Bancroft and other distinguished men who were teachers in their younger days, should attend, and thus administer a rebuke to the "contemptible sprigs of aristocracy" who affect to look upon school teaching as less respectable than soap-boiling.

Colored Convention.—A Convention of this description has recently been held in New Haven, whose object was to elevate the colored race.

Among others, resolutions were passed in regard to the right of suffrage. In Connecticut these rights are not enjoyed by colored men, as in New York and Massachusetts.

Such a Convention, in our view, is very proper, and proper efforts to obtain such rights seem every way justifiable. There can be no reason why such rights should be withheld from our own native colored citizens, and yet be freely granted to emigrant Irish, and emigrant every thing, if he only happens to have a white skin.—The color of the skin is a poor qualification for citizenship, and it is high time for Connecticut, and every other State that follows in her steps, to reform on this point. Let it be remembered by all, that God has made of one blood all nations that dwell upon the earth.—Chris. Chronicle.

Strength of the Contending Armies.—The English papers furnish statistics of the forces in the Russian and Austrian service, and of the Hungarian troops. We have no room for the details, but the following are the sums total:—

Russian army—in nine corps—226,300 foot, 27,300 horse, and 804 cannon.

Austria, 86,000 foot, 10,600 horse, and 300 cannon.

Allied army of all arms, 322,900, and 1,104 cannon.

The Hungarians were said to muster, in all, 230,000 of all arms.

The New York Rioters.—The trial of the Astor Opera House rioters has resulted in their conviction. The sentences of some of them are thus stated:—E. Z. C. Judson, (Ned Buntline.) was sentenced to 12 month's imprisonment in the Penitentiary, and to pay a fine of $250. D. J. Andrews, to three months in the Penitentiary. Thos. Green, one month in the Penitentiary. Thos. Bennett, Geo. Douglass and James O'Neill, each sentenced to 30 days imprisonment in the City prison.

Rutger's College.—The Trustees of this institution have elected the Hon. Theodore Frelinghuysen (the present chancellor of the New York University,) to the Presidency of the College. It is not yet known whether this excellent and Christian gentleman will accept the appointment or not

[He has declined the appointment.]

Revivals in Wales.—In a letter from the Rev. S. Griffiths to his sons in this city, we learn that a good and great work is going on in the Congregational and Calvinistic Churches in the Principality. Two churches in his vicinity had received two hundred accessions within a few weeks.

[Cin. Watchman.

The Peace Congress.—The Peace Congress closed its sessions with great enthusiasm. Many eminent men were present, and the meeting left a deep impression even on the volatile population of the French capital. Noble speeches were made by Victor Hugo, Mr. Cobden and others, and active measures for the future were planned and advocated. Louis Napoleon invited the leading members of the Congress to a private interview, and expressed his cordial approbation of their principles, and his hope of their universal prevalence. The moral influence of this meeting must be salutary.

Important Discovery.—A surgeon of Gottinger has discovered a complete antidote to arsenic. It is paroxyde, or red oxyde of iron, twelve parts of which neutralize one of oxyde of arsenic. Experiments with this antidote have been tried upon rabbits and other animals with complete success. One advantage of it is, that no injury can be done by too large a dose. In cases where large quantities of arsenic have been taken, it has been found useful first to encourage vomiting.

The Typographer.—A rather ingenious contrivance has been lately invented, which, it is said, will print records and other public documents and do the work of ten clerks. Mr. Eddy, who is the inventor of the machine, has a contract to furnish a number of "Typographers" to the Patent Office, and has strong hopes of being able to introduce them into the various Departments at Washington likewise. The Typographer is said to be the most ingenious contrivance of the nineteenth century.

Cleaning Silk.—The following directions for cleaning silk are by one of the first Parisian dyers. Half a pound of soft soap, a teaspoonful of brandy, and a pint of gin, mix all together; with a sponge, or flannel, spread the mixture on each side of the silk without grasping it; wash it in two or three waters, and iron it on the wrong side; it will then look as good as new.

Mortality in Paris.—From the tables of mortality for the six months of 1849, presented to the Academy of Medicine by the Minister of the Interior, it appears that in that period the deaths in Paris had amounted to 33,274, of which 15,677, or nearly one-half, were from cholera; out of these 15,677 deaths, 9,019, or nearly two-thirds, took place in private houses.

The Baptist Almanac and Annual Register for 1850.—This valuable statistical document has just been issued by the American Baptist Publication Society.

☞ It is estimated that 10,000 slaves have died by Cholera in the South the past season. This mortality has so increased the demand, that the slave trade is represented as very brisk in Maryland.

Manufactures of New England.—A most important article under this head is the Woolen Shawls, Mantles and Scarfs manufactured at the Bay State Mills, Lawrence, Mass. The goods have been brought to a high state of perfection, and it should be the pride of every New England lady to possess one. Jewett & Prescott, No. 2 Milk Street, Boston, advertise them at wholesale and retail.—Morning Star.

☞ The death of four ex-members of Congress has been recorded within a very short time, viz:—Adam Huntsman, of Tennessee; Amos Lane, of Indiana; Edward J. Black, of South Carolina, and J. D. Cummins, of Ohio. One member elect of the next Congress has also died, Augustus Newman, of Virginia.

Receipts of the Fair.—It is said that 60,000 tickets of admission to the late Fair at Syracuse, N. Y., were sold at 12½ cents each, and 5,000 at $1 each; making the total receipts $12,500. This is several thousands more than the receipt of any previous year.

Louis Napoleon.—It is said that Louis Napoleon is engaged to the daughter of the King of Sweden, grand-child of Bernadotte, the French soldier. The young lady was born on the 24th of April, 1830, and accordingly is nineteen years of age.

An Illinois Farm.—There is a farm in this State which contains 27,000 acres. The proprietor of it, the present season, raised 13,000 acres of corn, 3000 of which is in one field. At 50 bushels per acre, this would give 650,000 bushels.

Now and Then.—In 1815 the price of steamboat passage between Cincinnati and New Orleans was $130—now it is fifteen. The time to New Orleans was twenty-eight running days; now it is oftentimes less than six.

Breach of Promise.—Miss Frances T. Clark, of Westerly, R. I., lately recovered $1500 damages and costs, against Otis Pendleton, of Stonington, Conn., for a breach of promise of marriage.

A Fast Traveller.—An engine has just been built in Philadelphia, for one of the Eastern Railroads, which is expected to run sixty miles an hour. Her driving wheels are seven feet in diameter.

Liberty Almanac for 1850.—Wm. Harnard, Agent for the American and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society, 61 John Street, New York, has just issued the Liberty Almanac for 1850.

☞ Three hundred and ninety-five vessels have cleared from the United States for California since November 14, 1848.

☞ The population of Baltimore is estimated by the American at 154,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DIRECTIONS TO YOUNG CONVERTS.

1. Be thankful for what God has done for you. Isa. xii. 1.
2. Be as earnest now as you were in seeking pardon. Heb. vi. 11.
3. Live every moment by faith in Christ. Gal. ii. 20.
4. Do not make the picty of others your standard. Matt. xvi. 23.
5. Do not expect to be very happy, unless you are eminently holy. Isa. xlviii. 19.
6. Diligently and by faith seek entire sanctification. Heb. vi. 1.
7. Punctually and devotionally attend the ministry of the word. 1 Pet. ii. 2.
8. Value the weekly prayer-meeting. Matt. xviii. 20.
9. Neglect not the communion of saints. Mal. iii. 16.
10. Make family worship interesting and profitable. Psa. cxviii. 15.
11. Have your stated times for closet prayer. Matt. vi. 6.
12. Daily and prayerfully read the Scriptures. Psa. xix. 7.
13. Never neglect a duty because you do not feel much. 1 Sam. ii. 20.
14. Maintain great tenderness of conscience. 1 Tim. i. 5.
15. Guard against pride in your dress. 1 Tim. ii. 9.
16. Avoid all lightness in your conversation. Eph. v. 5.
17. Be very careful in your choice of companions. Prov. xiii. 20.
18. Never parley with the great adversary. James iv. 7.
19. Be zealous for the salvation of souls. James iv. 7.
20. Joyfully wait for the coming of the Saviour. Phil. iii. 20.—Samuel Dunn.

TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.

First procure the best coffee in the market; wash it very clean, and roast it to the color of a golden brown, but not a deeper shade, by any means. Then take the whites of three eggs to each pound of coffee, mix very carefully with the coffee while warm, and immediately transfer to earthen vessels, tying them over with bladders to render them air-tight. Take from these vessels sufficient coffee for one making only at a time; grind it, place it in a fine muslin bag, suspend it about midway in the pot, turn on the boiling water and put on the cover to prevent the escape of steam. By this mode the coffee will be very strong, but it is best to reduce it by the addition of boiling hot milk, very different indeed from that which is produced by boiling the ground coffee in water.

FOR THE BOYS.

Seven classes of company are to be avoided, viz:

1. Those who ridicule their parents or disobey their commands.
2. Those who profane the Sabbath, or scoff at religion.
3. Those who use profane or filthy language.
4. Those who are untruthful, play truant, and waste their time in idleness.
5. Those who are of a quarrelsome temper, and apt to get into difficulty with others.
6. Those who are addicted to lying.
7. Those who are of a cruel disposition, and take pleasure in torturing and maiming animals.

SHORT SERMON FOR PARENTS.

It is said that when the mother of Washington was asked how she had formed the character of her son, she replied that she had early endeavored to teach him three things; obedience, diligence and truth.—No better advice can be given by any parent.

Teach your children to obey. Let it be the first lesson. It requires constant care to keep up the habit of obedience, and especially to do it in such a way as not to break down the strength of the child's character.

Teach your child to be diligent. The habit of being always employed is a great safe-guard through life, as well as essential to the culture of every virtue. Nothing can be more foolish than an idea which parents have that it is not respectable to set their children to work. Play is a good thing, innocent recreation is employment, and a child may learn to be diligent in that as in other things. But let them learn early to be useful.

As to truth, it is the one thing essential. Let every thing else be sacrificed rather than that. Without it what dependence can you place in the child? And be sure to do nothing yourself which may countenance any species of prevarication or falsehood. Yet how many parents do teach their children the first lesson of deception.

AN AMERICAN LORD.

In England, all bishops of the Established church are, ex-officio, members of the House of Lords, and are, therefore, addressed by the titles, My Lord, and Your Lordship. We have no House of Lords in America at present, but we may have one before long, if a certain class of Roman Catholics become sufficiently numerous to carry out their views. Already they are making the ears of the people familiar with the titles which will then be used in addressing the prelates of the Established church. In giving an account of the distribution of premiums at the convent of the Sacred heart, the New York Freeman's Journal says:—"The Right Rev. Dr. Hughes and many of the Rev. clergy were present, among whom, seated at the right-hand of his lordship on the chair of honor, I distinguished with pleasure the venerated Father Matthew. The exercises opened with a piece of instrumental music, greeting the entrance of his lordship and the Rev. clergy. His lordship then made a short address," &c.

RELIGION AMONG THE UPPER CLASSES IN ENGLAND.

We have often had occasion to speak of the prayer-meetings at Washington, attended and conducted by members of the American Congress. We are now happy to learn, from our English papers, that within a few months meetings of a similar character have been established in London, in very aristocratic circles. "Within the last six or seven weeks," says one of these Journals, "the lady of a distinguished peer has thrown open her drawing-room once every week, for the purpose of holding devotional meetings, on the part of persons of her own rank of society. As many as a hundred noblemen and gentlemen, mostly members of Parliament, with their wives and other near relations, meet together on these occasions, and spend the evening in purely Christian intercourse."—N. York Observer.

POETRY.

MORTALS PREPARE FOR DEATH.

BY H. J. BEYERLE, M. D.

What are the charms that bind you here
Upon this wicked world!
What plans that seem so very dear
Hath earth to you unfurled!

Your days below pass swiftly by,
Like arrows from the bow;
A fleeting breath, and then you fly—
Fly!—Whither!—Do you know!

Ah! put the question to your heart!—
O whither will you fly!—
Be not deceived by Satan's arts,
For you must surely die!

Fly! whither fly! Ah! think of this—
The future! how obscure,
How oft do dying souls confess
Their way to be unsure!

To sail into eternity
Without a guiding light,
Must lead to certain misery,
To certain, endless night.

There's not a home within our reach
That more demands our care,
Than that which doth us mortals teach
That we but mortals are.

We die but once! For weal or wo
Will be death's solemn knell.—
How happy then to feel and know
That all with us is well!

I would not change that Hope Divine,
That living, shining Hope,
For all the wealth that lies within Imagination's scope.

Linglestown, September, 1849.

TOIL ON.

BY G. U. HARN.

Toil on, thou man of God,
Though irksome be thy task;
Trust to his gracious word,
He'll not forsake at last.

Stout hills may yet arise,
And mountains lie between
Thee and the verdant skies,
Which seem so fair and green.

Hosts have toiled as do you,
Who are now safe at home;
They've fought their journey through,
And now no more they moan.

Another battle fought,
And you may gain the crown!
Another victory wrought,
Then lay your armour down.

GOD'S CARE FOR THE YOUNG.

God loves the young who early seek,
His favor to obtain;
He will not turn away his ear,
Nor let them seek in vain.

His ear is open to their cry,
He'll hear their earnest prayer;
And through the slippery paths of youth,
He'll make their cause his care.

He'll make their pillow soft in death,
He'll guide them through the tomb,
And to his shining courts above,
He'll bid them welcome come.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 25th ult., by Elder J. C. Seabrooks, Mr. Jacob Yates, of Cumberland county, to Miss Margaret Fleck, formerly of Adams county, Pa.

On the 6th ult., by Elder E. H. Thomas, Mr. Reuben Dewalt, of Orrstown, to Miss Nancy Staver, of Logan township, Franklin county.

On the 26th ult., by the same, Mr. Ephraim Bear, of Orrstown, to Miss Susanna Hampshire, of the Branch, Franklin county, Pa.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

West Pennsylvania Eldership.

This body will hold its next annual meeting with the Church of God near the mouth of Big Fish Creek, Marshall county, Virginia, commencing on the 24th day of October next.

It will be remembered that business will commence at 10 o'clock, A. M. It is hoped there will be a general turn out by the preachers. Those who may wish to go by water from Pittsburg or Athens county, will land at Smith's Landing, near the mouth of Big Fish Creek.

East Pennsylvania Eldership.

The East Pennsylvania Eldership will be held, Deo Volente, at Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Wednesday, the 31st day of October next.

The opening sermon will be preached by Elder David Maxwell, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

By request, the brethren attending the Eldership, will stop at brother John Cooper's, near the Bethel, from whence they will be conducted to their respective places of abode.

Protracted Meeting in Lancaster.

A special meeting of days, Providence permitting, will be held with the Church of God in Lancaster, Pa., commencing on Saturday, the 27th inst. A general invitation to neighboring ministers and people is hereby given, to attend the meeting. J. H. Hurley.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 60	a 4	75
Do. Rye, do. - -	2 75	a 2	75
Do. Corn, do. - -	2 75	a 2	75
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	96	a	98
Do. Rye, do. - -	60	a	62½
Do. Corn, new do. - -	55	a	58
Do. Oats, do. - -	30	a	31
Do. Barley, do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 00	a 3	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	3 00	a 3	25
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -	5 00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - -	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -	10	a	11
BUTTER, do. - - - - -	12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -	7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - -	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -	87½	a 1	00
ONIONS, do. - - -	75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -	37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -	1 15	a 1	16
HAY, per ton, - - - - -	10 00	a 11	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -	4 00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$5 12½	a 5	25
Do. Rye, do. -	3 00	a 3	10
Do. Corn, do. - -	3 00	a 3	12½
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	1 03	a 1	05
Do. Rye, do. - -	62	a	65
Do. Corn, new do. - -	65	a	65
Do. Oats, do. - -	30	a	34
Do. Barley, do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	4 00	a 4	25
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 75	a 3	00
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 30	a 1	32
BEEF, per cwt., - - -	7 00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - -	7 00	a 7	25

Printers and Publishers

OF Newspapers are informed that the subscribers are extensively engaged in the manufacture of PRINTING INK of every color and quality, which they know to be equal to any manufactured, and which they will sell at the lowest prices for Cash. As they are determined that their INK shall recommend itself, they only solicit one trial of it, relying upon its merits for future patronage. Their Colored Inks are warranted superior to any manufactured. A circular containing prices, &c., will be sent to those who desire it. Orders for Cash on City Agents accepted.

☞ Publishers of Newspapers inserting this advertisement to the amount of $2 and sending us a copy of paper, by remitting $5 at any time will receive a 30 lb. keg of extra News Ink.

ADAMS & CO.,
Steam Printing Ink Works, Philadelphia,
Agents for the sale of new and second hand printing materials.

Property for Sale.

THE subscriber will sell at Private Sale a small property, situated in Fairview township, York county, Pa., about 1¼ mile from Lisburn, consisting of 43 acres and 44 perches, 18 or 20 acres of which are wood-land.

The buildings are a Two Story Log House, a Bank Barn, partly new, together with other necessary improvements.

There is an excellent Spring of water quite near the dwelling. Also, an Apple Orchard of about three acres, and a variety of other fruit; such as Pears, Peaches, Quinces, Cherries, &c.

There is an excellent Garden, which can be irrigated or watered in dry seasons, so as always to yield well.

If the above property is not sold on or before Saturday, the 27th of October next, it will then be offered at public sale, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The property will be sold on very easy and reasonable terms, which will be made known on the day of sale.

Sept. 6, '49. JACOB FREESE.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo decimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;

ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and embossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, and DANIEL GETTY, No. 110 South Third street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

SARAH SADLER, Allegheny City, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., NOVEMBER 1, 1849. NUMBER 13.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Reading Sermons.

It is pleasing to see that this practice is becoming generally unpopular among all denominations of Christians, and in all countries.

Eldership Journals.

In our next we hope to be able to give one or more of the Journals of the Annual Elderships. In many respects, these Journals will be, to most of our readers, of great and deep interest. All the new subscribers will have the benefit of reading these Journals.

Harrisburg Meeting.

The protracted meeting in this place is still in progress. The state of religious feeling is pretty good. The interest has abated somewhat, but prospects for good still continue to be flattering. About 17 have been hopefully converted, and 9 baptized, since the beginning of the meeting.

Dedication of the Camp-hill Bethel.

The Bethel on Camp-hill, near brother Bowman's, will be dedicated to the worship of God on the last Sabbath of this month. Services will commence on Saturday evening previous, and continue for one week, and perhaps longer. A collection will be taken up on Sabbath in aid of the house. The ministering brethren of the neighboring churches, and the people generally, are respectfully invited to attend.

By order of the preachers in charge and the Building Committee.

The Next Congress.

The elections, thus far, for members of Congress, are summed up as follows:

Whigs elected, - - - - -	99
Democrats, - - - - -	98
Whig Free Soilers, - - -	8
Democratic Free Soilers, - -	5
Democratic Taylorites, - -	3
Total, - - - - -	213

Editorial Convention.

This Convention will meet at Harrisburg on the 8th of November, in accordance with a resolution adopted by the Editors of the 17th Congressional District. The purpose and object of this Convention is to urge upon the next Congress a change in the present postage system, and to adopt such reforms as will operate beneficially to the interests of the country press.

Constitution of the East Penn'a. Eldership.

We intend, if spared to meet with the next Eldership, to move the adoption of a Constitution for the government of the Eldership, in carrying out an efficient plan of co-operation. Some of us have long since felt the necessity of fixed rules for keeping up a good understanding and a well ordered plan of co-operation. The experience of every successive year shows more clearly the necessity and utility of having such a form of rules. We hope the brethren will go in for it unanimously.

The Family Christian Almanac for 1850.

We have been favored with a copy of the above valuable and interesting work, which was first published in 1821, and has since been issued annually. The neatness of its mechanical execution, the large amount of important statistical information and interesting reading matter which it annually contains, has long since gained for it a cordial welcome into the family circle. We are pleased to see that it is not only equal, but superior to any of its predecessors. Besides the ordinary matter embraced in Almanacs, it contains forty pages of exceedingly interesting reading matter: the subjects are illustrated by eleven splendid engravings. We can hardly conceive how a work of the size and style of mechanical execution of this Almanac can be got up and sent to distant markets, and retailed at one dime—the same price which is asked for the most ordinary work of the Almanac kind. Parent! friend! before you purchase an Almanac for 1850, make diligent inquiry for the Family Christian Almanac, published by the American Tract Society.

National School Convention.

A National Convention of the friends of Common School Education, was held in Philadelphia on the 17th and 18th of October last, at which the Hon. Horace Mann, of Mass., presided.

The Convention was well attended, and a good deal of important business transacted. We may give a sketch of its proceedings in our next.

The Delegates in attendance from Pennsylvania, have recommended a State Convention, to be held in this place, next January. We trust the friends of the cause throughout the State will adopt means to have it well attended.

To Ministers, Elders and Deacons.

The office-bearers of the Church of God are hereby requested to make a simultaneous and general effort to extend the circulation of the Church Advocate. We ask this for several reasons.

1st. Because many do not take the paper who ought to take it.

2d. Because the principles of the Church will, thereby, be more generally diffused, and, under God, sanctified to the good of the people, in the extension of the Redeemer's cause.

3d. Because every new paying subscriber will now yield a nett profit of $1 00 to the Church, through the General Eldership.

We request, therefore, that this notice be read publicly, by all the stationed and travelling preachers, once or twice, at each preaching place; and that the Elders and Deacons then proceed to make a thorough effort to collect new subscribers, and to return them to the preachers, at their earliest convenience, who will forward them to us. In those places where there is no regular preaching, we ask some one of the Ruling Elders to read this notice in a public meeting of the Church, and then to proceed in form and manner above stated. Fifty cents, in advance, will pay for the paper from this to the end of the volume.

Trial of Dr. J. Gibbons Mills.

In an adjourned Court of Quarter Sessions for Danphin county, week before last, the trial of Dr. Mills, for seduction, came off, with high wrought feelings of pity, wonder and disgust. The dark and infamous deeds of this sinful man, developed in the course of his trial, and showing the seduction of three sisters in one family, and all under the specious garb of religion, has, perhaps, hardly a parallel in the history of our country. The letoherous wretch, who has the hardihood to perpetrate such infamous deeds of iniquity, must be an execrated reprobate, and the embodiment of the very quintessence of all wickedness. If such a giant sinner is not guilty of the sin to death, it will be difficult to conceive who is. Three years' incarceration in the Penitentiary is altogether an inadequate penalty for such a master-piece of iniquity.

The accouchement of two of the sisters is past; the other one's is yet to come.

The trial of Mills occupied four full days, exciting the blood and passions of some of our citizens to mob-law heat, and had it not been for the "law and order" portion of our community, the mobites would have cut short the trial, and repaid his abominations, with unmitigated vengeance. But, happily, he was preserved from the wrath of the infuriated populace, and favored with an impartial, able and fair trial, which resulted in his conviction, in form and manner as he stood indicted, under the act of Assembly of 1843.

The Court did not sentence him, inasmuch as four other indictments are standing against him—two for attempts to produce abortion, and two for fornication and bastardy—which will come on at the regular session to be held next month.

Normal Schools.

The Hon. Horace Mann, of Mass., gave the following account of the system of Normal Schools in Massachusetts, at the School Convention held in Philadelphia week before last.

He said that they were first authorized in 1839. $20,000 was raised by donations from individuals and the State, and these schools were established in different parts of the State, so that the convenience of the inhabitants might be attended to. In New York there is a different system; they have but one Normal school, which, however, is open to pupils from all parts of the State. The object of the Normal school is to teach teachers how to teach. The method in which this is done in the theoretical part of the school is by book and lesson studied by the pupils; for the experimental and practical part of the school the pupils are taught the business of teaching in a model school, in which the pupils are young children. In this school the young teachers attend at specified times, and try their hands at teaching. Occasionally the Principal goes into the school with his entire corps of pupils around him; they then go to work at teaching, and witness the efforts of each other. Upon their return they amicably discuss and criticize the mode and habits of teaching of each other; what is correct is commended, and that which is improper condemned. After the whole subject has been discussed, the Principal sums up the whole case, like a judge, points out that which is right and that which is wrong. The consequence is, that the pupils go back into the model school with ideas of proper management of the school. The terms in two of the Normal schools are for one year; in the other eight months. At first the results of the Normal school system were not very flattering, but now they are firmly seated in public estimation. A member of the Legislature of Massachusetts would as soon move for the abolition of the judiciary as the abolition of Normal schools. At first but three candidates presented themselves for admittance to the school; now they cannot educate a sufficient number to supply the demand for teachers. The compensation now paid to teachers educated at the Normal school is higher than the salaries paid to teachers of Common schools.

The pupils are principally females. In one school they are males and females. The tuition is given at the expense of the State. The teacher is required to remain and teach in the State, and if she goes out of it, is expected to pay for the cost of tuition, The object is to raise a corps of active common school teachers. The expenses of the three schools are $2000 per annum each. The number of scholars in two schools are from 60 to 80; in the other 110 to 115. The ages at which pupil teachers are admitted is sixteen.

St. Louis Railroad Convention.

On the 15th ult. a Convention was held in St. Louis, to consider the propriety and feasibility of constructing a Railroad to the Pacific. The Convention was well attended from nearly all of the States, some 900 or 1000 Delegates being in attendance. The object aimed at by the Convention is truly a grand project.

The committee on resolutions reported a series of resolutions for the consideration of the Convention, setting forth that the object and spirit of the Convention were truly National—subserving neither party, sectional, nor local interests, and recommending that Congress make immediate provision for constructing a great trunk road to the Pacific, in California, with a branch for Oregon, from some point on the Mississippi frontier, as may be found eligible—that all Eastern lines now tending West may be considered parts of the same—that Congress establish posts on the route for the protection of settlers and emigrants, and that grants of land be made, encouraging population—that Congress be memorialised to construct telegraph lines on the route—that a committee of five be appointed by the chair to prepare and publish an address—that the people urge incorporation, and the procuring action of Congress.

Hon. J. W. Thompson, of Indiana, addressed the Convention in an eloquent manner for two hours on the resolutions, and offered the following amendment:

That the grand trunk Railroad be constructed with branches to St. Louis, Memphis and Chicago, and that a committee of fifty be sent to the Memphis Convention, requesting the co-operation of that body.

The resolution, as amended, passed unanimously.

The Circus.

We have had another Circus in our town a few days ago. This is the fourth one, we believe, since harvest, each of which was well patronized, and carried off thousands of dollars from the pockets of our citizens. Were the people of our town and neighborhood asked to contribute half as much to the cause of benevolence, they would plead poverty, hard times, and a host of other things, and perhaps think themselves priest-ridden. O, shame where is thy blush!

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Lights and Shadows.---No. 2.

BY J. FLAKE.

"The children of light." How many are there on the earth at the present day? I believe that in number they are more now than in any former day the world has seen. But they are scattered here and there wherever the gospel of the kingdom has been and is now proclaimed.

They are to be known by their faith. They all make the good confession, "I believe in God the Father Almighty, and in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord." Their faith is a humble trust in Jesus as their great and merciful High Priest and Saviour. On his name they call in the day of their conversion—through all the days of mortal life—and while passing through the valley of the shadow of death.

The children of light love the worship of God. In this their feelings are set forth by the Psalmist—only listen,—

1. "How did my heart rejoice to hear,
My friend devoutly say,
In Zion let us all appear,
And keep the solemn day.

2. I love the place of thine abode,
The church adorned with grace,
Stands like a palace built by God,
To shew his milder face.

3. Up to her courts, with joys unknown,
The chosen tribes repair;
The son of David keeps his throne,
And sits in judgment there.

4. He hears our praises, and complaints,
And while his awful voice,
Divides the sinners from the saints,
We tremble and rejoice.

6. My soul shall pray for Zion still,
While life and thought remains;
There my best friends and kindred dwell,
There God my Saviour reigns."

The children of light love the ways of the Lord. His law is their delight. They learn it, and they try to keep it. Part of God's law is found in the Old Testament—more of it is set forth in the words of Jesus—and the Holy Spirit writes it in every sanctified heart. Be humble—be true—be just—be merciful—so says the law of Christ, and such was the life of Christ on earth.

O blessed Lord, when this world, with its joys and sorrows, all are past, and gone, grant unto us a happy lot with Thee, and with Jesus thy beloved Son, and with thy redeemed and sanctified people. Amen.

I preach sanctification—entire sanctification, and that by faith in Christ. So Jesus said to Paul, Acts 26: 18. But says one, do you possess it? I answer, I pray for it, and live, and labor to attain thereto. As time rolls on, my mind rolls back on the great fundamental principles of the gospel. I feel like contending for the faith once delivered to the saints—that faith which makes the soul holy and happy.

"'Twas in this faith the martyrs died,
And shouted victory in the fire."

Christian fellowship is a great privilege and blessing. As there is at present no society of the brethren in this great city approaching one-third of a million people, therefore I have to be thankful that I can go and worship with those who hold the great principles of our common faith. I love good preaching—it is sweeter than honey, and the honey-comb. I love the solemn prayers, even if they are a little lengthy on Sabbath morning. And the songs of Zion—O dear Lord, let me hear them again in that day when thou comest to gather thy people—and none are then missing.

I have just returned from worship at the Presbyterian church at Washington Square, where Albert Barnes preaches. He is one of the best among the Presbyterian ministry—of strong mind, and good doctrine—but nothing showy as an orator. His text was from the Lamentations of Jeremiah, "How is the gold become dim, how is the fine gold changed." It is indeed so with nearly all denominations. The wheat is mingled among the chaff—but let us hope that the Lord will bring the gold safe through the fire.

I respectfully suggest to the brethren of the Eldership, that we all preach more than ever—and with more earnestness than ever—the great doctrines of repentance—faith—holiness—and the gift and power of the Holy Spirit.

Also, that we preach more than ever the sufferings of Christ for our sins—and on heaven and hell. And furthermore, that the brethren—especially the preachers—try to love one another, and help each other, carefully avoiding jealousy and evil speaking.

The doctrines above mentioned are the power of God for the salvation of the soul; and I think it will be remembered, that our most happy and useful days were when we preached them most, and talked of them in private, among both saints and sinners.

I should also be glad if the Eldership would be unanimous, or agreed, in their business decisions, and not go merely by majorities. We cannot think that the putting every thing to vote was the ancient apostolic way.

Philadelphia, October 9, 1849.

Protracted Meeting at Matamoras.

According to previous notice, given in the Church Advocate, this meeting commenced on the evening of the 21st of September, and lasted till the 2d of October.

On Friday evening and Saturday afternoon prospects were not very flattering, the congregations being very small; but on Saturday evening some omens of good were seen, the congregations being pretty large and attentive. After preaching an invitation was given to anxious souls, but none came forward.

On Sunday we had preaching in the morning, afternoon, and likewise in the evening. The congregations were large and attentive, and God owned his word and backed it with the power and energy of his spirit, so that some were pricked to the heart. After preaching an invitation was given to mourning souls, when four came out to be prayed for, and one soul was set at liberty. On Monday afternoon we had preaching by Elder Coulter, and after sermon we repaired to the water and buried two happy believers beneath the yielding waves, and a happy time we had. In the evening the congregation was attentive to the word, and after preaching seven presented themselves at the altar of mercy, and two found peace. On Tuesday I left Matamoras to meet an appointment in Clark's Valley, but returned again on Wednesday, when I was told by the brethren that they had a powerful time. Six more came out to seek the Lord, and four found him to the joy and salvation of their souls. On Wednesday evening seven came out seeking the Lord, and three were made the happy subjects of saving grace, and two professed to have got religion at home during the day. Prospects for a great work were still growing brighter. On Thursday evening the convicting power of the Almighty was felt—sinners began to tremble, and 12 came out to seek an interest in Christ and in the prayers of God's children, and two were made to rejoice in the love of God. The congregations were still large and attentive. The people of Matamoras are highly praiseworthy for their good conduct manifested during the meeting.

On Friday I again left Matamoras to meet an appointment in Dauphin, but returned again on Saturday, when I was informed that on Friday six were out to be prayed for, and one was blessed. On Saturday evening there were several out to seek the Lord, and one professed to have obtained the pardon of his sins. On Sunday morning we had preaching, but in the afternoon we had none, on account of the inclemency of the weather. In the evening we attended to the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper; and truly we realized the promise, "Happy are ye if ye know these things and do them." The Master was with us. After the ordinances, mourners were again invited, and five made up their minds to seek, and three found Him of whom Moses and the Prophets did write.

On Monday afternoon we again met in the Bethel, and after offering up several prayers, we again repaired to the water and buried five happy believers beneath the yielding waves, and, like the Eunuch of old, they went on their way rejoicing. In the evening one mourner came out to seek, but did not obtain the blessing.

We also gave an invitation to such who wished to unite with us, to take the Bible for their rule of faith and practice, when seven gave us the hand of fellowship. On the following evening one more was taken into church-fellowship.

Thus this meeting continued twelve days. Myself and brother Coulter had to do all the preaching, with the exception of two sermons preached by brothers Siders and Loase, of the United Brethren.

During this meeting, 19 were hopefully converted, seven followed their Saviour in baptism, and eight were taken into Church-fellowship. Glory be to God! Oh! that these lambs may continue faithful to the end, for such only shall be saved.

A. SNYDER.

Matamoras, Oct. 3, 1849.

The Narrow Way to Life.

BY ELDER A. SNYDER.

"Strait is the gate, and narrow the way that leadeth to life, and few there be that find it."—Matt. 7: 14.

This way in itself is wide enough for the whole human race to travel on. Christ has not died for a few only, but for all. The arms of mercy are extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth. All are invited to come and partake of the waters of life freely. Isaiah 55: 1. Rev. 22: 17.

But the principal reason why there are few that find it is, because men will not cease to do evil. Now, sin is the principal thing that renders this way narrow, and as this way is a high and holy way, consequently the unclean shall not pass over it. Isaiah 35: 8. Only those that have an abhorrence to sin; who are stript of all self-righteousness and self-made comfort; those who are much concerned about ther soul's salvation; those who have become humble like a little child; these shall enter into the kingdom of heaven. Such shall inherit the kingdom, and it will not be long till the porter, the Holy Ghost, will open to them.

But those over whom sin has dominion; those who trust in their own righteousness, and the riches of this world; for these it is impossible to enter into the kingdom. Hence Christ says, "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for those that trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of heaven. Therefore, the reason why there are few that are saved, is not so much attributable to the way itself as to the persons that refuse to walk therein.

Many persons make to themselves their conversion and entrance into the kingdom, much more burdensome than what it really is, in itself. If when they are first awakened, they would be zealous and obedient, and willing to come in God's own appointed way, they might much sooner enter therein. Persons who are convicted of their lost and ruined state, should from that time on, with a broken heart, inquire after the way of salvation.—Such need special instructions. They should suffer themselves, through the directions and influence of the word of God, to be brought to a still deeper sense of their sinfulness, and to be led like an humble child—to hunger and thirst for an interest in Christ, and that righteousness through faith in his blood, which alone can save sinners. When this is their main object, it will not be long till they will obtain grace and peace. For so it was in days of old. Hence we read that in one day three thousand were added to the disciples. Acts 2: 41. O! that those Ancient Christians had many more foilowers. They might have them, if those who are awakened were not so apt to turn hither and thither, to find a false rest. It should be the great concern of every faithful minister of the gospel, to warn such of the danger of seeking a false rest, and not to trust in their own merits, but to cast themselves entirely upon the mercy and grace of God.

The work of grace and the guidance of the Holy Spirit, are pre-figured by the ladder which Jacob saw. Here we must begin, at the lowest degree, and keep on ascending until we have attained the highest degree. We must take heed not to skip one rung, for those that skip one are in danger of falling; and the higher the degrees we have attained, the greater will be the fall by departing from the truth. But those that serve well, purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus. 1 Tim. 3: 14.

The work of grace is beautifnlly explained by Luther in his third article of faith; where he says, that the Holy Spirit first calls them; secondly, gathers them; thirdly, enlightens them with his gifts; fourthly, sanctifies them in the true faith; fifthly, keeps them in Christ by faith; sixthly, richly forgives their sins day by day: to which we may add, (in my humble opinion,) seventhly, that the Holy Spirit daily urges them to avoid evil and do good; eighthly, brings them to a happy death; and ninthly, bestows upon them eternal life in Christ Jesus.

Whosoever doth experience the above in his heart, is upon the high way to the city of the living God, the Heavenly Jerusalem. Amen.

Linglestown, Dauphin Co., Aug., 1849.

"Love thy neighbor as thyself."

JOURNAL
OF THE
Second Eldership of Iowa.

The second Eldership of the Church of God in Iowa met, agreeably to adjournment, at the house of brother David Neff, near Trenton, on the 17th inst. The meeting was opened by brother S. Scott. The Eldership was then constituted, and the following brethren were found to be in attendance, viz:

Teaching Elders—Brothers Jonathan Hawk and Samuel Scott.

Ruling Elders—Jacob Smith, John M'Cormick and John Zentmyer.

The Eldership then proceed to organize, by electing brother J. HAWK Speaker, and S. Scott Clerk.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother M. F. Snavely be received as a member of the Eldership.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Teaching Elders give in their reports; whereupon,

Brother J. HAWK reported. His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother SAMUEL SCOTT reported. His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother M. F. SNAVELY reported. His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother E. LOGUE was not heard from.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Eldership, Elder Logue is highly censurable, for taking license from this Eldership last fall, and promising to travel as minister the present year, and then immediately after taking license from the East Pennsylvania Eldership, without asking leave, or obtaining a transfer: thus forfeiting his promise and disappointing the Churches. There is also much cause for complaint on the part of the Eldership and the Churches here, on account of the strange course pursued by E. Louge in reference to his affairs in this country, inasmuch as there is, at least, implied, if not real charges of falsehood and misrepresentation contained in his letter in the Church Advocate against some of the brethren in Iowa. However, they hold themselves in readiness to prove their assertions, if it is necessary and expedient, for they still bclieve that they have given a true and correct statement of matters.

Applicants for license were called for, but no application was made. The question was then asked, who would travel the next year? None consented.

Resolved, That this Eldership use proper exertions to swell the pledge list, in order to sustain a missionary in Iowa: also, to endeavor to procure subscribers for the Church Advocate.

Resolved, That brother J. Hawk preach a sermon at the opening of the next annual Eldership, God willing.

Resolved, That this meeting adjourn to meet again in North Bend, Johnson county, Iowa, on the first Monday of October, 1850.

JONATHAN HAWK, Speaker.

Samuel Scott, Clerk.

P. S.—Our Eldership was just as it should be. Peace, love and union existed amongst us: and we bless God that this is the character of the Churches in Iowa, so far as we know.

God grant that it may continue to abound, not only in Iowa, but in all the Churchcs throughout the world. Amen. S. S.

September 20, 1849.

Christ Coming with His Saints.

When the Lord Jesus Christ shall come to this world again, He will be accompanied by all His redeemed children, who shall have left the earth. This is certain from Zech. 14: 5; "And the Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with thee." The same event and scene are alluded to by Joel 3: 11: "Thither cause thy mighty ones to come down, O Lord." Jude is equally as clear, when he witnesseth that "Enoch also, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these, saying, behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints."—Paul, also, who looked upon the coming of Christ as a subject of comfort to the afflicted people of God, deposes that he prayed unceasingly for his brethren, that God might establish their "hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints." This being a truth, not to be doubted, it at once proves materialism false; for materialism of the Miltonian, Priestly and Storr school, teaches that saints do not exist from death till the coming of Christ, more than they did prior to birth or they had a being; consequently they could not come with him; but he would have to form them saints after he would come; for the resurrection of the body will not take place till he shall have descended, "with a great shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God."

Oh day of days, when God shall come,
With clouds of saints and angels round:
His pilgrims gathered safe at home,
Their dust redeemed from under ground.

Loud hallelujahs shall ascend!
From lips and tongues beyond all count,
While men of every grade shall blend
In one, on Zion's blissful mount.

Star-deck'd heaven, thine ample dome,
Shall wave with voices loud and shrill,
When ev'ry saint shall cease to roam,
And fullest joy each heart shall fill.

To God's own Son our praise belongs—
He hath redeemed us by his blood—
He will avenge us of our wrongs,
And feast our souls on living food.

'Neath the boughs of the trees of life,
We'll rest our weary, fainting limbs;
Far from the reach of war and strife,
In streams of life we then shall swim.

G. U. HARN.

Revival News.

Woodberry, Pa., October 18, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I now take my pen in hand to inform you and the readers of the Advocate what the Lord is doing for us in this part of his moral vineyard. Last Friday evening we commenced a protracted meeting in this place, which is still in progress. God has been among us with his convicting and converting power. Sinners have been pricked to the heart, and are crying, "what must we do to be saved?" Seven precious souls have been hopefully converted to God. These converts do as they did in the days of the Apostles—as soon as they believe, they follow the Lord Jesus Christ in the ordinance of baptism. My prayer to God is, that this good work may not stop until the tall sinners of Woodberry are converted to God. I know that the Lord is able to do this, if his people keep humble and pray fervently, as they have done. We have had good times since the Camp-meeting, and the cause of the Master is on the advance. Brother Winebrenner, pray for us, that the Lord may still bless his word, and his poor servants.

Yours, in the gospel,

J. HAIFLEIGH.

Letter from Bro. J. P. Winebrenner.

Wooster, Ohio, October 15, 1849.

Much Esteemed Uncle:—

Having been impressed for some time with the importance of writing a few lines for the benefit of the readers of the Church Advocate, I now embrace the opportunity, and if you consider them worthy of a place in the columns of the Advocate, you may publish them. The subject that has been very deeply impressed upon my mind of late, is that of the support of the ministry.

When we look around us, and see the way the poor ministers of Jesus Christ have to be embarrassed, on account of their families being almost in a distressed condition for the comforts of life, whilst those who are blessed with more than a sufficiency of this world's goods to make them comfortable, can sit under their ministry, from year to year, without giving them a fair compensation for their labor, what must we think of such professors? One of two things must be true: either they must be ignorant or wicked. If the former, they may have some excuse; if the latter, they have none. Oh ye that profess to be the followers of Jesus, and possess much of this world's goods, remember that "the laborer is worthy of his hire;"—that God will bring us all to an account for the manner in which we have used the means that he has given us. There are some, who are worth thousands of dollars, and yet only give from one to five dollars a year to the ministry; and others give nothing.—Can those who act thus, expect that God in a coming day will call them faithful stewards over that which he has committed to their trust? Oh! I am fearful that he will say to those who use the means that he has given them in that way, "Inasmuch as ye did it not to the least of these my little ones, ye did it not to me."

It is recorded in the Scriptures of Divine truth, that they that preach the gospel, shall live of the gospel. Hence we see, from this passage of Scripture, that those who labor among us in the ministry, we are indebted to for the same: so that it is not a duty which we may attend to or not, just as we please; but that if we neglect this duty, we violate a duty enjoined upon us by the Great Head of the Church.

Some will endeavor to screen themselves from giving to the ministry by saying, he wears a better coat and lives in a better house than themselves. But, allowing this to be true, does it furnish a sufficient excuse for not giving? Not at all. Can patients and clients excuse themselves from paying lawyers and doctors, simply because they wear better coats and live in better houses? No, verily not. Well, so neither can Christians. My prayer is, that God may send home this remark to every one that is guilty of acting in this way.

Another thing is, we need not expect the cause that we profess to love, to prosper, as long as we act in this way. Oh! that God would awaken all to a sense of their duty in this respect.

I will here propose a plan, (one which some of the individual Churches now practice,) by which this evil can be remedied, in a great measure; and that is, let the Deacon or Deacons, as the case may be, get up a subscription and present it to every member of the Church connected with their charge, and invite them to give according as the Lord has prospered them; that is, in proportion to their means, and the end will be accomplished.—Try it, brethren, one and all, and see if it will not be the better course to pursue. We have adopted this plan here, and I rejoice to say, to the credit of God's children connected in church-fellowship in this place, that I have not presented the subscription to one member but what heartily approved of the principle of equality and subscribed accordingly. We see, then, that it requires some exertion on the part of those who are chosen as officers of the Church. Many members are forgetful of this duty, unless apprised of it by some one.

Just imagine to yourselves that you see the minister starting out into his field of labor, leaving a large family behind him, that look up to him for a support, and he travels through wet and dry—through heat and cold, in order to be faithful to his appointments, looking to those for whom he labors for a compensation, in order to administer to the wants of his family—those things which are calculated to make them comfortable and happy. But alas! he travels from appointment to appointment, and receives little or nothing for his labor. Is it any wonder that ministers are very frequently discouraged, and almost compelled to leave their field of labor, and work with their hands, in order to support their families? My friends, it is too true, that some, as it is, are obliged to labor with their hands between their appointments, in order to make their families comfortable. Now, I ask the question; when a man feels it his duty, and is willing to give himself fully to the ministry, in order to proclaim the glad tidings of great joy to a lost and ruined world, is it not just and right that he should be sustained in it, without being under the necessity of laboring with his hands for a part of his support? Could he be thus supported, then he could apply himself more closely to the Scriptures, and consequently be more beneficial to the community.

Now, my friends, I hope you will ponder over the few thoughts I have thus endeavored to present for your consideration, and act wisely in reference to these matters. This I believe to be a duty, as well as others, enjoined upon us, and a failure to perform it, may prove our eternal overthrow; for Christ has said, if we keep the whole law, and yet fail in one point, we are guilty of all. Then, I say again, let us be faithful in the discharge of this, as well as every other duty, that it may be well with us in this world, and that which is to come.

I remain yours, in the bonds of Christian love and affection,

JOHN P. WINEBRENNER.

Letter from Bro. A. C. Raudebaugh.

MILLBROOK, Wayne County, Ohio, September 8, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

In looking over the last Advocate, my attention was drawn to a subject written by brother Rusticus, which I read, and am at a loss to know what to think of it. I read the Advocate with delight, in order to gain information and instruction; and not the Advocate only, but all other good reading that I have the means of getting. Yet I find it necessary to guard against error, find it where we will. The subject referred to, is held in doubt, and light is wanted upon it by other brethren as well as myself.

The brother says, all he asks is an open field, and he is willing to trust God, in thus uniting with the men of the world to do good.

This gives us to understand that the men of the world are actually engaged in doing good. But who are the men of the world? and is it possible for the men of the world to do good? The men of the world are the lovers of the world—they are the enemies of God—they are unbelievers—of whom Paul says, "Nothing is pure, but even their minds and consciences are defiled, and unto every good work reprobate." How then can they do good? It appears to me to be a matter of impossibility for them to do good, unless they are changed by grace.

Here I will stop. I might go farther; but I do not want to get into a debate, or hurt the feelings of any of the brethren, who think they are doing right. But I would like to see something published in the shape of an answer, throwing light upon the subject, and I will try to be still. There are, however, a goodly number of us, that would like to know to a certainty, how such characters as above referred to, can do good. They may perform a great many acts, that appear to us at first sight to be good; but does God recognize such characters as being capable of doing any good at all? This is what we want to know. Will the Editor please to publish this, and be so good as to give the information wanted?

ANDREW RAUDEBAUGH.

P. S.—This letter is not written, as I said before, for the sake of dispute, or through a contentious spirit; but for the sake of getting information and truth. If we can do more good by uniting with the men of the world then I say, let us all take hold; if not, then be content where we are. A. R.

REMARKS.—Our young brother wants light. We like his spirit. He writes like a Christian, in the spirit of meekness, and not in the spirit of controversy. The passages he has quoted, are clear, strong and decisive, when properly applied. But, to know where and how to apply them, we must cousider,—

1st. That there is a difference between natural and spiritual good.

2d. That natural men can do natural good.

3d. That Christians, under God, can do both natural and spiritual good, and that they are bound to do it, as they have ability and opportunity.

4th. That it is lawful for Christians to join with natural men to do natural good, provided they do it in a lawful way.

If these facts and principles are sound and correct, then it follows, that any and every application of the passages quoted by our brother in the above letter, to disprove any of these facts and principles, is false and erroneous. EDITOR.

Letter from Brother Moses M. Utley.

PERRY COUNTY, October 9, 1849.

BELOVED BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

HAVING seen nothing in the Advocate relative to our Perry Camp-meeting, I think it needful to furnish you with some news respecting it.

Our Camp-meeting commenced on the 20th of August. There were a small number of tents. The preachers in attendance were brothers H. Wingert, W. H. Mullenix, A. Snyder, S. Bigham, F. Hartman, and the least of all, Moses M. Utley. Our meeting was good. The preaching was plain and pointed. There were fourteen conversions, and seven buried with Christ in baptism. The work has been still going on, until the number is almost doubled. May the Lord continue to work in the hearts of the people of Perry county, until every house shall become a house of prayer, and every heart a fit temple for the spirit of the Lord to dwell in.

I still feel encouraged to labor with my brethren in the vineyard of the Lord. I love my preaching brethren, and believe the doctrine held and taught by the Church of God. I preach Christ and him crucified. Further, I preach him in all his offices: the first and the last, and blessed forever more. I believe firmly, that he must reign till he shall put all enemies under his feet; and the last enemy which shall be destroyed, is death.

Inasmuch, as Adam's transgression brought sin in the world, and all became diseased by it, so by the obedience of one, shall many be made righteous. I am, however, far from being a Universalist, in quoting the text, "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." But mark it, the Apostle says, every man in his own order. Christ has given us one text which settles this point. It is this, "If you die in your sins, where I am you cannot come;" and generally speaking, the Universalists are immoral people. Again, salvation is a conditional matter. It is suspended on the conditions of repentance and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, without which no man has the promise of everlasting life.

I remain yours in Christ,

MOSES M. UTLEY.

P. S.—Brother Coulter and myself held a Woods-meeting in Turkey Valley, which commenced the 14th of September. We had good weather. Brother Hufferd assisted in holding the meeting. The Lord blessed the word. Three embraced religion, and one followed the Lord in baptism; and doubtless there will be more that will soon come out on the Lord's side. We return our hearty thanks to the brethren and good people of Turkey Valley, for their kindness towards us.

I would inform the Editor that the Germany brethren will make their promise good, if he will come and give them a big meeting.

I stayed at the meeting in Fishing Creek Valley, and preached two evenings after the other preaching brethren had left. The result was, two more professed salvation. No more at present. M. M. U.

Letter from Brother Joseph Dickey.

BRUSH VALLEY, Indiana Co., Pa., October 6, 1849.

BY the advice of some of the brethren of the Church in Brush Valley, I now take up my pen to write a few lines for the consideration of the readers of your valuable paper, the Church Advocate.

In this place, for some years, iniquity abounded and the love of many waxed cold. But it has pleased the good Lord once more to visit this Church in mercy, and pour out his good spirit upon us, and give us a sweet refreshing shower. On the evening of the 15th of September, and on Sabbath, the 16th, we had appointments for preaching, by brother John Hickernell. But through a misunderstanding, a protracted meeting was expected. Brother Hickernell consented to continue the meeting in case there should be prospects of good being done, and not otherwise. So he preached twice a day, and from the beginning there were omens of good. The meeting became more and more interesting, and the plain, pointed and powerful preaching which we had, did honor to the cause of Christ, and proved itself the power of God to salvation to many that heard and believed. The meeting was continued until Monday, the 24th, by which time, sinners were brought to tremble and cry out for mercy. And blessed be God, who is always willing to help on such occasions, 28 precious souls were happily converted to God, four of which were reclaimed backsliders.—Such a glorious revival is worthy of admiration. On Monday, the 24th, brother Hickernell gave an invitation to the converts to unite in church-fellowship, at which time 21 were taken into church-membership. Oh! that the Lord may carry on his good begun work, until not a soul will be left to advocate the cause of the devil.

At this meeting, believers were built up in the most holy faith of the gospel. Verily, it was a rejoicing time, and a time of the presence of the Lord to many precious souls.—Should the present prospects be carried out, we will have a happy people, blessed of the Lord. There will be happy families, and a happy neighborhood. May he who holds the destiny of all mankind, keep us all faithful to the end, and save us all in his everlasting kingdom, is my humble prayer. Amen.

JOSEPH DICKEY.

Letter from Brother S. S. Snyder.

NEWBURG, Pa., October 18, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER:—

ENCLOSED I remit one dollar, with the name of a new subscriber for the "Church Advocate."

The Lord, in mercy, has been pleased to visit this place, to the hopeful conversion of some few souls, recently. Since the big meeting, about a dozen have professed a change of heart. This day, four converts were baptized by brother E. H. Thomas. Some time since, three or four others were also baptized. On Sunday evening last six were added to the Church. On Monday evening one was expelled, in the person of J. W. Collins. We still continue to have our sorrows, mixed with some joy. Yet our confidence and resignation is unshaken; knowing that the Lord will do all things well.

Ever yours in love,

S. S. SNYDER.

J. WINEBRENNER, V. D. M.

Letter from Brother Thos. D. G. Grim.

SAMPLES MANOR, Washington Co., Md., October 1, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

GRACE, mercy and peace, through our Lord Jesus Christ, be unto you and family, and all who love the Lord.

On the 6th of August, 1849, the Union School-house was set up at public sale, by the trustees of John McPherson Brien. I went to the sale and purchased the house, with two acres of land, on my own responsibility, as church property, which is to be deeded to five Trustees, to be elected by the Church, and to be held by them in trust for the East Pennsylvania Eldership of the Church of God.

On the 8th of September last we appointed a special meeting, to continue one week.—There was no preacher to assist but brother Fenton. I had wrote to brother McElroy to come and assist us if he could, that we would pay his way; and if he could not come, to let us know by letter, but we have as yet heard nothing from him. However, at the time appointed, brother Fenton commenced the meeting and continued it for a fortnight, and the consequence was, four or five prodigals were hopefully reclaimed. May the good Lord keep them faithful, is my prayer. The congregations were large and attentive, and many were deeply convicted. May the Lord sink deeper and deeper the arrows of conviction. Take all in all, it was a cheering time for God's people. As for myself, I was abundantly blessed and encouraged, insomuch that I could praise God in the midst of the congregation. May the Lord keep me faithful until death. We expect shortly to hold another meeting, and organize a Church here. Can you not come up and assist us?

We have not been treated here by the ministering brethren, as we should have been; but I shall attend to this in another communication. If you have no objections I will occasionally send you a communication. No more at present. Yours,

THOS. D. G. GRIM.

OBITUARY OF Brother SAMUEL MYERS.

Died, at his residence, in Congress township, Wayne county, Ohio, on the 16th of September, 1849, brother Samuel Myers, aged 66 years, 8 months and 25 days.

Brother Myers embraced religion about 14 years ago. The first impressions of religion were made on his mind at a meeting held in the woods near his farm. Shortly after this he obtained the pardon of his sins, by a living faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Sometime after this, at a two day meeting held in his barn, by brother Jacob Keller and the writer, brother Myers followed his Lord and Saviour in the ordinance of baptism, in a stream running near past his barn. Since that time his house was a place for preaching and a home for the preachers. However, the two last years there has not been much preaching at his house, in consequence of a want of preachers. But he always endeavored to walk worthy of his vocation, and from creditable testimony it appears that he was more engaged during the past summer in his spiritual welfare than at any former period, so that his last days were his best.

In the death of brother Myers the community has lost a worthy citizen and neighbor, his family a worthy husband, father and friend. He left a worthy wife and affectionate children, who are endeavoring to follow their parent to the kingdom. His funeral was large and solemn. The congregation was addressed by the writer from Prov. 14: 32. He was buried on his own farm.

PETER HARTMAN.

OBITUARY OF JACOB BALMER.

Died, in the Lunatic Asylum, in the State of Ohio, on the 23d day of September, 1849, Jacob Balmer, aged 50 years, 7 months and 22 days.

Jacob Balmer embraced religion in Cumberland county, Pa., about 25 or more years ago, during the time of those great revivals in said county. After he was married, he had preaching in his own house; and after him and his family moved to the State of Ohio, he again took up meeting or preaching in his house, and continued meeting in his house until he became insane. He continued in a state of insanity about eight months, when he was restored from the same; but he became melancholy, and continued in a melancholy state for some years. After his insanity returned again, he was then placed in the Ohio Lunatic Asylum, at which place he ended his days.

His disease was that of the lungs, and apparently of the heart, and of about eight days continuance. Sometime before he died, he seemed to be quite sensible of the near approach of his death, and appeared to be fully resigned to the will of the Lord.

We therefore hope that he left this world of sorrow for a world of bliss and glory, where all diseases of mind are unknown, but where the soul will bloom in immortal health and youth forever.

He left an affectionate wife and six children to mourn his departure. He was buried on the premises of the Ohio Lunatic Asylum.

PETER HARTMAN.

Near Wooster, Sept. 30, 1849.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

The Whigs of New York on the Question of Slavery.—The Whig State Convention of New York, which met at Syracuse week before last, unanimously adopted the subjoined resolutions, defining their position on the slavery question:

Resolved, That the Federal Constitution was formed and adopted expressly "to secure the blessings of liberty" to the People of the United States and their posterity, and that no power was given therein to extend the curses of slavery; wherefore, we maintain that Congress has the right, and is in duty bound, to abolish Slavery wherever it exists in the territories of the Union, and plainly prohibit its establishment in any portion of those territories at any time hereafter.

Resolved, That recognizing the restrictions of slavery within its present limits as one of the cardinal principles of our political faith, we pledge ourselves to our fellow citizens and the country, to exercise to the utmost all the power we may possess to prevent the Extension of slavery over a single foot of Free Soil.

The Mormon Press.—A little paper, of letter sheet size, is published by a class of Mormons located at Covington, in Kentucky. It is called the "Melchisedek and Aronic Herald," and is the organ of a sect of the Mormons who regard Wm. Smith, the brother of Joe Smith, as the inheritor of his spirit and prophetical character.—They anathematize the Salt Lake Mormons, and charge them with treason against the Government of the United States.

A Clerical Suit.—The Rev. Joy H. Fairchild, of the Payson Church, South Boston, has commenced an action in the Supreme Judicial Court against the Rev. Nehemiah Adams, D. D., of the Essex street church in Boston, for libel and slander, sueing for damages in $10,000.

Religious.—The following churches have been organized in San Francisco:

1. Roman Catholic—service administered every Sabbath, at their church on Vallejo street.

2. First Baptist, Rev. O. C. Wheeler, pastor—service every Sabbath at their new church on Washington street, near the corner of Stockton.

3. First Presbyterian, Rev. Albert Williams, pastor—service every Sabbath, at their large tent on Dupont street, near Pacific.

4. Protestant Episcopal, Rev. Albert Mines, rector—service every Sunday, for the present, at the house of J. H. Merrill, Esq.

5. Methodist.—We understand that this denomination has commenced the erection of a church at the head of Washington street.

6. Congregational.—The Rev. T. D. Hunt has consented to officiate occasionally for this church until the first of November next.

Bishop Onderdonk.—The Episcopalians in the State of New York, at their late Convention, have again mooted the question, whether Dr. Onderdonk shall be restored to his episcopal functions. On the one side, it is urged that his penitence entitles him to forgiveness and restoration. On the other, it is alleged that his guilt has been established by a competent tribunal, and that there is no evidence of equal authority showing penitence. Next, that his penitence will not qualify him to discharge again the duties of a Bishop. It may restore him to the sympathies of Christians, but can never entitle him to rule the church.

The whole experience of the world testifies, that when a man has once proved faithless to any trust, however much his penitence may entitle him to forgiveness as a Christian, that it is not safe to again place him in a situation of responsibility, where he may again misuse the confidence reposed in him.—Advent Herald.

Rush for California.—We are informed that a gentleman from Boston, a few days ago, applied to Howland & Aspinwell, of New York, for a passage in the November boat for California, but was informed that every berth was taken in a few hours after the books were opened, and since six or seven huhdred applications have been made. So the "Gold Fever" is not over with yet.

Ohio Election.—Nearly the whole State of Ohio has now been heard from, either officially or unofficially, Omitting the first district in Hamilton county, which is in dispute, the following is the result:—House, 30 Whigs and 34 Democrats, with six Free Soilers. In the Senate there are 17 Whigs, 16 Democrats, and one Free Soiler.

A New Work by Mr. Calhoun.—The New York Courier understands that the Messrs. Harpers will publish before a great while, from the pen of Jno. C. Calhoun, a treatise on the elementary principles of government and the Constitution of the United States, and that it is so nearly complete, that he expects to prepare it for publication in his leisure hours during the coming session of Congress.

Methodist Church Property.—Rev. H. B. Bascom, A. L. P. Green and C. B. Parsons give notice in the Nashville Christian Advocate, that suits have been brought in the U. S. Circut Courts for New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, in view of a fair and final adjustment of the "property question," so long in controversy between the Northern and Southern Methodist churches.

Dreadful Mortality.—On the 22d ult., the cholera broke out amongst the hands employed in cutting broom corn, on the farm of J. O. B. Rennick, near Lockbourne, above Circleville, Ohio. There were seventy hands employed, and in thirty hours from the time of the first attack, no less than thirty of the seventy were swept into the grave.

Newspaper Postage.—The postage upon Newspapers, dropped into the post office by individuals, is now one cent each to any part of the State, and a half cent additional for any distance over 100 miles out of the State—the postage to be pre-paid, except when sent from the office of publication.

Commerce of Boston.—One hundred and six vessels have arrived at this port this morning, chiefly coast-wise. Fifty-six were from Philadelphia, loaded with coal. Many of the others were loaded with flour, corn, (about 60,000 bushels,) wheat, oats, leather, potatoes, &c., &c.—Boston Trav.

Peaches from Plum Trees.—Mr. Wm. D. Beach, of Livingston, N. Y., has raised a delicious specimen of peaches, taken from a grafted wild horse plum tree, which is perfectly hardy. One peach is ten inches in circumference. This is the second year that the graft has produced fruit.

Canal Steam Packet.—The Niagara, a steam packet intended to run in connection with Doyle's line of packets, arrived at this place to-day from Cincinnati. She is propelled by two engines of 15 horse power each, which are set in motion by a locomotive boiler.—Toledo Repub.

Georgia Election.—The latest accounts estimate the Democratic majority in the gubernatorial ticket at 3,300. The Senate consists of 25 Democrats and 24 Whigs; the House, of 67 Democrats and 63 Whigs.

☞ Hon. John P. Gaines, of Kentucky, has been appointed Governor of Oregon by Gen. Taylor, and has accepted.

"Constant Readers."—Attorney, plural Attorneys. Nouns singular ending in y, preceded by a vowel, add s only for the plural: all proper names ending in y form their plural in like manner. Common nouns ending in y, preceded by a consonant, change the y into i, and add ES in forming their plurals.

California Gold.—The deposits of California gold, this year, to the end of September, were:

At the mint in Philadelphia,	$2,397,264 46
Do. do. in New Orleans,	260,561 42
Total of this year,	$2,657,825 88
Add deposits of 1848,	44,177 00
Total deposits California gold,	$2,702,002 88

Immigration.—There have arrived at the Quarantine Staten Island, from the 2nd of April to the 12th ultimo, 150,613 steerage passengers, by vessels from foreign ports. This is an average of nearly 400,000 steerage immigrants annually to this city alone.

Harrisburg Gas Works.—This work is progressing rapidly. The Legislature and the Borough will be lighted up this winter. The contractors, Messrs. Stewart & Carver, are using every exertion for a speedy completion.

Crops in New Jersey.—The New Jersey crops are generally abundant this season, as we hear from the farming districts.—Buckwheat has seldom been better, and the yield of wheat, rye and corn will probably be beyond an average.

Character.—As they who, for every slight infirmity, take physic to repair their health, do rather impair it, so they who, for every trifle, are eager to vindicate their character, do rather weaken it.

Wire Bridge.—The footway of the wire suspension bridge extending one thousand and ten feet from Wheeling to the Ohio side, has been completed, and crossed by multitudes.

Disease at the Sandwich Islands.—According to late advices, at least 10,000 persons had died, or more than one-tenth of the whole population, during the year, of whom 2300 were members of the churches.

☞ A trial for breach of the marriage promise came off recently in Ohio. The courtship had continued for fifteen years, and the faithless swain was muleted in $400 damages and $200 costs.

☞ The amount of British manufactures now exported is said to be enormous. Up to August, of this year, it was 25,000,000 more than in the same period last year.

☞ The Governor of Massachusetts has appointed the 29th of November as the day for the annual Thanksgiving in that State.

☞ The receipts at the Boston Custom-house for September, were $604,566, against $539,494 in September, 1848.—The receipts for the quarter ending September 30th this year, were $1,797,167, against $1,444,971 a year ago, showing an increase from last year of $350,196.

☞ It is stated that in St. Petersburg, where the population is barely one-fifth of that of London, the mortality by cholera has been more than 20,000, and in Paris, with about half the population of London, the victims by cholera have been upwards of 15,000.

☞ The Supreme Court of New Jersey has decided that engineers on Railroads are not responsible for the loss or injury of cattle, that may come in contact with the locomotive, as it is the duty of the owners to take care of their property.

☞ Gen. Taylor visited the Fair of the Maryland Institute at Baltimore on the 12th ult. He afterwards visited the Cattle Show of the Agricultural Society, where Senator Pearce delivered the Annual address, which is highly praised.

☞ At a meeting of the Directors of the Theological Seminary in Gettysburg, on the 18th of September, the Rev. Dr. Demme, of Philadelphia, was unanimously elected Second Professor in the Seminary.

☞ Frederika Bemer, the Swedish novelist, is among the distinguished Europeans who have lately arrived in America.

☞ The 15th day of November has been set apart as a day of Thanksgiving, by Governor Manley, of North Carolina.

☞ A Hamburg Banker has offered 100,000 francs to any one who will discover a cure for the cholera.

☞ Fourteen members of the Cincinnati Bar have died since the first day of January last.

☞ By a method recently discovered in Belgium, flax is rotted and cleansed in a few hours.

☞ The King of Sweden and his Court have become active in the temperance cause.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DR. WICKEY'S CHOLERA MEDICINE.

We do certify that Doctor Louis Wickey, of York, Pennsylvania, took under his care and management, on or about the first of October last, a young man laboring under a severe attack of "Asiatic Cholera." That we examined the said patient, and found him to be in the collapsed state of that disease, with frequent and copious rice water discharges. That we pronounced it a case of genuine cholera and declared moreover that we believed the said patient was beyond the hope of medical aid. In fact we thought the patient would die, and so declared at the time.

We further certify that the said Louis Wickey pursued his own mode of treatment, and administered his cholera remedy, and effected a cure of the patient. We think in four days thereafter the said young man was at work, and perfectly well.

JOHN C. DORSEY,
T. B. DUCKETT, M. D.

I certify that I visited a case of modified cholera, under the care of Dr. Louis Wickey, and that I believe his medicines relieved him.

J. REYNOLDS, M. D.

State of Maryland, Wash. Co., to wit:—I hereby certify that I am well acquainted with the gentlemen who have signed the within certificates of Doctor Louis Wickey, and they are men of respectability.

In testimony whereof, I hereunto subscribe my name and affix the seal of my office, this fourteenth day of November, eighteen hundred and thirty-three.

O. H. WILLIAMS, Clerk,
Washington County Court, Maryland.

I witnessed the administration of Doctor Louis Wickey's preparation for Cholera, in the case of an apprentice to the plastering business in this town [Hagerstown] His was a well-marked Asiatic Cholera, with rice water evacuations, cold clammy skin, cold tongue, small tremulous pulses. I considered his situation truly critical and alarming. I saw him previous to Dr. Wickey, and was present at the administration of the first dose of medicine and saw him repeatedly during the attendance of Dr. Wickey. He recovered so as to be able to attend to and work at his trade in a few days. I am sure he took none other than the medicine administered by Dr. Wickey.

RICHARD W. DAVIS, M. D.

State of Maryland, Wash. Co., to wit:

Be it remembered, that on the ninth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three, before the subscriber, one of the Justices of the Peace of the State of Maryland, in and for Washington county aforesaid, personally appeared Thomas Wells, of said county, and made oath on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that the narration of the facts and circumstances, as stated in the following certificate, are true, to wit: That a certain Charles Stone, an apprentice of his, the said Thomas Wells, was taken ill with the Cholera, on Monday morning, the 1st day of October last, 1833, about ten o'clock, A. M., and Dr. Louis Wickey, being called in to see him, gave him one dose of his cholera remedy, which relieved him in fifteen minutes from the violent diarrhœa and pain in the stomach, with which he was then attacked: he was entirely prostrated, and pulseless, in a cold sweat, discharging rice water. He, the said Charles Stone, went to work on the Wednesday following, apparently well and in good health. He remained at work until 10 or 11 o'clock on the following day, [Thursday,] when he was again attacked with a violent cramp in his legs, fingers and stomach, with headache, cold and pulseless, with violent copious involuntary discharges of rice water from his stomach and bowels, at which time he was pronounced by the attending physicians in the collapsed state of Asiatic Cholera; when Doctor Louis Wickey was again called in to see him, and immediately gave him his cholera remedy. The said Charles Stone took no other medicine except that administered by Dr. Louis Wickey, and he was permitted to eat and drink whatever his appetite craved: he also drank abundantly of cold water, and is now perfectly restored, and able to perform his daily labor and duty as usual.

Sworn before THOMAS JOHNS.

State of Maryland, Wash. Co., to wit:

Be it Remembered, that on this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three before the subscriber, one of the Justices of the Peace of the State of Maryland, in and for Wash. Co., aforesaid, personally appeared Abraham Misner, and makes oath on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that the facts and circumstances, as narrated in the statement or certificate below, are true, to wit: That he, the said Abraham Misner, has visited and attended as a nurse to every person who had the Asiatic Cholera in Hagerstown, in the county and State aforesaid, during the fall of 1832 and 1833, and also nursed and attended the said Charles Stone [mentioned in the above certificate] whilst he had the cholera, and thinks and believes that the said Charles Stone had the disease as bad as any person whom he had ever seen; and the said Abraham Misner also knows that Dr. Louis Wickey was called in to see the said Charles Stone, and gave him his cholera remedy medicine; and the said Abraham Misner, distinctly saw and observed the sudden and unexpected effect it had in relieving him, at a most alarming period, and when the said Abraham Misner thought he was dying, and when he was pronounced by the attending physicians in a collapsed state, and beyond the control of medicine. He also knows that the said Charles Stone took no other medicine, except that administered by Dr. Louis Wickey.

Sworn before THOMAS JOHNS.

State of Maryland, Wash. Co., to wit:

I hereby certify, that Thomas Johns, gentleman, before whom the within affidavits were sworn to, and who has thereunto subscribed his name, was at the time of so doing, and still is, a Justice of the Peace of the State of Maryland, in and for Washington county, duly commissioned and qualified, and to all his acts as such full faith and credit is due as well in Courts of Justice as thereout.

In testimony whereof, I hereunto subscribe my name, and affix the seal of my office, this thirteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and thirty-three.

Washington County Court, Md.
O. H. WILLIAMS, Clerk.

WHAT FAITH BRINGS TO CHRIST.

Every grace brings somewhat considerable. Love brings a flaming heart; repentance brings a bleeding heart; obedience brings a working hand; patience brings a broad back for the smiter; but faith brings only an empty heart and hand, to be filled with borrowed and gifted blessings; and yet faith is the highest and loftiest grace.—Trail.

PRONUNCIATION.

The words Allopathy and Homœopathy, with those derived from them, are in most instances erroneously pronounced. The following divisions show the true pronunciation, the emphasis being on the italicised syllables: Al-lop-a-thy, Ho-mœ-op-a-thy, Hy-drop-a-thy.

TEMPERANCE ANECDOTE.

CHRISTMAS EVANS.

Christmas, towards the end of his days, became a total abstainer. A brother minister, who condemned not himself in the thing which he allowed, could not be brought over to the total system. Christmas polished an arrow, and put it in his quiver ready for use. He was appointed to preach: and, as usual, there were gatherings from far and near; Mr. W——, of A——, the minister, was there too; but, as if anticipating an attack, he said he should not be present whilst Evans preached.—And yet, such was the fascination, that he could not stay away; and by and by he crept up into the gallery, where the preacher's eye, (for he had but one) which had long been searching for him, soon discovered him. All went on as usual, until the time came when the arrow might be drawn, which was done slily and unperceived. "I had a strange dream the other night (said Christmas.) I dreamed I was in Pandemonium, the council chamber of Hades—how I got there I know not, but there I was. I had not been there long before there came a thundering rap at the gates, 'Beelzebub, Beelzebub! you must come to earth directly.'—,Why what's the matter?' 'O, they are sending out missionaries to teach the heathens.'—'Are they, I'll be coming.' Beelzebub came and hastened to the place of embarkation. where he saw the missionaries and their wives, and a few boxes of Bibles and tracts, but turning round he saw piled up rows of casks, labeled Gin, Rum, Brandy.—'That, will do,' said he; 'no fear yet. These casks will do more harm than the boxes can do good:' and so saying, he stretched his wings for hell again. But after a time came another loud call—'They are forming Bible Societies!' 'Are they! Then I must go.' He went, and found two ladies going from house to house, distributing the Word of God. 'This wont do,' thought he; 'but I will see.' The ladies visited an aged female, who received a copy with much reverence, and many thanks; 'what a comfort it will be to me,' said she. He loitered about, and when the ladies were gone, the old woman came to her door and peeped this way and that, and then went in and came out again with her bonnet on, carrying two things under her apron out of sight—one was her new Bible, which she pawned, and the other was a small jug, in which she brought home the gin she had bought with the money. 'That will do,' said he, 'no fear yet;' and back he flew to his own place. Again came a hasty summons—'They are forming a Temperance Society.' 'A Temperance Society: What's that? I'll come and see.' He came and saw, and again flew back, muttering, 'This wont do much harm to me or my subjects—they are forbidding the use of ardent spirits, but they have left my poor people all the ale and porter, and the rich all the wines. No fear yet!' Again came a louder rap than ever—'Beelzebub, you must come now, or we are all ruined, for they are forming a Tee-total Society.' 'What in the name of all my imps is that?' 'To drink nothing at all as a beverage but water!' 'Indeed! that is bad news. I must see after this.' And he did; but he went back again to satisfy the anxious inquiries of his legions, who were all qui vive about the matter. 'O,' said he, 'don't be alarmed; it's an awkard affair, but it wont spread much yet, for all the parsons are against it, and Mr. W——, of A——, (sending up an eagle glance of his eye at him) is at the head of them!' Whiz went the arrow, and down came the bird! Mr. W—— cried out—"But I wont be at the head of them any longer:" and walking calmly down out of the gallery entered the table pew, and signed the pledge.—Baptist Reporter.

POWER OF PERSONAL HOLINESS.

Never will the church meet her solemn responsibillties, until her children brusting asunder the shackles that bind them, and rising out of the slough of earthliness in which they are sunk, come up to that high measure of evangelical sanctification which the voice of Scripture and the exigencies of a dying world alike demand of them.—There is a moral omnipotence in holiness. Argument may be resisted, persuasion and entreaty may be scorned. The thrilling appeals and monitions of the pulpit, set forth with all the vigor of logic, and in all the glow of eloquence, may be evaded or disregarded. But the exhibition of exalted piety has a might which nothing can withstand: it is truth embodied: it is the Gospel burning in the hearts, beaming from the eyes, breathing from the lips, and preaching in the lives of its votaries. No sophistry can elude it, no conscience can ward it off; no bosom wears a male that can brave the energy of its attack. It speaks in all languages, in all climates, and to all phases of our nature. It is universal—invisible; and clad in immortal panoply, goes on from victory to victory.—Missionary Enterprise.

STOPPING NEWSPAPERS.

A class of conceited touchy people who stop a newspaper on account of any petty paragraph that displeases them, are cleverly ridiculed by an exchange as follows.—The parable should be kept before the people.

"A certain man hit his toe against a pebble stone and fell headlong to the ground. He was vexed, and under the influence of anger and active self sufficiency, he kicked old mother earth right saucily. With imperturable gravity, he looked to see the "vast globe itself dissolve and come to nought." But the earth remained, and only his poor foot was injured in the encounter. This is the way of man. An article appears in the newspaper, touching him in a weak place, and straightway he sends word to stop his paper. With great self-complacency, he looks on to see a crash, when the objects of his spleen shall cease to be. Poor fool, he has only hit his one toe against a world that does not perceptibly feel the shock, and injures, to no extent, any one but himself.

SAYING GRACE IN ENGLAND.

Mr. Colman, in his European Life and Manners, says that in England children even quite young are often called upon to say grace at the table; and that three days before, he dined in a large and elegant party, where the lady of the house asked a blessing and returned thanks. He was a week at one house where the eldest daughter, about twenty-two years of age, led in the family worship every morning, and constantly said grace at the table; and so in several other instances.

RELIGION purifies the heart and teaches us our duty.

POETRY.

THE CHILD'S HYMN OF HEAVEN.

BY "INCOGNITO, JR."

O, MOTHER, talk to me again'
Of that bright place above,
Where reigns that great and glorious King,
Whom we should fear and love.

Oh, mother, when you go up there,
Take me along with you;
For I should like to see that King,
And sing His praises too.

You said that all was beautiful—
That all was pure and bright—
That angels sat around the throne—
Oh, grand! transcendant sight!—

That children such as me are there,
With crowns of shining gold—
That old men lived forever there,
But never more looked old!

I often dream, by day and night,
Of that sweet land of love,
And spirits in my dreamy flight,
Have taken me above.

Oh! mother! talk to me again,—
It thrills my bosom so!
And when you start toward that land—
Oh, mother! let me go!

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 16, 1849.

THE LAND OF THE BLESSED.

"Thine eyes shall see the King in his beauty; they shall behold the land that is very far off."—Isaiah xxxliii. 17.

THERE is a far-off land,
Where love, and joy, and beauty reign:
There is a chosen band,
Who call that land their domain,
And hold communion sweet and free,
While all unite, and all agree.

They have a glorious King,
Whose beauty, majesty and state,
Excel what poets sing,
Or angel tongues could e'er relate,
But they behold Him face to face,
And taste his love, and sing his praise.

No night, no storms, no foes,
Are in that happy country known;
All there is calm repose;
While, gushing from th' eternal throne,
Rivers of pleasure, fresh and sweet,
Meander through each heavenly street.

They never say they're sick,
Or feel diseases or decay;
No tears bedew the cheek,
For God has wiped them all away;
And all their wants are well supplied,
And every wish is satisfied.

They need no sun to cheer,
No moon, nor stars, to guide their way:
God's glory bright and clear,
Alone makes their perpetual day,
They never sleep, but ceaseless sing
The triumphs of their Saviour King.

Who are the favored race,
That in that blessed country dwell?
Where was their native place?
Their birth, their state, their nature tell?
O! they were an accursed brood,
In love with sin! estranged from God!

Black and impure they were,
Till washed in Jesus' precious blood:
But now, all bright and fair,
They shine, the sons and heirs of God;
In holiness and beauty shine,
All pure, all lovely, all divine.

When will the day arrive,
When my unfettered soul shall rise,
No more on earth to live,
'Midst sins, and pains, and tears, and sighs;
But clap her wings, and soar above,
To that fair world of light and love?

For that far-distant land,
My spirit, dearest Lord, prepare:
Then send some angel-band,
Commissioned to escort me there,
On their kind wings I'll mount, and fly
To join the chorus of the sky.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 2d ult., by Elder A. Swartz, Mr. JOSEPH EMERICK to Miss MARTHA HAWK, of Portsmouth, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 9th of September, 1849, by Elder S. Scott, Mr. ISAAC HEWET to Miss MARGARET NEFF, all of Henry county, Iowa.

On the 24th of September, in Samples Manor, by Elder A. J. Fenton, Mr. JOSEPH N. NEYSE, of Washington county, Md., to Miss BARBARA BAGENT, of Louden county, Va.

On the 25th ult., by J. Winebrenner, V. D. M., Elder JOHN CALVIN SEABROOKS to Miss MARY ANN FETTROW, both of Cumberland county, Pa.

On the same, by the same, Mr. SAMUEL ENSMINGER, of Carlisle, to Miss FRANCES BRANDT, of Worleystown, Cumberland county, Pa.

On the 27th of May, 1849, by Elder Thos. Strohm, Mr. DAVID POWLEY to Miss JANE WRAN, both of West Hanover, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 4th ult., by the same, Mr. JOHN LINGLE to Miss JANE WOLMER, both of West Hanover, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 12th ult., by the same, Mr. DAVID WATSON to Miss ELIZABETH DIBLER, both of Millersburg, Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 16th of September, by Rev. F. Hodgson, Mr. HENRY LIPPENCOTT, of Warren county, New Jersey, to Miss EMELINE M. BRANYAN, of Harrisburg.

On the 18th ult., by the same, Mr. WILLIAM WYKOFF, to Miss C. H. BALSLEY, both of Harrisburg.

On the 10th ult., by the Rev. J. F. Mesick, Mr. VALENTINE FEEMAN, of New Cumberland, Cumberland county, to Miss MARY MATILDA, daughter of Martin Lutz, Esq., of Harrisburg.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—on the 15th of September, 1849, in Miamiesburg, Montgomery Co., Ohio, LEWIS CASS, son of Adam and Lucy Miller, aged 1 year and 6 months.

On the 29th of September, 1849, in the borough of Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., after a short but severe illness, HENRY MYLIN, in the 24th year of his age.

Funeral services by Elder I. Brady.

Near Linglestown, Dauphin county, Pa., JOHN A. REEME, son of brother William H. and sister Catharine Reeme, aged 1 year, 1 month and 11 days.

At Linglestown, on the 18th ult., Mr. HENRY HORTZ, aged 33 years, 3 months and 28 days.

His sickness was inflamation of the stomach, which took him off very suddenly. In the afternoon he done some work, and the next morning he was a corpse. He left a widow, two children, and a large circle of friends and relatives, to mourn his sudden and unexpected departure. Well may it be said, that "in the midst of life we are in death." His remains were conveyed to the burying-ground attached to the Union Bethel, at which time a discourse was delivered by the writer, from Mark 13: 35—37. THOMAS STROHM.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Dedication of the Churchtown Bethel.

The Bethel at Churchtown, Pa., built for the use of the Church of God, will be dedicated, Deo Volente, on the 11th of November, 1849.

Services are to commence on Friday evening, the 9th. There will be public collections taken up on the occasion, to aid in defraying the expenses incurred by the erection of the building.

As the meeting is to be protracted for some time, it is expected that the brethren in the ministry, who may visit us on the occasion, will make their arrangements to stay some time.

We give a special invitation to the brethren of the local churches, and the people generally in the surrounding country, to visit us at that time. GEORGE SINGISER,

Chairman of Committee.

Dedication.

The new Bethel near brother Kumbler's, Perry county, Pa., will be dedicated to the worship of God on Sabbath, the 18th of November.

The services will commence on Saturday evening previous.

A public collection will be taken up on the occasion.

The ministers and people of the neighborhood and surrounding country, are respectfully invited to attend.

Protracted Meeting in Ohio.

There will be a protracted meeting held, by Abraham Holms, on the second Saturday of November, being the 10th inst., at the Brandywine Run meeting-house, Big Sugar Creek.

The brethren are earnestly invited to come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 62½	a 4	68
Do. Rye, do. - -	2 50	a 2	56
Do. Corn, do. - -	2 50	a 2	56
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	93	a	95
Do. Rye, do. - -	55	a	56
Do. Corn, new do. - -	55	a	56
Do. Oats, do. - -	31	a	33
Do. Barley, do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 00	a 3	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	3 00	a 3	25
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -	5 00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - -	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -	10	a	11
BUTTER, do. - - - - -	12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -	7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -	87½	a 1	00
ONIONS, do. - - -	75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -	37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -	1 15	a 1	16
HAY, per ton, - - - - -	10 00	a 11	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -	4 00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$5 00	a 5	12½
Do. Rye, do. -	3 00	a 3	06
Do. Corn, do. - -	3 00	a 3	06
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	1 02	a 1	05
Do. Rye, do. - -	62½	a	62½
Do. Corn, new do. - -	65	a	65
Do. Oats, do. - -	31	a	31
Do. Barley, do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	4 37	a 4	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 75	a 3	00
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 35	a 1	40
BEEF, per cwt., - - -	7 00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - -	7 00	a 7	25

Evangelical Music.

THE proprietor offers for sale, at reduced prices, the Evangelical Music-book, containing a great variety of popular Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Set pieces and Anthems.

This popular Music-book has been before the public for a number of years, and has received a very flattering reception among various Religious Denominations and Musical Associations.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the Minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia.—"The committee state that they have examined, as carefully as practicable, the 'Evangelical Music,' and cheerfully recommend it to the congregations under their care, as a good system of Church Music."

From the Minutes of the Bellefonte Musical Association.—"Resolved, That we consider 'Evangelical Music' the best work of the kind known to us; and cheerfully recommend it to all lovers of Sacred Music."

☞ For sale at this office, and at our Depositories. Editor.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, - -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00

Printers and Publishers

OF Newspapers are informed that the subscribers are extensively engaged in the manufacture of PRINTING INK of every color and quality, which they know to be equal to any manufactured, and which they will sell at the lowest prices for Cash. As they are determined that their INK shall recommend itself, they only solicit one trial of it, relying upon its merits for future patronage. Their Colored Inks are warranted superior to any manufactured. A circular containing prices, &c., will be sent to those who desire it. Orders for Cash on City Agents accepted.

☞ Publishers of Newspapers inserting this advertisement to the amount of $2 and sending us a copy of paper, by remitting $5 at any time will receive a 30 lb. keg of extra News Ink.

ADAMS & CO.,
Steam Printing Ink Works, Philadelphia,
Agents for the sale of new and second hand printing materials.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

McAllister's All-Healing Ointment,
OR THE
WORLD'S SALVE.
Contains NO MERCURY or other MINERAL.

From the Reading Eagle.

"There was never, perhaps, a medicine brought before the public, that has in so short a time won such a reputation as "McAllister's All Healing or World's Salve."—Almost every person that has made trial of it, speaks warmly in its praise. One has been cured by it, of the most painful Rheumatism; another of the Piles, a third of a troublesome pain in the side, a fourth of a swelling in the limbs, &c. If it does not give immediate relief in every case, it can never do injury, being applied outwardly. As another evidence of the wonderful healing power possessed by this salve, we subjoin the following certificate, from a respectable citizen of Maidencreek township, in this county.

Maidencreek, Berks Co., March 30, '47.

Messrs. Ritter & Co.—I desire to inform you that I was entirely cured of a severe pain in the back, by the use of M'Allister's All-Healing Salve, which I purchased from you. I suffered with it about 20 years, and at night was unable to sleep. During that time I tried various remedies, which were prescribed for me by physicians and other persons, without receiving any relief, and at last made trial of this Salve with a result favorable beyond expectation. I am now entirely free from the pain, and enjoy at night a sweet and peaceful sleep. I have also used the salve since, for toothache and other complaints, with similar happy results. Your friend,

John Hollenbach."

I certify that I have used "M'Allister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, or the World's Salve," for a healing in my wife's breast, which has done her incalculable benefit. Also, on one of my children for Sore Eyes, which gave immediate relief. I therefore recommend it as a good medicine, to all desirous of trying it. Parker Reed.

Morris tp., Wash. Co., Aug. 21, 1847.

I certify that I have used McAllister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, for coldness of my feet—also for Rheumatism in my limbs, and Corns on my feet, and have been entirely relieved. Believing it to be a good medicine, I do not hesitate to recommend it in the above complaints. Leonard Vaile.

☞ Around the box are directions for using McAllister's Ointment for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Erysipelas, Tetter, Chilblain, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Nervous Affections, Pains, Disease of the Spine, Head Ache, Asthma, Deafness, Ear Ache, Burns, Corns, all Diseases of the Skin, Sore Lips, Pimples, &c., Swelling of the limbs, Sores, Rheumatism, Piles, Cold Feet, Croup, Swelled or Broken Breast, Tooth Ache, Ague in the Face, &c., &c.

☞ This Ointment is good for any part of the body or limbs when inflamed. In some cases it should be applied often.

CAUTION—No OINTMENT will be genuine unless the name of James M'Allister, is written with a pen on every label.

☞ PRICE, 25 CENTS PER BOX. ☜

JAMES M'ALLISTER,
Sole Proprietor of the above Medicine.
Principal Office No. 23 North THIRD street, Philadelphia.

Agents: Geo. H. Bell, Harrisburg; M. Lutz, do.; Jacob Bener, Middletown; George Ross, Elizabethtown; M. M'Barren, Portsmouth; J. & L. Reigel, Mechanicsburg; G. W. Singiser, Churchtown; Smith & Henry, Lebanon; C. Roth, Bloomfield; Jacob Keiser, Petersburg; J. M. Beatty, Pottsville; Samuel P. Sterrel, Mount Joy; Henry Thatcher, Newport; Wm. Jackson, New Buffalo; Brown & Ritter, Pittsburg; John Lloyd, Mount Pleasant; Jacob Welty, Greensburg; Edward Scull, Shippensburg; John Diller, Newville; and sold by our Agents in every town in the State.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;

ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and embossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, and DANIEL GETTY, No. 110 South Third street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

SARAH SADLER, Allegheny City, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., NOVEMBER 15, 1849. NUMBER 14.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

A Tribute Due.

THE extract from S. S. Snyder's letter, published in our last, was not intended for publication. We beg to be excused.

Journal of the Indiana Eldership.

THE Journal of this body has come to hand and will appear in our next. Also, the Journals of the West Pennsylvania and Ohio Eldership, should they be received in time.

Editorials and Communications.

THESE are displaced in this paper, and will be, perhaps, in our next, by the proceedings of the annual Elderships. But after that, we shall again give more space and room to these and other matters. We hope our readers, and especially our kind contributors, will exercise, in the meantime, a good degree of Christian forbearance, till we can give them again their accustomed variety.

Churchtown Bethel and Dedication.

THE Bethel at Churchtown, which was dedicated to the worship of God on Sabbath the 11th inst., is a large, commodious and well finished house. There are three new meeting-houses in course of erection in that place, but the one built by the Church of God has one decided advantage over the rest, viz: convenience of location.

The meetings on Sabbath were very large, and the people had a commendable mind both to receive and to give. They received the word with all readiness of mind, and they gave towards the payment of the house with liberal hearts and hands. The collection, in cash and in pledges, amounted to about $450. This may be considered on extraordinary good collection, when all things are taken into view. May the Lord bless them for their liberality, and cause the glory of this latter house to exceed that of the former, by granting double blessings to them!

The Eldership.

THIS body met at Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., on Wednesday, the last day of October, and concluded its labors on Wednesday, the 7th inst. The weather was remarkably pleasant, the church and people of Washington exceedingly kind and hospitable, and the brethren of the Eldership quite pacific and harmonious, so that, on the whole, it was emphatically a good meeting.

The usual routine of business was gone through with no uncommon order or despatch, yet with a commendable degree of harmony and good will.

Various new items of business were introduced, some of which are deemed of great and vital importance to the Eldership and the Church at large. We shall notice some of these more in detail hereafter.

Two members of the Eldership were expelled, and five new ones added.

The services with the church and people, in the evenings and on the Sabbath, were solemn and interesting, and some few souls were hopefully converted to God.

The stationing of the preachers for next year, as made out and reported by the Stationing Committee, was adopted with but one dissenting voice; and will, we hope, give general satisfaction. Although the whole of the Journal will be found full of interest to the churches, yet this part (the stationing of the preachers) will no doubt be read with deepest interest.

The meeting brought its business sessions to a close on Wednesday, the 7th inst., about 11 o'clock, and adjourned to meet, Deo Volente, at Churchtown, Cumberland county, Pa., on Wednesday, the 16th of October, 1850.

Alarming and Fatal Accident on the Columbia Railroad.

WE have received information from Parkesburg of a very serious accident which happened on the Columbia Railroad on Tuesday the 6th inst. The locomotive "Clarion," with a freight train, was approaching the station to take in water, when the coupling of a part of the train broke. Twenty cars, all heavily ladened, were thus liberated, and there being a heavy downward grade, they ran down by their own gravity with immense speed. They went on as far as Coatesville bridge, where they came in collision with another train which had left Parkesburg some 15 minutes previously. Such was the shock, that some twelve cars were demolished, and three others were driven completely over the bridge.

Two men, in the employ of the State, were at work repairing the road near the spot, and not seeing the cars coming on the north track, were struck by them. One of them, named Linn, was instantly killed, his head being severed from his body. The other man, named Patton, was seriously hurt and is not expected to survive. It appears that the conductors of the cars which broke loose, had left the train and gone into the hotel. They are employed by the transporters, and had even one of them been on the train, as they all should have been, he could have used the break, and prevented this destruction of life and property.

Advice to Writers.

1 BE very sure that you have something of importance to write about.

2. Let that subject be definite and clearly defined.

3. Be certain that you have something of importance and interest to say about it.

4. Begin your subject at once in a plain, common sense and straightforward manner, without preliminaries, apologies, or the relation of unimportant particulars: such as, that you were writing on business,—had a few minutes leisure,—that you have waited in vain for others to write,—that you are incapable of doing the subject justice,—and a hundred other eqally foolish and useless things. Nothing is more out of place and really ridiculous. Good writers never indulge in it.

5. State your views plainly and precisely. Come at once to the point, and avoid all circumlocution and pompous language or words. Write to enforce your ideas and not your rhetoric or talents.

6. Omit every sentence and every word not absolutely essential to the clear and forcible elucidation of the subject in hand.

7. Stop when you are done. Do not add a single word after you have clearly expressed your meaning. Repetitions and explanations are frequently admissable in speaking, but seldom in writing. If you do not make yourself understood in the first instance, you will be quite likely to make the matter worse in the second attempt.

8. After all this has been done, rigidly criticise and correct the whole, rejecting redundanies, correcting mistakes, &c.

9. Re-write the article, plainly and correctly, in every particular in relation to spelling, grammar, paragraphs, punctuation, title and every thing else, just precisely as you wish to see it in print.

10. Never complain of delay in the publishing of your articles, or of their being pruned; or even if they are entirely rejected. The editor is better capable from his position to judge of the matter than any correspondent posibly can be.

11. Observe these rules, and you will scarcely fail of writing something valuable and interesting. CRITICUS.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Notice.

TRENTON, Iowa, Oct. 12, 1849.

TO THE FRIENDS AND BRETHREN IN FAYETTEVILLE AND WASHINGTON COUNTY, MD.: I am in Iowa, and well, as are also mine. We are getting ready to return, and expect to see you in November. E. LOGUE.

Letter from Bro. A. Megrew, V. D. M.

WOOSTER, October 23, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

OUR Eldership has closed. We had an excellent time. There was good attendance upon the part of the ministers; however, not so good upon the part of the local Elders. All was peace and union. The ministers went away encouraged,—the brethren built up in faith, and the church with whom we held the meeting, and who bore the burden and accommodated the brethren, I believe cheered and much pleased. May the Lord abundantly reward them for their labor of love. The sun begins to shine again in Ohio. O! may the Lord revive his work powerfully, is the prayer of one that loves Zion.

Yours in love and with esteem,

A. MEGREW.

OBITUARY OF BARBARA ANN HUFF.

DIED, at her father's residence, in Wayne county, Ohio, on the 18th of October, 1849, BARBARA ANN HUFF, daughter of Charles and Mary Huff, aged 3 years, 9 months and 6 days.

Her disease was whooping-cough and lung-fever. Her illness lasted but a few days. She suffered much during her short illness, but has fallen asleep in the arms of the Saviour of all such, and is now exempt from sickness and sorrow, pain and death, and her little dust shall slumber on till the Saviour shall come and bid it rise; then little Barbara Ann shall appear amongst the redeemed and tune her little harp and sing the unending song of redeeming love. Little Barbara Ann was a remarkable child, and much noticed and beloved I presume, by all that knew her. Notwithstanding she was too young to have a knowledge of good and evil, yet it appeared to be her delight to go to meeting and sing hymns; and could sing a very great number of choruses. But we hear her lisp those tunes no more. The frost of death has nipped the tender bud; yet it shall bud and bloom again in fairer climes.

Little Barbara Ann has left a father and mother, six brothers and three sisters, to mourn over her early departure. Her little remains were interred in the Bethel grave-yard at Madisonville, 4 miles north of Wooster. Funeral discourse by the writer, from Phillippians 1st chapter and last clause of the 21st verse.

Gone—dust to dust forever fled,
A cold and voiceless form of clay:
Yes, Barbara Ann slumbers with the dead,
To hail the resurrection day!

Then slumber on, thou lovely one,
Where nought disturbs thy sweet repose;
Thy days were few, but smoothly run,
And now secure from worldly woes.

Seraphic themes employ thy tongue,
Where pain has changed to endless bliss:
Lisp on, lisp on—those strains prolong—
Thy joys shall never grow remiss.

A. MEGREW.

By request of Miss Caroline Reiter.

JOURNAL
OF THE Twentieth East Penn'a. Eldership.

Pursuant to adjournment, the East Pennsylvania Eldership of the Church of God, met in the Bethel at Washington, Lancaster county, on Wednesday, the 31st of October, 1849.

Brother D. Maxwell being absent, brother B. Howard was appointed in his place, and preached the opening discourse from 1 Tim. 4: 16.

At 2 o'clock, P. M., the Eldership met and was opened by brother J. Strawbridge.

On motion, brothers T. Strohm and W. H. Mullenix were appointed to constitute the body: whereupon the following brethren answered to their names and were recorded as present:

STATIONS.

Lancaster—J. H. Hurley, teaching elder.
Mount Joy———— ————.
Middletown—A. Swartz, teaching elder.
Harrisburg———— ————.
Shippensburg, &c.———— ————.
Newburg, &c.———— ————.
Baltimore—J. C. Owens, teaching elder.

CIRCUITS.

Lancaster County—J. Keller, teaching elder; and J. Schoch, J. Miller, and J. Maning, ruling elders.

Schuylkill County—J. Strawbridge, teaching elder.

Dauphin County—T. Strohm and A. Snyder, teaching elders.

York County East—Wm. McFadden, teaching elder; and P. Jones and D, Shelly, ruling elders.

York County West—Simon Fleagle, teaching elder; and S. Myers, ruling elder.

Cumberland County—W. H. Mullenix, teaching elder; and M. Dill and S. Stouffer, ruling elders.

Perry and Juniata———— ————.
Hagerstown and Fayetteville———— ————.
Uniontown—Calton Price, teaching elder.
Morrison's Cove and Broad Top—D. Kyle and J. Haifleigh, teaching elders.

MISSIONARIES PRESENT.

J. Winebrenner, Wm. Hinny, S. Crawford, and S. Bowser.

ABSENTEES.

J. Mackey, J. Warner, D. A. L. Laverty, Wm. McElroy, S. Bigham, J. Ross, Wm. McCormick, Thomas Bean, E. Logue, P. Hartman, A. Appler, J. Stomm, J. Kister, P. Shaw, A. Miller, J. J. Miller, J. Hinkle, Geo. McCartney, B. Mateer, D. Maxwell, H. Soule, P. Stanton, S. Conrod, I. Brady, S. H. Hoover, H. Wingert, J. S. Oliver, J. F. Weishampel, H. Goings.

On motion, the meeting was organized by electing brother WM. HINNY Speaker, and brothers S. Crawford and A. Swartz Clerks.

On motion, the Standing Rules of Order were read and adopted.

STANDING RULES OF ORDER.

1. The Eldership shall hold two sessions per diem—a fore and afternoon session: the forenoon session shall commence at 8 o'clock, and close at 12 o'clock; the afternoon session shall commence at half past 1 o'clock, and close at half past 4 o'clock.

2. Each session shall be opened and closed with religious worship.

3. The Speaker and Clerks shall preside and conduct the business, according to the usage of deliberative bodies.

4. Ministers belonging to the Eldership, and Elders sent as delegates by the churches alone, shall be entitled to a vote.

5. The order of business shall be transacted as follows, to wit:

1. Items of unfinished business.
2. New items of business of a general character.
3. Reports of the ministers and examination of their character.
4. Hearing and deciding on applications for license.
5. Miscellaneous business.
6. Stationing the preachers.

7. All persons speaking on any motion or question before the Eldership, shall rise and address the Speaker, confine themselves to the subject under consideration, never speak longer than half an hour at any one time, nor more than twice on the same question, except to explain, without permission.

8. All questions shall be decided by a plurality of votes, and all voting shall be done viva voce, except when otherwise called for. When the yeas and nays are taken, they shall be entered on the Journal; but they shall be taken on no question whatever, except when called for by one-fourth of the members.

9. When a motion is pending before the Eldership, no other shall be in order, unless it be to amend, strike out, postpone, or adjourn.

10. Any decision of the Speaker, other than when he gives the casting vote, shall be subject to an appeal to the Eldership.

On motion, by brother J. Winebrenner, the two brothers Howards' and brother A. D. Williams were invited to seats as advisory members.

The Eldership then proceeded to appoint the following committees, viz:

1. A committee of Arrangements—consisting of brothers J. Keller, J. Schoch and J. Manning.

2. A committee on Journals—consisting of brothers J. C. Owens, J. H. Hurley and Wm. McFadden.

3. A committee on Overtures—consisting of brothers D. Kyle, Wm. H. Mullenix and J. Keller.

The resolution, defining the ratio of Ruling Elders to the right of voting, was discussed; and, on motion, postponed.

Brother A. D. Williams having suggested the propriety of a correspondence between the General Conference of the Free-Will Baptists and this Eldership, it was, on motion,

Resolved, That brothers A. Swartz, J. H. Hurley and T. Strohm be a committee to draft and bring before this Eldership a resolution on the subject of his suggestion.

On motion, adjourned. Session closed by brother D. Kyle.

—

THURSDAY MORNING.

Session opened by brother S. Bowser.
The Journal was read and corrected.
The committees were called for.

Report of the Committee on Correspondence.

The committee on Correspondence made the following report:

Whereas, There appears to be a similarity between our sentiments and those of the Free-Will Baptist Denomination, and inasmuch as Christian aequaintance and intercourse tend to strengthen the bonds of Christian fellowship—an object in the highest degree desirable by all the followers of Christ—therefore,

Resolved, That we send two corresponding messengers to the next General Conference of that denomination, to promote the above named objects, by an interchange of Christian views, and the offices of Christian fraternity: and that brothers John Winebrenner and G. U. Harn be those messengers.

Resolved, That we gladly recognize the presenee of brothers A. D. Williams and S. B. Howard of the Free-Will Baptist denomination, and cheerfully extend to them and their denomination our sympathies and best wishes.

Report of the Committee on Overtures.

The committee on Overtures reported as follows:

1. A letter from W. G. Coulter. Referred to the Eldership, when his report is called for.

2. A letter from the Frizzlesburg church, requesting brother Price to be continued another year. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

3. A letter from brother T. Bean, requesting a renewal of his lincense: likewise a request to renew brothers W. McCormick and P. Stanton's licenses. Referred to the Eldership.

4. A letter from the Woodberry church, giving an account of the state of the church in that place, and requesting brothers Kyle and Haifleigh to be continued another year. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

5. A letter from A. Miller. Referred to the Eldership, when his report is called for.

6. A letter from the church at Moore's School-house, requesting brother S. Fleagle to be continued another year. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

7. A letter from the church at Martinsburg, requesting brothers Kyle and Haifleigh to be continued another year. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

8. A letter from the church at Stonerstown, requesting brothers Kyle and Haifleigh to be continued another year. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

9. A letter from brother J. Hinkle, giving an account of his labors. Referred to the Eldership.

10. A letter from brother J. Kister, giving an account of his labors. Referred to the Eldership.

11. A letter from brother Barlow. Referred to the Eldership.

12. A letter from brother Lininger, giving an account of his labors. Referred to the Eldership.

13. A letter from sundry brethren from Broad Top, requesting a division of the Martinsburg circuit. Referred to the Eldership.

14. A letter from the Rev. Geo. McCartney. Referred to the Eldership.

Report of the Committee on Journals.

The committee on Journals reported:

Your committee report that they find the following items of unfinished business on the last Journal, viz:

1. That a committee was appointed to examine a pamphlet published by E. West, entitled "Reasons for withdrawing from the Church of God." The pamphlet remains unnoticed.

2. The appointment of a committee on Education. Laid over for further action.

3. A resolution respecting the condition of the meeting-house in Baltimore.

On motion of brother J. C. Owens, it was

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to devise ways and means to relieve the church in Baltimore.

The committee consists of brothers E. H. Thomas, C. Price and J. Winebrenner.

4. A resolution respecting brother John Strayer, deceased. Referred back to the committee.

5. A resolution referring to the case of Geo. McCartney. Laid over for the present.

6. A resolution respecting the Biographical Sketches of the first one hundred ministers. Left for further action.

7. A committee to ascertain the amount due to brother Winebrenner, consisting of brothers Thomas, Strohm and Hurley.

8. A committee on the case of brother A. Miller. The committee was discharged and his case left to be disposed of in connection with his report.

9. The question postponed last evening was resumed, on the subject of the ratio of lay representation.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Ruling Elders of the churches have an equal representation with the Teaching Elders of this body.

On motion, adjourned. Closed by brother C. Price.

—

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Opened by brother J. H. Hurley.

On motion, a committee on Licensing was appointed, consisting of brothers Winebrenner, Owens and Thomas.

A committed on Education was appointed, consisting of brothers G. U. Harn, J. H. Hurley and J. Haifleigh.

3. A committee on Finance, consisting of brothers J. Keller, J. Schoch and J. Manning.

A committee on Resolutions, consisting of brothers T. Strohm, C. Price and J. C. Seabrooks.

A Standing Committee was elected, consisting of brothers Winbrenner, Thomas and Swartz.

A Stationing Committee was also elected, consisting of brothers J. Winebrenner, E. H. Thomas, A. Swartz, W. Hinny and J. Keller.

The committee on Journals further reported:

1. The Preachers' Fund. It was resolved that it be postponed until to-morrow morning.

2. George McCartney's case was resumed, and his letter was read.

On motion,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to audit his account and examine his case, and report to this Eldership.

The committee appointed are brothers J. Winebrenner, J. Keller and E. H. Thomas.

The committee on brother S. Conrod's case was called to report. No report prepared.

On motion,

Resolved, That another committee be appointed on his case.

The committee consists of brothers E. Logue, S. Fleagle and Samuel Fleagle.

Business of a general character was called for.

On motion,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to draft a Constitution for the government of this body, and that the committee consist of brothers J. Winebrenner, W. Hinny and A. Swartz.

On motion,

Resolved, That this Eldership disapprove of the conduct of those brethren who have refused to go to the places assigned them by the committee of arrangements.

On motion, adjourned. Session closed by brother A. Snyder.

—

FRIDAY MORNING.

Session opened by brother Thomas.

Brothers Stomm and Brady appeared and took their seats.

The Journal was read and corrected.

Business of a general character resumed.

Resolved, That a committee be appointed on boundaries.

The committee appointed are brothers E. H. Thomas, W. McFadden, J. Keller, D. Kyle, W. H. Mullenix, C. Price and T. Strohm.

On motion,

Resolved, That we appoint a model Camp-meeting for next year, and a committee to conduct the same.

The committee are brothers J. Winebrenner, J. C. Owens, W. McFadden, W. H. Mullenix, S. Crawford, W. Mooney and E. H. Thomas.

On motion,

Resolved, That we authorize all the preachers belonging to this Eldership to solicit semi-centenary donations to increase the Eldership fund, and that they report the list of donations, with the names of the donors, to the next Eldership.

The committee on Overtures further reported as follows, viz:

15. A letter from brother Benjamin Fleagle, asking for a license, accompanied with a recommendation. Referred to the Licensing Committee.

16. A letter from brother Buch, asking for a license. Referred to the Licensing Committee.

17. A letter from brother J. F. Weishampel. Referred to the Eldership.

18. A letter from brother G. Kimmel, of Schuylkill, giving a favorable account of brother Strawbridge, and requesting the appointment of brother J. Keller. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

19. A letter from brother J. J. Miller, giving an account of his labors and asking an appointment. Referred to the Eldership.

20. A letter from brother Coup, requesting a license from this body. Referred to the Licensing Committee.

21. A letter from the church at Newburg, requesting the re-appointment of brother Thomas. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

22. A letter from brother Picket, giving a favorable account of brother Price and asking his re-appointment. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

23. A letter from sundry Elders from Cumberland circuit, giving an account of their preachers, and requesting the Eldership to send them brother J. Keller next year.

Resolved, That the first item be referred to a special committee.

On motion,

Resolved, That brothers Winebrenner, Keller and Owens constitute said committee.

24. A letter from the church at Mount Joy, giving a favorable account of brother Mooney. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

25. A letter from Baltimore, giving a favorable account of brother Owens. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

26. A letter from the church at Oregon, giving a favorable account of brother Price, and requesting his re-appointment. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

27. A letter from Uniontown, giving an account of brother Price's labors, and asking his re-appointment; if not him, brother Owens. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

28. A letter from Perry county, asking the re-appointment of brother Coulter. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

29. A letter from Washington county, Md., preferring charges against brother E. Logue. Referred to the Eldership.

On motion,

Resolved, That brothers Shell and Gross, of the Evangelical Association, be admitted as advisory members.

The Eldership next proceeded to call upon the brethren to pay the amounts due to the Eldership fund.

Names.	Am't. paid.	Names.	Am't paid.
J Lininger	$1 00	J Brenneman	$2 00
J H Hurley	1 00	W Hinny	1 75
A Swartz	1 50	S Crawford	50
J S Gable		S Bowser	2 00
G U Harn	1 00	S Bigham	1 00
J Flake	1 00	J Mackey
J C Owens	1 25	J Warner	2 00
E H Thomas	1 00	D A L Laverty	1 00
—— Wagoner	50	W McCormick
W Mooney	1 50	F Hartman	1 00
J Keller	1 15	G Sandoe	50
J Schoch	3 00	D Boice	50
A J Kauffman	2 00	G Petre	50
J Strawbridge	2 00	A Hicks	50
J Gingerich	5 00	W Johnston	50
T Strohm	1 00	D Price	50
A Snyder	1 00	J V Heistand	1 00
J Forney	1 50	R B McAllister	1 00
W McFadden	1 00	J Sugars	1 00
P Jones	1 25	J Stomm	1 50
M Shelly	5 00	I Brady	1 50
S Fleagle	59	A Fenton	50
S Myers	1 00	D Maxwell
W H Mullenix	1 00	A Appler
J C Seabrooks	50	J J Miller
M Dill	1 00	P Mason	1 00
S Stouffer	50	Jeremiah Schoch	94
J Ross	5 00	A Miller
W G Coulter		J Keister
E Logue		P Shaw
C Price	1 00	T Bean
D Kyle	1 00	J Hinkle
J Haifleigh	50	J F Weishampel
J Winebrenner	5 00	B Howard	1 50

Resolved, That the preachers in charge of circuits and stations are hereby directed to call on the absent members and procure their dues to the Eldership fund, and pay it over to the Treasurer immediately.

On motion, by brother Thomas, it was

Resolved, That brother Joseph Brenneman be empowered to make arrangements to secure the deed for the property of sister Booth, by drawing on the Eldership fund to pay the amount of the claim against it, and to take a mortgage on the property in favor of the Eldership.

The committee on the death of brother Strayer reported:

Your committee in the case of brother John Strayer, deceased, beg leave to report: That whereas, in the inscrutable Providence of an all-wise God, there has been removed from our midst, one of much promise in point of talent and usefulness—who was called in the prime of youth to repose with the silent dead; therefore,

Resolved, That in the early death of our beloved brother, the ministry of the Church of God has lost a willing and warm-hearted fellow-laborer—one who manifested a due concern for the salvation of a perishing world—willing to make the sacrifices that the toils and interest of the cause of Christ demanded at his hand—one whose humble walk and unobtrusive Christian deportment in life, recommended him to the esteem and confidence of all who knew him, as well as secured to himself that hope in life and consolation in death which accrue to those only who endure "as seeing Him who is invisible."

Resolved further, That in the death of our brother, the church has been called to part with one who loved her praise and sought her interest;—of him it may be emphatically said, it was his delight to serve the Lord, as well as his untiring effort to save his fellow-men in obedience to him.

In conclusion, your committee would say, that this Providence seems to address us all in the language of holy writ, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; and that thou doest do quickly, for we know not the hour in which the Son of man cometh." Therefore may we all be faithfully employed in the work assigned us, so that we share with our brother who has gone before, the blessedness of "that servant who, when his Lord cometh, shall find so doing."

W. Mooney,
J. C. Owens.

The order of the day was called for.

Reports of the Ministers.

On motion of brother Owens, it was

Resolved, That the report of brother Strawbridge be now given in, to afford him an opportunity of returning home.

Brother STRAWBRIDGE reported: That having received license at the last Eldership, and appointed to Schuylkill circuit, accordingly he commenced his labors about the first of April last, since which time he has labored with great satisfaction to himself, and he trusts to others also. He likewise states that about 12 have been converted and 18 baptized, and that things appear encouraging; therefore he hopes to see greater things done on the circuit. As regards himself, he is happy to be engaged in the good work of winning souls to Christ. Number of appointments thirteen.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

STATIONS.

Brother J. H. HURLEY reported as follows:

Fellow-laborers in the kingdom and patience of the saints: He feels grateful to God for the privilege of meeting with you. Since the last Eldership, he labored on the Cumberland circuit, to the best of his abilities, until the first of April; when he entered upon the charge assigned him in the city of Lancaster. Saw but little good done. Baptized three, and four were added to the church. But he still feels willing to labor and die with his brethren, and with them participate in that rest which God has in reversion for his people.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Session closed by brother Howard.

—

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Opened by brother J. Brenneman.

Brother MOONEY reported: That he labored the past year with the church at Mount Joy, to the best of his abilities; yet without that success he desired, as no visible good has as yet been accomplished through his instrumentality. He begs an interest in the prayers of his brethren for his future life and prosperity.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother G. U. HARN reported: At the close of the last session of this body, I returned to Philadelphia, and receiving an invitation from the Mount Zion Christian congregation to hold a protracted meeting in their house on Christian street, I did so, and preached 14 sermons in succession, which, with other means used, resulted in the conversion of four females, and the conviction of several others, whom I have since learned, embraced religion and joined the Protestant Methodists.

Being appointed to fill the vacancy (occasioned by the lamentable and fatal downfall of Elder Josiah Quigley) at Fayetteville, Orrstown and Newburg, I attempted a discharge of this duty to the best of my ability, in a very agreeable manner, with Elder Snavely. I found these churches bleeding at every pore, under the affliction of their minister's ruin. It is probable the Fayetteville church will not recover for years to come. What a fearful warning to all ministers! At Newbnrg two or three were converted and three baptized.

Early in February I held a meeting at Broad Fording, Md. Found things getting along, but still not very efficiently. Preached ten sermons, and saw two familied females reclaimed who had professed religion in girlhood days.

The first of April entered on my regular charge at Harrisburg. Found the church in a pretty peaceable condition. My congregations rather large for the summer. Made it my business to preach in the afternoon, generally at the Capitol Hill in the open air. Had many to hear there. We have had some trouble, along with our neighbors, in cases of discipline, with persons whom we should have least looked for.

Of late we have had a small revival. Seventeen professed religion; some of them reclaimed. Nine were baptized and added to the church, and one baptized on a former occasion, and one added from the Cross Roads church.

At a meeting I assisted in holding in Maryland, near my native home, in the early part of August, one was converted. I also attended five Camp-meetings, where I was led to trust my preaching had some effect to the conversion of some sinners, with that of other brethren. Thus I have witnessed at least 26 conversions, administered 13 baptisms—one an own sister—and about 13 additions to the church. For the encouragement of the brethren, I believe we are in the days of Zion's increase.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. C. OWENS reported: That since the last Eldership, he has been laboring as usual in Baltimore, and regrets that he has seen but little good done, comparatively speaking. However, his own enjoyments and prospects are by no means of a discouraging character. He still feels to live, labor and die in the work of the ministry.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother E. H. THOMAS reported: That after the last Eldership, he continued his labors in Morrison's Cove until spring; when, according to appointment, he moved to Newburg, where, in connection with his other appointments, he has labored to the present time. He trusts that he has preached with some spiritual advantage to himself and others. He asks an interest in the prayers and good wishes of his brethren.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother A. SWARTZ reported: That he returned to his appointment after the last Eldership, and continued his labors as formerly.—Sometime last winter we had some appearance of good being done. The result of that effort was, a small number professed religion; but not what we then expected from the appearance. He still feels like spending his time in the ministry.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

CIRCUITS.

Brother T. STROHM reported: That he was thankful that through the Providence of God, he was permitted to meet with his brethren once more in an Eldership capacity, and is happy to state that during the last Eldership year, the Lord has favored us in the conversion of above one hundred persons; and a goodly number were baptized. As it regards his future prospects, he knows not; but is still determined to live in fellowship and peace with his dear brethren. With them he is willing to suffer, live and die. Number of appointments 19, viz: Paul's Valley, Clark's Valley, Dauphintown, Rockeyville, Whitley's, Linglestown, Hanover, Raysor's, Bamberger's, Miller's, Snodgrass', Highspire, Hummelstown, Millerstown, Stumpstown, Kreiser's, Big-dam, Kreiser's Valley, Manada Furnace.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Session closed by brother J. Ross.

—

SATURDAY MORNING.

Session opened by brother Mullenix.

The committee on Education reported:

Your committee beg leave to report: That they recommend to the ministers of the Church of God renewed zeal and interest in the establishment of Sabbath-schools. We look upon this institution as being peculiarly blessed of God, and destined ultimately to become the chief nursery of youthful mind in religion and morality.

2. We advise that the subject of an Educational Institution, for the instruction of the youth of the church, be agitated by all the ministry, and kept before the mind of the public.

3. That all parents make their families schools of religion, by endeavoring to inculcate the principles of the gospel, and rear their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

GEORGE U. HARN,
JOSIAH H. HURLEY,
JESSE HAIFLEIGH.

The special committee, to whom was referred the letter from the Elders of the churches on the Cumberland circuit, report:

That they have examined into the ground of the complaints against their senior preacher of the circuit, and that they are happy to say, the whole matter is satisfactorily arranged and settled.

JOHN WINEBRENNER,
JOHN C. OWENS,
JACOB KELLER.

The committee on Boundaries beg leave to make the following report, viz:

The following stations to remain as formerly: Lancaster city, Middletown, Harrisburg, Baltimore, Shippensburg and Orrstown.

The circuits to be bounded as follows, viz:

Lancaster—Bounded north and west by Conewago and Susquehanna; east by Hinkletown.

Lehigh and Berks—Bonnded west by including Hinkletown; east by Lehigh river.

York East—Bounded east and north by Susquehanna river; west by a direct line running from the river east of Cross Roads Schoolhouse; south by the Maryland line.

York West—East line, including Cross Roads School-house; west by Cumberland county, including Lisburn; south Maryland line.

West Cumberland—Bounded east including Churchtown; west by Franklin line and the North and South mountains.

Landisburg—All west and south of Juniatta river; south Blue mountains.

Matamoras and Juniatta—Bounded by Juniatta river; south by Peter's mountain.

Dauphin—Bounded west by Susquehanna river; east Stumpstown included.

Washington and Fayetteville—To remain as at present.

Uniontown—To remain as at present.

Broad Top and Ockwiek—Bounded west by Raeystown branch Juniatta.

Morrison's Cove—Bounded west and north by Allegheny mountains; south by Raeystown branch Juniatta.

Brother ROSS reported: That he has, by the blessing of God, been spared to meet with his brethren again, which affords him much pleasure. He has not labored as much since he last met with them as he ought to have done. If any good has been done, he deserves not the praise: the glory belongs to God.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

HIS ACCOUNT WITH THE ELDERSHIP.

November 10, 1848. Cash received at Orrstown for Eldership's fund,	$43 00
October 20, 1849. Cash from J. Rife,	2 00
Nov. 2, 1849. Cash at Washington,	66 84
Whole amount received, - - -	$111 84
Nov. 21, 1848. Cash paid Joseph Brenneman of the above named fund, for the use of sister Booth,	$15 00
April 24, 1849. Cash paid J. Brenneman, &c., - - - - - - - -	15 00
Nov. 3, 1849. Cash paid J. Brenneman, &c., - - - - - - - - -	25 00
For the use of sister Booth, - -	$55 00
Amount still remaining, - - -	$56 00

MISSIONARY FUND.

April 4, 1849. By interest on note of missionary fund, - - - - - - -	$21 54
By do. do. do. do.- -	3 00
	$24 54
April 14, 1849. To cash paid Ab'm. Swartz, - - - - - - - - -	$21 54
Nov. 3, 1849. To cash paid W. Hinny,	3 00
For the use of the missionaries,	$24 54

Brother A. SNYDER reported: That he is thankful to God that through His Providence, he is permitted to meet with his brethren once more in an Eldership capacity. Since the last yearly meeting, he had labored on the Dauphin and Lebanon circuit, in connection with brother Strohm. He is sorry that his labors have not been crowned with as much success as desired: nevertheless, he has great reason to be thankful to the good Lord for what has been done. In the last Eldership year, he has seen many precious souls hopefully converted, in different parts of the circuit. Moreover, he states that he has preached about two hundred times, and baptized nineteen. With regard to his future determinations, he still wishes to preach the doctrine of the Bible, and among his dear brethren of the Church of God, to live, labor and die.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother W. McFADDEN reported: That he was grateful to God that he was once more permitted to meet with his brethren. That since last April, he has labored in York county, and has seen some good effected. Has established three Sabbath-schools. His appointments are five in number, viz: Smoketown, River School-house, Yocumtown, York Haven and Newberry. He asks an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother S. FLEAGLE reported: That sometime last April he moved to the appointment assigned him by the Eldership, and endeavored to labor as much as he could to promote the good cause on the circuit; and that previous to the Camp-meeting, there were a few reclaimed and baptized, and at the Camp-meeting, there was a gracious season, and 11 or 12 professed to find peace: seven were baptized. When the Camp-meeting closed, a meeting was commenced at Siddonsburg, which continued about three weeks, and the happy result was, that about 40 professed to find the pearl of great prize, and 25 baptized. This meeting was closed and one commenced at Andersonstown, which lasted two weeks, and resulted in the conversion of about 12, and 13 were baptized. So that since he came to the circuit, he has witnessed in all about 70 conversions, and baptized upwards of 50, and received into church-fellowship 43, in addition to 26 received at the Camp-meeting—in all 96. The appointments are as follows, viz: Siddonsburg, Andersonstown, Moore's School-house, Brick School-house, Cross Roads School-house, Griffith's School-house.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother W. H. MULLENIX reported: That he returned from the last Eldership meeting to the Cumberland circuit, where he has, in his weakness, been, in connection with brother Seabrooks, trying to preach that same word which he found to be salvation to his own soul; and that there have been about 15 or 16 conversions, and about the same number baptized. Furthermore, he states that at this time he serves with the word of life the following places, viz: Mechanicsburg, Churchtown, Shepherdstown, Lisburn, Shiremanstown, Milltown, Bowman's, New Cumberland, New Market, Myers' Mill, Cowen's School-house, Basehore's, Keller's, Slabtown, Spring Mill, Plainfield, Lindsey's, Possom-hill, Dawalt's, and other places occasionally. As it regards himself, he is still with his dear brethren in heart, and loves dearly the doctrines of the Church of God. He asks a special interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. C. SEABROOKS reported: That through the blessing of God, he stands before his brethren again, as an ambassador of Jesus Christ; and that he is engaged in a glorious cause: through afflictions and sorrows, trials and difficulties, he has been trying to preach the gospel of salvation: and that after the Eldership at Orrstown, he returned to Washington county, Md., where he tried to labor so far as circumstances would allow: and in the spring of 1849, came to Cumberland circuit, where he has been laboring with an eye single to the glory of God. During his labors, he has baptized seven converts. He furthermore says, that when he looks around and beholds old fathers, who have stood the storms of many winters, he can say, his heart is still with his brethren, and that he has enlisted to live and die with them: therefore he solicits an interest in their prayers, that God may make him useful.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

On motion,

Resolved, That brother W. G. Coulter confine his labors to the Perry circuit, and a committee be appointed to confer with him, with discretionary power.

The committee consists of brothers J. Winebrenner, A. Snyder and I. S. Bigham.

On motion of brother Winebrenner,

Resolved, That when we adjourn, we will adjourn to meet again at 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

On motion, adjourned. Session closed by brother J. C. Owens.

—

MONDAY MORNING.

Session opened by brother Mooney.

The Journal was read and corrected.

The committee on Overtures further reported:

30. A letter from brother S. Conrod. Referred to the Eldership.

31. A letter from the Harrisburg church, requesting the re-appointment of brother Harn. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

32. A letter from the Fayetteville church, desiring to be united with Newburg, and brother Thomas to be appointed their preacher. Referred to the Stationing Committee.

Brother E. Logue's case was considered.

On motion of brother Ross,

Resolved, That a special committee be appointed to examine his case, with discretionary powers.

The committee appointed are brothers E. H. Thomas, C. Price and A. Appler.

Brother J. FLAKE reported: That he was laboring in Shippensburg and Orrstown until the beginning of August. He preached there with satisfaction to himself, and has reason to believe that his labors were for good to the souls of the people. He resigned his charge on account of the sickness and death of an only and beloved sister. When he left Shippensburg, unity and peace prevailed; and he learns that after his departure, a revival has been going on, and a number converted and added to the church.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

On motion, adjourned. Session closed by brother B. Howard.

—

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Opened by brother W. McFadden.

Brother D. KYLE reported: That by the blessing of the Lord, he is once more permitted to meet his brethren in a yearly meeting, for which he feels thankful to God. That since the last Eldership meeting, there has been considerable good done in the hill and mountain country where he has labored. To God be all the glory! At Stonerstown 10 or 12 were happily converted; and in other places, during last fall and winter, perhaps the same number, if not more, found peace with God. Moreover, he states that since last April, he has been laboring with brother Haifleigh on the Cove circuit: that they have seen 15 or 20 converted, and baptized 15 believers in the Lord.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. HAIFLEIGH reported: That after the last Eldership year, he continued his labors on the Lancaster circuit, in conection with brother Keller, until spring, and saw a few souls converted and baptized. He likewise adds, that since spring he has been laboring on the Cove and Broad Top circuit, in connection with brother Kyle, and that there were about 20 converted, 13 baptized, and a number added to the church. There are 15 appointments on the circuit, viz: Sarah Furnace, Bloomfield, Martinsburg, Stoneruch's, Woodherry, Murray's, Stonerstown, Roundnob, Broad Top, Newburg, Gap, McNeal's and Awkwick.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. KELLER reported: That he was very happy to enjoy the privilege of meeting with his brethren once more. That he has tried, in the past year, to labor on the circuit assigned him, to the best of his ability, and has had some success: that he opened up some new appointments--one in Berks county, and three in Lehigh county—and that he had invitations from four or five different places. The prospects on the circuit are good at present. In Bainbridge nine have been converted and baptized, and in the neighborhood of brother Albright's, a goodly number have been converted, 12 baptized, and 14 added to the church. In Lehigh county, there is a good state of things: he baptized some there; and in general, the state of things is good. The appointments are as follows, viz: Bainbridge, Elizabethtown, Maytown, Washington, Mount Pleasant, Albright's, J. Long's, Hinkletown, Adamstown, Freedensburg, Benjamin Moore's, Millerstown, and Henry Moore's in Upper Milford; and 3 or 4 other places occasionally.

He also states, that he feels willing to labor for God as much as ever, and solicits an interest in the prayers of his brethren, because his trials are greater than heretofore, and without help from God must sink under them.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother C. PRICE reported: That at the close of the last Eldership, he returned to Uniontown, where he has been engaged for the prosperity of the different churches under his care, and that peace, unity and prosperity seems to prevail. A goodly number have been converted, baptized and added to the church; and everything looks as though much good would be effected. He furthemore adds, that from the members of the church he has received the best of treatment, and realizes an increasing attachment towards them. The appointments on the circuit are as follows, viz: Uniontown, Oregon, Frizzlesburg, Pine Orchard and Sandy Mount.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

On motion,

Resolved, That brother S. Conrod's case be re-considered.

On motion,

Resolved, That the committee appointed by the Eldership be discharged, and his license renewed.

MISSIONARIES.

Brother J. WINEBRENNER reported: That since the last year he has acted, as heretofore, in the two-fold capacity of editor and preacher at large.

As editor of the Church Advocate, he has done the best he could, in conducting that paper to the general satisfaction of its patrons. The subscribers for the paper now amount to a little over one thousand. All additional subscribers obtained hereafter, will yield a nett income of one dollar, per subscriber, for the use of the General Eldership.

As preacher at large, he has gone about preaching, as he was wont to do, according to his humble abilities, the whole counsel of God, as held and taught by the Church of God. He intends, God being his helper, to spend his time, talents, and the tithes of his income, annually, in the service of the Lord. He continues meekly to crave an interest in the prayers of the saints.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother W. HINNY reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother S. CRAWFORD reported: That since the last Eldership, to the first of April, he has been engaged, in connection with brother Maxwell, endeavoring to promote the good cause, and he has had the pleasure of witnessing the conversion of a few persons, at the different appointments on the circuit; and that the state of things, when he closed his labors on the circuit, was apparently favorable. That since the above named time, he has undergone severe affliction, but not without special benefit: therefore is thankful to the good Lord, who does not afflict without a cause. He is happy to add, that he is still attached to the good principles of the Church of God, and also to his brethren, and with them he wished to labor, suffer and die. He solicits an interest in their prayers, that he may be kept faithful until death.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother I. BRADY reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother S. BOWSER reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother A. J. FENTON reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. STOMM reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother FELIX HARTMAN reported: That he was thankful to God for the privilege to meet with his brethren once more in an Eldership. His labors in the ministry in the past year, have been but little; yet somewhat more extensive than for several years past. He has been at several protracted meetings, Camp-meetings, and other meetings appointed by himself; and has preached about 47 times.

It is his earnest desire to be useful among his fellow-men: for this purpose he went last spring to the western part of this State to labor among the German people; but not being able to settle his affairs to his satisfaction, he suspended moving out for the present, hoping that the good Lord may direct his way so that it may terminate to his glory. He asks an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother BENJAMIN HOWARD from Rochester, New York, gave an account of his ministerial labors, sufferings, &c.

The committee on Overtures further reported. [The report has been mislaid.]

On motion, adjourned. Session closed by brother J. Stomm.

—

TUESDAY MORNING.

Session opened by brother S. Crawford.

The Journal was read and corrected.

Reports of preachers were resumed.

Brother S. BIGHAM reported: That during the last Eldership year he has preached more than for three years past, and is happy to have it to say, that during the last year he has seen much good effected, and hopes for the future, if spared, to be instrumental in doing much good in the cause of God. He desires the brethren to pray for him, and wishes his license renewed.

His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. MACKEY reported by letter. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. WERNER reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother D. A. L. LAVERTY reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother W. McELROY reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother W. McCORMICK reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother T. BEAN reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother P. STANTON reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother H. GOINGS reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother A. APPLER reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. KISTER reported by letter. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother P. SHAW reported by brother S. Fleagle. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother A. MILLER reported by letter.

On motion,

Resolved, That a special committee be appointed, to settle the difficulties between brothers J. Winebrenner and A. Miller.

The committee appointed are brothers W. Hinny, G. U. Harn and A. Swartz.

Brother J. J. MILLER reported by letter. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. HINKLE reported by letter. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. F. WEISHAMPEL reported by letter. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. S. Oliver's case was considered.

On motion,

Resolved, That he be dismissed from this body, for going out in an irregular way, and embracing erroneous views.

Brother F. N. BARLOW reported by letter.

On motion,

Resolved, That he be referred to the Standing Committee.

Brother H. WINGART reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother B. MATEER reported by brother Mullenix. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother S. M. HOOVER reported by letter. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother H. L. SOULE reported by certificate from brethren in Ohio, where he now labors. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother T. H. DESHIRI reported by letter.

On motion,

Resolved, That he be transferred to the Ohio Eldership.

Brother M. Bolich's case was considered.

On motion,

Resolved, That his case be refeered to the Standing Committee.

Brother D. MAXWELL reported. His report was accepted and license renewed.

Brother J. LININGER reported by letter.

On motion,

Resolved, That he be referred to the Board of Missions, to be employed as a general missionary in Iowa, if it be practicable.

Brother M. F. SNAVELY reported through brother G. U. Harn.

On motion,

Resolved, That we approve of his transfer to the Iowa Eldership.

Brother J. Lenkert's case was considered.

On motion,

Resolved, That he be expelled, for refusing to submit to the report of the committee which was appointed on his case.

Brother J. Coup's application for license was considered.

On motion,

Resolved, That it be deferred, on account of his absence from this body.

The Licensing Committee reported:

1. John A. Plowman's application is recommended to the consideration of the Eldership.

On motion, adjourned. Session closed by brother Flake.

—

AETERNOON SESSION.

Opened by brother E. Schaeffer.

The case of brother J. A. Plowman was resumed.

On motion,

Resolved, That brother J. A. Plowman be requested to withdraw his application, and wait one year; or, if all differences can be adjusted before, he can then apply to the Standing Committee.

2. Brother William Johnston was recommended for license.

On motion,

Resolved, That a license be granted him.

3. Brother Moses M. Utley was recommended for license.

On motion,

Resolved, That a license be granted him.

4. Brother William Clay was recommended for license.

On motion,

Resolved, That a license be granted him.

5. Brother Benjamin Fleagle was recommended for license.

On motion,

Resolved, That a license be granted him.

6. Brother George Petre was recommended for license.

On motion,

Resolved, That a license be granted him.

The committee on Overtures further reported a letter from Lancaster church, giving a favorable report of brother Hurley, and requesting him for another year; and if not him, brother Owens; and if not, the Eldership may appoint who in their wisdom they may think best.

On motion,

Resolved, That we determine the time and place of holding our next Eldership.

Whereupon it was determined to hold our next meeting at Churchtown, Cumberland county, on Wednesday, the 16th of October, 1850, if the Lord will.

On motion,

Resolved, That brother James Mackey be appointed to preach the opening discourse at the next Eldership, and that brother Jacob Keller be his secundus.

The committee on Resolutions made the following report, viz:

Resolved, That as there seemingly is a low, declining state of religion, therefore we recommend to the Church of God to observe Friday, the 21st day of December next, as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, and that each preacher, at his different appointments, insist on the members to observe said day, on behalf of the prosperity of Zion, and implore Divine aid for a universal revival of religion.

Resolved, That we recommend that each minister pay strict attention to the duty of visiting, and let his visits be accompanied with religious instructions and prayer, as we regard pastoral visits highly beneficial to the labors of the ministry.

Resolved, That the East Pennsylvania Eldership of the Church of God, make a renewed effort to send missionaries to Illinois and Iowa, and that each minister impress and keep before the people, the solemn importance of sending the gospel to our fellow-men, as we regard it to be of vast importance to have missionaries travelling for the extension of the borders of the Church of God.

Resolved, That this Eldership appoint a committee of three, to devise ways and measures to pay the debt, and secure to this Eldership the Bethel at Millerstown, Lebanon county, and that it be referred to the committee on the Baltimore house, viz: brothers Winebrenner, Thomas and Price.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Eldership, the ruling power of the Church is vested in the Teaching and Ruling Elders thereof.

Inasmuch as it is Scriptural and right for ministers, as well as people, to observe all the ordinances of the gospel kingdom, therefore,

Resolved, That the members of this Eldership, assembled at each yearly meeting, shall, at such time as they may fix on during the sitting thereof, unite together in the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper.

Resolved, That we regard the want of a specific application of the precepts and principles of Christianity to the various sins and evils of the day, as one of the most serious obstacles to the advancement of true religion, and that therefore the preachers especially, and the brethren of this Eldership, be requested to bear testimony against the evil and danger of the followers of Christ mingling in the vain amusements of the world; such as the theatre—the circus—dancing, trifling parties and games; and also against Sabbath-breaking, light reading, extravagance and gaiety in dress and furniture, &c.: and furthermore, that the things which true Christians should not participate in themselves, they ought not to permit to their children and those under their charge.

Resolved, That it be recommended to preachers and others, to aid in the circulation of J. H. Bamberger's Journal, &c., among the members of the churches, as it is believed that the book is calculated to disseminate the principles of the Church of God, and the right ways of the Lord.

Resolved, That the brethren generally be advised to comply with the request of the editor of the Advocate in the last paper, in relation to the increase of the subscription list of the Church Advocate; and especially as it is now likely to be a source of revenue to the church.

Resolved, That brother Squire B. Howard, a Free-will Baptist preacher from the city of Rochester, N. York, who has come to sojourn among us for a season, as a minister and teacher of penmanship, be recommended to the churches where he may visit, as a man worthy of their Christian confidence and esteem.

On motion, adjourned. Session closed by the Speaker.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Session opened by brother David Kyle.

The Journal was read and corrected.

The committee appointed to devise ways and measures to pay the debt on the meeting-house in Baltimore, report: That they know of no better way to accomplish this end, than to increase the subscription list for the Church Advocate, as recommended in the last paper, and that the proceeds accruing therefrom, be applied to the payment of said debt, and to the interest and debt of the Bethel in Millerstown, Lebanon county.

On motion,

Resolved, That the members of this Eldership pledge themselves to raise one or more dollars for this purpose, and report the amount to this Eldership in their annual report.

Resolved, That the preachers forthwith engage in the collection of the amounts, in order to pay the debts of the Baltimore and Millerstown meeting-houses, and that the sums collected, be paid over to brother Ross, the Treasurer, by the 1st of January, 1850, in order to meet those demands.

The Board of Missions reported as follows:

RECEIPTS.

From Orrstown and Fayetteville, - -	$4 25
" Brother J. Ross, interest on Bamberger's estate, - - - - -	20 54
" Brother Ross, - - - - - - - - -	10 00
" Brother Rife, - - - - - - - - -	5 00
" Mechanicsburg, - - - - - - - -	6 61
" Lisburn, - - - - - - - - - - -	3 21
" Churchtown, - - - - - - - - -	5 89
" York County, 1848, - - - - - -	10 00
" East York, - - - - - - - - - -	3 93
" Mount Joy, - - - - - - - - - -	2 00
" Uniontown, - - - - - - - - - -	6 00
" Oregon, - - - - - - - - - - -	5 00
" Middletown, - - - - - - - - -	5 55
" Joseph Gingerich, - - - - - - -	5 00
" Schuylkill, - - - - - - - - - -	14 50
" Interest Bamberger's estate, -	3 00
" Morrison's Cove, - - - - - - -	9 25
" Lancaster City, - - - - - - -	11 37
" York West, - - - - - - - - -	5 25
" Lancaster Circuit, - - - - - -	22 49
" Perry Circuit, - - - - - - - -	2 70
" Dauphin Circuit, - - - - - -	8 00
" Newburg, - - - - - - - - - -	8 50
" Orrstown, - - - - - - - - - -	2 52
" Baltimore, - - - - - - - - - -	1 72
Amount received, - - - - - -	$183 28

DISBURSEMENTS.

Paid brother Owens on last year's salary, March, 1849, - - - - - - - -	$53 50
Postage, - - - - - - - - - - - - -	28
Paid brother Kyle, - - - - - - - - -	11 00
Paid brother Owens present year, - -	71 72
	$136 50
Paid do. extra do., - - -	$5 00
Amount paid out, - - - - - - -	$141 50
Balance unpaid, - - - - - - -	$41 78

On motion,

Resolved, That the report be adopted, and that the same Board be continued another year.

On motion, by brother Winebrenner,

Resolved, That this Eldership earnestly enjoin it once more, upon the members of this body, to write out their Biographical Sketches, by next spring. Also, that it be urged upon the Committee of Publication of the Hymn-book, to push it forward to completion.

On motion of brother Mooney,

Resolved, That the committee on brother Winebrenner's account report through the Advocate.

On motion,

Resolved, That the committee on the Constitution be requested to report through the Advocate, as soon as possible.

On motion,

Resolved, That the thanks of this Eldership be tendered to the brethren and friends of Washington, for their kindness and hospitality towards them during their sessions; and also to the Speaker and Clerks.

Report of the Stationing Committee.

STATIONS.

Lancaster—A. Swartz.
Middletown—G. U. Harn.
Harrisburg—Wm. Mooney.
Baltimore—Wm. McFadden.—Salary $150.
Shippensburg and Orrstown—James Mackey.

CIRCUITS.

Lancaster—T. Ströhm and C. Price.
Lehigh and Berks—A. Snyder.
York East and West—Wm. H. Mullenix and M. M. Utley.
Cumberland, Upper—E. H. Thomas.
Cumberland, Lower—J. C. Seabrooks and J. Hatfleigh.
Landisburg—J. H. Hurley.
Matamoras and Juniatta—E. Logue.
Washington and Fayetteville—W. G. Coulter.
Uniontown—J. C. Owens.
Broad Top—A. J. Fenton.
Morrison's Cove—D. Kyle.
Dauphin—S. Fleagle.
Schuylkill—J. Kellen.
Advocate Office—J. Flake.

On motion,

Resolved, That the report of the Stationing Committee be accepted.

On motion,

Resolved, That we now adjourn.

Meeting closed by brother J. Winebrenner.

WM. HINNY, Speaker.

Samuel Crawford, } Clerks.
A. Swartz, }

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

The Tract House in New York.—The Tract Society's building now occupies a corner lot 80 feet by 94, and is five stories high, exclusive of the basement and under-cellar. Besides the part of the first and second floors rented to other benevolent societies and stores—the proceeds of rent being applied to the liquidation of the debt for the building—the entire lofts are occupied with machinery and workmen. A steam-engine propels twelve power-presses, five hydraulic presses, and three embossing-presses, and does all the hoisting, book-sewing, paste-making, and glue-heating of the concern. By another boiler, the entire premises, containing 60 rooms, are heated by steam conveyed through wrought-iron pipes.

The number of folders, stitchers, and binders is about 160, and of compositors and pressmen more than 50, making more than 200 operatives whose daily bread is derived from the Tract House. Seventeen persons are employed in the executive and commercial departments. The daily production of books is about 30,000. The style of printing and of engraving is scarcely equalled in this country. The Christian Almanac and the Tract Primer, and other works, are exceedingly beautiful; and the fact that the presses can scarcely keep pace with the demands, shows that such regard for the public taste is appreciated. The monthly periodical the "American Messenger," with its unrivalled circulation of 145,000, is an illustration of the appreciation of a well-printed and well-conducted journal.

The 300 or more colporteurs of the Tract Society make large drafts on the depository for books, and demand large contributions for their support, and for the books they give to the poor. The expenditures are on a scale of about $1,000 a day; and to sustain this expenditure, the Committee have to look to the voluntary contributions of good men—except so far as the receipts for sales shall enable them to reproduce the books sent forth.

Thanksgiving-Day in Maryland.—Governor Thomas has issued his proclamation, appointing THURSDAY, the 29th of this month (November) as a day "to be observed by her citizens as a day of Public worship, prayer and thanksgiving to Almighty God for the civil and religious privileges and blessings which they have, individually and nationally, enjoyed during the year."

Thanksgiving Day.—The following are the appointments for Thanksgiving Day throughout the Union, as far as ascertained:

Maine,	Nov. 29	New Jersey,	Nov. 29
N. Hampshire,	" 15	Pennsylvania,	" 29
Vermont,	" 29	Maryland,	" 29
Massachusetts,	" 29	Ohio,	" 29
Rhode Island,	" 29	N. Carolina,	" 15
Connecticut,	" 29	Florida,	" 1
New York,	" 29	Wash. City,	" 29

The Cost of the Great Pacific Railway.—At the St. Louis Convention an estimate was submitted by Col. Curtis, a skillful engineer, of the cost of the road to the Pacific, and the cost of the survey. The road can be made, he thinks, for eighty-eight millions dollars; and one thousand men, an engineer with a party being assigned to each one hundred miles, can complete the survey in one year.

Sign of a Hard Winter.—The Bangor Whig tells us, that among other prognostications of a hard winter the coming season, it is said the squirrels are migrating south in vast numbers, which is looked upon as an infallible indication of more severe weather than ordinary, by those who have paid attention to the movements of the animals.

Wire Bridge.—The footway of the wire suspension bridge extending one thousand and ten feet from Wheeling to the Ohio side, has been completed, and crossed by multitudes.

☞ The Central Railroad Company have leased the Harrisburg and Lancaster Railroad for the period of twenty years; the cars of the former company now stop at Dillersville, about one mile west of Lancaster city.

☞ The travel on the New York and New Haven railroad is unprecedented in the annals of American railroads. The receipts of the company are about $2000 daily.

☞ A boat made of gutta percha has been launched at Cork, and is said to answer so well that five others of the same kind are in course of construction.

☞ At the present rate of increase, the population of the United States in the year 1900, will be 101,481,755 persons.

☞ Gum Camphor, laid in the track of ants, is said to be excellent for keeping away these troublesome insects.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SATURN'S RINGS.

The last subordinate group, and the most extraordinary one to which I will at this time direct your attention, is that of Saturn and his rings. Here we find a delicacy of adjustment and equilibrium far exceeding any thing yet exhibited in our examinations. This great planet is surrounded certainly by two, probably by three, immense rings, which are formed of solid matter, in all respects like that constituting the central body. These wonderful appendages are nowhere else to be found, throughout the entire solar system, at least with certainty. There existence has elsewhere been suspected, but around Saturn they are seen wi h perfect distinctness which defies all scepticism as to their actual existence. The diameter of the outer ring is no less than 176,000 miles. Its breadth is 21,000 miles, while its thickness does not exceed one hundred miles. The inner ring is separated from the outer one by a space of about 1,800 miles,—its breadth 34,000 miles, its inner edge being about 20,000 miles from the surface of the planet. Its thickness is the same as that of the outer ring. These extraordinary objects are rotating in the same direction as the planet, and with a velocity so great that objects on the exterior edge of the outer ring are carried through space with the amazing velocity of nearly 50,000 miles an hour, or nearly fifty times more swiftly than the objects on the earth's equator.

What power of adjustment can secure the stability of these stupendous rings? No solid bond fastens them to the planet —isolated in space, they hold their places, and revolving, with incredible velocity, around an imaginary axis, they accompany their planet in its mighty orbit round the sun. Such is the exceeding delicacy with which this system is adjusted, that, the slightest external cause once deranging the equilibrium, no re-adjustment would be effected. The rings would be thrown on the body of the planet, and the system would be destroyed.

For more than two hundred years have these wonderful circles of light whirled in their rapid career under the eye of man, and freed from all external action, they are so poised that millions of years shall in nowise affect their beautiful organization. Their graceful figures and beautiful light shall greet the eyes of the student of the heavens when ten thousand years shall have rolled away.

Thus do we find that God has built the heavens in wisdom, to declare his glory, and to show forth his handy-work. There are no iron tracks, with bars and bolts, to hold the planets to their orbits. Freely in space they move, ever changing, but never changed; poised and balancing; swaying and swayed; disturbing and disturbed, onward they fly, fulfilling with unerring certainty their mighty cycles. The entire system forms one grand complicated piece of celestial machinery;—circle within circle: wheel within wheel; cycle within cycle; revolutions so swift as to be completed in a few hours; movements so slow that their mighty periods are only counted by millions of years. Are we to believe that the Divine Architect constructed this admirably adjusted system to wear out and to fall in ruins even before one single revolution of its complex scheme of wheels had been performed? No.—I see the mighty orbits of the planets slowly rocking to and fro, their figures expanding and contracting, their axes revolving in their vast periods; but stability is there.—Every change shall wear away, and after sweeping through the grand cycle of cycles the whole system shall return to its primitive condition of perfection and beauty.—Prof. Mitchell.

THE YEAR 1850.

A year of disaster and gloom is departing—of pestilence and death at home; of calamity and discomfiture abroad. The hopes of Europe's emancipation from the fetters of her tyrannies and aristocrasies, but lately so glad and glowing, have been quenched in agony and blood, as Sicily, Sardinia, Rome, France, Western Germany, and Hungary, have yielded successively to the arts or the bayonets of the foes of freedom, until despotism waves its dreary sceptre over the most powerful continent of earth, and sees nothing but the petty cantons of Switzerland that kneels not before its throne. It seems but yesterday that Paris, Berlin, Frankfort, Vienna, Pesth, Rome, were the capitals of virtual if not acknowledged republics, and all Europe on the imminent verge of deliverance from the wrongs and abuses which have so long bowed her millions to the dust: and now all is changed as if by some demoniac enchantment. France, the natural head of the new democracies, has been drugged by sorceries too monstrous for belief, and made to perpetuate the direct assassination of one of her sister republics, while standing by and consenting to the overthrow of all the rest. The spirit of liberty, hunted out of Italy and Germany, has for a while stood at bay on the banks of the Danube and the Theiss, and for a brief, glad moment it was hoped that her foes would be repelled. Fond, vain illusion! the oppressors are strong and united, while the oppressed are feeble, chaotic, and destitute. The fruits of ages of toil and parsimony have been garnered, not by the industrious and frugal, but by their spoilers, and now serve to hire and arm the minions of despotism to slaughter and crush their brethren. Overborne in the unequal struggle, Hungary falls, and Europe is enshrouded in midnight gloom. Only on the narrow crests of the Alps can the dove of liberty now find rest for the sole of her foot; and who shall say that even these crests may not soon be covered by the rising, rushing deluge? For the Rights of Man in Europe there is hope in God alone—N. Y. Tribune.

VENTILATION.

Dr. Chowne has enrolled a patent for improvement in Ventilating Rooms and Apartments, of the perfect efficacy of which, we believe, there cannot be a doubt, and on a principle at once most simple and unexpected. Without going into details, we may state that the improvements are based upon an action in the syphon which has not previously attracted the notice of any experimenter, viz: that if fixed with legs of unequal length, the air rushes into the shorter leg, and circulates up, and discharges itself from the longer leg. It is easy to see how readily this can be applied to any chamber, in order to purify its atmosphere. Let the orifice of the shorter leg be disposed where it can receive the current, and lead it into the chimney, (in mines, into the shafts,) so as to convert that chimney or shaft into the longest leg, and you have at once the circulation complete. A similar air-syphon can be employed in ships, and the lowest holds, where disease is generated in the close berths of the crowded seamen, be rendered as fresh as the upper decks.

The curiosity of this discovery is that the air in a syphon reverses the action of water, or other liquid, which enters and descends or moves down in the longer leg and rises up in the shorter leg! This is now a demoustrable fact; but how is the principle to be accounted for? It puzzles our philosophy. That air in the bent tube is not to the surrounding atmosphere as water, or any heavier body, is evident; and it must be from this relation that the up draft in the longer leg is caused, and the constant circulation and withdrawal of polluted gases carried on. But be this as it may, one thing is certain—that a more useful and important discovery has never been made for the comfort and health of civilized man. We see no end to its application. There is no sanitory measure suggested to which it may not form a most beneficial adjunct. There is not a hovel, a cellar, a crypt, or a black, close hole anywhere, that it may not cleanse and disinfect.—London Literary Gazette.

HOW TO MAKE SLEEP REFRESHING.

1. Take sufficient exercise in the open air during the day. 2. Eat light suppers, always two or three hours before retiring. 3. Avoid tea and coffee, and all unnatural stimulants. 4. Retire early. All animals, except those that prowl all night, retire to rest soon after the sun goes down. The early hours of sleep are the most sweet and refreshing. 5. Eschew feather beds; sleep on hair or mattrasses, with a light covering of bedclothes. 6. Be sure and have your room well ventilated. It is well known that the Duke of Wellington, now a hale old man, is accustomed to sleep on a hard, narrow pallet; and we believe the couch of her majesty is also of the simplest possible construction. It is reported that the duke justifies the narrowness of his resting-place on the plea, that when a man wishes to turn, it is then high time to turn out. We seldom hear the laborious peasant complain of restless nights. The indolent, pampered epicure, or the man who overtasks his brain and denies himself bodily exercise, is liable to sleeplessness.

[A. Messenger.

HOW TO RUIN A SON.

1. Let him have his own way.
2. Allow him free use of money.
3. Permit him to roam where he pleases on the sabbath.
4. Give him full access to unprincipled companions.
5. Call him to no account of his evenings.
6. Furnish him with no stated employment.

Pursue either of these ways, and you will experience a most marvellous deliverance, or will have to mourn over a debased and ruined son! Thousands have realized the sad result, and have gone mourning to the grave.

Precisely, that is the right way to ruin a son. Everybody knows it, for it is an every-day observation. No one need go astray who wishes to accomplish such an object; there are examples all along our path of life.

A soft answer turneth away wrath.

POETRY.

WHERE IS WISDOM?

BY S. B. HOWARD.

Tell me, ye Pilgrims of the earth,—
Ye Sages learned, or sons of mirth,—
Ye men of wealth, or fame renowned,—
Tell me where Wisdom may be found.

Is it in riches, honors, fame?
In striving for a worldly name?
A King, perhaps, a Lord or Prelate,
Or some great one of Church or State:

To be recorded on the page
Of history, and from age to age
To live in minds who yet may dwell
On earth thy honor'd name to tell.

Is this your answer—is it true?
Is this the prize to keep in view?
To seek through life to win a prize
In death we cannot realize:

To leave a name on earth to dwell,
While we in anguish sink to hell.
Is this your answer? Yes, you say,
By words and actions every day:

Give me the riches, honors, fame—
Give me a great, an honor'd name—
This garland wreath around my grave,
No other blessing I would crave.

Ye fools and blind, though young or old,
To sell eternal life for gold:
You'll leave your gold and yield your breath
And sink into eternal death.

Ye simple ones, hear Wisdom cry,
Turn ye, Oh turn, why will ye die;
Walk in the way where troubles cease,
In Christ, the way, you may find peace.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Dedication.

The new Bethel near brother Kumbler's, Perry county, Pa., will be dedicated to the worship of God on Sabbath, the 18th inst.

The services will commence on Saturday evening previous.

A public collection will be taken up on the occasion.

The ministers and people of the neighborhood and surrounding country, are respectfully invited to attend.

Dedication of the Camp-hill Bethel.

The Bethel on Camp-hill, near brother Bowman's, will be dedicated to the worship of God on the last Sabbath of this month. Services will commence on Saturday evening previous, and continue for one week, and perhaps longer. A collection will be taken up on Sabbath in aid of the house. The ministering brethren of the neighboring churches, and the people generally, are respectfully invited to attend.

By order of the preachers in charge and the Building Committee.

Protracted Meeting.

A Protracted meeting will be held, God willing, at Smoketown, York county, commencing on the 28th inst. Wm. McFadden.

Protracted Meeting at Hinkletown.

A Protracted meeting will be held, the Lord willing, at Hinkletown, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Saturday, the 29th of December.

Protracted Meeting at Mechanicsburg.

A Protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, at Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, Pa., commencing on Saturday, he 15th of December.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 29th ult., by Elder J. H. Hurley, John Livengood, M. D., of Wrightsville, York county, Pa., to Miss Margaret Louisa Shaeffer, second daughter of Judge Shaeffer, of Lancaster city.

On the 19th of July, 1849, in Wooster, by Elder A. Megrew, Mr. Joseph Louck to Mrs. Christina Imig, both of Wayne county, Ohio.

On the 14th of October, by the same, Mr. John Funk to Miss Mary Ann Eberly, both of Wayne county, Ohio.

On the 28th ult., by Elder Andrew J. Fenton, Mr. George W. Jackson to Miss Ann M. Hanes, both of Washington county, Md.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—Of Billious Fever, at his residence in Illinois, September 27th, 1849, brother David Weichtel, formerly of Washington county, Md., aged a little over 22 years.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

At Fayetteville, on the 14th ult., Susannah Mentzer, aged 93 years, 11 months and 23 days.

Funeral services by Elder James Warner, from Joshua 1: 9: "For the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest,"

In this borough, on the 28th of September, 1849, Thomas Daniel, son of brother William and sister Catharine Bond, aged 2 months, 1 week and 2 days.

Funeral services by Elder G. U. Harn.

On the 5th ult., at Reading, Berks county, sister Mary Arnold, (late Mary Bautiger,) late of Auburn, Schuylkill county, Pa., aged 22 years, 1 month and 21 days.

On the 24th ult., at Port Clinton, Schuylkill county, sister Lavina Trout, wife of Isaac Trout, aged about 32 years.

Her remains were interred at Auburn on the 26th ult. Text 2 Cor. 5: 1.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,			$4 50	a	4 62½
Do.	Rye,	do. - -	2 50	a	2 56
Do.	Corn,	do. - -	2 50	a	2 56
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,			93	a	95
Do.	Rye,	do. - -	55	o	56
Do.	Corn,	do. - -	55	a	56
Do.	Oats,	do. - -	30	a	33
Do.	Barley,	do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover,		do. - -	3 75	a	4 00
Do.	Timothy,	do. - -	2 25	a	2 50
Do.	Flax,	do. - -	1 00	a	1 10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -			5 00	a	5 50
PORK, do. - - - - -			5 00	a	5 25
HAMS, per pound, - - -			10	a	11
BUTTER, do. - - - - -			12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -			7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -			8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.			6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -			10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -			87½	a	1 00
ONIONS,		do. - - -	75	a	87½
APPLES,		do. - - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.			1 25	a	1 30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -			37½	a	45
WOOL,		do. - - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - - -			1 15	a	1 16
HAY, per ton, - - - - - -			10 00	o	11 00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -			4 00	a	4 25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,			$5 00	a	5 12½
Do.	Rye,	do. -	3 00	a	3 06
Do.	Corn,	do. - -	3 00	a	3 06
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,			1 02	a	1 05
Do.	Rye,	do. - -	62½	a	62½
Do.	Corn, new	do. - -	65	a	65
Do.	Oats,	do. - -	31	a	31
Do.	Barley,	do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover,		do. - -	4 37	a	4 50
Do.	Timothy,	do. - -	2 75	a	3 00
Do.	Flax,	do. - -	1 35	a	1 40
BEEF, per cwt.,		- - -	7 00	a	8 75
PORK, do. - - - - -			7 00	a	7 25

Evangelical Music.

THE proprietor offers for sale, at reduced prices, the Evangelical Music-book, containing a great variety of popular Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Set pieces and Anthems.

This popular Music-book has been before the public for a number of years, and has received a very flattering reception among various Religious Denominations and Musical Associations.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the Minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia.—"The committee state that they have examined, as carefully as practicable, the 'Evangelical Music,' and cheerfully recommend it to the congregations under their care, as a good system of Church Music."

From the Minutes of the Bellefonte Musical Association.—"Resolved, That we consider 'Evangelical Music' the best work of the kind known to us; and cheerfully recommend it to all lovers of Sacred Music."

☞ For sale at this office, and at our Depositories. Editor.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner,	- -	$10 00
William Reichert,	- -	5 00
Isaac Miller,	- - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley,	- - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn,	- -	5 00
M. F. Snavely,	- - -	10 00
Jacob Miller,	- - -	10 00
James Miller,	- - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh,	- - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm,	- -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe,	- - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich,	- - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz,	- - -	5 00
A liberal brother,	- - -	20 00
A liberal sister,	- - -	2 00
David Strickler,	- - -	5 00
James Casy,	- - -	5 00
Samuel M. Hoover,	- -	5 00

Printers and Publishers

OF Newspapers are informed that the subscribers are extensively engaged in the manufacture of PRINTING INK of every color and quality, which they know to be equal to any manufactured, and which they will sell at the lowest prices for Cash. As they are determined that their INK shall recommend itself, they only solicit one trial of it, relying upon its merits for future patronage. Their Colored Inks are warranted superior to any manufactured. A circular containing prices, &c., will be sent to those who desire it. Orders for Cash on City Agents accepted.

☞ Publishers of Newspapers inserting this advertisement to the amount of $2 and sending us a copy of paper, by remitting $5 at any time will receive a 30 lb. keg of extra News Ink.

ADAMS & CO.,
Seam Printing Ink Works, Philadelphia,
Agents for the sale of new and second hand printing materials.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

McAllister's All-Healing Ointment,
OR THE
WORLD'S SALVE.
Contains NO MERCURY or other MINERAL.

From the Reading Eagle.

"There was never, perhaps, a medicine brought before the public, that has in so short a time won such a reputation as "McAllister's All Healing or World's Salve."—Almost every person that has made trial of it, speaks warmly in its praise. One has been cured by it, of the most painful Rheumatism; another of the Piles, a third of a troublesome pain in the side, a fourth of a swelling in the limbs, &c. If it does not give immediate relief in every case, it can never do injury, being applied outwardly. As another evidence of the wonderful healing power possessed by this salve, we subjoin the following certificate, from a respectable citizen of Maidencreek township, in this county.

Maidencreek, Berks Co., March 30, '47.

Messrs. Ritter & Co.—I desire to inform you that I was entirely cured of a severe pain in the back, by the use of M'Allister's All-Healing Salve, which I purchased from you. I suffered with it about 20 years, and at night was unable to sleep. During that time I tried various remedies, which were prescribed for me by physicians and other persons, without receiving any relief, and at last made trial of this Salve with a result favorable beyond expectation. I am now entirely free from the pain, and enjoy at night a sweet and peaceful sleep. I have also used the salve since, for toothache and other complaints, with similar happy results. Your friend,

John Hollenbach."

I certify that I have used "M'Allister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, or the World's Salve," for a healing in my wife's breast, which has done her incalculable benefit. Also, on one of my children for Sore Eyes, which gave immediate relief. I therefore recommend it as a good medicine, to all desirous of trying it. Parker Reen.

Morris tp., Wash. Co., Aug. 21, 1847.

I certify that I have used McAllister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, for coldness of my feet—also for Rheumatism in my limbs, and Corns on my feet, and have been entirely relieved. Believing it to be a good medicine, I do not hesitate to recommend it in the above complaints. Leonard Vaile.

☞ Around the box are directions for using McAllister's Ointment for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Erysipelas, Tetter, Chilblain, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Nervous Affections, Pains, Disease of the Spine, Head Ache, Asthma, Deafness, Ear Ache, Burns, Corns, all Diseases of the Skin, Sore Lips, Pimples, &c., Swelling of the limbs, Sores, Rheumatism, Piles, Cold Feet, Croup, Swelled or Broken Breast, Tooth Ache, Ague in the Face, &c., &c.

☞ This Ointment is good for any part of the body or limbs when inflamed. In some cases it should be applied often.

CAUTION—No OINTMENT will be genuine unless the name of James M'Allister, is written with a pen on every label.

☞ PRICE, 25 CENTS PER BOX. ☜

JAMES M'ALLISTER,
Sole Proprietor of the above Medicine.

Principal Office No. 28 North THIRD street, Philadelphia.

Agents: Geo. H. Bell, Harrisburg; M. Luiz, do.; Jacob Bener, Middletown; George Ross, Elizabethtown; M. M'Barren, Portsmouth; J. & L. Reigel, Mechanicsburg; G. W. Singiser, Churchtown; Smith & Henry, Lebanon; C. Roth, Bloomfield; Jacob Keiser, Petersburg; J. M. Beatty, Pottsville; Samuel P. Sterret, Mount Joy; Henry Thatcher, Newport; Wm. Jackson, New Buffalo; Brown & Ritter, Pittsburg; John Lloyd, Mount Pleasant; Jacob Welty, Greensburg; Edward Scull, Shippensburg; John Diller, Newville; and sold by our Agents in every town in the State.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;

ENTITLED

History of Denominations.

Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and embossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, and DANIEL GETTY, No. 110 South Third street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

SARAH SADLER, Allegheny City, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration. - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West. -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., DECEMBER 1, 1849. NUMBER 15.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Appointment for Matamoras.

Elder J. J. Miller will preach at Matamoras, in Paul's Valley, on Saturday evening and Sabbath, the 8th and 9th inst.

The National Era.

This is an able and highly useful Liberty paper, published at the seat of our National Government.

A Voice from Washington County, Pa.

Brother J. Hess writes for a good preacher to be sent to Washington county, Pa., and believes that he can and will be supported there. Let the application be made to the Standing Committee of the West Pennsylvania Eldership, and they will, no doubt, see to have that field supplied.

Fast Day.

The late Eldership at Washington appointed Friday, the 21st of December, as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer. The following is the resolution of the Eldership on the subject:

Resolved, That as there seemingly is a low, declining state of religion, therefore we recommend to the Church of God to observe Friday, the 21st day of December next, as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer, and that each preacher, at his different appointments, insist on the members to observe said day, on behalf of the prosperity of Zion, and implore Divine aid for a universal revival of religion.

Editorial Convention.

An adjourned Convention of the editors and publishers of newspapers within the State of Pennsylvania, is to be held in this place on Tuesday, the first day of January next.

The editors and publishers of newspapers in Pennsylvania, without distinction of party, are requested and expected to attend said Convention.

Gratifying Result.

The tolls on the State works, received at the State Treasury up to November 1, amount to $1,388,446 62

Last year, to November, - - - - 1,321,032 50

Excess in favor of 1849, - - $67,414 22

The fiscal year, in this State, closes on the 1st of November.

Missionaries for Illinois and Iowa.

The late Eldership resolved to make renewed efforts to send missionaries, next year, to Illinois and Iowa. This is an important subject, deserving the serious and prompt attention of the churches. Especially ought the monied men in the church to consider this matter, and to send on their pledges. In order to this, let the ministers urge and impress this important subject on the minds of the people.

Semi-Centenary Subscriptions.

The late East Pennsylvania Eldership have recommended to the brethren of the Church of God the year 1850 as a semi-centenary celebration; and hope that many and noble sacrifices will be made by the members generally, in the shape of subscriptions and donations, to the Eldership fund, to testify their gratitude to God, for His great goodness, loving-kindness and tender mercies. We hope and pray that many may bring all their tithes into His store-house, and prove Him therewith, and see whether He will not pour them out a blessing.

To Our Subscribers.

Having repeatedly appealed to our subscribers for the payment of our dues, without effect, we now therefore give notice, that bills will be made out and sent to all who are in arrears, hoping that they will be duly honored. We hope all in arrears, will attend to the settlement of their respective accounts without delay. Our expenses are pretty considerable, and we have besides several large payments to make before a great while, so that we shall want and must needs have our dues collected.

Our agents, the preachers and others, will oblige us much by assisting us in collecting our out-standing dues. We shall send duplicate bills to them.

Business Notices.

Elder J. S. Kerr's Post Office address is Freeman's Landing, Brook county, Virginia.

Elder B. Ober's box of books was sent to the Union Ware-house, Johnstown, Cambria county, Pa.

Brother J. Hess' box was sent to Monongahela City, Washington county, Pa.

Elder C. Price's box of books was sent to the Belvidere Ware-house, Baltimore, Md.

Information Wanted.

One Martin Gier, of Greene county, Pa., has removed from thence, and his parents and friends not knowing whither he has gone, hereby give notice, that they shall feel much obliged to any one who will give them information of his whereabouts.

The same M. Gier is a delinquent subscriber for the Advocate to the amount of $3 00. Any one who collects and remits the same, will confer a special favor.

Dedication of Red-hill Bethel.

The Red-hill Bethel, near brother Kumbler's, Perry county, Pa., was dedicated to the worship of God on Sabbath, the 18th ult.

The congregations were large, solemn and attentive. The collection amounted to some thirty-odd dollars. The preachers present on the occasion, were Benjmin Howard, Solomon Bigham, Abraham Snyder and J. Winebrenner.

On Monday we had a baptizing, when two happy souls were buried with Christ in baptism. At night the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper were administered, and truly it was a precious season.

The meeting was continued by brothers Howard and Bigham, but with what results, we, as yet, know not.

Disciples.

A Convention of the religious body, known as the Disciples, was lately held in Cincinnati, the object being to deliberate upon the best method of using the influence of the sect for the spread of Christianity. Elder D. S. Burnet, of Cincinnati, presided, assisted by Walter Scott, of Pennsylvania. It was resolved to recommend to the brethren the American Christian Bible Society. A Society was organized called the American Christian Missionary Society, of which Alexander Campbell, of Virginia, was chosen President. A Christian Tract Society was also formed, of which Dr. B. S. Lawson was chosen President. The proceedings of the Convention were directed to be published in pamphlet form. One hundred and thirty Delegates, representing thirteen States and 200,000 communicants, were present, They were, mostly, ministers. In support of the above named Societies, about $5,000 was raised.

Congress.

The first meeting of Congress under the new Administration of Gen. Taylor, will take place on Monday next. There are many things to give to the meeting of this Congress an unusual degree of interest.

New York Election.

The result of the election in New York is most singular. In the Senate the Whig majority is two, and in the House the Democratic majority is two—a tie therefore on joint ballot. The State officers are also equally divided, being four Democrats and four Whigs.

TENNESSEE ELECTION.

Parties also in the Tennessee Legislature are exactly equal. The Democrats have three majority in the House, and the Whigs have three in the Senate; on joint ballot there is a tie. Hence, when they go into Convention for elections, there is a dead lock, and nobody is elected. They tried to elect a Judge on the 19th ultimo, but gave it up after four ballotings, tie and tie all the time.

Important Resolutions.

The following important resolutions were passed by the Eldership, to which we invite the special attention of the readers of the Advocate:

Resolved, That we regard the want of a specific application of the precepts and principles of Christianity to the various sins and evils of the day, as one of the most serious obstacles to the advancement of true religion; and that therefore the preachers especially, and the brethren of this Eldership, be requested to bear testimony against the evil and danger of the followers of Christ mingling in the vain amusements of the world: such as the theatre—the circus—dancing, trifling parties and games; and also against Sabbath-breaking, light reading, extravagance and gaiety in dress and furniture, &c.: and furthermore, that the things which true Christians should not participate in themselves, they ought not to permit to their children and those under their charge.

Resolved, That it be recommended to preachers and others, to aid in the circulation of J. H. Bamberger's Journal, &c., among the members of the churches, as it is believed that the book is calculated to disseminate the principles of the Church of God, and the right ways of the Lord.

Resolved, That the brethren generally be advised to comply with the request of the Editor of the Advocate in the last paper, in relation to the increase of the subscription list of the Church Advocate; and especially as it is now likely to be a source of revenue to the Church.

Dedication of the Camp-hill Bethel.

The Camp-hill Bethel was dedicated to the worship of God on Sabbath, the 25th ult.—Dedication sermon by the Editor of the Church Advocate. The congregation was large, but the collection small, amounting, in all, only to about $45. Preachers in attendance, David Maxwell, S. B. Howard, J. C. Seabrooks, Simon Dresbach, J. J. Miller and J. Winebrenner.—The result of the meeting, up to Monday evening, was one convert. The meeting is still going on.

New Subscribers Pledged.

The brethren pledged themselves, at the late Eldership, to raise all the new subscribers for the Advocate, that could be got, between this and New Year. We hope none will lose sight of these pledges, but make every effort, both in and out of the Church, to swell the list.—Let no one fail to read the circular, on this subject, in the 13th number, publicly, at each appointment, and request the co-operation of the Elders and Deacons of the churches.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

JOURNAL
OF THE Fourteenth Eldership in Ohio.

The Ohio Eldership of the Church of God met, agreeably to adjournment, in the Madisonville Bethel, Wayne county, Ohio, on the 15th of October, 1849.

After convening at 9 o'clock in the Bethel, a discourse was delivered by brother Abraham Holms, appropriate to the occasion, from 2 Cor. 2d chapter and latter clause of the 16th verse.

After which the meeting was called to order by brother William Adams, and,

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brothers Archibald Megrew, David Baker and J. M. West be appointed to constitute the Eldership.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we adjourn for half an hour.

Session closed as usual.

—

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Session opened by brother David Baker.

The persons appointed proceeded to constitute the body: whereupon the following Ministers, Elders and Delegates were found in attendance, viz:

Stark County Circuit—Brothers Henry Murray and J. M. West, teaching elders.

Sugar Creek Circuit—Brothers A. Holms and John Beidler, teaching elders; and David Keplinger, ruling elder.

Wooster Circuit—Brothers Archibald Megrew, Thomas H. Deshiri, Henry L. Soule, Isaac Whisler, John Funk, Peter Hartman and David Shrom, teaching elders.

Brothers David Baker, Daniel George, Seth Hollinger, John Peters, Henry Funk, Daniel M'Fadden and John Zimmerman, ruling elders.

Brothers John P. Winebrenner, Samuel Metzler and Hugh Norris, delegates.

Ashland Circuit—Brothers Daniel Williams, David Shriner, James Neal and John J. Bear, teaching elders.

Brothers John Snyder, Henry Booer and J. P. Miller, ruling elders.

Tiffen Circuit—Brother Wm. Adams, teaching elder.

Brother Levi W. Keller, ruling elder.

Brother John Fox, delegate.

Church in Lake Township—Brother David Neidigh, teaching elder.

Brother George Smith, ruling elder.

ABSENTEES.

Henry Rupp, E. K. Ingraham, Geo. Thomas and John Briggle.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now proceed to organize by electing a Speaker and two Clerks, by ballot: whereupon brother ARCHIBALD MEGREW was elected Speaker, J. M. West Journalizing Clerk, and Henry Murray Transcribing Clerk.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brothers T. H. Deshiri and H. L. Soule be admitted as advisory members.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now proceed to nominate a committee of three, to examine the Journal of the last Eldership, and report the items of unfinished business.

Whereupon brothers Ab'm Holms, David Shrom and Daniel Williams were appointed said committee.

On motion, it was

Rssolved, That a committee of three be appointed, to form rules for the government of this Eldership.

Whereupon brothers A. Holms, P. Hartman and David Baker were appointed said committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed on Overtures.

Whereupon brothers Isaac Whisler, Wm. Adams and David Shrom were appointed said committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed on Resolutions.

Brothers John Beidler, J. P. Winebrenner and Seth Hollinger were appointed said committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we hear the report of the Standing Committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we consider brothers Isaac Whisler, David Baker and Seth Hollinger, members of the Standing Committee, censurable for not attending the special meeting that was appointed by the last Eldership.

Whereupon they frankly acknowledged their neglect of duty, and asked forgiveness of this body—which was granted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Standing Committee is censurable for not informing brother William Adams of the reasons why his request was not granted, and therefore owe him an apology—which was made unto him.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the report of the Standing Committee be adopted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother John Beidler preach to-night at early candle-light.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we adjourn to meet to-morrow morning at half-past eight o'clock.

Session closed by brother James Neal.

—

TUESDAY MORNING SESSION.

Session opened by brother William Adams.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Journal of yesterday be read and corrected.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother Elder Austin, of the Baptist Society, be admitted as an advisory member.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the committee to form rules for the government of this body report.

Their report was adopted, viz:

Standing Rules for this Eldership.

1. This Eldership shall hold two sessions per day—one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon. The morning session to open at 8 o'clock, and close at 12 o'clock; and the afternoon session to commence at 1 o'clock, and close at 4 o'clock.

2. Each session shall open and close with singing and prayer.

3. The Speaker and Clerks shall preside and conduct the business of this body, according to the usages of deliberative bodies.

4. Ministers belonging to the Eldership, Elders and Delegates alone, shall be entitled to a vote.

5. The order of business shall be transacted as follows:

1. Items of unfinished business.

2. New items of business of a general character.

3. There shall be no charges brought against any member of this body except they are previously consulted.

4. All persons speaking on any motion or question before the Eldership, shall rise and address the Speaker, confine their remarks to the subject under consideration, and never speak longer than half an hour at any one time, nor more than twice on the same subject, without permission of this Eldership.

5. Reports of the ministers and examining of their character.

6. Hearing and deciding on applicants for license.

7. Miscellaneous business.

8. When a motion is pending before the Eldership, no other business shall be in order, unless it be to amend, strike out, postpone, or adjourn.

9. Any decision of the Speaker, other than when he gives the casting vote, shall be subject to an appeal to the Eldership.

10. Stationing the preachers.

11. No unnecessary walking or talking, so as to disturb the meeting, during the session will be permitted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the committee on the last year's Journal report.

Their report was adopted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the committee on Overtures report.

Their report was adopted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now proceed to hear the report of the preachers.

Brother ISAAC WHISLER reported: That he felt thankful that through the mercy of God he was permitted to meet with his brethren in another yearly meeting, and felt glad to see the peace and love manifested toward each other. He stated that he had enjoyed some special seasons, during the last winter, in preaching and seeing sinners brought into the kingdom of God's dear Son. He said that he had preached some, but felt sorry that he had not done more for his Master in the past year. He further stated that his trials were more in the past year than at any time previous, in consequence of opposing certain men, and certain things, which were contrary to God's word and the order of God's house. He also stated his willingness to do what he could, in order to get others to do what they ought to do, to save their souls. He expressed his love for his brethren, and concluded by requesting an interest in the prayers of his brethren, that he might be more useful in time to come.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother HENRY MURRAY reported: That he felt grateful to the giver of all things, for the pivilege he had of meeting with his brethren in another yearly meeting, which was a privilege upon which he placed a great estimate, and a season of grace which afforded him much joy. He also stated that he returned to the field of labor assigned him by the Eldership, during which time he enjoyed many precious seasons, while he was endeavoring to discharge his duty. He felt happy to think that he had the good news to bring to his brethren, that, at least, a few souls were converted—probably some six or seven—and some twenty accessions to the different local churches on his circuit: that he had baptized five, according to the order of God. He expressed his desire to continue with his brethren in the Church of God—to suffer with them, and hopes with them to share joys immortal at God's right hand. He also requested an interest in the prayers of his brethren, that he might be more useful in time to come.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother JONATHAN M. WEST reported: That he feels truly thankful to God that through His mercy, he has once more been permitted to meet with his much beloved brethren in another yearly meeting, to transact business for the cause and Church of the living God. He stated that through the first part of the last Eldership year, he had suffered much in body, but more in mind, on account of the loss of three of his children; but that he was resigned to the will of God, knowing that his loss is their eternal gain. He has preached some, and still attends to holding prayer and class-meetings. He stated that he loves the cause of God, and feels like laboring all he can for its advancement. He hopes in the end of his turmoils on earth, with his brethren to gain a crown in heaven.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother JOHN BEIDLER reported: That he was glad he was permitted once more to meet with his brethren in an Eldership capacity. He stated that since the last Eldership, he had been trying to preach as much as he could: although he had not preached so much among the churches as formerly, yet he has extended his labors more as a missionary, in places where the other brethren do not preach. He felt like persevering in the gospel ministry:—loves God, loves his brethren, and wants to live with them, and finally with them enjoy everlasting happiness beyond this world.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother ABRAHAM HOLMS reported: That he felt grateful to God for the privilege given him of meeting with his brethren in an Eldership capacity. Since the last Eldership, he had been trying to preach to the best of his ability, and a goodly number were converted to God. The churches under his care are in a tolerable prosperous condition, and are looking for better times. His wish and prayer is, that he might be more useful among them than hitherto, and requested his brethren to pray for him.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother Austin, of the Baptist Society, deliver a discourse on the missionary cause, on to-morrow evening.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now adjourn to meet at one o'clock.

Prayer by brother Thomas H. Deshiri.

—

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Session opened by brother David Shriner.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That a Stationing Committee of seven be appointed, by nomination.

Whereupon the following brethren were appointed, viz: Abraham Holms, William Adams, Archibald Megrew and Henry Murray, teaching elders; and David Baker, John Snyder and David Keplinger, ruling elders.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we again resume the hearing of the reports of the preachers.

Brother THOMAS H. DESHIRI reported: That he came to Ohio last spring, and commenced his labors on the circuit assigned him, in connection with brother Soule. He also stated, that since that time he has labored to be as useful as possible, to saint and sinner. He also said he was kindly received and very comfortably entertained. He further stated, that he felt resolved by the grace of God, to spend his time in the service and fear of God, whilst here on earth. He requested an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was accepted.

Brother HENRY L. SOULE reported: That he had been laboring on the Wooster circuit since last spring, to the best of his ability; but in consequence of ill health, was not able to labor as much as he would liked to have done.

His report was accepted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother Henry L. Soule, on the account of poor health, be exonerated from travelling on the circuit, (assigned him and brother Deshiri, by the Standing Committee,) and that a recommendation be given him, signed by the Speaker and Clerks.

Brother ARCHIBALD MEGREW reported: That he was thankful that through the kind Providence of God, he was permitted to meet once more with his brethren in an Eldership capacity. He stated that he had labored on the circuit during last winter, and had the pleasure of seeing quite a number converted and the churches revived. But through the summer he had travelled and labored but little in the gospel ministry, in consequence of affliction in his family. He further stated, that he had passed through many difficulties and sorrows, but amidst them all, he had some joyful seasons, and still felt resolved to labor in the gospel and to do all the good he can. He expressed a desire to live, labor, suffer and die with his brethren, and hoped with them to share joys immortal at God's right hand. He also stated that he had baptized between 20 and 30 since the last Eldership. He also begs an interest in the prayers of his brethren, that he might be steadfast and useful until death, and finally get home to heaven.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother DANIEL WILLIAMS reported: He was truly glad in God that he was permitted to meet with his brethren in an Eldership capacity. He also stated that he had been trying, in his weakness, to preach the gospel to the best of his ability, and had seen about 30 conversions, and that there were about 15 baptized on his circuit, during the last year. He stated that he had serious difficulties to undergo during the last winter, but thanks God that things are beginning to wear a more favorable aspect—especially since the Camp-meeting held on his circuit—and as some who had left the church, are coming back again with an humble acknowledgment, he hopes they will all come back with a renewed mind, and a determination to do better. He also stated that he was looking for better times in the future, and hopes by the grace of God, and the prayers of his brethren, to be instrumental in doing good; and with his brethren he wants to live, and share the joys of this life in the ministry, and at last receive a crown of never-fading glory at God's right hand.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother JOHN FUNK reported: He was happy to meet with his brethren at another annual meeting. He further stated, that he had been trying to preach some, and enjoyed some very good seasons during the past year. He hopes to be more useful in time to come, and wishes to continue with his brethren, and at last get home to heaven.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother JOHN J. BEAR reported: He was highly gratified that he could see his brethren in another Eldership capacity, and that he felt encouraged to hear his brethren tell of the good dealings of God with them. He stated that he commenced his ministerial labors on the 2d of last April, and has been trying to preach plain and pointed, and that his preaching has been received generally by the brethren, and that he had been very kindly treated by the brethren, with a few exceptions. He further said, that he felt perfectly at home with his brethren of the Church of God, and the more he investigated the principles of the Church, the more satisfied he was that they were of God. He hoped the brethren would forgive him for disappointing them, for his health was so poor that he could not meet his arrangements; yet he felt willing to do the best he can. He further said, that he had more enjoyments in the past year than for 14 years previous. The reason, perhaps, was, because he had tried to discharge his duty more fully.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother WM. ADAMS reported: That in consequence of ill health, he was not able to perform the labors due to the Tiffen Mission, on which he was appointed; nevertheless, he had labored all he consistently could, and had saw a goodly number converted: that he baptized five or six, and feels to continue in the gospel ministry. He loves the brethren, God and His cause, and asks the prayers of his brethren.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother DAVID NEIDIGH reported: That he truly felt glad in God that he was permitted to meet with his brethren in the ministry. He also stated, that he had preached about every three weeks for the Church in Lake township, which was assigned him by the last Eldership: that he also preached at a number of other places, by request of his brethren, and that he saw a few converted to God, and baptized eleven believers. He further said, he wishes to continue with his brethren in the ministry—live, labor and die with them, and at last meet with them in a better world, where joys immortal are.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother DAVID SHRINER reported: That he felt truly thankful to Almighty God, for the happy privilege of meeting with his beloved brethren in another Eldership, to transact business for the Church of the living God—bearing his own name—governed by his own laws, and not by human creeds and disciplines. All that he can say in reference to himself is, that he regrets that he has not been more diligent in the gospel ministry. He says he loves the cause of God: he believes it must and will yet prevail over the prejudices of many. He also feels resolved for the future, by the help of God, to be more diligent than ever in the vineyard of the Lord. He asks an interest in the prayers of his brethren, for he wanted to live and labor with them in this world, and with them share joys immortal at God's right hand.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother PETER HARTMAN reported: That he feels very thankful to God that he is once more permitted to meet with his brethren in an Eldership meeting. As it regards the preaching of the gospel, he has been trying, by the help of God, to preach since the last Eldership: that he saw some good effected, and had some very interesting meetings. He feels resolved, by the grace of God, to preach and do all the good he can, and hopes that love and union may abound among us. He asks his brethren to pray for him, that he may do right in all things, and with them finally gain a seat at God's right hand.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother JAMES NEAL reported: That he was truly glad that he was permitted to meet with his brethren. He stated, he had preached some since the last Eldership, but in consequence of sickness, he was not able to preach as much as he desired. He had baptized eight. He says he still loves his brethren and the cause of God, and desires to remain with them, and finally with them make his home in glory.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother DAVID SHROM reported: That inasmuch as he could not attend the last Eldership, he had made out his report and gave it to a brother to hand to the Eldership, and that brother neglected going to the Eldership, therefore his report was not received. He stated that through the last winter he had labored considerably, but not much during the summer. As for the good he had done, it was known only to God. He wants his brethren to pray for him, that he may be more useful in winning souls to God, and finally get home to heaven.

His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother JOHN BRIGGLE was heard from. His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Brother GEO THOMAS was not heard from.

Brother HENRY RUPP was heard from. His report was accepted and his license renewed.

Voted, That they be sent to him by brother William Adams.

Brother E. K. INGRAHAM was not heard from.

On motion,

Resolved, That brother A. Holms preach to-night.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we adjourn to meet to-morrow morning at eight o'clock.

Session closed by brother David Keplinger.

—

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION.

Session opened by brother A. Holms.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Journal of yesterday be read and corrected.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now hear from applicants who wish to obtain license—whereupon

Brother Levi W. Keller arose and gave a brief account of his conversion and call to the ministry. Being considered worthy, a license was granted him, and was addressed by the Speaker.

Brother David Keplinger next arose and gave a brief account of his conversion and call to the ministry. Being considered worthy, a license was granted him, and was addressed by brother A. Holms.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the committe on Resolutions report.

Their report was read and adopted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother Wm. Adams preach a sermon at our next Eldership meeting, on the labors, life and death of our much esteemed brother, Samuel Sherrich.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the ministers teach the churches to observe the ordinances of Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper more frequently at their private meetings, and not put it off till the time of their special efforts for reformation.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That each preacher use his utmost influence toward the establishment of Sabbath-schools.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we adjourn to meet at one o'clock.

Session closed by brother J. P. Winebrenner.

—

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Session opened by brother Henry Murray.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That each minister preach a missionary sermon, at least once in a year, at each regular place of preaching.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That a Standing Committee of five be appointed, by nomination, to consist of three preachers and two ruling elders.

Whereupon the following brethren were appointed said committee, viz: Archibald Megrew, Abraham Holms and John Beidler, preachers; Seth Hollinger and David Baker, ruling elders.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Board of Missions report.

They not being prepared, it was laid over till to-morrow afternoon.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Standing Committee meet on the third Saturday in February, 1850, in Wooster, Wayne county, Ohio.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we ascertain where to hold our next yearly meeting.

The following named churches, by their

Elders and Delegates, made application, viz: church at Brandywine, Wooster, Union and Stump's.

Voted, That our next Eldership meeting be held with the Church of God at Brandywine Bethel, in Tuscarawas county, Ohio, 4 miles west of Canal Dover, on the third Monday of October, 1850.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother CHRISTIAN IDLEMAN be received as an advisory member.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we resume the hearing of applicants for license.

Whereupon brother James Neal presented the case of brother DAVID GILL, a former member of this body, as an applicant for license. Laid over till to-morrow.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we ascertain who will travel the coming year.

Whereupon the following brethren volunteered to travel, viz: Henry Murray, Abraham Holms, Daniel Williams, John J. Bear, Wm. Adams, David Shriner, Archibald Megrew and J. M. West.

On motion, it was.

Resolved, That the Stationing Committee meet to-night, at brother Joseph Louck's.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we adjourn to meet to-morrow morning at eight o'clock.

Session closed by the Speaker.

THURSDAY MORNING SESSION.

Session opened by brother C. Idleman.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Journal of yesterday be read and corrected.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Stationing Committee report.

Their report was as follows:

Stark County Circuit—HENRY MURRAY.

Sugar Creek Circuit—WILLIAM ADAMS.

Wooster and Moreland Station—A. MEGREW.

Wooster Circuit—ABRAHAM HOLMS and THOS. H. DESHIRI.

Mohican Circuit—DANIEL WILLIAMS and JAMES NEAL.

Ashland Circuit—JOHN J. BEAR.

Tiffen Circuit—DAVID SHRINER.

Missionary—J. M. WEST: provided the Eldership will appropriate fifty dollars toward his support, out of the missionary funds.

Voted, By the Eldership, that this matter be left in the hands of the Standing Committee.

Local Preachers—John Beidler, Peter Hartman, David Shrom, Levi W. Keller, David Keplinger, John Funk, David Neidigh, John Briggle, Henry Rupp, Isaac Whisler, E. K. Ingraham, David Gill, George Thomas and John McKee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the report of the Stationing Committee be adopted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we resume the hearing of brother David Gill's case.

After brother Gill humbly acknowledging his errors, to the satisfaction of this Eldership, and requesting to become a member of this body, he was voted a license.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother A. Megrew preach the opening sermon, if the Lord will, at our next Eldership meeting.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother T. H. Deshiri be exonerated from preaching in Wooster, in consequence of brother Soule's inability to preach and leaving the circuit.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother T. H. Deshiri receive a license from this body, agreeably to his request.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we adjourn for one hour.

Session closed by brother Austin.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Standing Committee constitute the Camp-meeting Committee.

On motion, it was.

Resolved, That the ministers of the Ohio Eldership be requested to write out their Biographical Sketches, and send them to the Advocate Office.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That no monies be drawn out of the Treasury of the Missionary Society, only on the order of the Eldership, or in the time of its recess, on the order of the Standing Committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the yearly subscriptions to the Missionary Society, for the previous year, be held and considered as so much stock.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Board of Missions report.

The following is their report:

The whole number of persons subscribed, is	189
The whole number of life members, is	85
The whole amount subscribed, is	$973 64
The whole amount subscribed by life members, is	911 00
The whole amount due to the Society, is	93 85
The whole amount received, is	69 40
The whole amount yet due, is	24 45

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Treasurer of the Missionary Society make use of the missionary funds in his possession, until called for, by a note with approved security, and said note to be lodged in the hands of the Standing Committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the brethren holding missionary subscriptions, collect the arrearages due on them, and hand the same over to the Treasurer, before the sitting of the Standing Committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother JOHN MCKEE, of the United Brethren Society, be admitted as an advisory member.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That inasmuch as brother John McKee, of the United Brethren Society, requests a license from this body, having presented his certificate from that body as a member among them in good standing, he be admitted as a member of this Eldership and voted a license.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That this Eldership tender their thanks to the brethren and friends of Madisonville and its vicinity, for their kindness and hospitality towards us during our Eldership meeting.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we attend to the ordinances to-night, and that brother John J. Bear preach a sermon on the occasion.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we return our thanks to the Speaker and Clerks, for the faithful performance of their several duties during our Eldership.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Journal of this Eldership be signed by the Speaker and Clerks.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now adjourn to meet with the church at Brandywine, on the third Monday of October, 1850.

ARCHIBALD MEGREW, Speaker.

J. M. WEST, Journalizing Clerk.

HENRY MURRAY, Transcribing Clerk.

JOURNAL
OF THE
Fourth Indiana Eldership.

AGREEABLY to appointment, the Annual Eldership of the Church of God in the State of Indiana, met in a School-house, in the sixth district, near Auburn, Decalb county, on Monday morning, October 15th, 1850.

The meeting was opened with worship by brother George Thomas.

On motion, brothers J. Martin and J. Blickenstaff were appointed to constitute the meeting: whereupon the following brethren were found to be in attendance, viz:

Wabash County, Indiana—George Thomas and Wm. Hood, teaching elders; and E. Latta, ruling elder.

Lagrange County, Indiana—J. Martin, teaching elder; A. Menely and F. Tillotson, ruling elders.

Decalb County, Indiana—Wm. Frampton, A. Wagoner and J. Walter, ruling elders.

Adams County, Indiana—J. G. Baker, ruling elder.

Vanwert County, Ohio—C. Sands, teaching elder.

Mercer County, Ohio—T. Hickernell, teaching elder.

Whitley County—Henry Comp, messenger.

On motion, the meeting was organized, by electing brother GEO. THOMAS Speaker, and T. HICKERNELL Clerk.

On motion, a committee of three were appointed on Resolutions, viz: brothers A. Menely, J. Blickenstaff and Wm. Frampton.

On motion, the Standing Committee reported—whose report was adopted.

The Standing Committee reported: That they had liberated J. Blickenstaff from his circuit, to go just where he had a mind to: after which he went to Illinois. And further, that they had settled the difficulties between Elder Slyter and the churches, so far as they could reach them at that time, and promised, after proper satisfaction was rendered on all hands, a renewal of his license.

On motion, a committee on Overtures, consisting of three, were appointed, viz: brothers J. Martin, C. Sands and Wm. Frampton.

On motion, a committee of five were appointed on applicants for license, viz: Geo. Thomas, A. Menely, Wm. Hood, J. Martin and T. Hickernell.

On motion, father HENRY Ross was admitted as an advisory member.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the ministers now give in their reports.

Brother GEO. THOMAS reported: That he is still trying to preach the gospel, and that through a protracted illness, he was made sensible of the fact, that he ought to spend all his time in that way; but in consequence of his circumstances in life being somewhat peculiar, he cannot see how he can give the whole of his time to the work of the ministry without help.

His report was adopted and license renewed.

Brother J. MARTIN reported: That he is still trying to preach the gospel; but in consequence of being immersed in business, he did not preach as much as he otherwise would have done, provided this had not been the case. He says he baptized three or four since the last Eldership.

His report was adopted and license renewed.

Brother C. SANDS reported: That he has endeavored to preach Christ to the people since the last Eldership; but in consequence of losing his horse, and struggling otherwise with poverty, he has felt very much discouraged. He says for sometime he has had to travel on foot after his appointments, and thinks sometimes he will be compelled to leave the field on account of extreme poverty. He had a revival in Adams county, Indiana. where 10 or 12 professed hope in Christ, and baptized seven, and formed a church of eight members.

His report was adopted and license renewed.

Brother WM. HOOD reported: That he had a strong impulse to travel and preach the gospel constantly. And further says, that he preaches as much as his circumstances will admit.

His report was adopted and license renewed.

Brother J. BLICKENSTAFF reported: That he has been laboring, according to appointment, since the last Eldership, partly with brother T. Hickernell, and partly with brother J. Martin; but through the course of time, he received a strong impulse to go to Illinois, and left for that State sometime in the summer season, and feels much enconraged to labor there. He also states that he baptized eight before he left for Illinois.

His report was adopted and license renewed.

Brother T. HICKERNELL reported: That he has been laboring since the last Eldership, with the exception of three months in the summer season. Baptized two or three, and labored in several revivals, and seen a number hopefully converted.

His report was adopted and license renewed.

ABSENTEES were then heard from.

Brother ENOCH GILLESPIE was heard from.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That inasmuch as E. Gillespie has deserted the church in Milford, under charges, and did not appear before the Eldership to answer those charges, therefore the Eldership think it inexpedient to continue his membership any longer.

Brother SLYTER was not heard from; and inasmuch as some charges were preferred against him, therefore,

Resolved, That his case be referred to the Standing Committee.

Adjourned to meet to-morrow morning at half-past eight o'clock.

Closed with prayer by brother Martin.

TUESDAY MORNING SESSION.

Session opened by brother Blickenstaff.

After the Journal of the Eldership was read and corrected, it was

Resolved, That a Stationing Committee of five be appointed, by nomination.

Whereupon brothers C. Sands, E. Latta,

Wm. Frampton, J. Martin and T. Hickernell were appointed said committee.

A Standing Committee of five were next appointed, viz: brothers A. Menely, Geo. Thomas, J. Martin, Wm. Hood and T. Hickernell.

The committee on Overtures reported that they had received no letters or documents.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we ascertain who will travel the coming year.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That items of unfinished business, brought before the last Eldership, be taken into consideration.

Whereupon the following resolution was adopted and approved, viz:

Resolved, That Christ is our only law-giver, and proved His and His disciples' Divine authority by marvellous wonders; therefore we cannot believe and receive any law and constitution, formed by any of our brethren, as having any authority over this Eldership in the transaction of its business.

Resolved, For an intermission of half an hour. Prayer by father Tillotson.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Opened with prayer by brother Geo. Thomas.

On motion, the committee on Resolutions reported as follows:

Resolved, That this Eldership recommend the first day of January, 1850, to be observed as a day of fasting and prayer, by all the members within the bounds of this Eldership, for the prosperity of God's cause.

Their report was adopted.

On motion, the Stationing Committee retired to divide the circuits and station the preachers.

On motion, adjourned till after preaching this evening.

EVENING SESSION.

The Stationing Committee reported that they stationed the preachers as follows:

Ohio, Miami Circuit—T. HICKERNELL.

Indiana, Wabash County Circuit—GEORGE THOMAS.

Adams County Circuit—C. SANDS.

Missionaries—JOHN MARTIN, WILLIAM HOOD and J. BLICKENSTAFF.

Resolved, That a fund be established, for superannuated and worn-out preachers in this Eldership, and that travelling preachers exert their influence to raise subscriptions to support that fund.

Resolved, That it be recommended that monthly and quarterly meetings be estalished throughout the bounds of this Eldership, and that the Standing Committee appoint those meetings next spring.

Resolved, That the thanks and best wishes of this Eldership be tendered to the Church of God at Union and neighborhood, for their kindness and attention extended to them.

Resolved, That the Standing Committee meet on the last Monday of March, 1850, at brother Henry Comp's, Whitley county, Indiana, three miles north of Columbia.

Resolved, To adjourn to meet on the third Monday of October, 1850, in Jackson township, Decalb county, Indiana.

Closed with prayer by brother T. Hickernell.

JOHN MARTIN, Speaker.

THOS. HICKERNELL, Clerk.

Letter from Brothers A. J. & Wm. Franks.

DESMOYS Co., Iowa, Oct. 6, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

WE write a few lines to you, to inform you where to send our Advocates, and where the brethren may find us.

We have left Ohio and come to this great State, that is so cold. But we shall say nothing about it till we see more of the country. This town (Burlington) is a business place. We moved here by land. It took us 24 days But what goods we sent by water, cost us nearly $3 00 per hundred. By land, the cost was not more than one dollar and twelve and a half cents. We live seven miles north of Burlington. We are all in tolerable health at this time, thank God. We don't know that there are any of the brethren about here. If there are, we hope they will pay us a visit.—We want you to send our papers to Burlington, if you please, in place of sending them to Massillon, Ohio, where we got them before.

Yours truly, A. J. FRANKS,
WM. FRANKS.

Letter from Brother H. M. Aston.

HIATTSVILLE, Miami County, Ohio, November 4, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I BEG leave to drop a few lines for the Church Advocate.

It is now one year and four months that we are in this county, and two months more that we are in this State, and have not heard a sermon preached (during all this time) that I could say, it was nothing but the truth.

The brethren here say, it is about two years since brother Hickernell left here; and that they have had no sermon since, but of the worldly churches or of popular preachers.—While brother Hickernell preached, there were about 30 members; now we have about five.

Take this decrease or downfall into consideration, and reflect on it, ye ministering brethren, and see if we should be left to ourselves. We have, perhaps, not so much to give as some may have. We have prayer-meeting once a week, and enjoy ourselves in some degree, and would enjoy ourselves more but sinners are seemingly worse here than I ever seen them elsewhere. If there is not more done soon, than what has been done here, to promote the cause of God, sinners, I greatly fear, will go to perdition, and Christians grow cold, and ministers, perhaps, have to answer for, in part.

How can these sinners hear and believe without a preacher? We would be very glad if some brethren would come and preach for us; for we believe some good would be effected if some would preach here.

The preaching brethren travel all around us to preach, but do not stop in our county. Why is it thus?

I remain yours affectionately,

H. M. ASTON.

OBITUARY OF WILLIAM BARNHART.

DIED, near the Windy-Gap, Greene county, Pa., on Saturday, the 16th of September last, WILLIAM, son of Stephen and Parthenia Barnhart, aged 1 year, 3 months and 22 days.

This little boy of ours was, doubtless, taken from our embraces, as one of God's little jewels, who swell the number, and who walk the elysian fields of the paradise of God. Yet the loss to us was truly great. Yes, dear brethren, it was a hard thing to part with a tender offspring. However, we should not weep, but try and live in such a way that when we come to leave this troublesome world, we may be so unspeakably happy as to meet those who have gone before us in glory. This little boy of ours was buried alongside of its little brother JAMES, who died two years and better ago.

"Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."—Messiah.

Funeral services by Bishop J. Hickernell, followed by Elder B. Ober.

S. BARNHART.

OBITUARY OF Sister HANNAH ELBIN.

DIED, at the residence of Mr. Joseph Bennett, in Jackson township, Greene county, Pa., on Monday evening, the 1st of October, 1849, sister HANNAH ELBIN, aged about 70 years, or upwards.

Sister Elbin died very suddenly, with an issue of blood from the mouth. She embraced religion in the spring of 1846, and was baptized by Elder Wertz. Since which time she lived an humble follower of our blessed Jesus, until her death. Sister Elbin, even before her conversion, had some traits of character which were truly good. She was "plain up and down" in her dealings, and was always to a person's face what she was behind their back. For several years previous to her death, she was physically much debilitated, so that she could not work or go to meeting much; but notwithstanding she always appeared to put her trust in the strong arm of the Lord. She has left several children and grand-children, to lament her loss. May her death be a warning to them to make a preparation to meet death. May we all consider that the old must die, and that the young may die. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

Funeral services by Elder Hickernell and brother Ober.

S. BARNHART.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

☞ The following are the exports from Great Britain to the United States, for eight months, ending September 16th, 1849:

	1845.	1846	1848	1849.
Calicoes, plain, yards,	10,528,779	7,258 506	14,415,765	12 789 038
Calicoes, dyed, "	10,065 694	9,508 214	34,901,698	3 8383 891
Cambrics, "	737.356	374,236	1,143,829	1 460,004
Lace, &c., "	5,997.370	2,544,920	6,356,310	7 979,568
Linen & Cotton, "	132 414	129,538	832,980	2,998,176
Linens, "	17,589 290	16,428 813	19 381,457	21,933,798
Linen yarn, pounds.			25 860	42,804
Woollen yarn, "	341 518	72 314	108 333	84,717
Cotton yarn, "	61 653	26,899	85,590	71 392
Cotton Thread, "	317,412	406 454	1,062,525	1 644,791
Woollen goods, "	1,359,843	1.115,744	1,283,139	1,488,856

Railroads in the United States.—We have now in the United States about 8,500 miles Railroad completed, at a cost of $230,000,000 and, before the close of this year, at least 5,000 miles more will be in contemplation, and capital will be found rapidly centering towards them.

Another New Planet.—Another planet belonging to our system was discovered at Naples, by professor Gasparis, on the 12th of April. This is the ninth new body, including planets and satellites, which has been added to the solar system in the last four years.

Emigration to Califonia.—The St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette estimates the entire number of emigrants that have left for Californiaby the overland route at thirty-thousand. Of these seventeen thousand started from St. Joseph, Independence, Weston, and Westport.

The Memphis Convention.—The Pacific Railroad Convention at Memphis adjourned on the 26th ult., after refusing to concur in the resolution of the St. Louis Convention to meet in Philadelphia on the first Monday in April next. The resolutions adopted urge upon the Government the importance of undertaking, at the earliest possible day, the construction of the Railroad from the Mississippi to the Pacific, and deem it the duty of the Government, not only to construct it, but also branches north, east and south, so as to connect with the liues of Railroad now in progress of construction or in contemplation. The last resolution is the only one expressive of any opinion as to the route of the proposed Railroad, and this of course recommends such a route as would make Memphis a terminus of the great trnnk. The route recommended is as follows:

"* * * * * * commencing at San Diego, on the Pacific Ocean, crossing the Colorado on the West, running along the Gila river, or near it, in a direction to the Passo Del Norte, and thence across the State of Texas to its northeastern boundary between 32 and 23 degrees of North Latitude, terminating at some point on the Mississippi, between the mouth of the Ohio river and the mouth of Red river."

Cuba.—The island of Cuba covers an area of about 37,000 square miles, about the size of the State of Maine, and contains a population of 1,400,000, of whom 600,000 are slaves. Its imports in 1847, were $32,389,119, and its exports during the same period, $27,998,770; of which $12,394,876 were to the United States. The amount of American tonnage employed in the trade with Cuba, is 473,774 tons. It has 195 miles of Railroad in operation, and 61 in process of construction. Its principal harbors are the finest in the world. The climate is so genial that it yields two crops in a year of many of its productions. It also abounds in materials for manufacturieg purposes, and its mountains contain mines of copper, which are worked to considerable advantage.

California.—The Hon. W. H. Gwin, formerly of Mississippi, now of California, has written to his friends in New Orleans that the people of California will promptly organize a State government, and exclude slavery by an overwhelming majority.—Zion's Advocate.

☞ It is said that there is a Protestant population of 20,000 in the valley of the Rio Grande, Texas, without a minister. Brownsville, opposite Matamoras, which commenced its existence as a town in August, 1848, now contains a population of 2000 souls, and is rapidly increasing. A Sabbath-school has been established, which is doing well, but a minister is greatly needed.

Parties in Congress.

States.	Whig.	Dem.
Alabama,	2	5
Arkansas,	—	1
Connecticut,	1	—
Delaware,	1	3
Florida,	1	—
Georgia,	4	4
Illinois,	1	6
Indiana,	1	9
Iowa,	—	2
Kentucky,	6	4
Louisiana,	1	3
Maine,	2	5
Maryland,	3	3
Massachusetts,	8	—
Michigan,	1	2
Mississippi,	—	4
Missouri,	—	5
New Hampshire,	2	2
New Jersey,	4	1
New York,	32	2
North Carolina,	6	3
Ohio,	9	10
Pennsylvania,	15	9
Rhode Island,	2	—
South Carolina,	—	7
Tennessee,	4	7
Texas,	—	2
Vermont,	3	1
Virginia,	2	13
Wisconsin,	1	2
Total,	112	115

Magnetic Telegraph Case.—The long pending suit between Professor S. F. B. Morse and others, and Henry O'Riley and others, in which is involved the plaintiff's patent right to the exclusive use of the magnetic telegraph, was decided on Monday of last week, by the United States Circuit Court at Frankfort, Ky., Judge Monroe presiding, in favor of the plantiffs, the Court granting Prof. Morse an injunction, restraining the defendants from the further use of the plantiff's patent for fourteen years. An appeal was taken, and the case, we persume, will go to the Court for a final decision.

New York.—The Journal of Commerce estimates the present population of the city of New York at about 425,000, of whom 150,000 or 160,000 are foreigners. Full one half of the foreign population are aliens: about 18,000 are voters, out of a total of 73,000. According to the census of 1845, of the 128,495 foreigners, 96,584 were natives of Great Britain and Ireland, 24,416 of Germany, 3,710 of France, 508 of Mexico and South America, and the remaining 3,277 of other European countries.

St. Louis.—The burnt district in St. Louis will soon be entirely rebuilt in a very superior style. About 150 buildings have already been erected, many of them three and four stories and fire-proof. About 200 more are under contract and going up.

Drunkenness in Great Britian.—The commissioners on drunkenness in Great Britain, estimate the value of labor lost through intemperance annually at not far from $200,000,000.

U. S. Treasury Statement.—Aecording to an official statement from the Secretary of the Treasury, the receipts into the Treasury during the quarter ending the 30th September, 1849, as nearly as can now be ascertained, were, viz:

From customs, about	$11,450,000 00
From lands,	370,000 00
From miscellaneous sources,	175,000 00
From loan of 1847,	839,450 00
From loan of 1848,	507,050 00
	$13,241,500 00

The expenditures for the same period, were:

Civil list, miscellaneous and foreign intercourse,		$2,678,760 15
Army, &c.,		1,600,912 56
Indian Department,		752,405 24
Fortifications,		269 513 57
Pensions,		679,483 33
Navy,		2,052,435 16
Interest on Treasury notes and pulibc debi,	$26,910 02
Reimbursement of Treasury notes,	842,050 00
Redemption of 3 per cent. stock,	15 97
Interest on Mexican indemnity,	7,589 37
Redemption of Treasury notes which have been purloined,	121 22	876,676 58
		$8,910,186 59

No Competent Witness.—At the recent term of Court in Carlisle, a witness was about to give testimony, whose competence was objected to because he had said, he "did not believe in a future state of rewards and punishments—that when a man died he died like a dog,—that the Bible is a fable, and there is no punishment after death." His Honor Judge Watts, promptly rejected his evidence, and refused to premit him to testify, and he did right.

Great Brick Machine.—The Cincinnati Nonpareil says that a machine is in operation for making brick which feeds itself, and delivers the brick without hands, and presses them so hard that they are ready to be laid into the kiln when they come from the mould, and one machine will turn out 25,000 per day. The clay is better mixed, and makes better brick than those made in the usual way.

Bequests.—The late James B. Todd, of Lexington, (Ky.) made the following bequests: Board of Domestic Missions of the Presbyterian Church, $2,000; Board of Foreign Missions of the same, $1,000; Board of Publication of same, $1,000; Foreign Evangelical Society, $700; American Sunday School Union, $5[illegible]0; American Tract Society, $800. Total 8,000.

☞ Elihu Burritt, the Philanthropist, and Editor of the Christian Citizen, has returned from Europe, having been absent about three years, engaged in efforts for the promotion of love and good will among the nations. He was the originator, we believe, of the recent Peace Convention in Paris, and also of the one held in Brussels last year.

☞ The Pennsylvania Block for the Washington Monument, is now ready. It is 4 feet long, 2 feet wide and 15 inches thick. On its face it bears the following inscription:—"Pennsylvania, from the quarry of D. O. Hitner, Montgomery county." The word Pennsylvania, is engraved in large Gothic letters, near the centre.

New Mexico—Delegate Chosen.—A Santa Fe correspondent of the St. Louis Republican states that an election has been held in New Mexico, at which Hugh Smith was chosen Delegate to Congress. He adds that Mr. Smith is now on his way to take his seat in the House at the ensuing session.

Railroads in England.—The number of miles of Railroad in England sanctioned by Parliment, up to this time, is about 12,000, of which only 4,000 are completed. The capital invested in these completed lines is one thousand millions of dollars. The total receipts last year amounted to $50,000,000.

Bank Failure.—The Susquehanna county (Pa.) Bank has stopped payment. The public is also cautioned against the bills of the following Banks:—Salisbury Bank, Maryland; Exchange Bank, Washington, D C; State Bank at Morris, New Jersey; James' Bank, Jamesville, New York.

Education in London.—The Methodists in England have determined to erect a College in one of the most vicious and destitute portions of London, for the gratuitous education of the poor, in which cause the Weslyan Methodists have for some years past been extremely active.

Colleges in the United States.—There are in the United States 119 colleges. The aggregate number of volumes in the libraries of these colleges is 643,328. The library of Harvard University numbers 74,000 volumes.

Good News to Mechanics.—A liquid glue has been invented in England, having the advantage of being stronger than the ordinary glue, and always ready, and will unite wood, iron and plaster.

California Gold.—Three millions seven hundred and thirty thousand dollars of California Gold, has been received at the Philadelphia U. S. Mint.

☞ Tennessee has, at this time within her limits, forty-seven furnaces, and ninety-two bloomeries, forges and rolling mills In the manufacture of iron, she stands as the third State in the Union.

☞ The new Steamship Philadelphia, built originally for the Charleston trade, is to be sent on her first voyage to Chagres leaving there between the first and tenth December next.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MAGNETISM OF FAITH.

The following beautiful illustration of the power of faith to sustain the soul in the midst of affliction, occurs in the timely discourse of Rev. H. T. Cheever, in the June No. of the National Preacher:

I have observed at sea, and it is often noticed by mariners that in the begining of bad weather, before the storm was fairly set in and fixed in its course, the needle in the compass-box was considerbly affected; and there was unusual oscillation, probably through the changing or disturbance of the atmosphere's electric forces. But after the gale was fairly formed or at its height, the needle became true to its polarity. In like manner is it with a mind under trial that has been once thoroughly magnetized by the grace of God, so as to have the law of Divine polarity impressed upon it, making it to turn always to the pole-star of Bethlehem, the great magnet of the regenerated soul. Though ordinarily true to his pole, it is seldom or never, that the Christian can at once repress the flutter and agitation of nature, control or understand its deviations, collect his energies, and repose calmly on God. It is seldom that faith, taken by surprise, does at once steady the soul, and lift a man clear above hostile infirmities and fears. Althongh it be true that when once magnetised by the love of God, the soul does always point upward by strong attraction, as the compass-needle, to the north, yet, like that same needle, suddenly acted upon by a disturbing force, you must give it time to recover its balance, and, its oscillation done, to fasten upon the central point of rest.

We have known God's dear children sometimes when calamities came suddenly in prospect, when huge billows seemed ready to go over them, and a black cloud of sorrows was about to burst upon their heads, at first trembling and anxious, swinging a little with trepidation to this side and that of the central point of rest. But as the trial became more distinctly defined, the cloud's lightning began to flash, and its big drop to fall, the palpitating heart would be still, the vibrations of the will would cease, faith gather strength, and the eye of the soul be upturned and fastened on a faithful God, and its hand grasp firmly the promises which neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature can even loosen.

ANOTHER NEW STATE.

The St. Louis Republican gives us some surprising particulars of the sudden springing up of a new State, in the Valley of the great Salt Lake. Those strange enthusiasts, called Mormons, have, for the last two years, been gathering and settling in multitudes in this distant wilderness.—They have recently ventured to organize a State government, which they denominate, The State of Deseret, which we are told, means according to their ideas, The Honey Bee, as significant of industry.—The following history of this magical event, we extract from an exchange:

On the 5th of March last, the citizens of that part of Upper California, which lies east of the Sierra Nevada, held a Convention at the Great Salt Lake City to consider the propriety of organizing a Territorial or State Government. A Chairman, Secretary, Assistant Secretary and Marshall were duly chosen. Addresses were made, a Committee of ten was appointed to draft a Constitution, and the Convention adjourned. It met again on the 8th, when the new Constitution was reported for discussion. The first clause establishes "a free and independent government by the name of the State of Deseret," and defines the boundaries, which embrace an extensive and most beautiful region.—The powers of Government are then divided into legislative, executive and judicial. All free white male citizens can become members of the Legislature. The Senate is to consist of 17 members, and the House of 35. The Executive Department has its Governor, Lieut. Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor and Treasurer. A Supreme Court and inferior tribunals, with a Chief Justice and ten Associates, make up the Judiciary. The Constitution was adopted by the Convention on the 10th of March, two days after it was reported, an economy of lungs and time not to be disregarded by constitution-menders in the old States.

The first Monday of May was the first election day under the new Constitution. The first General Assembly met on the 2d of July. Millard Snow was made Speaker of the House. The President of the Senate is not mentioned. It was announced, after organization, that the people had elected Brigham Young, Governor, Heber C. Kimball, Lt. Governor, Wm. Richardson, Secretary of State, Wm. Clayton Auditor, and Jos. S. Haywood, Treasurer.

On the 3d, a resolution to ask of Congress a territorial or State government was passed: on the 5th Alvan W. Rabbitt was elected in joint Convention a Delegate and Representative to Congress, and on the 9th, the Legislature adjourned sine die, after a very long and arduous session of eight days—an excellent example for legislators in the old States. In its memorial to Congress, the Legislature asks that the Constitution be accepted, and the State of Deseret admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the other States, or such form of Government given us may be deemed expedient, and their Delegate recognized.

COST OF PUBLISHING RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPERS.

Very few persons have any thing like a correct idea of the expenses of a Weekly Newspaper, whose chief profit does not depend, like secular papers, from advertisements, but mainly, if not altogether from the subscription price of two or three dollars a year. There are but few religious papers which pay for their expenditure.—It requires a large list of paying subscribers to do so.

Just the other day, we saw a reference to this subject in the proceedings of the Presbyterian Synod of Philadelphia, which is in point. It was stated, that the "Presbyterian," an ably conducted and widely circulated paper, the subscription price of which is $3,00 a year, or $2,50 in advance, had for years yielded no profit; but on the contrary, that their publisher had "made great sacrifices in sustaining it," and large amounts of extra donations had been given to it by liberal friends to help it along and keep its press going. Now, when a paper of such large circulation, and with such liberal extra aid can scarcely be kept alive, how must it be with those papers, who are far less favorably circumstanced.

[Ger. Ref. Messenger.

THE FIRE AND THE WORM.

A converted Indian was asked how he knew that he had experienced a change of heart. He gave no answer. He was asked if he saw the power.

"No."

"Did you hear it?"

"No."

"Did you feel it?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, can you describe your feelings?"

He paused a moment, and then kneeling upon the sand, he made a small circle of chips and dry leaves. He then got a little worm, and placed it inside the ring and with a spark from his pipe lighted his pile. The poor worm, when it began to feel the heat, crept first to one point, then to another, and at last, after many ineffectual attempts to get out, finding that the flame completely surrounded it, crawled to the centre as if in despair, and coiled himself up, awaiting the result. When it began to feel the heat too sensibly, the Indian took it in his fingers and placed it without the ring in safety.

"Now," said he, "I will explain my meaning. I was like that poor worm; the fires of hell were burning around me—they began to scorch me—I ran every way—I drank fire-water—I tried hunting—every thing; but could not get out. At last I threw myself down and tried to pray, and then God stretched forth his hand, and lifting me forth, gave me rest. "Now," said he, "I cannot explain it any better. I cannot tell how it was done, but I felt a change, and I know it was so."—Christian Index.

FREE & SLAVE TERRITORY IN THE U. STATES.

Free territory when the Constitution was adopted, square miles	430,714
Free territory since acquired and declared free, - - - - - - - - -	390,000
Total free territory, - - -	820,714
Slave territory at the time of the adoption of the Constitution, - - - -	406,476
Slave territory since acquired and declared slave, - - - - - - -	531,220
Total slave territory, - - -	937,696
Territory in regard to which the question of slavery is unsettled, - -	1,183,780
Territory in regard to which action has already been taken on slavery question, - - - - - - - - -	1,757,696
The question may be re-opened upon admitting new States from Oregon and part of Texas, which will include, say - - - - - - - - -	590,000
Thus the territory which the principles of the Wilmot proviso would effect equals, - - - - - - -	1,773,780
And that which cannot be effected will be - - - - - - - - -	1,167,696
Total territory of the U.S.,	2,941,476

A DISGRACE TO DIE RICH.

A fine idea was advanced the other day by Mr. Jay, of Bath, [England.] He was speaking to professed christians, and reminded them that they were stewards, and said it was always a suspicious thing to see stewards grow very wealthy. He said it was a disgrace for christians to die very rich, and he wished ministers when they preached funeral sermons for men who died so ingloriously, would say how much money they left that the world might see with how much sincerity they had been singing for years:

"All that I am and all I have,
Shall be forever thine;
Whate'er my duty bids me give,
My cheerful hands resign."—VISITOR.

GROWTH OF OUR CITIES.

The growth of American cities is unparalleled in the history of the world. Already half a million are embraced within the limits and suburbs of New York; and nearly four hundred thousand in those of Philadelphia. New Orleans contains about one hundred and fifty—Boston one hundred and thirty—and Baltimore, one hundred and five thousand inhabitants. The second child born in Cincinnati, it is said, is still living, and has a population of more than one hundred thousand. The population of St. Louis was one thousand six hundred in 1810, sixteen thousand in 1840; forty thousand in 1845; and is now, probably, not less than sixty thousand.—Buffalo contained two thousand four hundred and twelve in 1825; in 1846 twenty-nine thousand seven hundred and seventy-three; and now contains about forty-five thousand. In 1828 the population of Lowell was three thousand five hundred and thirty-two; it is now more than thirty thousand. Chicago, a place scarcely known on the latest maps, has already reached a population of eighteen thousand; and Milwaukie—of still more recent origin—is rivalling it in its growth and population.

THE TWO SCHEMES OF SALVATION.

Men differ much about salvation. Yet all their plans may be reduced to two.—One is by man himself. The other is by God. One is by human works and sufferings. The other is by Divine doings and sufferings. One puts down the law. The other puts down the law-breaker.—One exalts human merit. The other abuses it. The one lowers the standard to its own attainments. The other leaves the standard unimpaired, and seeks to be served without trampling on law. One quarrels with God and justifies self. The other never ceases to fight against self, and justifies God. The very best offering that the one ever makes is that of Cain. The very least that the other allows is that of Abel. Not light and darkness, nor heaven and hell, are more opposed than these two schemes. One sets aside the other, not in part, but wholly. Salvation is either by works alone, or by grace alone. If any man risks his soul on a contrary belief, he will be lost, yea, he is now lost; and, unless Christ find him, he will soon be irrecoverably lost.—N. Y. Obs.

A NEW FACT DISCLOSED.

We were not aware until recently, that the books of newspaper publishers are consulted to quite a large extent, by people in business, to ascertain the pecuniary standing of persons. Debts for newspapers come due once a year, and persons who pay up regularly for their papers are regarded as prompt men and worthy of confidence. To ascertain whether a man is good, they find out what paper he takes, and contrive, in some way, to peep into the account. Men who are good, are sure to pay for their newspapers; but if they do not pay for these, they think them not good. We were forcibly struck with the idea. A pretty shrewd observer of human nature said in a newspaper office very lately, "Give me a printer,s book after all, to tell whether a man's good—they're a complete thermometer, sir; a credit thermometer; we always know a man to be bad if he don't pay the printer."

[Chr. Intel.

POETRY.

FAITH, HOPE AND CHARITY.

BY J, E. L. BROWN.

FAITH.

THE glass, whose penetrating power
The future life unveils;
The means, by which the contrite heart
With Nature's God prevails.

HOPE.

The beaming star that points the soul
To brighter scenes above;—
That holds to view the brilliant goal,
Where dwells eternal Love.

CHARITY.

Most precious gem!—nor Faith, nor Hope,
In wealth compare with thine;
"The greatest" of the three—O may
Thy virtues e'er be mine.

THE THREE.

Without them life were but a scene
Of burden'd souls—e'er driven;
A wilderness, without a gleam
Of Hope for rest in Heaven.

A HYMN.

1. My friends and my neighbors who live in this place,
Come listen a while and I'll tell you your case;
You have slighted the gospel and refused God's word,
And mocked at the people who are sent by the Lord.

2 A many a good sermon you have heard in this place,
To warn you of sinning and teach you God's ways;
But now may the preacher complain to the Lord,
And mourn that the people rejected his word.

3. My friends you are left in a dangerous state,
You rail at God's people, and mock at His grace;
You make yourselves merry, but friends you don't know
God's vengeance pursues you wherever you go.

4. My brothers and sisters, I bid you farewell,
The love I have for you no mortal can tell;
But I wish, above all things, you all may prepare,
To meet Christ in glory, and reign with Him there.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Protracted Meeting at Hinkletown.

A Protracted meeting will be held, the Lord willing, at Hinkletown, Lancaster county, Pa. commencing on Saturday, the 29th inst.

Protracted Meetings.

A Protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, at Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, Pa., commencing on Saturday the 15th inst.

Another will be held, God willing, at Shiremanstown, commencing on the 21st inst.

Protracted Meeting.

A Protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, at Bainbridge, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on the 15th inst.

Preachers and people generally are invited to attend. AMOS HICKS,

In behalf of the Church.

Religious Notices.

A Protracted meeting will be held in Uniontown, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 20th of December.

Another in Berlin, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 10th of January, 1850.

The brethren and friends generally are invited to attend; and I hope that at least some of the ministers from the West will attend.

HENRY MUMMERT.

Notice to the Ohio Brethren.

THE brethren throughout the bounds of the Ohio Eldership, who are in arrears on the missionary subscription, for the past year, are hereby requested to pay up between now and the meeting of the Standing Committee in February, in Wooster. Those holding subscriptions, will please exert themselves to have it collected. A. MEGREW,

On behalf of the Board.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 7th of September last, by Elder Benj. Ober, Mr. Samuel Yocham to Miss Margaretta Juda, both of Cambria county, Pa.

On the 11th of October last, at Grandview, Louisa county, Iowa, by Elder McMay, Mr. Michael Heck to Miss Catharine Wagoner, daughter of brother Henry Wagoner, formerly of Dauphin county, Pa.

On the 8th ult., by the Rev. F. Hodgson, Mr. John S. Rupert to Miss Rebecca Wenrich, both of Harrisburg.

On the 18th ult., by the same, Mr. Malcolm B. Montgomery to Miss Sarah Elizabeth Brenizer, both of Harrisburg.

On the 26th of October last, by Elder Henry Murray, Mr. George Quigley, of Summit county, to Miss Sophia Peters, of Stark county, Ohio.

On the 15th ult., at Washington city, D. C., by the Rev. John C. Smith, Mr. Joseph Lescure, of Harrisburg, to Miss Mary Josephine Kirby, of the former place.

On the 22d ult., by Elder David Maxwell, Mr. Levi Anderson to Miss Ann Maria Gates, both of Allen township, Cumberland county, Pa.

On the 8th ult., by the Rev. Geo. Morris, of Silver Spring, John Furgeson, Esq., of Mount Jackson, Lawrence county, Penn'a., to Anne, daughter of the late Robert Elder of Dauphin county.

On the 11th ult., by the Rev. H. G. Stecher, Mr. Lewis Steinhauer to Miss Priscilla Earnest, both of Hummelstown, Dauphin county, Pa.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On the 25th of October, 1849, in Randolph, Portage county, Ohio, John Markley, son of Abraham and Rebecca Markley, aged 29 years, 5 months and 12 days.

On the 22d ult., in Bainbridge, Lancaster county, Pa., Ross McNeal, son of John and Hannah McNeal, aged 8 years, 3 months and 7 days.

Funeral services by Elder Jacob Keller.

In this borough, on the 24th ult., Paul Barnhart, in the 75th year of his age.

On the 7th ult., at Columbia, Lancaster county, Pa., Mary Ellen, only daughter of Dr. James J. and Eliza R. Given, aged 15 months.

Near this borough, on the 23d of October, 1849, Jacob L. Wonnamacher, aged 2 years and 1 month.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, - -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00
David Strickler, - - -	5 00
James Casy, - - -	5 00
Samuel M. Hoover, - -	5 00

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 50	a 4	62½
Do. Rye, do. - -	2 50	a 2	56
Do. Corn, do. - -	2 50	a 2	56
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	93	a	95
Do. Rye, do. - -	55	a	56
Do. Corn, do. - -	55	a	56
Do. Oats, do. - -	30	a	33
Do. Barley, do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 75	a 4	00
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 25	a 2	50
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -	5 00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - -	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -	10	a	11
BUTTER, do. - - - - -	12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -	7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -	87½	a 1	00
ONIONS, do. - - -	75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -	37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -	1 15	a 1	16
HAY, per ton, - - - - -	10 00	*a*11	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -	4 00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$5 00	a 5	12½
Do. Rye, do. -	3 00	a 3	06
Do. Corn, do. - -	3 00	a 3	06
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	1 02	a 1	05
Do. Rye, do. - -	62½	a	62½
Do. Corn, new do. - -	65	a	65
Do. Oats, do. - -	31	a	31
Do. Barley, do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	4 37	a 4	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 75	a 3	00
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 35	a 1	40
BEEF, per cwt., - - -	7 00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - -	7 00	a 7	25

Evangelical Music.

THE proprietor offers for sale, at reduced prices, the Evangelical Music-book, containing a great variety of popular Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Set pieces and Anthems.

This popular Music-book has been before the public for a number of years, and has received a very flattering reception among various Religious Denominations and Musical Associations.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the Minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia.—"The committee state that they have examined, as carefully as practicable, the 'Evangelical Music,' and cheerfully recommend it to the congregations under their care, as a good system of Church Music."

From the Minutes of the Bellefonte Musical Association.—"Resolved, That we consider 'Evangelical Music' the best work of the kind known to us; and cheerfully recommend it to all lovers of Sacred Music."

☞ For sale at this office, and at our Depositories. Editor.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

McAllister's All-Healing Ointment,
OR THE
WORLD'S SALVE.
Contains NO MERCURY or other MINERAL.

From the Reading Eagle.

"There was never, perhaps, a medicine brought before the public, that has in so short a time won such a reputation as "McAllister's All Healing or World's Salve."—Almost every person that has made trial of it, speaks warmly in its praise. One has been cured by it, of the most painful Rheumatism; another of the Piles, a third of a troublesome pain in the side, a fourth of a swelling in the limbs, &c. If it does not give immediate relief in every case, it can never do injury, being applied outwardly. As another evidence of the wonderful healing power possessed by this salve, we subjoin the following certificate, from a respectable citizen of Maidencreek township, in this county.

Maidencreek, Berks Co., March 30, '47.

Messrs. Ritter & Co.—I desire to inform you that I was entirely cured of a severe pain in the back, by the use of M'Allister's All-Healing Salve, which I purchased from you. I suffered with it about 20 years, and at night was unable to sleep. During that time I tried various remedies, which were prescribed for me by physicians and other persons, without receiving any relief, and at last made trial of this Salve with a result favorable beyond expectation. I am now entirely free from the pain, and enjoy at night a sweet and peaceful sleep. I have also used the salve since, for toothache and other complaints, with similar happy results. Your friend,

John Hollenbach."

I certify that I have used "M'Allister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, or the World's Salve," for a healing in my wife's breast, which has done her incalculable benefit. Also, on one of my children for Sore Eyes, which gave immediate relief. I therefore recommend it as a good medicine, to all desirous of trying it. Parker Reed.

Morris tp., Wash. Co., Aug. 21, 1847.

I certify that I have used McAllister's All-Healing Vegetable Ointment, for coldness of my feet—also for Rheumatism in my limbs, and Corns on my feet, and have been entirely relieved. Believing it to be a good medicine, I do not hesitate to recommend it in the above complaints. Leonard Vaile.

☞ Around the box are directions for using McAllister's Ointment for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Erysipelas, Tetter, Chilblain, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Nervous Affections, Pains, Disease of the Spine, Head Ache, Asthma, Deafness, Ear Ache, Burns, Corns, all Diseases of the Skin, Sore Lips, Pimples, &c., Swelling of the limbs, Sores, Rheumatism, Piles, Cold Feet, Croup, Swelled or Broken Breast, Tooth Ache, Ague in the Face, &c., &c. ☜

☞ This Ointment is good for any part of the body or limbs when inflamed. In some cases it should be applied often.

CAUTION—No OINTMENT will be genuine unless the name of James M'Allister, is written with a pen on every label.

☞ PRICE, 25 CENTS PER BOX. ☜

JAMES M'ALLISTER,
Sole Proprietor of the above Medicine.

Principal Office No. 28 North THIRD street, Philadelphia.

Agents: Geo. H. Bell, Harrisburg; M. Lutz, do; Jacob Bener, Middletown; George Ross, Elizabethtown; M. M'Barren, Portsmouth; J. & L. Reigel, Mechanicsburg; G. W. Singiser, Churchtown; Smith & Henry, Lebanon; C. Roth, Bloomfield; Jacob Keiser, Petersburg; J. M. Beatty, Pottsville; Samuel P. Sterret, Mount Joy; Henry Thatcher, Newport; Wm. Jackson, New Buffalo; Brown & Ritter, Pittsburg; John Lloyd, Mount Pleasant; Jacob Welty, Greensburg; Edward Scull, Shippensburg; John Diller, Newville; and sold by our Agents in every town in the State.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.
Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and embossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, and DANIEL GETTY, No. 110 South Third street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

SARAH SADLER, Allegheny City, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., DECEMBER 15, 1849. NUMBER 16.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Notice.

Elder A. D. Williams' Post Office address is Shannock Mills, Rhode Island.

Error Rectified.

In publishing the Journal of the Indiana Eldership, in our last, two errors occurred: one in the date, 1850 instead of 1849; and the other in reference to the election of Speaker. The first was ours—the last was the Clerk's.

Mill's Sentence.

The notorious Mills, who was tried and convicted in our Court for seducing three sisters, was sentenced on the 6th inst. to five years' imprisonment in the Dauphin County Penitentiary, to pay a fine of $200, to give bail for the maintenance of two children, and to pay costs. Severe as this sentence may appear, it is after all but a poor amend for enormous and irreparable wrongs.

A Question Answered.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Is it right for an Eldership to withhold a brother's license to preach the gospel, because he is a member of the Sons of Temperance? Please answer and oblige.

Yours, &c., E. J.

Answer.—The Church of God has no such custom; because where there is no law, there is no transgression; and because charity (in all matters of opinion and questions of expediency) suffereth long and is kind.

Our Books.

Brothers Wertz, Klein, and others, of the West Pennsylvania Eldership, are again informed that there are Hymn-books, and other books, on sale, at our Depository in Allegheny city, where they can be supplied at regular wholesale prices. See our advertisment on last page of this paper.

A Word to the Preachers.

Have you read the circular, contained in the 13th number, at each of your appointments, and set the officers of the churches to work in soliciting new subscribers for the Advocate? If you have not yet done so, we hope you will not neglect it any longer, but go to work immediately and do it. We want a simultaneous and vigorous effort to be made throughout the entire bounds of the Church. The evenings now are long, and the people have ample time for reading: if, therefore, proper efforts are put forth, we doubt not but what the circulation of the Church Advocate can be greatly increased.

We strongly urge this matter, and we are now more solicitous for the accomplishment of this object than we have ever been, because with an increase of the subscription list, and with the same ratio that we now increase it, we shall create a revenue for the benefit of the Church. Hence we can all, alike, urge this matter, not from selfish but from benevolent motives. Let this better consideration, then, prompt us to concert of action, and the original, benevolent and laudable ends for which the paper was established, will yet be accomplished.

Journal of the West Pa. Eldership.

The Journal of this body, for this year, has not yet come to hand. What can be the cause of the delay?

P. S.—Since the above was put in type, we have received the Journal, but no cause given for its delay.

We have glanced over it, and find some things that augur for good, whilst other things seem rather strange and mysterious.

The things most unaccountable to us are, the giving up of the Pittsburg station, the locating of some of their leading men, and the appointment of one of our preachers, E. Logue, to the Bethany circuit. Surely if they can spare such men as John Hickernell and J. A. Dobson, there can be no necessity for taking away other men from other Elderships, without a regular transfer. However, there may be some good reasons for all these things, which we are not aware of, hence we shall not judge before the time. We hope soon to hear from them, and to understand things right.

Church Fast Day.

Friday, the 21st inst., it will be remembered, was appointed by the late Eldership as a day of fasting and prayer.

"The Protective Union."

This is the title of a handsome weekly sheet just commenced in Boston by the Printers' Union of that city, at $2,00 per annum. Its title indicates its object—the protection of the working classes against capitalists and combinations of capitalists to reduce the price of labor. Success to it.

A Travelling Partner Wanted.

Brother Weishampel, the Inventor and Patentee of the new and important improvement in Coal Stoves, viz: the Revolving Horizontal Coal Grate, advertised in another column, wishes to get one of the brethren to travel with him part of this winter, through a number of the Northern and Eastern Counties of Pennsylvania, to assist in selling County Rights for the same. He wishes to have an able bodied man, of business tact, who has a good horse and covered wagon on springs, or carriage, capable of carrying about 300 pounds besides themselves; the person to have the entire charge and care of the conveyance, finding himself and horse, and rendering the advertiser such assistance as he may require. For such accommodation and services, the brother is to have a certain stipulated portion of the proceeds of the sales. Those who would like to engage in such an expedition immediately after New Year, starting from Harrisburg, will please address, forthwith, (post-paid,)

J. F. WEISHAMPEL,
Baltimore, Md.

Congress.

The first session of the 31st Congress commenced on Monday, the 3rd inst. The members of both Houses, and of all parties, were very fully and generally present.

The Senate was organized on Monday at 12 o'clock; but the House, up to Tuesday, the 11th inst., after the 39th ballot, had not yet been organized.

This session gives promise of the most eventful and exciting of any during the history of our country. The question of slavery will come up in a new and strong light, and be met by a warm and decided spirit, both North and South. Mr Calhoun and others, have always contended that the States proposing admission into the Union, were to frame their own Constitutions, on this subject, and it was only for Congress to sanction such an act.—California has met in Convention, and voted to exclude slavery from its territory forever, and with this feature of their Constitution, is about to ask admission into the Union. Mr. Calhoun has recently changed his ground, with others from the South, and now says that California has no right to decide this slavery question, with reference to their own soil, and earnestly calls on Congress to resist this State act of California. It is sometimes said that circumstances alter cases. It is so in this instance. We hope and trust that slavery will stop where it is, according to the spirit of the Constitution, and the spirit of freedom. Such men as are there, ought to set this matter right.

Cholera in Bangkok, China.

Mr. J. H. Chandler, in a letter to Dr. J. Dawson, of Philadelphia, gives the following account of the Cholera in the city of Bangkok, in China:

"We were visited in June last by that awful scourge, the cholera. It began at Penang, crossed over to the Malay peninsula, and gradually came on to this city. During the first twelve days of its raging in this city over twenty thousand deaths were reported to the king. Men were stationed at the temples where the dead were carried, and record made of all that were brought to be burned or buried. The dead became so numerous at one time that it was impossible to burn or bury them, and they were piled up in heaps and left to decay, creating an awful stench. Multitudes were thrown into the river, and we could not go in the boat without seeing dead bodies floating down the river. Such consternation and fear I never witnessed before. All kinds of business was stopped, provisions rose to a great price, and all that was or could be done for some days was to look after the sick and dead. After the twelfth day it began to abate, and has now nearly subsided. I think we may safely say, twenty-five thousand died of the cholera at Bangkok. The cholera passed up the country, and has raged in some places worse than among us. O, that this people were wise, and would learn to fear God while his judgments are upon them."

Church Patronage and Levies.

The Church has a great and important work to do. She has both domestic and foreign duties and operations to perform.

Her home duties include the maintenance of the worship of God, the support of the ministry, the instruction of children and youths, and the fostering of the poor.

Her foreign duties involve all that is included in the conversion of the world. Such is the sending out of missionaries, the distribution of the Bible, the printing and disseminating of Papers, Tracts, Pamphlets and Books.

To perform these and other duties, and to accomplish these ends and objects, means must be employed. Hence, Church patronage becomes an obvious duty. But how is this duty to be performed? In other words, how and in what manner are Church contributions to be made? This question will lead to the consideration of another, viz: What is the best system or mode of administering the temporal economy of the Church?

This is a grave question. It deserves a calm and serious investigation. We hesitate not to assert that the temporal economy of the Church is not now managed and carried out as it ought to be, and as it was in primitive times. In this particular, we think, the Church has greatly retrograded from her original landmarks, and stands very much in need of reformation and improvement.

The present modes of raising Church funds are,—

1. By voluntary subscriptions and collections.

2. By pew-rents; and,

3. Society contributions.

Now, the first and last of these systems are those in vogue among us. Both of them are alike defective, because they operate unequal, and because they are troublesome and inadequate in their results.

The pew-rent system is also objectionable, because it gives the rich an advantage over the poor, and has a tendency to preclude the poor from the benefits of public worship.

If, then, these methods are all defective and objectionable, what better way can, and ought to be adopted, for raising Church revenues?

We answer, the more ancient, rational and Scriptural way is, by levies in the Church, and by subscriptions and collections out of the Church.

Church revenues, from the membership, ought to be raised by church levies. Every Church ought to have a treasury. Into that treasury every member ought to pay something. And in order to make the system work right—according to reason, justice and Scripture—it ought to be by equality. That is, every one ought to give to the Lord's treasury, according as the Lord has prospered him; or, according to that he hath, and not according to that he hath not. Then no one could complain, because there would be no easing of one, and burdening of another, but each would be bearing his just and proper share in this great and good matter.

In order to accomplish this end, and carry out the principle of equality, church levies must be laid, and every member required to pay in proportion to his worth, or yearly income.

This system is adopted and pursued by all our State governments. The people acquiesce in it, because it is right, just, fair and equal. If, then, this policy is an acknowledged wise and good principle, in the raising of revenues, for the support of civil governments, why is it not equally so in carrying out the temporal economy of the Church?

The adoption of this policy will have many advantages.

1. It would preclude the necessity of so many special and separate organizations; which, at best, are often partial, short-lived and inefficient.

2. It would enable every one to know beforehand the measure of his duty, in supporting the temporalities of the Church, and he could prepare for it accordingly.

3. It would induce every one to give more cheerfully and freely, from the fact that all would be paying alike their due proportion.

4. It would put an end to the fluctuating, ever-varying and uncertain revenue of the Church. Every Church would then know her own strength and the measure of her ability, and the Eldership always know how to regulate the appointments.

5. It would yield a more ample and regular, as well as a more just and equal revenue, for all the legitimate and necessary purpose of the Church.

But is this system practicable? Can it be adopted and carried out? Will it not lead to contentions, disputes and divisions in the churches? Yea, would it not result in driving off many from the Church, and so do great detriment and harm to the cause? These, and similar questions, are sometimes asked by some of our timorous anti-reformers.

We admit, that people addicted to old forms and customs, (however lame and defective,) are not easily reformed; especially when such reform strikes at their selfishness and self-interests. And, admitting that it would cause some disturbances and drive some covetous and money-loving professors off from the Church, yet if the reform would result to the benefit and good of the cause, ought it not to be done?

Reformations for good have always met with opposition. If, when we do evil, that good may follow, we are doubtless to blame; but not so when we do well. If reformers were justly held accountable for the evil deeds of opposers, then Christ and the Apostles would not be guiltless, Then also Martin Luther, John Calvin, and many others, would be deeply involved in guilt. But who believes such an absurdity?

The question then recurs, how can this improved policy, for raising revenues by Church levies, be brought into vogue? We answer, in the easy and simple way recommended on page 113 of the 13th volume of the Advocate.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

A Short Sermon on Sanctification.

BY DR. JACOB MYERS, V. D. M.

Sanctification is that work of the grace of God, wrought in the heart of man, by which he is renovated after the image of God. Sanctification means setting apart for God's service, to enable him to die unto sin and live unto righteousness. Properly considered, it exhibits itself to us in a two-fold sense or light.

1. It is an inestimable privilege granted us from God, as Paul says, 1 Thess. 5: 23; "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." And,

2. It is an all comprehensive duty required of us by God's holy word, as said in 1 Thess. 4: 3; "For this is the will of God, even your sanctification."

The difference between sanctification and justification is this:—Justification changes our state in law before God as a judge.—Sanctification changes our heart and life before Him as our Father. Justification precedes and sanctification follows. The latter is the fruit or evidence of the former. The profession of our conversion, regeneration or justification by faith, is altogether vain and idle unless we evince a disposition, subsequently, of "perfecting holiness in the fear of God."

The term holiness or sanctification is very easily understood, and it is quite comprehensive. It simply means to be what God has commanded us—keeping his commandments and finding it meat and drink to our souls. Justification is an instantaneous work.—Sanctification a gradual one. Justification removes the guilt of sin.—Sanctification the power of it. Yet, notwithstanding all this difference, justification and sanctification are inseparably connected in regard of God's promises,—Rom. 8: 28-30,—in the doctrines and promises of the gospel,—Acts 5: 31,—and in the experience of all true believers,—1 Cor. 6: 11.

Sanctification, in the first place, is the work of God. It is not commenced, carried onwards, and perfected by the power of man: at all events, so I understand Paul to say in Titus 3: 5; "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his own mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost."

2. It is a progressive work;—not brought to perfection at once, as some well-meaning folks have taught and believed. Scripture is clear on this part of the work of sanctification.—Solomon says, Prov. 4: 18; "The path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

3. It is an internal work. It does not consist in bare moral reform, or in an outward profession of religion: "Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts; and in the hidden part thou shalt make me to know wisdom." Psalm 51: 5.

4. It is a necessary work. It is necessary in respect to the evidence of our state, the honor of our characters, the usefulness of our lives, the happiness of our minds, and the internal enjoyment of God's presence in a future world. See John 3: 3. Heb. 12: 14.

Sanctification is known, among other fruits and evidences, by the following:—

1. By patient submission; as it is said in the language of the Psalmist; "I was dumb, I opened not my mouth; because thou didst it." Psalm 39: 9. "It is," according to a celebrated writer and divine, "nothing less than for a man to be brought to an entire resignation of his will to the will of God, and to live in the offering up of his soul continually in the flames of love, and as a whole burnt-offering to Christ."

2. It also evidences itself in an increasing hatred to sin. Sin is the transgression of God's holy law; consequently the Christian's growth in grace can in no way be more clearly manifested than by hating and forsaking every sin—all things contrary to the Divine will. "Order my steps in thy word; and let not any iniquity have dominion over me." Psalm 119: 133.

3. Another evidence is communion with God. Here we have, among many texts of Scripture, the following: "Yea, in the way of thy judgments, O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee." Isaiah 26: 8.

4. It likewise evinces itself by delight in His word and ordinances. To love God, is to love his word, his ordinances, his people, his ways, his cause, &c.; and that not only part, but all. "One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in his temple." Psalm 27: 4.

5. Humility is another prominent trait in the character of the saint. "God will give grace to the humble," &c.: "Yea, he hateth a proud look."

6. Prayer. Psalm 109: 4.

7. Holy confidence.

8. Praise. And,

9. Uniform obedience. All these are among the genuine fruits of holiness; without which no man shall see the Lord in glory.

God is holy, his law is holy, heaven is holy, and the Lord cannot look upon sin with the least degree of allowance. Therefore, my brethren, in view of these things, let us all follow after holiness; which may God grant, for his name's sake.

Ashland, Ohio, Nov. 7, 1849.

Iowa Once More.

North Bend, Iowa, Nov. 6, 1849.

Having written several letters for the Advocate, and touched upon various subjects, I shall once more attempt to give what information I can, from the impulse of the moment.

And first, I would say, that the number of emigrants to this country is far beyond the imagination of the Eastern folks. Every little cabin possibly fit to stay in, is crammed full, in city, town and country, far and near.

I noticed in a city paper last week, that at Peoria Ferry, Illinois, there were from 75 to 114 wagons crossed in one day, all from Indiana, bound for Iowa.

Four families of the brotherhood arrived here in the Bend country on yesterday, viz: Elder Jacob Lininger, David Hoover, brothers Gotschall and Drowbaugh. They all seem glad that they are here. How they will finally be pleased, time will show.

But, once for all, let me say to all who intend emigrating, lay yourselves out for inconveniences and hardships, viz: such as small cabin houses, worse than Pennsylvania tenant houses, and scarce at that. You must know that the country, however good, is quite new, and the people generally of the poorer class. Lumber is scarce. The number of emigrants is too great for the number of Saw-mills. At this time we have to go from 22 to 36 miles to the best Grist-mill. But preparations are making to build one within seven miles of me, where one was burnt down. There are scarcely any barns or stables to be seen through the country, The way we do here is this: Forks are dug in, then laid over with straw, for sheltering cattle in winter, &c.

Merchandise is generally much higher than East. Chiefly dry-goods, however. Metal-wares, such as stoves, &c., are as cheap here as in Pennsylvania, if bought along the Mississippi. These are the worst things I can think of at this time.

However, there is one inconvenience of my own, and that is, people want information in Ohio, Virginia, Pennsylvania, &c. Well, I am very willing to give it, for I have written as high as five letters in one evening; but then, bear in mind, every letter I send to the Church Advocate, costs me ten cents; and I am a kind of centre-post here: letters come in from different directions; and I never miss one week without some. At one time I paid 95 cents postage, at another 80, and so on. Now friends, this will not do: the tax is a little too heavy. If I were at the gold diggings in California, gathering gold-dust right smart, it would not make so much difference. But I am only in Iowa, not California. So then, if any want particular information, through me, I would make this proposition: you write to me and pay the postage, and I will buy the paper and will answer you, and give you all the information I can, cheerfully. Preachers, however, are excepted.

To brother John S. Kerr, of Virginia, I would here say, your letter came to hand a few days before our removal, and in moving, some how or other it was lost. Write again, brother Kerr, and you shall have immediate attention.

To that ambuscaded fellow of the "Free Soil" of Ohio, I would say, I have read your letter in the Church Advocate, some time ago; and after looking in behind your ambush, "Rusticus," I have come to the conclusion that you must either be a coward, or else have but little confidence in yourself and in what you wrote, or else you would have given your proper name. Come to the light, like a man of good conscience, and I will talk to you. You know (it appears) that I am opposed to the "works of darkness." As to voting, you are quite mistaken. I don't vote at all—nor have not but once in eight years. So then, my "erring brother," inform yourself better next time, before you cry "Eureka, Eureka."

I must close for the present, by saying, let all who name the name of Christ, depart from iniquity. Amen.

Fraternally yours,

M. F. SNAVELY.

P. S.—We would be glad if Elder Harn would come to Iowa. M. F. S.

"I am the Way."

Were it not that the Bible holds out so many inducements to the Christian, and the spirit of God lights up his pathway with the radiance of Heaven, his journey amid the sorrows of earth would indeed be a mournful one. Surrounded, as he is, by a host of the most inveterate enemies, and despised by all around him, he would sink in the unequal contest, did he not hear amid the universal gloom and distress by which he is surrounded, a still small voice, saying, "I am the way, the truth and the life." This bears him up, invigorates his energies, and strengthens his confidence. And no matter though the waves of adversity rise like mighty mountains in his pathway, though stripped of all worldly possessions, plunged in the depths of poverty, denied the friendship of the world, ridiculed, rejected and trampled by friends and relatives, yet amid all these difficulties, while the tempest is still raging in its fury, Jesus appears, calms the wild, tumultuous waves, and says to the mourning pilgrim, "I am the way" through difficulties, trials and sore temptations. Struggle on, then, pious soul, though persecuted by all the world, and driven from house to house, and from city to city.

Amid persecution, too, as well as in adversity, even in the smoke and fires of the stake, shall you see the Captain of your salvation standing before you with the crown of immortality in his hands, and with the same calm and tranquil voice addressing this emphatic language to your hearts, "I am the way" from earth to glory. And in death, when the soul is about to emerge into a new state of existence,—when pain and disease disturb and agitate the body,—when the spirit struggles to be free, yet dreads to leave its tenement of clay,—even then, amid the gloom and horror of a dying hour, shall this simple language be addressed to the soul of the dying Christian. It shall calm his fears, disarm death of its terrors and gild the horrors of the grave. Then shall the Christian feel and know that Christ is indeed the way through distress, difficulty and persecution, to heaven, happiness and immortality. Oh this way! this glorious way! that gives to rebel man a home in heaven, and leads the weary exile to a land of rest. Christ is emphatically the way, the true and living way. In him concentre all the great truths of the Christian system. Thrust a bleeding, suffering Saviour from the Bible, and you make it a dull, unmeaning letter, breathing no hope, no happiness to fallen man. For Christ is the only medium of access, through which man may approach his injured God. He is the connecting link between heaven and earth. He stands between the Christian and his God, with one hand extended towards him and the other placed upon the burning throne of Jehovah. He is continually drawing them nearer together, until at last the Christian is transplanted right in the midst of the glories of Heaven. Through Christ as the "way," he shall escape the pollutions of earth, triumph over all his enemies, and forever behold the glory of his God and Father.

J. H. C.

Uniontown, Nov. 12, 1849.

Christian Humility.

Canal Dover, Ohio, Nov. 12, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

We find, in reading the Holy Scriptures, that humility is a trait that every Christian ought and must have. Our Saviour has always taught that we should be humble. This is plain from holy writ. See Sam. 15: 17. Job 22: 29. Prov. 29: 23. Luke 14: 11.—These passages all go to show that we should be humble. The Scriptures, from beginning to end, teach us plainly that we should be humble. When a man is humble—when he feels weak and unworthy—then it is that the Lord will lift him up. When we are humble in heart, we then feel our insufficiency to do any thing good. When we are humble in the sight of God, then it is that we feel exalted in point of having the privilege to enjoy the love of God shed abroad in our hearts.

Then let us be humble, and the Lord will bless us and lift us up, and make us wise unto salvation, harmless as doves and bold as lions.

But alas! how many there are who start for the land of promise that get high-minded, proud,—love to be praised,—love to be seen of men.—love to get in office, and many more such like things, when the grace of God begins to leak out of the heart. No sooner is the young convert losing ground, than he or she is found to look haughty and proud. I have long seen it to be an unfavorable mark in the convert. When they first get religion, they dress plain,—they look as though they were changed,—they walk as if they were on the way leading to heaven,—they love the house of God, and manifest their humility one toward another. But mark them when they get cold in religion; how soon they incline to put on a little more of a fashionable dress. Then more tight lacing,—then a little more ruffles,—tight, neat shoes,—then the head, and ears, and hands will be seen ornamented with a variety of stuff. Oh! what a pity that the devil has such a cunning way to lead men and women to fall into the ditch. My brethren and sisters, I have not named these things to cause any one to be hurt or offended; but I would say to one and all, let us try to let our light shine before the world, that they may look at us, and by so doing, be constrained to say that we are the children of the Lord.

Now, brethren and sisters, let me say in conclusion, that if we want to see good done, we must be humble in heart, and we must be willing to become any thing or nothing for the sake of Jesus. Yes, any thing or nothing.—'Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" said Paul. Can we say as Ananias said, "I am here, Lord?" If we can, I feel assued that the ark of the covenant will move forward, and sinners will join the band, our God to adore. Oh! my Lord, help me to show that I am one of thy despised followers, by my humble walk and appearance. I ask, my brethren, are we truly humble in heart? If so, I hope we shall soon see much good done; if not, we will be a stumbling-block in the way of others. The Lord forbid that I, or any of my brethren, should be in the way of sinners. Brethren pray for me.

With these few lines I will close. May the Lord bless the brotherhood, is the prayer of your unworthy brother.

JAMES W. KEPLINGER.

Reasons Why a Discussion Failed.

Mount Joy, Nov. 26, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

As some of the readers of the Church Advocate are aware that the Rev. A. Owen, a minister of the United Brethren, so called, sent me a personal challenge at the Camp-meeting held on Camp-hill, Cumberland county, last August, to discuss the subject of Christian Baptism, either written or oral, and as that discussion has now as good as failed, I wish, in a few words, to give the reasons. When the challenge was first sent, I preferred and accepted the former, which he afterwards declined, saying, that he was sorry he gave the challenge in the way he did; but wished me to discuss the subject publicly, with him, in Shiremanstown. I agreed to do so, in case he would give me the appointing of the time for discussion. In his next letter he said, "You can have the appointing of the time." I then fixed on the 18th of December next, about five weeks from the time I wrote and gave him the appointment of the time of meeting, which I considered was sufficient time for him to make his arrangements, if he had any to make. He then replied, in his seventh letter, and said, "I wish now to say distinctly, that I cannot be ready by the 18th of December; I have three protracted meetings between now and then. I cannot meet you to discuss before our Conference, which will meet in January."

Now, from the above your readers will see that my opponent is not quite as anxious to meet in a public discussion, as what he at first let on to be. Whether he is under the necessity of asking leave of Conference to discuss the subject with me, or whether he will have to ask first for indulgence for the sin of traducing his brethren, (see Discipline,) I know not; but has he not brought himself into a dilemma! I send you the above to let your readers know why the anticipated discussion is not forthcoming.

J. KELLER.

The Fine Art at Martinsburg.

Martinsburg, Nov. 25, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I beg leave to write a few lines to you, hoping you will please give them room in the Advocate.

We are here, surrounded with mountains and valleys, but not destitute of innocent amusements and admiration. We are favored with a talented Artist, G. Fisher, of Lancaster city, who has lately produced some of the finest portraits my eyes ever beheld. They are truly finished in artists' style, life-like and vigorous, overshadowed with rare beauty and grace. But more than this. Whilst I was looking around, charmed with the rich production of the artist's pencil, my eyes lit upon a picture that had just received the finishing touch. Had I been elsewhere but in a painter's studio, I might have been led to think that the dead had come to life again, at seeing the form, features and countenance of our beloved brother, Joseph H. Bamberger, deceased.—This portrait brother Fisher executed for his own gratification, painted altogether from memory, almost five years after the death of our lamented brother, seeing him but five times in all his life. This effort of genius and art is something very remarkable. The likeness is, as far as I can recollect, admirably good, very striking, and true to nature. This is not only my own opinion, but it has been pronounced so by many other persons, that knew him.

Brother Fisher really deserves praise for his perseverance and attainments in his profession, of which I consider him an accomplished master. I hope, also, that he may be patronised by all the admirers of the fine art throughout the country. We in this place are going to do our share.

I remain yours, with great respect,

JOHN W. MATEER.

Information.

Fayetteville, Dec. 8, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I would hereby inform the special committee, with discretionary powers, appointed by the late Eldership, on E. Logue's case, that I have just arrived from the Far West, and I will now be at their disposal: and I wish them to call their Court as soon as possible, and give me a hearing, and I will surely attend, the Lord willing. They will also please notify the plaintives to attend, with all their witnesses, and let the law-book be the New Testament. I am not only very anxious to have this matter settled, but I am equally anxious to know what the complaint is; for they have never given me the least intimations of any complaints. I have no idea whatever, of what Washington County Circuit could present against me. Again, I wish the said committee to attend to this business at as early a period as possible, because I cannot be expected, neither do I intend, to preach one sermon in Washington county until this matter is settled. And as the Eldership has assumed the settlement of the difficulty, and having appointed a committee for that purpose, before that committee let it be settled and nowhere else.

E. LOGUE.

Letter from Bro. T. H. Deshiri, V. D. M.

Smithville, Wayne Co., Ohio, Nov. 27, 1849.

Beloved Brother Winebrenner:—

Having a leisure hour, I feel disposed to redeem it to let the lovers of our beloved Zion know something about matters as they are on the Wooster Circuit: and,

1st. I commenced a special meeting with the good brethren of the Church of God at the Chester meeting-house, October 26th, which continued until the 6th November. I tried to preach the first and second evenings of the meeting, seemingly with but little effect. On Sabbath, 28th October, Elder Hartman preached, at 11, A. M. After an intermission of 30 minutes, I endeavored to speak to the people on the important subject of reconciliation, with a good degree of liberty, at which time the darkness began to disappear. Again in the evening Elder Hartman preached, to a crowded house, when two came out for prayer, and found Him of whom Moses, in the Law, and the Prophets did write. Again on Monday morning I tried to speak to a small congregation, and the Lord was in our midst to bless his poor saints. With the inspired Psalmist, we had cause to exclaim: "I will worship towards thy holy temple, and praise thy name, for thy loving-kindness, and for thy truth; for thou hast magnified thy word above all thy name. In the day when I cried, thou answeredest me, and strengthenedest me with strength in my soul." Again in the evening we had meeting. Three came out for prayer, and two found the pearl of great price. Again on Tuesday evening we had meeting, when five persons presented themselves for prayer, and four found peace; and whilst they were wrestling for the blessing, the impenitent were not idle in their father's service. One imp of the devil threw his prayer-book, (pack of cards,) and struck me in the face with it.—Others throwed apples, mud, gravel, tobacco, &c., into the house; and others were engaged on the outside of the house, throwing stones and sticks on the roof, and pounding against the walls, causing the whole house to shake. There was scarcely a light of glass left whole in the front windows. But victory was on the Lord's side. And thus the meeting continued on every evening during the week. Some were desirous that the meeting should be discontinued, in consequence of the rabble; but I thought otherwise. I felt like going ahead; for the Lord's work requires despatch: and I, by the assistance of the Great Head of the Church, was enabled to wield the old Jerusalem blade, and it cut its way. I felt perfectly composed, though the wicked acted thus. I prayed for grace to keep me, that I might not notice the poor souls, as well as tryed to warn them of the danger to which they were exposed; and this I endeavored to do faithfully and affectionately. "But thou, O son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth and warn them from me: if thou dost not speak, to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand."

During the week, there were nine souls prevailed with God in prayer, and were saved from the snare of the fowler. To God be all the glory.

On Sabbath, November 4th, Elder Megrew preached, at 11, A. M., and baptized three of the converts. In the evening, at 6, P. M., Elder Gill preached, and one poor soul burst the ponderous chains of unbelief, and emerged into the liberty of the children of God.

On Monday evening we had a short lecture on the ordinance of washing the saints' feet: after which we attended to the ordinances, viz: Feet-washing and the Lord's Supper; and undoubtedly the Lord lifted upon us the light of his countenance. These ordinances tend to blend the saints together, and cheer them on their way through this dark and howling wilderness to the Heavenly Jerusalem, the city of the great King. I have sometimes been impressed that the people of God should attend to these duties more frequently than what they do: however, I do not wish to be meddling with other people's business. On Tuesday evening I tried to speak to the people again; after which two came out for prayer. One of them was translated into the kingdom of God's dear Son. On Wednesday evening I spoke to the people again. One came out for prayer, but did not find Him whom her trembling, mourning soul sought for. We met again on Thursday morning, at 9, A. M., and I baptized two: after which we returned to the meeting-house, and seven identified themselves with the Church.

The Church at Chester has been greatly revived and strengthened at the time of, and since the special meeting. The congregations there are improving, and the prayer and experience meetings are well attended; which I think are omens for good.

As regards the other churches on the circuit, some of them are in a flourishing state.—Others of them are not so flourishing. This, I think, is owing principally to the severe trials through which they have passed heretofore. But my prayers shall go up to God in their behalf. If the good brethren of those sickly churches will but stand to their posts, and do their duty as the faithful servants of their Divine Master, they shall yet see the work of the Lord prosper in their hands.—Though their enemies oppose, yet they shall not prevail against them; for I am with thee, saith the Lord, to deliver thee. "Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and, having done all, to stand. Stand, therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breast-plate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God: praying always with all prayer and supplication in the spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints; and for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel."

I design commencing a special meeting with the Church of God at Smithville Saturday, December 18th. Brethren pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course and be glorified, even as it is with you.

Yours, as ever,

THOS. H. DESHIRI.

Letter from Bro. H. Murray, V. D. M.

STARK COUNTY, Ohio, Nov. 14, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I AGAIN resume my pen in order to drop a few lines for the Advocate, which you may publish, if you see proper.

I would say, I am still able to be about my Master's business, and enjoy a reasonable portion of health, for which I feel grateful to God, together for his love to me and mine.

I would desire here to give you a small sketch of my last round on my circuit. I left home on the 21st of October, passed on to brother Petrey's, in Canton, and found them all well, Whilst there I received a solicitation to preach the funeral sermon of JOHN MARKLEY, of Portage county. I tarried over night with the good brother of Canton, and on next morning I left Canton, in company with brother Petrey, passed on to Portage city, and preached the funeral sermon of the above-mentioned person. After he was interred in the grave-yard in the centre of Randolph, I returned to Greentown, a distince of about 30 miles, and tarried over night with brother G. Heffner. Next day, at 11 o'clock, being the Sabbath, I preached in Berlin, and also in the evening, at early candle-light, in Greentown. I tarried over night with brother Daniel Gurley and family. Next morning I returned to Randolph, Portage city, in order to commence a protracted meeting. This meeting continued six days, during which time I preached eight times. The congregations were large and attentive, yet there was nothing special during the meeting. On the whole, however, the meeting was good, and especially on the last evening of the meeting. There was quite a rejoicing and weeping time. And I have no doubt but what the meeting would have wound up with more interest, had it not been for a rupture caused by the Disciples, as they call themselves. These people are ready to find fault with every minister who is not willing to plunge any and every person who present themselves as candidates for baptism, wishing to be baptized for the remission of sins.

I left Randolph on the 5th of November, and went to Uniontown, and preached at early candle-light. I stayed over night with brother Evans and family. Next morning I passed on to East Liberty, stopped with brother Smith and family, and found them all well, and tried to preach to a small congregation in the evening. Next morning I left for brother Garman's, arrived safe and found brother Garman and family well. After spending the evening, we retired to rest, under the care of an Almighty being. After receiving refreshment in our sleep, we rose and found the morning of the 9th of November to be quite a cool, rainy and disagreeable day to be out. But, having some 17 miles to go, I left and got home safe through the rain, and found my family all well. I felt truly thankful that I was permitted to meet with them once more on this side of eternity.

I remain your brother in Christ,

HENRY MURRAY.

Letter from Brother John H. Chew.

SANDY MOUNT, Md., Oct. 18, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I TAKE my pen in hand to let you and the readers of your interesting paper know how we are getting along at old Sandy Mount. We held another meeting in this neighborhood on the 16th of September, on the banks of the Falls. There was a large gathering on the occasion, to hear (as I suppose) what these people have to say about this new doctrine, as they call it. Brother Price addressed them from a portion of Scripture suitable to the occasion. After services he (brother Price) led three converts down into the rolling srteam, and there buried them with Christ in baptism; and they came forth, and, like the Eunuch, went on their way rejoicing. This matter is causing the Sectarians to raise an out-cry against God's cause and people: nevertheless, it is still God's cause, and it is prospering; and I doubt not but what it will continue to prosper, though men and devils oppose.

Some of the reverend clergy are opposing the right ways of the Lord, and bring in their own opinion in preference to the word of God. They say, (if I understand them right,) that when Philip and the Eunuch went down into, that they did not go into water, bnt that they only went down out of the chariot to the banks of the water. Now, if into does not mean into, then he and all his congregation will not get into heaven. If they are ever saved at all, they will only get at heaven. Moreover, he said, he always knew those that were immersed, to get horns on them, as soon as they were baptized: that is, to fight, he says. Well now, we are not opposed to fight, if a man fight lawfully, and use the weapons which God has given him to fight with. Paul says, 2 Cor. 10: 4; "For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds." And again, writing to the Ephesians, he says, 6th chapter: "Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breast-plate of righteousness, and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked: and take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God; praying always," &c., &c. Now, if we have these weapons that Paul speaks of, let us fight—if we wound, let us wound—if we kill, let us kill; but not with any other weapon than God has given us. We know that the life of the Christian is a continual warfare. It is true that we are surrounded with troubles and difficulties, subject to temptation and sorrow, while we travel through this unfriendly world; but we look forward to a brighter world than this. We have a hope that reaches beyond the confines of mortality. We expect, if we are faithful, to reign with those who have gone before—who have suffered for Christ's sake, and who travelled the way that Christ commanded them.

There is a holier clime than ours,
Where no rude storms are driven
Across our path, to blight the flowers,
Or crush the hopes of sunny hours;
For that pure clime is Heaven.

There wearied, broken spirits rest,
At peace secure forgiven;
No more by anguish sore oppressed,
They have a home among the blest,
Forever firm in Heaven.

Then when life's fountains cease to play,
And being's link is riven;
Oh! may our spirits soar away,
And bathe in glory's brightest ray,
Around the throne of Heaven.

Yours, in Christian love,

JOHN H. CHEW.

Letter from Brother William Davis.

MILL-CREEK FURNACE, Cambria Co., June 29, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

BEING requested by my brethren to communicate a short account of my experieuce, I crave the attention of the reader while I relate my past exercises and my present state.

I was born in Cambria township, Cambria county, Pa., near Ebensburg. My residence was among the Welch, a pious people, and of good morals, but possessing little of the life and power of religion. Here, in the wilderness, God, in his infinite mercy, saw me and visited me from on high, when I was but about six years of age. The awful consequences of a judgment often struck my mind, young as I was; and incredible as it may appear to some, I often feared, when going to bed, that I would die, and then God would bring me to judgment. My parents were moral, yet strangers to the new birth. My mother often asked me why I was so sad. When I was thirteen years of age, I became more ungodly. It was then I indulged myself in swearing, and in all bad habits. Thus I continued for some two years, being then fifteen. But the Lord, by his spirit, knocked again at my heart. O! the guilty feelings I had, I cannot express. All things appeared to be angry with me. The face of the sky seemed to frown upon me. My heart condemned me. The Bible and Spirit reproved me, while nature seemed to disown me. I attended preaching: I also attended church meeting, and was baptized, and became a member of the Baptist Church. I continued a while in this state, but soon found all was not right within. I felt I was not born again. I sometimes would mourn, because the Bible and my own heart condemned me. Again I became more wicked and unrighteous. During this time, I attended the ball-room, card-tables, the intoxicating draught, &c.; and yet I was still held as a member of the church. God at length chastised me with a severe attack of billious fever, which almost ended my days. I recovered again; but instead of getting better, I became more ungodly and unholy. In the meantime, I entered into the state of matrimony. At length a united prayer-meeting was commenced. It was here the Lord visited me more powerfully than ever, and stirred me up to a sense of my duty. I I was fully awakened, and sought and obtained the pardon of my sins.

I then began to seek for a people that would take the Bible for their guide. I left the Baptist Church, and continued seeking for a people without Sectarian principles; but, as I could find none in that place, I became a member of the Evangelical Church, finding them to be an humble people. Notwithstanding, I found many erroneous principles among them. Here I mourned again to see the Bible treated with such contempt: and when I would read my Bible, I could see that the laws of Christ were not obeyed; and above all, the sign of the beast baptism (so called) by sprinkling and pouring. My heart was frequently pained to see this state of things. Nor could I rest day or night. Strange as it was, God bade me take the sword and wield it. But O! how unworthy I felt. In the meantime I complied with the call. I made application and received license. I commenced. The Lord blessed my feeble labors. But still I groaned and sighed in spirit, to find a people who take the Bible for the man of their counsel. About this time we held a two day meeting. Many souls were converted. O! the feelings I had whilst at meeting, when reflecting that the laws and commandments of God were so much neglected. As I was dissatisfied with Sectarian principles, I took my Bible and read and prayed that God might fasten and rivet these truths to my heart. O! when will Christians (so called) throw Sectarian principles away, and take the Bible for their Discipline! At last, bless God, I found a people that go for the Bible and Bible principles. O! that God would speed us. O! that the great God might raise up the standard of eternal truth in the hands of the ministering brethren! Brethren in the gospel, go on to proclaim God's everlasting truth, until the Babel of Sectarianism falls to rise no more,—until all become of one heart and one mind. Pray that the Lord of the harvest may send more laborers into the vineyard. God being my helper, I will go with you, in the bonds of the gospel. Pray that I may prosper.

Yours, in gospel bonds,

WILLIAM DAVIS.

"Work while it is day; for the night cometh, when no man can work."

Letter from Brother Thomas Bretz.

Pfoutz's Valley, Perry Co., Pa., November 27, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

By the request of the Church in this place, I set down to drop a few lines for the Advocate.

You are well aware of the situation of the people in this section of country for a number of years past; that they were like sheep scattered upon the mountains in a dark and cloudy day: but God has turned our mourning into rejoicing.

A little over one year ago, Elder B. Howard came among us, and hewed us by the Prophets and word of God, as saith Hosea 6: 5. We finally succeeded in establishing a Church of twelve members. Since that time we have been trying to move on in church order. One of our members, viz: sister McQuillen, was removed by death.

Again has brother Howard visited us, and we have had another refreshing time. Nine more have been added, making our membership twenty-one.

Brother John Ulch and myself have been appointed ruling elders, and brothers McQuillen and G. Closs deacons. I have also the honor to be appointed Clerk.

Our Circuit preachers are laboring with us, but the appointments are so far between, that we do not realize the good we might could we have preaching more frequently. Howbeit, we are not very able, and cannot, therefore, ask for more preaching than we can honorably reward the preachers for.

Brother Howard, we understand, will stay in this country till spring, and he says, perhaps longer, if necessary. The people feel a strong desire that he should come among us. Brother Howard has united with the Church, and the Church has given him license* as a missionary, to travel and preach among us, and elsewhere, wherever his labors may be desired. We hope that the brethren who may call him to labor among them, will see that he is well rewarded, as he is needy, and we believe worthy of it.

Brethren pray for us, that we may hold out faithful till death, and that we may receive a crown of life.

I remain yours, in hope of eternal life,

THOS. BRETZ, Clerk.

*Is the Church in Pfoutz's Valley aware of the resolution and advice of the Eldership on the subject of licensing? We refer her to the action of that body, on this subject, in the 17th Journal, and after reading it, to give us their opinion as to who is right, the Church or the Eldership. Editor.

Letter from Brother G. Sandoe.

Hinkletown, Nov. 8, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

Having noticed some things at our late Eldership, I beg leave to sketch a few of them for publication. If you think fit, therefore, you may insert them in your most valuable paper, the Church Advocate.

On Saturday, November 3d, being weary of sitting, I withdrew from the house of worship, where the Eldership was in session, and took a walk. The first thing that met my view, was a well filled grave-yard, a few steps from the Bethel, which seemed to invite my attention for a few moments. I went into the cemetery, and seated myself on the ground, beside the trunk of a large tree, where I fell into a train of reflections, endeavoring to learn a lesson from the scene around me. There I beheld the little mountains of earth that hide from mortal view, the remains of a small portion of the race of Adam. Alas! thought I, is this the portion of us all! How frail we are! To day we are in health, to-morrow, perhaps, wrapped in a winding-sheet and consigned to the cold and narrow limits of the grave. In all probability, thinks I, here are the graves of some who were once as vigorous and full of life as I am at the present moment, but their days are numbered; they have passed from the stage of active life into a world of spirits, there to reap the reward of their labors. How contented they seem to be here! The man of years is content to lie down at the feet of a babe;—the rich man, who, perhaps, in this life, looked with scorn upon the poor, here lies side by side together. No superiority in this house of mourning. Here is perfect equality. Go, my soul, and learn a lesson from these friendly ashes, and do not think highly of thyself! Knowing,

A little rule—a little sway—
A sun-beam on a wintry day—
Is all the proud and mighty have
Betwixt the cradle and the grave.

One word more in conclusion. I was greatly pleased with the love that prevailed at the Eldership. My soul rejoices in hope of meeting all my dear and beloved brethren, when these mortal bodies of ours shall have put on immortality.

Gentle readers, I now close my letter, by asking an interest in your prayers. Forget not the little Church at Hinkletown in your prayers.

Yours, in the bonds of Christian fellowship, G. SANDOE.

Letter from Bro. E. Logue, V. D. M.

Ohio, November 17, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I embrace the present opportunity of penning a few lines for the Church Advocate.

I am now at Sugar Creek, Holms county, Ohio, and expect to preach for the Church at this place to-morrow, and then proceed on Eastward. I arrived at Wooster last Saturday, and preached for the Church at that place on last Sabbath. There is a lovely and zealous Church growing up in the town of Wooster. My prayer is, that God may still be with, and bless and build up that lovely family. I have spent a week in visiting amongst the brethren, and from all that I can learn, the Church in Ohio is on the march upwards. The Lord continue to give success and victory to truth.

I have had a more tedious and expensive journey than I expected, and was detained in Iowa longer than I thought I should. But upon the whole, I have had a safe and pleasant journey. Since we started from Maryland, in September, we have travelled over about twenty-seven hundred miles: and during all that time, we have had beautiful weather; and when travelling by land, generally very good roads. Our health has also been tolerably good, excepting a few days indisposition with myself, while on the Mississippi river. And what made the journey still more pleasant was, the kind and warm reception with which we were greeted by the friends and brethren where we stopped on the way. And notwithstanding those erroneous statements which made their appearance from Iowa against E. Logue, even there we were received and saluted by brethren, sisters, and others, with all the kindness that we could wish: and were not only solicited to preach (which we did) while there, but were strongly solicited by the most of the brethren and sisters, and others, to stay and settle there again. Three or four of those eight who signed the letter from Iowa that was published in the Church Advocate last spring, expressed their sorrow, and confessed their guilt, for having signed the said letter. E. LOGUE.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Sad Loss of Life by a Steamboat Explosion.—The steamer Louisiana, bound for St. Louis, when about starting from her wharf at N. Orleans on the 16th ult., burst both her boilers, shattering her to atoms, and badly injuring two steamers lying alongside.—All three of the steamers were crowded with passengers, and the destruction of human life was most appalling. It is believed the number of killed will reach two hundred, besides many dreadfully wounded. The levee was strewed with dead bodies, and legs, arms and heads were scattered in every direction. The explosion is attributed to carelessness. Capt. Kennon, of the Louisiana, has been arrested and held to bail in the sum of $8000.

Evangelical Alliance.—A meeting of this Society was held at Edinburgh during the last month, and marked with great interest. Baptist Noel, Dr. Wardlaw and others spoke with great power; Sir Culling Eardly, gave an interesting account of the religious movements in Southern Italy.—The Scriptures have been freely circulated, and have found a cordial welcome among the people. A Florentine Socialist, in some recent letters to the Archbishop of Florence, has quoted largely from the Bible to prove that Romanism is the great apostacy predicted in the Old and New Testaments. The leaven will gradually do its work till the lump is leavened.

American Institute.—The total receipts of the Institute from the fair at Castle Garden was over $18,670, and the expenses amounted to $12,000, leaving a balance of $6,670 clear gain, of which $5,000 have already been appropriated to defray the expense of the new buildings in Broadway. Many persons who had articles at the Fair received orders to a large amount; one man, proprietor of a certain article, received orders for over $30,000. More of the visitors this season were from the South than have ever before patronized the Fair.

Consumptives' Guide.—Such is the title of a book published by the author, Dr. Potts, of Philadelphia. It contains 70 pages, and is done up in very neat style. It is treated with great ability, and is calculated to do much good on this important subject.

Steward's Store, N. Y.—Shooting on the Sabbath.—This is said to be one of the greatest stores in the world. Here goods are sold at wholesale and retail. I made enquiry of one of the clerks how many clerks were employed in this establishment. I was told about 170, in both the wholesale and retail. The sales amount to about three millions annually—which would be about ten thousand dollars per day.

I made a flying visit, by Railroad, to Pottstown, Pa. * * * * * *

On Sabbath morning, before we left the house of K., I heard the report of 5 guns. I remarked to the old gentleman what this meant on the Sabbath-day. "Oh!" said he, "Das ist eben noch der Gebrauch hier." I said to him it was a bad practice. I wanted to know what kind of people did such things. He said they were "mostly members of the church," (owning the fact that every body nearly belongs to the church,) and on going along the road, while on our way to church, I saw two men in the field, one of whom had a gun. I asked Mr. K. what church that man belonged to. Oh! said the old man, "to the L——." But there is no difference whether to L. or G. R. Church.

[Western Missionary.

Chicago and Milwaukie.—The increase of population and trade in these two cities will appear from the following statistics:

In 1840, Chicago had 4,853 inhabitants, and in 1848, it contained 19,725. In 1843, there were shipped from Chicago 628,967 bushels of wheat, and 10,785 barrels of flour—in 1848, only five years later, there were shipped 2,160,000 bushels of wheat, and 45,280 barrels of flour.—The first shipment of wheat was in 1839, and the first export of beef was in 1838. In 1848, the export of beef and pork was 29,200 barrels. In 1842 the export of wool was 1,500 pounds, and in 1848, it was 961,400 pounds. In 1836, the value of the aggregate exports was $1,064, and in 1849, $10,709,333.

The growth of Milwaukie is still more rapid. In 1835, it had but one frame building, and in 1840, only 1700 inhabitants—it has now over 15,000. Its first export of wheat was in 1844; it exported in 1848, 1,034,268 bushels.

Such an increase in business and population has few parallels.

☞ From the first discovery of the silver mines of Potosi in 1545, to 1803, the quantity obtained from them amounted to the enormous sum of $1,050,000,000. The annual quantity thirty years since, was about 5,000,000. Although their produce is reduced to about one quarter of what it once was, they are still the most productive mines in South America. At present there are only about 2,000 miners employed, who are well paid, and work from choice.

Iron Convention.—A Convention of Delegates from the different States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Virginia, New Jersey, Tennessee and others, assembled at Pittsburg on the 21st ult. After preliminary proceedings, the Convention was organized by the appointment of the following officers:

President—James Rogers, of Ohio.

Vice Presidents—Hon. C. Myers, Pa.; John Culbertson, Ohio; J. Tassey, Pittsburg; W. P. Robinson, N. Y.; R. W. Biggs. Ky.; James T. Hodge, N. Y.; Jesse Carothers, Pittsburg; W. H. Campbell, Ill.

Secretaries—Geo. Means, Pa.; M. A. Bertolet, Pa.; Jas. O. Willard, Ohio; S. F. Stearling.

A Business Committee of fifteen members was appointed, to whom were referred the proceedings of various meetings held on the subject of the Tariff.

Cumberland Valley Railroad.—This road, extending from Harrisburg to Chambersburg, is now under the control of Eastern capitalists, who intend to lay down a T rail—establish a large machine shop in our town, and reduce the fare and freight about one-half of present rates. It is also said, that our Franklin Railroad—extending from Chambersburg to Hagerstown—will soon pass into other hands, and that it also will be greatly improved. There seems to be some prospect now—faint though it be—that there will be a connection formed either with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, or with the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.—Messenger.

The Law of the Sabbath and the Constitution of Man.—At the late St. Louis Sabbath Convention, Dr. J. S. Moore affirmed that physiologists and medical men have observed that the activity of disease is periodic. One of the strange laws of this periodicity is septenary. Diseases take a change or reach a crisis on the 7th, 14th, 21st and 28th days of their progress.—Then a correspondence exists between the law of the Sabbath and our constitution. If the Sabbath was only an institution of man it would be a very wise one, and no man ought to violate it.

Taken at his Word.—A young man who was employed on one of the canal locks in Maryland, being incommoded by the cold, impiously remarked, that "he wished he was within the gates of hell, that he might be out of this cold world." Five minutes after, the bank caved in upon him, and instantly killed him. The prayers of the wicked, such as they are, are sometimes answered speedily and much to their surprise.—Presb.

☞ The present population of the State of South Carolina, according to the census just taken, is 280,384, showing a clear gain in ten years of 23,269.

Noth Branch Canal—Allotment of Work.—The following are the names of the contractors to whom we learn the work on the North Branch Canal has been allotted:

Sections.		Sections.
11	Jacob Seiler & Co.	113	Mead & Carrigan
12	Dykens & Wendel	114	F. Blair & Co.[den
21	John M'Cord	134	Jackson & M'Fad-
27	Patrick Burke	159	John Sturdivant
67	Patrick Burke	162	George Leibrick
69	Sturdivant & Little	173	Cochran & M'Lane
75	Jacob Seiler & Co.	174	John M'Mahon
98	J. & J. Lamon	182	Rody M'Gee & Co.
111	John Snodgrass	183	Edw. Kerns & Co.
112	John Snodgrass]	181	W. Phelans & Co.

California.—On the Sacramento and its tributaries, the number of gold-diggers is estimated at 15,000, and the value of the produce for the year ending next January, it is calculated, will be nearly $2,000,000. On the San Joaquin and its tributaries, 20,000 men are at work, and $2,000,000 more are set down as the probable fruit of their labors.

Heights of Localities in the Holy Land.—The summit of Horeb, 7,097 Parisian feet above the sea; bathing places of the pilgrims in Jordan 1,291 below the sea; summit of Tabor 1,755 above the sea; surface of the lake of Tiberias, 625 below the sea: the highest point of Lebanon 8,800 feet above the sea; the cedars of Lebanon about Eden, 6,000.

Change of Seat of Government.—The Governor of Louisiana has issued a Proclamation, giving notice that after the first day of December next, all the public and state offices will have been removed to the new capitol, Baton Rouge, and requesting the attention of the Governors of the States, executive officers, and others, to the fact.

Whitney's Railroad Project.—Louisville, Nov. 23.—Mr. Whitney addressed a large concourse of people last evening, at the Court House in Louisville, and explained his plan for constructing a Railroad to the Pacific, after which resolutions were passed approving and recommending the immediate adoption of the plan.

The Philadelphia Museum.—This old and valuable collection of curiosities, paintings, &c., the largest in the country, was sold at Sheriff's sale on Monday morning the 26th ult., and purchased by Mr. P. T. Barnum, for the trifling sum of $3,500.—The best portions of it will be added to Mr. Barnum's Museum.

President of the Girard College.—We learn that at a meeting of the Directors of the Girard College for Orphans, held recently, Prof. W. H. Allen, LL.D., of Dickinson College, Carlisle, was unanimously elected President.

Annexation.—The National Era says that if Canada desires annexation, and Great Britain assents to it, no administration in this country could sustain itself in opposing it.

☞ A steeple has just been raised on St. Paul's Church, Cincinnati, the height of which is 265 feet 9 inches, the ball being 16 feet 4 inches in circumference, and the spire above it 22 feet high, and 12 inches in diameter. The arm of the cross measures 10 feet 8 inches in length.—Thirty men were required to raise the spire.

Taxation of Railroad Stocks.—A bill has been reported to the Vermont Legislature taxing Railroad stock held by non-residents. It is said there are five millions of Railroad stock of that State owned by foreign stockholders.

A Theological Seminary in Cincinnati.—The subject of establishing a Presbyterian Theological Seminary in this city, which is to supercede the one in New Albany, is discussed in the religious periodicals of that Church.

Peter-Pence in Full.—The full return of collections for the aid of Pius IX. throughout the United States, foots up $25,978 24. The last remittance was made on the 3rd ult. The Diocese of New York contributed $6,227 41.

Appointment by the President.—James M. Power, of Pennsylvania, to be charge d'affaires to Naples, vice Thos. W. Chinn, resigned.

☞ It is estimated that from thirty to fifty thousand have been added to the population of Iowa, within six weeks, and that by the close of navigation the population will have increased one-fourth since the 1st of September.

☞ We learn from the Philadelphia Pennsylvanian, that three millions seven hundred and thirty thousand dollars of California gold had been received at the U. S. Mint, in that city, up to Saturday last.

☞ The emigration from Bremen to the United States, this year, has amounted to more than 57,000 persons, 8,000 of whom have sailed within the last month.

☞ There are sixteen mills at Oswego, N. Y., capable of making 9,000 barrels of flour per day. In 1848 the mills of that city turned out 600,000 barrels of flour.

☞ Rhode Island has within her limited territory 163 cotton-mills, consuming annually 56,000 bales of cotton, and manufacturing 70,000,000 yards of cloth.

☞ The Supreme Court at St. Louis has decided that the Missouri Legislature cannot divorce parties upon the petition of one of them.

☞ Mr. Arbon, a French Æronaut, has succeeded in crossing the Alps in a balloon traversing a distance of 400 miles in eight hours.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SWEEDISH LAWS WITH REGARD TO INTOXICATION.

The laws against intoxication are enforced with rigor in Sweden. Whoever is seen drunk is fined for the first offence three dollars; for the second, six: for the third and fourth a still further sum, and is also deprived of the right of voting at elections, and of being appointed representative. He is, besides, publicly exposed in the parish church on the following Sunday. If the same individual is found committing the same offence the fifth time, he is shut up in the house of correction, and condemned to six month's hard labor; if he is again guilty, to a twelve month's punishment of a similar description. If the offence is committed in public, such as at a fair, an auction, &c., the fine is doubled; and if the offender has made his appearance at a church, the punishment is still more severe. Whoever is convicted of having induced another to intoxicate himself is fined three dollars, which sum is doubled if the person is a minor. An ecclesiastic who falls into this offence losses his benefice, if he is a layman who occupies any considerable post, his functions are suspended, and perhaps he is dismissed. Drunkenness is never admitted as an excuse for any crime; and deprived of the prayers of the church. It is forbidden to give, and more explicitly to sell, any spirituous liquors to students, workmen, servants, apprentices, or private soldiers. Whoever is observed drunk in the streets, or making a noise in the tavern, is sure to be taken to prison and detained till sober, without however, being on that account exempted from the fines. One-half of these fines go to the informers, (who are generally police officers,) the other half to the poor. If the delinquent has no money he is kept in prison until some one pays for him, or until he has worked out his enlargement. Twice a year these ordinances are read aloud from the pulpit by the clergy; and every tavern-keeper is bound, under a penalty of a fine, to have a copy of them hung up in the principal rooms of his house.

PETITIONS.

"To the Hon. the Legislature of the State of Pa.

"WHEREAS there are many children in the large towns and cities of our State, familiarly known as 'street children,' whose parents being intemperate, or idle and profligate permit them to roam at large, receiving only such education and training as will fit them to become a curse to society, and in the result fill our prisons and houses of correction. And whereas, no adequate provision can be made for such children, legally, except a law shall be enacted to meet their case, We the undersigned citizens of———therefore petition your Hon. Body to pass an Act, at this session of the Legislature, making it binding upon city, borough and township officers to ascertain and duly report to a committee, chosen for that purpose, the number of neglected and destitute children in their respective bounds, not receiving annually the benefits of the educational provisions of the State, or not otherwsse provided for: and also extending to such authorities the legal power to provide for the mental, moral and physical education of such children, in such manner and way as to your Hon. Body may seem best."

CONSTITUTION OF CALIFORNIA.

The Bill of Rights adopted by the California Convention after ascertaining the immutable principles that all men are by nature free, and that all power is inherent in the people, proceeds to guarrantee the following immunities and privileges:

1. The right of trial by jury;
2. The free execise and enjoyment of religious worship;
3. The privileges of the writ of habeas corpus, except when the public safety may require its suspension;
4. Protection from excessive bail and excessive fines, and from cruel and unusual punishment;
5. The usual exemption from arrest for crime unless on presentment or indictment of a grand jury;
6. The freedom of speech and of opinion;
7. The right of petition;
8. The prohibition of a standing army in time of peace;
9. The appointment of representation according to population;
10. The prohibitions of imprisonment for debt, except in case of fraud;
11. The prohibition of a bill of attainder expost facto law;
12. The protection of the rights of foreigners who become bona fide residents of the State;
13. The protection of the right of property;
14. The exemption of electors from arrest or militia duty on the day of election.

COSTS OF THE WAR SYSTEM.

Without making any allowance for the loss sustained by the withdrawal of active men from productive industry, we shall find that from the adoption of the Federal Constitution down to 1848, there has been paid directly from the National Treasury—

For the Army and Fortifications,	$366,713,209
For the Navy and its operations,	209,994,428
	$576,707,687

This amount of itself is immense. But this is not all. Regarding the militia as a part of the War system, we must add a moderate estimate for its cost during this period, which, according to the calculations of an able and acurate economist, may be placed at $1,500,000,000. The whole presents an inconceivable sum-total of more than two thousand millions of dollars, which have been dedicated by our Government to the support of the War System—more than seven times as much as was set apart by the Government during the same period to all other purposes whatsoever.

Look now at the Commonwealth of European States. I do not intend to speak of the War Debts, under whose accumulated weight these States are now pressed to the earth. These are the terrible legacy of the Past. I refer directly to the existing War System, the establishment of the Present. According to recent calculations, its annual cost is not less than a thousand millions of dollars. Endeavor for a moment to grapple with this sum by a comparison with other interests.

It is larger than the entire profit of all the commerce and manufactures of the world.

It is larger than all the expenditure for agricultural labor, for the production of food for man, upon the whole face of the globe.

It is larger, by a hundred millions, than the amount of all the exports of all the nations of the earth.

It is larger, by more than five hundred millions, than the value of all the shipping of the civilized world.

It is larger, by nine hundred and ninety-seven millions, than the annual combined charities of Europe and Amarica for preaching the Gospel to the Heathens.

Yes! The Commonwealth of Christian States, including our own country, appropriates without hesitation, as a matter of course upwards of a thousand millions of dollars annually to the maintenance of the War System, and vaunts its two millions of dollars, laboriously collected, for diffusing the light of the Gospel in foreign lands! With untold prodigality of cost it perpetuates the worse Heathenism of War, while it seeks, by charities insignificant in comparison, to send to the Heathen the message of Peace. It breeds and fattens at home a cloud of eagles and vultures, trained to swoop upon the land, and sends across the sea to the Heathen a solitary dove.

Still further; every ship-of-war that floats costs more than a well endowed college.

Every sloop-of-war that floats costs more than the largest public library in our country.—Christian Chronicle.

PAY YOUR DEBTS.

Religion that does not make a man honest is good for nothing. If a man professes to be a Chaistian and defrauds his neighbor, that man's religion is vain. And he is dishonest who withholds from another hs just due when it is in his power to pay it.

We, in this country, have acquired a bad name abroad from our State repudiations, but it is not this of which we wish to speak just now. It is, of the laxness, not to call it by a harsher name, of many professors of religion, who seldom or never pay their debts until after being called on again and again, and perhaps finally being threatened with a law suit. There are some such men in almost every community.—N. Y. Observer.

"THE CHURCH."—WHAT IS IT?

The (London) Christian Observer, a Church of England periodical, has the following:—"We maintain that the true Body of Christ is the aggregate of his faithful followers, scattered throughout different communions, (not excluding the Roman,) and united by a spiritual bond of union with Christ their Head, united "in Him," though perhaps unwilling even to hold intercommunion with each other on earth. This want of intercommunion is the effect of infirmity and sin, and it no more prevents their spiritual unity in Christ as members of the same family, than the dissensions of brethren (by blood) take away their earthly relationship."

BAPTISM.

When Jesus was baptized, the scene was glorious. Heaven seemed to bend in mercy, and to come down to earth. The Spirit in shape like a dove descended upon the head of the spotles Redeemer, and the voice of God was heard, saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." Heaven and earth seem now often to meet when those who love the Saviour are "buried with him in baptism." God makes the occasion glorious.—Morning Star.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

A Protracted meeting will be held, the Lord willing, at Hinkletown, Lancaster county, Pa. commencing on Saturday, the 29th inst.

A Protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, at Bainbridge, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on the 15th inst.

Preachers and people generally are invited to attend. AMOS HICKS,
In behalf of the Church.

A Protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, at Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, Pa., commencing on Saturday, the 15th inst.

Another will be held, God willing, at Shiremanstown, commencing on the 21st inst.

A protracted meeting will be held, God willing, in Marietta, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on the 5th of January, 1850.

We wish you and brother B. Howard to come to our help. J. KELLER,

A protracted meeting will be held, Providence permitting, in Washington, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Saturday, the 22d inst.

The preachers, brethren, and people generally, are respectfully invited to attend.

JOS. SCHOCH,
In behalf of the Church.

A protracted meeting will be held at Linglestown, Dauphin county, Pa., commencing on Friday evening, the 21st inst., and to continue over Christmas.

Another will be held at Dauphin, commencing on Saturday evening, the 29th inst., and to continue over New Year.

The brethren generally are respectfully invited to attend the above meetings.

T. STROHM.

Religious Notices.

A Protracted meeting will be held in Uniontown, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 20th of December.

Another in Berlin, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 10th of January, 1850.

The brethren and friends generally are invited to attend; and I hope that at least some of the ministers from the West will attend.

HENRY MURRAY.

Notice to the Ohio Brethren.

THE brethren throughout the bounds of the Ohio Eldership, who are in arrears on the missionary subscription, for the past year, are hereby requested to pay up between now and the meeting of the Standing Committee in February, in Wooster. Those holding subscriptions, will please exert themselves to have it collected. A. MEGREW,
On behalf of the Board.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 26th ult., in Providence, R. I., by Elder A. D. Williams, Mr. AMAZIAH H. RYDER to Miss EMALINE A. JEFFERSON, both of Pawtucket, R. I.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—In Lancaster, Pa., on Wednesday, the 28th ult., Miss ANNA MARIA BROWN, in the 21st year of her age.

POETRY.

MOTE AND BEAM.

Since the word of life dispenses,
Purer light and love to some;
Though there needs must be offences,
Wo to them by whom they come.
It requires a constant labor
All his precepts to obey;
If we truly love our neighbor,
We are in the narrow way.

Judge not that you be not judged,
Is the counsel Jesus give;
For the measure you have given,
Just the same you shall receive.
Jesus says, be meek and lowly,
For 'tis high to be a judge;
If we would be pure and holy,
We must live without a grudge.

Once I said unto another,
In thine eye there is a mote;
If thou art a friend and brother,
Hold, and I will take it out.
But I could not see it fairly,
For my eyes were very dim;
When I come to see more clearly,
In my own there was a beam.

Others I have oft reproved,
For a little, paltry mote;
Now I wish that beam removed,
O that tears might wash it out.
Charity and love is healing,
It will give a clearer sight;
When I saw my brother's failing,
I was not exactly right.

If I love my neighbor dearly,
And his mote I would erase,
Then my light must shine most clearly,
For the eye 's a tender place.
But I'll take no farther trouble,
Jesus' love is all my theme;
Little motes are but a bubble,
When I think upon the beam.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,			$4	37½	a	4 50
Do.	Rye,	do. - -	2	50	a	2 56
Do.	Corn,	do. - -	2	50	a	2 56
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,				93	a	95
Do.	Rye,	do. - -		55	a	56
Do.	Corn,	do. - -		55	a	56
Do.	Oats,	do. - -		30	a	33
Do.	Barley,	do. - -		60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover,		do. - -	3	75	a	4 00
Do.	Timothy,	do. - -	2	25	a	2 50
Do.	Flax,	do. - -	1	00	a	1 10
BEEF, per cwt.		- - - -	5	00	a	5 50
PORK,	do.	- - - - -	5	00	a	5 25
HAMS, per pound,		- - -		10	a	11
BUTTER,	do.	- - - - -		12½	a	15
LARD,	do.	- - - - -		7	a	8
TALLOW,	do.	- - - - -		8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.				6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen,		- - - -		10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel,		- -		87½	a	1 00
ONIONS,	do.	- - -		75	a	87½
APPLES,	do.	- - -		25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.			1	25	a	1 30
FEATHERS, per pound,		- -		37½	a	45
WOOL,	do.	- - -		30	a	50
SALT, per sack,		- - - -	1	18	a	1 20
HAY, per ton,		- - - - -	10	00	a	11 00
PLASTER, per ton,		- - -	4	00	a	4 25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,			$4	75	a	5 00
Do.	Rye,	do. -	3	00	a	3 06
Do.	Corn,	do. - -	3	00	a	3 06
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,			1	02	a	1 05
Do.	Rye,	do. - -		62½	a	62½
Do.	Corn, new	do. - -		65	a	65
Do.	Oats,	do. - -		31	a	31
Do.	Barley,	do. - -		75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover,		do. - -	4	37	a	4 50
Do.	Timothy,	do. - -	2	75	a	3 00
Do.	Flax,	do. - -	1	35	a	1 40
BEEF, per cwt.,		- - -	7	00	a	8 75
PORK,	do.	- - - - -	7	00	a	7 25

WEISHAMPEL'S
Patented Revolving Coal Grate.

THE subscriber will sell the Right for the States of Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Western Pennsylvania, and Western Virginia, of his Patented Revolving Horizontal Coal Grate for Cooking, Parlor and Office Stoves. By this invention all the difficulties in burning every kind of stone coal are obviated. The Letters Patent were granted June 19, 1849. The stoves used last winter and this season, give entire satisfaction. He will sell either of the above States and portions at reasonable prices. For testimonials as to the performance of the stove, he refers to Dr. John Rose, B. M. D., Baltimore, Md.; Dr. John Hardtner, Carrollton, Illinois; Dr. Frederick Brenneman, Marietta, Pa.; Mr. James H. Bateman, Winchester, Va. Letters (post-paid) addressed to either of the above gentlemen, or to Rev. John Winebrenner, Editor of this paper, will receive satisfactory answers; and such as are addressed (pre-paid) to the subscriber will receive prompt attention.

JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL,
Inventor and Patentee, Baltimore, Md.

December 15, 1849.—3t.

PROSPECTUS
FOR THE CHRISTIAN PEARL
AND MUSICAL ANNUAL
FOR 1850.

A Monthly Family Magazine for all Denominations of Christians—devoted to the Bible, Christian Union, Literature, Christian Benevolence, Music, &c.

To be printed on good paper and new type, in double columns. Each number to contain a beautiful Steel Engraving, Original Music, &c., and be enriched by contributions from the most talented authors.

The Literary department will be made as attractive as possible. It will comprise Biography—Essays on Popular subjects—Illustrations of Bible History—Poetry, &c. The object here will be, to present a pleasing and useful variety, calculated to enlarge, exalt and sanctify the mind and heart.

In future, no article will be so long as to weary the reader, or exclude other matter that might be presented with advantage to the work. All articles will be carefully examined before they are inserted, so as to preserve the purity and usefulness of the book.

The Musical department will comprise a variety of instructive matter from different authors, calculated to interest the friends of both Sacred and Secular Music; and those favorable to the science, should therefore subscribe. It is intended to express the truth in regard to any existing errors in music, without fear or favor; but, at the same time, our columns will be open for those who may choose to differ, and advance their opinions. One or two pages of original Music will also be given in each number.

We hope to enlist the aid of our highly esteemed friend, Charles Collins, Jr., A. M., to superintend this entire department, who kindly and gratuitously rendered valuable assistance in the third volume, by the instructive series of Lectures on this subject, as well as various pieces of original music.

Valuable correspondents will be secured for all the above named departments; and our subscribers may depend on receiving a work worth more, in every respect, than the amount of money they will pay annually—a work which, for neatness, variety, entertainment and essential usefulness, cannot be excelled.

Terms of the Christian Pearl & Musical Annual.
$1 00 per Annum, in Advance.

At the end of the year, subscribers will possess a most beautiful Annual, containing numerous fine steel and other Engravings, a variety of Music, &c., besides nearly 300 pages of choice literary matter. Christian friends, musical friends, send us your name, and neglect not the Dollar!

GEORGE F. GORDON, Publisher,
Philadelphia.

AGENTS

Of good character, active and enterprising, are wanted to canvass for "The Christian Pearl and Musical Annual" for 1850. Apply at the Office of the Christian Pearl and Musical Annual, on Twelfth street, above Spring Garden.

December 15, 1849.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, - -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00
David Strickler, - - -	5 00
James Casy, - - -	5 00
Samuel M. Hoover, - -	5 00

Evangelical Music.

THE proprietor offers for sale, at reduced prices, the Evangelical Music-book, containing a great variety of popular Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Set pieces and Anthems.

This popular Music-book has been before the public for a number of years, and has received a very flattering reception among various Religious Denominations and Musical Associations.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the Minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia.—"The committee state that they have examined, as carefully as practicable, the 'Evangelical Music,' and cheerfully recommend it to the congregations under their care, as a good system of Church Music."

From the Minutes of the Bellefonte Musical Association.—"Resolved, That we consider 'Evangelical Music' the best work of the kind known to us; and cheerfully recommend it to all lovers of Sacred Music."

☞ For sale at this office, and at our Depositories. Editor.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo decimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.
Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and embossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, and DANIEL GETTY, No. 110 South Third street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

SARAH SADLER, Allegheny City, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionnaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., JANUARY 1, 1850. NUMBER 17.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

Receipts on Volume Fourteen.

Names.	Am't. paid.	Names.	Am't paid.
Bray Andrew	$1 00	Keller Jacob	$1 00
Barlow Elizabeth A	1 00	Koch Jabob	1 25
Barkstresser Daniel	1 50	Kennedy Geo	50
Boyle Geo W	2 00	Lidge Samuel	1 00
Bear Jacob E	1 00	Machlan Elizabeth	2 50
Bowser Andrew L	1 00	Mantzger Peter	50
Bertner Henry	3 00	Morgan Joseph	1 00
Bartlet Daniel	1 00	Miller Isaac [vol 14]	1 50
Beck Frederick	50	do do [vol 15]	1 00
Bolton John (vols 14 & 15)	2 00	Manning Jacob K	75
Cannon John	50	M'Connell Geo	3 00
Clippinger Solomon	1 00	Mullen'x Wm H	1 00
Comp Henry	2 00	McKee Henry	50
Cry wm	1 00	Miller Geo	50
Cubb Catharine	1 00	More Zenulon	50
Cromlick Henry	50	Metz Adam	50
Eter Ann	1 00	McGloghlin Cornelius	1 00
Eikle Catharine	50	Osburn Moses	1 00
Eppley Geo	1 00	Omit Jacob	1 00
Freel Abraham	1 50	Bowman Zacharias	75
Fleagle Levi	1 00	Petry John	1 00
Funk Amos	50	Rice Paul	1 50
Faas Samuel	50	Ross Henry	1 00
Freighley Peter	50	Ramsey Charles	1 00
Farling John W	50	Ramsey Joseph	1 00
Farling John	50	Raymon Jane	50
Faithful Mrs E	1 50	Rohrer Jeremiah E	1 00
Fackler Samuel	1 00	Rudabaugh Andrew	1 00
Freeland John 50 & vol 15	1 00	Strock Jacob	1 50
Fox Joan (vols 14 & 15)	2 00	Smith John M	50
Fisher Daniel	1 00	Shuler Henry	2 00
Fleagle Simon	50	Shroll Geo	50
Gier Samuel	1 50	Snavely John	1 00
Grindle Geo	1 00	Shields John	1 00
Gill David	50	Trisler David	3 00
Gingrich Joseph	1 00	Weaver Jonathan	1 00
Gibson Sarah	1 25	Williams John	50
Gorman John	1 00	Walters Joseph	1 00
Hair Abraham	50	Wilson Joseph	3 00
Hartshue John	62	Wilmer Martha	2 00
Harris Samuel	2 00	Wheeler Simon	1 00
Holenberger David	50	Willis Hannah	1 00
Hipple Frederick	1 00	Yoot Ir Wm	1 50
Heck Geo [vols 14 & 15]	2 00	Yousling Geo	1 00
Julia Margaretta	1 00	Young John	1 00
Jordan Edward [vol 13]	1 00

☞ Brother Lewis Selby's Post Office address is Wooster, Wayne county, Ohio.

Editorial Convention.

It will be remembered, that the Editorial Convention which assembled in Harrisburg some weeks since, adjourned to meet again in this place on the first day of January, 1850.

The Legislature.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania meets in this place to-day, agreeably to the Constitution. Among the most important subjects which will have to be acted on at this session, is the districting of the State and apportioning the representation among the taxable inhabitants.

A Hundred Year Almanac.

J. Hailman and ourselves, have just published a Century, or Hundred Year Almanac, which we offer for sale to Merchants, Booksellers and Colporteurs on reasonable terms.

Orders by mail, accompanied with the cash, shall be promptly attended to. Price per single copy, 25 cents.

Noel on Baptism.

We have before us the work of Baptist W. Noel on the subject of Baptism. The book contains 308 pages, and is of a convenient size every way to be bought and read with interest. The distinguised character of Mr. Noel, and his late change from an Episcopalian to a Baptist, and under circumstances so peculiar, will cause his work to be earnestly sought for.

A Preacher Robbed.

Brother J. F. Weishampel had his pocket picked in the vestibule of the Baltimore Post Office on the 13th of December, while surrounded by a crowd waiting for the delivery of letters. The thief extracted from brother W's. pocket his pocket-book containing several dollars and his preacher's license for 1850. The Speaker and Clerk of the last annual session of the East Pennsylvania Eldership are solicited to furnish him with another copy of the license, if they please.

The Accounts of Our Subscribers.

We have this day commenced sending out our accounts to our subscribers, who are in arrears for the Advocate. Those who do not find their accounts in this number of the paper, may look for them in the next. The bills will show the amounts due to the end of the present volume. We employed a clerk to make out these bills. We hope they will all be found correct. But should any mistakes have occurred, and they will be pointed out to us, we shall be happy to rectify them.

Now one word more. It is this. We want money. We want it all, and we want it without delay. Therefore, we respectfully and earnestly request one and all to send us our dues immediately upon the reception of their accounts, and thereby spare us the trouble of sending duplicate accounts to our agents.

Common School Convention.

The State Common School Convention will meet in Harrisburg on the third Wednesday of the present month, and the friends of education in the several counties of the State are invited to send Delegates equal in number to their Representatives in the State Legislature. The object of the Convention is to adopt such measures as may seem best calculated to promote the cause of general education throughout the State, and also to select Delegates to the National School Convention, to be held on the fourth Wednesday of August next.

President's Message.

After some 60 odd ballots, the House of Representatives in Congress, have succeeded to effect an organization. They have elected the Hon. Howell Cobb, of Geo., Speaker, but as yet no Clerk. Howbeit, we have now got the long and anxiously looked for Message of President Taylor. It is in all respects an able, manly and satisfactory document, which will go far to assuage the political bigotry of his political opponents, to endear him more fully to he hearts of his political friends, and to demonstrate more clearly the wisdom of their choice. We may give in our next a synopsis of both the President's and Governor's Message.

The New Year.

To-day is New Year's Day. It is the first day of the year 1850. May it be a happy New Year for many, and especially for the patrons of the Advocate, for the Churches of God and their children! May this year prove to be memorable and acceptable year, on account of large grants of mercy and salvation from the Lord! O! that it may be a year of Jubilee—a year of full release for thousands and tens of thousands of poor, wretched sinners in sin and satan's bondage held.

The past year has been a remarkable one on account of the rise and fall of many—and on account of deserved judgments and undeserved mercies. The astounding occurrences in the kingdoms of nature and grace, throughout the habitable globe, will form a very conspicuous page in the history of our world.

But, then, the developments, the times and seasons, the changes and revolutions of the year upon which we have entered, the eye has not seen, nor the ear heard. What these will be like, time must interpret. It is believed by many, that its phenomena, in nature and grace, will far exceed those of the past. Be this as it may, it behoves Christians, at all times and in all places, to hope for the best, and to be prepared for the worst. God grant, that whatever else may come to pass, revivals, great and powerful, may be among the best, as well as among its first and last phenomena!

Report of the Post Master General.

The report of the Post Master General presents the department as being in a very prosperous condition. The amount of receipts and expenditures are as follows, to wit:

The revenue for the year ending June 30th, 1849, was - - -	$4,904,176,28
Expenditures for same length of time, - - - - - - - - -	4,499,127,13
Net surplus of last year, - -	$406,049,15
Last year's appropriations for deficiencies not used, - - - -	265,555,55
Total balance in Treasury, -	$671,604,69

Hence it appears that the cheap postage has enhanced the revenue of the department instead of reducing it.

Revival in Harrisburg.

It has pleased God, in his abundant mercy, to revive his work once more among the people of this place. The work commenced gradually, in the early part of the fall, under the zealous ministry and untiring labors of brother G. U. Harn, pastor of the Church of God. Some dozen or more were hopefully converted to God, baptized and added to the Church.

The next good appearances began among the United Brethren, where a good work has been going on for a month or longer, and some 40 or 50 hopefully converted to God.

Revivals are now also in progress among the Methodists and the Evangelical Association.

Among us, in the Church of God, the work has, for the last few weeks, assumed a pentecostal type, and is still progressing with unabating power and energy. The Sabbath-school children have shared largely in the glorious work. There have been some remarkable conversions. God grant! that this great and good work may prevail throughout our borough, and take in and renovate all the churches, and all orders, ages and ranks of men, who are yet in the reach of mercy.

Where are the New Subscribers?

From the pledges given at the late Eldership, to raise new subscribers for the Advocate, between that and the first of New Year, we had hopes of receiving, before this time, a large list of names, with the money in advance; but in this we have been disappointed. A few only have done any thing at all, so far as we know, whilst the majority, as usual, have not so much as touched the matter with one of their fingers.

This wonted carelessness, negligence and inattention in carrying out the acts and doings of the Eldership, is some how strangely characteristic of many of our brethren. Whilst our Sectarian neighbors are compassing sea and land to make proselytes, and to circulate books and papers, our brethren of the Church of God, with some few honorable exceptions, are criminally careless and at ease in Zion.

Zeal and concert of action, so far as human instrumentalities are concerned, will do more to promote a cause, whether good or bad, than any and every thing else beside. This was the great secret of success among the primitive Christians. This gave efficiency to Mahomodanism. This has built up and spread Catholocism. This is the parent and foster-mother of Sectarianism. Yes, this is the sine qua non of every cause, whether good or bad. In this particular, the children of this world, and Beelzebub himself, seem to be wiser than the children of the kingdom.

We hope that the brethren of the Church of God will not forever be learning at this lesson and never come to the knowledge of its truth, but will strive to be always zealously affected in a good cause, act in harmony and concert, and in every thing be indefatigable followers of God as dear children.

Pulpit Reporter.

We have before us the first number of a religious journal entitled the Pulpit Reporter, the design of which is strikingly novel, and evidently of much utility. Its contents are to consist of verbatim reports of sermons recently delivered by the prominent divines of all the Christian denominations in this country, without regard to sect. In assuming such broad and catholic grounds, the proprietors of the work have displayed much liberality of mind, and we cannot doubt of its ultimate success.

The number before us contains four masterly specimens of pulpit eloquence, being recent sermons delivered by Rev. Albert Barnes, of Philadelphia; Rev. E. N. Kirk, of Boston, Mass.; Rev. R. T. Welch, of Brooklyn, L. I., and Prof. George Bush, of New York, accompanied with a portrait and biographical sketch. Upon the last page of the work there is an outline of sermons, intended to afford a specimen of the manner in which the text may serve as the foundation of a discourse.

The Pulpit Reporter is published every other Saturday, by Holbrook, Buckingham & Co., at 128 Fulton street, New York. The terms are two dollars a year; single copies ten cents.

The Boston Tragedy.

This whole affair is most remarkable, mysterious and peculiar. In all the history of this country, nothing has equalled it for its nature, and bearings upon the parties concerned when considered as an individual transaction. Dr. Parkman, of Boston, an eminent physician, a man of liberal education, a gentleman of princely fortune, a citizen greatly esteemed by all classes of the community, and moving in the first circles of society, has at once disappeared while in the strength of life and in the full vigor of health.

On the 23d of November, according to previous arrangement, he left his home and friends in Walnut street, Boston, to call at a specified hour on Professor Webster at his lecture room in Grove street, to receive $450, which was his due. He made a call at a store on his way; he was seen to enter the room of the Professor at 1½, P. M., as agreed upon, but was never seen to leave the room, nor on his way back, nor at his house, nor any where else that can be ascertained by the most diligent search. For a circuit of miles every exertion was put forth to find the lost, but in vain. A whole week passed away, but nothing was heard of him from any quarter. Finally, at the close of that long sad week, it was resolved to repair to the spot where he was last seen, and know beyond a doubt whether he could be still at that Medical College or no'. One, who had been about the building and around upon the adjacent grounds, strongly suspected that Dr. Parkman was still there. Accordingly, he made his way through the walls into a vault below, and there found a part of a human body. With this reported, other parts of the same man were found in the apartments of Professor Webster, and finally were identified and claimed by his friends, and by them taken home, when after appropriate funeral services the remains were deposited in the family tomb.

Such is a little outline of this dark and heart-rending tragedy, such as seldom falls to the lot of any to read in the history of civilized and christianized nations. Professor Webster was at once arrested as the perpetrator of the dreadful crime, and confined in jail. If guilty, his crime is of the most depraved and marvellous kind; if innocent, he is a most unfortunate man, and is entitled to the deepest and widest commisseration, as it is a stain upon his character that no human power can wash away.

—

The Coroner's Jury in the examination into the murder of Dr. Parkman have closed their labors. The Jury after a week's examination of witnesses, have returned a verdict that Dr. Parkman was murdered, and that Professor Webster should be held for trial, on the charge of being guilty of the murder.

The evidence fills 80 pages of large foolscap paper, closely written. A very large proportion is composed of documents that have been found, and papers that have passed between Dr. Webster and the murdered man. It has been thought that these documents—the nature of the correspondence between the parties, the exciting subject of it, taken in connection with other circumstances—clearly indicate that Dr. George Parkman was foredoomed, some days prior to the fatal Friday when he disappeared.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

The Proper Subjects and Object of Human Investigation.

A SERMON:

Substantially as preached in the Bethel of the "Church of God," in the city of Baltimore, October 28th, 1849.

BY A. D. WILLIAMS.

Text: Deut. 29: 29—"The secret things belong unto the Lord our God; but those things which are reveoled belong unto us, and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law."

Every age is distinguished by peculiar and marked characteristics. This age perhaps has been characterized by the supremacy of earnest and persevering acquisitiveness. To acquire—to hoard up treasure, might be the significant impression of the restless activity now reigning in every department of human action. But awakened physical exertion could not fail of inducing increased mental action—of eliciting that application of the intellect which is manifested in persevering discussion and searching investigation.

Nor should it be otherwise. Thinking, talking and inquiring ought to go on. The significance alike of nature, reason and revelation, is that it should go on. Such are the demands of man's constitution, and such the nature of the circumstances in which he is placed, that no power is able to arrest its progress. Whatever may be our views and feelings, we might as well think of arresting the waters of the Mississippi in their ocean-bound course, or of smothering the fires of Etna, as to attempt to stay the progress of investigation. And whatever shuns it, no matter upon what grounds it depends for support, must inevitably fall. It must meet the issue or it cannot stand. There is no other alternative.

But this spirit of inquiry, beneficial and necessary as it is when properly directed, may be grossly perverted. The mind, by dwelling upon unworthy subjects, becomes degraded and sinks to a level with those subjects. Even by improperly dwelling upon legitimate subjects of thought and inquiry, man may become a monomaniac or a madman; and through the giving up of the mind to forbidden subjects, the soul may be lost forever. How many have the cares and discussions of worldly policy, blinded to the interests of the soul until it has been ruined for time and for eternity! But these evils not only peril the interests of those directly concerned, but operate like blight and mildew upon society. Not long since, a powerful religious excitement swept like a tornado over the land, but to leave scepticism and hardened impenitence in its pathway. It made infidels by staking, indirectly at least, the truthfulness of Christianity upon what is beyond the ken of human knowledge, and without the bounds of Divine revelation. When time proved these speculations groundless, men discarded Christianity; falsely taking it for granted that these speculations were so inwoven into it, that it must stand or fall with them.

Hence appears the importance that discussion and investigation should assume an appropriate character, and receive a proper direction. Upon these points, the text teaches:—

I. That secret things belong to God. i. e. That certain things being beyond our knowledge, are improper subjects of human inquiry.

Man is finite in his conceptions and powers. The universe of matter and of mind, if not actually illimitable, is nevertheless too extended—approaches too near infinity for man fully to grasp. The proudest intellect that ever contemplated its Maker's works and ways, is compelled to wonder in humble ignorance amid the infinitude of the creation of God.—Revelation explains much that otherwise we had never known; but beyond its sublime revealings there are worlds of thought and knowledge which we are now unable to explore. There may be a time when all mysteries shall be explained, and when our perceptions may almost, if not really be able to comprehend the infinite. But this canuot be until time is swallowed up of eternity.

We are now unable to explain many of those facts which nature and revelation teach. They are subjects of faith, and challenge our credence, while yet we are unable fully to comprehend them. If it be asked, how we can believe what we do not and cannot understand? it is answered that even this may be one of those things which are matters of knowledge, but not of explication. We are conscious of believing a great variety of things that we cannot explain. We know we live, but are utterly unable to explain that existence. We know that mind acts upon matter, but cannot tell how. We know that vegetation germinates and grows, and even this is entirely beyond our powers of comprehension. We are thronged on every side with facts that all admit, but none are able to explain. If it be asked, why these are not brought within the range of our understanding? it is answered:—1. It is not possible. Our minds are not capable of grasping a subject so nearly allied to infinity. 2. If it were possible, it would not be desirable. We should not thereby become better or happier; all that can really promote our well being is already within our reach. 3. It would divert our minds from those things that are absolutely essential to our welfare.

Among these secret things which belong to God, and which ought not to be made themes of speculation, may be mentioned:—

1. The nature or essence of God. The Scriptures inform us that "God is a Spirit," and that "God is love." Hence he must be a Spirit of love. But both these are qualities of which we can see and feel their effects, but cannot comprehend their intrinsic nature. All that we can say is that spirit is spirit, and that love is love; and that each produces results that are within the province of experience.

2. The Eternity of God. We are so tied to our conceptions of time, that it is difficult, if not impossible, for us to conceive of anything without a beginning. We always connect the idea of commencement with our conceptions of existence. We cannot hope therefore to explain or understand the eternity of Deity.

3. The Omnipresence of God. We think of every thing as being in some definite locality. Nor can we conceive of two things occupying the same space at the same time. Hence the idea of Omnipresence is beyond our comprehension, and consequently is a subject of faith rather than investigation.

4. The modus operandi of the Divine Existence. All other beings of which we have any knowledge, exist by means, originating primarily in God. But how he can exist in himself, and irrespective of all means, we do not and need not know.

5. The union of Divinity with humanity in the person of Christ. How God and man could become united, so that the Saviour should be "God manifested in the flesh," is a mystery beyond our ken. In respect to these points, there is significance in Job's interrogation: "Canst thou by searching find out God!"

6. The origin of sin. Sin is said to be the transgression of the law. But who first sinned, or what induced that first transgression, can only be conjectured.

7. From what the world was created. Something originating from nothing, is to us incomprehensible. Yet the Universe exists and is material; while both reason and revelation teach that matter cannot be eternal. It must therefore have had a beginning; but beyond that we are lost in uncertainty.

8. The salvation of the sinner through faith. Our ideas of law and its demands, and of its penalties and satisfaction when violated, are incompatible with the idea of purity suffering for the sinner, and the consequent escape of the sinner through faith. How God can be just and yet the justifier of him that believeth in Jesus, is among those mysteries which belong to God.

It is not necessary to extend this list farther. Enough has been said to explain the general character of those things which are not proper subjects of inquiry. If it be said that these things are not to be believed on the ground of their opposition to our perceptions and reason, the answer is that they are not so much opposed as superior to our perceptions and reason. These are subjects which now they cannot grasp—like those animalculæ which our powers of vision are not sufficient to discover; but the existence of which the aid of glasses incontrovertibly demonstrates. Clearer perceptions and stronger reasoning faculties would no doubt enable us to comprehend these things, and perceive their compatibility with reason and truth. But to deny their truthfulness, merely because unable to comprehend them, and while resting upon the basis they do, would be to reject all ordinary or inconceivable rules of evidence, and swing off into that scepticism which ends only by the absolute denial of all existence and truth; and which necessarily contradicts and invalidates itself by affirming the truthfulness of scepticism, while denying that any truthfulness or reality exists. The text teaches:

II. That things revealed belong to us and to our children forever. i. e. That whatever God has brought within the scope of our powers, is a proper subject of investigation.

We here come down within the range of our powers and knowledge; and here an untiring spirit of inquiry should know no relaxation, and acknowledge no insuperable obstacles. But the scope of things revealed is not to be confined within the bounds of any one of Jehovah's manifestations to man. Everything which by any means God has brought within the province of our powers, is to contribute themes for thought and discussion. Nor are these themes unworthy of the pulpit. Whatever God has any way revealed, he has done it for the good of man: and whatever tends to elevate and bless humanity, cannot form an improper subject for religious instruction.—The failure of the church to supply man with much of this instruction, has contributed in no small degree towards originating the practical scepticism of the times. When it becomes apparent that Christianity comes to bless man in all his relations to his fellow-man, as well as to God, and that it originates a sympathy for man as man, that reaches all his necessities, then will the church appear in its strength and excellency; and infidelity be compelled to retire abashed and dismayed.—Then will human theories and organizations to secure this end, give place to a more excellent way.

"Know thyself," was the inscription upon the temple of Delphi, but is not less a Christian than a heathen precept. He who has not learned to look within and understand the utterance of his own nature, has illy understood the genius and claims of heaven's law. These burning fires of emotion, these struggling up-heavings of thought, these welling streams of consciousness which wake the soul to the thrilling experiences of life, were never implanted within us by an Omniscient Hand to be neglected or disregarded with impunity. But we are to know ourselves in all our relations to God and our fellow-man, as physical, intellectual and moral beings. Each of these characteristics originates a different relation to the universe of matter and of mind, and ought therefore to be diligently studied and fully understood. And yet most are content to cultivate their powers only in one direction. The professional man discards or neglects physical toil, the farmer or the mechanic too frequently finds no time for mental culture, while thousands, gifted, educated and strong, most irrationally omit that moral culture without which no one can be really great or good.

We are also to know human nature—so to study the character and workings of the mind, as to be able properly to apply truth to it in an appropriate and efficient manner. This Paul thought not unworthy of his notice, in that he became all things to all men, if by any means he might save some. This is not to be understood as in any degree a compromise of truth, but only as a wise adaptation of it to the condition and prejudices of those addressed. In nothing perhaps, do we more frequently fail than in this. An unkind or harsh manner often repels those whom we wish to attract and influence by the demands of truth.

Nature too is to be studied. The fields, the forests, the mountains, the floods, and the starry concave are all legitimate subjects of investigation. "Even the heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge." There are high and important lessons to be learned in looking "through nature up to nature's God." It is a gross mistake that the study of nature in the natural sciences, is at all subversive to the practice or spirit of Christianity. It is far otherwise. No one can properly study them without becoming a wiser, a better, and a more useful man. The proud, the arrogant, the wayward, are only those who have failed to learn the lessons of nature.

Nor are our powers of deduction to be disregarded. That Omniscience that doeth nothing in vain, has not directly revealed what reason is able clearly to grasp. There are relations which Deity has left us to perceive by the light of the reasoning powers he has implanted within us. And these powers ought to be cultivated and employed properly, in order to demonstrate to the infidel, that the true "Age of Reason" is to be found in the Age of Religion.

But it is in revelation proper, the Bible, that we are to find the most fruitful and profitable themes of inquiry. Here are specimens of the most finished language and of the most exalted and thrilling thought. Strange as it may seem to the thoughtless, it is nevertheless true, that the Bible contains specimens of the most impassioned and thrilling eloquence, of the most beautiful and high-wrought and at the same time chastened poetic imagery, of the most finished and elegant rhetorical language, of the most elevated and classic style, of the most clear and convincing deductions of logic, and all impassioned with the glowing interest of fervid earnestness. In these aspects, compare it with the present efforts of genius, with all that is classic in any language, and it appears but the more pre-eminent by the contrast.

It is however for the nature of its most sublime and interesting truths—such as never fell from uninspired lips—that the Bible assumes its highest value. Here, and nowhere else, are truths revealed, by which alone the perilled interests of our immortal spirits can be secured. Here, and here alone, are revelations of mercy—indications of forgiveness to fallen and penitent man. Here are streams that alone can well forth for the healing of the nations, and satisfy the craving thirst of the undying soul. Only by a clear perception, and an implicit observance of its truth, can we be prepared for long, unending eternity—that illimitable ocean, into which time, as a drop of the bucket, falls and is forever buried in a vast immensity of waters!

It might perhaps be interesting and profitable to interpret the voices which come up from the different revealings of God to man, and illustrate their practical application; but time will not permit, and my hearers must do this for themselves.

This investigation, however, is to be carried on in such a manner as to make its subjects ours—to incorporate them into the very texture of our mental and moral existence. They are to become so thoroughly understood, as to "belong" to us. And not only this, but they are to be so peculiarly ours, as to be left as a legacy "to our children forever." There is a superficial discussion of subjects, which is little better than day-dreaming; but the text contemplates a patient and persevering investigation, that looks through a subject, and perceives all its bearings.

The text teaches:—

III. That this is to be done, "that we may do all the words of this law." i. e. That the proper object of discussion and inquiry is to learn to obey God.

This corresponds with the teaching of a large portion of the Scriptures. The wise man says that to "fear God and keep his commandments, is the whole duty of man." If therefore investigation be at all a duty, it must be to fear God and keep his commandments. Paul says: "Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." Hence discussion is to be done for the glory of God; and this is always secured only by obedience to Him. The Saviour says: 'He that is not with me is against me." If therefore investigation be not "for" God, if it do not lead us to practical obedience to Him, it must be against him, and therefore unjustifiable.

This may seem to some a contracted view of the subject; but when it is remembered that religion, or obedience to God, reaches to all the relations and interests of man, it but enhances our conceptions of the practical benefit and importance of Christianity. It then renders the field of investigation coextensive with the real interests of humanity, and exalts religion to its true position of a balm for all our wounds, a preventative or a remedy for all our ills.

This object contemplates the teaching us how to live, so as to please God. To please Him in whose hands are the destinies of us all, is surely conducive to our highest and most essential interests. It instructs us what spirit we are to manifest toward God—what toward our fellow-beings; and that the spirit demanded by our relations to our Creator and our fellows, is precisely the spirit which in itself is best adapted to render us happy as well as good. This object also contemplates instructing us in the details of practical life; how to act under the diversified circumstances in which we are necessitated to participate. It informs us how even the untoward occurrences of life, may be made to contribute to our welfare—how we are to act in order ever to enjoy the happiness of virtue. More perhaps than all else, it teaches us how to be prepared to die; how to meet the icy monster with the victor's smile, exclaiming in triumph: "Oh death where is thy sting! Oh grave where is thy victory!" It informs us moreover how to become fitted for heaven—to train up our souls and affections for immortal, and ever-increasing bliss, where the wicked cease from troubling, and where the weary are at rest! Thrice precious boon!

And is not this a worthy object, and will any upon a death bed regret having lived and employed his powers for such an object! In the retributions of the judgment, will there be regret for having subserved such an object!—In the ever-rolling cycles of the unfathomable beatitudes of a blissful eternity, will there be regret for having consecrated the powers and hours of time to this object! It any dare not answer these interrogatories in the affirmative, does it not indicate that the object is indeed worthy of its exalted claims, and should demand constant and unwearied regard!

This subject suggests that the powers of thinking, talking and investigating, are among the choicest gifts of heaven to man. Without them we should not be unlike the brutes of the field that perish. It also suggests that the power of inquiring and discussing, is a "talent" for the proper improvement of which, God will hold us responsible. And lastly that disastrous consequences, both to ourselves and others, will result from neglecting or perverting it.

Note.—The phraseology in which these thoughts were originally delivered necessarily is not retained, and in some other respects there is some alteration.

Look Behind You!

BY ELDER J. F. WEISHAMPEL.

The angels said to Lot: "Look not behind thee;" but, reader, let your attention be arrested by the heading of this article, and look behind you for a moment, retrospecting the year that has just passed into the boundless vast of Eternity. Think not that this is too dry and insipid a subject for your reflection; for it may be that while you will recall to memory many circumstances that must grieve, you may also find some incidents and occurrences that will gladden your heart: and thus you may be amply repaid for your "glance at the past."

Commence with the beginning of the year of our Lord 1849. What was your condition, pecuniarily, physically, civilly and morally or religiously? Or, how were you situated with regard to the necessaries and comforts of this life? How was the state of your bodily health? How was your standing in society as a neighbor and citizen—and if young, what kind of a character did you then bear? And, lastly, what was the state of your soul or relationship with God?

1. Starting with the first of the above propositions, you may be able to trace the goodness of the Lord toward you. Perhaps you were poor then but are better off now. It was God's blessing that improved your condition, unless you got your gain unlawfully. Perhaps you are still poor. It may be that God's wisdom knows it to be necessary to keep you so. If so, submit reverently. It may also be that you have not been as industrious and economical as you ought, and your remissness in these particular requisites have kept you pinched with want. If so, be thankful it is no worse—silence your murmuring heart with the fact that thousands of your fellow-beings who are perhaps worthier than you, are in far worse circumstances and situations. Possibly you made no resolves then that you would act prudently in temporal matters during the year. If you did not, you can see the necessity of resolving so now, for the year you are in. If God spare you till another New Year, you may be differently and more comfortably conditioned. Try it. But perhaps you were then and are still in good circumstances in life. If so, it is from God—thank Him. But whether poor or rich, have you since then felt any commiseration for those who are less comfortable and fortunate than yourself? If you have not, and failed to render them such aid as you had in your power, where you knew that such aid would have been well deserved, is it not astonishing to you that the Lord has still remembered you? What feelings of remorse must fill your guilty breast for such unworthy indifference and cruel callousness. Repent, and let the future tell better for you. But look again. Is there not one beam of light on the trodden path of all the past year? Is there not one charitable act recorded?—Methinks I see your eyes glisten with the starting tear of joy, and hear you exclaiming: Yes, I remember, that amidst all my recreancy of duty, I performed one, two, three, or more acts that ameliorated the condition of such and another fellow creature. I did not then think of the blessedness of the deeds; but now, O how happy I feel! Whatever I may have come short in during the past, I am resolved that I will mend my ways for time to come. Wretched indeed is he who can read all his year's doings without one approving smile of his awakened conscience. But it may not be too late for him even now to repent and improve. "Learn to do well." Be industrious, economical, honest and benevolent.

2. What was the state of your bodily health last New Year? Is it better now than it was then? Attribute it to His blessing who has life, health and death in his hand. Is it worse now? Be content; for that is consistent with Nature. All things must fail and pass away, and you can expect nothing better. But you may have in a great measure contributed to your feebleness or other infirmity. Did you not perhaps injure your health by uncalled-for over-exertion or exposure; or by eating and drinking those things that were not good for the stomach; or indulging in the use of luxuries, such as tobacco in its various prepared forms,—all of which do injury in five cases out of six; or imprudently using poisonous preparations for medicines,—which often ruin the constitution of man for life; or by gratifying in various ways the lusts of the eye and flesh? Think upon this; and if you see yourself at fault, repent—for it is sinful to abuse our bodies—and let temperance in all things belonging to the body and mind be the principle to guide you, remembering that no injurious luxury can be indulged in without a violation of the laws that Nature's God has laid down to govern us. All such indulgences are violations, and are subject to woful penalties. "Be not deceived; God is not (or will not be) mocked" with impunity.—The invariable punishment for the violation of the physical laws, ought to teach us the certainty of the infliction of the punishment threatened against the violators of the moral law of God.

3. How was your standing in society a year ago? Was your conduct such as to entitle you to the credit of an honest, respectable and useful citizen—and if young, had you the character of being a steady, industrious, obedient and studious young man; or an affectionate, amiable, chaste, industrious and studious young woman? If it was so then, how is it now? If good, be thankful. Solomon says "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," and "better than precious ointment." It was not yourself alone that enabled you to preserve that good name; for the Lord's spirit is ever working with man to save him from all evils: and no evil, perhaps, can befall a man in this life that is more to be dreaded than that of getting and keeping a bad name. He suffers and all his house—even the community in which he lives are made partakers of the suffering of a bad man. Is your character impaired? If so, you know the cause of it. Go to work and repair it. Have you wronged your neighbor, or degraded yourself by any immoral or improper act or conduct? Make restitution for the wrong to your neighbor, and confess your fault or evil deeds, and reform from henceforth. You may rise again in public esteem. Perhaps your standing is better now than ever. If so, let your aim be to hold fast your good reputation, and by your general walk and conduct strive to shine with such lustre as do some you have known or heard of, whose fame you have often envied. If you are poor, remember that it is not riches that makes a good name; for many rich men have unenviable reputations. A writer truly says,—

"Honor and shame from no condition rise:
"Act well your part: there all the honor lies."

4. What was the state of your soul then? Perhaps you were yet "in your sins and in your blood"—"living without God"—travelling upon the "broad road that leadeth to destruction." Did you not last New Year think of becoming a better man or woman? How did you carry out the resolution you then made to "turn to the Lord and seek for salvation?" Alas! Poor, recreant, deceived, wretched sinner! the year 1850 has come, and finds you not only as bad as last year, but far more wicked! Your vows have not been paid to the Lord. Psalm 67: 13, 14; 116: 12, 17–19. Well, resolve again, but be sure to begin right—not in your own strength, but in that of the Lord. Give Him your heart at once, and you will succeed. But perhaps you were a professor of religion then: if so, are you in the enjoyment of as much grace now; or have you declined?—Examine yourself. If you have held your ground firmly be thankful, for you have done better than many others. If you have declined, do your first works over and be again re-instated in the favor of God. Have you improved, be glad and praise God; for it was by His help that you increased. My brother and sister, whether you be much improved or little, you remember, with me, to have come far short of our duties and privileges the past year. This grieves us; but we can perhaps look back and rejoice even now, that we have enjoyed God's blessing a few times during the year. Yes, glory be to God! And this shall impel us to further perseverance. We resolve and resolve again and again, but come short: well, our God bids us come and ask, and he will not turn us away. Let us be importunate, then, and from henceforth try, by receiving daily portions of grace, to live holier.

And finally. All who may read this, having thus looked back and retrospected the past, now turn your faces forward. Let frugality, industry, honesty, and with them becoming benevolence, characterize your course this year. Be careful not to abuse your body or mind in any intemperate indulgences. Let your general conduct be such as to elicit from all who know you, the confession that you are a good and useful citizen. But above all, saint and sinner, remembering that this may be your last year, prepare and be ready to meet your God. You have looked behind you, but now take the angels' admonition: "Look not behind thee, and tarry not in all the plains" of sin and folly—care and trouble—riches or earthly happiness—but "escape for thy life." And if we are spared till another year, let us be prepared to look over our diary of the present year, and see if we cannot give a better account of ourselves than at present. Memento mori.

JOURNAL
OF THE
Seventh West Penn'a. Eldership.

The Eldership of the Church of God in West Pennsylvania met, according to appointment, in the new meeting-house of Woodlands, Marshall county, Virginia, on the 24th of October, A. D., 1849.

The meeting was opened with the usual religious exercise, by brother Klein.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brothers Hovis and Glenn constitute the Eldership: whereupon the following delegates or members were found to be in attendance, viz:

CIRCUITS.

Westmoreland and Indiana—Brothers John Hickernell, Wm. Vance and B. Ober, teaching elders; and Christian Dillinger, ruling elder.

Greene County—Brother Stephen Barnhart, ruling elder.

Marshall County, Virginia—Brother Daniel Wertz, teaching elder; and Samuel Shuth and Lazarus Ryan, ruling elders.

Athens County, Ohio—Brother Abraham Osmore, teaching elder; and Seth Richmond, missionary.

Harmony, Venango and Rockland—Brothers Jacob M. Klein, John Hovis and Joseph Glenn, teaching elders; and John F. Clerk and Jacob Woodling, messengers.

Pittsburg Station—Brother Joseph A. Dobson, teaching elder.

Missionary Present—Seth Richmond.

ABSENTEES.

Brothers Henry Barkey, Abraham Latshaw, Lewis Kroft, Christian Cobaugh and Munson W. Cook.

On motion of brother Joseph Glenn, it was

Resolved, That we now proceed to organize the Eldership by electing, by ballot, a Speaker and Clerk: whereupon brother JACOB M. KLEIN was duly elected Speaker, and Daniel Wertz Clerk.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now adjourn to meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Session closed by brother Ober.

THURSDAY MORNING SESSION.

Met according to adjournment. Session opened by brother Joseph Glenn.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That a committee on Overtures be appointed.

Whereupon brothers John Hickernell, Dan'l Wertz and Abraham Osmore were appointed said committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine the Journal of last year's Eldership, and report the items of unfinished business.

Brothers Joseph Glenn, John Hovis and Seth Richmond were appointed said committee.

On motion of brother S. Richmond, it was

Resolved, That the committee on Overtures give in their report.

Whereupon they reported that they received four letters from different churches—three of which were referred to the Stationing Committee, and the other to a select committee.

Their report was adopted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the committee on unfinished business give in their report.

They reported that they found but one item, namely: the resolution relative to a mysterious resolution passed by the last General Eldership, and that the mystery had not as yet been unfolded.

On motion of brother Ober, it was

Resolved, That the Standing Committee give in their report.

The committee reported that they had met in the city of Pittsburg, and made the following arrangements, viz:

Report of the Standing Committee.

1. They appointed brother Joseph A. Dobson to the Pittsburg station, in the room of brother Jacob Myers, who wished to be transferred to the Ohio Eldership.

2. They appointed brothers Jacob M. Klein and John Hovis to the Venango and Rockland circuit.

3. They removed brother Joseph Glenn from the Rockland and Venango circuit to Harmony and Columbia circuit.

4. They wrote to brother Cobaugh, inquiring the cause of his non-attendance to the Eldership held in Brushy Valley last fall, and also for not entering upon the circuit assigned him; and after a due examination, we agreed to exonerate him from blame.

Their report was adopted.

On motion of brother Glenn, it was

Resolved, That we now adjourn to meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Prayer by brother Hovis.

FRIDAY MORNING SESSION.

Met according to adjournment. Session opened by brother Richmond.

On motion, the Journal of yesterday was read and corrected.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now hear the reports of the preachers.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the preachers withdraw while their characters are examined.

Reports of the Preachers.

Brothor JOHN HICKERNELL reported: That it was with a heart of deep-felt gratitude that he appeared once more in a yearly meeting, to speak of the goodness and multiplied kindness of God towards him. Since our last yearly meeting, he continued his labors on the circuit assigned him by the last Eldership; and that the good Lord, he thought, had given him some fruits of his labors. He had about fifty conversions under his immediate labors, including a few backsliders. In Brush Valley, at a late protracted meeting, 27 souls professed a hope in Christ, by believing in Him, including two backsliders, who returned to their membership. He took 23 into fellowship. He also received 12 at Bethany, his place of residence, into fellowship during the last year. There were also some few accessions to other churches. That he had 10 churches in his charge;—that the number of his appointments were 23:—the number of sermons preached were 215. He feels to go on in the good work of the Lord till he may see proper to call him home.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother B. OBER reported: That he was much gratified to meet his brethren in an Eldership capacity. That he had travelled in connection with brothers Hickernell and Vance, and had preached as much as circumstances would permit. That he had opened several new appointments. He thinks that more or less good has been done under his labors, and that he had preached 212 sermons during the last Eldership year. He still feels desirous to preach the gospel, to the best of his ability. He also desires the prayers of his brethren.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother WM. VANCE reported: That he feels truly thankful to God that he is once more permitted to meet his brethren in an Eldership capacity. He stated that he had labored in connection with brothers Ober and Hickernell, to the best of his ability, and that he trusts it was not altogether in vain. He prays God that some good may result from his labors. He also desires an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother DANIEL WERTZ reported: That according to the appointment of the last year's Eldership, he resumed his labors on the Marshall County (Va.) Circuit, but on account of bodily affliction, did not labor so much, nor yet so effectual, as he could wish to have done. However, there were about 25 baptisms, and 35 accessions on his field of labor, and that he preached for five congregations, with a number of calls from different parts. That the prospects on his route were very good. Yet it was very hard on the body in travelling. He also stated that the number of sermons he preached during the last Eldership year were 150. His request, for the coming year, from the Eldership, was this: not to have charge of a circuit the coming Eldership year; but to comply with several calls to preach—one at Short Creek, one at West Liberty, and one at Wheeling, Va. Also, to visit the Church of Marshall county, Va., occasionally. But still, he stands at the disposal of the Eldership, and he desires an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother JACOB M. KLEIN reported: That he is gratified to meet with as many of his brethren as he has found, in this hilly country of Virginia, it being always gratifying to him to meet his brethren in the ministry at least once a year. He states that he continued to labor on the circuit after the last Eldership, and seen some good effected. That he seen upwards of 60 conversions, and organized one new church. That he baptized about fifty since the last Eldership meeting, and that he had organized a Bible Class in Irvine township church, and one in Fiatville church, where there is also a Sabbath-school, under the supervision of the church, which is in a thriving condition. As it regards the church in that place, it was in good standing—prospects are quite flattering. The church in Irvine township was not so prosperous as might be, owing, perhaps, to the ill conduct of many of the wicked. The hearts of some have been discouraged. Yet, in a general way, she is looking up for better times. As it regards his future intentions, he feels inclined to preach the gospel, and desires an interest in the prayers of his dear brethren.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother JOHN HOVIS reported: That he feels glad for the privilege of meeting with his brethren in an Eldership meeting. That he had been travelling with brother Klein, and that he had felt and saw that their labors were not in vain in the Lord. Saw a number converted and baptized. Some in Slippery Rock, and some in Ohio. Since spring he labored in Rockland. Found the church in tolerable good standing. In the summer she received a shock from the enemy, which caused a great deal of barrenness. Notwithstanding there have been a few accessions to the Church. He still feels willing to travel and labor in the cause of God, according to the best of his abilities, and as circumstances will permit. He asks an interest in the prayers of his brethren, that he might become more useful in the vineyard of the Lord.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother JOSEPH GLENN reported: That he returned from the last Eldership and resumed his appointments in Rockland, and that he met with some success in the Church: that some three or four were convered, and also some few accessions made to the Church in that place. That he had opened a considerable mission through Clarion and Armstrong counties—quite a number of appointments—whilst the Macedonian cry was still heard from every side, "Come over and help us." But being notified by the Standing Committee, he was obliged to give up his field of mission and take charge of the Harmony circuit.—Sometime in April he assumed his labors on this circuit, and found the churches in but ordinary standing. That the church in Columbiana county, Ohio, numbered nine members. The church at Slippery Rock labored under some disadvantages. First, in not having a house of worship, and not having the ordinances administered for better than a year. Notwithstanding all this, the Lord still revived His work. At a late meeting six or seven were converted, three baptized, and five added to her number. The church numbers about thirty. Prospects at present are good. The church at Harmony is but small in number, and in want of German preaching. The church at Middlesex also is small, and has been neglected. However, he thinks good may be done in all these places, if proper care be taken.

As for himself, he feels to go on in preaching the gospel; but on account of ill health, he cannot give himself into the hands of the Eldership at present. He desires an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother ABRAHAM OSMORE reported: That he felt thankful to God that he was permitted to meet his brethren once more in an Eldership capacity. He also felt thankful for the kindness manifested to him on his circuit. That he had went to Athens county, Ohio, in compliance with the Eldership, as a missionary. But in consequence of the sparseness of preaching, the cause of religion was very much down. Yet there are some visible signs of a reformation. He had seen some good meetings lately—some few conversions and accessions. He felt a desire to go on in the good work, to the best of his abilities.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother JOSEPH A. DOBSON reported: That he felt to bless God for this another privilege of meeting his brethren in the ministry. According to the appointment of the Standing Committee, he resumed the charge of the church in Pittsburg; but in consequence of various impediments, always existing in that place, no special good bad been done. However, he still desires to preach the gospel. He also desires an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now adjourn to meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Session closed with prayer.

—

SATURDAY MORNING SESSION.

Met according to adjournment. Session opened by brother J. M. Klein.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Journal of yesterday be read and corrected.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now resume the hearing of the reports of the preachers.

Brother SETH RICHMOND reported: That he felt grateful to God to meet his brethren in an Eldership meeting. That since the last Eldership, he acted in the capacity of a bome missionary in Athens county, Ohio: that he did not preach very often; however, he is not discouraged, trusting the Lord will soon open his way to travel. He hopes and desires to become more useful in His vineyard, and desires an interest in the prayers of his brethren.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother JOHN GILLESPIE was heard from by brother Hickernell and others. His case was disposed of as follows, viz:

Whereas, brother Gillespie has, by mismanagement, placed himself in temporal difficulties, and in consequence of which has tendered his license to the Standing Committee; (but since which time has considered his circumstances spiritually) and whereas, he bas again applied to the Eldership for a renewal of his license; therefore,

Resolved, That he be advised to make use of some honest means to satisfy the minds of those whom it may most concern in the above difficulties, and then have recourse to the Standing Committee, for a renewal of his license.

Brother ABRAHAM LATSHAW was heard from by brother Glenn.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother HENRY BARKEY reported by letter.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother LEWIS KROFT was heard from by brother Dobson.

His report was adopted and his license renewed.

Brother JACOB MYERS was heard from by the Standing Committee: That he was transferred to the Ohio Eldership. Report adopted.

Brother CHRISTIAN COBAUGH was heard from by letter to brothers Hickernell and Klein.

Whereas, brother Cobaugh has left the bounds of this Eldership in an irregular manner; and whereas, the Standing Committee has heard from him by letter, in which he gives satisfaction, by an humble acknowledgment; and whereas, he desires a renewal of his license; therefore,

Resolved, That this Eldership forgive him—adopt his report, and renew his license.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now hear applications for license.

Brother WILLIAM DAVIS, a minister of the Evangelic Society, made application for license, through brother Ober.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That brother WILLIAM DAVIS be received into fellowship, and be licensed by this Eldership.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now appoint a Stationing Committee of five.

The committee consists of brothers John Hickernell, Joseph A. Dobson, Jacob M. Klein, Wm. Vance and Daniel Wertz.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Resolved, That all the preachers of this Eldership, on their respective stations and circuits, take up collections and receive donations, and that they bring the money to the Eldership at its next session, and that the same be applied to travelling preachers, as they may have need.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Eldership advise all the churches to strive and pray to revive the former Camp-meeting spirit in all their members.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now elect a Standing Committee of three.

Whereupon brothers Jacob M. Klein, John Hickernell and Wm. Vance were elected said committee.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now adjourn to meet this evening after preaching.

Session closed with prayer.

—

EVENING SESSION.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Stationing Committee now report.

Report of the Stationing Committee.

The committee reported that the preachers were stationed as follows, viz:

Marshall County, Virginia, Circuit, (including Greene county, Pa.)—Brothers DAN'L WERTZ and B. OBER.

Bethany Circuit, (including Bethany, West Newton, Redstown and the Ridge churches)—Brother E. LOGUE.

Youngstown Circuit, (including the Youngstown, Salt Lick and Turkey-foot churches)—Brother WILLIAM VANCE.

Indiana County Circuit—Brother SETH RICHMOND.

Rockland Circuit, Venango County—Brother JOHN HOVIS.

Irvine Township Circuit, Venango County, (including the Irvine and Fiatville churches with their appointments)—Brother JACOB M. KLEIN.

Harmony Circuit, (including the Middlesex, Harmony, Slippery Rock, and Columbia, Ohio, churches)—Brother WILLIAM DAVIS.

Athens County Circuit, Ohio—Brother ABRAHAM OSMORE.

Missonaries—John Hickernell, Jos. A. Dobson, Lewis Kroft, Henry Barkey, Abraham Latshaw and Christian Cobaugh.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Standing Committee meet in Bethany on the first Saturday in May, to arrange the Camp-meetings for the coming season.

They hope there will be no delay upon the part of the preachers and churches to send in their requests, and that in due time. Let every minister ascertain, the first round he takes on his circuit in April, the wishes of the people, and then inform one of the Standing Committee immediately. There ought to be at least one Camp-meeting on every circuit.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That this Eldership tender their hearty thanks to the church and friendly people of Marshall county, Va., for their kindness and hospitality to usward during the session of our Eldership in this place.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That we now adjourn to meet on the fourth Wednesday of October, in the year of our Lord 1850, at Fiatville, Lawrence county, Pa.

JACOB M. KLEIN, Speaker.

DANIEL WERTZ, Clerk.

Letter from Brother Isaac Miller.

COMO, Whiteside County, Illinois, September 14, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I TAKE my pen in hand once more to inform you that we are very much interested about a preacher coming to this part of the country. There is a great inquiry made about brother Harn in every direction, and a goodly number say they will liberally support him if he comes to this country. I will pledge fifty dollars towards brother Harn's support in the Rock River country.

We want a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost; and one that can defend the true character of the Church of God: for there are a great many critics here, and Universalism, Infidelity and Sectarian bigotry abounds to a great extent.

A minister of the M. E. P. Church, of Buffalo village, misrepresented brother Harn on Feet-washing, who was hailed by a merchant of the same place, who contended for the rights of brother Harn, and finally got the victory over his opponent.

I also send you a few more pledges for the missionary cause.

Now we do hope that the Eldership will take pity on the brethren and sisters of Illinois, and send us a minister.

A few thoughts more, and then I will close for the present. DANIEL WÆCHTEL is dead. He died September 27th, of Billious Fever. He was a young man of a little over 22 years of age. He was a promising, moral and respectable young man. He was strongly attached to the Church. He promised five dollars to the missionary cause. He was raised in the Broad Fording neighborhood, Washington county, Maryland.

Yours, &c.,

ISAAC MILLER.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Maryland U. S. Senator.—David Stewart, Esq., of Baltimore, has been appointed U. S. Senator by Gov. Thomas, of Maryland, in the room of Hon. Reverdy Johnson, resigned. The Governor had previously appointed Benj. C. Howard, Esq., who declined. Another Senator will be elected by the next Legislature, which is Whig, and will meet soon.

Business on the Columbia Railroad.—The following shows the receipts and expenses of the Columbia and Philadelphia Railroad, for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1849:

Amount of motive power tolls received as per reports of Collectors,	$297,574 59
Do. Road, do do.,	290,352 35
		587,726 64
Amount of expenses from December 1, 1849, to Nov. 30, 1849,		336,422 26
Net profits, or over 9 per cent. on $4,000,000, the cost of road and machinery,		327,182 36

From California.—Accounts from California continue favorable. The health at the mines was generally good, excepting slight attacks of dysentery.

There had been large arrivals from Europe and the United States.

One hundred British vessels were at San Francisco.

There were 80,000 persons at the mines.

The Constitution for the State of California had been adopted and published.

Whole Number of Vetoes.—The veto power has been exercised twenty-five times since the formation of the Government, viz: By George Washington, 2; James Madison, 6; James Monroe, 1; Andrew Jackson, 9; John Tyler, 4; James K. Polk, 3.—Total number of vetoes, 25. The whole number of acts passed and approved since the origin of the Government, is about 7,000, which will make 280 acts to one veto.

A Large Meteor.—An explosion of a meteor was heard in North Carolinia a few days ago, and several pieces of iron were picked up the next day supposed to be portions of it. The largest piece was found in Cabarrus county, weighing nineteen pounds. It had struck a large pine-tree, laying on the ground, went through it, breaking it in two, and then into the earth to the depth of three feet.

Salt Lake Basin—The Mormons.—The St. Louis Republican has some late information from the Great Salt Lake. The Mormons have established a mint of their own, at which a large amount of the California gold dust has been coined. They have issued coin of various denominations, to the amount of $20 pieces.

Religion and Politics.—The Convention revising the Constitution of Kentucky, have inserted a clause, by a vote of 76 yeas to 17 nays, declaring Preachers and Ministers of the gospel eligible to seats in the Legislature.

California Official Salaries.—The new Constitution fixes the salary of the Governor of California at $10,000 per annum, and members of the Legislature are to have $16 per day. The Secretary of State is to receive $6,000 a year.

Interesting from Oregon.—The Indiana Sentinel publishes a letter from the Hon. W. P. Bryant, dated Oregon City, 18th, which affords some interesting items in regard to that distant Territory. The Legislature, which was then in session, was engaged in devising means for the relief of the expected emigrants. The packers, who had that day arrived, in advance of the emigrants, reported 8000 wagons on the road, about 2000 destined for Oregon, and the rest for California. About 700 emigrants had died of cholera, between the Missouri and Blue river. The wheat crop, although not abundant, owing to the scarcity of labor, caused by the emigration to California, was very fine. Laborers in the harvest field received six dollars per day, and other labor was proportionably high.—During the season, from May 7th to August 18th, fifty-eight vessels arrived in the Columbia river, ranging from 40 tons to 700; and not a single accident, of a serious character, had happened. Several new and good harbors have been discovered on the coast, south of Columbia river.

A New Musical Invention.—There is no branch of the science of music so difficult to understand as the transposition of the scale or the moving of the key note from one letter of the staff to another. Mr. J. Kemp, of this city, teacher of vocal and instrumental music, has just completed a new arrangement of all the musical scales, both Major and Minor, in a circular form, which he calls the Diatonic Major and Minor circular scale, for vocal and instrumental music. The whole is contained in a circle of eight inches in diameter, in which are placed twelve circular staffs, arranged with mathematical precision, on which the scales are written. A copyright is being secured, and the whole will shortly be published in a convenient form.—Chron.

The Boundary.—The "initial point" of boundary between the United States and the Mexican Republic was fixed and acknowledged on Wednesday, the 10th of October. There were present some forty persons, including two American Ladies and officers, (from the garrison at San Diego.) It falls about seventeen miles to the Southward of the town of San Diego. The Joint Commission, composed of the two Commissioners and two Surveyors, had signed an inscription, which was written and heremetrically sealed in a glass bottle. This was buried below a post placed in the centre of a circle thirty feet in diameter, marked out for a monument to be erected hereafter.

☞ San Francisco town, is said to contain about 30,000 inhabitants. Vessels in large numbers continue to arrive. It is es imated that no less than 100 British vessels arrived there in October. The Steamer at Panama on the 22d of October, had $114,000 for England.

Railroad and the Sabbath.—It will greatly please the friends of good order and the Sabbath in Western N. York, to learn that the running of trains on the Sabbath has been discontinued on the great lines of Railroad from Albany to Buffalo. The conviction of the demoralizing tendency of these trains, as well as of their unprofitableness, has been gaining ground in the community very fast, and it has at last reached the proper place. We cannot but hope that the good example will not be without its influence upon other companies in the country.

☞ A Railroad Convention is to be held next month in Georgia, to take steps for completing the line of Railroad communication between New York and New Orleans in four days and a half. The distance could be accomplished as follows:

New Orleans to Mobile,	18	hours.
Mobile to Columbus,	12	"
Columbus to Macon,	4	"
Macon to Savannah,	11	"
Savannah to New York,	60	"
	105

Four days and nine hours.

The Cabinet at Church.—The Postmaster General has taken a pew in the Presbyterian Church on Four-and-a-half street.—The Secretary of the Treasury one at the Protestant Episcopal Church, and Mr. Ewing at St. Matthew's (Roman Catholic) church.

☞ The Annual Register of the Methodist Protestant Church gives us the following in reference to that denomination:—32 Annual Conferences—68 Stations—351 Circuits—99 Missions—Itinerant Ministers and Presidents, 771—Unstationed Ministers and Presidents, 700—Members, 62,305.

Destructive Fire.—A fire occurred at Baton Rouge, Louisiana, on the 28th of November, which destroyed one hundred thousand dollars worth of property.

Election of Judges.—The lower House of the Tennessee Legislature has passed an act for the election of the entire Judiciary of that State by the people.

Father Matthew.—Father Matthew is now at Washington city, and has been admitted to a place on the floor of the Hall of the House of Representatives.

☞ The number of individuals executed by sentence of court martial at Vienna up to the present time, is stated to be sixteen hundred and nineteen.

☞ December 14th was the fiftieth Anniversary of the death of the great and good WASHINGTON, who died at the age of 68 years.

☞ An immense quantity of sand suitable for manufacturing glass has been discovered near Cumberland, Md.

Progoess of Improvement.—Twelve years ago the expense of the journey from New York to Chicogo was thirty-six dollars and a half; it may now be performed for $17.

Girard College.—Prof. Allen, of Dickinson College, has received and accepted the appointment of President of this Institution.

A Growing Place.—Since the 1st of January, 1849, 68,058 new houses have been built in the city of London.

☞ A wedding recently came off in the county prison at Pittsburg. A young man, now serving out a three years' sentence, for arson, was married to a bride who is at liberty. She came to the prison to marry him.

☞ The entire number of prisoners committed to the County Jail in Cincinnati for the past year, was 1,181. Of these 468 were natives, 592 foreigners, and 101 negroes.

☞ A storm recently occurred in Louisiana, which destroyed property to the amount of $150,000; several persons were also crushed by its ravages.

☞ It is contemplated to hold an Anti-slavery World's Convention, in N. York, next summer.

☞ It is reported that Dr. Durbin intends to leave the Methodist, and join the New School Presbyterian Church.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WOMAN UNDER A MONARCHY AND A REPUBLIC.

The Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger writes: 'In Vienna, where soldiers abound, women dig cellars and carry hods. These are Bohemian beauties. I have before me a medical work, which speaks of death simply when a woman carries a hod and a child together. Imagine an apothesis to this effect. In Paris, women clean the streets. In Calais, they descend into pools of filth in wharf laying—men recoiling before the immensity of the Augean-like task. If in England women only drink gin, and work in turnip-fields for six-pence a day, it is because Democracy has in a great degree curbed the influences of privileged orders, so degrading to them.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS.

The Decalogue is thus tersely and quaintly rendered into rhyme, and would, in this shape, be a good exercise for the memories of young children:

I. I am the Lord thy God—serve only me:
II. Before no idols bow the impious knee:
III. Use not my name in trifles, nor in jest;
IV. Dare not profane my sacred day of rest:
V. Ever to parents due obedience pay:
VI. Thy fellow-creature, man, thou shalt not slay;
VII. In no adult'rous action bear a part;
VIII. From stealing, keep both hand and heart;
IX. All false reports against thy neighbors hate;
X. And ne'er indulge a wish for his estate.

REASONS FOR LEARNING TO SING.

The celebrated Wm. Byrd, author of "Non nobis Domino," gave the following very forcible reasons for learning to sing, in a scarce work, published in 1598, entitled, "Psalms, Sonnets, and Songs of Sadness and Pietie:"

First. It is a knowledge easilie taught and quickly learned where there is a good master and apt scholar. Secondly. The exercise of singing is delightful to nature, and good to preserve the health of man.—Thirdly. It doth strengthen all parts of the heart, and doth open the pipes. Fourthly. It is a singular good remedie for stuttering and stammering in the speech. Fifthly. It is the best means to preserve a perfect pronunciation, and to make a good orator.—Sixthly. It is the only way to know when nature hath bestowed a good voice, which gift is so rare that there is not one among a thousand that hath it; and in many that excellent gift is lost because they want an art to express nature. Seventhly. There is not any music of instruments whatsoever, comparable to that which is made of men's voices, when the voices are good, and the same well sorted and ordered.—Eightly. The better the voice is, the meeter it is to honor and serve God therewith; and the voice of man is chiefly to be employed to that end.

BEHAVIOR IN COMPANY.

On the subject of behavior in company, Leigh Richardson gives the following excellent advice to his daughters: Be cheerful, but not gigglers. Be serious, but not dull. Be communicative, but not forward. Be kind, but not servile. Beware of silly, thoughtless speeches; although you may forget them, others will not. Remember God's eye is in every place, and his ears in every company. Beware of levity and familiarity with young men; a modest reserve without affection, is the only safe path. Court and encourage serious conversation with those who are truly serious and conversible; and do not go into valuable company without endeavoring to improve by the intercourse premitted to you. Nothing is more unbecoming, when one part of a company is engaged in profilable and interesting conversation, than that another part should be trifling, giggling, and talking comparative nonsense to each other."

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

Dr. Sylvester, an Italian by birth, and an eminent chemist, has discovered a mode of hardening the human body to the consistency of stone or solid marble, which he is about to exhibit in London. His specimens have excited great astonishment. One was the head of a lady, with the hair parted and dressed, retaining its flexible properties and colors, although the surface from which it grew resembled stone—somewhat like wax model; also a child's head, plump and dimpled as in life, and a tongue, petrified, as if it had never uttered a sound. The petrifying process is said to be simple and cheap. A boquet of choice flowers, the juice first extracted by a pneumatic process—preserved under their natural colors, but were as hard and rigid as if some cunning workman had carved them from Parisian marble; for not only the leaves and petals were rendered stone like but the minute, hair-formed stems were rendered caroline.

DILIGENT IN BUSINESS

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business?" says Solomon, "he shall stand before kings." We have a striking illustration of this aphorism in the life of Dr. Franklin, who, quoting the sentence himself, adds:

"This is true; I have stood in the presence of five kings, and once had the honor of dining with one."

All in consequence of his having been "diligent in business" from his earliest years. What a lesson is this for our youth and for us all!

An incorrigibly lazy man, says the New Orleans Presbyterian, cannot be a good Christian. His life is an unceasing warfare both with nature and grace. Constant employment is the surest way to cheerfulness, contentment, and happiness There is no situation in which the idle can be happy. They are peevish fretful, irascible. Nature and art are alike uninteresting to them. Their springs of life are rusting out. The decay of death has already commenced undermining their constitutions.

Go then, ye sighing sons of idleness, and learn that in the sweat of the brow, and in the honest toil of the intellect, you may both be useful and happy.

PRESIDENT TAYLOR AND THANKSGIVING.

The following is a copy of a letter from President Taylor to a gentleman, in New York, who had written to him on the subject of appointing a day of National Thanksgiving:

"Washington, Nov. 6, 1849.

Sir:—Your communication of October 12th, in relation to a proclamation for a day of national thanksgiving, was duly received, and, with many others of the same import, has been considered with the attention which its importance demands. While uniting cordially with the universal feeling of thankfulness to God for his manifold blessings, and especially for the abatement of the pestilence which so lately walked in our midst, I have yet thought it most proper to leave the subject of a thanksgiving proclamation where custom has so long consigned it—in the hands of the Governors of the several States. This decision has been strengthened by the considerations that this is the season usually set apart for that purpose, and that several Governors have already issued their annual proclamation accordlying.

With high respect, I remain your friend and serv't, Z. Taylor."

TRUTH.

Truth courts investigation, but error shrinks from scrutiny. Truth fears no evil from the most rigid examination, but error always fears the consequence.—Truth is immutable, and will stand criticism. Truth, like its author, is eternal, and will exist amidst the wreck of matter and the crush of worlds, whilst error will be swept away with the refuge of lies.—The more you examine truth, like gold, the brighter it will shine. Truth is never tarnished by inspection, but discovers the more splendor. Any system which shrinks from scrutiny discovers corruption in its premises, and is unworthy the attention of an intelligent mind. A certain writer has said, with the utmost propriety: "He that will not reason is a bigot; he that cannot reason is a fool; and he that dares not reason is a slave."

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

A protracted meeting will be held, God willing, in Marietta, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on the 5th of January, 1850.

We wish you and brother B. Howard to come to our help. J. Keller,

A protracted meeting will be held in Berlin, Stark county, Ohio, commencing on the 10th of January, 1850.

Henry Murray.

A protracted meeting will be held at Germany, Perry county, Pa., commencing on the 12th inst.

The preaching brethren are respectfully invited to attend. W. G. Coulter.

Notice to the Ohio Brethren.

The brethren throughout the bounds of the Ohio Eldership, who are in arrears on the missionary subscription, for the past year, are hereby requested to pay up between now and the meeting of the Standing Committee in February, in Wooster. Those holding subscriptions, will please exert themselves to have it collected. A. Megrew,

On behalf of the Board.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 13th of October last, by Elder Wilson G. Coulter, Mr. Garrett McQuillen to Miss Susan Fry, both of Greenwood township, Perry county, Pa.

On the 20th of November last, by the Rev. W. R. De Witt, Mr. Hiram R. Hull to Miss Margaret Connell, both of Lancaster county, Pa.

On the 8th ult., by the same, Mr. John A. Weir to Miss Matilda Fahnestock, all of this place.

On the 25th of November last, by Elder A. Snyder, Mr. Daniel Diehl to Miss Sarah Carroll, both of Highspire, Dauphin county, Penn'a.

On the 6th ult., by the Rev. L. Gerhart, Mr. George Eshenaur to Miss Barbara Streit, both of Swatara.

On the 11th ult., by the same, Mr. John Booser, of Dauphin county, to Miss Sarah Foster, of Lancaster county, Pa.

On the 20th ult., by the same, Mr. Frederick Scheffer to Miss Caroline Eck, both of Harrisburg.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

Departed this life, at Matamoras, Dauphin county, Pa., Catharine Elizabeth Weltmer, youngest daughter of brother Joseph and sister Catharine Weltmer, aged 1 year, 3 months and 19 days.

Her remains were interred on the 22nd of December, in the grave-yard connected with the Bethel at Matamoras; at which time and place a discourse was delivered, by the writer, from the 39th Psalm and 4th verse, to a small but very attentive congregation.

Farewell, my babe, child, and if possible,
Should I wish thee back again with me,
When from this world of sorrow thou art free!
With thee the storm of life is o'er—
With me is anguish and distracting fear—
The gift of human life.
But thou immortal hast become;
All this to thee was yet unknown:
Soon the sea did cease to run,
And thou to thy eternal home art gone.

W. G. Coulter.

POETRY.

THE CHRISTIAN'S WALK.

Christian! walk carefully—danger is near,
Work out thy journey with trembling and fear;
Snares from without, and temptations within,
Seek to entice thee again into sin.

Christian! walk humbly—exult not in pride,
All that thou hast is by Jesus supplied:
He holdeth thee up, He directeth thy ways,
To Him be the glory—to Him be the praise.

Christian! walk cheerfully--tho' the dark storm
Fill the bright sky with the clouds of alarm;
Soon will the clouds and the tempest be past,
And thou shalt dwell safely with Jesus at last,

Christian! walk steadfastly while it is light:
Swift are approaching the shades of the night;
All that thy Master hath bidden thee do,
Haste to perform, for the moments are few.

Christian! walk prayerfully—oft wilt thou fall,
If thou forget on thy Saviour to call;
Safe shalt thou walk thro' each trial and care,
If thou art clad in the armor of prayer.

Christian! walk joyfully—trouble and pain
Cease when the haven of rest thou dost gain;
This thy bright glory, and this thy reward,
"Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord!"

A PRAYER.

When for some little insult given,
My angry passions rise;
I'll think how Jesus came from heaven,
And bore his injuries.

Dear Saviour, may I learn of thee
My temper to amend;
And, walking in humility,
May peace my steps attend.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Funk & Miller, Commission Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 37½	a 4	50
Do. Rye, do. - -	2 50	a 2	56
Do. Corn, do. - -	2 50	a 2	56
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	93	a	95
Do. Rye, do. - -	55	a	56
Do. Corn, do. - -	55	a	56
Do. Oats, do. - -	30	a	33
Do. Barley, do. - -	60	a	65
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	3 75	a 4	00
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 25	a 2	50
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 00	a 1	10
BEEF, per cwt. - - - -	5 00	a 5	50
PORK, do. - - - - -	5 00	a 5	25
HAMS, per pound, - - -	10	a	11
BUTTER, do. - - - - -	12½	a	15
LARD, do. - - - - -	7	a	8
TALLOW, do. - - - - -	8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.	6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen, - - - -	10	a	12½
POTATOES, per bushel, - -	87½	a 1	00
ONIONS, do. - - -	75	a	87½
APPLES, do. - - -	25	a	30
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.	1 25	a 1	30
FEATHERS, per pound, - -	37½	a	45
WOOL, do. - - -	30	a	50
SALT, per sack, - - - -	1 20	a 1	25
HAY, per ton, - - - - -	11 00	*a*12	00
PLASTER, per ton, - - -	4 00	a 4	25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—Wheat, per barrel,	$4 75	a 5	00
Do. Rye, do. -	3 00	a 3	06
Do. Corn, do. - -	3 00	a 3	06
GRAIN—Wheat, per bushel,	1 02	a 1	05
Do. Rye, do. - -	62½	a	62½
Do. Corn, new do. - -	65	a	65
Do. Oats, do. - -	31	a	31
Do. Barley, do. - -	75	a	80
SEEDS—Clover, do. - -	4 37	a 4	50
Do. Timothy, do. - -	2 75	a 3	00
Do. Flax, do. - -	1 35	a 1	40
BEEF, per cwt., - - -	7 00	a 8	75
PORK, do. - - - - -	7 00	a 7	25

WEISHAMPEL'S
Patented Revolving Coal Grate.

THE subscriber will sell the Right for the States of Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Western Pennsylvania, and Western Virginia, of his Patented Revolving Horizontal Coal Grate for Cooking, Parlor and Office Stoves. By this invention all the difficulties in burning every kind of stone coal are obviated. The Letters Patent were granted June 19, 1849. The stoves used last winter and this season, give entire satisfaction. He will sell either of the above States and portions at reasonable prices. For testimonials as to the performance of the stove, he refers to Dr. John Rose, B. M. D., Baltimore, Md.; Dr. John Hardtner, Carrollton, Illinois; Dr. Frederick Brenneman, Marietta, Pa.; Mr. James H. Bateman, Winchester, Va. Letters (post-paid) addressed to either of the above gentlemen, or to Rev. John Winebrenner, Editor of this paper, will receive satisfactory answers; and such as are addressed (pre-paid) to the subscriber will receive prompt attention.

JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL,
Inventor and Patentee, Baltimore, Md.
December 15, 1849.—3t.

PROSPECTUS
FOR THE CHRISTIAN PEARL
AND MUSICAL ANNUAL
FOR 1850.

A Monthly Family Magazine for all Denominations of Christians—devoted to the Bible, Christian Union, Literature, Christian Benevolence, Music, &c.]

To be printed on good paper and new type, in double columns. Each number to contain a beautiful Steel Engraving, Original Music, &c., and be enriched by contributions from the most talented authors.

The Literary department will be made as attractive as possible. It will comprise Biography—Essays on Popular subjects—Illustrations of Bible History—Poetry, &c. The object here will be, to present a pleasing and useful variety, calculated to enlarge, exalt and sanctify the mind and heart.

In future, no article will be so long as to weary the reader, or exclude other matter that might be presented with advantage to the work. All articles will be carefully examined before they are inserted, so as to preserve the purity and usefulness of the book.

The Musical department will comprise a variety of instructive matter from different authors, calculated to interest the friends of both Sacred and Secular Music; and those favorable to the science, should therefore subscribe. It is intended to express the truth in regard to any existing errors in music, without fear or favor; but, at the same time, our columns will be open for those who may choose to differ, and advance their opinions. One or two pages of original Music will also be given in each number.

We hope to enlist the aid of our highly esteemed friend, Charles Collins, Jr., A. M., to superintend this entire department, who kindly and gratuitously rendered valuable assistance in the third volume, by the instructive series of Lectures on this subject, as well as various pieces of original music.

Valuable correspondents will be secured for all the above named departments; and our subscribers may depend on receiving a work worth more, in every respect, than the amount of money they will pay annually—a work which, for neatness, variety, entertainment and essential usefulness, cannot be excelled.

Terms of the Christian Pearl & Musical Annual.
$1 00 per Annum, in Advance.

At the end of the year, subscribers will possess a most beautiful Annual, containing numerous fine steel and other Engravings, a variety of Music, &c., besides nearly 300 pages of choice literary matter. Christian friends, musical friends, send us your name, and neglect not the Dollar!

GEORGE F. GORDON, Publisher,
Philadelphia.

AGENTS

Of good character, active and enterprising, are wanted to canvass for "The Christian Pearl and Musical Annual" for 1850. Apply at the Office of the Christian Pearl and Musical Annual, on Twelfth street, above Spring Garden.

December 15, 1849.

Missionary Pledges.

We, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner, - -	$10 00
William Reichert, - -	5 00
Isaac Miller, - - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley, - - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn, - -	5 00
M. F. Snavely, - - -	10 00
Jacob Miller, - - -	10 00
James Miller, - - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh, - - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm, - -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe, - - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich, - -	7 50
Abraham Swartz, - - -	5 00
A liberal brother, - -	20 00
A liberal sister, - - -	2 00
David Strickler, - - -	5 00
James Casy, - - -	5 00
Samuel M. Hoover, - -	5 00

Evangelical Music.

THE proprietor offers for sale, at reduced prices, the Evangelical Music-book, containing a great variety of popular Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Set pieces and Anthems.

This popular Music-book has been before the public for a number of years, and has received a very flattering reception among various Religious Denominations and Musical Associations.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the Minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia.—"The committee state that they have examined, as carefully as practicable, the 'Evangelical Music,' and cheerfully recommend it to the congregations under their care, as a good system of Church Music."

From the Minutes of the Bellefonte Musical Association.—"Resolved, That we consider 'Evangelical Music' the best work of the kind known to us; and cheerfully recommend it to all lovers of Sacred Music."

☞ For sale at this office, and at our Depositories. Editor.

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

The Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo decimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to subscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following
NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.
Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of all the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and embossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by John Winebrenner & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

For the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, and DANIEL GETTY, No. 110 South Third street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

SARAH SADLER, Allegheny City, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, - -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, - -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.

JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., JANUARY 15, 1850. NUMBER 18.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

State Temperance Convention.

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Temperance Convention, will be held at Lancaster, on Tuesday, the 22d inst.

Pay Your Preachers.

Let the churches bear in mind that the Eldership year is nearly up, and that they ought to pay up their preachers in good time, so that they can pay up all their bills, and be free from all perplexity of mind when moving time comes. These things are frequently left to hang on too long.

Mysterious Resolution.

The West Pennsylvania Eldership has been talking about a mysterious resolution, passed by the General Eldership, in two annual Journals. If any one member of that body will let us know to what resolution reference is had, we shall try to solve the seeming mystery. As yet, we have no knowledge of the resolution in question.

Our Accounts.

We state, again, that our accounts for dues on the Advocate, will be forwarded in this paper. They include all arrearages and dues, to the end of this volume. We respectfully request prompt remittances. Those who fail to do so, will have duplicate bills sent to our agents for collection.

Those in arrears for books, over six months, will also oblige us very much, by settling up their accounts, without defalcation.

Hand-bills and Job-work.

If our friends in the neighborhood have any hand-bills and job-work to do, we request them to give us a call, and we shall be glad to accommodate them, on fair and reasonable terms.

Pennsylvania Railroad.

At a meeting of the Directors of this company, held a few weeks ago in Philadelphia, it was resolved to put the Western Division of the road to Pittsburg, under contract at the earliest practicable day.

Four Questions Answered.

Brother E. Logue propounds the following questions, and asks for a reply, viz:

Question 1st.—By what law of the New Testament was the Washington County Circuit governed, in preferring charges against E. Logue?

The circuit did not prefer charges against E. Logue. It was merely a letter writer from that circuit, and he only complained of his (Logue's) neglect in filling appointments. If we mistake not, the letter was written by Thos. D. G. Grim. The committee appointed were to examine the grounds of complaints. They may result in the conviction of the accuser instead of the accused. But should there be proper grounds for complaint, there may be New Testament law to justify the plaintive or accusing party in the course taken, without private or personal steps in the premises. These are required, only, in case of personal offence.

Question 2d.—By what law was the Eldership governed? &c.

The Eldership received no charges against E. Logue, neither did they publish him as under charges, nor had they any disposition to condemn him, as he intimates; but they claimed the right, in his case as in all others, to examine, or inquire, into any reasonable grounds of complaint, and to that end appointed the committee.

Question 3d.—Did the plaintives or the Eldership, deal with E. Logue, as they would that men should do with them? &c.

As for the plaintive, I cannot speak; but so far as the Eldership is concerned, they done nothing amiss. They wish to ascertain the facts in the case, and then judge accordingly. Any person whose standing is good, has nothing to fear, and never shrinks from a fair investigation into his official conduct.

Question 4th.—Can a New Testament Church approbate such proceedings? &c.

A New Testament Church ought not to prefer charges against any one, without cause: but she may institute an inquiry into any alleged grounds of complaint. This is all the Eldership has done in E. Logue's case. Of this course, he has no just cause to complain.

Report of the Secretary of the Treasury.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

The receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1849, were:

Receipts from customs,		$28,346,738 82
" " public land,		1,688,959 55
" " miscl'us sources,		1,038,649 13
" " avails of treasury notes and loans in specie,		17,755,750 00
" " do funded,		10,833,000 00
		$59,663,097 50
Add balance in the Treasury July 1, 1848,		153,534 60
		$59,816,632 10
The expenditures for the same fiscal year, were in cash,	$46,798,667 82
Treasury notes funded,	10,833,000 00
		$57,631,667 82
Leaving a balance in the Treasury July 1, 1849,		$2,184,964 28

Church Patronage, by Equality Levies.

The Church is a community of believers in Jesus Christ, for the maintenance of the worship of God and the propagation of religion according to the Scriptures. Both the extension of religion, and the maintenance of public worship, require means and instrumentalities; and these, of course, impose the obvious duty of Church patronage. Now, as the Church must have means to meet her expenses, connected with the regular worship of God, and in carrying forward the great and benevolent work of Christianizing the world, there must be some plan or method adopted for raising the requisite means. The simple question, therefore, is, what ought that plan or method to be? All, we presume, will readily admit, that it ought to be the most rational and Scriptural plan. But what is that plan? Let us examine and see.

1st. Is it the voluntary subscription plan? Or,

2ndly. Is it the pew-rent plan? Or,

3rdly. Is it the tithe-law plan? Or,

4thly. Is it the equality levy plan?

1st. Is the voluntary subscription plan the most rational and Scriptural? We answer no. And why not? What are its defects? and what the objections to it? We answer, that the principle of selfishness is too strong, in most men, and that of Christian benevolence too weak, in the present state of the Church, to warrant any thing like an adequate and equal patronage. All experience shows the voluntary subscription plan to be defective; and mainly, because men's feelings and judgments are so. Test the plan in civil affairs, and its defects and indefeasibility will at once be made obvious.

2ndly. Is the pew-rent plan the best plan? We answer again no. It is not,—

1. Because it gives rich men the advantage over poor men.

2. Because it gives wicked men the advantage over good men, in certain cases.

3. Because it tends to preclude the poor from the means of grace.

4. Because it exacts the same patronage, or tribute, from aliens, that it does from citizens, which is unjust.

3rdly. Is the tithe-law plan the best? It would be, if men were prepared for it. But there are two things in the way, ignorance and covetousness. Were it not for these things, the tithe-law plan would be the true one for the Church to go by. But under all circumstances we affirm,—

4thly. That the most reasonable and Scriptural plan, for raising the requisite revenues of the Church, is, the equality levy plan. This plan is, for each one in the Church to pay a certain amount, according to his ability, or his worth. This is fair and reasonable. It commends itself to every man's conscience, as the most equitable and rational plan. But it is also the most Scriptural plan. Take a few proof texts.

1 Cor. 16: 2. Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God has prospered him.

2 Cor. 9: 5. Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before to you, and make up beforehand your bounty. For if there is first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man has, and not according to that he has not. For I mean not that other men be eased, and ye burdened; but by an EQALITY. See Ch. 8: 12, 13 and 14.

1 Tim. 5: 21. I charge thee before God, that thou observe these things—doing nothing by partiality.

Phil. 4: 8. Brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are JUST,—think of these things.

These texts in their connexion, clearly show four things, viz:

1. That the primitive Christians patronized the Church, by giving of their substance.

2. That this was done by equality, or in proportion as the Lord had given to them.

3. That this was done weekly. And,

4. That it was done by every one of them.

Here, then, is the gospel plan for the support of the Church.

But then, how and in what proportions are the Church levies to be made! We answer, the rulers in the Church must make the levies, and it is for them to say in what proportions each ought to patronize the Church. Thus it is in civil governments—and thus it ought to be in all Churches of God.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

Theological Extracts.

Translated for the Church Advocate, from Huebner's German Lexicon of 1750.

BY ELDER J. F. WEISHAMPEL.

Extreme Unction.—A Catholic sacrament, by which, after a dying person has made confession, he is anointed with the holy oil on the eyes, ears, nose, hands, feet and over the kidneys, for the forgiveness of all the sins committed through the agency of those organs and members of his body.

A Sect is a faction or party which adheres to some particular doctrine, and defends the same.

Capocratians.—Capocrates was a heretic in the second century, who believed the devil had created the world—that Christ was only Joseph's son, but had superhuman power to overcome the devil—denied the resurrection of the dead—and taught his followers that the Old Testament was false, and man was not depraved. Great immorality was the result of his doctrines, among his disciples.

Feet-washing.—Latin: Lotio pedum religiosa—is a ceremony which the Pope performs every year on Maundy Thursday. He washes the feet of twelve poor men, in imitation of the Lord Jesus, and then serves them at a table where they take a meal, after which he presents each with gold or silver medals.—This is also practised by some of the earthly Princes in Catholic countries; and each Bishop can attend to it in his cathedral. In England it was formerly the custom that the King (on the same day) invited as many old men as he was years old, and the Queen as many old women as she numbered years, and they washed the feet of these; but in consequence of the great conspiracies in King William's time, it was considered unsafe for them to attend to it in their own royal persons; so it was arranged that one of the Bishops perform it in the name of the King. After the washing, each person received two red leathern purses, one of which contained as many sixpences as the King was years old, and the other as many shillings as he had reigned years; besides which, each got a quantity of bread, meat and other victuals, to last for four meals, and a piece of cloth for clothing.—[It appears that some of the great of this world have high regard for the example of Christ, in washing his disciples' feet, and have thrown around it the beautiful association of giving gifts, which conveys the idea that those who obey His commandment to do os he had done, should not be without a reward.]—Translator.

Fasting.—The Catholics abstain from the flesh of beasts and birds, and when particularly urged, from eggs, butter and cheese; but they eat fish and fruit, and drink wine. The Greeks abstain from every thing that has blood; but eat crabs, oysters, mussles, &c. The Armenians abstain from all that has sensitive life; but eat vegetables. The Turks abstain from all kinds of eating and drinking, and are not even allowed to snuff or smoke tobacco.—[So the Turks appear to come nearest to the true meaning of the word fast; for the abstaining from one thing and eating another, is not fasting.]—Tr.

Purgatory.—This is, in the Catholics' faith, a place near to hell, for such as have not been sufficiently punished in this world on account of their sins, and are put there to suffer the balance of the pains due them, until their surviving friends come to their rescue with the soul-masses.

George Fox, the founder of the Quakers, or Tremblers, was a shoemaker in England, who pretended to have a revelation from God; and upon leading a strict and pious life, soon drew many disciples to himself.

Ramazan is the ninth month in the Turkish year; and during its continuance the Turks fast every day till sun-set, but spend much of the night in feasting. Those who refuse to fast are punished with death. It is believed that in that month the gates of Paradise are open and those of hell shut and locked.

Religio Prudentum.—Religion of the Wise—is the practice of formally receiving a system of religion, but virtually believeng what you please. This religion is found now-a-days in great abundance among the learned and statesmen.—[How much the same system is practised now, in the 19th century! Most great and wise men of the world profess a religion in a general sense, but find their private faith and see the difference. Alas poor man!]—Tr.

Mamalukes are those who deny the Christian religion and join another; especially are such termed so, who have gone over to the Mahometan faith.

The Roskolnicks are a sect of seceding Russians, who started in 1666. Attempts were made to persecute them out of existence; but rather than be taken prisoners, they would convene in a house, lock the doors, and setting fire to it, burn themselves alive.

Soul-masses are those masses read by the Romish Priests for the early delivery of the souls of the departed out of Purgatory. Kings generally order in their wills that 100,000 masses shall be celebrated after their death; and if they are not needed for the testator, they are reserved for his relatives and friends.

Sepharites are a sect of Mahomedans, who believe God has the attributes of eternity, wisdom and goodness; and has a visible form like man, but that it is not perishable, but immortal.

Septcaginta.—So is the Greek translation of the Old Testament called, which was ordered by King Ptolomy Philadelphi, in Egypt, and was effected by 72 persons.

Sicilian Vesper.—This is the name given to the massacre of about 8000 French in the city of Messina, Sicily, perpetrated on Easter Monday, 1282, as the people were returning from Vespers, or the afternoon service. The Pope had given the kingdom to the French, and they having treated the Sicilians very tyrannically, were all murdered within two hours.

The Talmud is the Jews' principal book, containing all which they believe transpired between God and Adam, Enoch, Abraham, Moses and Joshua, but which is not contained in the Bible.

Te Deum Landamus is a Latin hymn of praise, which is sung on all occasions in celebrating victories or other great events in Europe.

The Thomists and Scotists are two parties in the Romish church; the latter contending that the Virgin Mary was born without sin: and that has been a subject of contention between them and the former, for 300 years. In 1684 Pope Alexander VII. decided in favor of the view of the Scotists, which decision was not only opposed by the Thomists, but caused them to entertain a violent hatred towards their opponents.

Vulgate.—The Latin translation of the Bible is called the Vulgate, and is the version used by the Catholics, as the only one authorized by the Popes.

Zealots were a class of persons among the Jews, who, owing to their great zeal for the honor of God's name, the temple and the laws of Moses, were allowed to stone those persons to death, without much ceremony, who were found breaking the Sabbath, or in other flagrant ways violating the laws.

Signs of the Times.

Perry County, Dec. 27, 1849.

Beloved Brother Winebrenner:—

Having some leisure time, I think it needful to write of the common salvation, as Paul wrote. There is a common salvation, or present salvation, and there is an eternal salvation. Speaking of the present salvation, the Apostle says, "Being saved from this present evil world." That this world is evil, is a matter that need not be questioned. Hence we are exhorted to redeem the time because the days are evil—evil because of sin. I look around me in the world, and I see the passage of Scripture fufilling which says, "Evil seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived." And the love of many waxeth cold. The love of the world is growing in the hearts of many professing the religion of Christ.

In reading over a religions paper not long since, I saw an account given of several ministers that were driven out of the field of labor in consequence of no support. As above mentioned, the love of the world keeps many from aiding in the great work of saving souls. James says, "If a brother be destitute of daily food, and you say to that brother be fed, be warmed, be clothed, notwithstanding you give him not the things which he needeth, how dwelleth the love of God in you?" Now mark, it is not said you shall give if you have not got this world's goods, but if you have. Many, I fear, who profess to be "the light of the world and the salt of the earth," contradict their profession. You all know the nature of salt. The Christian is said to be the salt of the earth. Then do not the signs of the times show that there is little salt on the earth? At any rate, there is no seasoning now with salt; therefore, if there is any, it must have lost its savor. These things, then, teach us, that not every one that says "Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of the Father which is in heaven."

The writer has seen so much indifference manifested on the part of professed Christians, with regard to spending time and money, to carry out measures to make them comfortable and happy in this life, that he is prompted to write thus. While it is right to have things comfortable in this life, it is wrong to neglect souls—the means by which we might save our own souls and the souls of our fellowmen. Hear Paul on this subject: "Take heed unto thyself, and to thy doctrine; continue in them: and by so doing thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." 1 Tim. 4: 16, The doctrine, then, here spoken of is, the doctrine of Christ. It appears to me, judging from the present times, that we are not as zealous and careful to see that the principles of the doctrine of Christ are carried out, as we were some years back. The Lord save us from this indifference, is my prayer. Viewing the Church then in this state, the signs of the times declare that we are fast passing down through the last ages of the world.

But in respect to myself, I would say, that I still feel encouraged to go forth bearing the news of salvation to a dying world of sinners. Not long since, I was at a protracted meeting in a certain village, in Cumberland Valley, and labored as well as I could to be of use to myself and brethren, and also to save sinners; and I believe that God heard our prayers—blessed the preaching and exhorting to the conviction of many souls, and to the conversion of a few. I shall never forget the kind treatment I received from the kind brethren and sisters in that place. My prayer shall ever be, that God may bless those that were so kind and hospitable; for I can never reward them for their kindness towards me. In conclusion, I sincerely pray that God may bless His children everywhere, and keep them from the evils that are in the world, for His name and mercy's sake. Amen.

Yours in love,

M. M. UTLEY.

A Query.

Does the validity of the ordinance of Christian Baptism depend upon the ecclesiastic qualifications of the administrator; or when administered by an unbaptized layman, is it Scriptural and valid? For instance: A company of persons settle in California, or some other place equally remote; and while there, by the blessing of God, through the reading of the Scriptures, many of them are brought under the awakening influence of the spirit, and are made the subjects of converting grace. Christ is now their hope and joy. But, by further investigation, they learn that they must be baptized and embodied into a church capacity; a duty made obligatory by Christ upon all of his disciples. But there is no baptized person, minister or layman, within many hundreds of miles. In this emergency, one of the converts offers to immerse the rest upon a profession of their faith: to which proposition they accede; and thus the whole are baptized, and give themselves to God and each other, in a covenant relation, and so communicate at the Lord's table. Are they a gospel church? Are they legally baptized and constituted a church of Christ? We know, Mr. Editor, that you are expert in all questions; will you, or some one of your co-editors, or some of your contributors, furnish us with an answer to the above, and relieve us of a difficulty? J. H. HURLEY.

Lancaster City, Dec. 10, 1849.

Protracted Meeting at Highspire.

This meeting commenced on the evening of the 29th of December, and continued on till the 6th of January. On the 29th, brother Hartman came and preached for us. In the evening the congregation was attentive, but none came forward. On Sunday morning brother Ross came and preached for us, and his preaching was liked well. In the evening I tried to preach, but nothing special occurred. On Monday evening I preached again, and after sermon gave an invitation, when one mourning soul came forward as a subject of prayer, and professed to obtain the remission of her sins. On Tuesday morning, the first of January, brother Hartman preached for us again. In the evening it again fell to my lot, and from this time on to the close of the meeting, I had to do all the preaching myself.—

This evening we attended to the ordinances of God's house. We had a glorious time. One came out to seek and found the pearl of great price. On Wednesday evening one came forward, but did not obtain the blessing. On Thursday evening three came out, and one was set at liberty. On Friday evening four came out to seek the Lord, and two found Him to the joy and comfort of their souls. On Saturday evening two came out to be prayed for, and one found peace.

On Sunday we had preaching twice, in the morning and evening. Nothing special.

During this meeting, the brethren and sisters were greatly revived. The little Church at Highspire is a zealous Church. I think the brethren there do earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints.

During this meeting six were hopefully converted to God, two baptized, and four taken into church-fellowship. The attention and conduct of the people was very good. To God be all the glory.

A. SNYDER.

Christmas.

LANCASTER, Dec. 25, 1849.

THIS city never assumed a more brilliant aspect than she does to-day. Notwithstanding the exceeding cold weather, there is quite a motley crowd on the streets. The world is all agog with hilarity, merriment and enjoyment of a pretended happiness. As the crowd passes along the streets, shop windows are teeming with all that wealth can desire, fancy paint, or taste display; while thousands of palpitating hearts beat warm for the reception of the tokens of affection from the hands of admirers and friends. But the sacred remembrance of this holy day, who, among the church-going community, so old as to forget? What was most attracting to me was, the sound of the church-going bells, summoning the followers of Christ to the different places of worship. We had a good meeting in the Bethel. This morning we tried to preach to the church and people assembled, from the words of Paul to the Gal. 4: 4, 5. It was truly an interesting time. Many hearts leaped at the reflection of the momentous period, when God sent forth His Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons. Their minds were carried back to the day when the resplendant visions of many of the Jewish seers were fulfilled—when Isaiah's child was born, his son was given—when over the favored plains of Bethlehem and Ephrata, angels hovered and sang to the shepherds, as they watched over their flocks, "Fear not, for behold we bring you good tidings, which shall be to all people." Thus the visions of the Prophets become our realities. We live to enjoy blessings more numerous than they could account. This day will ever be kept in grateful remembrance by those who love the Lord. It stands out from other days as an oasis in the wilderness, from which every Christian may cease from party strife and contention, to refresh himself with the prospect before him, which he will realize in consequence of the provision made.

J. H. HURLEY.

Questions Asked for Information.

UNIONTOWN, Md, Dec. 21, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

I WISH to present to the numerous readers of your little paper, the following queries, which are at the option of yourself, or any concerned, to answer, if they please.

1st. What law of the New Testament were those persons of the Washington County (Md.) Circuit governed by, in presenting to the late Eldership charges against E. Logue, while they had not first made complaints to him, and he being entirely ignorant of there being any complaints?

2d. What law was the late Eldership governed by, in receiving those charges against E. Logue, before the plaintives had given the accused any notice, and before there was any effort made first to settle the complaint at home, or at the place of offence? Did the Eldership wish to condemn E. L. whether innocent or guilty? If not, why did they publish him to the Church and world under charges, before giving him a hearing? Did the Roman law condemn a man before it heard him?

3d. Were either those plaintives of the Washington Circuit, or the Eldership, in their dealings with E. Logue, governed by that law which says, "Do to others as you would that others should do to you:" and again says, "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor?" Is there a man amongst them that would wish to be presented to the Church and world as they have presented E. Logue, while being entirely ignorant of any complaints, and having no opportunity first to settle the matter at home?

4th. Can a New Testament Church approbate such proceedings? And what benefit have such doings ever been to the Church or world? And if people were first to look forward to the judgment of the great day, and ask themselves how they would give account to God, for their dealings, would they not be more cautious in their doings?

Yours, respectfully,

E. LOGUE.

"Why Discussion Failed."

SHREMANSTOWN, Dec. 31, 1849.

MR. EDITOR:—

PLEASE give this an insertion in your paper, in reply to a note of the Rev. J. Keller.

The discussion has not as good as failed, as he says, but was only deferred for want of leisure to attend to it. When I gave him the appointing of the time, it was with the provision that he put it far enough off. I would like to gratify him as soon as possible, but cannot before Conference, which will commence January 24th. I would inform him, however, through this medium, that I will make my arrangements to meet him any time (Sabbath's excepted) immediately after the sitting of Conference.

He modestly calls himself the challenged party.

He will please inform me when he decides upon the time of discussion.

A. OWEN.

REV. J. WINEBRENNER.

A Lesson.

"RENDER unto Cesar the things that are Cesar's, and unto God the things that are God's." Matt. 22: 21. In this passage our Lord teaches us the two-fold lesson, viz: That it is right for us to pay tribute, or in other words, all such taxes as may be necessary to carry on the government of the country in which we live—for no government can stand without money to meet its expenses. Secondly, he teaches us to support the gospel; for since God has given us a system of salvation at the expense of the blood of Christ, it is due to him from us, that we appropriate some of our means to the spread of the gospel. He works through means, and we must not rob God of those means. Let us give liberally; not with a view of getting it back again, but because we are commanded to render unto God that which is his. Neither State nor Church can prosper without money.

J. F. W.

Letter from Bro. J. Myers, V. D. M.

ASHLAND, Ohio, Nov. 8, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

IN the 9th number of the Advocate, September 1st, I notice a communication over the cognomen of "Rusticus," telling the numerous readers of the Advocate that he has been a regular recipient of the paper since the 13th number of the 13th volume.

The same letter to me is somewhat striking, on account of its peculiarity, and leads me to ask a few questions, and make a few remarks.

1. Who is this "Rusticus," and why does he use a fictitious name in order to indulge in the same liberty for which he condemns others, namely: expression of opinion—condemning what he thinks wrong and approving what he deems right?

2. Is this "Rusticus" identified with the "Church of God" in North America, or not? It is not particularly my business; but seeing he throws out some strong insinuations against some one or more of the older ministers of the Church, it would be satisfactory to know.

3. Why does he not come out over his own full and proper signature, and show to whom those should express their gratitude, who have given the admonitory reproof for the very great iniquity of condemning what they judge is wrong? Why does he ensconce himself behind his corn-cob fortress of a fictitious name, and fire off his squibs against some of the veterans, who have borne the burden and heat of the day, and who have stood the fire of persecution from all sides, long before the 13th number of the 13th volume was in existence?

He seems to be dreadfully shocked at certain men "stooping to personalities and recriminations." I have a notion something like the German proverb: "Besser gar gestochen als nur gestichelt." (Better stab at once than only goad.) Of all contemptibleness to be held most in contempt, is that low, sneaking, cowardly insinnation and sarcasm, which often disgraces public prints and speakers; and more especially when anonymously perpetrated—showing at once that the perpetrator is afraid to confront those whom he goads, taunts and jeers. Let a public teacher come out open and above board, as the saying is, and indicate no cowardice in regard of those he fires his squibs at.

I am not identified with either Free-Masons, Odd-Fellows, or Sons of Temperance. The first I oppose,—the second I know nothing about,—and the third I leave where they are. Neither do I class the Sons of Temperance with Free-Masons. There is as much difference between them as there is between day and night. Sons of Temperance associations are, properly speaking, beneficial societies; but they are not secret oath bound.

But whatever merit there may be, or good that may emenate from either of these, (which are all ostensibly beneficial or benevolent societies,) or numerous other philanthropic associations of the day, I canuot see what business the bona fide children of God have to identify themselves with the men of the world; for undoubtedly all the good these associations profess to teach and do, Christians and Christian Churches are commanded to do and more foreby, by their Divine Legislator.

Ought not, and in fact, is not, every true and faithful Church of Christ, a temperance society, not only in respect to the abuse of ardent spirits, but in all things? Is she not a benevolent and a beneficial society in every sense of the word? Is not the New Testament the constitution, laws and by-laws thereof? Is she not an abolition society—not only for the abolishing of the shocking cause of enslaving Africa's sable sons and daughters, but for the abolishing of all that is contrary to God and His word?

The New Testament describes Christians 'as a peculiar people and zealous of good works."—If a peculiar people, then of course they should be a separate people;—like their Divine Head, "Holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners." Now, according to my opinion, (but "Rusticus" may veto it,) I say, there is sufficient in the name, nature, education, experience, laws and Law-giver of Christians, to draw the line of discrimination between the saint and sinner—the Godly and the ungodly—the righteous and the unrighteous—the children of light and the children of darkness.

There has been, and there is at present, too much amalgamation of this sort; and the Church feels it: although she has lost nothing in number, yet I am sure she is minus some spiritual vigor. We read of the consequences resulting to the antedeluvians from intermarriages between the children of God and the children of the world. And now there is too much—yea, entirely too much of such intermarrying going on. Christians are wedded to this world, its people, manners, customs, fashions and maxims. This every one, with but half an eye, can see.

Who loses by this amalgamation? Surely not the people of the world—for they are gainers by it in many ways. But alas! the Christians—the people of God. Will any one presume to call in question what I could demonstrate? I hope not. I need not portray the soul-destroying consequences—we have constant ocular demonstrations of it.

Conclusively, friend "Rusticus's" letter would not be so objectionable, forsooth, he has only done what others do, i. e. given his opinion, had he only given it over his true name. Under-handed business in religious affairs, I consider under par:—it may do in political recrimination and vituperation. Let him, nor no one else, put his candle under the bushel. If he has any good to communicate, need he be afraid of his name before the readers of his work? I think not.

Hard feelings and sarcasm, and the consequences thereof, might not unfrequently be avoided, if writing brothers would use a little more prudence.

Without any ill will to "Rusticus," I subscribe myself his unfeigned friend, and of all others who love truth in righteousness.—Adieu.

J. MYERS.

DECEMBER 23, 1849.

P. S.—It may not be uninteresting to the friends of religion, to state that there are considerable reviving times on brothers Williams' and Bear's circuit. At Vermillion Church, during a protracted meeting, a number embraced religion, a fortnight ago. I saw brother

Williams on yesterday, who informed me that they had quite a revival in a village called Bloomfield, in Knox county. They are about organizing a Church there. More anon.

J. M.

Letter from Bro. David Keplinger.

CANAL DOVER, Tuscarawas Co., Ohio, November 24, 1849.

DEAR BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

This is to inform you and the readers of your very welcome paper, the Advocate, of several protracted meetings.

The first was held at father Beidlers, November 3d. Brothers William Adams, John Beidler, P. Hartman and A. Holms were present. A. Holms preached the opening discourse, from Heb. 12: 28. He preached very plain and pointed. The meeting was pretty good. Sabbath, at 10, A. M., father Adams held forth, from Micah 2: 10, and Isa. 28: 20. He preached warm and feeling. Brother A. Holms followed in exhortation. The people seemed to feel that all was not well with them. Preaching again in the evening by father Adams, from 1 Kings 18: 21. Brother Holms followed with a warm and persuasive exhortation, but there was no one came forward to seek the Lord. Meeting again on Monday at 10, A. M. Preaching by father Adams, from Isaiah 50: 10. After preaching the brethren and sisters related to each other the kind dealings of God to them. We had a tolerable good time. Met again in the evening. Brother A. Holms held forth, from Gen. 49: 10. Oh! how feeling and inviting he preached. One came out to seek the Lord, and, bless God, he professed to find peace to his soul. Tuesday morning I left for home: but I learnt that the meeting continued till Thursday evening. One more found peace during the meeting. Only two found pardon of their sins during the meeting, but the brethren and sisters were edified and encouraged to press forward in the way to heaven.

On the 10th of November a protracted meeting commenced at the Brandywine Bethel. Preachers present, brothers J. Beidler, Wm. Adams, J. M. West, A. Megrew and A. Holms. Brother Holms preached in the evening, from 1 Peter 4: 18. "And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" He spoke with great assurance. We had a profitable time. Sunday, 10 o'clock, A. M., two sermons; one by father Beidler, in the German, from 2 Cor. 8: 9: the other one by brother A. Megrew, from the 20th Psalm and middle clause of the 5th verse. "And in the name of our God we will set up our banners." Oh! how soul-cheering was this discourse to me, and no doubt it was to all those that love God. Met again this evening.—Father Adams held forth, in the name of the Lord, from Isa. 55: 6, 7. Brother A. Megrew followed with a warm and feeling exhortation. He also gave an invitation to sinners to come to Christ, but none came out. Monday, at 10 o'clock, A. M., brother A. Holms held forth, from the 89th Psalm and 15th verse. Father Adams followed in exhortation. We had a tolerable good time. The brethren and sisters met at 4 o'clock, P. M., to tell their experience to each other. We had a joyful time. Preaching this evening by A. Megrew. He held forth in an able and convincing manner, from Luke 12th and first clause of the 20th verse. "But God said to him, thou fool! this night shall thy soul be required of thee." Exhortation by brother Holms. Sinners seemed to feel the need of a Saviour, but would not give their hearts to Him, that they might have salvation. Father Adams rose and gave a short account of some of his labors in times past. He stated how much more easy it was to get the people to give their hearts to God formerly than what it is now. He warned them, in an affectionate manner, to be careful what they do, for if they be often reproved and still harden their hearts, that God would cut them off suddenly, and that without a remedy. He gave them another invitation; whereupon two came out to be prayed for, but did not find peace. Tuesday. This morning the brethren and sisters met for experience meeting. We truly had a profitable time. Met again in the evening for preaching. Father Adams held forth, from the 50th Psalm and 14th and 15th verses. While the faithful servant of God was preaching many wept and felt the force of truth. A. Megrew followed with a feeling and affectionate appeal to the unregenerate, to pay to God the many vows and promises they have made. Five came out to seek the Lord, and one professed to obtain forgiveness of sin. Oh! that he may ever live in obedience to his Lord and Master, and show to all around that he is on his way to the land of rest. Wednesday evening preaching again by A. Megrew, from Rev. 6: 17. "For the great day of his wrath is come, and who shall be able to stand?" While he was pouring home the truth to the people, many felt that they were not able to stand, unless a change of heart. Father Adams followed in exhortation. Five came out to be prayed for, but only one professed to obtain relief. Thursday evening father Adams held forth, from Gen. 24: 5. "Wilt thou go?"—Brother Holms gave an exhortation, and then invited those who felt their need of Christ. Four came out, but none obtained peace to their souls. Our meeting closed this evening, but I am sorry to say, that our meeting was not as profitable as I expected it would be. My prayer is, that the word which was spoken during this meeting may yet accomplish that for which it was intended.

There was a protracted meeting held at Crooked Run, by the same brethren, viz: A. Megrew, Wm. Adams, J. Beidler and A. Holms. The meeting was good. The Church was revived and built up. Two sinners converted, and three baptized. Oh! that those who have been made free from sin, may live in the discharge of every duty. Then they will at last land safe in the kingdom above.

And to you, my dear brethren and sisters, let me say, let your light so shine before men that they may see that you are the people of God, and that you are on the road to a better world. Let us not conform to the world, but let us be daily conformed to the ways of religion. We have no doubt been negligent in the good cause of God. I know that some of us have lost, at least in a greater or less degree, a relish for the prayer-room, and love of the society of the brethren and sisters. Come, my dear brethren and sisters, this will not do. If we have lived hitherto too slack, let us begin now to do better, and the Lord will bless us and forgive our past negligence, and we shall enjoy ourselves as we formerly did. Let us all pray for each other, and take each other by the hand, and help each other on the way to God.

Pray for me, brethren, that I may be useful, and at last meet you all in heaven.

Yours, in the best of bonds,

D. KEPLINGER, JR.

Letter from Brother J. Blickenstaff.

MARTINSVILLE, Clark Co., Illinois, November 26, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

HAVING a few subscribers for the Church Advocate, and being under promise to brethren elsewhere, that they should hear from me through the Advocate, I lift my pen to address you for the first time since I united with the Indiana Eldership. I have travelled almost constantly, and have, through the blessing of God, been enabled to fill all my appointments, except one; at which time, I, through mistake, left two appointments for one night. I spent the first seven months on the circuit leading through Whitley, Allen, Decalb, Steuben, Lagrange and Noble counties. I found nine regular preaching places, and left it with twenty-five. I felt strongly impressed to go to the State of Illinois, before I united with the Eldership in Indiana; and at that Eldership, I requested to be permitted to come to this State, but finally submitted to what I considered the better judgment of my brethren, and took an appointment in the North, to which I went in the course of a few weeks, and where, in my weakness, I endeavored to hold forth the words of eternal life to the people. This I tried to do in its primitive purity and simplicity; and notwithstanding the powerful opposition and persecution which assailed me, the Lord gave me some precious souls in that region, for which I feel to praise His holy name. I baptized only eight during my stay in the North, but had many glorious seasons of refreshings from the presence of the Lord, in company with the dear brethren and sisters, who are, I think, a pious and loving people. May God bless and prosper them.

I met the Standing Committee at camp last June, in Noble county, Indiana, and requested a release from the charge of that circuit, which was granted. I then left for Whiteside county, Illinois;—passed by the way of Laporte, Indiana: and after a tedious journey of ten days, during which I suffered much with heat and indisposition, I came to brother J. Miller's, who received me and entertained me kindly. There I preached twice, and labored one half month. From there I went to Adams county, near Quincy. From there I left for Clark county,—came by Jacksonville, Morgan county, Springfield, Sangamon, and on the second of August I arrived at brother Rupp's, near Martinsville. Here I continued preaching through Clark, Crawford, Jasper and Cumberland counties, until the latter part of September, when I left for the Eldership, by the way of Indianopolis and Columbia. Here I preached nine times. Many were awakened, and besought me with tears to return again, or send some other of our ministering brethren. Can not brothers Hickernell, Thomas or Hood visit these dear people? If so, inquire for Pendletown, near the falls of Fall Creek, and then for Columbia, and there inquire for Andrew Bray or Lewis Bercer. From Columbia I went to brother Walters', in Decalb county, and commenced a protracted meeting. In a few days I was joined by brother Sands, and we protracted the meeting until Sabbath, when brother T. Hickernell arrived, to preach sister McClellen's funeral. Father Ross preached at candle-light, and on Monday morning the Eldership commenced. On Tuesday night brothers G. Thomas and Latta returned to brother Walters', to continue the meeting.—Brother Thomas preached, and there were four mourners and three converts. The night following brother Hood and myself returned. Brother Hood preached, but there were few out, owing to the inclemency of the weather. However, the Lord was in our midst, and we had a glorious refreshing from the presence of God. Next morning brother Hood left. I preached the following night, and had two mourners and one convert. I continued the meeting until Sabbath, and then buried four happy believers with Christ in baptism.—There were four converts during this meeting, and others deeply convicted. I left and returned to brother Frampton's; preached twice and had one mourner. Left for brother Martin's; preached four times, and had one convert. I preached at brother Bowman's, and had a solemn time. Preached in Allen county, at Samuel Johnson s. I do hope brother Hickernell will visit this place, and protract a meeting. I think there might be much good done there. They are very anxious to have preaching by some of our brethren. They seem to love the truth. From there I went to Wabash county and preached twice. Left again for Illinois, by the way of Logans-port, Delphi, Lafayette and Tarryhaut. In seven weeks from the time I left, I arrived here again. I commenced preaching, and held a protracted meeting at brother Fasig's. There were six converted, baptized and added to the Church. There was a refreshing time, and truly a great rejoicing amongst the people of God. I have fifteen appointments before me to fill,—leading through Clark, Crawford, Jasper and Cumberland counties. Prospects of doing good here are cheering. The Macedonian cry is re-echoing from various parts, and I shall soon have more calls than I shall be able to attend to. But whilst I am encouraged upon the one hand, to exert all my powers in the promulgation of the gospel, I have many things upon the opposite, to discourage and dishearten me. Opposition from proud Sectarians, who do not hesitate to raise and retail foul slander, in order to stop the work of God: besides, being in a strange country, without the means of a support, which sometimes makes me feel like turning my horse homewards. But, God being my helper, I will go on. I hope the brethren will not forget me, especially those with whom I have labored heretofore. Dear brethren and sisters in Christ, I most sincerely and earnestly crave your devout prayers, that God may preserve me and make me more useful, and give many souls.

Yours, in the bonds of Christian love,

J. BLICKENSTAFF.

Letter from Brother E. Logue.

UNIONTOWN, Md., Dec. 24, 1849.

BROTHER WINEBRENNER:—

IN the last number of the Advocate, I see a couple of extracts from letters of mine: but that part of those letters which I wished most to be published, you have kept out; and feeling confident that it would be no more than reasonable and right for the remainder of those letters to be published, I again try you with the same, hoping that you will allow me the same right that you do others.

I first wish to answer those censures from the late Iowa Eldership. It will be remembered by the readers of the Advocate, that the late minutes of that body are nearly half taken up in censuring E. Logue; and it is no more than right that the readers of the Advocate should hear from E. Logue, in reference to those censures. They censure me first, "For receiving license from the East Pennsylvania Eldership, immediately after receiving a license from the Iowa Eldership." Truly, I thought I had a license from the Iowa Eldership; but on examination, I found I had no license of my own. I had a license which had been drawn for J. Hawk; and what had become of mine, I know not. Hence I received a license from the East Pennsylvania Eldership, for otherwise I would have had no license.

2. They censure me for forfeiting my promise in not going to Iowa to preach the present year. In turning to the minutes of the last year's Eldership held in Iowa, it will be seen that that promise was made conditionally: "That there would be a provision made for my support." And that same body acknowledged that there could not be a support raised in Iowa, and recently appealed to the East for assistance. But the Eastern Eldership (of last year) made no mention towards complying with their request: and seeing no probability of the condition being complied with, (and it was not,) I forfeited all intentions of going to Iowa to preach the present year. And is it not seemingly strange that the late Iowa Eldership did not remember this condition as well as the promise? Strange indeed!

They, in the third place, "censure me for the letter of last spring, in reply to the epistle signed by eight." But I would here infrom them that I repeat every sentence of that letter. And I assure them that it is not common for men to act more strange, than what those men did, in attempting to give a statement of my affairs in Iowa. For I am confident that not one of them knew much about my affairs; and so far as they attempted to give those statements, they have made themselves, first, meddlesome about other men's matters. And secondly, they have either wilfully or ignorantly given an unfair and erroneous statement. And in the third place, they gave those statements apparently with a design to implicate E. Logue; and the best advice I can give them is, to recall what they have said and ask pardon.

In conclusion, it is proper here to remark that in my recent visit to Iowa, I learned that all this difficulty has originated with two or three individuals in Iowa; and with those two or three it started, and with them it may die: for any thing more from that quarter, on this subject, will be beneath our notice.

Yours, respectfully,

E. LOGUE.

Letter from Brother J. C. Seabrooks.

Camp-hill, December 2, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I now seat myself to drop a few lines, to let you know how we are getting along on this side of the river Susquehanna. After our Eldership, I returned to Churchtown. We arrived there on Friday, and our dedication meeting commenced on Saturday. There I remained and helped to keep up the meeting for nearly two weeks. We had a good meeting. The brethren there deserve praise for their liberality in building God a house.

After that meeting, I left and came down to this place. Here I found the Church had held meetings for a week previous. Brother Harn and I set in and held meeting until joined by yourself and S. B. Howard. From that time to this, the meeting has been going on; but little good has as yet been effected. Yet the brethren seem now to be encouraged, and the Lord appears to be pouring out His blessings upon us. Pray for us, that God may yet revive His work.

Brother Winebrenner, since our Eldership, I have been led to consider seriously the condition of the Church of God. When I take a survey of the situation of the people of God, I could raise my eyes to heaven and say, O! that my head were waters, and my eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for thy salvation.

But why is it that the Church does not prosper as she did formerly? Here, Mr. Editor, let me give you a few ideas. One great reason is, that ministers appear to forget the interest of their work. An evidence of this we have if we look over the Journals of the last Elderships. We will take East Pennsylvania for one. We are better acquainted at home; and here we find 50 or 60 preachers, licensed by that body to preach, and out of that number 22 only are travelling to preach.

Well, now we will turn back a leaf. Do we find the bounds of this Eldership increasing? I fear to say it is; but I will be safe in saying it is decreasing. I see no new reports of its extension. Well, what do we hear? Oh, it is a cry for spiritaal bread. Hear it from the East, and from the West, from the South and North; while a host of idle ministers are resting on their lees. I must confess, I was struck powerfully to-day, when I read brother H. M. Aston's letter in the Advocate from Ohio. Let every brother in the ministry read that letter, and then ask God to help him to do his duty. How will such stand before God and say we are doing our duty, when precious souls are sinking down to hell around them? May God alarm them on this important subject, is my prayer.

I must now close; but I have not done. You will hear from me again, if spared. I ask an interest in the prayers of all God's Israel, that I may be faithful to the end, and at last receive a crown of life that fadeth not away.

Yours, with respect,

J. C. SEABROOKS.

Letter from Brother Geo. Barkstresser.

Cambria County, Pa., Dec. 3, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

I have again taken my pen in hand to inform you how we do here in the pine regions.

Our protracted meeting commenced on the 16th ult. We were somewhat disappointed in preachers, as none came but brother J. Hickernell. But God, in His mercy, was here on the occasion. However, prospects appeared gloomy, till on Saturday night, when brother J. Hickernell delivered a discourse from Rev. 2: 5. "Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent; and do thy first works, or else I will come to thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent." This discourse had the desired effect. There were omens for good. The meeting became more and more interesting, and the plain, pointed and powerful preaching which we had, did honor to the cause of God, and proved itself the power of God to the saving of them that heard and believed. The meeting was continued until Thursday, the 29th; during which time, sinners were brought to tremble and cry out for mercy: and blessed be the the name of God, who is always willing to help, some souls were hopefully converted to Him. There were, in all, 20 forward to be prayed for, four were baptized, seven united in fellowship with the Church, and eight or ten professed to find Christ.

At this meeting believers were built up in the most holy faith of the gospel, and their number increased. It was a rejoicing time, a time of the presence of the Lord, to some precious souls. Should the present prospects be carried out, we will be a happy people, blessed of the Lord. May the Lord carry on His well begun work, till every house becomes a house of prayer, and every heart a temple for His spirit to dwell in. The Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad.

Yours truly,

GEO. BARKSTRESSER.

Letter from Brother J. Glenn.

Evensburg, Dec. 12, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

This will inform you and the readers of the Advocate, that I am still endeavoring to preach the gospel in my weak manner; though I have been very unhealthy this year, and not capable of travelling constantly. Yet the good Lord has been with us to the salvation of a few precious souls. I held a protracted meeting at Slippery Rock, commencing on the 6th of September, and continued till the 11th of the same month. The meeting was held in the woods. The result was that the meeting was well attended; but the conduct of many was very bad: shooting, hallooing, fighting, climbing saplings, (but not to see the Lord,) &c But bless God, in the meantime the Lord blessed His people, and the powers of darkness gave way. Mourners came forward and embraced the Saviour of sinners, and we had a heavenly time. In all, there were five or six converted, and three followed their Lord in baptism, one of which was an old gray-headed man, who in his declining years came out to follow his Lord and Master, Jesus Christ.

'Tis down into the water
That we young converts to go,
To serve our Lord and Master
In righteous acts below:
We lay our mortal bodies
Beneath the yielding wave,
An emblem of our Saviour
When he lay in the grave.

There were none of the preaching brethren present to assist in the meeting, consequently the burden of preaching fell upon me. However, there were several brethren present that were very useful in the meeting. The people were very kind to me. May the good Lord bless the dear people and save them, is my prayer.

I want to hold several meetings, the Lord willing, and get some kind brother to assist, as my health will not allow me to commence single-handed. When I finish my labors on the circuit, I expect to visit the Church of God in Brush Valley, Pa.; also at Grass-hill. This will be in March, I expect. I have long had a great desire to see those brethren. I hope the coming year the Lord will be with us, and that all the brethren will get to their appointments, and labor for God and His cause. No more at present. Yours in love,

J. GLENN.

Letter from Brother G. Sandoe.

Hinkletown, Jan. 3, 1850.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

I am requested to drop a few lines for the Advocate, touching our meeting that we so long looked for with eager hopes, and which is now past and gone. We have not seen the cause of the Lord prosper as we hoped: yet we feel thankful to God for what he has done for us. There was a tolerable good feeling prevalent, both among members and neighbors, who received the brethren with gladness. May God of His infinite mercy, reward them with everlasting life. We hope that the seed that was sown may not fall as water spilt upon a rock, that cannot be gathered up, but that it may have fallen like good seed into good ground, and bring forth fruit to eternal life. The brethren in attendance gave us the whole counsel of God. O! may we meet them, with all God's children, within the walls of the New Jerusalem. Amen.

Yours, in Christian fellowship,

G. SANDOE.

Letter from Brother John Ulsh.

Pfoutz's Valley, Perry Co., Pa., December 25, 1849.

Brother Winebrenner:—

In looking over your excellent paper, the Advocate, I saw a communication from Pfoutz's Valley, stating that father Howard had succeeded in establishing a church in that place. Now this appears strange to me.

The first church in this place was established by brother J. Myers, about 15 or 18 years ago, called the "Church of God." This church never died off in this place, as yet. True, it has suffered some sifting and declensions; but thank God, a remnant still remained, and kept up meetings all along. Now, what church they have since erected, I know not, unless they would style it a Sectarian church.

I also see that my name is mentioned as an Elder in that church. Very correct. I was elected one day—I saw my error the next day. The first opportunity I had, I withdrew from that church, as an Elder, and also as a member, for certain reasons, which I do not see proper to mention at this time.

Yours, &c., JOHN ULSH.

Letter from Brother B. Howard.

Newberry, December 13, 1849.

Dear Brother Winebrenner:—

I am just now waiting for the stage to start for Uniontown.

There are about a dozen converted in Newberry. The meetings are full, and the most powerful I have seen in Pennsylvania. Brother McFadden has not been with us for two days. I am afraid that he and his wife are sick. He will not go with me to Maryland; for it will not do for him to leave the work here. The Church and people here are saying, send for brother Harn. They wish me to say to you, to send brother Harn, or come yourself. There is a prospect of a great work, if it is now attended to. One of you take the stage to-morrow morning, and come to brother McFadden's, and from there they will bring you over. For God's sake don't fail. Brother McFadden was unwell when he left the meeting last. BENJ. HOWARD.

Brother Winebrenner.

Ministers, Dr Beacher says, "Give yourself fully up to the work. There is too much to be done for any minister to have two trades. Doing this makes any minister less than half a man. Contribute all your powers of mind and heart to your work."

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

Kentucky.—The Convention to amend the Constitution of Kentucky adjourned on the 22d ult., after a session of three months. The amendments are many of them radical.

The Legislature is deprived of the power to grant divorces; and no debt can be created except for the support of government, repel invasion, &c.

On the subject of dueling, any person connected in any way with a duel, shall be deprived of the right to hold any office of honor, or profit, and punished as by law prescribed. But, after five years, the Governor may pardon the offender and restore him to all his rights, &c.

An oath is required of members of the Assembly, and the members of the Bar, before entering upon their duties, that they have not, since the adoption of the new Constitution, fought a duel either in or out of the State, or been in any wise connected with any.

The provision as to slavery appears to be as follows:—No laws shall be passed for the emancipation of slaves without the consent of their owners, or without paying therefor a full equivalent in money. All slaves hereafter manumitted must be removed from the State. The General Assembly may pass laws to prevent, hereafter, free negroes or mulattoes remaining in, or being brought to this State on pain of being deemed guilty of felony, and imprisoned.

Capitol of Alabama Burnt.—The Montgomery, Ala. papers announce the destruction of the Capitol by fire, on the afternoon of Friday last: The fire was first discovered in the roof, caught probably from a spark from the chimney, about half past one o'clock while the House of Representatives (the Senate having just adjourned) was in session.

All efforts to arrest the progress of the flames were ineffectual, and in a very short period there was nothing left but the walls. The papers of the several officers and the furniture were saved. There was no insurance on the building.

The Presbyterian Church had been tendered the Legislature to sit in during the remainder of the session.

The Capitol was a handsome structure, just completed and cost about one hundred thousand dollars.—Chronicle & Sentinel.

State of New York.—New York contains a population of more than two and a half millions. It has thirty-four representatives in Congress; it has the longest railroad; it has ten colleges, There are 156 academies, 55 female seminaries, several unincorporated academies, and 463,000 pupils attend the common schools. There are 4,399 ministers of the gospel; the average amount of their salaries is nearly $350 a year.

Recipe for Washing.—Thousands of dollars have been paid for the following recipe for soap, and the directions for washing with it.

Take one common size bar of Turpentine soap, shave it up and dissolve it in one pint of water over the fire, when dissolved take off and add

7 tablespoonfuls of spirits of Turpentine,
2 " " Hartshorn,
1 " " Vinegar,

mix all together and put into a jar for use.

Directions.—Dissolve half a pint of this soap in a tub of warm water, and put the clothes in, as many as it will hold, let them soak about an hour; stirring them occasionally. Rinse and squeeze them out, and put them into a large pot filled with water, in which half a pint more of the soap has been dissolved, boil them about fifteen minutes, then squeeze out and rinse them in cold water and hang them out to dry.

Maryland Gold Mine.—We were yesterday shown several bars of gold, 24 carats fine, valued at about $140, which were taken from the mine recently discovered on the farm of Ellicott. in Montgomery county, Md. This mine is now worked by Messrs. E. G. Duley, of Md., Professor Emmons, of N. Y., Mr. Osborne, and John Staler, of Md.—the owner, Mr. Ellicott, receiving one-eighth of the product of the gold. D. E. Williams, Esq., of Albany, is the agent and superintendent of the works at the mines. Large quantities of ore have been raised, specimens of which were shown us, which will yield at the rate of $1,000 in pure gold to every ton of ore.—Balt. Sun.

Colored Professor.—Mr. Charles L. Reason, an artist of New York, has been elected professor in Central College, at McGrawville, N. Y., of which Rev. C. P. Grosvenor is President. He is the first person of color who has been elected to a college of professorship in this country. The Christian Contributor speaks of his inaugural oration as being "full of clear, comprehensive dress."—Utica N. Y. Gazette.

Calcivum Lights.—Prof. Grant has invented and applied to the locomotives on the Philadelphia and Camden and Amboy Railroads, a light capable of brilliantly illuminating the track one half a mile in advance of the engine while in motion, and which will burn upwards of four hours without requiring adjustment. It is represented to be cheaper than other light in use.

The Cotton Crop.—The Charleston Mercury says:—"Several weeks since, we expressed the opinion that the crop of the present year would not exceed 2,100,000 bales, and all our subsequent information has but tended to confirm the impression then entertained."

Telegraph Through the Ocean.—The Scientific American is authorized to state that an extensive gutta percha manufacturer of N. York stands ready to lay down, and guaranty its integrity for ten years, a line across the Atlantic of perfectly insulated wires covered with Gutta Percha, for a sum not to exceed three millions of dollars, to be completed in twelve months from date of contract. This grand scheme will receive the attention of Congress at an early day. He is also ready to lay down a similar line on the underground plan, from the Mississippi to Pacific, to be completed within three years from the date of contract.

☞ The Central Railroad Cars now run as far as McVeytown, twelve miles the other side of Lewistown. The road is steadily and surely progressing toward the West, and the Directors are useing every means to make the road productive as fast as it is completed. The Good Intent Telegraph Line of Stages connect with the Railroad at McVeytown, and will continue to run to its extreme Western point, as it progresses that way.—This line runs elegant Troy built coaches, and is safe and comfortable for travellers of every class.

☞ The celebrated Lewistown Mills, running ten pair of burrs, were destroyed by fire on the evening of the 24th ult.—Loss estimated at $30,000. Insured to the amount of $10,000. The mills were located on the Kishacoquillas creek, within the borough of Lewistown, and were the property of John Sterrett, Esq., of that borough.

Legislature of Maryland.—The Legislature of Maryland met on the 1st inst. There is a large Whig majority in both Houses. Wm. Lingan Gaither, Esq., was elected President of the Senate, and John R. Franklin, Esq., Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Rise in Coffee.—In consequence of the reported failures of the coffee crops in Java, Brazil, and other countries, the price of coffee has been raised materially, and it is thought will rise still higher.

Death of Miller, the Millerite.—Mr. Wm. Miller, somewhat noted for raising a Second Advent party in the country, died on the 20th ult. aged 68 years, at his residence at Low Hamton, N. Y.

Trial.—At our next term of the Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer, the case of the Commonwealth vs. David Knepley, for murder—the murder of his own father—will be tried.

New York Valuation.—The valuation of the property of the city of New York for the present year is, real, $197,761,119, personal, $58,455,174, total, $256,217,093.

Adams County Jail.—The Adams County Jail was destroyed by fire on Monday morning the 7th inst. The fire, it is supposed, originated in the room of one of the prisoners. The only two prisoners in the Jail lost their lives, one being burnt to death and the other suffocated.

Father Mathew.—Father Mathew has been invited by the officers of the State Temperance Society to visit Kentucky, with an intimation, by authority, that the Kentuckians do not desire to interfere with his views respecting slavery, and want him as a counsellor and guest in spite of them.

Amber Strawberry.—It is said that a new strawberry has lately been cultivated in the neighborhood of London, which promises well. It arrives at perfection when the usual varieties are over, is of an amber color when ripe, and of delicious quality.

Railroad Accident.—A most heart-rending accident occurred on Thursday last on the Pennsylvania Railroad, which occasioned the death of Frederick Kuriz Heisfly, an estimable young man of our borough, and severely injured several others.

Cure for Hickups.—Hold up high above your head, two fingers of your hand; lean back in your seat, open your mouth and throat, so as to give a free passage to your lungs; breathe very long and softly, and look very steadily at your fingers.

Rivals to Tom Thumb.—Two children, aged seven and five, are now living near Annadale, England, who are so small and so intelligent as to promise to rival General Tom Thumb. The oldest is no larger than an infant of a few months old.

Telegraph Across a River.—Bain's line of Telegraph is now fully completed to New York, and is in excellent working order between that city and Washington. The wire is sunk under the North River, and answers every purpose admirably.

Colleges at the West.—The earliest college planted in the great valley was Jefferson, in Western Pennsylvania, in 1792; Transylvania Ky. followed in 1763; Greenville, Tenn., in 1794; and Washington, Tenn., the same year.

Depot Burned.—The railroad depot, Richmond, Va. was destroyed by fire on the 24th ult. Thirty two loaded cars. and 10,000 bushels of wheat, and much other property, were destroyed. Loss $100,000.

United States Territory.—The public domain of the United States consists of fourteen hundred and thirty-eight millions of acres of land.

Coal Mines.—It is calculated that since 1800 more than 20,000 human beings have been killed in the coal mines of Great Britain.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HOW TO MAKE A WILL.

Mr Editor,—I have not, in the course of more than thirty years acquaintance with religious newspapers, met with any thing more to my mind, touching the disposal of worldly possessions, than the quaint extract given below, from a book that was published nearly two hundred years ago, entitled the "Practice of Piety." My copy is the seventy-first edition, and is dedicated to the "High and mighty Prince Charles, Prince of Wales." The author is Lewis Baily, and evidently of the established church:

"In making thy testament, take a religious divine's advice, how to bestow thy benevolence; and some honest lawyer's counsel, to continue it according to law.

Despatch this before thy sickness doth increase, and thy memory decay; lest otherwise thy testament prove a dotement, and so be another man's fancy, rather than thy will.

To prevent many inconveniencies let me recommend to thy discretion two things:

If God have blessed thee with any competent share of wealth, make thy will in thy time of health. It will neither put thee further from thy goods, nor hasten thee sooner to thy death; but it will be a greater ease to thy mind, in freeing thee from a great trouble, when thou shalt have most nced of quiet. For when thy house is set in order, thou shalt be better enabled to set thy soul in order, and to dispose of thy journey towards God.

If thou hast children, give to every one a portion, according to thine ability, in thy life time; that thy life may seem an ease, and not a yoke unto them: Yet so give, as that thy children may be still beholden unto thee, and not thou unto them. But if thou keep all in thy hands whilst thou livest, they may thank death, and not thee. for the portion that thou leavest them If thou hast no children, and the Lord hath blessed thee with a great portion of the goods of this world; and if thou meanest to bestow them upon any charitable or pious uses, put not over that good work to the trust of others, seeing thou seest how most of other mens' executors, prove almost executioners. And if friends be so unfaithful in a man's life, how much greater cause hast thou to distrust their fidelity after thy death?

Lamentable experience showeth how many dead men's wills have, of late, either been quite concealed, utterly overthrown, or by cavils and quirks of law frustrated or altered; whereas, by the law of God, the will of the dead should not be violated —but all his godly intentions conscionably performed and fulfilled, as in the sight of God, who in the day of the resurrection will be a just God both of the quick and dead.

Let rich men be warned by such examples, not so to marry their minds to their money, as that they will do no good with their goods, until death divorceth them.—Considering therefore the shortness of thine own life, and the uncertainty of others, just dealing after thy death, in these unjust days, let me advise thee, whom God hath blessed with ability, and an intent to do good, to become in thy life time thine own administrator: make thine own hands thine executors, and thine own eyes thy over-seers; cause thy lanthorn to give her light before thee, and not behind thee; give God the glory, and thou shalt receive of him, in due time, the reward, which of his grace and mercy he hath promised to thy good works."

AFFECTED HUMILITY.

True and genuine humility does not lie in a person's affecting the meanest habits, or yet a singularity of dress, however mean, that he may not seem to be proud. I speak not this, however, to cloak the proud gaudiness of any. Excess in costly attire, following vain, strange, light, immodest fashions, is a great sin and shame of our times. O, how many are there that in this way glory in their shame!—Were the "daughters of Zion," reproved and threatened for this sin by the prophet Isaiah, chap. iii, ever more guilty than multitudes among us at this day? But yet I must tell you, that a proud heart may be under vile raiment too. "I trample on Plato's pride," said Diogenese. "But it is with pride of another kind," said Plato. Thus some may be proud of their affected plainness—proud of their seeming free from pride, of their looking humble, mortified men. And some there are, whose pride lies not so much in gaudy dress and fine clothes, which one would think that none but children and fools would be taken with, as on a high conceit of themselves—their knowledge, light, and perfection.—Barrett.

A SOFT ANSWER TURNETH AWAY WRATH.

A husband who in a moment of hasty wrath, said to his wife, who but a few months before had united her faith to his, "If you are not satisfied with my conduct, go, return to your friends and your happiness." "And will you give me back that which I brought to you?" asked the despairing wife. "Yes," he replied; "all your wealth shall go with you—I covet it not." "Alas!" she answered, "I thought not of my wealth; I spoke of my maiden affections, of my buoyant hope, of my devoted love; can you give these back to me?" "No!" said the man, throwing himself at her feet, "No, I cannot restore these; but I will do more, I will keep them unsullied and unstained; I will cherish them through life, and in my death, and never again will I forget that I have sworn to protect and to cheer her who gave up to me all she held most dear." Wives, was there not more than poetry in this woman's heart? Was there not angelic sweetness, grace divine? "A soft answer turneth away wrath." Go thou and do likewise; then how many of wedlock's fierce battles would be unfought, how much of unhappiness and coldness avoided.

GOOD.

A Roman Catholic in one of the Western States recently sat down to read the Bible an hour each evening with his wife. In a few evenings, he stopped in the midst of his reading, and said: "Wife, if this book is true, we are wrong."

He read on, and in a few days longer, said. "Wife, if this book is true, we are lost."

Rivited to the book and deeply anxious, he still read, and in a weeks more he joyfully exclaimed: "Wife if this book is true, we may be saved."

A few weeks' more reading, and taught by the Spirit of God, through the exhortations and instructions of a pious colporteur, they both placed their faith in Christ, and are now rejoicing in hope.

PRACTICAL RULES FOR TEACHERS OF SCHOOLS

I. Keep at least one copy of the General Lesson or a Lesson of similar import, suspended conspicuously in the School-room, and inculcate the principles contained in it on the minds of your Pupils.

II. Exclude from the School, Catechisms and Books inculcating peculiar, sectarian, religions opinions.

III. Do nothing either in or out of School, which might have a tendency to confine it to any one denomination of children.

IV. Keep the Register, Report Book and Class Lists accurately and neatly.

V. Classify the children according to their books and advancement.

VI. Observe yourselves, and impress upon the minds of your Pupils, the great rule of regularity and order—a time and a place for everything, and everything in its proper time and place.

VII. Promote, both by precept and example, cleanliness, neatness and decency. To effect this, the Teachers should set an example of cleanliness and neatness in their own persons, and in the state and general appearance of their Schools; tobacco in every form should be excluded. They should also satisfy themselves by personal inspection every morning, that the children have had their hands and faces washed, their hair combed, and clothes cleaned, and when necessary mended.—The School apartments, too, should be swept and dusted every evening; and white-washed at least once a year.*

VIII. Pay the strictest attention to the morals and general conduct of your pupils, and omit no opportunity of inculcating the principles of truth and honesty; the duty of respect to superiors, and obedience to all persons placed in authority over them, and above all, the duties they owe to God.

IX. Evince a regard for the improvement and general welfare of your Pupils, treat them with kindness combined with firmness; and aim at governing them by their affections and reason, rather than by harshness and severity.

X. Cultivate kindly, courteous, and affectionate feelings among your Pupils; discountenance quarrelling, cruelty to animals, and every approach to vice.

*And well ventilated by all means.

DANCING.

An eminently distinguished and devoted Minister of the Gospel, after a careful and prayerful examination of the whole Bible, came to the following conclusions:

1. That dancing was a religious act, both of the true, and also of the idol worship.

2. That it was practised exclusively on joyful occasions, such as the national festivals or great victories.

3. That it was performed by maidens only.

4. That it was performed usually in the day-time in the open air, in high-ways, fields, or groves.

5. That men who perverted dancing from a sacred use, to purpose of amusement, were deemed infamous.

6. That no instances of dancing are found upon record, in the Bible, in which the two sexes united in the exercise, either as an act of worship or amusement.

7. That there is no instance upon record, social dancing for amusement, except that of the "vain fellows," devoid of shame; or the irreligious families described by Job, which produced increased impiety, and ended in destruction; and of Herodias, which terminated in the rash vow of Herod, and the murder of John the Baptist.

GOVERNORS OF PENNSYLVANIA.

From the time when the State Constitution was formed, in 1790, down to the present time, the list of Executives is as follows, which may serve as an item of political intelligence to your young men:

Thomas Mifflin, Democrat—elected 1791, and left office 1799.

Thomas McKean, Democrat—elected 1799, and left office 1808.

Simon Snyder, Democrat—elected 1808, and left office 1817.

William Findlay, Democrat—elected 1817 and left office in 1820.

Joseph Hiester,—elected by Democratic votes 1820, and left office 1823.

John Andrew Shulze,—elected 1823, left office in 1829.

Geo. Wolf, Democrat—elected 1829, and left office in 1835,

Jos. Rintner, Whig—elected in 1835, and left office in 1839.

David R. Porter, Democrat, elected in 1839 and left office in 1845.

Francis R. Shunk, Democrat, elected in 1845. and died in 1848.

Wm. F. Johnson, Whig, governor by virtue of his office as speaker, and elected in 1848 by a small majority.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Notice.

The undersigned clergymen of this borough, impressed with the importance of the proper observance of the Christian Sabbath to the welfare of the community, and with the evils resulting from its violation to individuals and to the country, hereby give notice that they will preach on the obligations and mode of its observance, in their respective pulpits, on Sunday morning, the 20th inst.

W. R. De Witt,
Pastor of the Presbyterian Church.
John F. Mesick,
Pastor of the Ger. Ref. Church.
Charles A. Hay,
Pastor of the Eng. Evang. Luth. Church.
Francis Hodgson,
Pastor of the Methodist E. Church.
J. H. Coit,
Rector of St. Stephen's Church.
L. Gerhardt,
Pastor of the Ger. Evang. Luth. Church.
G. U. Harn,
Pastor of the "Church of God."

PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

A series of special meetings will be held, Providence permitting, in Hummelstown, Dauphin county, Pa., commencing on Saturday evening, the 19th inst.

The brethren and ministers of the Church of God are respectfully invited to attend.

Abraham Snyder.

A protracted meeting will be held, God willing, in Elizabethtown, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on the 26th inst.

A protracted meeting will be held at Mount Joy, Lancaster county, Pa., commencing on Saturday, the 2d of February.

Notice to the Ohio Brethren.

The brethren throughout the bounds of the Ohio Eldership, who are in arrears on the missionary subscription, for the past year, are hereby requested to pay up between now and the meeting of the Standing Committee in February, in Wooster. Those holding subscriptions, will please exert themselves to have it collected.

A. Megrew,
On behalf of the Board.

POETRY.

HEAVEN AND HELL.

BY WM. M. H———R.

THERE is a land of spirits bright,
Far removed from mortal sight,
But yet we know that heavenly light
Illuminates it gloriously:
There happy souls their anthems sing,
And chant their notes to Zion's King,
While Heaven's eternal arches ring
With angel notes melodiously.

It is the Saints' eternal rest—
The home of pilgrims, sore distressed—
Who in the mansions of the blest
Strike all their harps melodiously:
They holy, holy, holy cry,
And seraphs through that region fly,
While angels praise the Lord most High
In accents most harmoniously.

Our minds concieve that they can paint
The glory that surrounds a saint;
But oh! the efforts 's but faint
To pierce untold reality:
With all the power to mortals given,
They can't conceive the bliss of Heaven,
Nor paint in glowing colors even
The scenes of that locality.

When that eternal day shall rise—
When we shall view the flaming skies—
All tears be wiped from off our eyes,
We'll view the scene in majesty:
But who, in that eternal day,
Shall with delight and rapture say,
My God, my Saviour, come away,
And praise His name eternally?

* * * *

There is a place where spirits dwell—
Their woes no mortal tongue can tell—
It is perdition—yea, 'tis Hell—
Their spirits cry most awfully:
They suffer that eternal fire,
Enkindled by Jehovah's ire,
And nevermore shall it expire,
But burn throughout eternity.

The hideous, black, sulphurious blaze,
In one terrific flame, shall raise
Its billows throughout endless days,
To torment souls unceasingly:
And fiends roam o'er that fiery waste—
And demons o'er perdition placed,
Pursue their hellish course in haste,
To augment dreadful misery.

The devil, the arch-fiend of hell,
And wicked angels too, who fell,
There in prodigious masses dwell,
To torment souls most awfully:
Throughout perdition's fiery plains,
The damned clank their eternal chains,
While nought is heard but doleful strains
Of writhing souls in agony.

Oh! who could bear the dreadful sight,
Of those who disregarded light,
Shut up in everlasting night,
And suffering through eternity?
The parting skies shall God reveal--
The Lord our final doom shall seal—
We'll witness then with wo or weal,
Our everlasting destiny.

East Sharpsburg, Blair Co., Pa.,
Dec. 31, 1849.

WHEN I can read my title clear,
To mansions in the skies,
I'll bid farewell to every fear,
And wipe my weeping eyes.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.

"I saw two clouds at morning
Tinged with the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on,
And mingled into one."

MARRIED—On the 18th ult., by Elder S. Bigham, Mr. ABRAHAM FETTHOW to Miss CATHARINE PLATIMA FRANK.

On the 18th ult., by Elder Jacob Keller, Mr. HENRY MARKLEY to Miss SUSAN RADENBAUGH, both of Bainbridge, Lancaster county, Pa.

On the 4th ult., by Elder J. Glenn, Mr. BENJAMIN LATSHAW, of Venango county, Pa., to Miss MARY ANN UPDEGRAFT, of Butler county, Pa.

On the 20th of November last, by Elder J. H. Hurley, Mr. JOHN HAUPLE to Miss SUSAN ROYER, all of Lancaster city, Pa.

On the 23d ult., by the same, Mr. ADAM BRIMMER to Miss SARAH EHLER, all of Lancaster city, Pa.

On the same, by the same, Mr, GEORGE HOOVER to Miss ANN HIPPLE, both of Middletown, Dauphin county, Pa.;

OBITUARY NOTICES.

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set, but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!"

DIED—On the 2d ult., at Woodberry, Bedford county, Pa, sister ELIZA TOBIAS, aged 40 years and 12 days.

Funeral services by the writer, from 2 Tim. 4: 6, 7, 8. J. HAIFLIGH.

THE MARKETS.

Corrected semi-monthly for the Advocate,
By Jno. Wallower & Son, Com. Merchants.

HARRISBURG.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$4 50	a	4 62½
Do. RYE,	do.	- -	2 50	a	2 56
Do. CORN,	do.	- -	2 37½	a	2 50
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,			95	a	98
Do. RYE,	do.	- -	55	a	56
Do. CORN,	do.	- -	55	a	56
Do. OATS,	do.	- -	28	a	28
Do. BARLEY,	do.	- -	60	a	65
SEEDS—CLOVER,	do.	- -	3 75	a	4 00
Do. TIMOTHY,	do.	- -	2 25	a	2 50
Do. FLAX,	do.	- -	1 00	a	1 10
BEEF, per cwt.	- - - -		5 00	a	5 50
PORK, do.	- - - - -		5 00	a	5 25
HAMS, per pound,	- - -		10	a	11
BUTTER, do.	- - - - -		20	a	25
LARD, do.	- - - - -		7	a	8
TALLOW, do.	- - - - -		8	a	10
HARD SOAP, (Dried) per lb.			6	a	7
EGGS, per dozen,	- - - -		12½	a	18¾
POTATOES, per bushel,	- -		75	a	87½
ONIONS, do.	- - -		75	a	87½
APPLES, do.	- - -		1 00	a	1 12½
PEACHES, (Dried) per bush.			1 25	a	1 30
FEATHERS, per pound,	- -		37½	a	45
WOOL, do.	- - -		30	a	50
SALT, per sack,	- - - -		1 25	a	1 25
HAY, per ton,	- - - - -		11 00	a	12 00
PLASTER, per ton,	- - -		4 00	a	4 25

PHILADELPHIA.

FLOUR—WHEAT, per barrel,			$5 00	a	5 00
Do. RYE,	do.	-	2 87	a	2 87
Do. CORN,	do.	- -	3 00	a	3 06
GRAIN—WHEAT, per bushel,			1 06	a	1 07
Do. RYE,	do.	- -	62½	a	62½
Do. CORN, old	do.	- -	61	a	62
Do. OATS,	do.	- -	31	a	31
Do. BARLEY,	do.	- -	75	a	80
SEEDS—CLOVER,	do.	- -	4 37	a	4 50
Do. TIMOTHY,	do.	- -	2 75	a	3 00
Do. FLAX,	do.	- -	1 35	a	1 40
BEEF, per cwt.,		- - -	7 00	a	8 75
PORK, do.	- - - - -		7 00	a	7 25

WEISHAMPEL'S
Patented Revolving Coal Grate.

THE subscriber will sell the Right for the States of Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Western Pennsylvania, and Western Virginia, of his Patented Revolving Horizontal Coal Grate for Cooking, Parlor and Office Stoves. By this invention all the difficulties in burning every kind of stone coal are obviated. The Letters Patent were granted June 19, 1849. The stoves used last winter and this season, give entire satisfaction. He will sell either of the above States and portions at reasonable prices. For testimonials as to the performance of the stove, he refers to Dr. John Rose, B. M. D., Baltimore, Md.; Dr. John Hardtner, Carrollton, Illinois; Dr. Frederick Brenneman, Marietta, Pa.; Mr. James H. Bateman, Winchester, Va. Letters (post-paid) addressed to either of the above gentlemen, or to Rev. John Winebrenner, Editor of this paper, will receive satisfactory answers; and such as are addressed (pre-paid) to the subscriber will receive prompt attention.

JOHN F. WEISHAMPEL,
Inventor and Patentee, Baltimore, Md.
December 15, 1849.—3t.

Missionary Pledges.

WE, the undersigned, do hereby severally pledge ourselves to pay to the Board of Missions of the East Pennsylvania Eldership, during the year 1849, the sums annexed to our names for the purpose of sustaining two Missionaries, one in Illinois and one in Iowa, during the ensuing Eldership year.

John Winebrenner,	- -	$10 00
William Reichert,	- -	5 00
Isaac Miller,	- - -	10 00
J. H. Hurley,	- - -	5 00
Geo. U. Harn,	- -	5 00
M. F. Snavely,	- - -	10 00
Jacob Miller,	- - -	10 00
James Miller,	- - -	5 00
S. A. Brumbaugh,	- - -	5 00
Thomas Strohm,	- -	5 00
J. B. G. Kinsloe,	- - -	5 00
Abraham Sherich,	- -	7 50
Abraham Swartz,	- - -	5 00
A liberal brother,	- -	20 00
A liberal sister,	- - -	2 00
David Strickler,	- - -	5 00
James Casy,	- - -	5 00
Samuel M. Hoover,	- -	5 00

PROSPECTUS
OF A
New and Highly Interesting Work.

THE Standing Committee, or Board of Publication of the General Eldership of the Church of God, propose publishing by subscription, a work entitled,

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES
OF THE
First One Hundred Ministers
OF THE
Church of God in North America.

These sketches will comprise a brief account of each minister's birth and education, his conversion and call to the ministry, and his travels, experience, scenes, labors and success therein, from its commencement down to the present time.

Such a work, it is believed, will be highly interesting and useful, both to parents and children, professors and non-professors of religion.

The work will contain some 5 or 600 pages, in deo descimo form, neatly printed and bound, and delivered to snbscribers at $1 per copy, payable on the delivery of the book.

Evangelical Music.

THE proprietor offers for sale, at reduced prices, the Evangelical Music-book, containing a great variety of popular Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Set pieces and Anthems.

This popular Music-book has been before the public for a number of years, and has received a very flattering reception among various Religious Denominations and Musical Associations.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

From the Minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia.—"The committee state that they have examined, as carefully as practicable, the 'Evangelical Music,' and cheerfully recommend it to the congregations under their care, as a good system of Church Music."

From the Minutes of the Bellefonte Musical Association.—"Resolved, That we consider 'Evangelical Music' the best work of the kind known to us; and cheerfully recommend it to all lovers of Sacred Music."

☞ FOR SALE at this office, and at our Depositories. EDITOR.

To Agents and Editors.

Agents are wanted in every part of the United States for the sale of the following
NEW AND HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK;
ENTITLED
History of Denominations.
Second, Improved and Portrait Edition, just published and ready for delivery.

This splendid and highly interesting work contains original histories of the rise, and progress, faith, and practice, localities, and statistics of

50 Religious Denominations,

Written expressly for the work, by as many eminent and distinguished men, belonging to the respective denominations.

It is likewise handsomely embelished with

24 Splendid Portraits.

of leading men, identified with the different leading persuasions.

In addition to this, it contains an Introduction giving short accounts of some smaller sects and parties, not regularly organized, and therefore not noticed in the body of the work. On the whole, it is considered a full and complete History of ALL the Sects and Religious Denominations now existing in the United States.

The volume contains 600 pages, is printed on good paper, and is handsomely bound with gilt backs and embossed sides.

Price $2 50 per copy.

A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents, who buy for cash, and canvass thoroughly.

The work is published and for sale by JOHN WINEBRENNER & Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ EDITORS OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS, copying this Advertisement, entire, well displayed, as above, without any alteration or abridgement, (including this notice,) and giving it three or four prominent insertions, will confer a special favor, and shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their orders,) by sending direct to the publishers.

☞ No letter will be taken from the office unless post paid.

List of our Depositories and Local Agents.

FOR the convenience of the brethren, and the public generally, we have come to the conclusion to establish Book Depositories in the following places, and with the following persons, viz:

WM. A. LEARY & Co., No. 156 North Second street, BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, No. 31 North Sixth street, and DANIEL GETTY, No. 110 South Third street, Philadelphia.

D. APPLETON, No. 200 Broadway, New York.

WATSON & WILLIAMS, St. Louis, Mo.

E. LUCAS & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. MEGREW and J. P. WINEBRENNER, Wooster, Ohio.

SARAH SADLER, Allegheny City, Pa.

JOHN C. OWENS, Baltimore, Md.

☞ Those who may want any of our works, and such others as are named in the following list of Books, may obtain the same by applying to any of the aforenamed persons.

List of Valuable Books.

	Retail prices.
History of Denominations in the U. S.,	$2 50
English and German Dictionaries,	2 00
500 Sketches & Skeletons of Sermons,	2 50
Life of Christ and the Apostles, -	2 50
D'Aubigne's Hist. of the Reformation,	1 50
Wandering Soul, - - - -	75
Evangelical Music, - - -	75
Treatise on Regeneration, - -	62½
English Ref. and Pron. Testament,	50
German Reference Testament, -	37½
Revival Hymn Books, - - -	50
View of the Church, &c., - -	37½
Almost Christian, in German, -	25
Young Christian's Guide, - -	25
Harn on Feet-Washing, -	25
Lyceum Spelling Book, -	15
Traveler's Guide to the West, -	50

JOB PRINTING
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.
JOHN FURGESON, Printer.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE.

A FAMILY PAPER---Devoted to the Diffusion of Bible Truth, Religious News and General Intelligence.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. "EARNESTLY CONTEND FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED TO THE SAINTS." PAYABLE ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

VOLUME XIV. HARRISBURG, Pa., FEBRUARY 1, 1850. NUMBER 19.

THE CHURCH ADVOCATE

Is printed and published in Mulberry street, near the Railroad Bridge, Harrisburg, Pa.,

By JOHN WINEBRENNER, V. D. M., Editor.

TERMS AND REGULATIONS.

The Church Advocate will be printed and published semi-monthly, on a large super-royal sheet, on the following terms, to wit:

1. One copy paid in advance, - $1 00
2. One copy paid within the first three months, - - - - - 1 25
3. One copy not paid till after the expiration of the first three months, 1 50
4. No subscription will be taken for a less period than six months, and in no case shall the paper be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the editor.
5. Notices of discontinuence must be accompanied by a remittance of all arrearages, or they will not be noticed.
6. All communications and letters addressed to the editor, (except from regular agents,) whether they contain money, contributions for the paper, new subscribers, or any thing else, must be post-paid, in order to receive attention.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Population of Harrisburg.

The septennial census shows that Harrisburg has a poputation of about 8,515.

Fire.

The toll-house of the old Harrisburg Bridge at the West end, was consumed by fire on Friday night, the 11th ult. The loss to the company is very inconsiderable, but to the keeper, who lost the most of his furniture, quite important.

Revival in Harrisburg.

The revival in this place is still in progress. The converts, of late, are not as numerous as formerly; yet there are more adults now than at first. There are still a considerable number in an anxious state of mind; and we hope they will yet yield their hearts to God, ere this precious work shall cease.

There is also a pleasing work still going on among the Methodists and United Brethren.

Biographical Sketches.

Again we remind our brethren of the duty and propriety, according to the recommendation of the late Eldership, to write out their Biographical letters, between this and spring.

We hope our elder brethren—such as Mackey, Flake, Maxwell, Ross, Keller, Thomas, McFadden, and others, will lead the way, in writing out and sending their letters. We should be much pleased if the work could be got ready and put to press in the spring, so as to be ready for delivery by the time of the Camp-meetings after harvest.

Allotment of the Public Printing.

At 12 o'clock on Tuesday, the 22d ult., the two Houses of the Legislature met in Convention for the purpose of making an allotment of the Public Printing, for three years, from the first day of July next, agreeably to the provisions of the act of 23d March, 1844. The contract was awarded to Theo. Fenn & Co., who immediately gave the requisite bond, John B. Rutherford and John P. Rutherford, Esq'rs., being sureties for three years from the first day of July next.

Our Bills.

We have made out and sent bills to all persons indebted to us for the Church Advocate. Although we publish the Advocate on the advance pay principle, yet a large number of our best subscribers, in point of wealth, are in arrears one, two and three years. Hence we are laying out of a large sum of money, which in all good reason and conscience ought to be paid. We ask, therefore, one and all to whom bills are sent, to remit the respective amounts due without delay. Let no one neglect to do so. We want it all paid up on or before the end of this month. If not, we shall have duplicate accounts made out and sent on for collection. Happy, however, shall we feel, if by prompt payment, this trouble and expense shall be spared us.

David Knepley's Trial.

This case was called up on Thursday morning, the 24th ult.—the prisoner arraigned, and the indictment read, to which the plea of "not guilty" was entered, though the prisoner said that "he had done the deed, but considered himself justifiable in what he did."

The array of forty-eight jurors, at first summoned, was exhausted, and seven only sworn, There were twelve peremptory challenges, and the remainder set aside for cause. A new venire was then issued to the Sheriff, directing him to summon thirty-six more jurors. Nearly all this number were set aside peremptorily, or for cause; but the following named gentlemen were empannelled and sworn:

Henry Stehman,	John Haldeman,
William Espy,	John H. McAllister,
Jacob Davidson,	John Berryhill,
Christian Ehrman,	Henry Walters,
Thomas H. Wilson,	Joshua Elder,
John Raysor, jr.,	Samuel R. Dunlap.

James Fox, Esq., Deputy Attorney General, John C. Kunkel and E. A. Lesley, Esq'rs., for the Commonwealth.

C. C. Rawn, J. A. Fisher, and R. J. Fisher, Esq'rs., for the defence.

At 9 o'clock on Friday morning, E. A. Lesley opened the case to the Jury, for the Commonwealth; and the case is now in progress.

Benevolent and Aggressive Effort.

This is the kind of effort we want to promote the cause of true religion. Christianity contemplates a system of benevolent and aggressive effort, for the subjugation of a rebellious world.

There must be effort. Without this nothing can be accomplished. The Church must make effort. She must be a living, active body of men. The ministry must be a zealous and willing body of operatives—laboring "in season and out of season."

All this combined effort must be benevolent effort. Every man must toil with a single eye. Effort must be made for the glory of God and the highest good of man. Sinister motives may spoil the best efforts. Self, therefore, must be abased and denied. The honors and interests of the world must be discarded. Toils, sufferings and privations must be endured. Patience must have its perfect work. Prayer must be fervent. Speaking must be in truth and love. Brotherly kindness and charity must abound. And Christ must be every man's all in all. Then will the work fast go on.

But, withal, there must be aggressive effort. No kind of effort, however good, without this, will be effectual. There must be invasion upon the revolted territories of this world. Sin's strong-holds and Satan's castles must be stormed. Hence, the propriety and necessity of aggressive warfare. Not, however, with carnal, but with spiritual weapons. Christian soldiers must "put on the whole armor of God," and be "strong in the power of his might." Their girdle must be truth. Their breast-plate righteousness. Their shield must be faith. Their sword must be the word of God. And their shoes the preparation of the gospel of peace. With this out-fit and equipage they must go forth, "conquering and to conquer." Rev. 6: 2.

Herein then, we affirm, namely, in united, benevolent and aggressive efforts, lie the prime and sure elements of success. Let the ministers and people of the Church of God wake up to these, and push forward with untiring zeal and unshaken faith, and the world's conquest is no longer a problem. God's kingdom will, then, soon break in pieces every other kingdom, principality and power, and the Lord's Christ, whose right it is, "shall have dominion from sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth."

But, alas! alas! how little of that spirit is in the Church! How few of the ministers of God are daily in the temple and from house to house. How few are seen and heard in the streets and lanes of the city, and in the highways and hedges, preaching the word—reasoning with the people out of the Scriptures, and compelling them to come in. O! that our God would endow us with power—fill us with the Holy Ghost! and make us to abound in the work of the Lord!

This kind of effort, I say again, is just what we want to give efficiency and success in spreading and establishing the Church of God. No sooner than this excellent spirit shall fill the hearts, and characterize the ministers and people of the Church of God, and all be workers together with Him, the arm of the Lord will awake, and put on strength, and "It come to pass that there shall come people, and the inhabitants of many cities, saying, Let us go speedily to pray before the Lord; and to seek the Lord of hosts. Yea, many people and strong nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts, saying, We will go with you; for we have heard that God is with you." Zech. 8: 20-23.

In conclusion, then, let me say to all the churches, and especially to all the preachers, covet earnestly the best gifts, but especially that you may prophecy, i. e. as the Apostle defines it, "Speak by exhortation to edification and comfort." Speak the truth in love to all, as you have opportunity. Give yourselves to prayer, and to the ministry of the word. Cry aloud and spare not. The harvest is plenteous and the laborers are few. Therefore, thrust in the gospel sickle with a diligent hand. Not only one day out of seven, but day by day, do the work of an evangelist, and make full proof of your ministry. The man that only tries to do good on the Sabbath and in the pulpit, is but little better than a slothful servant, and stands in danger of a slothful servant's doom.

Election of State Treasurer.

Monday, the 21st ult., being the day fixed by law for the election of State Treasurer, the two Houses of the Legislature met in Convention at 12 o'clock, P. M., and proceeded to ballot for a person to fill that office for one year from the first day of May next. The Democrats had previously nominated Gen. John M. Bickel, of Schuylkill county; and the Whigs supported the present able and talented incumbent, Gideon J. Ball, Esq., Whig. Gen. Bickel was elected.

New Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Messages were received in both Houses of the Legislature, from the Governor, giving information of the appointment of Alexander L. Russell as Secretary in the place of the Hon. Townsend Haines, resigned. Mr. Russell was the Deputy Secretary in the office, and is a gentleman of the highest character for learning.

If you can do good to-day, defer it not till to-morrow.

Essentials to Baptism.

There are three things essential to the validity of Christian Baptism.

The first is FAITH in Jesus Christ. Without this, there is and can be no Scriptural or valid baptism. Faith is everywhere made an essential pre-requisite to Christian Baptism. Hence it cannot be shown that the Apostles baptized any but believers. And if so, pedobaptism, by consequence, must be invalid; because their subjects, for the most part, are incapable of believing.

The second thing essential to Christian Baptism, is IMMERSION. To baptize, is to immerse, in the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost. This, and nothing else, is Christian Baptism. In proof of this, we allege the following arguments:—

1st. The import or meaning of the word, used in the law of the ordinance, and throughout the Scriptures. No word, but that which signifies the action of immersion, is ever used in reference to baptism. Hence, the action of immersion must be performed, or there can be no valid baptism. The Greeks have always understood it so. They are, confessedly, the best judges.

2dly. The same thing is argued from the design of baptism. One principal end or design of Christian Baptism is, to commemorate the burial and resurrection of Christ. See 1 Cor. 15: 29. Rom. 6: 4. Hence baptism by immersion only can be valid; because no other can answer this end or design.

3dly. It is argued from the fact that anciently they baptized in the river of Jordan; and where there was much water. Mark 1: 5. John 3: 23. If dry ground baptism, out of the water, and simply by the application of a little water to the subject, was all that is necessary, then, whence the propriety and neeessity of going into the river Jordan—or to Enon. where there was much water, &c., as we find they did? Pedobaptists are not wont to do so. And why? Simply because it is not neeessary. All that they do, can be done out of the water as well as in it. If, therefore, Christ, the Eunuch, and others, in primitive times, were baptized in the same way, by sprinkling or pouring, then why did they go in, and come up out of the water? Let the pedobaptists answer this question, if they can.

4thly. Immersion is inferred from the metaphorical use of the term. See Luke 12: 50. Aets 1: 5. 1 Cor. 11: 1, 2. 1 Peter 3: 20, 21. All these texts clearly show that baptism means to immerse, and not to sprinkle, pour or wash.

5thly. A further argument in favor of immersion is, that no other form or mode of baptism will give the answer of a good conscience toward God. Immersion gives this,—sprinkling does not. For this reason the emigration is all on one side. As the emigration is from Enrope to Ameriea, so likewise is the emigration from the ranks of pedobaptists to that of immersionists. Seldom or never will immersiouists go over to pedobaptist churches: and if they do, it is not from principle—not for the sake of being sprinkled, or re-baptized, but more for the sake of popularity and filthy lucre. Whereas, conscientious motives usually direct and make immersionists.

6thly. That immersion only is true baptism, is evident, moreover, from its superior efficiency. Heaven's institutions are all wise, benevolent and good. As the tree, therefore, is known by its fruits, so likewise are gospel ordinances. What institution, then, is so signally blessed, and so efficient in the promotion of true religion, as the burial with Christ in baptism? By it thousnnds of sinners have been converted, and tens of thousands of Christians have been revived and comforted. Its fruits, therefore, prove it to be from heaven. So likewise does the wrath of the world. If it were of the world, like sprinkling, then the world would love it and laud it. But because it is not of the world, therefore the world and popular sects hate it and oppose it. Nevertheless, God owns it, and makes it a signal means of doing good.

Now all these things, collectively taken, show most clearly and conclusively, that immersion is essential to baptism. But, 3dly. A Scriptural administrator is also essential to the validity of baptism. The Bible shows not only what baptism is, and who the fit subjeets are, but also to whom the administration is assigned. So the Jews understood this matter: and hence the question to John the Baptist: "Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Elijah, neither that Prophet?" The law-giver, and King of the kingdom of God, and those to whom he has given authority, have the exclusive right to administer baptism. Go YE, therefore, teach and baptize. All teaching ministers have the right to baptize. Further, the Bible saith not.

Who, then, has a right to change "times and laws?" Who has authority to call that a valid baptism, which has been done by unauthorized hands? God is a God of order—and therefore His Church ought to be governed, in all religious institutions, by the rules of order as contained in the Bible.

Education Convention.

Pursuant to public notice, a Convention of the friends of Education, assembled at Harrisburg, on Wednesday, January 16, 1850.

The Convention was well attended, and of its general complexion highly respectable.

We can only give a general outline of its proceedings.

It was organized by appointing the Hon. James M. Porter President, supported by 18 Vice Presidents and four Secretaries.

The Hon. Thos. H. Burrowes, from the business committee, reported as follows:

1. That a committee, consisting of nine, to be appointed by the chair, consider and report the best means for invigorating the general superintendence of the common school system, harmonizing its local operations, and spreading the knowledge of its true nature and benefits, its progress and necessities.

2. That a similar committee be appointed to consider and report to the Convention a plan for the improvement of the common school teachers of the State.

3. That a similar committee be appointed to examine the existing common school law of the State, and report the amendments which it requires to suit it to the present condition of the system.

4. That a similar committee be appointed to report on the formation of county associations of teachers and the friends of education.

5. That a committee of one member be appointed by the chair from each Congressional district, to report a list of delegates to the National Convention of the friends of public education, which is to assemble in the city of Philadelphia on the fourth Wednesday in August, 1850.

Mr. Burrowes, from the committee under the first resolution, reported the following resolutions:

Resolved, As the sense of this Convention, that the best interests of the Commonwealth, both present and future, demand the establishment of a separate department of education for the administration and care of our important system of public education.

Resolved, That the publication of a common school journal by the department of education will be the cheapest, most readily established, and effectual agent that can be placed at its control; and is therefore recommended.

Mr. Penniman, from the committee to report a plan for the improvement of the teachers in the common schools, reported the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this Convention recommend to the Legislature the establishment of two State Normal Schools, and furnishing them with competent faculties, whose sole business and objeet shall be the training of the students in the "principles and practice of teaching."

Resolved, That we recommend to the people the organization of Teachers' Associations and Teachers' Institutes, as a provisional instrumentality, and most earnestly suggest their establishment in each county as soon as practicable.

The committee on the third resolution reported as follows:

1. That the 1st section of the school law shall be so modified as that each township, borough and city, shall be one school district, with such number of directors as may be provided by law.

2. That the maximum time the schools may be kept open, fixed in section 22d of the school law, shall be changed, so as to leave it discretionary with the school directors.

3. There shall be appointed, in such manner as the Legislature may direct, a State Superintendent of Common Schools, whose duty it shall be, in addition to the duties now discharged by the Superintendent, to visit every county in the Commonwealth at least once in each year, and as much oftener as possible, for the purpose of meeting the school directors, teachers or friends of education, and presenting his views in such manner as shall promote the efficient and homogeneous operation of the common school system.

4. That the Superintendent shall be authorized and required to conduct and cause to be printed, a common school journal, for the use of teachers and others.

Mr. English, from the committee on the 4th resolution, reported as follows:

1st. That the directors and teachers of the several school districts in each county, be requested to meet together at the county town and proceed forthwith to form themselves into a common school association.

2d. That such associations meet quarterly, and have the power to elect delegates to represent the county in all State Conventions called, for promoting the cause of common school education; and, also, in connection with other counties, to elect delegates to all National Conventions convened for a similar purpose.

3d. That each association so formed, take measures to call the attention of the people to the neeessity of improving the common school system, and, as an efficient means to that end, cause lectures to be delivered at least once in each month, and more frequent, if possible, on such subjects as may be deemed appropriate to the end in view.

4th. That in order to produce uniformity in the books used in the public schools of each county, the associations, when convened for that purpose, shall examine and compare the books in use, and recommend such only as may thus meet approval.

Hon. J. B. Sutherland, from the committee to report delegates to the National Convention, reported as follows:

SENATORIAL DELEGATES.

Townsend Haines. Jesse Miller.

REPRESENTATIVE DELEGATES.

1st dist.	Wm. J. Reed,	Philadelphia.
2	" Rev. Alonzo Potter,	do.
3	" John F. Smith,	do.
4	" Nathan Nathans,	do.
5	" John Jackson,	Delaware.
6	" James M. Long,	Bucks.
7	" Isaac Pennypacker,	Chester.
8	" Thomas H. Burrowes,	Lancaster.
9	" John S. Richards,	Berks.
10th dist.	W. McCartney,	Northampton.
11	" Rev. Reuben Nelson,	Luzerne.
12	" Henry W. Tracy,	Bradford.
13	" Wm. F. Packer,	Lycoming.
14	" Benjamin Bannan,	Schuylkill.
15	" David M'Conaughy,	Adams.
16	" Wilson Reily,	Franklin.
17	" Rev. John Toner,	Centre.
18	" Dr. John Patrick,	Fayette.
19	" Joseph H. Kuhns,	Westmoreland.
20	" Rev. P. Milliken,	Washington.
21	" J. K. Morehead,	Allegheny.
22	" Gaylord Church,	Crawford.
23	" James C. Reid,	Erie.
24	" John C. Knox,	Armstrong.

CONTRIBUTORS' DEPART'T.

"Return with it or Return upon it."

The aneient Spartans, of whom we read in profane history, were a very warlike people. Their young men were trained up to the business of war, and made it the study of their lives. With them the first and most inviolable law of war was, "never to turn their backs upon an enemy." And no matter how dark the clouds of battle might gather around them, or how overwhelming the forces of an enemy, still the faithful Spartan, unawed by danger, fought until his cheek grew pale and his arm weak in death. The mother, as she clad her son in the armor of his country, bid him go forth to battle; and, as the last testimony of her affection, she presented him a shield on which was inscribed in glittering letters, "Return with it or return upon it;" intimating by this that rather than surrender it up to the enemies of his country, he should be borne upon it back to his family a lifeless corpse, having suffered as a martyr in his country's cause. And it was this advice that nerved the young Spartan in the hour of battle; when seeing his friends falling beneath the bloody sabre, and being himself almost ready to give up, then looking upon his shield, his mother's advice would flash upon him; she would seem to speak to him from his burning shield, and for her he would fight until he fell.

How beautifully does this young Spartan, with his glittering shield, represent the Christian as he goes forth to battle in his Master's cause. He too has received from his God a shield—its motto "victory or death." It is this that enables him to stand unawed in the presence of his enemies and receive, unhurt, their persecutions. There is no class of men to whom the Christian can be more beautifully compared than the common soldier. Though it is true their objects are vastly dissimilar; for while one has in view the slaughter of his fellow-men, the other desires the destruction of his spiritnal enemies, the conquest of the great monster of sin: yet the duties required of each are in many respects similar. And the ancient preachers of the Gospel, I mean the Apostles, were not insensible to the beauty of this figure: For, says one, "I have fought the good fight of faith,"—intimating by this expression, that through all the scenes of his eventful life, as a faithful soldier, wearing the shield of faith, he had waged a successful warfare against the enemies of the Cross. Clad in the armor of the Gospel, the great Apostle of the Gentiles had indeed stood unawed in the presence of Kings, contended against the combined powers of infidelity and superstition, braved the fury of an enraged populace, and at last, like a true Spartan, faithful to death, fell a victim to the cause he had so nobly defended.

But we design to notice one or two points of similarity between the ancient Spartan soldier and the Christian warrior. Bravery and fidelity were two of the most prominent traits in his character. As we have already observed, it was the duty of the Spartan soldier to go forth to battle and never return again unless victorious. Hence we read in history that on a certain occasion the Greeks had a great battle with the Persians. They fought long and hard: more than half of the brave Spartans lay bleeding on the field of battle; and at last the superior number of the Persians compelled them to retreat. The next day the mothers and sisters of those who had fallen in battle were seen flocking to the temple, to thank their gods that their sons and brothers had died faithful to their country's cause; while on the other hand the friends of those who had survived, were clad in mourning and refused to be comforted because their children had shamefully fled from their enemies, preferring life and safety to the honor of their country. Thus we see that these soldiers were pledged for life or death to stand up in defence of their country. The same is the case with the Christian soldier. There is no term of enlistment in the great army of Christ shorter than life. Ten, twenty or thirty years of service will not suffice, but from the moment he is received in the army by conversion and the remission of sin, down through all the campaigns of life,—down to the dark hour of death he must be faithful or he will lose his crown. And does not the Church, like the friends of the young Spartan soldier, grieve and lament and mourn to see a young convert of the cross apostatize,—desert the cause of Christ? Ah yes! the Church bleeds at every pore when those who once embraced religion fall again into sin. And no matter if the individual who thus falls away is honored by the world, he is still lost to the Church, and the Church must mourn. Much more would the Church rejoice to see the young soldier die with his armor on, and follow him to the silent grave, than to see him throw it away. For if he died faithful, they have a prospect of hailing him on the field of victory after the battle of life is ended.

There is, however, one point of difference between these two classes of soldiers, which we wish for a moment to notice. The Spartan soldier went forth to battle, but he did not know whether he would be victorious,—he did not know whether he would live to return home and receive from his grateful country the crown of laurels. But the Christian soldier goes forth to battle,—he sees the crown of glory just before him,—he knows that it is his, if faithful. And what though we do become the subjects of death, yet we shall live. We may die,—our bodies may feed the flames of the stake, and the scaffold be dyed with our blood,—yet, Christian soldier, we shall wear the crown of victory. Yes! thank God, with our Captain at our head, we shall march in robes of living white and enter the burning streets of the New Jerusalem. There we shall recount our victories o'er, and in tones of love as unbounded and lasting as eternity itself, we shall hail our Jesus "victor chief."

J. H. C.

Uniontown, Md., Jan. 1, 1850.

Congregational Donation Visits.

BY ELDER J. F. WEISHAMPEL.

Will the brethren and sisters of the Churches of God give me their attention a few moments, while I say a word to them upon a very pleasing subject!

In England, I am informed, it is the custom of the congregations to set apart a day every year, when a Congregational Donation Visit to their Pastors takes place. So it is also practised in some of our Eastern States. On such visitation occasions, each member takes to the minister's house such useful and durable presents as he or she may think proper, for either the preacher or his family. I read an account some years ago, where, at such a visit, some took flour, others bacon, groceries, cloth for a suit for the pastor, stuff or dresses for the wife and children, &c., &c. The time being fixed, by the congregation, the minister was requested to be at home; and during the day the members and his friends out of the church called, each depositing his or her gift in the place pointed out to them; and after a few friendly words of conversation, each withdrew and made room for others. After all were gone the family opened the free-will offerings, and their hearts were made glad.

Imitating this custom, several of the members of the Church of God at Baltimore appointed Easter Monday of last year as the day upon which our little congregation was invited to pay Elder Owens a Donation Visit. We appointed a Committee of Reception, consisting of two sisters and one or two brothers, who should be in attendance, receive the donations, deposit them in their proper place, and introduce the visiters to the preacher and his family in an adjoining room. The committee marked each gift with the name of the giver of it; thus the family knew not what either had brought: and each was treated alike, with the same courtesy, and some suitable refreshments, such as cakes, apples and good cold water; and the committee thanking the donors on the behalf of the family for the presents, saved both parties from saying anything about the matter. Thus the visiter retired with the feelings that always follow the performance of a good act, and the family were grateful to all alike for their remembrance of them. In this way the widow's mite received the same respect as the rich man's gift. The day was passed very agreeably, and the result was as good as could be expected from such a small and poor church and our few friends. The amount in money and goods was about twenty dollars. But for the fact that our few members had to tax their purses to the utmost possible extent in paying what they had subscribed for the preacher's support, the donations would have turned out better.

